NOTE: Swami Paramarthananda has not verified the transcription of talks. The transcriptions have been done with Swamiji's blessings by his disciples.

Chandokya Upanishad

Swāmi Paramārthānandājī's classes on Cāndokyapaniṣad -6th, 7th and 8th Chapters

Transcribed by Sri. Balasubrahmanyam Pattoo and Sri Srinivasan

Arsha Avinash Foundation 104 Third Street, Tatabad, Coimbatore 641012, India Phone: +91 9487373635 E mail: arshaavinash@gmail.com www.arshaavinash.in

Table of Contents

 General Introduction General Introduction (Cont'd) and Chapter 6.1.1 to 6.1.3
Sixth chapter – Section 1	24
 Chapter 6.1.3 to 6.1.6 Chapter 6.1.6 & 6.1.7 and 6.2.1
Sixth chapter –Section 2	42
5. Chapter 6.2.1 to 6.2.3 6. Chapter 6.2.3	58
7. Chapter 6.2.3 and 6.2.4 and 6.3.1 to 6.3.4
Sixth chapter - Section 3
8. Chapter 6.3.4, 6.4.1 to 6.4.2
Sixth chaper – Section 4	82
9. Chapter 6.4.2 to 6.4.7 and 6.5.1	88
Sixth chapter – Section 5	98
10. Chapter 6.5.1 to 6.5.4. and 6.6.1 to 6.6.5
Sixth chapter - Section 6
11. Chapter 6.6.5 and 6.7.1 to 6.7.6
Sixth Chapter – Section 7
12. Chapter 6.7.6, 6.8.1 and 6.8.2
Sixth chapter - Section 8
13. Chapter 6.8.3 and 6.8.414. Chapter 6.8.4 to 6.8.715. Chapter 6.8.7, 6.9.1 to 6.9.4	139
Sixth chapter - Section 9
16. Chapter 6.9.4, 6.10.1 to 6.10.3, 6.11.1 and 6.11.2
Sixth chapter - Section 10 Sixth Chapter - Section 11
17. Chapter 6.11.2 & 6.11.3, 6.12.1 & 6.12.2, and 6.13.1
Sixth Chapter - Section 12

Sixth Chapter - Section 13
18. Chapter 6.13.1 to 6.13.3 and 6.14.1
Sixth Chapter - Section 14
19. Chapter 6.14.1 to 6.14.3, 6.15.1 to 6.15.3 and 6.16.1
Sixth Chapter - Section 15 Sixth Chapter - Section 16
20. Chapter 6.16.1 to 6.16.3 and Summary of Chapter 6	204
Sixth chapter summary	210
21. Summary of Chapter 6 (Cont'd) and Chapter 7 Intro, 7.1.1. to 7.1.2	214
Seventh Chapter Seventh Chapter - Section 1
22.Chapter 7.1.2 to 7.1.5, 7.2.1 and 7.2.2, 7.3.1
Seventh Chapter - Section 2 Seventh Chapter - Section 3
23. Chapter 7.3.1 and 7.3.2, 7.4.1 and 7.4.2	238
Seventh Chapter - Section 4	244
24. Chapter 7.4.2 7.4.3 & and 7.5.1
Seventh Chapter - Section 5	257
25. Chapter 7.5.1to 7.5.3, 7.6.2 & 7.6.1 and 7.7.1	259
Seventh Chaper – Section 6 Seventh Chapter - Section 7
26. Chapter 7.7.1 & 7.7.2, 7.8.1 & 7.8.2, 7.9.1 & 7.9.2, 7.10.1 & 7.10.2, and 7.11.1.
Seventh Chapter - Section 8 Seventh Chapter - Section 9 Seventh Chapter - Section 10 Seventh Chapter- Section 11	276 278
27. Chapter 7.11.1 & 7.11.2, 7.12.1 & 7.12.2, 7.13.1
Seventh Chapter - Section 12 Seventh Chapter - Section 13
28. Chapter 7.13.1 & 7.13.2, 7.14.1 & 7.14.2 and 7.15.1 & 7.15.2.

Seventh Chapter - Section 14
Seventh Chapter - Section 15	299
29. Chapter 7.15.2. to 7.15.4
30. Chapter 7.15.4, 7.16.1, 7.17.1, 7.18.1, 7.19.1 and 7.20.1	312
Seventh Chapter - Section 16
Seventh Chapter - Section 17
Seventh Chapter - Section 18 Seventh Chapter - Section 19
Seventh Chapter - Section 20
31. Chapter 7.20.1, 7.20.1, 7.21.1, 7.22.1, 7.23.1, 7.24.1
Seventh Chapter - Section 21
Seventh Chapter - Section 22
Seventh Chapter - Section 23
Seventh Chapter - Section 24
32. Chapter 7.24.1
33. Chapter 7.24.1 & 7.24.2 and 7.25.1 & 7.25.2
Chapter 7 - Section 25	347
34. Chapter 7.25.2, 7.26.1 and 7.26.2	354
Seventh Chapter - Section 26	359
35. Chapter 8.1.1 to 8.1.4
Eighth Chapter – Section 1
36. Chapter 8.1.4 to 8.1.6
Eighth Chapter - Section 2
Eighth Chapter – Section 3
38. Chapter 8.3.1to 8.3.4
39. Chapter 8.3.4 & 8.3.5 and 8.4.1 and 8.4.2	409
Eighth Chapter - Section 4	416
40. Chapter 8.4.2 & 8.4.3 and 8.5.1 to 8.5.3	420
Eighth Chapter - Section 5	425
41. Chapter 8.5.3 & 8.5.4 and 8.6.1	431
Eighth Chapter - Section 6	439

42. Chapter 8.6.1 to 8.6.5
Eighth Chapter - Section 7458
44. Chapter 8.7.2 to 8.7.4
Chapter Eighth - Section 8476
46. Chapter 8.8.5, 8.9.1. to 8.9.3 and 8.10.1
Chapter Eighth - Section 9490 Chapter Eighth - Section 10496
47. Chapter 8.10.1 to 8.10.4 and 8.11.1499
Eighth Chapter - Section 11507
48. Chapter 8.11.1 to 8.11.3 and 8.12.1511
Eighth Chapter - Section 12517
49. Chapter 8.12.1 to 8.12.3 522 50. Chapter 8.12.3 to 8.12.4 532 51. Chapter 8.12.4 to 8.12.6 and 8.13.1 542
Eighth Chapter - Section 13552
52. Chapter 8.13.1, 8.14.1 and 8.15.1
Eighth Chapter - Section 14557 Eighth Chapter – Section 15
53. Summary of 8 th Chapter

Chandogya Upanishad

Commentary by Swami Paramarthananda

Sixth Chapter

1. General Introduction

General introduction:

We look upon the vedās as an independent and valid source of knowledge. Exactly like we look upon the sense-organs as independent and valid sources of knowledge. And, in this respect, we look upon the 'vedic words' as different from 'the words' used by us, the normal ordinary human beings. When we are using 'the words' in our communications, already we have attained the knowledge, through some other source; and we are using those 'words' only as a carrier of the already produced knowledge. When I am reading a report in the newspaper, the words in the newspaper do not produce knowledge. Because, even before the words were used [by the reporter], the knowledge [of the words] has been produced in the reader's mind, through perception. And, through this already generated knowledge, the reporter is only transporting or carrying the news, in the form of words. SO, NORMALLY, THE WORDS ARE ONLY THE CARRIERS OF THE KNOWLEDGE.

But, in the case of the vedās, we do not look upon the vedic words as mere carriers of the knowledge; but, as the producers of knowledge. Whatever knowledge the vedās contain, they are not already produced in the mind of the rsis.Not that the rsis got the knowledge by some other method and they use the words to carry their knowledge. It is not. The rsis themselves got the knowledge only through the words of the vedās. Thus, there is a difference between vaidikaśabda and laukikaśabda. laukikaśabdās carry the already produced knowledge. VAIDIKAŚABDA DOES NOT JUST CARRY THE KNOWLEDGE; BUT, IT PRODUCES FRESH KNOWLEDGE, WHICH KNOWLEDGE CAN NEVER BE GENERATED BY ANY OTHER METHOD. AND, THEREFORE, WE LOOK UPON THE VEDĀS AS AN INDEPENDENT PRODUCER OF KNOWLEDGE, which knowledge cannot be generated by any other means/source of knowledge. And not only they produce fresh knowledge, not only they are independent sources of knowledge, they are valid source of knowledge also. Valid of knowledge. And this is technically called svatantrapramānam. source svatantrapramanam means, INDEPENDENT AND VALID SOURCE OF UNIQUE KNOWLEDGE, WHICH CANNOT BE MADE THROUGH ANY OTHER SOURCE OF KNOWLEDGE. vedā is beautifully defined as - vedā is called vedā; because, it is independent and valid source of a unique knowledge, which cannot be produced by any other source.

"pratyakṣeṇa anumityāvā yastũpāyo na budhyate enam, vidanti vedena tasmāt vedasya vedatā".

Every sense organ is an independent and valid source of knowledge. Eyes are an independent and valid of source of the knowledge of colours, which knowledge no other instrument can generate. Similarly, ears are an independent and valid source of sound, the knowledge of the sounds, which can never be gained through any other means of knowledge. Thus, we look upon the vedā as the sixth sense organ. SINCE WE LOOK UPON THE VEDĀ AS THE SIXTH SENSE ORGAN, WHATEVER KNOWLEDGE WE GAIN FROM THE VEDĀ IS VALID AND UNIQUE KNOWLEDGE.

And suppose, there is some knowledge given by the vedā which has been refuted by somebody, some other source of knowledge, then, what is our approach to the vedā? Even if the vedic knowledge is falsified by anybody, we do not say,'the vedā is defective'. We always say that, "the deficiency does not belong to the vedā; but, the deficiency belongs to the various conditions in which vedā can give valid knowledge". We never attribute the deficiency to the vedā; but, the deficiency or defect belongs to the conditions in which vedā has to produce knowledge.

For example, eyes we look upon as a valid source of knowledge. But, we do have several situations where there are optical illusions. In every optical illusion, the eyes give what knowledge? In every optical illusion, the eyes give an illusory or false knowledge. Eyes report the stars as small; which is an optical illusion. The eyes report the sky as blue. It is again an illusion. Thus, there are 100s of optical illusions where the eyes give false knowledge. But, the beauty is, EVEN IF EYES GIVE FALSE KNOWLEDGE ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS, WE NEVER DOUBT THE VALIDITY OF THE EYES AS A SOURCE OF KNOWLEDGE. How many ever optical illusions come, we never find fault with the eyes. What do we say? "Eyes can give valid knowledge only when the conditions are ideal". The object must be at the right distance. That is important. And the light etc must be appropriate. And, of course, our spectacles must be alright! So many conditions are required for the eyes to produce valid knowledge. And therefore, in the case of optical illusion, the deficiency belongs to what? Not the eyes; but, to the extraneous conditions. Thus, we put the blame on other factors; and our faith in our eyes continue. Even in the law Courts, eye-witness is considered valid, in spite of optical illusions! This approach is called śraddhā. Like, taking the eyes as valid source of knowledge, irrespective of optical illusions. How? By blaming the extraneous factors, we never find fault with the eyes. So, what is our approach? Eyes are always valid.

This is an axiomatic truth for every scientist. Every scientist approaches the eyes as the valid of source of knowledge; because, it is svatantrapramāņam. And we approach the vedās also exactly like the eyes. Just as eyes are svatantrampramāņam, the vedā is also svatantrampramāņam. Eyes are independently valid; vedā is independently valid.And eyes can produce unique knowledge; and the vedās also can give unique knowledge. Even if eyes produce optical illusion we do not question the validity of the eye. In the same way, even if certain conclusions of the vedās are refuted by modern science, suppose some of the conclusions are refuted by modern science, what do we say? The problem is not with the vedā; but, vedā has produced audio illusion. Like, optical illusion, audio illusion; not because of the deficiency of the vedās; but, because the various conditions required for the vedā to produce the valid knowledge, those conditions are defective. Then what should we do? We need to correct the conditions and use the eyes once again. You do not discard the eyes, if the eyes produce optical illusion. You do not discard the eye, you set right the conditions and again use what? The eyes only. Similarly, even if we derive 100s of wrong knowledge from the vedās, we have to only set right the conditions. That is the job of mĩmāmsā.

mĩmāmsā means what? μδώτ, μοιτμόσιομό [Fish & meat]; it is not! mĩmāmsā is the method of setting-right the conditions for the operation of the vedās. Anybody who uses mĩmāmsā will create ideal conditions for the functioning of the vedā, which is a valid source of unique knowledge. Both are important. 1. Valid source; 2. Unique knowledge. All those people who have used mĩmāmsā and used the vedā, they have been able to get a unique and valid knowledge, which has been useful in life. How? Like, when eyes are used it is useful to us. If you have a doubt, after the class, close your eyes and walk. You will know if there is a benefit or not! Just as we get benefit by operating the ears, just as we get the benefit by operating the nose, similarly, by operating the vedās the şaṭkamsvatantrapramāṇam, we get benefit in life. So, we approach the vedā, remembering this axiomatic truth. And the one who approaches the vedā- with this understanding, is the one who has got śraddhā.

Just as the scientist's faith in the eyes are never shaken in spite of optical illusions, similarly, a vaidika'sśraddhā in the vedā is never shaken, whatever be the discoveries of the science. This is called,śraddhāvān labate jñānam.

This vedā, even though it is one text, is broadly divided into two śāstrams. Even though vedā is one voluminous text, it is broadly divided into śāstradvayam called veda pũrvaśāstra and antaśāstram. veda Why do we divide the vedā into two śāstrams? Because, anubandhacatustay abhedāt. And anubandhacatustay abheda means, what? THE AUDIENCE ADDRESSED IS DIFFERENT. The target audience is different. For veda pũrvaśāstram, the target audience is rāgi. For veda antaśāstram, the target audience is virāgi. rāgi means, what? [You should not say, I am taking about rāgimālt in the morning!]rāgi is the one who is attached to the worldly, materialistic goals. The seeker of the worldly, materialistic goals is called rāgi. virāgi is the one who is no more passionate about materialistic goals. He is interested spiritual goal. So, rāgi-virāgi.

And similarly, THE SUBJECT MATTER ALSO IS DIFFERENT. veda pũrva deals with paricchinnavişaya, finite entities in the CREATION. All that is within time & space. deśa kālaparicchinnavişaya. WHEREAS, VEDAANTAŚĀSTRAM DEALS WITH APARICCHINNAVIŞAYA, THE ABSOLUTE REALITY, WHICH TRANSCENDS TIME & SPACE. THE TARGET AUDIENCE IS DIFFERENT; SUBJECT MATTER IS DIFFERENT; AND THE BENEFIT ALSO IS DIFFERENT. One will produce paricchinnaānandā. Because, finite entities will produce what happiness? Finite happiness. Finite peace. Finite security. PSH you should not forget. Peace, Security &Happiness in a finite measure. paricchinnaānandā is the benefit of veda pũrva.

Whereas,[you can fill up the blank!] aparicchinnaānandāis that in which Peace, Security & Happiness are stable, long-lasting, reliable. It will not pull our leg at the wrong time. Thus, audience is different, the subject matter is different, the benefit is different; and finally, even the method by which it produces the benefit is also different. The veda pũrva will produce the benefit only when the knowledge is followed by action. veda pũrva will produce the benefit only when knowledge is implemented into activities. However many rituals you may study, mere knowledge of the rituals will not produce the benefit. Those rituals will have to be performed. That also, correctly. Else, problem!

THEREFORE, IN VEDA PŨRVA, KNOWLEDGE WILL PRODUCE THE BENEFIT INDIRECTLY, THROUGH THE INTERVENTION OF ACTION. anuṣṭhāna dhvārā, prayojanam. jñānaprayojanayohķaḥsambandhaḥ? paramparāsambandhaḥ. And what is the paramparā? jñānamanuṣṭhānadhvārā, prayojanamjanayati; whereas, vedaanta produces the jñānam; produces the benefit, without requiring any action in-between. We will be seeing in chāndogya upaniṣad itself,"tarati śokaṃ ātmavid" - one who understands the ātmā, crosses śokaṃ. After doing what? Doing nothing! jñānamātreṇaprayojanam.

Therefore, in veda anta, what is the connection between jñānam and prayojanam? sākṣāt sambandhaḥ. Whereas, in veda pũrva, paramparāsambandhaḥ. Thus, there is a difference in the audience. Difference in the subject matter. Difference in the benefit. And, difference in the method of generating the result. Thus, adhikārĩ, viṣaya, prayojana and sambandhaḥ- all the four being different, we treat them as śāstradvayam. This veda antabhāga - that is, the final or end portion of the vedā, is known by the name upaniṣad. veda antabhāgaḥ - the final part of the vedā - is known by the name upaniṣad. And why it is called upaniṣad? upa means, ātmā. How can the upa mean, ātmā? The word upa in Sanskrit grammar refers to 'the closest entity'. And what is the closest thing to me? "I" am closest to 'myself'; because, the distance between me and myself is zero. Therefore, myself or myself (we have to put it in two different ways!), that is myself - ātmā is the closest. Therefore, upa = ātmā. ni means, niścayajñānam. Therefore, upani means, niścayaātma jñānam. Clear self-knowledge.

This is a unique knowledge produced by vedā only. Nothing else can produce this. So, clear self-knowledge is called what? upani. Then, the last part, sad means, the destroyer. avasādayati itisad. sadis derived from the root sad. sādayati - to destroy. Destroyer of what is said to be upaniṣad? "Destroyer of self-knowledge", do not translate! Self-knowledge need not be destroyed. Why? if it is there only you can destroy!! Hence, upaniṣad is destroyer of saṃsārā. That, we have to supply. sad = saṃsāra nāśakaḥ. saṃsāra nivartakaḥ. So,'upaniṣad' means,saṃsāra nivartaka ātma vidyā. 'upaniṣad' final meaning is, what? saṃsāra nivartakaātma vidyā. saṃsārā destroying, self-knowledge. saṃsārā destroying, self-knowledge. saṃsārā dis-obeying - ṣaṣṭhĩtatpuruṣasamāsa. saṃsārā destroying, self-knowledge. Do not ask,"what is saṃsārā?!" I will be in trouble. saṃsārā means, the eternal struggle of life. Simple translation. The eternal struggles of life is called saṃsārā. upaniṣad means,saṃsārānivartakaātma-vidyā.

And this vedāntā, which gives this ātma vidyā, has got several dialogues between guru and śiṣyā. The vedāntā- which is the final part of the vedā- contains innumerable dialogues between guru and śiṣyā, dealing with what? The self-knowledge.

And why does vedāntā present it in the form a dialogue? śańkarācāryā says elsewhere, it is because of two reasons. One reason is, dialogue form is easier to understand. Because whatever be the common doubt, FAQ, frequently asked questions, all the FAQs will be presented through the mouth of the śiṣyā. Whatever doubt we think of, the same will come through śiṣyā's mouth. Therefore,sukhārthaavabodhanārtham, the saṃvāda method is used,śańkarācāryā says.

There is a second reason also. THE DIALOGUE METHOD IS GIVEN TO SHOW THAT A SEEKER SHOULD GAIN THIS KNOWLEDGE ONLY FROM A GURU; BECAUSE, A GURU ALONE WILL USE THE MĨMĀMSĀ METHOD TO EXTRACT VALID KNOWLEDGE FROM THE VEDĀ. GURU ALONE WILL USE THE MĨMĀMSĀ METHOD, CONTROLLING ALL THE EXTRANEOUS FACTORS, IN WHICH VEDĀ WILL PRODUCE OR GENERATE VALID KNOWLEDGE. Just as eyes will produce optical illusion if the conditions are not proper; similarly, if we study the vedās independently, vedā will produce audio-illusion, called misconception. Every misinterpretation of the vedā is vedic illusion; because of non-application of mĩmāmsā or wrong application of mĩmāmsā. Therefore, a guru is required.

And if somebody asks, "how does the guru know; 'how to apply mīmāmsā properly?' Does he have two horns?" - one may ask. We reply, "guru does not have any specialty or double horn. guru knew "how to extract the knowledge" from his guru. And if you ask the upaniṣadic ṛṣis, they never claim any credit. The ṛṣis themselves say,"iti śuśruma pūrveṣāṃ ye nastadvyācacakṣire II"[1.4] - [In which upaniṣad it comes? In kenaupaniṣad it comes. And I am assuming that all the students who are attending, they have done the other upaniṣads which I have taught before.]

Therefore, the dialogue version is given for what purpose? To show that "you should learn from the guru". This is very clearly said, "tadvijñānārthaṃ sa gurumevābhigacchet"

[muṇḍaka1.2.12]. And, one dialogue or a group of dialogues put together, is treated as one upaniṣad. One dialogue or a group of dialogues. One dialogue we get in kathopaniṣad, muṇḍakopaniṣad etc, which is between one guru and one śiṣyā. Whereas, in praśnopaniṣad, every chapter is a different dialogue between a guru and different śiṣyā. In bṛhadāraṇyaka and chāndogya upaniṣads, several gurus and several śiṣyās are there. Thus, one or more dialogues put together is treated as one upaniṣad.

And the vedāntā has got innumerable upanişads. vedāntā- the final part of the vedā- has got innumerable upanişads; more than 1000! 1180, they say. And of those numerous upanişads, ten upanişads are considered important. They say, those are the primary upanişads. But, the word 'primary' should not confuse you. Every upanişad is primary. Here, the word 'primary' is within quotes. As far as their validity is concerned, all the upanişads are equal. But, ten upanişads are termed 'major', 'primary' etc., because of two reasons. One reason is, vyāsācāryā has heavily borrowed from the ten upanişads for constructing a cogent teaching. Out of the ten upanişads, vyāsācāryā has extracted "vedānta darśanam" - a cogent and systematic teaching; because, upanişads do not present the teaching, cogently. Upanişads contain the teaching strewn all over. It is like a wild forest. So, we have to extract the teaching, like extracting butter from the milk. Milk has the butter; but, it cannot be used as it is. We have to take it out. Similarly, the upanişads contain the teaching; but, it is not churm]. That work vyāsācāryā has done in His brahma sũtrā.And therefore, brahma sũtrā is called "vedānta darśanam"- which is the teaching extracted from the upanişads.

What do you mean by cogent teaching? By cogent teaching what we mean is, it contains six topics arranged in a systematic manner. Six topics arranged in a systematic manner. What are the six topics? You should know.

1. jĩvasvarũpam. the nature of the individual. Who am ?

2. The second is jagatsvarũpam. What is the nature of this world? Cosmology. So,"who am I?" "What is this world?"

3. Then, îśvarasvarũpam. Who is God and what is His nature? îśvarasvarũpam. It includes, whether God exists or not. That is also included. Is there a God? And if there is one. what is his nature? îśvarasvarũpam.

4. bandhasvarũpam. What is the cause for human pains in life? What is the cause of human pain or sorrow or grief or bondage or struggle? You can keep it any way. By struggle we mean, physical, emotional and even intellectual pain. Many people are intellectually pained when the good, moral, religious people face setbacks in life. They are moral, ethical life they lead, and they are very, very religious people. Yet, they go through problems after problems; and the neighbour who is consistently doing akramam he is fine! It disturbs the thinking intellect. It questions the validity of the ethics. It questions the validity of religion. Very bhakti is shaken. Which is what pain? Intellectual pain. So, we have emotional pains, intellectual pains, of course physical pains. [Knee pain should have started because 45 minutes are gone!] Emotional, physical, biological pain. All forms of pain and the struggle, the eternal struggle to get over the trividha tāpaḥ. This is called what? bandhasvarũpam. This has to be discussed.

5. And then,mokṣasvarũpam. Is there a freedom from this struggle? And what is the nature of that freedom? Is it going to the heaven? Is it going to vaikuṇṭha and sitting near viṣṇu? Is it going to kailāsā and sitting on the lap of Lord śivā? Is it going to goloka brindāvanam and eternal dāsā dance? According to some philosophy, what is mokṣa do you know? Always being with kṛṣṇāand dancing! - that is mokṣa. Will hands and legs not pain? No, no.You will get a special body! What exactly is mokṣa? This is the fifth topic.

6. And the final topic is, "what is the means of by which a person goes from bandha to mokṣa" - called, sādhanam or sādhanā. These are the six basic topics which every darśanam or philosophy should discuss.

veda anta discusses all these six topics; not cogently; but, spread all over. And vyāsācāryā has extracted the six topics in his well known brahma sũtrā. And for extracting the teaching, he has made use of these ten upaniṣads, primarily. Of course, some other upaniṣads are also there. That is why I use the word 'primarily or predominantly'. And therefore only, ādi śańkarācāryā also chose to write commentary on all these ten upaniṣads! Because vyāsācāryā used these ten, śańkarācāryā decided to comment on these ten. [śańkarācāryā comes after vyāsācāryā or before vyāsācāryā? Chronological confusion is not there, I hope! śańkarācāryā came much later.] He wrote commentary on not only the daśaupaniṣads; but, on the brahma sũtrā, also.

Of these ten upaniṣads, one of the important upaniṣads is chāndogya upaniṣad. To remember the daśaupaniṣads, they have composed a ślokā. That was the method used in our tradition. Either sũtrā form or ślokā form. sũtrā means, what? Pithy statements, easy to remember. If you see brahma sũtrā book, I have given you a booklet. 555 sũtrās will come in 6 to 7 pages. Thus, it can be got by-heart. Another method is what? ślokā form. Then, we can chant. We can use rāgam also! What are those 10 upaniṣads? "ĩśa kena katha praśna muṇḍa māṇḍūkya tittiriḥ | Itareyan ca chāndogyam bṛhadāraṇyakaṃ tathā II" - ĩśa-another word is ĩśāvāsyam. [Both are the same.] kena, katha, praśna, muṇḍa, [means,muṇḍakam, shortened name], māṇḍūkya, tittiriḥ [means,taittirĩyam], itareyam cachāndogyam, bṛhadāraṇyakamtathā. "tathā" -do not add! It will become 11! tathā is only a conjunction.

And, of these, ĩśāvāsya belongs to şukla yajurvedā. kena belongs to sāmavedā. katha belongs to kṛṣṇayajurvedā. praśna belongs to atharvaṇavedā. muṇḍaka belongs to atharvaṇavedā. Many from atharvaṇavedā. taittirĩya belongs to kṛṣṇayajurvedā. itareyam belongs to ṛgvedā. Only one from ṛgvedā. Big vedā; but, only one upaniṣad. Then chāndogyam, we have to underline. This is what we are going to study. chāndogya belongs to sāmavedā. Finally, bṛhadāraṇyakam belongs to şukla yajurvedā.

Of these tenupanişads, generally, we confine to the first five only. ïśa kena katha praśna muņḍa māṇḍūkya tittiriḥ I. If you leave praśnaandtaittirĩya, first five only generally I teach.Because, these five contain the essence. WHEREAS,CHĀNDOGYA IS AN IMPORTANT UPANIŞAD FROM THE STANDPOINT OF BRAHMA SŨTRĀ STUDY. BECAUSE,CHĀNDOGYA IS ONE UPANIŞAD IN WHICH SAGUŅAĨŚVARA AND NIRGUŅAM BRAHMAN - BOTH ARE ELABORATELY TREATED. This is unique to chāndogya. Whereas,in ĩśa kena katha praśnaetc saguņaĩśvara is not treated elaborately. nirguņam brahman alone. But, in chāndogya,saguņaĩśvara andnirguņambrahma-both-are given equal importance. saguņaĩśvaraupāsanā is elaborately dealt with. nirguņabrahmanvicārā is also elaborately dealt with. Therefore, it becomes an important upanişad. Therefore,vyāsācāryā in his brahma sũtrā, borrows maximum from chāndogya. Not even from bṛhadāraṇyakam; but, from chāndogyam maximum quotations in brahma sũtrā. THEREFORE, WHOEVER WANTS TO STUDY BRAHMA SŨTRĀ, WILL HAVE TO NECESSARILY STUDY CHĀNDOGYA.

This chāndogyaupaniṣad is a big upaniṣad, consisting of 627 mantrās. Big upaniṣad. kena has 26 mantrās. māņdūkya has 12 mantrās. ĩśāvāsyam 18 mantrās. muņdaka has 65 mantrā. That is all. chāndogya has 627 mantrās, spread over 8 chapters. Size of the textwise, chāndogyam and bṛhadāraṇyakam are equally big. bṛhadāraṇyaka has got 434 big mantrās. chāndogya has got 627 small mantrās. Totally, size is the same. Both are equally big. BUT, COMMENTARY-WISE śańkarācāryā'S COMMENTARY ON bṛhadāraṇyaka IS FAR BIG AND ALSO SUPERIOR, QUALITATIVELY AND QUANTITATIVELY. IN chāndogyam IT IS RELATIVELY BETTER ONLY.

Of these eight chapters, the first five chapters deal with sagunaïśvaraupāsanam. For getting qualification. And the last three chapters deal with nirguna ïśvarajñānam, for the qualified students. The FIRST FIVE CHAPTERS ARE FOR QUALIFICATION. THE LAST THREE CHAPTERS ARE FOR QUALIFIED STUDENTS. And I look upon all of you as qualified students! And therefore, I propose to teach the last three chapters, which deal with nirguṇaĩśvarajñānam.

Details in the next class.

ॐपूर्णमदःपूर्णमिदंपूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्यपूर्णमादायपूर्णमेवावशिष्यते ॥ ॐशान्तिःशान्तिःशान्तिः॥

(prepared by Sri. Balasubrahmanyam pattoo and Srinivasan)

2. General Introduction (Cont'd) and Chapter 6.1.1 to 6.1.3

The word chāndogya upaniṣad means, "the upaniṣad belonging to the sāma vedī people". The word chandogya means, it belongs to the sāma vedī. And why it is so? The word "chandah" means, vedaḥ. cakārāntaḥ napuṃsakalingaḥ chandas śabdaḥ. chandah. chandasi chandāṃsi. The word "chandāṃsi" must be familiar. Some where it has come?! 15th chapter of the gĩtā [15-1] - "chandāṃsi yasya parṇāni yastaṃ veda sa vedavit". chandāṃsi is veda. chandah is the singular vedā; and, chandogaḥ means, those people or that person who sings the vedā. chandah gāyati iti chandogaḥ. gaḥ means, a singer; and chandah means, vedaḥ. chandogaḥ means, a vedic singer. And if you refer someone as a 'vedic singer', he belongs to which vedā? rg vedĩ cannot be a vedic singer. He is only a vedic chanter. yuajur vedĩ is also a chanter. atharvaṇa vedĩ is also a chanter. Only a sāma vedĩ is a vedic singer; because, sāma vedā alone is set to music. Therefore, chandogaḥ means, a vedic singer; and a vedic singer means, a sāma vedĩ.

Then, the word chāndogyaḥ means, "that which belongs to the sāma vedī". chandogaḥ means, sāma vedī people. chāndogam [long ā] means, 'that which belongs to sāma vedī people'. And what belongs to sāma vedī people? sāma vedaḥ. See how round-about way we are going. chandogaḥ means, sāma vedīs; and chāndogya means, that which belongs to the sāma vedī people. And what belongs to sāma vedī people? sāma vedā. Therefore, chāndogya means, sāma vedāḥ and chāndogyā upaniṣad means, the upaniṣad belonging to sāma vedā. chandogaḥ is, sāma vedī. chāndogyaḥ is, sāma vedā. chāndogyā upaniṣad is, sāma vedā upaniṣad. sāma vedāntaḥ. So, the upaniṣad we are going to see is a sāma veda upaniṣad.

Here, naturally, a doubt will come. Then, kena upaniṣad also must be called chāndogya upaniṣad?! Because, kenopaniṣad also belongs to sāma vedā! chāndogya means, sāma vedā. Therefore, kenopaniṣad must be known as chāndogya upaniṣad only; because, that also belongs to sāma vedā. If you so ask, we say, 'you are right. kena upaniṣad is also chāndogya upaniṣad; chāndogya is also chāndogya upaniṣad'. But, if you retain this name for both the upaniṣads, we will not know the difference. Therefore, what did we do? The kena upaniṣad was given a different name, so that it can be differentiated from chāndogya. And therefore, it got the name kena upaniṣad; because, the upaniṣad begins with the word 'kena'. The kena upaniṣad begins with the word 'kena'. Therefore, it was called kena upaniṣad. Thus, that is chāndogya kena upaniṣad. This is chāndogya upaniṣad. This is the basis for the title of the upaniṣad. We have got the chāndogya brāhmaņam and chāndogya upaniṣad. The upaniṣad coming at the end part of the chāndogya, the sāma vedā. As I said in the last class, this has got 8 chapters. And the first five chapters deal with saguņa brahma upāsanam; that is meant for, citta śuddhi and citta ekāgratā. Otherwise, we can call that jñāna yogyatā prāptiḥ. So, five chapters happen to be saguņa brahma upāsanam, meant to develop jñāna yogyatā - fitness for knowledge. And the last three chapters are nirguņa brahma jñānam - the actual vedāntā.

And as I said, all the saguņa upāsanam occurring in the vedās have now become unpopular; because, the vedic saguņa upāsanās have now been replaced by the purāņic saguņa upāsanā. Like, Rāma upāsanā, Kṛṣṇa upāsanā, Devĩ upāsanā, Śiva upāsanā etc. These upāsanās occurring in the purāņās are more appealing; because, there saguņa ĩśvarā is given a human form. And people would love to see saguņam brahman as a person. A personal GOD is always appealing; because, we can talk, we can cry, we can fondle, we can feed [especially, those items we like! We offer as prasādam, and eat it for ourselves! Whether Kṛṣṇa likes butter or not, in His name we can consume!] Therefore, the purāņic upāsanās are more appealing, because we get a personal GOD. Whereas, in vedic upāsanās, most of the upāsanās are nature centered.

In the first 5 chapters of chāndogya, there is rain upāsanā, cloud upāsanā, thunder upāsanā, lightning upāsanā, there is river upāsanā, there is space upāsanā, various aspects of nature are taken for upāsanā. And of course we have the viśvarũpa upāsanā, known as vaiśvānara vidyā. Not only that. The vedic mantrās are also taken-up for upāsanā, like various sāma mantrās are taken. Not only the mantrās themselves are taken for upāsanā, even portions of some mantrās are taken for upāsanā, as we find in taittirīya upaniṣad vyākṛti upāsanā. In vyākṛti upāsanā, we meditate upon what? bhũḥ bhuvaḥ suvaḥ mahāḥ - these vyākṛti mantrās are meditated upon. And the people could practice those upāsanās; because, they were soaked in veda adhyayanam and veda pārāyaṇam.

But, gradually, we have stopped studying the vedās; stopped chanting the vedās. If I ask, 'how many people in this hall regularly chant gāyatri?' [I will not ask, do not worry! We will be in trouble.] If I ask, 'poonal you have, are you doing sandhyāvandanam?' They will say, 'I am doing gāyatri'. The whole sandhyāvandanam is given up. After upanayanam, the boy chants gāyatri three times a day. After a month, two times a day. After six months, once a day. And, thereafter, gāyatri sanyāsaḥ! gāyatri is given-up! In chāndogya upaniṣad, gāyatri upāsanam is given as a great upāsanam. catuṣpād brahma upāsanam. Thus, gāyatri was taken; vyākṛti was taken. The veda mantrās and nature were taken for vedic upāsanam. But, when the purāṇams and itihāsā came, those upāsanams got replaced; and therefore, vedic upāsanās are studied only out of academic interest. VEDIC UPĀSANĀS ARE NO MORE PRACTICAL, NOW.

Therefore only, I decided to skip the first five chapters of chāndogya as they are full of such veda mantrās and nature upāsanā. Not that upāsanās are not required; but, now-a-days, we have got - like, we are chanting ratnaiḥ kalpitam āsanaṃ etc - we have got the personal iśvara upāsanā. Therefore, I feel, that is more than enough for a seeker.

And so, I propose to take only the last three chapters of chāndogya. The last three chapters deal with nirgunam brahma. The sixth chapter reveals nirgunam brahma as sat brahman, the pure existence. Therefore, the sixth chapter is called sad vidyā prakaranam. The seventh chapter reveals the ānandam nautre of brahman, known by the name bhūmā. bhũmā means, pũrnam. pũrnam means, ānandam. pũrnam means, kozakkattai. pũrnam is ānandam. Therefore, bhūmā = pūrnam = ānandam. Thus, the seventh chapter reveals the ānandam nature of brahman, revealed by the word bhũmā. Therefore, it is called bhuma vidyā prakaraņam. The eighth chapter reveals brahman as the turīya caitanyam the cit nature of brahman is revealed. It is turíya vidyā prakaraņam. turíyam meaning, caitanyam. sat, cit and ānanda. Only the order only is reversed. Instead of sat cid ānandā, we get sat, ānanda and cit. This turīya vidyā in the eighth chapter is revealed through the teacher prajāpati or brahmā and since prajāpati is the name of the teacher. The 8th chapter is called prajāpati vidyā prakaraņam. Thus, nirguņam brahma is revealed beautifully in the form of sat, cit and ānanda in the last three chapters. And of them, the sixth chapter, known as "sad vidyā prakaraņam" is the most famous because the mahā vākyam "tat tvam asi" occurs in this sixth chapter only.

With this background, we will enter into the upaniṣad with the śānti mantraḥ. I will chant the śānti pāṭhā, you can repeat after me. The śānti mantrā -

ॐ आप्यायन्तु ममाङ्गानि वाक्प्राणश्चक्षु: श्रोत्रमथो बलमिन्द्रियाणि च सर्वाणि । सर्वं ब्रह्मोपनिषदम् । माऽहं ब्रह्म निराकुर्यां मा मा ब्रह्म निराकरोदनिराकरणमस्त्वनिराकरणं मेऽस्तु । तदात्मनि निरते य उपनिषत्सु धर्मास्ते मयि सन्तु ते मयि सन्तु । ॐ शान्ति: शान्ति: ॥

om āpyāyantu mamāngāni vākprānaścakṣuḥ śrotramatho balamindriyāṇi ca sarvāṇi | sarvaṃ brahmopaniṣadam | mā'haṃ brahma nirākuryāṃ mā mā brahma

nirākarodanirākaraņam- astvanirākaraņam me'stu | tadātmani nirate ya upanisatsu dharmāste mayi santu te mayi santu | om śāntiḥ śāntiḥ śāntiḥ ||

This is one of the beautiful śānti pāthās occurring in the upanisad. It is relevant to all people, whether they are vedāntā students or not. One of the most beautiful prayers of the vedās. First, the seeker prays to the LORD for a healthy body-mind-sense complex. Which is the basic need for spiritual pursuit or material pursuit. Therefore, the student prays to the LORD, 'let my sthula sariram, suksma sariram be fit. Let me be able to sit for one hour, without any disturbance. āpyāyantu means, 'let all of them grow into strength and fitness'. āpyāya means, vrddhih - let them grow strong. vardhayantu. mamāngāni - all my limbs. And what are those? vāk - you can understand, vāk prānah caksuh śrotram and indriyāni ca sarvāni - and all other left out organs. 'If something I have left out, Oh, LORD, please fill them up'. All of them let them grow well. Let them be fit. And balam api - along with their strength. Means, both health & strength let it be there. sarvāni āpyāyantu. sarvam brahma aupanisadam - what the student wants to discover later he is presenting in the beginning itself. What is the thing that I want to discover? sarvam brahma. [sarvam khalu vidam brahma - occurs in chāndogya itself]. sarvam brahma means, what? Everything is nothing but, brahman. BRAHMAN, WRONGLY PERCEIVED IS, WORLD. WORLD, RIGHTLY PERCEIVED IS, BRAHMAN. Therefore, everything is brahman. What type of brahman? aupanisadam brahma. A technical and important word. aupanisadam means, knowable only through the upanisad. upanisan mātra vedyam, aupanisadam. By no other means can a person discover this fact. And therefore, 'everything is aupanisadam brahma'. And what is my aim? Until I discover the truth, I should not lose my faith in that truth. However much I do not understand, I should not reject brahman. One can say, "I do not understand". That is Okay. But do not say, "brahman is not there". He says, mā'ham brahma nirākuryām - aham brahma mā nirākuryām - let me not reject or negate that brahman, just because I do not see that brahman. Because, the upanisad points out that, "brahman is not visible or available for all sense organs. It is not available for the thought also. "vatovāco nivartante aprāpya manasā saha"- [taittirīyam]. If it is not available for any instrument of knowledge, what will we conclude? "I know why brahman can never be seen. I understood it only now. It is not there!" So, many people may get a fundamental doubt: 'whether brahman is there or not?' Therefore, the student says, 'even if I do not understand, I will not question the existence of brahman. I will question only my understanding'. Therefore, let me not reject brahman and also equally, mā mā brahma nirākarod - let not the brahman or the LORD reject me. I should not reject brahman. brahman also should not reject me from its grace. Here, brahman refers to isvarā. May not isvarā reject me, throw me out of his grace. Because, as we have seen often, to understand nirgunam brahma, we require isvara krpā, we require guru krpā, we require śāstra krpā, we also require ātma krpā - my own grace. And you know what is ātma kṛpā? Faith. Therefore, I require the grace of īśvarā. So, let not īśvarā reject me. There are two words mā mā. What is it? [Is it our mama, mami it is not.] First mā refers to 'me', second mā refers to 'let not'. So, 'let not īśvarā reject me' or 'may not īśvara reject me'. [First mā is declinable. dakārāntaḥ, asmad śabdaḥ dvitīyā vibhaktiḥ eka vacanam. अहम् - अवाम् - वयम् - माम्/मा - अवाम्/नौ - अस्मान्/न: That mā is declinable. Second mā is in-declinable - avyayam.] Second mā = 'may not; let not'. Let not, what? Let not īśvarā reject. Whom? First mā. Me. "Grcitometric Grcitometric i is the meaning. 'Do not write me off as a lost-case'. So, mā mā brahma nirākarod. Since the student is very much particular about that, the student repeats that again. anirākaraņam astu, anirākaraņam me' astu. Let me not reject īśvarā and let not īśvarā reject me. Hence, anirākaraņam me' astu. So, there is prayer for ārogyam - health. There is prayer for šraddhā - faith. There is prayer for īśvara anugraḥ or kṛpā.

Then, the last prayer is tadātmani nirate ya upanisatsu dharmāste mayi santu te mayi santu. In the upanisad, many qualifications are mentioned for gaining this knowledge. dharmāh - means, what? Qualifications. So, in simple terms, sādhana catustava sampatti is mentioned. And, if you go to Bhagavad gîtā [ch-13], amānitvam, adambhitvam, ahimsā - 20 virtues are mentioned. In the 16th chapter, 26 virtues are mentioned. They are intimidating qualifications. "All this is possible?!" will be the doubt. Putting me off qualifications! And therefore, the student feels, 'I do not think I am ever going to qualify myself and gain the knowledge'. Thus, whenever we have diffidence, how do we get over it? ĩśvarā anugrah. Therefore, the student says, 'let all those upanisadic qualifications reside in me; or, arise in me'. amānitvam you have to pump. Like gas connection, water connection, you give the necessary connection and also you have to give regular supply. Not like corporation water; but, regularly. Until I get jñānam and jñāna nisthā and jñāna phalam. What all I require, all that you please supply. You should not charge. See the akramam! The only thing that I can offer is what? namaskāram. Even that is difficult, because of knee pain! Even the regular namaskāram is difficult. I will give you this namaskāram; you give me all the qualifications. What a beautiful prayer! Let all of them be in me. mayi. What type of me? An explanation. ātmani nirate mayi - in me, who am a mumukşu - a spiritual seeker. niratah means, committed. 'I am not a casual student coming for time-pass; but, I am a serious, committed student'. Of what? ātmani - in ātma or brahman. [ātmani is visayasaptamí). So, 'may all qualifications be there in me, who am committed to the pursuit of ātman or pursuit of brahman'. Thus, the fourth prayer is what? All the qualifications.

And, oṃ śāntiḥ śāntiḥ śāntiḥ. Repeated thrice to ward off obstacles at three levels. One is at the subject level, surrounding level, neighbours etc. Third one at the super-natural level. Let all the obstacles at least go away during vedānta śravaṇam. After that, let them come. But, at least during śravaṇam let me be free from all the obstacles. This is the śānti pāṭha of all the sāma veda upaniṣads. kenopaniṣad also has same śānti pāṭha. I have explained the śānti pāṭha when I taught kenopaniṣad, long before. It is like the last janmā! I do not know whether you remember or not; therefore, I deliberately repeated the meaning of the śānti pāṭha. With this background we will enter the text.

Now, you can take the 6th chapter [page number 410].

SIXTH CHAPTER

Sixth chapter – Section 1

श्वेतकेतुर्हारुणेय आस त ्हॅ पितोवाच श्वेतकेतो वस ब्रह्मचर्यं न वै सोम्यास्मत्कुलीनोऽननूच्य ब्रह्मबन्धुरिव भवतीति ॥

śvetaketurhāruņeya āsa ta ta pitovāca śvetaketo vasa brahmacaryam na vai somyāsmatkulīno ananūcya brahmabandhuriva bhavatīti || M-6.1.1

The sixth chapter is divided into sixteen sections. Each chapter is called an adhyāyaḥ and each section is called a khaṇḍaḥ and there are 16 small khaṇḍās or sections and each section is divided in to mantrās. adhyāyaḥ khaṇḍaḥ mantrā - Chapter, section, verse. This is the division. Now, we are entering into sixth chapter first khaṇḍa. This is the first mantrā. That is why they have given three numbers. 6.1.1, 6.1.2. First number is adhyāya, second one is khaṇḍa, third one is mantrā.

And here the first section happens to be the introductory section, where the student and teacher are introduced. Because, the upaniṣad is going to be in the form of guru śiṣya saṃvāda. As I said in the last class itself, most of the upaniṣads are in the form of saṃvāda; so that, 1. it will be easier to understand; and 2. the message is also given: "never study upaniṣad independently". Always learn from a guru only. When we study independently, if we do not understand, we are lucky. If we do not understand we are lucky. But, if you misunderstand, it is a great problem. Because, later, if a guru comes, guru will have a tough time to erase the misconception. Hence, if you do not understand it is okay. Misunderstanding will create the problem. Therefore, saṃvāda rupeṇa bodhanam.

And here, the śiṣya is going to be śvetaketuḥ. And the guru is his father uddālakaḥ. And śvetaketu is known by another name, āruņeyaḥ. uddālaka's father is aruņiḥ. śvetaketu is his son. uddālaka is father. aruņiḥ is grandfather and uddālaka being aruņi's son, uddālaka is called āruņiḥ. aruņiḥ's son is called āruņiḥ. And śvetaketu is aruņi's grandson, āruņiḥ's son. Therefore, he is called āruņeyaḥ. aruņi is grandfather, āruņiḥ is father, āruņeyaḥ is grandson. [You will not get mokṣa because of this! But since it is there, I am telling you.] śvetaketu is āruņeyaḥ. uddālaka is āruņiḥ and aruņi is his father. The saṃvāda is between śvetaketu and uddālaka. Not only they are guru and śiṣya, they happen to father and son also. The first section is bringing them together as guru and śiṣya together. Therefore, a story comes in the section. And what is the story?

The upaniṣad says, once upon a time [ஒரே ஒரு ஊருல, ஒரே ஒரு ராஜா - 'ore oru urula, ore ore raja', they sing], there was a boy by name śvetaketuḥ. And who was śvetaketu? āruṇeyaḥ. He was the grandson of the great Sage aruṇiḥ. What happened? He was standing or sitting near his father uddālaka, otherwise known as āruṇiḥ. And what did uddālaka do? He addressed his son. 'tam śvetaketum' - that śvetaketu. pitovāca - father addressed. [And here, the upaniṣad does not give the name of the father. It will come later. So, we can supply father uddālaka otherwise known as āruṇiḥ]. So, pitovaca.

[These words occur in kathopaniṣad also - yathā purastād bhavitā pratīta auddālakirāruņirmatprasṛṣṭaḥ | auddālaka āruņiḥ. There is some problem in the names. śańkarācāryā analyses that problem. Family problem He analyses. Anyway, I am not getting into that. You can read the bāṣyam there.]

Father uddālaka addressed him. What did he say? Hey, śvetaketo! vasa brahmacaryaṃ - Oh śvetaketu, may you go to gurukula and live a life of a brahmacārī; which means, learn the vedās. May you be a resident student. brahmacāryam vasa means, live the life of a brahmacārī in a gurukula. And why am I sending you? He gives the reason also. 'If you do not study the vedās, you cannot claim yourself to be a brāhmaṇā. If you do not study the vedās, you do not even deserve the title "brāhmaṇā". You will only get the name, "brahma bandhuħ". brahma bandhu means, a psuedo brāhmaṇā. psuedo brāhmaṇā means, jāthi brāhmaṇā, one who is born to a brāhmaṇa father. That is the only qualification. He says, 'my grandfather has studied the vedās". From that what do you understand? When he says, 'my grandfather has studied', that means, 'I have not'!

Here, uddālaka says, 'hey somya - oh dear one - asmatkulīno - being born in our great family. asmatkulīnaḥ means, what? Being born in our great family of vedic scholars, ananūcya - how can you remain without vedic study? anūcya means, veda adhyayanam kṛtvā. ananūcya means, veda adhyayanam akṛtvā. anūcya is derived from the root, 'anuvac' - to study the vedā. And, ananūcya means, without studying the vedā. brahmabandhuriva bhavatīti - you will be only psuedo brāhmaņā. nām ke vāste brāhmaņā! [using the sacred thread for scratching the back or for hanging the key. We use it only for these two! For hanging the key or scratching the back! We are renouncing that thread also! It seems, the problem was there then also!] uddālaka is worried about śvetaketu. brahmabandhuriva bhavati - like a psudeo brāhmaņā, how long you want to remain? It is time; because, you are already 12 years old. In the 7th year he should have gone. Already late. Better you go to gurukula now. What did śvetaketu do? He was a boy of the olden days. Now-a-days they will say, 'you do not have any work, you go'. śvetaketu being an obedient son, he listens to his father's advice and goes to gurukula. Look at the following mantrā - saha dvādašavarsa upetya. dvādašavarsah means what? At the age of 12. upetya - he went to a gurukulam. And caturvai sativarsah - up to the 24th year. How many years? 12 years. So, from the 12th year up to the 24th year, he studied the vedās. sarvānvedānadhītya - that means what? 12 years over now. Okay. In one minute, 12 years are gone. He has gone there. Studied for 12 years. And he has returned from the gurukulam. And how does he return? Like, the modern teenagers only! mahāmanāh - with a great intellect, great learning. With an informed mind. As a vedic scholar he returned. But, what was the problem? Along with the scholarship, arrogance also had got into him. anūcānamānī. In vedāntā, what did it say? mānitvam it says. Now, he is full of māntvam. anūcānah means, vedic scholar; and anūcānamānī means, the one who looks upon himself as a great vedic scholar. aham anūcānah iti mānī - anūcānamānī. And therefore only, stabdhah with his chest up and head up, thinking that he need not prostrate anyone hereafter. In fact he deserves prostration from all others! With a puffed up head. stabdhah means, what? Without humility. "vidyā vinaya sampanne", it is said. Learning must make one more and more humble. But, this boy became arrogant. stabdha iyāya. iyāya means, approached. [ʒ dhātu. parāsmaipadi lit prathama purusah eka vacanam. इयाय ईयतु: ईयु: - iyāya ĩyatuh ĩyuh' iti rupāņi. 'a' is the prefix. Therefore, it becomes iyāya. It is the verbal form. Approached. Came to].

सह द्वादशवर्ष उपेत्य चतुर्वि ्शतिवर्षः सर्वान्वेदानधीत्य महामना अनूचानमानी स्तब्ध एयाय त ्हॅ पितोवाच ॥ saha dvādaśavarṣa upetya caturvai ् śativarṣaḥ sarvānvedānadhītya mahāmanā anūcāna- mānī stabdha iyāya ta ्ॅha pitovāca ॥ M-6.1.2

śvetaketu came to his father, approached him. And the father has to give him a kuttu; because, his head is up. Therefore, he wanted to puncture the balloon, so that his head will get depleted. So, ta ha pitovāca - the father addressed the arrogant boy. Of course, the son has got the scholarship. It is a legitimate thing. There is some meaning. ta ha pitovāca and what did his father say ?

श्वेतकेतो यन्नु सोम्येदं महामना अनूचानमानी स्तब्धोऽस्युत तमादेशमप्राक्ष्यः येनाश्रुत ँश्रुतं भवत्यमतं मतमविज्ञातं विज्ञातमिति कथं नु भगवः स आदेशो भवतीति ॥

śvetaketo yannu somyedaṃ mahāmanā anūcānamānī stabdho'syuta tamādeśamaprākṣyaḥ yenāśruta šrutaṃ bhavatyamataṃ matamavijñātaṃ vijñātamiti kathaṃ nu bhagavaḥ sa ādeśo bhavatīti || M-6.1.3

Hey śvetaketo, yannu somyedam mahāmanā anūcānamānī - you appear to be mahāmanā - a learned boy, a vedic scholar. And, anūcānamānī - you look upon yourself as a great scholar. stabdhaḥ asi - you are arrogant also. Have you asked for the following teachings? Have you learnt the following subject matter from your guru? What is that subject matter? brahma vidyā. That is going to be the subject matter. He is going to ask about brahma vidyā. Have you gained that spiritual knowledge? To use the muṇḍaka upaniṣad expression, 'did you gain the parā vidyā?'

And then only he will discover that he has got all the knowledge, except the main thing - which makes the difference. And therefore the father asks, tamādeśam. ādeśam refers to that brahma vidyā. The spiritual wisdom. aprākṣyaḥ - did you seek from your guru? DID YOU SEEK THE SPIRITUAL KNOWLEDGE FROM YOUR GURU. [aprākṣyaḥ is पृच्छ (pṛccha) dhātu.

parāsmaipadi लुङ् (lung) madhyama puruṣaḥ eka vacanam]. Did you ask?

And naturally, the son śvetaketu is overwhelmed or stunned. He thought, he knew everything. Now, there seems to be something which he has not learnt! Therefore, he raises eye brows.

And the father is going to define / explain that wisdom. What is that wisdom the father is meaning. What is that? He is going to tell that in the next mantrā which is, eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam.

Those details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते ॥ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

3. Chapter 6.1.3 to 6.1.6

श्वेतकेतुर्हारुणेय आस त्ँह पितोवाच श्वेतकेतो वस ब्रहमचर्यं न वै सोम्यास्मत्कुलीनोऽननुच्य ब्रहमबन्ध्रिव भवतीति ॥

śvetaketurhāruņeya āsa ta ha pitovāca śvetaketo vasa brahmacaryam na vai somyāsmat-

kulīno ananūcya brahmabandhuriva bhavatīti || M-6.1.1

स ह द्वादशवर्ष उपेत्य चतुर्वि्ंशतिवर्षः सर्वान्वेदानधीत्य महामना अनूचानमानी स्तब्ध एयाय त्ँह पितोवाच ॥

sa ha dvādašavarsa upetya caturvai vátivarsah sarvānvedānadhītya mahāmanā anūcāna-mānī stabdha eyāya tavha pitovāca II M-6.1.2

श्वेतकेतो यन्नु सोम्येदं महामना अनूचानमानी स्तब्धोऽस्युत तमादेशमप्राक्ष्यः

śvetaketo yannu somyedaṃ mahāmanā anūcānamānī stabdho'syuta tamādeśamaprākṣyaḥ

The 6th chapter of chāndogya begins with a story through which the upaniṣad introduces the guru and the śiṣya, so that the teaching can be given in the form of guru śiṣya saṃvāda. And here the guru happens to be his father himself. And the father uddālaka āruņiț, [the name is not given here; we have to supply]. The father uddālaka āruņi ṛṣi addressed his son śvetaketuḥ āruņeyaḥ. And he said, "you have to study the vedās by going to gurukulam; otherwise, you cannot have the title brāhmaṇaḥ. Without vedic study, you can only have the title 'psuedo brāhmaṇaḥ', which in Sanskrit is called brahma bandhuḥ. brahma means, brāhmaṇāḥ, bandhuḥ means, relation. So, brahma bandhu means, a person whose relatives are brāhmaṇaṣ. Means what? Himself does not deserve to be a brāhmaṇā. Therefore, brahma bandhuḥ means, a 'psuedo brāhmin. brahma bandhuḥ bandavaḥ yasya saḥ. And uddālaka told śvetaketu to avoid this particular unfortunate status. 'Better you join the gurukulam, even though it is late now'. [Because, father is addressing the son at the age of 12. He must have joined the gurukulam at the age of 7, 8 or 9.] Therefore, at least now, you go.

And śvetaketu joins at the age of dvādaśavarṣaḥ. dvādaśavarṣaḥ is the name of śvetaketu. dvādaśa varṣāṇi yasya saḥ dvādaśavarṣaḥ. śvetaketu of 12 years went to the gurukulam. And he came back as śvetaketu of 24 years. Therefore, caturvai šativarṣaḥ - caturvimśati varṣaḥ [it is also bahuvrĩhi samāsa]. caturvimśati varṣāṇi yasya saḥ caturvimśati varṣaḥ. As a boy or young man of 24 years. And youth is there, his education is there. Naturally, garva, arrogance comes. As śańkarācāryā says, "mā kuru dhana jana yauvana garvam harati nimeṣātkālaḥ sarvam I" But even though he was arrogant, there was some meaning to the arrogance; because, it was not an empty arrogance. He had learnt a lot. mahāmanā - well informed; and anūcānamānī - not only he himself was informed, he was capable of bringing the teaching out. He can teach also. anuvacana samarthaḥ. anūcānaḥ means, what? anuvacana samarthaḥ - capable of sharing or communicating. Therefore, he claimed, "I am educated, informed and capable of communication". In muṇḍaka upaniṣad language, He is a śrotriaḥ. Because of that, unfortunately, stabdha, he became. stabdha means, proud and arrogant. Therefore, the father addressed him and asked the question, "you have a learnt a lot of things. Have you acquired the following wisdom from the guru?"

So, yannu somyedaṃ mahāmanā anūcānamānī stabdho'si - indeed, oh son! you are learned and arrogant also. I would like to ask you a question. What is that? tamādeśamaprākṣyaḥ uta - did you ask for that teaching? What is that teaching? He will tell that only in the next mantrā. And that teaching is going to be brahma vidyā, parā vidyā. Without telling that he is communicating. Did you ask for that important teaching, significant teaching, did you ask from your guru?

The word uta makes it a question mark? In Sanskrit, if you write a sentence and if you add uta is will become a question. So 'annam khāditavān', if you say, it means, 'you have eaten food'. 'uta annam khāditavān', if you say, that will become a question. Have you eaten food? Similarly, uta tamādeśam. ādeśaḥ means, upadeśaḥ. upadeśaḥ means, vidyā. aprākṣyaḥ means, 'did you ask for' from your teacher. Did you seek that particular knowledge. aprākṣyaḥ is verb. tam ādeśam aprākṣyaḥ. How to split it? tam ādeśam aprākṣyaḥ. aprākṣyaḥ is pṛcch [dhātu] - 'to ask' [prasmaipadi lung madhyama puruṣaḥ eka vacanam]. Did you ask for that knowledge?

Naturally, the son śvetaketu does not know what the father is intending. Therefore, he must have raised the eyebrows. Because, His conclusion is what? There is nothing left for me to learn. What is there which I do not know? He must be pretending to be a sarvajñaḥ. As Dayānanda Swāmĩjĩ says, a person who claims to be omniscience may not know its spelling! That itself is problem. Is it scient, taent or add all? From that itself the problem starts. But, we think, we know everything. Therefore, śvetaketu raised his eyebrows. And therefore, the father explains 'that teaching'. And what is that teaching that is given in mantrā number 3. We will read –

येनाश्रुत स्थुतं भवत्यमतं मतमविज्ञातं विज्ञातमिति कथं नु भगवः स आदेशो भवतीति ॥

yenāśruta šrutam bhavatyamatam matamavijñātam vijñātamiti katham nu bhagavaḥ sa ādeśo bhavatīti 🛛 M-6.1.3

Now, the father, uddālaka āruņi explains. yena - the teaching that I am referring to is a very, very unique teaching or knowledge. And what is the uniqueness? By gaining this knowledge, one will know everything. So yena. yena means, by that knowledge. āśruta šrutam bhavati - everything that has not been heard or listened will become heard. Everything unheard, becomes heard. That means, everything becomes known. āśrutam śrutam bhavati. amatam matam bhavati. matam means, what? Un-experienced, everything un-experienced, becomes experienced. man here means, to experience. And, avijñātam vijñātam bhavati. Everything unknown, becomes known. To put in simple language, eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam bhavati. By that one knowledge, everything will become known. That means, by that one knowledge all the intellectual curiosities will be settled.

Every thinking intellect has got three fold curiosity. One is centered on oneself. jĩva centered curiosity. When did we start our life? Where did we begin? Why are we born? How long we will continue? What is the purpose of life? [In every question answer session, this question will be there. What is that? 'What is the purpose of life?' And the question comes from a 90 year old person! Without knowing the purpose of life, he has lived for 90 years!] Therefore, JĨVA CENTERED QUESTIONS. When did we start? Where did we start? Where are we going?

Then, we have got intellectual curiosities, centered on the world. And what is that? Why did bhagavān create the world? Why could not he have kept quiet? Why did bhagavān create the world? What is the purpose of this CREATION? If bhagavān is a compassionate bhagavān, why did bhagavān include sufferings in this CREATION? He could have made it wonderful, without suffering, without at least mosquito, minimum! Why did he include suffering in the world, if he is karuņānidiḥ. Okay. You cannot say He is a selfless GOD; because, you say, he is omnipotent also. If bhagavān is omnipotent, he can do everything; and he is embodiment of compassion also. Omnipotent and compassion if they join together, what CREATION should have created a happy, happy universe. But, daily in the newspaper I read what? Sufferings. Why? This is the second intellectual curiosity which turns many people nāstikās. Every large scale suffering in the world, like tsunami, turns many people nāstikās. So, what is the second curiosity? WORLD CENTERED CURIOSITY.

What is the third curiosity? GOD-CENTERED CURIOSITY. Is there such an omniscient, omnipotent GOD at all? And how is He able to remain śāntākāram, seeing all akaramams in the world? Thus, jīva jagat īśvara - with regard to all these three, every thinking intellect has got fundamental questions.

Is there one knowledge which will, in one stroke, remove all the curiosities centered on these three topics? Is such a thing even possible? There is some such knowledge which will answer all the questions. "bhidyate hṛdaya granthiḥ chidyante sarva saṃśayāḥ" That is what he says here.

Such a knowledge did you ask for from your teacher? iti. These are the words of the father uddālaka. That is pitovāca [in previous mantrā]. After pitovāca, inverted comma starts. From Hey śvetaketo onwards are the words of the father. They end with avijñātaṃ vijñātam. iti. Up to that is father's dialogue.

What is the student, that is, śvetaketu's reply? He is already arrogant and therefore his argument is, "I did not ask". He should have said, "I never have thought of that knowledge", he must have humbly said. On the other hand, with arrogance, he counter questions, "how is such a knowledge possible?" Therefore he says, "kathaṃ nu bhagavaḥ sa ādeśo bhavati?" We have to supply, śvetaketuḥ uvāca. śvetaketu said, "hey bhagavaḥ", [he says the word nicely]. "Oh Lord, kathaṃ sa ādeśaḥ bhavati?" - how is such a teaching possible? How is eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam possible? jīva jagat īśvara vijñānam katham eśa vijñānena bhavati? iti śvetaketuḥ uvāca. Then what did the father say? That comes in the next mantrā. We will read –

यथा सोम्न्यैकेन मृत्पिण्डेन सर्वं मृन्मयं विज्ञात्ँ स्याद्वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं मृत्तिकेत्येव सत्यम् ॥ yathā somyaikena mṛtpiṇḍena sarvaṃ mṛnmayaṃ vijñāta ूँ syād vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ mṛttiketyeva satyam ॥ M-6.1.4

Now, the father explains. uddālaka āruņi says, "such knowledge is possible." And what is that? He gives three examples to convey the possibility of that knowledge. And what is that? He says, when you get the knowledge of the cause of everything then, by the knowledge of the kāraņam, the cause, all the products will be known. So eka kāraņa vijñānena sarva kārya vijñānam bhavati.

How is it possible? Because, we see that one kāraņam alone, material cause alone, appears as manifold products, with different names & forms. One material cause alone, appears as manifold products, with different names & forms. Thus, gold alone - with different forms & different names, appears as different products or ornaments. And when you study all the ornaments, you will discover an interesting fact. That the ornaments exist only verbally. Ornaments exist only nominally or verbally, there are no substances called ornaments. And, what is the only substance? Gold is the only substance. Thus, when a person gains the knowledge of eka suvarnam, one gold, he has gained the knowledge of all the ornaments. Because, ornaments do not exist separate from gold.

Extending this principle, suppose we trace the one singular cause of the whole cosmos, [because gold is the cause of only ornaments, wood is the cause of only furniture] imagine we are able to trace the one mũla kāraṇam of the entire cosmos! In cosmos, not only the inert materials, as well as living beings, carācara prapañca; and, let us assume that single mũla kāraṇam is brahman. [Let us keep it that way. We can see what it is, later]. Suppose, we are able to trace that eka mũla kāraṇam called brahman, then what will be fact? There will be only one substance in the CREATION! And what is that substance or stuff? brahman will be the only stuff in the CREATION. Everything else will be what? The products of brahman. And what are the products? ALL PRODUCTS ARE NOTHING BUT NAMES & FORMS. AND THEY DO NOT EXIST SEPARATE FROM THAT ONE BRAHMAN.

Therefore, what is this mike? brahman + name and form, which is non-substantial. Similarly, what is wall? brahman + nāma rũpa. Who is indrā? brahman + nāma rũpa. What is ākāśa? brahman + nāma rũpa. What is time? brahman + nāma rũpa. Thus, there is only one substance and you need not know anything else; because, everything else is what? brahman only, with different veśam. Therefore, there exists a knowledge by which jĩva can be known, jagat can be known, ĩśvara also can be known. And that is revealed by vedāntā. So, jĩva = brahman + nāma rũpa-1. ĩśvara = brahman + nāma rũpa-2. jagat, world = brahman + nāma rũpa-3. jĩva is also nāma rũpa with brahman substance. ĩśvara is also nāma rũpa, with the same brahman substance; and the inert world also is nāma rũpa, with the same brahman. Therefore, brahma vijñānena jĩva jagat ĩśvara sarva vijĩñānam bhavati.

Guru gives three example to convey this idea. So yathā somya. yathā means, the following are the examples. Hey, somya. somya means, oh! pleasing one. When you see arrogance you will get angry only; but, being his father what should he do? He should tolerate his child! Therefore he says, Oh, somya - the pleasing one! [Really, the irritating one! But any way] He says, oh, somya - pleasing child, ekena mṛtpiṇḍena. Here, the word mṛtpiṇḍa literally means, lump of clay. And in this context you have to take a different meaning. mṛtpiṇḍa here means, mṛtpiṇḍa vijñānena. So, by that one knowledge of clay. ekena mṛtpiṇḍena = ekena mṛtpiṇḍa vijñānena. Through that one clay knowledge, what will happen? sarvaṃ mṛnmayaṃ means, mṛt kāryam or all the earthen products; like, what? jug, plate, cup and all those clay products, mṛt kāryam, mṛnmayaṃ. vijñāta šyād. Why? Because, jug is not a separate substance. Jug is what? Clay only! Then why do you give it a new name? The new name does not reveal a new substance. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT. A NEW NAME DOES NOT REVEAL A NEW SUBSTANCE. What is our thinking? How many ever names are there, that many substances are there! That is our thinking. We think, the CREATION has got as many SUBSTANCES as the number of words are. vedāntā says, 'G&LuiGu G&Luirgj' [Not at all there]. It is just A NEW NAME IS GIVEN TO WHAT? NOT TO A NEW SUBSTANCE; BUT TO A NEW FORM, BELONGING TO THE OLD SUBSTANCE. And a bowl is what? A new name, revealing not a new substance; but, revealing a new form belong to the old substance. Similarly, ākāśā is NOT A NEW THING CREATED. ākāśā is just a NEW NAME GIVEN TO THE OLD SUBSTANCE. Old substance is what? brahman. vāyu is the name for whom? Not a new substance. It is a new name given to the good old substance. What is that? brahman. If I say, 'a new baby is born', remember, the baby is not a new substance born. But, it is a new name given to what? brahman.

In bṛhadāraṇyaka upaniṣad, when the nāma karaṇam is to be done, nāma karaṇa ritual is there. First, the father says, 'your name is brahman'. vedosi. vedah means, brahman. Oh child, you are brahman. And then later says, "sadasya sad guhyam eva nāma bhavati". 'That is your secret name'. Both son and father forget that! Father also forgets. Father said when he was a baby. Kulicchāchu they say. All forgotten! And I am going to give you a new name. "You are brahman only. But, I am giving a new name for the convenience of transaction". Otherwise, what will happen? If all the four children are given the name 'brahman', and if you call "brahman", all four will come! Therefore, remember, what is is brahman alone. Nothing is created. Nothing is destroyed. Exactly like what? Jug, plate, bowl, pot etc- THEY ARE ALL ADDITION OF NOT NEW MATERIALS; BUT ONLY ADDITION OF NEW, NEW NAMES. Therefore, mṛnmayaṃ - all the earthenware; vijñātaṃ syād - all of them are known if only you know the kāraṇam - clay.

And what is the reasoning? VĀCĀRAMBHAŅAM VIKĀRO NĀMADHEYAM - A VERY, VERY, VERY, VERY - I CAN GO ON TILL 7 P.M! THAT MUCH IMPORTANT MANTRĀ. VĀCĀRAMBHAŅAM VIKĀRO NĀMADHEYAM. FOR ŚAŃKARĀCĀRYĀ, THIS IS THE MOST IMPORTANT STATEMENT TO ESTABLISH MITHYĀTVAM OF THE UNIVERSE. In brahma sũtrā, an exclusive adhikaraṇam is dedicated to the analysis of this. It is called "ārambhana adhikaraṇam". The topic name is ārambhana adhikaraṇam. śańkarācāryā writes a very brilliant bāṣyam on this. Therefore, it is very important.

What does the statement say? ANY PRODUCT IS NOT A SUBSTANCE. This is the statement. Any product is not a substance. That means, what? No substance is produced by anyone, including GOD. 2 important statements. 1. Any product is not a substance. 2. No substance is ever produced.

Then what is a product? A product is nothing but, a name. So, vikāraḥ. vikāraḥ means, product. Very careful. vikāraḥ in this context should be translated as product, kāryam iti arthaḥ. Normally, in tattvabodha, when we talk about ṣaḍ vikāra - asti, jãyate, vardhate, vipariṇamate, apakṣĩyate, vinaśyati, there we translate the word vikāraḥ as modification. In this mantrā context, vikāra should be translated as product or kāryam. And what is any product in the CREATION? NĀMADHEYA௸ - it is nothing but a name. So, what is "world"? Remove the letter L. When you remove the 'I', you get "word". So, what is world? The seemingly tangible, solid, substantial world, does not exist; it is nothing but what? A word! And if the world does not exist, what exists?

"brahmārpaņam brahma havirbrahmāgnau brahmaņā hutam" - [if we say this you will feel hungry! We use brahmārpaņam for eating. vedāntā we will forget!] "brahmaiva tad amrtam purastāt brahma paścāt brahma dakṣiṇataḥ, brahma uttareṇa". What is is brahman? "World" is a "word" only! And, you are trapped in your own world. Because, WORLD SEEN AS BRAHMAN IS ĀNANDA SVARŨPAḤ; WHEREAS, WORLD SEEN AS WORLD IS FULL OF PROBLEMS. World seen as world will consistently produce problems. See it from tomorrow. Why tomorrow, from today itself you can see. When you get up itself, you get knee-joint pain! So, WORLD SEEN AS WORLD IS PROBLEM. WORLD SEEN AS BRAHMAN IS ĀNANDA SVARŨPAḤ. How you want to see it, you decide.

Therefore, he says, vikāraḥ nāmadheyaṃ. Any product is just a word. What is a word? For that, an adjective is given. vācārambhaṇaṃ. vācārambhaṇaṃ. śańkarācāryā comments this as vācaḥ ālambhanam. vācā is tritīyā vibhakti; He converts that into ṣasṭhī vibhakti - vācaḥ. ārambhaṇaṃ He translates as ālambhanam. Therefore, vācārambhaṇaṃ = vācaḥ ālambhanam. ālambhanam means, an object. Therefore, vācaḥ ālambhanam means, a word; which is nothing but, an object of the your organ of speech. A word; which is nothing but, the object. ālambhanam means, viṣayaḥ, an object of your of speech. That means, world is a word. And word exists where? On your tongue only. There is no world outside. So, where is world? Sticking only in your tongue. World is in the form of a simple sound produced.

Remember my example. When you say, 'there is a desk in front which is supporting the solid book'. [Chāndogya is really a very solid book]. "The solid book is supported by the solid desk", when you say, vedāntā says, there is no such substance called desk. Desk exists only on your tongue. What you are seeing is not the desk. What you are touching is what? Not the desk. You are touching the wood alone. Therefore, the tangibility belongs to what? Not the desk. Tangibility belongs to the wood, solidity belongs to the wood, substantiality belongs to the wood. Weight belongs to the wood, what is the weight of nāma rũpa? How many grams it is? There is not even .0000001 milligram of desk. Not there. There is only wood. Do extend that. What is there is only brahman! World does not exist separate from brahman. And therefore,

World is called asatyam. Whatever exists only nominally; 'nominally' means, what? That which exists only at the verbal level, is called, asatyam. Whatever is non-substantial is asatyam; otherwise called, mithyā.

Then, the next question is, if the whole world is asatyam, [in the example, if all the earthenware are asatyam], then, what is satyam? He is saying, mṛttiketyeva satyam = clay alone is tangible. Substantial. To put in general language, kāraṇam satyam; kāryam mithyā. mṛtt satyam; kāraṇatvāt, brahmavat. and ghaṭaḥ mithyā; kāryatvāt, rajjusarpavat. That is the argument. Here, mṛttikety eva satyam [mṛttikety = mṛttikā iti] is there. Why the word 'iti'? It is to show that,"in the example" clay is satyam. Okay. So, after the class do not say, "in the entire universe there is only one satyam!" What is that? clay! Remember, here it is within inverted commas.

In the example of 'clay and earthenware', we say clay is reality. "After chāndogyam study I have understood, 'mṛttikā satyam''', do not say. brahman alone is satyam. Here, in the limited context, mṛttikā is satyam. It is a contextual reality. This is example one. Then comes the second example.

यथा सोम्यैकेन लोहमणिना सर्वं लोहमयं विज्ञात ्स्याद् वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं लोहमित्येव सत्यम् ॥

yathā somyaikena lohamaņinā sarvam lohamayam vijnāta vācārambhaņam vikāro nāmadheyam lohamityeva satyam II M-6.1.5

Now comes the second example. aikena lohamaṇinā. Here, the word lohamaṇiḥ means, a lump of gold. The word lohaḥ means, any metal; and the word lohaḥ can mean gold also. In this context, we will take it as gold. loha - which is different from loka. loka means, the world. In Tamil, loka will be pronounced as loha. We have a name 'lokanāthan'. It is the name of the LORD of the universe. In Tamil - ha & ka is a problem. They call him lohanāthan, they spell it as loha. lohanātha means, lord of metals! That meaning it is not. lohaḥ means, lump of gold.

Here also, you have to translate it as loha maṇi vijñānena - by one gold knowledge, sarvaṃ lohamayaṃ vijñāta vijñāta vijñātamayaḥ means, what? loha kāryāṇi. maya is a suffix in Sanskrit language. It conveys the meaning of 'product'. Therefore, lohamaya = all the golden products, ornaments. vijñātamsyād -because there are no ornaments in the world. You might become afraid! Swāmĩjĩ, we are wearing so many ornaments! Remember, there are no ornaments at all. Then what are ornaments? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāraḥ. It is nothing but a word, hanging on to your tongue. Māńgā mālai, theńgā mālai - they say! They are all only in the tongue. Then, what is the substance? lohamityeva satyam - gold alone is the only substance. Here too, "iti" is important. Contextually, Gold is real. Ornaments are what? asatyam or mithyā. Then comes the third example.

यथा सोम्यिकेन नखनिकृन्तनेन सर्वं कार्ष्णायसं विज्ञात्ँस्याद् वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं कृष्णायसमित्येव सत्यमेव्ँसोम्य स आदेशो भवतीति ॥

yathā somyaikena nakhanikrntanena sarvam kārṣṇāyasam vijñāta šyād vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ kṛṣṇāyasamityeva satyameva šomya sa ādeśo bhavatīti || M-6.1.6

Clay example is over. Gold example is over. Now, iron example is given. aikena nakhanikṛntanena. nakhanikṛntanenam itself means, a nail cutter. nikṛnt means, to cut. nikṛntanam means, a cutting instrument. Cutting what? nakha. nikṛntanam - a nail cutter is the literal translation. In this context, we should translate it as iron. Contextual meaning. Because, the nail cutters are made out of iron. Therefore, nakha nikṛntanam = iron. What is the Sanskrit word for that? The upaniṣad itself gives in the third line. kṛṣṇāyasam. kṛṣṇāyasam means, black iron. ayatam means, iron. [akārāntaḥ napuṃsakalińgaḥ ayata śabdaḥ. There is a word ayaḥ also. That also means iron. That word is sakārāntaḥ napuṃsakalińgaḥ]. And kṛṣṇa here means, what? Not LORD KŖṣŅĀ. Here, kṛṣṇa means, black iron. And also, you should add vijñānena.

Therefore, nakhanikṛntanena means, kṛṣṇāyasa vijñānena - by one iron knowledge, by one iron knowledge what will you get? sarvaṃ kārṣṇāyataṃ vijñāta šyād. kārṣṇāyataṃ means, iron products. kṛṣṇāyata kāryāṇi, kārṣṇāyataṃ. Do you understand? kṛṣṇāyatam is iron. kārṣṇāyataṃ is, iron products. Like, nail cutter and all other things. And all of them vijñāta šyād - will be known. Why? Because, they is no single iron product. Nail cutter does not exist. Your [iron] window and all of them do not exist at all. Then what are we seeing? You are not seeing the window. You are not touching window. You are touching only iron. Then, what is window? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. Window exists only on your tongue. There is no [iron] window outside [your tongue]. So, vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. What is satyam? kṛṣṇāyatamityeva satyam.

AND THEREFORE, WHAT IS THE PRINCIPAL TEACHING HERE? EKA KĀRAŅA VIJÑĀNENA, SARVA KĀRYA VIJÑĀNAM BHAVATI. By knowing that one cause, all the products are known. In vedāntā, the mũla kāraņam is brahman. Therefore, brahma vijñānena, sarva vijñānam bhavati. This is what the question was in muṇḍaka upaniṣad also. "kasminnu bhagavo vijñāte sarvamidaṃ vijñātaṃ bhavatī?" That muṇḍaka idea is given here.

After giving these three examples, the father cum teacher, [what is his name? uddālaka āruņiḥ, the father cum teacher] says, "hey somya", oh dear child, pleasing one, evagm - in this manner, as said above. sa ādeśo bhavatīti - such a teaching is possible, such a teaching exists. And what is that?

"kāraņa vijñānena, kārya vijñānam". By knowing one product, you cannot know the other products. Because, products themselves are different. And therefore, you should say, 'BY KNOWING THE ONE CAUSE BEHIND ALL PRODUCTS, YOU CAN KNOW EVERY PRODUCT'.

The problem with modern science is what? Till now they have not arrived at that one single cause. They do not know it. They have reduced the world into 110 or 120 elements. Then, those elements into molecules. Molecules into atoms; into sub atomic particles. They have come to few forms of energy. The whole world is reduced in to energy. They divide the energy into 4 or 5. gravitational energy, electro-magnetic force, weak nuclear energy, strong nuclear energy, they have come to four or five. Now, they have to further study the five-fold energy; and try to come to that one basic energy. That they have to find. Before that, we will all get videha mukti!

vedāntā has arrived at that. And vedāntā says, THE ULTIMATE CAUSE IS NOT MATTER AT ALL. When you go to the ultimate cause, it is not matter. It is not materials. It is not even energy; because, even energy is a form of matter. Then, what is the ultimate cause? The CONSCIOUSNESS principle is the ultimate cause. Where is it? अह?! [Oh, uninformed one]. "THAT IS YOU!" So, that you, the aware-full being is the crux of the universe! ऐतदात्म्यमिद ्सर्व तत्सत्य ्स आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति - "aitadātmyam idagm sarvam sa ātmā 'tat tvam asi', śvetaketo". Those details we see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

4. Chapter 6.1.6 & 6.1.7 and 6.2.1

यथा सोम्यिकेन नखनिकृन्तनेन सर्वं कार्ष्णायसं विज्ञात[्]स्याद् वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं कृष्णायसमित्येव सत्यमेव्ँसोम्य स आदेशो भवतीति ॥

yathā somyaikena nakhanikrntanena sarvam kārṣṇāyasam vijñāta šyād vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ krṣṇāyasamityeva satyameva šomya sa ādeśo bhavatīti II M-6.1.6.

We are seeing the first section of chāndogya sixth chapter in which the upaniṣad is introducing the guru and śiṣya. And the actual teaching will begin from the second section only. In this first section, we are getting a story in which a brahmacāri by name śvetaketu has taken gurukula vāsa for 12 years and he has come back to his house. And his father uddālaka hāruņi is having a dialogue with his son śvetaketu. And seeing the arrogance of the son, the father asked the question, "you seem to have known everything. You are arrogant as though you are an omniscient one. DID YOU GAIN THAT KNOWLEDGE FROM YOUR GURU WHICH IS A UNIQUE KNOWLEDGE BY WHICH EVERYTHING IN THE CREATION CAN BE KNOWN?"

Naturally, the son is wonderstruck, "how is it possible?!" Normally, when we gain one particular knowledge, we do not get the knowledge of other things. When I study physics, I have only physics knowledge. I do not have the knowledge of economics or architecture. Therefore, normally, when I gain one knowledge, I do not automatically get other knowledge. If that were true, in college, I would have to take only one subject! How nice it would be! But, I am forced to study each science separately, proving that, the study of one will give the knowledge of only that one, and not others. BUT, TO HIS UTTER SURPRISE, HIS FATHER IS INTRODUCING A NEW TYPE OF KNOWLEDGE, WHICH HE CLAIMS, WILL GIVE THE KNOWLEDGE OF EVERYTHING IN THE CREATION!

Therefore, the son, śvetaketu asked, "kathaṃ nu bhagavaḥ sa ādeśo bhavatīti". How can such a teaching ever exist? Then, the father is explaining the possibility of such knowledge, by giving three examples and the principle conveyed is, "eka kāraṇa vijñānena sarva kāryam vijñānam bhavati". How does it happen? Because, all the kāryams or products, do not exist separate from one kāraṇam. And, therefore, kāraṇa jñānam is kāraṇa abhinna sarva kārya jñānam. Do you understand the Sanskrit? eka kāraṇa jñānam is kāraṇa abhinna sarva kārya jñānam. THE KNOWLEDGE OF ALL PRODUCTS IS NON-DIFFERENT FROM KĀRAŅAM.

And, how do you say that, "kāryams are non-different from kāraṇam?" For that, the father said, "because kāraṇam is the only one substance which appears as manifold products, by merely taking different nāma and rũpa. nāma and rũpa are not "new substances". They are not new and separate substances; but, they are only dependent on the only substance, called kāraņam. And he gave three examples. How the ornaments are non-different from gold. How the iron products are non-different from the iron. And how the earthenware are non-different from the clay. Thus, the father uddālaka hāruņi concludes, eva somya - evagm somya, in this manner, sa ādeśo bhavatīti - such a teaching is possible.

In the case of gold, gold is the cause of only a limited set of ornaments. Wood is the cause of a limited number of furniture. But, when you go to the mũla kāraṇam, the ultimate primal cause, by knowing that one ultimate cause, everything in the CREATION is known; because, we know that matter is never created or destroyed. There is only one substance appearing as the manifold universe, with different nāmās and rũpās. Therefore, eka jagat kāraṇa vijñānena sarvam jagat kāryam jñātam bhavati. OMNISCIENCE IS POSSIBLE IN THIS MANNER. Hey somya, evaģm - in this manner, sa ādeśo bhavati - SUCH A UNIQUE TEACHING CAN HAPPILY EXIST.

When this much was said the son's arrogance comes out further. After this at least, he should have shown humility. Instead, further arrogance he shows, by declaring that 'my guru did not know this!' How does śvetaketu know this? 'He has not taught me'. The very fact that he has not taught me indicates, he himself does not know! This is what son's reply is. That we will see in the next mantrā.

न वै नूनं भगवन्तस्त एतदवेदिषुर्यद्ध्येतदवेदिष्यन्कथं मे नावक्ष्यन्निति भगवा्ँस्त्वेव मे तद्ब्रवीत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

na vai nūnam bhagavantasta etad avedisuryaddhyetadavedisyankatham me nāvaksyanniti bhagavā (stveva me tadbravītviti tathā somyeti hovāca || 6.1.7

The son śvetaketu mentions here, "te bhagavantaḥ nūnaṃ na avediṣuḥ". te bhagavantaḥ - he uses the word bhagavantaḥ - those great masters, lordships, those respectable gurus, nūnaṃ na avediṣuḥ - definitely did not possess this knowledge, that you, my father, are talking about. bhagavantasta is there, because of sandhi rule it has been written like that. If you split it will be bhagavantaḥ te yetat. te is adjective to bhagavantaḥ. te bhagavantaḥ means, those teachers. Here, the plural number is also out of respect. He does not mean the teachers. One ācāryā alone he refers to. My ācāryā definitely did not know this. He is using the word definitely. nūnaṃ avediṣuḥ. How does śvetaketu know? That is because of arrogance. He gives a logic for why he has made such an inference. He says, 'etad na avediṣuḥ'. na should be connected with avediṣuḥ. avediṣuḥ means, "to know". na avediṣuḥ means, 'did not know'. [vid dhātu parasmaipadi lung लुङ् prathma puruṣaḥ bahuvacanam. avedĩ avediṣṭhām avediṣuḥ iti rũpāṇi].

Why has he made such a guess work? He gives the reason. yaddhy etad avediṣyan - if my guru had possessed this knowledge, avediṣyan kathaṃ me nāvakṣyann - hypothetical clause, conditional clause. If only my guru had known this truth, kathaṃ me na avakṣyann - how come the teacher did not teach me? His argument is, "I am his student. I have gone there to study. And I am very intelligent. [That also!] I am the student; I have gone there for study; I am extremely intelligent. Therefore, the teacher must have taught me. And, if he did not teach, it means, he does not know". Therefore, kathaṃ me na avakṣyann. [avakṣyann is also a lṛń लुङ् usage; conditional. vac dhātu parasmaipadi Irng लुङ prathma puruṣaḥ bahuvacanam].

What is our answer? [Father does not say that. But, we should know the answer]. Why did śvetaketu's guru not teach him? Is it because He did not know? NO. The reason is, if a person wants spiritual knowledge, A SPECIAL AND SEPARATE REQUEST IS REQUIRED. By joining the gurukulam only aparā vidyā will be taught. Any guru will teach aparā vidyā. aparā vidyā, do you understand? Any knowledge - other than spiritual knowledge - will be taught by every guru in the gurukulam. If a person wants ātma jñānam, a general request is not enough; a separate and special request is required. "tadviddhi pranipātena paripraśnena sevayā |" - Lord kṛṣṇā in gĩtā.

Thus, the guru did not teach because there was no special request. But, śvetaketu misinterprets that and concludes that the guru does not know [parā vidyā]. Father uddālakā would have corrected the mistake and sent śvetaketu again back to gurukulam; but, śvetaketu does not want to go back. Because, till now he was in āśramā. In āśramā, food will be general [okay] only. So, he must have been tired, perhaps. Therefore, before the father could send him back again, śvetaketu pleads, 'oh father, I will ask you for that teaching. Teach me at home itself. You please give me this knowledge in the house gurukulam itself'. śańkarācāryā writes in His commentary, "prati nivartana bhayena". śvetaketu was frightened or scared that the father will send him back to gurukulam once again! Therefore, before the father tells that, the son śvetaketu surrenders to him.

So, he says, "bhagavā, stveva - kindly do not send me back to gurukulam. You yourself please give me that wisdom". So bhagavāgmstveva how do you split it, bhagavān+tu+eva. Here, śvetaketu is addressing whom his father uddālaka as 'bhagavān'. No more, daddy or dad! Reverentially he addresses his father. Oh Lord. And, me tadbravītviti - me tad bravīti iti - may you teach me that particular truth. Impart me, impart that particular wisdom to me. Therefore, in the 7th mantrā alone the father is getting converted into the ācāryā. Until the sixth mantrā, śvetaketu's ācāryā was someone else. uddālaka was only his father. Only in this mantrā, the father is getting converted into ācāryā, as we have seen in the second chapter of the gītā.

"kārpaņyadoşopahatasvabhāvaḥ pṛcchāmi tvāṃ dharmasammūḍhacetāḥ | yacchreyaḥ syānniścitaṃ brūhi tanme śiṣyaste'haṃ śādhi māṃ tvāṃ prapannam II" [2-7]

Until that particular verse, kṛṣṇā was only a driver; and arjunā was the Swāmi, the master. Only in that particular verse arjunā got converted into the disciple, and Lord kṛṣṇā got converted into the ācāryā. Same way, in this 7th mantrā, śvetaketu, the putraḥ, becomes śiṣyaḥ. uddālaka, the pitā, becomes ācāryaḥ. And now that guru and śiṣya are together, and now that the śiṣya is interested in that knowledge; because he has done the paripraśnam. What is the paripraśnam? "tad me bravīti" - please teach me. Explicitly he has asked for sat vidyā.

Therefore, the father understood that the son-cum-disciple has an open mind to learn. And therefore, what does the father do? Fortunately, the father had this knowledge. We will not get it in our house! Fortunately, here the father had this knowledge. Therefore, uddālaka says, tathā somyeti hovāca - oh dear son, certainly I shall impart that wisdom. So, with this mantrā the 7th and last mantrā of the first section is over. Hereafter, sat vidyā has to begin. The first section is over.

Sixth chapter –Section 2

सदेव सोम्येदमग्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयम् । तद्धैक आहुरसदेवेदमग्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयं तस्मादसतः सज्जायत ॥ sadeva somyedam agra āsīd ekamevādvitīyam । taddhaika āhur asadevedamagra āsīd ekam evādvitīyam tasmādasataḥ sajjāyata ॥ 6.2.1॥

Straight-away father uddālaka begins the teaching. And what is the teaching he has to give? "eka kāraņa vijñānena sarva kāryam vijñānam bhavati" - which means, he has to deal with the cause of whole cosmos, including deśa and kāla. He cannot teach clay or gold; because, they are only āpekṣika kāraṇāni. Means, they are only relative causes of a few limited products. Here, we have to deal with what? The primal, absolute kāraṇam; which we call mũla kāraṇam or jagat kāraṇam. And after introducing the mũla kāraṇam, father uddālaka has to show that, the whole universe - including space & time - is kāryam, product only. And once he has established 'x' is the kāraṇam and the UNIVERSE is the kāryam, then he can easily say that, "the universe does not exist separate from 'x'. And therefore, by the knowledge of 'x', everything else is known".

How do you prove that the whole UNIVERSE is the kāryam of that kāraṇam? That you can prove only by the discussion of sṛṣṭiḥ or CREATION. Only by the topic of sṛṣṭi or CREATION you talk about kāraṇam and kāryam. Is not it correct? Once you say, 'y' has come out 'x', 'y' becomes the kāryam, 'x' becomes the kāraṇam. Therefore, kārya kāraṇās are introduced only through sṛṣṭi. Thus, the teaching has to be cosmology. Cosmology means, the teaching of the CREATION. That is why most of the upaniṣads begin with CREATION only. If you take aitareya upaniṣad, "ātmā vā idaġm ekam eva agre āsĩt"; thereafter, CREATION is talked about. "satyam jñānam anantam brahma". "tasmāt vā etasmāt ātmanā ākāśa sambhũtaḥ" Generally, the teaching begins with sṛṣṭi. Only then the kāraṇam and kāryam are introduced. Therefore, uddālaka begins with sṛṣți.

How does he begin that topic? He says, "before the universe arose, BEFORE THE UNIVERSE EMERGED AS A PRODUCT, THERE WAS ONLY THE CAUSE OF THE UNIVERSE". Just as, before the emergence of ornaments, what was there? The causal gold alone was there. Before the emergence of furniture, the causal wood alone was there. Similarly, BEFORE THE EMERGENCE OF THE WHOLE UNIVERSE, THERE WAS ONLY ONE CAUSE. Now, the question is, "WHAT IS THAT MŨLA KĀRAŅAM?" In different upaniṣads, the mũla kāraṇam is given different names. Sometimes, it is called ātmā or paramātmā. Sometimes, it is called brahma. In this particular chapter, the cause is called sat. sadeva, how do you split? sad+eva. The word sat is another name for brahman. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, idam - this entire universe, agre - before it emerged, sadeva āsīd - [the universe] was in the form of kāraṇam "sat", [which is otherwise called, brahman].

This is very easily understandable; because, EVERY KĀRYAM - BEFORE ITS EMERGENCE - EXISTS IN THE FORM OF KĀRAŅAM. Is not it correct? Ornaments before emergence exist in the form of gold. Furniture exists in the form of wood. Similarly, the universe already existed; but, not in universe form; but, it was existing in the form of 'sat' brahma. This is so because, essentially, kāryam & kāraṇam are one & the same substance only.

kāryam and kāraṇam are ESSENTIALLY ONE AND THE SAME SUBSTANCE ONLY. Gold is also gold; ornaments are also what? Gold. Clay is also clay; and all the pots are also what? Clay only. So, you must remember the law, "Kāryam and Kāraṇam are one and the same substance".

Then, the question comes, we have enter into some analysis, okay. If kāryam and kāraṇam are one and the same substance, why do you give them two different names? One as kāryam, and another as kāraṇam. If substance is one and the same, the name also should be one and the same?! Why do you call one as kāraṇam and another as kāryam? For that, we give the reason - "kāryam is a SUBSTANCE, in which all the names & forms are MANIFEST. They have been brought out for manifestation. Whereas, in the kāraṇam, the nāma & rũpa are not in manifest condition; they are all hidden, in un-manifest form. Therefore, what is the difference between kāryam and kāraṇam? One and the same substance with un-manifest nāma-rũpa is called kāraṇam; and the same substance with manifest nāma-rũpa is called kāraṇam.

Let us take an example. You have a lump of clay and clay is the substance and what is the shape of clay? It has got a lump form. Lump means, what? A spherical form. And, you know what? In that spherical form of the clay, all the forms are hidden! Square is also in that, circle is also in that. We do chappātti dough that way. If you are experienced, chappātti will be round. If you are new to chappātti making, you will get all other forms, like, hexagon, octagon, sometime ameba like also! So, tell me, from where did all the forms emerge? Did you bring the form from the shelf and add on to the chappātti dough? You did not bring the form from outside. All the forms were already there hidden. In what? In its lump form. Therefore, what is lump form? Unmanifest nāma-rũpa plus chappātti maavu. Later, when you make chappātti, what happens? The very same dough is there with manifest nāma-rũpa. Instead of avyākṛtam, you can say avyaktam also. vastu + avyākṭa nāma rũpam = kāraṇam. Instead of avyākṛtam, you can with vyakta nāma-rũpam is kāryam. In that one lump form, how many forms are hidden?!

Geometrically, IN THAT SPHERICAL FORM, HOW MANY FORMS ARE HIDDEN? INFINITE FORMS ARE HIDDEN! THIS IS POINT NUMBER ONE TO BE NOTED.

Now, we will come to the second point. When all the nāma rũpās [names & forms], are avyaktam, in un-manifest form, the nāma rũpās are utterly useless. When they are in potential form, a lump of clay is there, lump of gold is there, with potential nāma rũpa, that clay or gold cannot be used for anything. But, once it goes to the gold smith and the gold smith gives varieties of nāma rũpa, then what happens? It becomes bangles, chain, ring etc. ONCE THE NAMES AND FORMS ARE MANIFEST, THEN THEY BECOME USEFUL. What is the use? We can hang it everywhere. Therefore, nobody hangs a lump of gold normally. After now, they may do that also! Normally, nobody hangs a lump of gold on the necklace. But, when the nāma rũpa have been manifested - as bangle, chain, ring etc - then alone the gold lump becomes useful.

Okay. What are we arriving at? What we are arriving at is, WHEN THE NĀMA RŨPĀS ARE IN UN-MANIFEST FORM, SINCE NO NĀMA RŨPĀS ARE USED, WE GENERALLY DO NOT NOTICE THE NĀMA RŨPĀS HIDDEN. When the nāma rũpās are in un-manifest form, since they are not useful, we do not notice the un-manifest nāma rũpās. Therefore, if asked, 'what is there?', we only say, 'there is gold'. We only mention the gold; we do not mention gold + un-manifest nāma rũpās. We do not say that. Why do we not mention that? Because, it [gold lump] is not useful. Therefore, we do not mention un-manifest nāma rũpās. If somebody asks, 'what is there?', we only say, 'there is gold'. But, what is the truth? gold + un-manifest nāma rũpa is there.

In un-manifest form, Gold overpowers the nāma rũpa. But, once all the nāma rũpās have become manifest - in the form of bangle, chain, ring etc - these nāma rũpās have now become useful. Bangle nāma rũpa, chain nāma rũpa, ring nāma rũpa are all useful. You are wearing it! Since the nāma rũpās are useful, now what happens if somebody asks, 'what is there?' You forget the gold! Earlier, we noticed the gold and we lost sight of what? The unmanifest nāma rũpās! Because, gold was in un-manifest form. Now, it has become manifest. So, if somebody asks, 'what is in your hand?', what do we say? Nobody says, 'I have gold in my hand'. We are referring to what? The bangle nāma rũpa. And so we say, 'I am wearing a bangle'.

THEREFORE, IN KĀRAŅA AVASTĀ, SUBSTANCE DOMINATES. IN KĀRYA AVASTĀ, NĀMA RŨPA DOMINATES. [Like in some houses, husband dominates; in some houses, wife dominates. I do not want to say which houses! You decide!] In kāraņa avastā substance dominates; nāma rũpās do not. In kārya avastā, nāma rũpās dominate; not the substance. How do you know? Because, in kāraņa avastā, we always name the substance. In kārya avastā, we always name what? The nāma rũpa; and we do not mention gold at all. Bangle we say, chain we say, gold we do not talk at all.

Similarly, before this CREATION came, brahman and un-manifest nāma rũpās were there. Before CREATION, brahman and un-manifest nāma rũpa were there. But, since the nāma rũpās were un-manifest and therefore useless, [do you understand], therefore useless, we do not mention the nāma rũpās. What do we say? brahman alone was there. Thereafter, what happens? That brahman - which is in kāraṇa avastā alone - became the universe. And what is this universe? The universe is also brahman only. What is the substance for that? The same brahman only. But, now, all the un-manifest nāma rũpās have become what? Manifest nāma rũpās. ākāśā vāyu agni jalam - they are all what? Manifest nāma rũpās. Thereafter, wall, chair, fan, mike - they are all what? Manifest nāma rũpās. But, what happens? WHEN THE NĀMA RŨPĀS ARE MANIFEST, WE LOSE SIGHT OF WHAT? THE ESSENTIAL SUBSTANCE! And we name these nāma rũpās not as brahman. We call it THE UNIVERSE. So, that brahman alone is now 'UNIVERSE'. This UNIVERSE was then brahman. WHEN IT WAS BRAHMAN, SUBSTANCE IS DOMINANT; NĀMA RŨPĀS ARE NON DOMINANT. BUT NOW, NĀMA RŨPĀS ARE DOMINANT AND SUBSTANCE BRAHMAN IS LOST SIGHT OF!

மரத்தை மறைத்தது மாமத யானை, மரத்தில் மறைந்தது மாமத யானை. பரத்தை மறைத்தது பார் முதல் பூதம், பரத்தில் மறைந்தது பார் முதல் பூதமே ! - [திருமூலரின் "திருமந்திரம்"]

maraththai maraiththathu mamatha yanai maraththil marainthathu mamatha yanai | paraththai maraiththathu par muthal butham paraththil marainthathu par muthal buthame | |

So, what was the substance? brahman. And how do we recognise that one substance - which was previously in kāraņa avastā and now in kārya avastā? The upaniṣad says, in both kāraņa avastā and kārya avastā, brahman is available in the form of EXISTENCE.

PURE EXISTENCE, existed previously also. The PURE EXISTENCE exists, now also. Then, what is the difference? Previously, EXISTENCE existed with un-manifest nāma rũpa; and now, the EXISTENCE, the same EXISTENCE, exists with manifest nāma rũpa. So, avyakta nāma rũpa sahitam sat, kāraṇam; vyakta nāma rũpa sahitam sat, kāryam! What is the proof that the EXISTENCE continues? For the same EXISTENCE continues, what is the proof? When you are looking at the clip, what do you say? 'Here is a clip'. What do we say? 'Here is a clip'. What is the substance? 'Clip', if you say, @i@ flom_&@ib [kuttu kidaikkum]. We should say, SUBSTANCE is PURE EXISTENCE only. And clip is what? PURE EXISTENCE, with manifest nāma rũpa. What is the proof? You say mike is. Wall is? Brain is -

சொல்லி வைக்கறேன் [Let me just say that!] Brain is. That 'is'ness was all the time there. That PURE EXISTENCE alone is the SUBSTANCE. Before CREATION, EXISTENCE was with unmanifest nāma rũpa; and now, it is with manifest nāma rũpa. So, before the CREATION the PURE EXISTENCE alone was, with un-manifest nāma rũpa.

If you want to know 'how this un-manifest nāma rũpa, will be like?' śańkarācāryā in His Dakṣiṇāmũrti Stotram says, 'you are regularly experiencing that!' Have you understood? PURE EXISTENCE, with un-manifest nāma rũpa, you daily experience! "rāhugrasta divākarendu sadṛśo māyā samācchādanāt; sanmātraḥ karaṇopa saṃharaṇato yo'bhũt suṣuptaḥ pumān I prāgasvāpsamiti prabodha samaye yaḥ pratyabhijñāyate tasmai śrĩ gurumur̃taye nāma idaṃ śrĩ dakṣiṇāmũrtaye II"

During sleep, when all your organs are resolved, the entire nāma rũpa prapañca is resolved, what is there? PURE EXISTENCE is there, in the form of 'I' the sleeper. What is the proof? śańkarācāryā says, after waking up we say, 'I slept'. That means what? 'I' was there. But, 'I' was there in what form? In the form of PURE EXISTENCE, without any nāma rũpa. [How is the chāndogya upaniṣad? Tough?! I hope you will come to the next class]. upaniṣad says, 'hey somya. oh dear son. idam - this universe, which is EXISTENCE with manifest nāma rũpa, was there before as EXISTENCE with un-manifest nāma rũpa. agra means, before emergence. sad eva āsīd. What type of EXISTENCE? PURE EXISTENCE. With capital E.

What is the definition of "PURE EXISTENCE"? Whatever be the definition of "PURE CONSCIOUSNESS", the same five we have to remember here. Shall we try? 1. EXISTENCE is not a part, product or property of anything in the CREATION. 2. EXISTENCE is an independent entity which pervades and lends existence to everything in the CREATION. [When we say mike is, mike has borrowed EXISTENCE] 3. PURE EXISTENCE is not limited by the boundaries of any substance in the CREATION. 4. EXISTENCE continues to exist even when everything in the CREATION is resolved [everything in the CREATION, including ākāśa resolves, as we experience in which state? As we experience in suṣupti, when everything is resolved, including deśa and even kāla. During sleep, you do not have time. But, EXISTENCE continues to exist even after the resolution of everything.] And what is the fifth principle? 5. The surviving EXISTENCE cannot be recognised, not because it is non-existent; but, because there is no medium to recognise it.

That is why when you are asleep, since there is no medium available, you do not say, 'the world is'; you do not even say, 'I am'. But, during sleep you are there or not? Do you have any doubts? You are very much there! That is why you go to sleep happily. Suppose you will become non-existent in sleep, nobody will go to sleep. சொல்லி இருக்கேனோல்லியோ. கண்ணுல மொளகாப் பொடிய போட்டுண்டாவது தூங்காம இருப்பா! [I have said before, they will even add chili powder to the eyes and be awake!] Why do we sleep, happily go to sleep? We know we exist; but, even though we exist, we cannot claim, 'I exist'; or, 'the world exists'. Why? Because, claiming requires a medium. THEREFORE, THAT PURE EXISTENCE ALONE WAS THERE BEFORE CREATION. What about the nāma rũpa? It is as good as absent; because, they were all in un-manifest form.

What is the nature of that PURE EXISTENCE? ekamevādvitīyam - ekam eva advitīyam. It was one only, without a second. ekam means, one. eva means, only. advitīyam means, without a second. By using these three expressions one, only and without a second - ekam, eva, advitīyam - the upaniṣad negates all types of divisions. All forms of divisions or bhedas are negated by this expression. And what do you mean by all types of divisions? Divisions themselves are divided into three types. sajātīya bheda, vijātīya bheda, svagata bheda. All these three division were absent in that PURE EXISTENCE.

Now the question is, what do you mean by sajātīya - vijātīya - svagata bheda? We will see that in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

5. Chapter 6.2.1 to 6.2.3

सदेव सोम्येदमग्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयम् । तद्धैक आहुरसदेवेदमग्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयं तस्मादसतः सज्जायत ॥ sadeva somyedam agra āsīd ekamevādvitīyam । taddhaika āhur asadevedamagra āsīd ekam evādvitīyaṃ tasmādasataḥ sajjāyata ॥ 6.2.1॥

The guru and śiṣya have been introduced in the form of a uddālaka hāruņiḥ and śvetaketu. And the śiṣya has surrendered to the guru, who happens to be his own father. And he has asked for the teaching of ātma jñānam [parā vidyā] and so, now the ground is ready for the philosophical dialogue to take off. Therefore, from the second section begins the actual teaching, in which the guru introduces the sṛṣṭi prakriyā, the CREATION, so that, He can establish "eka kāraṇa vijñānena sarva kārya vijñānam bhavati". And with that intention He is introducing the mũla kāraṇam, the root cause of the entire universe, which is in the form of brahman, the PURE EXISTENCE. Otherwise, called sat. And the whole world is a kāryam or a product, which emerges out of brahman. So, brahman is kāraṇam and jagat is kāryam.

We were analysing in the last class, WHAT IS THE NATURE AND RELATIONSHIP OF KĀRAŅAM AND KĀRYAM IN GENERAL. And by studying the clay and pot example, by studying the gold and ornament example, we come to know that, the kāraņam is also nothing but "substance with nāma-rũpa"; and kāryam is also the same substance + nāma-rũpa only. kāraņam is also nothing but substance + nāma-rũpa. kāryam - the product - is also nothing but substance + nāma-rũpa, what is the difference between kāraņam and kāryam? For that, we said kāraṇam is substance + un-manifest nāma-rũpa; whereas, kāryam is the same substance + manifest nāma-rũpa. Thus, both contain the same component, substance and nāma-rũpa. The components are common to both kāraṇam and kāryam. The difference is what? vastu + avyakta nāma-rũpa = kāraṇam.

And thereafter we said, since the kāraņam contains the nāma-rũpa in avyakta form - in potential form - that nāma-rũpa is not useful to us. Just as a lump of gold has got ornamental forms hidden in it; but, the un-manifest ornamental form cannot serve any purpose. Whereas when the un-manifest nāma-rũpa has been made manifest, which is the work of the gold smith. Remember, gold smith does not bring the nāma-rũpa. nāma-rũpa - where from is it coming from? From inside, from the lump of gold only. All the forms are hidden. The hidden shape, the gold smith is bringing-out. And when the shapes are brought out, then it is useful.

So, when the clay has been given the pot shape, then alone it can carry the water; but, when the very same lump of clay has got the pot shape - in what form? Un-manifest form, that un-manifest pot shape cannot carry water. If you have a doubt, take a lump of clay and pour water. Nothing will happen. It cannot carry. Thus, in kāraṇam, nāma-rũpa is un-manifest. Therefore, it is useless.

And since the un-manifest nāma-rũpa is useless, its presence is not noticed by us. Potential pot shape is not noticed. Potential jug shape is not noticed. Why? It is not noticed. Because it is useless. Therefore, in kāraņa avasthā, nāma-rũpa is not prominent. Why it is not prominent? What is the answer? Because, it is un-manifest. 'Okay, so what?' if someone asks, what is the answer? Un-manifest nāma-rũpa is useless; and therefore, in kāraņa avasthā, nāma-rũpa is not prominent.

Then, what is prominent? Substance is prominent. Therefore, if somebody asks, 'what is there?', you mention the clay alone. You do not give prominence to the un-manifest nāma-rũpa. When one asks, 'what is there?', we only say, 'clay is there'. Therefore, kāraṇam is substance pradhānam, nāma-rũpa apradhānam. Whereas, when the very same unmanifest nāma-rũpa have been brought out by the gold smith - and the ring form, the chain form, the ear ring form, the māńgā mālai form, theńgā mālai form - when all these shapes are given, now also what is there? The same gold. With what? Manifest nāma-rũpa.

Once the nāma-rũpa is manifest, it becomes useful. How? It hangs all over. Some in hands, some in ears, now where all they are putting it! Newer fashions are coming, they do not know where all ornaments should hang! I do not want to go to the details. It hangs all over. Because, the manifest nāma-rũpa is useful as ornaments or vessels, in kārya avasthā, what is pradhānam? In kārya avasthā, nāma-rũpa becomes dominant. As I said, in some houses husband is dominant; in some houses wife is dominant. In kārya avasthā, nāma-rũpa becomes dominant. Then, what is not dominant? The substance - gold - is not dominant. If I ask you, 'what is on your neck?' You never say, gold is there. Even though what is hanging on you or you are hanging on to; even though it is nothing but gold, you never mention gold. You say ornaments. Therefore, what is there is nothing but one substance and a bunch of nāma-rũpa.

nāma-rũpa in avyakta form which is kāraņa avasthā, where the substance is pradhānam. In kārya avasthā, nāma-rũpa is manifest; and therefore useful; and so that nāma-rũpa becomes pradhānam. But, if you remember the truth, in kāraņa avasthā what is there? It is the substance. In kārya avasthā also what is there? It is the same substance!

If you understand till now, what vedāntā says is, in all the three periods of time there is only one fundamental substance. Which was, which is & which ever will be. Which is advaitam. The non dual substance. Which we call as brahman. Other than that one substance brahman, nothing else is there; and that brahman alone has got kāraṇa avasthā and kārya avasthā.

In both avasthās, brahman is associated with what? nāma-rũpa. Just as gold is associated with nāma-rũpa in the kāraņa avasthā and kārya avasthā, brahman is associated with nāma-rũpa. In kāraņa avasthā, brahman is associated with what nāma-rũpa? Unmanifest avyakta nāma-rũpa; which is absolutely useless. Why? Because, it is avyakta nāma-rũpa! Since the avyakta nāma-rũpa is not useful in the kāraņa avasthā, nāma-rũpa is not prominent. Then, what is prominent? The substance is prominent. Therefore, I say, 'brahman was there before'. How should you understand it? brahman was there with unmanifest nāma-rũpa. Thereafter came the kārya avasthā, which is called sṛṣṭi, the CREATION. What is there now? Normally, what answer we should give? "The same brahman alone is there now also". It is associated with what? nāma-rũpa. But, what type of nāma-rũpa? Not, un-manifest; but, manifest nāma-rũpa; which is useful.

Therefore, ākāśa nāma-rũpa is useful. Why? It is accommodating all of us. vāyu nāma-rũpa is useful; because, it is fanning you. agni nāma-rūpa is useful. So, when the nāma-rūpa is manifest, it is useful. Therefore, what happens? nāma-rũpa becomes dominant. And once nāma-rũpa becomes dominant, the substance is forgotten. What is the substance? The very same brahman! Not only it is forgotten, when somebody talks about brahman, people ask the question, 'where is it?' It is like asking the question, 'I have ornaments in the hand and you say there is something called gold; and where is it?' "I will keep aside the ornaments. Where is the gold?" People ask. What foolishness?! Where is the gold? In whichever place nāma-rũpa is there, in the very same place gold is there! But, we have shifted the attention from gold to the ornament nāma-rūpa. So, to realise the gold, what should you do? 'I am going to do dhyānam. I will keep-aside all the ornaments, and I want to do spiritual sādhanā to realise the gold'. What do I do? Sit in meditation! AF()! [Oh, uninformed one] YOU NEED NOT SEARCH SOMEWHERE ELSE TO DISCOVER THE GOLD. WHERE THE KARYAM - THE MANIFEST NAMA-RUPA IS THERE, IN THAT VERY SAME PLACE, SHIFT YOUR ATTENTION FROM THE NAMA-RUPA TO THE GOLD. It is there, behind. Same way, where to look for that brahman? The upanisad says, the very same CREATION IS brahman alone - the substance - with a nāma-rũpa.

Now, the next question is, "what is the nature of that basic substance, called brahman. What is the nature of the basic substance, called brahman, which was present in kāraņa avasthā also; which is present in kārya avasthā also. Which is associated with manifest kārya nāmarũpa avasthā also; and which is associated with un-manifest kārana nāma-rũpa avasthā also. What is the nature of that brahman? The upanisad says, that is called sat or PURE EXISTENCE. Is the EXISTENCE associated with nāma-rũpa or not? If one asks what answer should you give? Anything in the CREATION you take. Just as with every ornament gold is associated, with every product in the CREATION, what is the common factor? śańkarācāryā said in His Dakşināmurti Stotram, "yasyaiva sphuranam sadātmakam asatkalpārthakam bhāsate" - Whatever object in the CREATION you experience, your experience is always what? There is the mike; there is what you call the desk; there is the clip; there is the book; there is ! is the substance. Even when the whole thing goes to un-manifest condition, causal condition, there also you have to say what? 'The cause is' - you have to say. That 'is'ness is there in causal condition also. That 'is'ness continues in the effectual condition also. Therefore, brahman is sad rupam brahma. That is why in taittiriyam also, "satyam jñānam anantam brahma". satyam word meaning is, 'sat' - PURE EXISTENCE - is the meaning.

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, 'hey somya'. We are now going to the text. We have to cover the text. hey somya, 'idam' - this universe, was existent before, in kāraṇa avasthā also. This universe itself was existent before, in kāraṇa avasthā, consisting of the basic substance and un-manifest nāma-rũpa. And what is that? He says, sad eva āsīd - it was pure EXISTENCE only; agre - before the CREATION. And what was the nature of that EXISTENCE? ekamevādvitīyam - which is one only, without a second.

In the last class I said, these three words negate three types of divisions. [ekam, eva, advitīyam - the upaniṣad negates all types of divisions]. ekam negates sajātīya bheda, eva negates svagata bheda and advitīyam negates vijātīya bheda. Three types of divisions. What are the three types of divisions? We have seen before. When there is a tree, within the tree itself, there are so many divisions - in the form of the trunk, the branch, the leaf, the fruit, the flower etc - which is called svagata bheda. Internal divisions. And when you take one particular tree, like a coconut tree and another particular tree, say, a mango tree, or a tamarind tree, the differences between these two trees is called sajātīya bheda; because, there are differences between these two trees. Even though both are different, both belong to what? The same jāti. Therefore, it is called what? sajātīya bheda. In English, the difference between two members of the same species. What is svagata bheda? Internal difference existing within one member. If you take one member it is svagata bhedam. Two members belonging to same species is sajātīya bhedam. Like, between man and man. I am there, you are there. Our difference is what? Difference between members of the same species. We are all human beings. [Hope you do not have a doubt!] So this is called what? sajātīya bheda. Then vijātīya bheda means what? Difference between two members belonging to two different species. Like, between a tree and a human being. Because, the tree belongs to tree species, human being belongs to human species! Therefore, the difference is called vijātīya bheda.

Now, the upaniṣad says, 'before CREATION, one PURE EXISTENCE alone was. There was no second thing at all - either belonging to the same species or belonging to another species. What about the internal difference - within EXISTENCE. Internal difference also was not there. The top of the EXISTENCE, bottom of the EXISTENCE, that difference was also not there. Therefore, the pure division-less EXISTENCE alone was there. That was the substance with un-manifest nāma-rũpa alone is called māyā. This un-manifest nāma-rũpa alone is called māyā. This un-manifest nāma-rũpa [i.e.] brahman and māyā together, it is called ĩśvarā. SUBSTANCE IS BRAHMAN. UN-MANIFEST NĀMA-RŨPA IS CALLED MĀYĀ. AND THESE TWO PUT TOGETHER IS CALLED ĨŚVARĀ. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, this alone was there.

Thereafter, what happens? The upanişad says, many people do not understand this PURE EXISTENCE; because, the PURE EXISTENCE CANNOT BE PERCEIVED BY ANY INSTRUMENT OF KNOWLEDGE. All our instruments can recognise the EXISTENCE associated with either śabda sparśa rūpa rasa or gandha. The EXISTENCE with sound we understand through śrotrenindriyam. When the EXISTENCE is associated with some FORM, we understand it through eyes. But, the PURE EXISTENCE is not available for sense organs. Therefore, we are not able to recognise. And that is why, in deep sleep state, when all the names and forms are resolved, we do not recognise the existence of anything. Neither the EXISTENCE of the world we notice; nor even the EXISTENCE of ourselves we notice. That is why I told in the last class, "rāhugrasta divākarendu sadṛśo māyā samācchādanāt" māyā means what? When avyakta nāma-rũpa alone is there you do not recognise it. How did we exist? sanmātraḥ - during that time, we do not say, 'I am'; we do not say, 'you are', we do not say, 'the world is'. First person, second person, third person. [Do you remember all this? We saw all this in English grammar, once upon a time]. I am, you are, he is - all these three we do not recognise.

And therefore, people conclude what? During suṣupti there was śũnyam. We do not experience anything. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, "those people who cannot recognise the PURE EXISTENCE, conclude that, 'before the CREATION there was nothingness or blankness'. And they call it what? asat. Therefore, look at the mantrā. eke āhuḥ - some unintelligent people, āhur - they declare, that agre. agre means, before the CREATION, asad eva āsīd - there was nothing. There was only śũnyam. asat means, non-EXISTENCE or śũnyam. Especially, the Buddhistic philosophers talk about the asat. Of course, the upaniṣad has existed even before buddhism. Hence you cannot say upaniṣad is quoting the buddhist. Therefore, we are talking about general pũrvapakṣa, some people conclude. What is the nature of the pure non-EXISTENCE? ekam eva advitīyam. Pure non- EXISTENCE, without a second. Who is saying this? We are not saying that. Some unintelligent people declare. Not only that. What do they say? "tasmādasataḥ" - all this you have to put within quotation. It is not the teaching of the upaniṣad. This is the misconception. Given within quotation. From where did quotation start? From, asadevedamagra āsīd. The quotation continues tasmādasataḥ - from that nothingness or from that śũnyam what came? tasmādasataḥ sat jāyata. sāt means, what? This existent world. Here the word sat means, what? Emerged.

So, from nothingness, the world emerged. Their argument is, 'an existent world need not be born'. Is not it correct? An existent world need not be born. Why? Because, it is existent! bhagavān need not create an existent world; because, the world is already existent. Why should there be a CREATION at all? Therefore, only a non-existent world should come to EXISTENCE. If money is already existent, why should I earn money? The existent money you should earn or non-existent money you should earn? If the money is already existent, why should you earn? Therefore, they argue, the world was not there before. That non-existent world emerged out of what? NOTHING! Nothing was there; but, the world came! say the nihilistic people, the śũnyavādhi. uddālaka - the teacher, says, 'how is it possible?' That is going to come in the next mantrā. We will read.

कुतस्तु खलु सोम्यैव ्ैस्यादिति होवाच कथमसतः सज्जायेतेति। सत्त्वेव सोम्येदमग्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयम् ॥

kutastu khalu somyaiva syāditi hovāca kathamasata sajjāyeteti sattveva somya idam agra āsīd ekam evādvitīyam # 6.2.2

Now, the teacher uddālaka, is refuting this philosophy. What is the philosophy? "The nonexistent world emerged." This philosophy he is refuting. So, he raises a question to his disciple. Hey Somya, kutastu khalu eva syād - how is such an event even possible? What pramāņa is there? kutaḥ means, kasmāt pramāṇat. What support is there to prove this particular stand? What stand? "A non-existent world coming into being". kutaḥ syād, how is it possible? iti hovāca - thus the father declares. And he clarifies the same idea. kathamasataḥ sajjāyeta - how can an existent thing emerge out of non-existence? How can anything emerge out of non-existence ? A non-existent pot can never be born. It is not possible. This has been very elaborately discussed in māņļũkya kārikā. We have seen several reasons before. Just we will note one or two important reasons.

When we want to produce butter, we are only churning what? The curd. We are not churning water. Why cannot we try to produce butter out of water? Why cannot we try to produce butter out of water? Why invariably you go to only a particular material? The reason is, in water butter is not there in potential form. Only in the milk or curd, butter is already there in potential form. Therefore, by churning you are extracting what? The existing butter or non existing butter? The existing butter. And to extract oil, we go to what? Oil seeds. Why cannot you take some sand and try to extract oil out of sand. Why are we not doing it? Because, we know oil is not there in the sand in potential form. Only in tilam [that is why it is called tailam. til means, seed] - from the seed only, we can extract oil. Why? Because, oil is already existent there, in potential form. Therefore, whatever you want to produce you ONLY GO TO THAT SOURCE WHERE IT IS ALREADY EXISTENT IN UN-MANIFEST FORM. AND THEREFORE, OUR EXPERIENCE SHOWS, YOU CAN CREATE OR BRING SOMETHING OUT, ONLY WHEN IT IS IN POTENTIALLY EXISTENT FORM.

Even grammatically also, I gave the argument. When you say an non-existent thing emerges or is born, in that sentence there is a verb. What is that? Emergence or is born - the verb is there. The verb is there. And if there must a verb, there must be a subject for the sentence. And what is the subject? A non-existent thing? And if the subject is an non-existent thing, it means, there is a no subject. Is not it? Subject is a non-existent thing means, what? Subject is not-existent. When the subject itself is non-existent, how can you use the verb of 'emerging' 'arising' 'born'. "A non-existent thing is coming", how can you say? To use the word "coming", there must be something coming. Therefore, even grammatically a non-existent thing cannot be the subject of any verb.

And, if out of nothing, things can emerge, the greatest advantage is, you need not go shopping to produce anything. Because, out of nothing, you can create a building. You can cook food. All these things we do not find happening! Therefore, whether you go by experience or you go by logic or you go by grammar, "out of nothing, nothing can come". And science also clearly says, 'matter cannot be created or destroyed. Therefore, everything was already existent in potential form.

Therefore, asat can never be jagat kāraņam. So, the teacher says, katham asatah sajjāyet. Therefore, what is the kāraņam? The teacher now says, sattveva idam agra āsīd

- therefore, everything was already existent. All the jĩvās existed, eternally. The entire jagat existed, eternally.

Never ask the question, "WHY DID BHAGAVĀN CREATE THE JĪVĀS?" BHAGAVĀN NEVER CREATED EVEN A SINGLE JĪVĀ! We all were existing. From when onwards? anādi kālatā. What about the CREATION? That also existed. Then, what did bhagavān do? Whatever was in un-manifest condition, that has been converted into manifesting. That is why, we say never use the word CREATION. Always use the word MANIFESTATION. Therefore, idam - this universe; agre - before the sṛṣṭi, sattveva āsīd - was very much existent. bhagavān is anādi, jīvā is anādi. jagat is anādi. All the three are beginning-less. What has been happening is, manifestation & contraction. Expansion & contraction. Expansion is called sṛṣṭi. Contraction is called pralayam. This cycle was going on and on and on and on [I can say this till 8 a.m. Even then, I have only to stop since the class has to end!]

na rūpamasyeha tathopalabhyate nānto na cādirna ca sampratisthā | aśvatthamenam suvirūdhamūlam asangaśastrena drdhena chittvā || Gĩtā 15-3||

It has been beginning-less-ly and end-less-ly going on. Therefore, do not ask the question, "what is the purpose of the CREATION?" The question of purpose comes, only if there is a CREATION. Since nothing is created, there is no question purpose also. It is the nature of this to expand & contract. That is why in māņdūkya kārikā it was said svabhāvah. In the Bhagvad Gītā also, svabhāvastu pravartate - it is the nature of jīvā and jagat to manifest; and it is their nature to again go back to un-manifest condition. Never ask about the purpose. Therefore, the teacher said, sattveva idam agre āsīd. What kind of sat is it? ekam evādvitīyam. And thereafter, what happened? The un-manifest gradually became manifest. And how did it happen? We will read mantrā 3.

तदैक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तत्तेजोऽसृजत तत्तेज ऐक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तदपोऽसृजत । तस्माद्यत्र क्वच शोचति स्वेदते वा पुरुषस्तेजस एव तदध्यापो जायन्ते ॥

tadaikṣata bahusyām prajāyeyeti tattejo'srjata tatteja aikṣata bahusyām prajāyeyeti tadapo'srjata | tasmādyatra kvaca śocati svedate vā puruṣastejasa eva tadadhyāpo jāyante || 6.2.3 ||

The beginning-less jĩvā and the beginning-less jagat already existed in POTENTIAL form in the pure sat, in brahman, in the form of avyakta nāma-rũpa, the un-manifest name & form. And thereafter, at the time of the sṛṣṭi, the un-manifest gradually evolved into manifestation.

There is a gradual evolution or manifestation. Now, the question is, "is this manifestation of the universe governed by chance or governed by laws? Like the Darwin's theory of evolution, did it happen at random?" There was only molecules, matter alone. Matter was going round. By chance, some particular combination came; and by chance the combination became unicellular also! Why randomly it came? Again all the molecules were dashing about and another configuration came, by chance; and that was amoeba. "So, is it at random, governed by chance? Blind chance evolving out of inert and non thinking matter? Or, is it governed by any law and order?", if you ask, the śāstrā says, "it is governed by the law of karmā. The law of karmā.

Just as the assembly of the hall, like the bricks joining together is not a random combination; but, the brick has been arranged thoughtfully. Windows have to be provided, gaps have to provided, doors have to be provided. Thus, it is governed by plans, designs etc. Therefore, we say, "there is an intelligent principle - which governs, supervises, controls the law of karmā. kartu ājñayā prāptaye phalam karma kim param karma tad jayam - Inert matter, by chance, cannot form into a well-designed universe. Therefore, we say, ïśvarā visualised the CREATION. What is ĩśvarā? sat+un-manifest nāma-rũpa. Therefore, ĩśvarā contains within Himself, the entire jĩvā and the entire jagat. Cosmic pregnancy. Everything is inside. Hence, vināyakā has such a big stomach. Why vināyakā has such a big stomach? It has to accommodate the brahmānda!

The next question is, WHAT IS THE BASIS FOR BHAGAVĀN'S VISUALISATION? Is it governed by bhagavān's rāga-dveṣā; or, bhagavān's whim & fancy; or, is there something that governs bhagavān's visualisation? The śāstrā says, bhagavān's visualisation is governed by the law of karmā. Thus, the jĩvās are given the appropriate body, according to the law of karmā. paśu śarĩram, pakṣi śarĩram, manuṣya śarĩram, in manuṣya also, puruṣa śarĩram, strĩ śarĩram, healthy śarĩram, unhealthy śarĩram - the bodies are also governed by the law of karmā. Not only that, the setup also. Whether we have to be in Madras or America? The infrastructure or the environment. Both the body and the setup are governed by the karmā.

Therefore, ĩśvarā's visualisation is called sāmānya kāraņam. The jĩvā's karmā is called viśeṣa kāraṇam. Thus, governed by ĩśvarā & karmā; governed by ĩśvarā and karmā - the universe evolves or emerges. And therefore, this māyā sahitam brahma, the avyakta nāma-rũpam sahitam sat - otherwise called ĩśvarā - first visualises the universe.

Just as before building a house, how many plans you study. When you visit a home, you observe and notice. Because, so many plans are there. Once you decide to build or buy a house, whenever you visit someone, you see the house. Normally, you will not notice. But, once you decide - where should I keep the window, in windows what materials to use. Even that has 55 or 550 varieties. Even the handle of the door you have 100s of designs. So, once you decide, you visualise - before actualisation. Visualisation precedes actualisation. [I like this, it is good. 'Visualisation precedes actualisation']. Similarly, ĩśvarā also

"so'kāmayata | bahu syām prajāyeyeti | sa tapo'tapyata | sa tapastaptvā | ida sarvamasrjata | yadidam kiñca | tatsrṣṭvā | tadevānuprāviśat | tadanupraviśya | sacca tyaccābhavat | niruktam cāniruktam ca | nilayanam cānilayanam ca | vijñānam cāvijñānam ca | satyam cānṛtam ca satyamabhavat |" - taittirīyopaniṣat brahmānandavallī

satyam brahma evolved into this whole universe. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, tadaikṣata. tad means, what? That brahman, with māyā, aikṣata - visualised. With the help of what? māyā śakti. māyā has got icchā śakti, jñāna śakti, kriyā śakti. śrīlalitāsahasranāmā says – aikṣata - bhagavān visualised, what to do today? When you get up, you decide what to do today. Same way, bhagavān also visualised.

"icchā śakti, jñāna śakti, kriyā śakti svarũpiņĩ, sarvādhārā supratiṣṭhā sadsad rũpa dhāriņĩ".

What did He do? "bahu syāṃ prajāyeya" iti - let me multiply. bahu means, what? Plural. syā means, become. "Let me become pluralistic" because now I am non-dualistic or advaitam. In advaitam, what transaction you can do? Let, 'me' - the advaitam - become dvaitam as it where. Not by multiplying the sat. sat cannot be multiplied, just as gold continues to be one. Multiplication is at what level? nāma-rũpa multiplication. Multiplication of the nāma-rũpa appears as though the substance is multiplied. Substance does not multiply. Substance cannot multiply. Vidyāraṇyā tells elsewhere, "if substance multiplies, weight will increase". When you make ornaments, weight increases or decreases? Weight cannot increase. [Time has exceeded. We will see in next class].

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

6. Chapter 6.2.3

तदैक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तत्तेजोऽसृजत तत्तेज ऐक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तदपोऽसृजत । तस्माद्यत्र क्वच शोचति स्वेदते वा पुरुषस्तेजस एव तदध्यापो जायन्ते ॥

tadaikṣata bahusyām prajāyeyeti tattejo'srjata tatteja aikṣata bahusyām prajāyeyeti tadapo'srjata | tasmādyatra kvaca śocati svedate vā puruṣastejasa eva tadadhyāpo jāyante || 6.2.3 ||

The teacher uddālaka has established that "eka kāraņa vijñānena sarva kārya vijñānam bhavati" - 'by knowing one cause, all the effects or products can be known'; because, all the products are nothing but nāma-rũpa upon that one cause, only. Since the products are only nāma-rũpās, the products cannot not exist separate from the cause; just as, the ornaments cannot exist separate from gold. Since products do not have separate EXISTENCE, by knowing the CAUSE, we have essentially known all the PRODUCTS. Because, all the products are essentially that one CAUSE. If at all there are differences among the products, the differences are not essential differences; the differences are only in the superficial nāma-rũpa. Thus, "eka kāraņa vijñānena sarva kārya vijñānam bhavati" - he established. And therefore, if you know the one mũla kāraṇam of the universe, then by knowing that one mũla kāraṇam, the universe has been essentially understood; because, the universe is nothing but, that kāraṇam, with superficial nāma-rũpa differences. Therefore, the teacher uddālaka introduced the mũla kāraṇam called "brahman" - which was defined as "sat" - the PURE EXISTENCE. And then he pointed out that, BEFORE ALL THE PRODUCTS - IN THE FORM OF THE CREATION EMERGED - THAT MŨLA KĀRAŅAM BRAHMAN ALONE WAS THERE. From that brahman alone, the universe emerged.

Then, naturally, the next question will be, "if the products are nothing but the nāma-rũpa, from where do the nāma-rũpa come?" From where do the names and forms come? That question will come. For that vedāntā answers, 'ALL NĀMA-RŨPĀS WERE ALREADY EXISTENT IN BRAHMA NIṢṬHAIḤ - because, nāma-rũpās cannot come from outside, since nothing else was there before sṛṣṭi. Therefore, all the names and forms also existed in brahman only. When? Before the CREATION.

Then, the next question is, "how did the nāma-rũpa exist in brahman?" And for that we answer, THEY ALL EXISTED IN POTENTIAL FORM, DORMANT FORM. Like in a lump of clay, all the shapes are potentially hidden; and that is why by pressing the clay you are able to mould it into jug form, pot form, tray form, etc. From where do the forms come? Within the lump itself all the varied forms were there. But, in a dormant, avyakta form. Therefore, you should know -BEFORE THE CREATION BRAHMAN EXISTED; AND ALSO THE POTENTIAL NĀMA-RŨPA.

In Sanskrit it is called, avyakta nāma-rũpa, avyākṛta nāma-rũpa and this avyakta nāma-rũpa alone is called by various other names, also. One name is māyā. māyā is nothing but, avyakta or avyākṛta nāma-rũpa. The second name is prakṛtiḥ. So, before CREATION, brahman in the form EXISTENCE was there. And all the nāma-rũpās - names and forms - were there in un-manifest form. And this avyakta nāma-rũpam alone is known by different names, I said. One name is māyā. The second name is prakṛtiḥ. The third name is śaktiḥ. Thus, māyā, prakṛtiḥ, śaktiḥ, avyakta nāma-rũpa - all these are synonymous. And therefore, before CREATION, brahman + māyā were there. This mixture alone is called by the name ĩśvarā also.

Once we say this, another technical question will arise. Even though it is not discussed here, we have to note that point. If you say brahman and māyā both were there, then how does the upaniṣad say 'ekam eva advitĩyam'? This question you are supposed to ask! "If brahman alone is there, 'ekam eva advitĩyam' if you say, brahman and māyā were there you cannot say!" advitĩyam. So tell me, what is this māyā? Is this māyā different from brahman or part of brahman? Either way, you will have difficulty; because, if māyā is taken as different from brahman, then there will be duality. 'ekam eva advitĩyam' you cannot say; because, then, there will be two things. To avoid duality you have to solve the problem by saying that "māyā is an integral part of brahman". And since māyā is an integral part of brahman, it cannot be counted as a second thing; just as, I do not count my hand as the second thing. I do not say, "I am here and my hand also is here", we do not say. Similarly, to avoid duality, what should you say? "māyā is not a separate thing; it is an integral part of brahman".

But, once we say, 'it is an integral part of brahman', then also there will be a problem. Not a problem; many problems! Because, if māyā is a part of brahman, there will be svagata bheda - internal difference - within brahman. brahman is one and as it part māyā is there. svagata bheda problem will come. svagata bheda means what? Internal difference. Also, there will be a second problem. What is that? Once you accept māyā as an integral part of brahman when māyā undergoes change, the un-manifest nāma-rũpa change to become manifest nāma-rũpa, what will happen? māyā will also undergo change. And, māyā is an integral part of brahman. That means, brahman also will be subject to change! Therefore, you have a problem. IF YOU SEPARATE MĀYĀ, YOU HAVE A PROBLEM; IF YOU JOIN THE MĀYĀ WITH BRAHMAN, THAT IS ALSO A PROBLEM!

So, what is the status of māyā? Is it separate or non-separate? For that, the advaitin gives the answer - "anirvacanīyam". You cannot say it is separate also; you cannot say it is part also. bhinnatva abhinnatvābhyām anirvacanīyam. śańkarācāryā beautifully explains māyā in viveka cūdāmaņi –

sannāpyasannāpyubhayātmikā no bhinnāpyabhinnāpyubhayātmikā no | sāṅgāpyanaṅgā hyubhayātmikā no mahādbhutā'nirvacanīyarūpā || M-109

In pañcadaśï second chapter - and again in 6th chapter also - this discussion comes. So, the next question is, "then tell me, WHAT IS THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN BRAHMAN AND MĀYĀ?" What is the relationship between brahman and māyā? You have to tell something. Either you say different or you say non-different. Tell me something. The śāstrā says that, if at all you want to talk about a relationship, it is a exactly like the relationship between a person and his shadow. Suppose you want to talk about the relationship between a person and his shadow or a person and his reflection in the mirror. Is my reflection in the mirror, which reflection I am very clearly experiencing upon the mirror, is that reflection different from me or part of me? Is my pratibimba different or part of me? Suppose you say, the reflection is different, then even when I go away, the reflection should continue to exist?! Will it happen?! NO. Therefore, you cannot say, 'reflection is independent or different'. Okay. Can you say the reflection is an integral part of me? If it is an integral part of me, what will happen? When the reflection is destroyed or something happens to the reflection, it will affect me also! But you know, whatever happens to the reflection - even if it is destroyed, nothing happens to me.

THEREFORE, REFLECTION IS NEITHER AN INTEGRAL PART; NOR, IS IT AN INDEPENDENT THING; which relationship is called satya mithyā sambandha. One is, reality; and the other is, unreal. Like the pratibimba, it is experienced by me; but, it is not as real as me. Thus, māyā is there, exactly like the reflection; but, māyā is of a lower order of reality. It is called anṛtam. It is called mithyā. AND ANYTHING UNREAL, CANNOT BE SEPARATE FROM REAL; IT CANNOT BE PART OF REAL ALSO!

Similarly, māyā also is in brahman. It is neither separate nor is it part of brahman. So, what is the relationship between brahman and māyā? satyam and asatyam. Thus, before the CREATION, satyam brahma and mithyā māyā were there. Therefore, there is no question of duality. And not only there is no question of duality; when the mithyā māyā undergoes a change, the change of māyā will not affect brahman. Just as, the changes in the reflection will not affect the original. Therefore, māyā is in brahman; and that māyā evolves into the sṛṣṭi. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, that brahman - with māyā śakti - were there before CREATION. This alone is called ĩśvaraḥ.

Then what happened? [Look at mantrā number 3, first line]. tadaikṣata - tad means, what? brahma. What brahma? sat brahma. And what kind of sat brahma? māyā sahitam sat brahma. It is not bachelor brahma; but, married brahman! Because, householder brahman alone can father the world. Therefore, māyā sahitam brahman or īśvaraḥ was there. And what did that īśvarā do? aiksata. aikṣata means, what? Visualise. Visualised what? The entire māyā which is within itself; and within the māyā, the whole would be CREATION. CREATION is in what form? Potential form.

And what type of CREATION? All these jĩvās are there within the māyā, in dormant condition. We are all sleeping in ĩśvaraḥ. In māyā all the jĩvās are sleeping, in the form of the kāraṇa śarĩra or prājĩaḥ. If you remember tattvabodha, prājĩā is the jĩvā. kāraṇa śarĩra sahita caitanyam is prājĩaḥ. [Hope you remember] And this kāraṇa śarĩram started when? When did kāraṇa śarĩram begin? (ĐĻĢ ເວິດເໜ்டாம்னா [if you do not want reprimand] say the answer correctly! kāraṇa śarĩram is anādi. Therefore, the anādi jĩvā - the beginning-less jĩvā - was dormant within ĩśvarā. And not only it is the beginning-less jĩvā. How many jĩvās were there? Infinite jĩvās. INFINITE, BEGINNING-LESS JĨVĀS WERE THERE WITHIN ĨŚVARĀ, WITH ALL THERE SAḤCITA KARAMĀS WAITING TO SPROUT.

Not only all the jĩvās were potentially there. The entire universe, the 14 lokās, ākāśā, vāyu - everything - they were within ĩśvarā, māyā sahitam brahma. And therefore, what did ĩśvarā do? He looked within and looked at all the jĩvās; and He tapped his computer and saw what are their karmās which are ready for fructification. [We see the fixed deposits - what date they are maturing. We have to keep watching. Good banks are supposed to give you intimation; but they may miss. So you have to regularly see]. Similarly, ĩśvarā sees the saṃcita karmās for which jĩvā? All the jĩvās. And finds out which ones are all ready. And that is said here - aiksata. aikṣata means, visualised.

After visualising what did He decide? bahu syāṃ - 'let me multiply into many'. So, let me, who is one ĩśvarā multiply myself into infinite bhoktṛ jĩvās, and equally infinite bhogya prapañca. bhoktṛ bhogya rũpeṇa. Just as we do it regularly when we create a dream! Who creates the dream? I myself, with my māyā. You know what is my māyā? My mind. Within my mind, what is saṃcita karmā? All the vāsanās are there.

And what do I do? I activate the vāsanās; and out of the dormant vāsanās in the mind, what is created? Dream jĩvās are created; dream world is also created. And dream interactions, dream sukham, dream duḥkham. Similarly, ĩśvarā's mind is māyā; and His vāsanās are nothing but our saṃcita karmās. Out of that, He decides, 'let me become many jĩvās and many objects'. So bahu syāṃ - let me become many. And how to become many? prajāyeya - let me be born in the form of jĩvās. prajāyeya means, 'let me be born'; 'let me become'. Like, who becomes the dream-experiencer? 'I myself' create the dream world. And who enters the dream world? We are not calling people from outside! I myself enter the dream world as the dream jĩvā; and therefore, "let me become many, let me be born". This is within quotation. This is the thought of whom? ĩśvarā - the māyā sahitam brahman. During the present CREATION. [The present CREATION is first or last? The present CREATION is first or last? The present CREATION beginning-lessly comes and endlessly goes on. Therefore, contraction & expansion - goes on and on. We are talking about what? The present sṛṣți.

And thereafter, what did bhagavān do? He cannot directly produce the universe, for that raw material has to be created. Without raw materials nothing can be created. The whole universe is bhautika prapañca. The whole universe is bhautika prapañca. My body is bhautika śarĩram. My mind is bhautika mind. Everything is bhautikam. bhautikam means, what? Created out of pañca bhũtāni. Therefore, the pañca bhũtās are the raw material for the bhautika prapañca. Therefore, the upaniṣad talks about what? mahā bhũta sṛṣṭi. So, ĩśvarā created the mahā bhũtāni.

mahābhūtānyahaṅkāro buddhiravyaktameva ca I indriyāṇi daśaikaṃ ca pañca cendriyagocarāḥ I

Where does it come? In the 13th chapter of the Bhagvad Gĩtā [13-6]. And in chāndogya upaniṣad, especially in the ṣaṣṭha adyāya, the upaniṣad mentions only three elements instead of pañca bhũtāni. But, we should remember even though only three are mentioned, two additional ones we have to supply. So, throughout ṣaṣṭha adyāya the upaniṣad will talk about what? bhũta trayam. But, we have to understand, pañca bhũtām. Two are hidden. And what are the three elements mentioned? The upaniṣad leaves out ākāśā & vāyu. And why does it leave out ākāśā and vāyu? Because, both of them are not visible to the eyes; therefore, generally, we do not count them.

Suppose, I ask you to take an inventory of things in this hall. You will enumerate everything; but, you will miss two things. What are the two things ? ākāśā and vāyu. In this room ākāśā is there or not? If ākāśā is not there, if space is not there, you cannot sit. So, Space is there. What about vāyu? What is the proof vāyu is there? We are alive! So, even though ākāśā and vāyu are very much there, we generally do not enumerate. And, even though you do not enumerate, they are understood. Similarly, the upaniṣad leaves out ākāśā and vāyu and mentions agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ. Therefore, what is our work? Whenever it says agni, we should understand ākāśa vāyu sahita agniḥ. That, mentally, we should add. Therefore, the upaniṣad says tat. tat means, what? That brahman. What brahman? Bachelor brahman or householder brahman? Remember, māyā sahitam brahman. tat tejo'sṛjata - the created tejaḥ. tejaḥ means, what? agni tattvam.

And from this description, we come to know an important thing; which we have all studied. That we should remember. That îśvarā alone is the intelligent cause also; îśvarā alone is the material cause also. Because, it is said, tadaikṣata. îśvarā visualised. Therefore îśvarā must be the intelligent cause. Just as a carpenter visualises the furniture, the potter visualises the pot, îśvarā visualises the CREATION. Therefore, He is the intelligent creator. And not only He is the intelligent cause, what is the raw material? He took that from Himself only. He says, "let me become many". Therefore, pañca bhũtās came from where? pañca bhũtā's raw material is whom? îśvarā is the raw material out of which the bhũtās themselves came. And why do we say îśvarā is raw material? Because, other than îśvarā, nothing else is there to serve as the raw material. Therefore, we should add here that "brahman is nimitta, upādāna kāraņam of this universe".

[Incidentally, chāndogya upaniṣad can be studied well and understood well if a person has studied some of the other upaniṣads; and if there are fresh students, my recommendation is, to get full benefit, you should try to listen to some of the other upaniṣads, either from cassette or CDs. You try to do that. muṇḍaka kena katha etc. if you have that background, chāndogya will be understood better. I chose chāndogya here; because, already I have taken six upaniṣads in this centre. Therefore, I am assuming that the students have gone through some of the other upaniṣads. And so, if you have not gone through them, not that you will not understand anything. Some gaps will come. You will find in some places there may be some gaps. You ignore that gap and you have to make up by studying the other upaniṣads or wait for some other class, upaniṣad class, if I start somewhere. Hence, I am assuming that the student has gone through some of the other upaniṣad.]

And so, what is the well known example that we saw in mundaka upanisad? The example of the spider. Just as spider is the intelligent cause also; and, it is the raw material also! So, tat brahma, tejo'srjata. [For grammar students, the word is tat is neuter gender. So, ĩśvarā is neuter? How can you use the word tat? You should have said 'so kāmayata', saḥ ĩśvarā should you not have said? The upaniṣad uses a neuter pro-noun; because, ĩśvarā was initially introduced as sattveva somyedam agra āsīd. And in Sanskrit, the word sat is neuter gender. Therefore, here the word sat means, māyā sahitam tat brahma. tejo'srjata. tejaḥ is dvitĩyā vibhakti, object of asrjata]. ĩśvarā created agni tattvam. What type of agni? ākāśa vāyu sahita agni tattvam.

Thereafter what did ĩśvarā do? tat teja aikṣata - thereafter the agni tattvam has to produce the next element that is jala tattvam, if you remember taittirĩya upaniṣad [that is taken for granted].

"ātmana ākāśaḥ sambhūtaḥ | ākāśādvāyuḥ | vāyoragniḥ | agnerāpaḥ | adbhyaḥ pṛthivī |"

So, the agni has to create what? jala tattvam. And how did agni do that? The upaniṣad says, agni being matter, jaḍam in nature, a jaḍa tattvam cannot think and create properly. And therefore, ĩśvarā went inside the agni tattvam - as it were - and ĩśvarā, with agni tattvam, visualised to create jalam. Therefore, tat teja aikṣata. That brahman, along with agni tattvam [that is the first product] aikṣata - visualised. All these are very elaborately discussed in brahma sūtra. Very elaborately, we saw. [What to say and what not say I do not know. I am restraining myself]. Anyway, agni sahitam brahma or brahma sahita agniḥ aikṣata - visualised.

And what did it visualise? bahu syām prajāyeyeti - let me not remain merely as agni only. With agni alone what can we do? So, bahu syām - let me further multiply and become the next element. So, "bahu syām prajāyeya" - within inverted commas. iti - so decided īśvarā. Which īśvarā is now occupying agni. So, īśvarā "identified" with agni. Within inverted commas. bahu syām prajāyeya iti. Thereafter, what did īśvarā do? Out of the agni tattvam, tadaposrjata - īśvarā created jala tattvam. apah means, jala mahā bhũtam. [apah is, for Sanskrit grammar students, apah is dvitīyā bahu vacanam pakārāntaḥ strĩlińga "ap" śabdaḥ nityam bahu vacanāntaḥ. apah is dvitīyā vibhakti. You should not translate it as "water". In Sanskrit, always waters, plural is used]. So, īśvarā created the waters. mahā bhũtam. So from agni the jala tattvam came.

There is a next question that is to be asked when we talk about the mahā bhūta sṛṣṭi, "are you referring to sthūla bhūtāni or sūkṣma bhūtāni?" Do you remember that. In tattvabodha we talked about subtle elements and gross elements. Which one was created first we saw in tattvabodha. First, the sũkṣma bhũtāni, the subtle; thereafter alone, the sthũla bhũtāni. Therefore, we have to note here sũkṣma tejaḥ asṛjata; anantaram sũkṣma jalam asṛjata. The subtle fire was created; and out of the subtle fire, the subtle jalam - water - is created.

Then the next question is, how can water be created out of fire? How can water be created out of fire? I am not able to understand. So, the upanişad says, I will give you some examples so that you will believe that. Because, intellect has to swallow it in some way or the other. The upanişad says, I will give you an example. What is that? tasmādyatra kvaca śocati - whenever a person experiences sorrow [and in Sanskrit, sorrow is called manas tāpaḥ. Mind getting heated up or mind getting jvaraḥ, mental jvaram. Pain or grief or sorrow]. Therefore, whenever there is śocaḥ or tāpaḥ - grief or sorrow - in the mind, out of that tāpaḥ, the heat, [the mental heat], what is born? Tears are born. What a logic?! From heat come the tears. And what are the tears? āpaḥ! Therefore, agnerāpaḥ. That is why when a person is not having sorrow, when a person does not get sorrow and he does not react to a difficult situation, what do we say in English? He is very cool. Very cool means, what? Will his body temperature come down? Means, at the mental level when there is no reaction, we say, 'he is cool'. If no reaction is coolness, reaction is what? Getting heated up! Out of that what comes? Tears come. And therefore, agni is the kāraṇam for jalam.

And then the upaniṣad says, if you are not convinced by this example, I will give you one more. [There is no scarcity; how many ever you want we will give!] Whenever during summer your body gets warmed up, heated up. What comes? You are sweating. And what happens during sweat? Water comes from the body. Because of what? Excess heat! So, agnerāpaḥ. That is it; you can go.

Therefore, yatra kvaca śocati = whenever somebody is heated up within in the mind or whenever a person is heated up in the body. Mental heat produce tears. Physical heat produces sweat. Either way, out of agni tattvam jala tattvam comes. Therefore, agnerāpah. So, svedate vā puruṣah. sveda is, sweat. svedanam means, sweating. And when that happens, svedate vā - out of internal heat or external heat alone, āpah adhy jāyante. So, adhyāpah in the mũlam. You have to split it as adhy+āpah. tadadhyāpah, that you have split it as tat+adhy+āpah. And the adhy word should be connected with jāyante as the prefix; and you should take the verb as adhyjāyante and what adhy jāyante? āpah adhy jāyante - waters are born out of the heat / agni. Thus, what all are associated? agni and jalam. That is why today we got plenty of jalam also! [Swāmĩji is referring to the heavy rains during the class!]

And out of jalam has to be created the bhũmi tattvam, pṛthivĩ tattvam - which comes in the next ślokā, the next mantrā, which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

7. Chapter 6.2.3 and 6.2.4 and 6.3.1 to 6.3.4

तदैक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तत्तेजोऽसृजत तत्तेज ऐक्षत बहु स्यां प्रजायेयेति तदपोऽसृजत । तस्माद्यत्र क्वच शोचति स्वेदते वा पुरुषस्तेजस एव तदध्यापो जायन्ते ॥

tadaikṣanta bahusyām prajāyeyeti tattejo'srjata tatteja aikṣanta bahusyām prajāyeyeti tadapo' srjata | tasmādyatra kvaca śocati svedate vā puruṣastaijasa eva tadadhyāpo jāyante || 6.2.3 ||

The teacher uddālaka wants to talk about the mũla kāraṇam of the universe by talking about the sṛṣṭi and He is going to point out that sat brahman is the mũla kāraṇam and the entire universe is its product, brahma kāryam. And by showing this, the teacher can establish that, there is no universe separate from brahman; because, any product is only nāma and rũpa. Substance is the mũla kāraṇam only. And to establish this, the teacher has entered into the sṛṣṭi prakaraṇam. And this can be taken as the 'tat' pada vicārā of the mahā vākyam; because, whenever we analyse the creation, it is paramātma vicārāḥ. And this will go up to section number 7. And, from section 8, the jīvātmā vicārā will start; and thereafter, the aikyam also will be revealed, in the form of 'tat tvam asi'. Therefore, we can take it as "jagat kāraṇa vicārā" or "tat pada vicārā" - to establish that brahman alone is appearing as the world, with different nāma rũpā.

The CREATION going to be presented in a few stages. First, the upaniṣad talks about the sūkṣma bhūta sṛṣṭi - the CREATION of the SUBTLE ELEMENTS. Thereafter, the upaniṣad will talk about sthūla bhūta sṛṣṭi - the CREATION of the GROSS ELEMENTS. And thereafter, it will go to the bhautika sṛṣṭi. bhautika sṛṣți means what? BORN OUT OF THE BHŨTĀS. The UNIVERSE, born out of the bhūtās. Thus, sūkṣma bhūta sṛṣți, sthūla bhūta sṛṣți and thereafter bhautika sṛṣți. And the bhautika sṛṣți also will be divided into two. 1] One is bāhya bhautika sṛṣți consisting of the external universe. Because the universe is the product of the elements. 2] And it will also talk about āntara bhautika sṛṣți consisting of our own body; because, body is also made up of the bhūtās alone. Thus, sUBJECTIVE bhautika sṛṣți, as well as the OBJECTIVE bhautika sṛṣți. With this, the sṛṣți prakaraṇam will be over. sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣți sthũla bhũta sṛṣți, bāhya bhautika sṛṣți, āntara bhautika sṛṣți. This is how the development is going to go.

Of this, in the second section, the sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi is talked about. The CREATION of the subtle elements. As we saw in the last class, here, the upaniṣad does not talk about the pañca bhũtās. It does not mention ākāśā and vāyu; because, both of them are not visible. And therefore, they are not mentioned. But, in our mind, WE HAVE TO INCLUDE ākāśā and vāyu also. As I gave the example, in the hall what all things are there, if somebody asks, we will enumerate - people, chair, fan, bulb etc. Two of the things we will not enumerate; but, they are understood. What are those two? ākāśā [space] is there, even though we do not mention. vāyu [air] is also there; but, nobody will mention that. What is the proof vāyu is there? We are still surviving! And therefore, agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ, three bhũtās alone are to be mentioned; but, in the agni, you have to MENTALLY INCLUDE ākāśā and vāyu. So, when the upaniṣad says, "agni is born", how should we understand? ākāśā vāyu sahita agniḥ jāyata. Thereafter, from agni what was created? jalam was created. And we should remember, we are talking about sũkṣma or sthũla here? In this section, we are talking about the sũkṣma bhũta only. In the next, 3rd section only we will get the gross elements. In this section we have completed the third mantrā, in which the jala sṛṣṭi from agni has been talked about. And now, we have to go to the pṛthivĩ sṛṣṭiḥ. That will be said in the 4th mantrā we will enter into.

ता आप ऐक्षन्त बह्व्यः स्याम प्रजायेमहीति ता अन्नमसृजन्त तस्माद्यत्र क्व च वर्षति तदेव भूयिष्ठमन्नं भवत्यद्भ्य एव दध्यन्नाद्यं जायते ॥

tā āpa aikṣanta bahvyaḥ syāma prajāyemahīti tā annamasrjanta tasmādyatra kva ca varṣati tadeva bhūyiṣṭhamannaṃ bhavatyadbhya eva tadadhyannādyaṃ jāyate ‖ 6.2.4‖

So, now, from the jala tattvam, the pṛthivĩ is to be created. Before that, the upaniṣad says, the jala tattvam visualised, so that, it can convert or produce out of itself the pṛthivĩ tattvam. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, 'tā āpa aikṣanta' - the waters visualised. And naturally, we will get a question, "how can waters visualise?!" Because, water is only one of the elements; and an element is jaḍam or cetanam? It is only a jaḍa, acetana tattvam. How CAN AN ACETANA TATTVAM VISUALISE AND DELIBERATELY EVOLVE? This question will come. upaniṣad wants to answer that question. The upaniṣad says, 'water by itself cannot evolve into earth; because, it is an inert principle. And an inert principle cannot INTELLIGENTLY evolve into the CREATION'. Therefore, the upaniṣad wants to say that, 'THE INERT PRINCIPLE IS BLESSED BY ĩśvARA TATTVAM. Thus, backed by ĩśvarā alone, all the inert matter evolved into the universe'.

Otherwise, it will be like the sāmkhya sṛṣṭi. sāmkhya philosopher says, 'matter by itself evolved into the universe!' Because, sāmkhya philosophy does not accept īśvarā; like, the modern scientist. What do the modern scientist say? They say, 'the big bang took place and matter by chance evolved into unicellular organisms, multi cellular organisms'. 'Who did this?', if you ask, they say, 'just by chance this all happened. What about ĩśvarā? The scientist says, 'there is no proof for ĩśvarā'. Thus, 'matter evolved by itself', he says.. sāṃkhya philosopher is like the modern scientist. He says, 'the inert prakṛiti evolves by itself'. Whereas, the upaniṣad says, UNINTELLIGENT MATTER CANNOT EVOLVE INTO THIS INTELLIGENT UNIVERSE AND THEREFORE WE SAY MATTER BACKED BY ĨŚVARĀ EVOLVES. Just as a car backed by the intelligent driver, [normally intelligent; sometimes he will do otherwise!] Backed by the intelligent driver, the inert car moves intelligently. How to present that?

So, when the upaniṣad says, 'water visualised', how should you understand it? 'WATER, BACKED BY BRAHMAN. WATER, BACKED BY ĨŚVARĀ. WATER, BLESSED BY CIDĀBHĀSA, THE INTELLIGENT PRINCIPLE. It thought - as it were - and intelligently evolved. Therefore, here āpaḥ means, ap sahita ĩśvaraḥ. The LORD, with the waters; or, the waters, backed by ĩśvarā, visualised. So, āpaḥ aikṣanta. Remember, even now, when our brain is thinking and planning, what type of brain is thinking? You know. Brain, by itself, is what? Only inert principle! What is the proof ? After a few years, you will know our brain is only inert. Now, that inert brain is thinking; because of what? Because, it is backed by cidābhāsa. Once the cidābhāsa leaves the body, the brain will become what? Dead matter.

So, here, the upaniṣad wants to say that, 'the water, backed by ĩśvarā - the cidābhāsa tattvam -visualised'. And what did it visualise? bahvyaḥ syāma. 'Let me not remain as water only; let me evolve into pṛthivĩ. Multiply or evolve into pṛthivĩ. Let me be born in the form of the pṛthivĩ tattvam.' And after this visualisation, what did the water do? tā annmasrjanta - the waters created the annam. 'annam', literally means, food. But, in this context, 'annam' represents the pṛthivĩ tattvam. Because, food is born out of what? The earth only. Therefore, by lakṣaṇayā, by implication, the word 'annam' means, pṛthivĩ tattvam or bhūmiḥ in this context. Here, taḥ means, waters. annmasrjanta - evolved into sũkṣma pṛthivĩ. And if somebody asks, 'how can water produce annam', if somebody asks, the upaniṣad says, 'you experience it regularly!'

How do you experience? The upaniṣad says, tasmādyatra kva ca varṣati whenever there is plenty of rain out of rainy waters what is born? Immediately after rain we get what? Plenty of plants and sprouts mushrooming. Before rains it was not there; after rains, all forms of food [crops] come. Thus, anvaya vyatirekābyām, jalam annasya kāraṇam bhavati. So, jalam pṛthivyaḥ, anna upalakṣita pṛthivyaḥ, kāraṇam. Hence, the upaniṣad says, yatra kva ca varṣati - wherever there is rain, tadeva bhūyiṣṭham annaṃ bhavati - there is plenty of annam. So, annam/food represents pṛthivĩ. bhūyiṣṭham means, what? Plenty of annam. anna samṛddhiḥ, Therefore, what is the conclusion? adbhya eva - from the jala tattvam alone adhyannādyaṃ jāyate. How do you split it? adhi+ annādyaṃ the portion adhi must be connected with jāyate; and you should read it as, adhijāyate. And what adhijāyate? annādyaṃ! annādyaṃ means, what? The food for consumption. annādyaṃ means, consumable food. Nourishing food.

Thus, agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ bhũta trayam is born. All of them are sthũla or sũkṣmam? sũkṣma bhũta trayam is born. In the chāndogya upaniṣad the three elements are indicated by a particular idiom. That idiom we should remember. agni is called tejaḥ. jalam is called ap. And earth is called annam. So, tejaḥ ap annam. If you join these three together it will become tejobhannam. tejaḥ+ap +annam = tejobhannam. bhannam does not mean bun, roti etc. tejaḥ+ap+annam or, tejobhanna bhũta trayam sṛṣṭam. With this, the upaniṣad concludes sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi and here after, what should come? The sthũla bhũta sṛṣṭi should come. That comes in the third section. We will read.

Sixth chapter - Section 3

तेषां खल्वेषां भूतानां त्रीण्येव बीजानि भवन्त्याण्डजं जीवजमुद्भिज्जमिति ॥

teşām khalveşām bhūtānām trīņyeva bījāni bhavanty āņdajam jīvajamudbhijjamiti 6.3.1

You have to imagine ĩśvarā has created the sũkṣma bhũtāni; and before creating further, ĩśvarā is visualising the FINAL CREATION that is going to come ultimately. Now, we are only in the intermediary state; but, bhagavān is taking a short-break as-it-were; and he is visualising "what type world it is going to be?" and ĩśvarā visualises a world which varieties of living beings are going to occupy. ĩśvarā visualises all the living beings can be broadly classified into three varieties. And the three varieties of living beings are to be created. Not now, ultimately they have to come. Naturally the question is, "what are the three types of living beings?" This mantrā is visualisation of the FINAL sṛṣți which is not created now. This is only visualisation.

What did ĩśvarā do? teṣāṃ khalu eṣāṃ bhūtānāṃ. Here the word bhūtānāṃ refers to all the living beings. Not the three elements / sthũla or sũkṣma elements; because, that is now. But, here, bhagavān is visualising the final living beings. They are also called what? bhūtās. Confusing. They are also called bhũtāni. And, for all these varieties of living beings to be born, trīņyeva bījāni bhavanti - there are only three basic causes. They will come under only three categories. trīņyeva bījāni bhavanti. And based on the type of their emergence the type of their birth, they are going to be divided. What are they? āņḍajaṃ jīvajamudbhijjamiti.

1. āņḍajaṃ. All the living beings which are born out of āṇḍam. āṇḍam means what? Egg born. All types of birds, all types of snakes, all types of insects - including mosquitoes. They all will come under what? āṇḍajaṃ or āṇḍagam. This is one variety.

2. What is second variety jīvajam. All those living beings which are directly born out of the womb of the parent. Womb-born living beings. All the mammals - which include the human beings, and all other animals which are directly born out of the mother. They will come under jīvajam category.

3. What is the third one? udbhijjam. udbhijjam means, all those living beings which are born out of the earth. What are they? All kinds plant kingdom. Plant, trees etc which exist in the form of seed under the ground and from under the ground how do they come out? By breaking open the earth they come out. Therefore, they are called, udbhijjam. udbhijja means, what? Breaking open the ground. And what are they? All the plants. Thus, āṇḍajaṃ, jīvajam, udbhijjam will include all animals, all plants, all insects, all birds, all snakes, reptiles - in short, all types of living beings.

ïśvarā thought, 'I am going to CREATE. For that, I have to get ready now. What should I do for that? Now, I have only the sũkṣma bhũtāni. Out of the sũkṣma bhũtās, I have to CREATE everything. The recipe is there. The raw materials are there. I have to make sāmbār, rasam, chappātti and all. Raw materials are there'. Commentators point out, [this upanisad has got a very, very elaborate commentary] - there is a reference eşām bhūtānām. esām bhūtānām means, ALL THESE LIVING BEINGS. Now, how can the upanisad say these living beings? You can use word these - only if they are available in front. How can the upanisad use the word these? They say, this word is used because, ALL THESE LIVING BEINGS ARE ALREADY EXISTENT IN MĀYĀ! All these living beings - which are to be created later - they are already existent! In the form of what? The karana śarīram. The karana śarīra pratibimbita caitanyam is called what? prājňah. If you remember the word prājňā, it will be good. So, in the form of prājňa jĩvās, the living beings are already existent within māyā, with infinite samcita karmā. ĩśvarā is visualising all the sleeping jīvās. All the dormant jīvās. And their karmās are going to fructify. Therefore, even though we do not experience, bhagavān can visualise the dormant jĩvās. So, esām bhūtānām refers to what? All the jĩvās which are dormant in the māyā of bhagavān. Therefore, he says, 'these jīva rāsīs, I am going to create'.

Continuing.

सेयं देवतैक्षत हन्ताहमिमास्तिस्रो देवता अनेन जीवेनात्मनानुप्रविश्य नामरूपे व्याकरवाणीति ॥

seyam devatāikṣata hantāhamimāstisro devatā anena jīvenātmanānupraviśya nāmarūpe vyākaravānīti || 6.3.2 ||

The upanişad presents the CREATION only in dots and dashes. It does not explain all the stages completely. In between, certain stages are skipped by the upanişad. Based on our study of tattva bodha, we have to fill-up the blanks in-between. Now, we have to supply some intermediary stage. What is that? These subtle elements are there. And out of the subtle elements all the subtle bodies and the subtle universe are evolved. That stage is not mentioned. sũkşma bhũtā will produce what? sũkşma prapañca and sũkşma śarĩrāņi. And that we have to supply. Out of the sũkşma bhũtāni, all these have been created. How? Backed by ĩśvarā, blessed by cidābhāsā.

After the CREATION of sũkṣma prapañca and all these sũkṣma śarĩrams, bhagavān visualised that, 'I SHOULD ENTER ALL THE sũkṣma śarĩram AND THE ENTIRE sũkṣma prapañca IN THE FORM OF THE REFLECTED CONSCIOUSNESS. In the form of cidābhāsa, pratibimba caitanyam,

I should enter what? All the subtle bodies and the subtle universe'. Once the cidābhāsa pervades all the sũkṣma śarĩram, what is the name of the cidābhāsa obtaining in sũkṣma śarĩram? Do you remember? The CONSCIOUSNESS reflected in sthũla śarĩram is called taijasa. Until now, who was there? prājña and ĩśvarā were there. Now, after the CREATION of sũkṣma śarĩram and sũkṣma prapañcā, what happens? The reflection is extended to that also. The REFLECTED CONSCIOUSNESS in the sũkṣma śarĩram is called taijasa. And the CONSCIOUSNESS reflected in the samaṣṭi sũkṣma prapañcā, [what is its name? hiraṇyagarbhaḥ]. Therefore, ĩśvarā decided, 'now let me become what? taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha. How? By entering the śarĩram and prapañca. In what form? In the form of my own reflection'. Just as once a mirror is set in my front, I enter the mirror in what way? Not directly; but, in the form of my reflection in the mirror.

Suppose you keep another mirror what do I do? I enter that also. Suppose there is a third mirror, I enter that also. You keep 100 mirrors, I enter all of them also. Since I enter several mirrors will I get tired? Entering one mirror after another, am I so tired? No. FOR THE ORIGINAL TO ENTER IN THE FORM OF REFLECTION, THERE IS NO EFFORT. IT WILL AUTOMATICALLY HAPPEN. Similarly, ïśvarā, sańkalpa mātreņa He entered the universe in the form of all the taijasās and all the hiraṇyagarbhās you should not say. No all. Only ONE hiraṇyagarbha. taijasa is micro reflection; hiraṇyagarbha is macro reflection. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, 'anena jīvenātmanānupraviśya' - let me enter all the sũkṣma śarĩrams and the sũkṣma prapañcā in the form of these jīvātmās. And what do you mean by the word jīvātmā here? taijasa, hiraṇyagarbha rūpeṇa. Previously what was there? prājña and ĩśvarā were there. When did prājña and ĩśvarā come into being? prājña and ĩśvarā came when? They do not come. They are anādi. taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha emerge once the sũkṣma prapañca is created. So, anupraviśyāmi - let me become that.

And thereafter, what? Becoming taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha will not complete the CREATION. The taijasa, with sũkṣma śarĩram, can never experience the world. To experience the world, sũkṣma śarĩram is not enough. We require one more. What is that one more? sthũla śarĩram is required. And, mere sthũla śarĩram also is not enough! sthũla prapañcā is required. And sthũla śarĩram is not enough, reflected CONSCIOUSNESS is required. So, bhagavān thought ānupraviśyāmi. Thereafter, nāmarūpe vyākaravāņīti. "Let me create all the sthũla śarĩram and the sthũla prapañca!" nāma rũpa vyākaraṇam means, what? The emergence of all the sthũla śarĩram and also sthũla prapañca. And not only that; there must be the cidābhāsa also. And the CONSCIOUSNESS reflected in the sthũla śarĩram, is called what? Do you remember? viśva. And the CONSCIOUSNESS reflected in the macro is called what? virāt. Therefore, nāma rũpa vyākaravāņi means, 'let me become sthũla śarĩram and viśva. Let me become sthūla prapañca and virāt. Let me expand into all these items. And this expansion is called, nāmarūpe vyākaraņam. vyākaraņam means, expansion. Thus, prājña to taijasa to viśva, īśvarā to hiraņyagarbha to virāt - in this fashion, 'let me expand'. ONLY AFTER THE TOTAL EXPANSION, ALL THE TRANSACTIONS CAN BEGIN.

sarvāņi bhūtāni vicitya dhīraḥ I nāmāni kṛtvā'bhivadan yadāste I Do you know where it comes? In puruṣasūktam. sarvāņi bhūtāni vicitya dhīraḥ. dhīraḥ means bhagavān. nāmāni kṛtvā. He created all the rūpams; means, the śarĩrams also. All the nāmās also. rāmā, kṛṣṇā, govindā, lakṣmĩ, sarasvatĩ all the nāmās. Tom, Dick and Harry also you can add. All the nāmās and rūpās bhagavān CREATED. Thereafter, bhagavān alone is doing what? All the vyavahārā, abhivadan āste. Therefore, "nāmarūpe vyākaravāņi". [This is within quotation]. In this manner devatāikṣata - ĩśvarā visualised. And then what did He do ?

Continuing.

तासां त्रिवृतं त्रिवृतमेकैकां करवाणीति सेयं देवतेमास्तिस्रो देवता अनेनैव जीवेनात्मनानुप्रविश्य नामरूपे व्याकरोत् ॥

tāsām trivrtam trivrtamekaikām karavānīti seyam devatemāstisro devatā anenaiva jīvenātmanānupraviśya nāmarūpe vyākarot || 6.3.3 ||

Then iśvarā visualised - 'now what is there?' sūkṣma bhūtāni, sūkṣma śarīrāṇi, sūkṣma prapañcah, taijasa, hiraṇyagarbha - all of them would have come now. Will come now. And thereafter, I have to create sthūla śarīram, sthūla prapañca, viśva, virāt - all of them should emerge. But, the elements obtaining now are sūkṣma bhūtāni. Out of the subtle elements, the gross universe cannot be directly created. The gross body also cannot be created out of the subtle elements. Subtle elements can create only what? Subtle body and subtle universe. The gross body and gross universe can never be created out of the subtle elements. Therefore, what did bhagavān think? "I have to convert the subtle elements into the gross elements". sūkṣma bhūtāni must be converted into sthūla bhūtāni. And how can you do that? Only by mixing the subtle elements in a particular proportion. Only when an alloy of the elements are independent, they are only subtle; only when alloys are made out of them - [How? By appropriate combination] - they will be converted into the sthūla.

And how did He do that? In tattva bodha we have seen. But, in tattva bodha, there were five elements; whereas, here, we have got only three elements. And therefore, the combination has to be done in a peculiar way. What is that? Each element is first divided into two halves.

Therefore, we have half agni and half jalam. Two equal portions each of agni, jalam and earth. Thereafter, what did they do? One part out of these 2 portions of each element is further divided into two. So that means what? We will have one half + one quarter + one quarter of agni. agni will have three portions. 1/2 + 1/4 + 1/4. Similarly, jalam will be 1/2 + 1/4 + 1/4. Similarly, earth will be 1/2 + 1/4 + 1/4.

Thereafter, what do you do? They have to be inter-mixed. What should be the mixture. In the first group, Half of agni, one quarter of jalam and one quarter of earth will be there. This mixture of agni, jalam and earth will become what? Grossified mixture. So, the subtle, invisible, will become the tangible or visible mixture. This is called sthũla agni. What is the composition of sũkṣma agni? sũkṣma agni will have only agni. That is why it is called tanmātrā [merely that]. sũkṣma agni is called tanmātrā; because, sũkṣma agni will have only agni. Whereas, sthũla agni will have what? Three items. That is - agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ.

Then, the next question is, 'if sthũla agni has got all the three, [all the three means what? agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ] 'how do you call it "agni"?' You should have called it miśram / mixture?! If sthũla agni has got all the three, why do you call it agni? For that we give the answer, "in this mixture, agni is 50% and jalam and pṛthivĩ are only 25% each. [One quarter is 25%]. Therefore, it is called sthũla agni". Similarly, sthũla jalam will have what? Half of jalam. 50% of jalam and 25% agni and 25% pṛthivĩ. Similarly, sthũla pṛthivĩ will have. And this process is called "trivṛt karaṇam". trivṛt karaṇam means, what? Grossification process. In tattva bodha, this process was called pancĩkaraṇam. And why have you changed the name? Because, there 5 elements; therefore, we call it pancĩkaraṇam. Here, three elements therefore we call it trivṛt karaṇam.

And after the trivṛt karaṇam we get what? sthũla agni, sthũla jalam and sthũla pṛthiv. Therefore, ĩśvarā thought - [all these are ĩśvarā's thinking] - ĩśvarā visualised, "let me grossify the elements". So, the mantrā says, tāsāṃ - those subtle elements; ekaikāṃ - each one of them; trivṛtam trivṛtam karavāṇi - "I shall make a mixture consisting of this proportion". Each element will become a mixture of three elements, with what proportion? 50% of one and 25% each of the other two. karavāṇi iti. iti means, what? "Thus, ĩśvarā visualised". Since He is in still visualisation process. Cooking has not yet started. Today what is to be done is, "thought of". Cooking itself is not yet started. ĩśvarā still in the meditation process. What meditation? "Cooking meditation!" And then what did He do? seyam devatā imāḥ tisro devatā. seyam devatā means, that ĩśvarā. imāḥ tisro devatā - entered the three subtle elements. And anena jīvena ātmanā anupraviśya - in what form? In the form of taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha, the LORD entered the subtle elements. Subtle elements include what? Subtle bodies and the subtle universe - all of them He entered - in the form of pratibimba caitanyam, known as taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha. And thereafter, anupraviśya nāmarūpe vyākarot. ULTIMATELY, HE CREATED THE UNIVERSE. We have to supply. Again there is a gap "after grossification of the elements". That grossification process will be mentioned later. So, we have to supply "after grossification", finally, ĩśvarā CREATED sthũla śarĩram, sthũla prapañca, viśva, virāt - all of them.

Continuing.

तासां त्रिवृतं त्रिवृतमेकैकामकरोद्यथा तु खलु सोम्येमास्तिस्रो देवतास्त्रिवृत्त्रिवृदेकैका भवति तन्मे विजानीहीति ॥ tāsāṃ trivṛtaṃ trivṛtamekaikāmakarodyathā tu khalu somyemāstisro devatāstrivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati tanme vijānīhīti ॥ 6.3.4 ॥

So, after becoming taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha, what did ĩśvarā do? In the previous verse, the visualisation was done. In this verse alone the implementation is taking place. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, ekaikām trivṛtaṃ trivṛtam akarod. That is why if you look at the Sanskrit verb also, previously it is karavāṇi; now, it is akarod. karavāṇi means what? Let me do that. That is only visualisation. akarod means, bhagavān 'implemented' what He visualised. So, ekaikām trivṛtaṃ trivṛtaṃ akarod. And therefore, what happened? ekaikā trivṛt trivṛt bhavati. So, "hey somya, [in between guru is checking if śiṣyā is sleeping! Only one student. And if he also sleeps, what will the guru do?! He wants to make sure that the son, [what is the name of the son? Do you remember? I am not asking the name of your son! Name of uddālaka's son. śvetaketu]. 'hey somya, śvetaketu, ekaikā trivṛt trivṛt trivṛt shavati'. ekaikā means, each one of the subtle elements.

And here also one unique thing you have to note is what? Each element, the upaniṣad calls by the name "devatā". So, here, the word 'devatā' refers to what? agni tattvam, jala tattvam and pṛthivĩ tattvam. Normally, we should use the word 'bhũtāni'; but, the upaniṣad uses the word 'devatā'. And why should the upaniṣad do that? Is it not confusing?! Remember there is a significance. The significance is that, the ELEMENT IS PERVADED BY THE INTELLIGENT īśvarā. During sandhyā vandha-nam we are worshipping sũryaḥ. But, we do not say, "we are worshipping the sun". Why? Because, the sun is an inert mass of what? Helium only. Hydrogen-helium mass of gas only. What benefit you will get by doing namaskārā to the inert sun?! You will be wasting the time. Therefore, we say, "we are not worshipping the 'sũryaḥ'.

sũryā is pervaded by, what? The cidābhāsa virāt tattvam. Therefore, we are not worshipping acetana sũryaḥ. But, we are worshipping cetana sũry devatā!" And, to show that elements are pervaded by the caitanyam tattvam, the upaniṣad is using the word devatā. And that is why we say, 'agni devatā' visualised; 'jala devatā' visualised. We are using these expression devatā; because, even though they are superficially jaḍam, THEY ARE PERVADED BY THE CETANA TATTVAM.

Therefore, ekaikā trivrt trivrt bhavati. There, the order should be changed. trivrt trivrt ekaikā bhavati should not say. ekaikā - each one, becomes a mixture of three. Thereafter, you have to supply a few steps. The upaniṣad swallows that; and so, what we should supply? THE GROSS ELEMENTS ARE CREATED. THEREAFTER, GROSS BODY AND GROSS UNIVERSE ARE ALL CREATED. Details in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

8. Chapter 6.3.4, 6.4.1 to 6.4.2

तासां त्रिवृतं त्रिवृतमेकैकामकरोद्यथा तु खलु सोम्येमास्तिस्रो देवतास्त्रिवृत्त्रिवृदेकैका भवति तन्मे विजानीहीति ॥

tāsām trivrtam trivrtamekaikāmakarodyathā tu khalu somyemāstisro devatāstrivrttrivrdekaikā bhavati tanme vijānīhīti || 6.3.4 ||

The teacher, uddālakā, has started the teaching introducing the jagat kāraṇam brahma as pure existence, which is endowed with the māyā śakti. And, this brahman, with creative māyā śakti, is the jagat kāraṇam. Minus the māyā śakti, brahman cannot play the role of kāraṇam. brahman by itself is kārya kāraṇa vilakṣaṇam. Therefore, brahman gets the 'kāraṇā status' only when associated with māyā; just as, any human being will get the status of a parent, only when associated with the spouse. Without the spouse association, neither the male, nor the female, can become a parent. Therefore, we should remember that, brahman depends upon māyā to be the kāraṇam. māyā also depends upon brahman to be the kāraṇam. Both of them are mutually dependent to become the cause of the universe.

So, naturally, the question will come, [it is an aside topic] if both brahman and māyā are mutually dependent, 'how do you say brahman is independent and satyam'? In fact, we define, "that which is independent is satyam; and that which is dependent is called mithyā". Based on that, we say, 'brahman is independent; therefore, satyam'. 'māyā is dependent; therefore, mithyā' - this is our regular talk. Now, you are quietly changing the stand, thinking that we will not notice?! We are intelligent students; therefore, we will ask the question, "how do you say 'both are mutually dependent'?" So, this we have very, very carefully understand.

brahman and māyā are mutually dependent to produce the universe. To be the srṣṭi kāraṇam, both of them mutually are dependent. Whereas, when it comes to the existence, brahman exists independent of māyā. Whereas māyā's very existence is dependent on brahman. brahman is called 'satyam'; because, it has an independent existence. When brahman wants to produce the universe, it is dependent on māyā. But, for pure existence, brahman is independent; therefore, it is called satyam. Whereas, in the case of māyā, not only to produce the universe it depends on brahman; even for its mere existence it depends on brahman. Therefore, māyā is called mithyā. mithyā and satyam are thus based on the dependence for existence. So, that is an aside topic. Here, we are not talking about EXISTENCE; but, we are talking about the CREATION of the universe. For that, brahman uses the māyā śakti; and if somebody asks, 'will it not cause a duality?' brahman is there, māyā is there, will it not be dvaitam if they ask, we say, EVEN THOUGH WE SAY BRAHMAN AND MĀYĀ, WE DO NOT ACCEPT EQUAL DEGREE OF REALITY FOR THEM; BECAUSE, BRAHMAN IS EXISTENT INDEPENDENTLY; MEANS, IT IS SATYAM. WHEREAS, MĀYĀ IS DEPENDENTLY EXISTENT; AND SO IS MITHYĀ. SO, MITHYĀ MĀYĀ CANNOT BE COUNTED AS NUMBER 2. This is exactly like what? My image in the mirror. Even though I do experience my image in the mirror, I will not count it as number two.

The pāramārthika satyam brahman and vyāvahārika satyam māyā, these two were existing before. In this māyā, there are two portions. One is called kāraṇa śarĩram; and the other is called kāraṇa prapañca. The potential bodies are also there in that. The potential universe is also there. Both micro and macro were hidden in that māyā. brahman was blessing the kāraṇa śarĩram and kāraṇa prapañca, by having the cidābhāsā upon it. The cidābhāsā upon the kāraṇa śarĩram is called prājña. The cidābhāsā upon the kāraṇa

Thereafter, what happened? From the māyā evolves the subtle elements, the sũkṣma bhũtāni; the subtle bodies, the sũkṣma śarĩrāṇi; and, all the subtle universes, the sũkṣma prapañcaḥ. sũkṣma bhũtāni, sũkṣma śarĩrāṇi, sũkṣma prapañcaḥ - all of them evolved. And as soon they evolved, what did brahman do? Blessed them. Immediately blessed them. And how does brahman bless? By forming cidābhāsa. And the cidābhāsa formed in the micro is called taijasa; and the cidābhāsa formed in the macro is called hiraṇyagarbha. [I am assuming that tattva bodha is thorough for you. All these you can thoroughly enjoy relaxedly, only if you know tattva bodha upside down. Otherwise, this portion will be tough. Go through the tattva bodha; read it again. Then, all this will go inside like a peeled banana!] Therefore, taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha came.

And then, what happened? īśvarā visualised that mere subtle body is not enough to experience the universe; but, what else is required? The gross bodies are also required. Not only gross bodies, the gross universe is also required. Suppose, you all come to the class without your gross body, you know what will happen? You will be called a ghost. If you attend the class without physical body, you are called ghost. Therefore, you are coming, thank GOD, with your gross body. I am also coming with gross body. Thus, no transaction is possible even though I am only transferring my knowledge to you. Knowledge belongs to which śarĩram? sũkṣma śarĩram. What is actually required is, my knowledge has to be transferred from my sũkṣma śarĩram to your sũkṣma śarĩram. 'Why physical body is required?', you cannot ask!

All these transactions are possible only if there is a container for sũkṣma śarĩram. Like water. I want to drink water; but, I also require what? A container, a cup is required. Thus, sũkṣma śarĩram and sũkṣma prapañca - both of them - require sthũla śarĩram and sthũla prapañca. Therefore, ĩśvarā thought 'anenaiva jīvenātmanānupraviśya'. First I will bless the sũkṣma śarĩrams and sũkṣma prapañca by becoming taijasa and hiraṇyagarbha.

And thereafter, what will I do? I will produce all the physical bodies and physical universe. After producing them, I will again bless both of them. When the cidābhāsa blesses the gross bodies, it is called what? viśvah. The very same cidābhāsa, blessing the gross universe, it is called virāt or viśvarũpaḥ. Therefore, ĩśvarā thought, let me CREATE the viśva and the virāt. Thereafter, ĩśvarā thought, if I have to create the gross body and the gross universe, I require the raw material for that. And, what is the raw material? The gross elements, called sthũla bhũtāni. At present, what bhagavān had is, sũkṣma bhũtāni into sthũla bhũtāni.

How? By preparing a salad. What is the difference between salad and fruit? When you eat fruit, there is only one fruit. But, when you eat fruit salad, several fruits are mixed together. Similarly, bhagavān divides the sükṣma bhũtāni and makes bhũta salads, alloys. Then what happened? The subtle elements got converted into gross elements; and, each gross element is a mixture of all the three. We saw the proportion also in the last class. sthũla agni will have 1/2 agni+ 1/4 jalam + 1/4 pṛthivĩ; sthũla jalam will have 1/2 jalam + 1/4 agni + 1/4 pṛthivĩ; and sthũla pṛthivĩ will have 1/2 pṛthivĩ + 1/4 agni + 1/4 jalam. Therefore, bhagavān thought. That is what we saw in the last class. tāsāṃ ekaikām trivṛtaṃ trivṛtam akarod. tāsām means, what? sũkṣma bhūtānāṃ. Among the subtle elements, ekaikām - each subtle element was separately grossified. So, ekaikā means, each one. trivṛtaṃ means, what? Made into mixture or combination or alloy of three components. So, previously it was said, ekaikāṃ *karavāņi - it was said. Now, it is akarod. What is the difference between these two? karavāņi is the sańkalpa. bhagavān visualised, 'let me do that'.

Now, between the previous week and this week, bhagavān has executed. He is not like us. He is implementing everything, fast. Now, we have what? sthũla bhũtāni, sthũla śarĩrāṇi and sthũla prapañcah. And now, all the jĩvās are in full-fledged condition, ready to confront the bandh. Confront the bandh! bandh means, what? Varieties of situations. And, in this context, you have to remember the previous mantrā and connect it here. What is the mantrā? [Page 420. Do not mistake 420! 'chār sau bĩs' - they say, in Hindi! Page 420, mantrā 6.3.1]. There it was said three / four types of living beings are there. That mantrā should be read here. And why it is said there? There, it is visualisation. Now, you have to connect it and say that bhagavān created varieties of living beings, in the form of varieties of physical bodies. What are they? āņḍajaṃ jīvajam udbhijjam.

Incidentally, an aside note. In aitareya upaniṣad, the teacher talks about four types of living beings. And there, a fourth one is introduced, as svedajam. svedajam means, moisture born insects, mosquitoes. mosquito is the best example. Moisture born mosquito etc. Small organisms or beings. And that svedajam category is not mentioned here. So the question will come, "why chāndogya left it out? For that, the commentators [the commentators tie up all the upaniṣads. Not only upaniṣads; but, Bhagavad Gĩtā also. Not only Bhagavad Gĩtā; but, Brahma Sũtrā. All of them they tie up. And what do they say? They] point out that, even moisture born insects are born out of minute eggs only. Only the eggs are not visible, being tiny. Therefore, they can be included in āṇḍajaṃ. One is big āṇḍajaṃ; another is small āṇḍajaṃ! āṇḍajaṃ means, Tamil aṇḍā, kuṇḍā, śombu, pānai etc - you should not take! aṇḍā means, egg. āṇḍajaṃ means, born out of big and tiny eggs. In short, all types of living beings are also born.

Then the teacher said, yathā tu khalu somyemāstisro devatāstrivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati - how each element became three fold. That is, each subtle element became the three fold gross element. And how the gross universe was created. "I will clarify may you to listen carefully", says the teacher. yathā means, what? 'How all this happened I shall describe'. So, trivṛt trivṛd ekaikā bhavati, you have to read in reverse order - ekaikā trivṛt trivṛd bhavati. tad me vijānīhi iti - "I shall clarify. May you listen too, carefully". That is being explained further. We will read.

Sixth chaper – Section 4

यदग्ने रोहित [°]ृरूपं तेजसस्तद्रूपं यच्छुक्लं तदपां यत्कृष्णं तदन्नस्यापागादग्नेरग्नित्वं वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं त्रीणि रूपाणीत्येव सत्यम् ॥

yadagne rohita [°] rūpam tejasastadrūpam yacchuklam tadapām yatkrṣṇam tadannasyāpā-gādagner agnitvam vācārambhaṇam vikāro nāmadheyam trīņi rūpānītyeva satyam II 6.4.1

Here, the teacher refers to these sthüla bhūta sṛṣṭi and sthüla bhautika sṛṣṭi - which was briefly mentioned in the last mantrā. sthũla bhūta sṛṣṭi means, what? The CREATION of GROSS ELEMENTS. sthũla bhautika sṛṣṭi means, what? The CREATION of the ELEMENTAL. And, what is the difference between ELEMENT and ELEMENTAL? Element means, agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ. Elemental means, all the other products, which are born out of the combination of all of them. For example, the physical body itself is a bhautikam; because, here agni tattvam is there. We have got the temperature. jala tattvam is there. The body has got water. And, pṛthivĩ tattvam is there. Lot of clay! [Do not mis-understand!]. So, the earth is also there. Whichever is a compound made up of the many elements is called bhautikam. That bhautika sṛṣṭi is indicated here. Here, the teacher says, "the sthũla bhũtam and sthũla bhautikam [the gross elements and elemental] are born out of the subtle elements. Therefore, sũkṣma bhũtam is kāraṇam and sthũla bhũtam is kāraṇam.

The Teacher says, "you can recognise that by observing a fact. The presence of the subtle elements is indicated by their own specific colours. Each subtle element is represented by a particular colour in the gross elements. What is that colour? First, he takes the example of sthüla agniḥ, the gross agni tattvam. Imagine, you have got a flame. The flame is what? sthüla bhūtam, which is agni tattvam. And in that flame, what is there? The subtle three elements are there; because, gross is created by their combination. Therefore, in the flame, all the three subtle elements are there. The teacher says, "how one can recognise that? The colours will indicate them". What is that? yad agne rohita "rūpaṃ. In a flame, in certain areas, you can see a reddish colour. rohitam means, reddish colour. And that reddish colour indicates what? tejasasḥ tad rūpaṃ. Here, the word tejas means, what? sũkṣma agniḥ. The presence of subtle fire is indicated by what colour? Red colour.

Again, in that sthũla agni itself, what else is there? Subtle jalam is also there. How to know that? The teacher says, yacchuklam. yat śuklam. In certain areas of the flame, it is bright white. [When you go home, see the flame. Light a candle and watch. uddālaka will be happy].

So, wherever the whitish colour is there, that represents what? tadapāṃ. It is indicative of sũkṣma jala tattvam. Very careful. sũkṣma jala tattvam. Where? In the flame! yat śuklam. agneḥ is understood. The white colour which is present in the flame, agni, tadapāṃ rũpam. 'ap' means, jalam. What jalam? sũkṣma jalasya indication. And then, yatkṛṣṇaṃ - even in that flame, closer to the wick, you will find a darker place. Have you seen it? [Now a days, you do not use much candle; because, other types of lights have come. Emergency light has come. So, we do not notice that]. The teacher says, yatkṛṣṇaṃ. Here, the word kṛṣṇa means, what? Not, vāsudevaḥ, devakĩ putraḥ and all! That meaning you should not take. kṛṣṇa means, the darker tinge, closer to the wick that we see. It represents the sũkṣma pṛthivĩ tattvam. tadannasya - the word annam here means, what? pṛthivĩ tattvam. And therefore, the teacher says, "in fact, there is no sthũla agni at all, separate from the three subtle elements. Why it is so? Because, sthũla agni is kāryam, sũkṣma bhũtāni is kārṣṇam.

Therefore, the teacher says, apāgādagner agnitvam. From this part, THE TEACHING IS TAKING A DIFFERENT DIRECTION. Up to this portion, it is called, adhyāropa portion. And the following part is called apavāda. apavādā means, what? You negate the kāryam by saying that, "THERE IS NO SUBSTANCE CALLED AGNI, SEPARATE FROM THE SŨKṢMA BHŨTĀNI KĀRAŅAM". This is called adhyāropa - apavādā method of teaching.

I have talked about this in previous classes. I will remind you by giving an example. Suppose you have got a pot in your hand, keeping the pot in the hand when you say, 'there is a pot', that acceptance of the pot is called adhyāropa. Acceptance of the pot is called adhyāropa. After accepting the pot, you ask the question, "what is the cause of the pot?" Then, I carefully teach you, "there is a cause; and the cause is called clay". Thus, I introduce the clay; and point out that, a pot is born out of the clay. This is also called adhyāropa. Accepting the pot is adhyāropa. And pointing out that a pot is born out of clay is adhyāropa. And pointing out that a pot is born out of clay is also adhyāropa. Thereafter, [Until now I have talked, so that I can win your trust. This is trust winning method. So that, śiṣyā will be in guru's control. And once the śiṣyā has come under the spell of the guru, what should be done?] The guru asks the question, "please show me a pot separate from clay".

"Tell me whether there is a pot outside the clay or inside the clay? Please show me the substance called 'pot'!" And then, I [the guru] point out that, "there is only one substance. What is that? Clay and clay alone is there. Then what is pot? It is nothing but, nāma and rũpa. Thereafter, I ask the question, "when you talk about the weight, what is the weight of the clay? And what is the weight of the nāma rũpā? Tell me, 'how many grams of clay is there? And how many grams of pot nāma rũpā is there?' Then, what do you understand? All the weight belongs to the clay only. The nāma rũpā does not have even .0000001 milli gram weight! Suppose the nāma rũpā has got a separate weight, what will happen? Before, the clay was there. Let us assume it was 10 grams. And after the addition of nāma rũpā, the weight should have increased?! But, what is our experience? There is no increase in the weight. From that it is very clear that, pot is nothing but nāma rũpā, which does not have a weight of its own. Therefore, pot is a non-substantial entity, which is called vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. And since the pot is merely a nāma and rũpa, it is as good as nonexistent. Therefore, you conclude, "there is no such thing called pot".

How did we start? 'There is a pot', we started. It is a clear deceiving job! Just to win the trust of the student, guru temporarily accepts and said, 'there is a pot'; and starting with the acceptance of pot, what is the conclusion? There is no such thing called 'pot'. What was is clay, what is clay, what will be is clay. When you are negating the pot, it is called apavād. ACCEPTANCE OF THE POT IS ADHYĀROPA; AND NEGATION OF THE POT IS APAVĀDA. IT IS A VERY, VERY IMPORTANT TOPIC IN THE ADVAITIC METHOD OF TEACHING, WHICH IS CALLED SAMPRADĀYA. THE METHOD OF COMMUNICATION. śańkarācāryā shows this 1200 years before. śańkarācāryā says, THIS IS THE METHOD. That means what? It existed even before that.

adhyāropapavādābhyam niṣprapañcam prapañcyate I śiṣyānām sukhabodhārtham tattvajñai kalpita kramaḥ II

kramah means, what? Method of teaching. And, last, one more point. When you accept the pot initially, from the standpoint of the pot, clay was called kāraṇam. Initially, you accepted the pot. Therefore, from the standpoint of the pot, clay is called kāraṇam. And once you negate the pot, what will happen? The clay cannot be called even a kāraṇam. THUS, ACCEPTING THE KĀRAŅAM STATUS IS ALSO ADHYĀROPA. Accepting the kāraṇam status is also adhyāropa. And finally, what will guru say? "Clay is not even a kāraṇam." Why? Because, there is no pot; where is the question of being its kāraṇam? Therefore, śańkarācāryā beautifully says, in vivekacũḍāmaṇi - [M-260]

ekameva sad aneka kāraņam kāraņāntaranirāsya kāraņam I kārya kāraņa vilakṣaṇaṃ svayaṃ brahma tattvamasi bhāvayātmani II

In the same way, He says, 'world exists'. First, we say, world exists. You will nod the head when we are talking about pot. Later, you have to see the whole universe as what? A pot. Accepting the world is adhyāropa; thereafter, we talk about the "cause of the world" as brahman; and then we say, "from brahman, the potty world, [potty world; not unite world!]

potty world is created. Up to that is what? adhyāropaḥ. Then, finally, what do we say, "really speaking there is no such thing called world. World is nothing but, what? Non-substantial nāma rũpā. THERE IS ONLY ONE SUBSTANCE". What is that? Here you should not say, 'clay'. What is that? brahman. BRAHMAN WAS, BRAHMAN IS, BRAHMAN ALONE WILL BE. And once you have negated the world, brahman loses even the status of "being the kāraṇam". kāraṇam of what? We cannot even say kāraṇam of 'world'; since, we have already dismissed the world!

And having introduced that brahman, which is NOT EVEN a kāraņam, the upaniṣad says, "THAT BRAHMAN YOU ARE". See how it is! "aitadātmyamida šarvam tatsatya šsa ātmā tat tvam asi śvetaketo II" Are you sleeping or awake? THAT kārya kāraṇa vilakṣaṇa brahman, where is it?! I the caitanyam. This negation of the kāryam is called, apavāda. Introduction of the kāryam is adhyāropaḥ. Negation of kāryam is apavādah. Now, we are starting the apavāda; therefore, I had to give a very big introduction. He enters apavāda, very casually.

apāgād agner agnitvam = agneh agnitvam apāgād. On enquiry, the sthula agni no more exists as sthula agni. agneh agnitvam means, what? The sthula agni status of sthula agni goes away. Just as the pot status of pot goes away; and what is left there? Clay alone. Similarly, agneh agnitvam - the fireness of the fire; apāgād - disappears. [apa. gam dhātu parasmaipada luń prathama purusah eka vacanam]. apāgād means, apagacchati. In short, the fire disappeared, on enquiry. Disappeared, not from my vision. But, in my understanding, I know, there is no such thing called sthula agni. Then, what exists? Nothing but their kāranam alone exists. Therefore, the upanisad says, vācārambhanam vikāro nāmadheyam - all the sthula agni and the other elements are what? Nothing but, nāmadheyam. nām ke vāste! They are existing only in your tongue. For vācārambhanam - what meaning we gave? ārambhanam = ālambhanam. ālambhanam = an object. vācah or vāg means, what? "Of your tongue". So, what is pot? It is only 'the object of your tongue'. That means, what? It exists only in your tongue. There is no such thing called pot. Why? Because, it is vikārah. vikārah means, what? kāryam. A product. Then, what is reality? So, for all practical purposes, vācārambhanam nāmadheyam can be translated as, "mithyā". The upanişad does not use the word mithyā; but, we have got the equivalent of mithya. And what is that word? vacarambhanam namadheyam.

Then, if all the sthūla bhūtās are mithyā, what is satyam? Their kāraņam is satyam. And, what is the kāraṇam? sũkṣma bhūtās are the satyam. Therefore, trīņi rūpāņi means, trīņi sũkṣma bhūtāni. Literally, trīņi rũpam means, what? Three colours. What are the three colours. Do you remember. Red colour, white colour and black colour. These three colours represent what? The sũkṣma agni, sũkṣma jalam and sũkṣma pṛthivĩ. Therefore, here, trīņi rūpāņi = trīņi sũkṣma bhũtāni alone is real. Thereafter, we have to do little bit home-work.

uddālaka leaves little bit home-work for us. But, I will not give home-work for you; do not worry. I know, you have no time! So, we have to understand the three elements are also what? The subtle elements are also products. And therefore, He should say, sũkṣma bhũtāni also is vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. Then, what is satyam? Their cause. What is the cause? tat brahma - that alone is satyam. Thereafter, what should we do? sat is also kāryam?! [I am seeing whether you are following!] Very careful. sat is not kāryam. Once you reach the sat, that is the ultimate kāraṇam. Therefore, that alone is the absolute reality. iti - everyone should so understand.

Continuing.

यदादित्यस्य रोहित ^{*} रूपं तेजसस्तद्रूपं यच्छुक्लं तदपां यत्कृष्णं तदन्नस्यापागादादित्यादादित्यत्वं वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं त्रीणि रूपाणीत्येव सत्यम् ॥

yadādityasya rohita ir vāpam tejasastadrūpam yacchuklam tadapām yatkrsnam tadannasya apāgād ādityādādityatvam vācārambhanām vikāro nāmadheyam trīni rūpānītyeva satyam 16.4.2

So previously, agni was taken as a representative of sthũla bhũtāni; because, agni happens to be one of the bhűtams. Now, few representatives of sthűla bhautika prapañca, the gross elemental product is taken as examples; because, the gross universe consists of the gross elements and the gross elemental. The example taken in this mantra is, adityah or sũryah, which represents sthũla bhautika prapañca. The teacher says, if you study the sun, there also you can observe the three colours. This is a colourful portion! yadādityasya rohita, rūpam - wherever you see a reddish tinge in the sun, that represents what? sūksma agni, which is the kāranam. tejasastadrūpam. tejasah means, what? sũksma agni. yacchuklam tadapām - you can understand. Wherever there is whitish form / colour, it represents the sũkṣma jalam. And yatkṛṣṇaṃ - in the sun also there are dark spots. They call it 'black spots'. The dark spot in the sun represents sũksma prthivĩ. So, tat annasya apāgād. annasya refers sūksma prthivyah. Up to that is what? adhyāropa. Accepting the sun. Now, the whole sun is missing. How big is the sun?! These rsis just sitting in one corner of the universe, under a tree, next bhiksā where it is going to come from, they do not know! They are just bones and skin. Yet, THESE RSIS ARE SO POWERFUL; THEY JUST INTELLECTUALLY DISMISSED THE WHOLE UNIVERSE AS UNREAL. What powerful wisdom they had! Therefore, on enquiry, what happens? The sun-hood of the sun disappears. Just as the pot-ness of the pot is dismissed; similarly, the sun-hood of the sun. [put the spelling of sun, correctly!] apāgād - it disappears. Then, what is sũryaḥ? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ! The sun is just unreal name & form.

"Swāmīji, Sun is tangible and so powerful!" So what? In dream, the dream objects are so tangible. Tangibility does not prove reality. [All of you should read māņdukyā second chapter]. TANGIBILITY DOES NOT PROVE REALITY. UTILITY DOES NOT PROVE REALITY. PERCEPTIBILITY DOES NOT PROVE REALITY. NOTHING PROVES REALITY. Then, what is sũryaḥ? vācārambhaṇaṃ nāmadheyaṃ! It is also a product only. The advantage is, you do not have to study vedāntā! The modern science itself tells vedāntā. If you ask any advanced physicist or chemist or chemistry specialist, they will say, the whole 'world is nothing but energy in motion, all proton, neutron, electron in motion. Science has proved! Even though I am seeing the solid wall, they say, it is nothing but, a nucleus and electrons moving around; and in between, there is empty space. And in every atom, 90% is what? Empty space! Therefore, in the wall also, 90% is what? Scientifically it is only space! Will you believe it? This is a scientifically proven truth. 90% of the tangible dent wall is nothing but, empty space. GTÙLIQ?

அப்படித்தான். Modern science also tells the same thing. The intangible energy appears falsely as tangible matter. Scientist say, intangible energy. vedāntā says, non tangible consciousness! One step higher. They stop with energy, we go to CAITANYAM. More in next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

9. Chapter 6.4.2 to 6.4.7 and 6.5.1

यदादित्यस्य रोहित ्ँरूपं तेजसस्तद्रूपं यच्छुक्लं तदपां यत्कृष्णं तदन्नस्यापागादादित्यादादित्यत्वं वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं त्रीणि रूपाणीत्येव सत्यम् ॥

yadādityasya rohita į rūpam tejasastadrūpam yacchuklam tadapām yatkrsnam tadannasya apāgād ādityādādityatvam vācārambhanam vikāro nāmadheyam trīni rūpānītyeva satyam II 6.4.2

śańkarācāryā presents the essence of vedāntā in one popular verse. It says, "BRAHMA SATYAM; JAGAN MITHYĀ; JĨVOBRAHMAIVA NĀPARAḤ!" BRAHMAN ALONE IS SATYAM; JAGAT OR THE WORLD IS MITHYĀ; AND, JĨVAḤ 'I' AM NONE OTHER THAN BRAHMAN. THIS IS THE ESSENCE OF ENTIRE VEDĀNTĀ.

Of this, in the chāndogya sixth chapter, in the first 7 sections, we get "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā" topic. The sixth chapter has got totally 16 sections or 16 kāṇḍās. And, in the first 7 kāṇḍās, the upaniṣad reveals: "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā". And, this is done, by talking about sṛṣṭi or CREATION. And, in this sṛṣṭi prakaraṇam, brahman is presented as kāraṇam; and, the world is presented as kāryam. This presentation of brahman as kāraṇam and the world as kāryam is called adhyāropaḥ. Once we have introduced brahman as kāraṇam and the world as kāryam, thereafter, we are ready for apavāda. In or during apavāda, we will point out that, A KĀRYAM DOES NOT EXIST SEPARATE FROM KĀRAŅAM. THUS, WE NEGATE THE KĀRYAM. THIS KĀRYA NEGATION IS CALLED APAVĀDA.

kārya kāraņa introduction is adhyāropaḥ; the kāryam negation is apavāda. This śańkarācāryā beautifully presents in His aparokṣa anubhũti. [V-139] - "kārye hi kāraṇaṃ paśyet paścāt kāryaṃ visarjayet | kāraṇatvaṃ tato naśyet avaśiṣṭaṃ bhaven muniḥ ||" - Entire vedāntā, ācāryā has finished in half a minute! kārye hi kāraṇam paśyet - in all the products - for example, in all the ornaments - may you see the kāraṇam, gold. Ornament madhye, gold darśanam; kārye hi kāraṇam paśyet. And once you see the gold, the essence of all ornaments, naturally, the ornaments are negated; because, they are nothing but what?! vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ! So, once you have got kāraṇa darśanam, kārya niṣedā takes place. Therefore, śańkarācāryā says, paścāt kāryaṃ visarjayet. ஆபரணத்தில கோல்ட பாரு. கோல்ட பாத்த்தக்குப் பிறகு, ஆபரணத்தை, கார்யத்தை நெகேட் பண்ணு! [See gold in ābharaṇam and then, negate the kāryam, the ābharanam]. paścāt kāryam visarjayet. Once you have negated the ornament, the gold will lose even the status of kāraņam. Therefore, śańkarā says, kāraņatvaṃ tato naśyet. The gold loses even the kāraṇam status. And finally, when you are focused on the gold, what is your vision? kārya kāraṇa vilakṣaṇa gold was, gold is, gold alone will be. This kārya kāraṇa vilakṣaṇa gold darśanam is called jĩvan mukti. Only thing is, in the place of ornaments you substitute the entire universe. In the place of gold you substitute brahman. And so, finally, what should be the vision? kārya kāraṇa vilakṣaṇa brahma darśanam.

Therefore, in the first 7 sections of chāndogya, we get adhyāropa and apavāda. Of this, in the first section, we had a general introduction. In the second section, we had sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi. In the third section, we had sthũla bhũta sṛṣṭi. And in the fourth section, we have the bhautika sṛṣṭi. bhautika means what? The product, made up of the various elements. And after introducing bhautika sṛṣṭi, the adhyāropaḥ topic is complete. Thereafter, the upaniṣad takes up the apavādā also, by saying, "there is no sthũla prapañca separate from the sũkṣma bhũtāni". THERE IS NO STHŨLA PRAPAÑCA SEPARATE FROM sŨKṣMA BHŨTĀNI. And when I say 'sthũla prapañca', it includes sthũla bhũtam; it also includes sthũla bhautikam. sthũla prapañca - means, sthũla bhũta-bhautika prapañca - does not exist separate from the sũkṣma bhũtāni.

And the sũkṣma bhũtās are indicated here, peculiarly, in the form of three colours. Therefore, when we read these colourful mantrās, we should remember, the colours represent the sũkṣma bhũtāni. So, the upaniṣad says, trīṇi rūpāṇītyeva satyam. trīṇi rūpāṇi means, what? sũkṣma bhũtāni eva satyam. Why it is satyam? That is the kāraṇam. And what is mithyā? sthũla bhũtam and sthũla bhautikams - they are all mithyā. Why? They happen to be the kāryam. Therefore, the upaniṣad wants to enter into this apavāda. And instead of taking the entire sthũla bhũta bhūtā bhautika prapañca, the upaniṣad takes few samples. @(f)

பானை சோறுக்கு ஒரு சோறு பதம்! logic! So, when you want to find out whether the entire pot of rice is cooked or not - [now a days I do not think ladies cook!] - you do not keep on pressing every grain. You just take one; and from that you conclude. Like that, here also, in Sanskrit sthālĩpulāka nyāya. sthālĩ means, the cooking vessel; pulākaḥ means, one cooked grain. sthālĩpulāka nyāya means, the maxim of rice grain.

And here, what is the cooking? The whole universe is the vessel. And he wants to take a few sample grains. The upaniṣad says, agni, ādityā, candraḥ, vidyut - a few examples are taken. As representative of what? Of the sthũla prapañca. And then the upaniṣad says, 'in all of them we see three colours'; these 3 colours represent what? The sũkṣma bhũtāni. That alone is satyam.

We saw the second mantrā in the last class. yadādityasya rohita "rūpam. That means, you take sũryā as one grain representative. Representative of what? sthũla prapañca. rohita "m rũpam - the reddish colour in the sun is tejasastadrūpam. tejas here represents sũkṣma agni. And śuklam tadapām. The white colour represents sũkṣma jalam. And kṛṣṇam tadannasya. The black sun spot that we experience, represents sũkṣma annam. Here, annam means, pṛthivĩ tattvam. Up to that is adhyāropa^h. Where does apavāda begin? apāgād - from that apavādam. apāgād means, what? Disappears. What disappears? ādityādādityatvam. The sun loses the status of the sun; because, we know that there is no such thing called sun! What is the reason? Because, it is kāryam. Then, what is the sun? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. It is nothing but, a mere nāma & rũpa. And what is reality? trīņi rūpāņī. The 3 sũkṣma bhũtāni eva satyam.

From this, we have to extend the mantrā a little bit more. If we do not extend the mantrā, our conclusion will be what? The three elements are the ultimate reality! Therefore, from there we have to go further and point out that prthivĩ being kāryam, it is mithyā. jalam is satyam. What jalam? sũkṣma jalam. Similarly, sũkṣma jalam is kāryam; therefore, mithyā. sũkṣma agni is satyam. But, then, sũkṣma agni itself is kāryam; born out of what? sũkṣma agni is born out of what? vāyu you should not say. Because, in chāndogya upaniṣad ākāśā and vāyu are resting. Like, in a cricket match they rest a few players. Same way, ākāśā and vāyu are resting during chāndogya; and therefore, we should say, "sũkṣma agni is a product of sadeva somya idam agra āsīd - brahman is the kāraṇam. Therefore, that alone is satyam. And thereafter, brahman is the kāryam; jagan mithyā ! Up to that we have to extend the mantrā. Now, we are going to test another grain. That we will, in mantrā 3.

यच्छन्द्रमसो रोहित ँरूपं तेजसस्तद्रूपं यच्छुक्लं तदपां यत्कृष्णं तदन्नस्यापागाच्चन्द्राच्चन्द्रत्वं वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं त्रीणि रूपाणीत्येव सत्यम् ॥

yacchandramaso rohita řūpam tejasastadrūpam yacchuklam tadapām yatkrṣṇam tadanna- sya apāgāccandrāccandratvam vācārambhaṇam vikāro nāmadheyam trīṇi rūpāṇĩty eva satyam || 6.4.3 ||

So, after sũryā, now the upaniṣad is coming to candra, the moon. Here also, the development is similar. The red colour, the white colour and the black colour represent the three subtle elements, and they are the kāraṇam and candra the bhautika prapañca is only kāryam; and since candra is kāryam, it does not exist separate from the 3 subtle elements. Therefore, yatkṛṣṇaṃ tadannasya up to that, is adhyāropaḥ. And, apāgād candrāḥ candratvaṃ when we say, apavāda has taken place. sũryā has been dismissed; candra also has been visarjayet - dismissed. And, what is candra? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. Means, mithyā! Then, what is satyam? trīņi rūpāņĩtyeva satyam. And extending the mantrā, we should say, brahman alone is satyam. agni is mithyā; sũryaḥ is mithyā; candraḥ is mithyā.

Then what is the next one? Another example the upaniṣad takes in the next mantrā. We will read.

यद्विद्युतो रोहित ँरूपं तेजसस्तद्रूपं यच्छुक्लं तदपां यत्कृष्णं तदन्नस्यापागाद्विद्युतो विद्युत्त्वं वाचारम्भणं विकारो नामधेयं त्रीणि रूपाणीत्येव सत्यम् ॥

yadvidyuto rohita 🖞 rūpam tejasastadrūpam yacchuklam tadapām yatkrṣṇam tadannasya āpāgād vidyuto vidyuttvam vācārambhaṇam vikāro nāmadheyam trīņi rūpānītyeva satyam II 6.4.4

You can see these mantrās are very, very similar. Here, the next item is what? The vidyut. vidyut means, lightning [electricity or electric lights also will come under vidyut only]. The upaniṣad says, vidyut, lightning, is the kāryam, the three colours are the kāraṇam and therefore āpāgād vidyuto vidyuttvaṃ. Why? Because, vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. The whole lightning is mithyā. trīņi rūpāṇītyeva satyam. By extension, brahman alone is satyam.

continuing.

एतद्ध स्म वै तद्विद्वा ऱ्स आहुः पूर्वे महाशाला महाश्रोत्रिया न नोऽद्य कश्चनाश्रुतममतमविज्ञातमुदाहरिष्यतीति होभ्यो विदाञ्चक्रुः ॥

etaddha sma vai tadvidvā ja āhuņ pūrve mahāśālā mahāśrotriyā na no'dya kaścanāśrutam amatamavijñātamudāhariṣyatīti hyebhyo vidāñcakruņ 🛚 6.4.5 🖷

Therefore, whoever got this knowledge that "brahman alone is satyam, everything else is mithyā" - they have understood that the CREATION HAS GOT ONLY ONE SUBSTANCE THAT IS BRAHMAN and every-thing else is what? Superficial nāma rũpās, which are formed on brahman. Therefore, brahma vijñānena sarva vijñānam bhavati. Whoever knows this truth, they are sarvajñā; because, in the introduction it was said, eka vijñānena, sarva vijñānam. So, the upaniṣad says, whoever knows this fact they were all sarvajñā. It says, etaddha sma vai tadvidvā sa āhuņ. vidvā sa means, all the wise people. [vidvān, vidvāmsau, vidvāmsaņ] vidvāmsaņ means, jñāninaņ.

And the wise people know what? etaddha sma vai tad - means, whatever we have discussed up to now. From section one until the previous mantrā - whatever we have discussed, is called etaddha sma vai tad. That means what? BRAHMA SATYAM JAGAN MITHYĀ; BRAHMAN KĀRAŅAM, JAGAT KĀRYAM. BRAHMAN IS SUBSTANCE; WORLD IS NON-SUBSTANTIAL NĀMA RŨPĀ.

Whoever knew this fact, āhuh - they all declared this proudly. And who are they? pūrve mahāśālah - all those wise people. And what type of wise people? mahāśālah - great grhasthās. uddālaka does not want to say, 'sanyāsĩs'; because, uddālaka Himself is a grhastha! Very smart. And therefore, He wants to say that, "it is not that only sanyasis are wise; there are also great grhastha jñānĩs" also. [like you. Let me say that, once in awhile!] Therefore, he says, mahāśāla. Means, mahā grhasthā. And, how do you say, mahāśālah means, mahā grhasthah? Here, the word śālā refers to yāgaśālā & pākaśālā. yāgaśālā means, what? Centre for performing rituals. pākašālā - you know, places for cooking. Because, when we do yāgās, it should be followed annadhānam. annadhānam is an integral part of any pũjā. And therefore, śālāh refers to "the people who maintained yāgaśālā and pākaśālā". And, who will maintain yāgaśālā & pākaśālā? grhasthā or sanyāsī? sanyāsī does not have yāgaśālā; because, He has renounced all rituals. sanyāsīs do not have pākaśālā; because, they live on bhiksā. That is why, in mundaka upanisad also, if you remember, "śaunako ha vai mahāśālah" - there also the same word mahāśāla came. Therefore, mahāśālā. Not only they were great householders, mahā śrotriyās - they were great vedic scholars too. śrotriyah means, vedic scholars; and vedic scholars means [vedā includes vedāntā]; they were vedāntic scholars too! And vedāntic scholars means, what? "brahma satyam, jagan mithyā" - they knew! And therefore, they always claimed that, "WE KNOW EVERYTHING IN THE CREATION". Anything you ask, they will say what? 'I know it'. And what is that? brahman + nāma rũpā. What is America? I know. brahman + nāma rũpā. So, you need not go to America. If you had experienced pañca bhūtās in Chennai, any country is what? pañca bhūtās only. nayagārā water falls - what is that? Water! What type of Water? Waterfalls we have said. Do you understand? False means, vācārambhaņam vikāro nāmadheyam! So, kailās or mānasarovar - the people are going around the world for seeing this and that. The jñāni declares, 'they are all what? pañca bhûtās re-arranged naturally or artificially - with different nāma rũpās! And you pay 100 dollars ticket and go & come back; and fall sick also!

Therefore, chāndogya upaniṣad says, anything you name, if someone asks, you say, "I have not seen; but, I know". We do not want to see any blessed thing; because, they are nothing but varieties of nāma rũpās in one and the same brahman. Therefore, what do they say? kaścana nah - so all the scholars declare that, 'in our family [because all of them are scholars] these great scholar gṛhasthās say, naḥ. naḥ means, "asmākam kule" - in our family, "aśrutam amatam avijñātam udāhariṣyati iti" - NO ONE WILL DECLARE ANYTHING AS UNKNOWN. Do you understand? Double negative. No one will declare anything as unknown. aśrutam amatam and avijñātam - put together, means, UNKNOWN. So, NOTHING IS UNKNOWN. Means what? EVERYTHING IS KNOWN.

Thus, the great scholar grhasthās says, "in our family you interview anyone. Everyone will say, 'we know everything, nothing is unknown'". If you ask them, 'what about that unique planet which is existing in some other galaxy, 30 billion light years away, do you know that planet? "Yes. I know". What is that planet? brahman + nāma rũpā! What is the big deal?! That too, changing nāma rūpā. Therefore, "aśrutam amatam avijñātam na udāharisyati" - they will never declare, udāharişyati means, what? na udāharişyati means, THEY WILL NOT DECLARE ANYTHING AS UNKNOWN. If you ask those people a further question, "how do you say everything is known?" If you ask those vedic scholars, "how do you know, how do you say everything is known?" They will say, "very simple. Everything must have these three colours". Everything will have what? rohitam, śuklam and krsnam. varnatrayam is everything! And, what is that? Nothing but sũksma bhũtās, which is nothing but brahman, ultimately. Therefore, hyebhyo. hyebhyah means, from observing these three colours. hyebhyah varnebhyah. Or, the 3 subtle elements indicated through these colours. varnebhyah or varnabhūta sūksma bhūtebhyah - by observing that, vidāñcakruh - they all knew that, "everything is nothing but brahman!" And not only that. They clarify this further. What is that? Any object you get, look for the colours; and from the colours, you know it is bhuta trayam! That is said in the next mantras. We will read. hyebhyah means, three colours, varnah. vidāñcakruh means, they knew everything.

यदु रोहितमिवाभूदिति तेजसस्तद्रूपमिति तद्विदाञ्चक्रुर्यदु शुक्लमिवाभूदित्यपा रूंपमिति तद्विदाञ्चक्रुर्यदु कृष्णमिवाभूदित्यन्नस्य रूपमिति तद्विदाञ्चक्रुः ॥

yadu rohitamivābhūditi tejasastadrūpamiti tadvidāñcakruryadu śuklamivābhūdityapā (rūpam iti tadvidāñcakruryadu kṛṣṇamivābhūdityannasya rūpamiti tadvidāñcakruḥ || 6.4.6 || So, this is how the great scholar grhasthās or grhasthā scholars give the answer. What do they say? yadu rohitamivābhūd iti - wherever there is the reddish colour, tejasas tadrūpam - it indicates the sũksma agnih. iti tad vidāñcakruh - that, they recognise. Even when we do the chemical analysis in a chemistry lab, we have to do the salt analysis. We have done it once upon a time, and forgot. There, we have to show it in the flame; and by observing the colour - calcium means brick red. From the colour, they say, this is 'x' element. So, in chemistry, by observing the colour, they refer to a particular element. They have several elements, antimony, aluminum, barium, bismuth, etc. And using the periodic table, they sight over 100 elements. But, in śāstrā we confine to five. And therefore, just as in a chemistry lab by observing the colour in the flame they recognise the type of elements, the great scholars also recognise these three elements. tejasas tad rūpam iti tad vidāñcakruh. Similarly, yadu śuklam iva abhūditya. The word yadu you have to split as, yad + u. 'u' is for emphasis. Whichever object indeed has got a whitish tinge of colour, apa ", rupam iti tad vidāñcakruh - they recognise it as the expression of the sũksma jalam. And similarly, yadu krsnam iva abhūditi - whatever has got a darkish colour, annasya rūpamiti tadvidāñcakruh - the grhasthā scholars understand it as the expression of sũksma prthivĩ. So, naturally, we will ask the question, "when the colours are not very clear, what will you do? Everywhere you are not going to see clean red, white and black. So, when it is a mixture of colours what will you do? 'Very simple. We will recognise it as mixed elements'. So, mixed colours mean, the mixed elements. But, the truth is what? They are all nothing but the elements only. In scientific language, you say, 'proton, neutron and electron'. Here, we say, bhũta trayam. That is said in the next mantrā. Thus, even when there is vagueness in the colours, there also these scholars recognise that the mixed colours are because of the mixed elements.

यद्वविज्ञातमिवाभूदित्येतासामेव देवताना ँ्समास इति तद्विदाञ्चक्रुर्यथा तु खलु सोम्येमास्तिस्रो देवताः पुरुषं प्राप्य त्रिवृत्त्रिवृदेकैका भवति तन्मे विजानीहीति ॥

yadvavijñātamivābhūdityetāsāmeva devatānā samāsa iti tadvidāñcakruryathā tu khalu som- yemāstisro devatāņ puruṣaṃ prāpya trivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati tanme vijānīhīti || 6.4.7

So, yadu avijñātam iva abhūd - yadu means what? Whichever object in the CREATION, avijñātam iva abhūd - cannot be clearly recognised in terms of the three colours. In whichever object these three colours are not clearly distinguishable, there is a vagueness in their colours. The commentators write, kapotaḥ iva, like the macaw [பஞ்சவர்ணக்கிளி]. For that also, they take an example from nature! If you see that particular variety of parrot, you will notice that varieties of colours are mixed so much, that you will not able to clearly distinguish, each. Even if there are such objects, then what do the gṛhasthā scholars understand? etāsāmeva devatānā "samāsaḥ. devatā here means what? The three sũkṣma bhūtās. And, we should remember that in chāndogya sixth chapter, especially in the first 7 sections, the elements are called devatāḥ. It is not that common; but, here the word devatā represents the sũkṣma bhūtāni; and therefore, etāsām eva devatānā ", = etāsām eva sũkṣma bhūtānāṃ - agni, jala, pṛthivĩ bhūtānāṃ - samāsaḥ.

samāsaḥ means, what? Combination. Just like the 7 colours [VIBGYOR], they say, there are three basic colours. RGB [I think so. Red, Green and Blue or something, I do not exactly remember]. Three colours are the basic colours; and others are what? Only by mixing up of these colours alone you get others also. So, like RGB, [it is like our FIR] Here it is - R red, G green, B Blue. Similarly, here also, samāsaḥ means what? Combination. [Here, samāsaḥ is dvantva, tatpuruṣa, bahuvrĩhi or karmadhāraya etc, you should not ask. There it is called samāsaḥ; because, that is a combination of words. Here, it is a combination of elements. So, samāsaḥ. samāsaḥ is derived from the root sam+as dhātu. समस्यति - samasyati means, joining together, carefully. Careful combination, is called samyak āsaḥ. 'as' means, to throw. the colours are thrown. In big hotels, they will have beeda shop in front. He will have so many ever silver dabbas. What are all there, only bhagavān knows. He will take everything and mix it. That is called samāsaḥ. Throwing in a little bit of each item. Same way, bhagavān what did He do? All these elements samyak asyati, it is bhāga vyutpatti samāsaḥ. So, devatānā ʿ, samāsa iti tad vidāñcak - these scholars understand everything is nothing but brahman only.

And hereafter, the teacher says, 'Okay, śvetaketu are you awake? I want to continue a little bit further. Until now, I talked about the macro universe. The ādibhautikam. The bāhya prapañca. Now, I want to extend the same law to the individual body also'. So, until now, the sthũla prapañca has been talked about. Now, He wants to say that, the sthũla sũkṣma śarĩram is also a product of the elements only. From the objective world to the subjective body. ādibhautikam to ādhyātmikam. And, what is the conclusion? The ādibhautika prapañca as well as ādhyātmika prapañca. And, what is the conclusion? The ādibhautika prapañca as well as ādhyātmika prapañca. And, what is the conclusion? The ādibhautika prapañca as well as ādhyātmika prapañca. And, what is the conclusion is given here.

'hey somya' [once in a while he calls out! He is addressing to make sure. After all, son only. Therefore, son might feel bored. Sometime fathers' give long lectures! Therefore, they say, 'enough of PD'. PD means personality development. The children have named the fathers' lecture as 'PD lecture'. "Appa! enough of PD; let me go out and play cricket". Same way, here, the father wants to make sure that the son will continue to listen, for some more time]. Therefore, he says, 'hey somya, śvetaketu, imāḥ tisro devatāḥ - imāḥ devatāḥ tisraḥ - these 3 elements [here, the teacher is referring to sthũla bhũtāni.

In the previous section, previous mantrā, sūkṣma bhūtās were talked about. Now, He talks about the sthūla bhūtās - the 3 gross elements] puruṣaṃ prāpya - they enter the body of every human being, in the form of food. So, what are we consuming? bhūta trayam only. What are we regularly consuming? bhūta trayam only. Solid food is there; liquid is there. Therefore, bhūta trayam. We do not directly consume mud. We might have done it when we were a child. Now, we take a modified form of bhūta trayam. That alone enters the system and produces body-mind complex. Therefore, He says, imāḥ tisraḥ devatāḥ. devatāḥ = sthūla bhūtāni. puruṣaṃ prāpya. puruṣaṃ - here means, what? manuṣya śarĩram. Not even manuṣya śarĩram; jīva śarĩram. Even animals are included. Here, puruṣa refers to the jīva śarĩram. prāpya - having entered the three sūkṣma bhūtāni. And how do they enter? In the form of solid and liquid foods.

trivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati. ekaikā - each element, trivṛt trivṛd bhavati - gets converted into three components of the body. Each element gets converted into three components, within the body. So, ekaikā refers to what? Each sthũla bhũtam - sthũla agniḥ, sthũla jalam and sthũla pṛthivĩ. Each one, trivṛt trivṛd bhavati - gets converted into three. What are those three? Not the three elements. Three components or constituents of the body. And, yathā - how does this happen? How this great cooking takes place? The whole CREATION is a cooking only! tat me vijānīhi iti - I shall describe that [in the next section]. tad - that process, vijānīhi - may you understand, me - from my teaching. So we have to supply the word vākyāt. me vākyāt - from my teaching, may you know how it happens.

And what is the advantage of this discussion? The advantage is, the knowledge that, this body is born out of the sthüla bhūtāni. Therefore, the body will become what? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. Why? The body is a product, but, what is the satyam? The three gross elements are satyam. So, body is mithyā; three gross elements are satyam. Then what is the next step? The gross elements are products; therefore, mithyā. Next, the subtle elements are products; so, subtle elements are mithyā. BRAHMAN ALONE IS SATYAM. Therefore, subtle elements, gross elements, the universe - including our body - all of them are mithyā. Therefore, you should not worry too much about the body. He is coming to that only. mithyā means what? I have told you, the other day. mithyā is myth+yā. In American conversation 'yā, 'yā they say. I came yā, I went yā. What is this world? The teacher said -American teacher said - myth+yā. The whole world is a myth! Therefore, it is not worth too much worrying about. If you want to worry, worry about brahman. But, fortunately, brahman does not require your worry. It is, saccidānanda svarũpam. So, from the next section, we will get śarĩra sṛṣṭi. I will introduce that.

Sixth chapter – Section 5

अन्नमशितं त्रेधा विधीयते तस्य यः स्थविष्ठो धातुस्तत्पुरीषं भवति यो मध्यमस्तन्मा `सं योऽणिष्ठस्तन्मनः ॥

annamaśitam tredhā vidhīyate tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātustatpurīṣam bhavati yo madhyama stanmā š̥am yo'niṣṭhastanmanaḥ ‖ 6.5.1 ‖

Now, the teacher is going to take each gross element, which we consume. And what type of conversion happens. So, annam aśitaṃ. aśitaṃ means, what? To consume. So, when the food is consumed, the following process takes place. And annam, in this context, represents which elements? Remember, annam represents, pṛthivĩ tattvam. Therefore, throughout this discussion, we should remember the teacher is using the word annam for pṛthivĩ. So, annam means, sthũla pṛthivĩ tattvam.

tredhā vidhīyate tasya yaḥ - and the moment it enters your mouth, it gets divided into three portions. And, what are the three portions? Gross portion, subtle portion and subtler portion. Gross, subtle and subtler. Gross portion is called sthaviṣṭhaḥ. Subtle portion is called madhyamaḥ. Subtler portion is called aṇiṣṭhaḥ. And, what do they do? He says, tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭhaḥ dhātustatpurīṣaṃ bhavati. The gross part of food dhātustat purīṣaṃ bhavati - it purely contributes to your taste. And after contributing to the taste, it will get converted into purīṣaṃ. purīṣaṃ means, what? Excretion. Waste matter. purīṣaṃ means, malam. Waste matter. Excretion - which has to be the disposed off the next day. That means what? Do not give too much importance to taste; because, the tasting part is not going to contribute much. Tomorrow it is going to be evacuated.

Whereas, madhyamaḥ bhāgaḥ - the subtle part - carry the nutrients of the food. Varieties of nutritions, like - carbohydrate, protein, fat, all minerals - they are called nutrients. All these will contribute to what? Not to the taste; but, to tan mā šaṃ. mā šaṃ means, what? Literally, flesh. Flesh stands for physical body.

aņiṣṭhaḥ. tanmanaḥ. Also, the annam has got a subtler portion - which alone we call as satva, rajas and tamo guṇaḥ. The subtler triguṇātmaka portion contributes to manaḥ, the mind; and to the types of thoughts that it generates. This will influence your thought process. Details in the next class.

10. Chapter 6.5.1 to 6.5.4. and 6.6.1 to 6.6.5

अन्नमशितं त्रेधा विधीयते तस्य यः स्थविष्ठो धातुस्तत्पुरीषं भवति यो मध्यमस्तन्मा ्ँसं योऽणिष्ठस्तन्मनः ॥

annamaśitam tredhā vidhīyate tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātustatpurīṣam bhavati yo madhyama stanmā š̥am yo'niṣṭhastanmanaḥ ‖ 6.5.1 ‖

In the first 7 sections of the sixth chapter of chāndogya, the upaniṣad wants to convey brahma satyam; jagan mithyā. And this important message is to be conveyed by the method of adhyāropa and apavāda. Technically, it means, super-imposition & negation. And for this purpose, brahman is presented as the kāraṇam; and the whole world is presented as the kāryam. And, this itself is done in three stages.

- 1] First, the sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi the creation of the three subtle elements.
- 2] Then, sthüla bhūta sṛṣṭi the creation of three gross elements.
- 3] Thereafter, bhautika sṛṣṭi the creation of the universe out of these three gross elements.

And, even though, the upanişad talks of only 3 elements, mentally you should understand three elements = five elements.

And, after introducing the bhũta - bhautika sṛṣṭi, the upaniṣad uses its famous expression vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. THIS SENTENCE YOU SHOULD REMEMBER AND ITS SIGNIFICANCE ALSO YOU SHOULD NOTE. The word vikāraḥ means, a product. A kāryam is nothing; but, vācārambhaṇaṃ nāmadheyaṃ. kāryam is nothing but a name that we use; but, there is no corresponding substance at all. It is non-substantial. And since it is non-substantial, it does not have an independent existence of its own. Therefore, it is mithyā. So, THE FINAL CONCLUSION IS, EVERY PRODUCT IS MITHYĀ; AND BRAHMAN, THE ULTIMATE KĀRAŅAM ALONE IS A NON-PRODUCT. AND THEREFORE, BRAHMAN THE NON-PRODUCT IS SATYAM. MEANS, THE ENTIRE UNIVERSE IS MITHYĀ. This is the development that we have been seeing.

After this, sthũla sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi, the upaniṣad is discussing the CREATION in two stages. First, it pointed out that, the external universe is made up of the elements; and therefore, it is mithyā. And to indicate the elements it referred to the three colours rohita, śukla and kṛṣṇaṃ. This expression rohitachuklakṛṣṇaṃ means, bhũta trayam. And bhũta trayam kāraṇam is satyam. The universe is mithyā. Then, bhũta trayam is also kāryam, which is mithyā. And from that standpoint, brahman is satyam. So, until the fourth section, the external universe was shown as bhautikam. Now, in this section no. 5, as well as in 6 & 7 - in three sections - the upaniṣad wants to point out that our body is also bhautikam. And when we say, 'our body', both sthũla śarĩram, as well as the sũkṣma śarĩram, they are also what? bhautikam. bhautikam means, bhũta kāryam. kāryatvāt, mithyā. And, for this purpose, the upaniṣad points out that, the three elements which are available outside, in the form of food that we consume, and whatever we consume, will get divided in to three components. And, thus, the three components in our system is the product of the bhũta trayam, which we consume in the form of annam. That is the topic we have entered in to. We will see mantrā one of section 5.

annamaśitaṃ tredhā vidhīyate - the solid food that we consume, gets divided in to three components in our body. And when we read the word annam, we should understand it as the pṛthivĩ tattvam. pṛthivĩ means, the bhũmi, the earth. When we consume that, it will get sub-divided in to three portions. The gross, the subtle and the subtler. The gross part of the food will only cater to the taste; and thereafter, it will get converted in to waste, and it will be thrown out.

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, annamaśitam. aśitam means, consumed, eaten. tredhā vidhīyate - is divided in to three portions. And, tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭhodhātuḥ. sthaviṣṭhaḥ means, what? The gross components. dhātuḥ means, the components, constituent elements, essential ingredients. What happens to that? dhātustatpurīṣaṃ bhavati - it becomes only waste. purīṣaṃ means, malam. malam means, waste or excretion or fecal matter is called purīṣaṃ. Very careful. It is not puruṣaḥ. It is purīṣaṃ. Both sound alike; so, be careful. purīṣaṃ bhavati. This is the gross part.

yaḥ madhyamaḥ - the subtle part of the food, which the medical people call as 'varieties of nutrients' - like, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins etc - which we do not physically see with our eyes; but, it is there inside. That is why it is called subtle. And what will it do? It will be absorbed by the physical body, the sthũla śarĩram; and this madhyamaḥ, madhyamaḥ means, the middle portion. Here, the 'middle' means, subtle. tat mā šaṃ bhavati. You can understand. māmsam means, the flesh of the body. And by the word flesh, we mean all the gross tangible body - like, muscles, flesh etc. Of course, not bone; bone will be mentioned later. The fleshy portion.

Then, yaḥ aṇiṣṭhaḥ tat manaḥ. aṇiṣṭhaḥ means, still subtler part of the food, which the medical people do not know, and do not talk about. Which, the yogic people talk about; and call it the sātvic, rājasic, tāmasic part etc - which is not available for medical analysis. That subtler part, contributes to what? yaḥ aṇiṣṭhaḥ. aṇiṣṭhaḥ means, subtlest of the three.

aniṣṭhaḥ is, superlative degree of anuḥ. anuḥ means, subtle. anīyān means, subtler. aniṣṭhaḥ means, the subtlest one. That aniṣṭhaḥ manaḥ bhavati - that will determine the types of thoughts. As I was discussing in the last class, they will decide whether our thoughts will be sātvic vṛttis or rājasic vṛttis or tāmasic vṛttis.

And some of the vegetables, the scientists say, are very good for the physical body, blood purifier etc. Like, people glorify onion and garlic more than GOD. Even ĩśvara stuti will lose out! Not that our śāstrā did not know their values. But, the śāstrā still banned it; because, they are good for the sthūla śarĩram; but, they are not good for the sũkṣma śarĩram. Why? They are supposed to produce rājasic and tāmasic vṛttis. They even tell the purāṇic story of how onion and garlic came.

It is a only a story; but, it conveys the message. When the rāhu-ketu during the amṛta mathana time they sat amidst the devās and they consumed amṛtam. By that time, mohini knew that it was the wrong persons who had come & sat among the devās. Therefore, what did mohini do? With that ladle, she cut their head. That is how the rāhu & ketu got divided in to two. One, is the head portion; and another is the tail portion. The amṛtam had gone up to the neck. And when it was cut, two drops of blood of this rākṣasā and also the flum of the rākṣasā fell down. Blood, what is the colour? Reddish colour. Flum, what is the colour? Whitish colour. And the rākṣasā's blood got converted in to onion; and the flum got converted in to garlic. But, even though it is rākṣasā's blood and flum, amṛtam portion got associated with that; because, he had taken half. As it got associated with amṛtam, it has medicinal value.

Okay. It got associated with amṛtam; therefore, it has medicinal values. But, even though it has medicinal value, it is what? The blood and flum of rākṣasā. So, you can decide whether you would like to consume that or not. Onion sāmbār is good to hear. purāṇā says, 'you decide whether you like to consume or not'. From now on, when you eat them, you will remember me only!

That is why, generally, I do not tell this story; but, anyway today I told it. Therefore, they both have rājasa-tāmasa vṛtti producing capacity. So, they say, avoid them. But, when it is cooked as a medicine, for medicinal purposes minimum amount required can be consumed. Whatever is medicine cannot be taken as regular food. Even cough syrup is medicine. It tastes good; but, can you say I will take one glass a day?! Even if it has got medicinal values, consume it to the minimum required, as a treatment; but, never as food. That is the yogā approach. Thus, the food influences the mind also.

Continuing.

आपः पीतास्त्रेधा विधीयन्ते तासां यः स्थविष्ठो धातुस्तन्मूत्रं भवति यो मध्यमस्तल्लोहितं योऽणिष्ठःस प्राणः ॥

āpaḥ pītāstredhā vidhīyante tāsāṃ yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātustanmūtraṃ bhavati yo madhyama stallohitaṃ yo'ṇiṣṭhaḥ sa prāṇaḥ ‖ 6.5.2‖

We have seen the three components of the pṛthivĩ tattvam when it is consumed as annam. When we consume the jala tattvam as the water, what will happen? The upaniṣad says, āpaḥ pītāḥ - the waters that are drunk, consumed, tredhā vidhīyante - this is also divided in to gross, subtle and subtler. tāsāṃ yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātuḥ - the grossest part of water, tat mūtraṃ bhavati - it becomes the waste. mūtraṃ is urine, you know. And yo madhyamaḥ the subtle part of the water tat lohitaṃ bhavati - that becomes blood. lohitaṃ means, blood. yaḥ aṇiṣṭhaḥ - still subtler part of water, saḥ prāṇaḥ bhavati - It becomes prāṇaḥ. That is why they have got water therapy and all. It is supposed to protect lives. Water is an important element in the body. Therefore, the upaniṣad says aṇiṣṭhaḥ prāṇaḥ bhavati. So, what we have note here is that, both the sthũla śarĩram [the blood corresponding to sthũla śarĩram] and, prāṇaḥ [corresponding to sũkṣma śarĩram], both are influenced by or both are products of the pṛthivĩ tattvam and jala tattvam.

Then, what about the third item, agni tattvam? We will read.

तेजोऽशितं त्रेधा विधीयते तस्य यः स्थविष्ठो धातुस्तदस्थि भवति यो मध्यमः स मज्जा योऽणिष्ठः सा वाक् ॥

tejo'śitam tredhā vidhīyate tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātustadasthi bhavati yo madhyamaḥ sa majjā yo'ṇiṣṭhaḥ sā vāk ‖ 6.5.3 ‖

So, the pṛthivĩ tattvam and jala tattvam are over. Now, the agni tattvam. So, tejaḥ aśitaṃ - when the agni tattvam, the fire, aśitaṃ - is consumed. Now, you will be looking at me. What are you talking Swāmĩji, do we consume fire?! Only some magicians do here and there; but, we do not consume fire. śańkarācāryā comments here, "fire stands for the oil etc which can catch fire". Thus, fire stands for oil and ghee, ghṛtam. So, they are supposed to be tejas tattvam. Oil, ghee etc when consumed, tredhā vidhīyate - it is divided in to three portions. vidhīyate - apportioned. tasya yaḥ sthaviṣṭho dhātuḥ - the gross part of the oil, tat asthi bhavati. Here, he does not say waste. Only in the case of the other two, it was waste. Here, the gross portion is very useful. And what is that? asthi. asthi means, what? Bone. asthi bhavati. yo madhyamaḥ - the middle or subtle part, gets converted in to majjā. majjā means, the bone-marrow, which obtains within the bone. And, yaḥ aṇiṣṭhaḥ - the subtlest part - oil or ghee, sā vāk bhavati - that becomes the vāk tattvam. vāk belongs to which part of the śarĩram? sthũlam or sũkṣmam? sũkṣma śarĩram. Thus, while asti and majjā belong to sthũla śarĩram, vāk belongs to sũkṣma śarĩram. Both are nourished by the oil, ghee etc.

That is why they say, 'for the vaidikās who do veda parāyaņam for hours together, consuming ghee is important'; because in those days, their job was what? Only preserving and promoting the vedic chanting. And unless they do that regularly, it cannot survive in the system. By printing books, vedā cannot be preserved. It has to be learnt. Therefore, they say, for vaidikās, consuming ghee is important. That is why they consume தொன்ன தொன்னயா [lot of] ghee. We talk about cholesterol etc; but, somehow, we do not know what will happen to them if they are going to chant the vedās continuously. All the ghee will get digested; because, that is used up by what? The vāk indriyam. So, vāk is the product of oil and ghee. What is the conclusion, therefore? That is going to come.

अन्नमय ्हि सोम्य मनः आपोमयः प्राणस्तेजोमयी वागिति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

annamaya thi somya manah āpomayah prāņastejomayī vāgiti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijnāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca || 6.5.4 ||

"Therefore, Oh, student!" [What is the name of the student? Do you remember?] śvetaketu. 'Oh, śvetaketu! uddālakā addresses, "hey somya, manaḥ annamayam". Here, the word 'annamayam' does not mean 'annamaya kośa', very careful. annamayam means, anna kāryam. So, the mind is also a product. A product of the pṛthivĩ tattvam. prāṇaḥ is also a product. A product of water. And vāk is the product of tejaḥ. In short, the entire sũkṣma śarĩram is a bhautikam. It is extremely difficult to know whether mind comes under matter principle or CONSCIOUSNESS principle. It is extremely difficult to understand whether mind comes under matter principle or CONSCIOUSNESS principle. With regard to the physical body, you can know it is matter; because, we can see a dead body rotting; and we know that the body does not have CONSCIOUSNESS of its own. So, IN THE CASE OF THE BODY, IT IS EASIER TO RECOGNISE IT IS BHAUTIKAM, IT IS MATTER. BUT, WHEN IT COMES TO THE MIND, IT IS EXTREMELY DIFFICULT. And that is why, we have a common wrong expression - mind and matter. By using the phrase mind over matter, we are assuming that mind is different from matter. And that is why, the buddhist people - even though they were very, very intelligent - they understood the body is anātmā; but, when they came to the mind, they concluded, "dehaṃ prāṇām apĩndriyāṇyapi calam buddhim ca śũnyaṃ viduḥ" - they wrongly concluded that the mind is ātmā. So, it is very difficult to know. AND, MIND CAN NEVER BE SEPARATED FROM CONSCIOUSNESS. At least in the case of the body, we experience a conscious body and we experience an inert body also. Thus we know, CONSCIOUSNESS is an incidental property. But, in the case of the mind, we have no way of knowing whether the mind has got borrowed CONSCIOUSNESS or intrinsic CONSCIOUSNESS. Why it is difficult to know? Because, mind is always CONSCIOUS. Mind is never separated from CONSCIOUSNESS. Hence, it is difficult to comprehend. Therefore, this portion is very important.

The upaniṣad clearly says, 'MIND IS ALSO MATTER ONLY'. It is eternally conscious; but, it has got an eternally borrowed consciousness. And therefore, śańkarācāryā quotes this line very often. What is the line? 'annamaya `hi somya manaḥ' - mind is the product of food. Therefore, it is a material principle. Similarly, āpomayaḥ prāṇaḥ - prāṇā is also material principle. We have the same confusion with regard to prāṇā also. Because, our experience is, when the prāṇā is in the body, the body is conscious; and when prāṇā leaves the body, body becomes dead body. So, what will be our conclusion? By anvaya vyatireka, it appears, as though prāṇā is the source of consciousness! Because, if prāṇā is there, then body is conscious. If prāṇā goes, body is inert. So, prāṇā seems to be the source of consciousness.

Here, the upanişad clearly says, "even prāņā is not the source of CONSCIOUSNESS. prāņā itself borrows CONSCIOUSNESS from ātmā. Then by itself what is prāņā? āpomayaḥ prāņaḥ. That is why in the famous kaṭhopaniṣad mantrā, [not that famous, okay] - in the kaṭhopaniṣad mantrā, yama dharma rājā says, "na prāṇena na apānena martyo jīvati kaścana". yamā says, "prāņā does not give life to the body". Then, what gives life? "itareṇa tu jīvanti yasmin netāvupāśritau" - something else, called ātmā, is there. ĀTMĀ ALONE GIVES LIFE! Then, what is the glory of prāṇā? Glory of prāṇā is, it borrows life from ātmā and lends to the body. [Some people will not give donation by themselves. I am not telling about any of you. General remark. For anything you ask for donation, what they do? They will ask someone else and get the donation and give it]. Same way, prāṇā is not a donor. It borrows from ātmā, and gives life - as though it is its donation! Really speaking, prāṇā is jaḍaḥ. What is the pramāņam? āpomayaḥ prāṇaḥ.

Similarly, tejomayī vāg iti - the vāk indriyam is a product. Here, in all the three, the suffix 'mayaḥ' conveys the meaning of a product. annamaya, maya means, product. āpomayaḥ means, product. tejomayī - why they say mayī, why not maya? It is simple. vāk is feminine gender; therefore, mayī. Whereas, prānaḥ is, masculine gender; therefore, mayaḥ. There are three genders. manaḥ is, neuter gender; therefore mayam. mayam, mayaḥ, mayī.

After hearing all these things, what was the response of śvetaketu? śvetaketu says, "I am able to understand very well; but, I want further clarification. I understand; but, not totally". Suppose the student says, "I do not understand at all", the teacher will go away; thinking, "no use in teaching". Suppose the student says, "I have understood well!", the teacher will get up and go. Therefore, he says, "Not that totally I have understood; I have understood somewhat. I want more clarity". So, he says, "bhagavān, bhūya eva mā vijñāpayat" iti - "so, may you, my lordship", he addresses his father, not as daddy or mummy. He addresses as, bhagavān. That honorific expression. "Oh Lordship, "may your Lordship teach me a little bit more". What did father do? Father patiently says, "I will teach you some more". So, with this, the 5th section is complete.

Now, we will enter section 6.

Sixth chapter - Section 6

दध्नः सोम्य मथ्यमानस्य योऽणिमा स उर्ध्वः समुदीषति तत्सर्पिर्भवति ॥

dadhnah somya mathyamānasya yo'ņimā sa urdhvah samudīṣati tatsarpirbhavati 6.6.1

Here the teacher understands that the śvetaketu is able to accept/understand the relationship between the food and the physical body; because, they are more directly connected. Therefore, people will be able to understand. But, the difficulty is, in understanding the connection between what we consume and our süksma sarīram, inner personality. Even the scientists, till recently, were only talking about the connection between food and the body only. But, now only, they are understanding more and more, that even emotional conditions, moods etc are also influenced by chemicals. When people have varieties of mental problems, they talk about the imbalance in body-chemistry. Recently, somebody was telling, if sodium level falls, one will keep on blabbering; and a person who was sensible and who was talking sense, suddenly begins to talk so many meaningless things! They go on studying, doing investigation, and they say what? Salt is less. Sodium is a little bit less or lithium or potassium, something like that. Also, the beauty is what? The amount is so minute. Not in kilo grams or grams. It is like 0.01, 05 mg etc. That minute difference makes the difference between taking a chandogya upanisad class [I hope, I am talking sense!] and blabbering in the bed! The difference is what? An increase or decrease in a few chemicals. And we hear about HRT. You know HRT? Hormone Replacement Therapy. And what is hormone? Nothing but chemicals only! An imbalance in hormone can create mood-swing, depression etc. Thus, it is clear that between the gross chemicals and our subtle body - like, emotion, moods etc - there is a connection. Therefore, prārabdham not only can affect the body, it can affect the mind also. So, to enjoy the self knowledge, we require the support of prarabdha; because, both our body and mind should be in reasonably, not extra-ordinary, reasonably good condition.

What I want to say is, the connection between food and sũkṣma śarĩram is not that evident. And therefore, uddālakā feels, he should give an example, to show the connection between food and sũkṣma śarĩram. So, the previous section talked about the connection between the food and both sthũla and sũkṣma śarĩrams; whereas, this section is focusing on the food and sũkṣma śarĩram more, to show the connection further. And what is the example? He says, "hey, somya! oh, pleasing student! dadhnaḥ mathyamānasya. dadhi means, what? Curd. When the curd is churned, yaḥ aṇimā - the subtlest and most significant part of the dadhi, the most valuable of the dadhi, comes upwards. saḥ urdhvaḥ samudīṣati - the subtlest, the most valuable, the most precious ingredient hidden in the dadhi potentially, that comes out in the form of butter. tat sarpiḥ bhavati - that butter is used in the form of ājyam, ghṛtam etc melted one is called ājyam. The solidified one, after melting, is called ghṛtam. All these valuable things come out of, what? The dadhi.

You cannot see that in the dadhi; but, by processing, it comes out. And when you taste the butter or ghee, it is so beautiful you do not see the connection between the curd and the ghee that you taste! The curd's any taste is not carried forward. It has got a unique and wonderful taste, even though they do not allow us to taste it. 'cholesterol, cholesterol' they say. LITITIONIONI OLITIEUGOLIT! If you try and taste it, it indeed, has got a unique taste, that you will not even believe that it has come from the curds! Similarly, the connection between the food and your sũkṣma śarĩram is not very clear. It requires what? A churning process. And in case of the curd, the churning process is outside. Whereas, here, the churning process is inside. Therefore, tat sarpiḥ bhavati. In the same way, what happens? This is dṛṣṭānta; and now, he comes to the dārṣṭānta, our subject matter.

एवमेव खलु सोम्यान्नस्याश्यमानस्य योऽणिमा स उर्ध्वः समुदीषति तन्मनो भवति ॥

evameva khalu somyānnasyāśyamānasya yo'ņimā sa urdhvaḥ samudīṣati tanmano bhavati || 6.6.2 ||

Here, somyānnasya - that myā should be long. somya + annasya. Due to sandhi, it becomes somyānnasya. So, hey somya - oh dear student. evam eva khalu - exactly like the churning process of the curd, the moment the food is consumed, the stomach is like the pot. [It also looks like the pot only! There, it is a go-curd holding-pot; here also, there is a pot-belly holding the food. And lot of chemical processing takes place. All those things bhagavān has not given in our hand; and those departments He has kept for himself. Wherever all complications are likely to come, there all bhagavān is holding the department!

Once food goes inside, the churning takes place. And enzymes are produced. They say, even when you look at the food some of the enzymes are produced in the mouth. We say, mouth-watering! What a remarkable process! You are only observing it; and the message goes to the mind; and the mind gives the message to the mouth; and enzymes are created! We have not yet touched the food. Sometimes, we do not even see the food! The food is made in some nearby house, and bhajji smell is coming; but, water comes in our mouth! What a fantastic system! Even an invisible bhajji, bonda whatever it might be, is capable of producing enzyme! And once it goes in to the mouth, some more enzymes. In the stomach, some more enzymes.

And powerful churning takes place. And what is the butter part? THE MIND IS THE MOST PRECIOUS PART CREATED OUT OF THE FOOD.

yo'nimā sa urdhvaḥ samudīṣati tanmano bhavati - and just as the butter comes upwards, [is not it correct, butter comes up only]. Just as the butter comes upwards, manaḥ also is where? Compared to the stomach, the mind is upwards. Thus, one portion joins with the mind. Whether you take the location of mind as the hrdayam [according to the śāstram mind is located in hrdayam] or, you may take the mind is located in the brain, whether heart or brain, compared to stomach urdhvaḥ. Therefore you have to imagine that as even you are eating food and churning mind is being catered to. yaḥ aṇimā - the subtlest power of the food, saḥ urdhvaḥ samudīṣati - it goes upwards, as it were. And it nourishes what? tat manaḥ bhavati. Here, the word bhavati should be translated as "it nourishes the mind". You should not say it produces the mind. Why? Why we should not say? Suppose I say, the consumed food produces the mind, then it will mean, before consumption I did not have the mind! Therefore, remember, it does not produce the mind. It caters to it. Nourishes the mind. śańkarācāryā observes these minute points and in His commentary he says, 'manaḥ upacayati'. It nourishes the mind. But, mind we already have; brought forward from previous janmā. Thus, food caters to sũkṣma śarĩram. Then what?

अपा[°]्सोम्य पीयमानानां योऽणिमा स उर्ध्वः समुदीषति सा प्राणो भवति ॥ तेजसः सोम्याश्यमानस्य योऽणिमा स उर्ध्वः समुदीषति सा वाग्भवति ॥

apā 、somya pīyamānānāṃ yo'ṇimā sa urdhvaḥ samudīṣati sā prāṇo bhavati || 6.6.3 || tejasaḥ somyāśyamānasya yo'ṇimā sa urdhvaḥ samudīṣati sā vāgbhavati || 6.6.4||

So, the second mantrā talked about the pṛthivĩ tattvam. Now, the third mantrā talks about the jala tattvam. jalam is consumed after eating. In the stomach the churning process takes place; and out of water, the subtle prāṇā is generated. And that prāṇā śakti, is used to nourish our prāṇā. That is why they say, "drink lot of water". WATER DRINKING IS SUPPOSED TO BE EXTREMELY GOOD. There are some people who get up in the morning and drink glasses and litres of water! Very difficult; but, some people practice that. Water of life! Water is considered to be prāṇaḥ. And therefore, that prāṇaḥ samudīṣati. sam+ud+iṣ dhātu. samudīṣati means, "collects upwards". It gets collected upwards. It is called samudīṣānam. Coming upwards, it means. That is jala tattvam.

Similarly, in the fourth mantrā, tejasaḥ somyāśyamānasya. tejah means, what? I told you. Fire. And, in this context, it refers to oil and ghee. When that is consumed, yo'ņimā sa urdhvaḥ - aņimā the subtle part urdhvaḥ samudīṣati gets collected at the top. sā vāg bhavati - and that becomes what? vāk. vāk is also upwards. From the stomach that śakti must come and nourish our vāk indriyam. Means, what? Conclusion is the same. annamaya hi somya manaḥ. That we will read.

अन्नमय ्हि सोम्य मन आपोमयः प्राणस्तेजोमयी वागिति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच । annamaya ् hi somya mana āpomayaḥ prāṇastejomayī vāgiti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ॥ 6.6.5॥

This mantrā is the repetition of the last mantrā of the previous section. This is the last mantrā of section number six, which is repetition of the last mantrā of section five. So, that is 6.5.4. What has been said there, the same thing He says here. The conclusion is the same. What is that? manaḥ prāṇaḥ and vāk are respectively the products of pṛthivĩ tattvam, jala tattvam and agni tattvam.

Therefore, sũkṣma śarĩram is bhautikam, bhūta kāryam. Therefore what? vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. And from this you have to go to its kāraṇam. From that you have to go to its kāraṇam. You have to ultimately go to brahman. "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā". śvetaketu happily listens to that; but, he is not satisfied. Therefore, he says, bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayat - may your Lordship, 'hey guro, may you teach once again. And, uddālakā says, 'it is late, come to the next class'!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

11. Chapter 6.6.5 and 6.7.1 to 6.7.6

अन्नमय ्हि सोम्य मन आपोमयः प्राणस्तेजोमयी वागिति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच । annamaya ् hi somya mana āpomayaḥ prāṇastejomayī vāgiti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ॥ 6.6.5॥

In the sixth chapter of chāndogya upaniṣad, the teacher uddālakā, in the first part of his teaching, is revealing "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā", in the first 7 sections, by the method of adhyāropa and apavāda. By pointing out that the entire CREATION is a product of brahman and when the CREATION is accepted and is presented as a product of brahman it is called adhyāropa. And thereafter, the teacher points out, a product does not have a substantially of its own; any product is only "vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ". THE SUBSTANCE IS CAUSE ALONE. And therefore, the entire world being a product, it is nothing but nāma rũpa. It is non-substantial; and it does not have an EXISTENCE of its own. And since the world does not have substantiality and independent EXISTENCE, it is called mithyā. And the cause of the world has substantiality and independent EXISTENCE. Therefore, the cause is satyam. kāraṇam satyam, kāryam mithyā. And the cause of the universe is called brahman, the pure EXISTENCE. So, we say, "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā".

And this process is going on. Initially, the teacher talked about the bhũta sṛṣṭi, the CREATION of the elements; and thereafter, the teacher has come to the bhautika sṛṣṭi, the CREATION of the elemental. And the bhautika sṛṣṭi itself is divided into two. One is the bāhya bhautika sṛṣṭi, the bhautika prapañca, the external world, CREATION. And the second one is, the individual, micro bhautika sṛṣṭi, the individual consisting of the sthũla sũkṣma śarĩram. Thus, both at the macro level as well as micro level, all the bhautikams are created only. And of this, in sections 4 to 7, we get the bhautika sṛṣți. And in the fourth section bāhya bhautika sṛṣți was pointed out. Now, we are dealing with the internal bhautika sṛṣți. There the teacher pointed out [I am giving a longer introduction; because of, longer gap. Instead of one week, we have had two weeks gap. I have forgotten! So, slightly longer]

And the teacher pointed out that, the food that we consume also has got the three components - namely, agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ. And the pṛthivĩ tattvam contributes to the māmsam, the physical body and the mind. "annamaya hi somya manaḥ". The jala tattvam contributes to the prāṇaḥ of the individual. And, the tejas tattvam, agni tattvam, contributes to the vāg. What is the agni tattvam in the food? We saw oil and ghee will come under the consumed agni. Not swallowing fire directly! But, in the form of oil and ghee. And to corroborate this further, the teacher talked about the churning of the curd, by which, the butter, which is the essence, comes upwards. Similarly, when we consume food, out of the food churned in the stomach, comes upwards - the prāṇā, the vāg and the manaḥ. All the three are above the stomach! prāṇa tattvam, the breathing, is also above. vāg tattvam is also above. All the three tattvams have come out, out of what? Out of the food, which is in the stomach. What is the stomach? The pānai. The stomach is the pot. It is correct only! And because of the churning process, just as the butter comes upwards, these three come upwards. Up to this we saw in the last class. With this curd example, the sixth section, is completed. Now, we have to enter the 7th section.

Sixth Chapter – Section 7

षोडशकलः सोम्य पुरुषः पञ्चदशाहानि माशीः काममपः पिबापोमयः प्राणो नपिबतो विच्छेत्स्यत इति ॥

șoḍaśakalaḥ somya puruṣaḥ pañcadaśāhāni māśīḥ kāmamapaḥ pibāpomayaḥ prāṇo napibato vicchetsyata iti || 6.7.1 ||

In all these three sections 5, 6 & 7, the upaniṣad wants to convey the main idea, that THE SŨKṢMA ŚARĨRAM IS A PRODUCT OF THE THREE ELEMENTS ONLY. This is the conveyed in the statement - a very often quoted statement; and here itself repeated several times. Therefore, worth remembering, at least until we complete the sixth chapter. If you can remember it is nice. "ANNAMAYA[°], HI SOMYA MANAḤ ĀPOMAYAḤ PRĀŅAḤ TEJOMAYĪ VĀG". annamayam manaḥ means, what? The pṛthivĩ tattvam contributes to the mind. āpomayaḥ prāṇaḥ means, the jala tattvam contributes to the prāṇā. tejomayī vāg is, the agni tattvam contributes to the vāg indriyam. And this is the message of all these three sections. And the 7th section also is conveying the same idea through an experiment.

In this message also, the teacher is concentrating on the first part of the message. That is, the food is contributing to the mind. Therefore, mind is a product of annam; and so, the faculties of the mind will increase with nutritious food; and the faculties of the mind will decrease when food is not consumed. Thus, anna-manaḥ kāraṇa-kārya sambandhā is highlighted in this section. Here also, the upaniṣad is focusing on this idea; because, there are lot of confusions regarding the nature of the mind.

Modern science does not even accept a mind separate from the brain. Modern science does not even accept the EXISTENCE of a mind, separate from brain. A mind which will survive the death of the body; a mind which will be carried forward in the next janmā. Such a mind is not accepted by modern science. Modern science thinks, psychology is a pseudo science. They do not accept psychology as a science. Why? Psychology is studying the mind. When the EXISTENCE of the mind itself is not proved, where is the question of psychology? They will accept neurology; because, neurons are scientifically proved; but not, psychology. Do you understand the difference? What I want to say is, there are lot of confusions with regard to the mind. And where are the confusions? In the mind. There are lot of confusions regarding the mind, the very nature of mind, in the mind itself! ONE CONFUSION IS, MODERN SCIENCE DOES NOT ACCEPT THE MIND.

And if you go to buddhism, the BUDDHISTIC PHILOSOPHERS CONSIDER THE MIND ITSELF AS THE CETANA ĀTMĀ. THEY CONSIDER MIND AS A SENTIENT ENTITY. NOT ONLY SENTIENT; BUT THAT IS THE VERY ĀTMĀ!

"deham prānam apindriyānyapi calām buddhim ca śūnyam viduh." And that is why they use the expression mind and matter. From that what we understand? Because of the expression mind and matter, it is clear that they look upon the mind as something different from matter. It is confusion number two. Of the buddhistic people.

And there is a third confusion regarding the mind. ĀTMĀ IS SOMEWHERE. Okay, when there are confusions regarding the mind itself, what to talk of ātmā?! The nyāya vaiśeṣika philosopher considers mind as an atomic substance. MIND AS AN ATOMIC SUBSTANCE; AND THEREFORE, IT IS ETERNAL. IT IS AN INERT, ETERNAL, ATOMIC SUBSTANCE. This is the third confusion regarding the mind. The confusion of the nyāya vaiśeṣika philosopher. And all these people are considered to be vaidikās, followers of the vedā. But, still, they are confused.

The upaniṣad makes very clear the nature of the mind. No.1. It is not sentient. It is insentient. By that, buddhism is negated. No.2. It is a product. Therefore, not eternal. Thus, naiyāyikā philosophy is also negated. The nyāya philosopher what does he say? Mind is eternal he says. The upaniṣad says, mind being a product, how can it be eternal?!

HERE THE TEACHER WANTS TO CONVEY THE NATURE OF THE MIND THROUGH AN EXPERIMENT. What are the ideas to be conveyed?

1] MIND IS A PRODUCT OF MATTER; THEREFORE IT IS INSENTIENT.

2] Mind is subject to expansion and contraction, in terms of its faculty.

Therefore, it is subject to birth & death. Thus, IT IS INERT; IT IS IMPERMANENT. AND THEREFORE, IT CANNOT BE THE ATMA. It is inert. It is impermanent. Therefore, it is not ātmā. These are the ideas to be conveyed through an experiment.

This experiment is done by the guru upon the śiṣyā. śiṣyā is the guinea pig. [I will not do it to you!] But, there, it has been done. And who is the teacher? uddālakā. And the disciple cum son is śvetaketu. And now he is addressing the student. So, 'hey somya' - dear śvetaketu! puruṣaḥ ṣoḍaśakalaḥ. puruṣaḥ means, the individual human being. [Here, the puruṣaḥ is not ātmā. In some places, puruṣaḥ = ātmā meaning will come. In this place, puruṣaḥ means, the individual]. He has got ṣoḍaśakalaḥ, 16 components. With different faculties and skills, 16 components are there in the puruṣa. Therefore, the mental energy also is sub-divided into 16 components. We have got 16 units of mental energy. All are sixteen. Mental energy is 16 units. And therefore, what should you do to find out what nourishes these 16 units of mental energy? What you should do is, for 15 days may you not take food. [What an experiment!] For 15 days, may you not take food.

Therefore, he says, pañcadaśāhāni - in 15 days, māśīḥ. māśīḥ means, what? māsi, pańguni it is not. mā āśīḥ - means, may you not do aśanam. 'aś' means, 'to eat'; mā āśīḥ - do not eat food. Not like our politicians' hunger strike. They will do something at the back. So, mā āśīḥ. 'But, one concession I am giving', the guru tells śiṣyā. kāmamapaḥ piba. kāmam means what? As much as you want, at will, as you like. kāmam is indeclinable word, here. Means, yatheṣṭam. In Tamil also, they say, எதேஷ்டமா சாப்பிடு! [eat, as you like]. yatheṣṭam apaḥ piba - you can drink water as much as you wish. And therefore, what is the advantage? āpomayaḥ prāṇaḥ. Since water alone sustains prāṇā, you will not have danger to your life! Hence, in this experiment the person will not be dead. Because you are allowed to drink water, your prāṇā will be intact. Therefore, the teacher says, āpomayaḥ prāṇaḥ na vicchetsyate - your prāṇā, which is nourished by the water, na vicchetsyate - will not perish; will not die. Therefore, the experiment is safe enough. It is not a life threatening experiment; because, you can drink water. So, na pibataḥ vicchetsyate. pibataḥ means, what? For a person who is drinking water. So, FOR A WATER DRINKING PERSON, PRĀŅĀ IS NOT, LIFE IS NOT, THREATENED.

But, when you stop eating food, what will happen? Food is the nourisher of the mind; because, what is the statement? 'annamaya hi somya manaḥ'. Since the food is the nourisher of the mind, WHEN YOU STOP EATING FOOD, THE FACULTIES OF THE MIND WILL BECOME LESSER AND LESSER. Totally how many units of mental energy are there? 16 units. And every day of fasting one unit of energy will go. 1/16th, 2/16th, 2/16th and when 15 days is gone, how much mental energy is gone? 15/16 is gone. Then what will be left out? 1/16. 1/16 of the mental skill will be sticking there! 15 units are lost because of 15 days fasting. And guru has gone away, leaving the student to fast. [guru did not fast! He takes food, normally!] After 15 days fasting, the boy comes. Then what happens? Next mantrā.

स ह पञ्चदशाहानि नशाथ हैनमुपससाद किं ब्रवीमि भो इत्यृचः सोम्य यजू ्षे सामानीति स होवाच न वै मा प्रतिभान्ति भो इति ॥

sa ha pañcadaśāhāni naśātha hainamupasasāda kiṃ bravīmi bho ityṛcaḥ somya yajū ֻsi sāmānīti sa hovāca na vai mā pratibhānti bho iti || 6.7.2 ||

You can understand. sa ha pañcadaśāhāni naśātha. sa ha means, that obedient śvetaketu, pañcadaśa ahāni - for 15 days. dvitīyā vibhakti. pañcadaśa - is a separate word. dvitīyā bahu vacanam. ahāni - dvitīyā bahu vacanam. In Sanskrit, dvitīyā vibhakti conveys the idea of duration. pañcadaśa ahāni means, for a duration of 15 days. 'ahan' śabdaḥ. Means, 'the day'. ahāni means, the days. nāśa. naśa means what? Not, நாசம் and all. na + āśa. You have to split like that. na + āśa. nāśa means, he did not eat. [aś dhātu, parasmaipadi, lit, eka vacanam āśa is a verbal form]. He did not consume food.

Then, what did he do? atha hainamupasasāda - after 15 days, śvetaketu approached his father, conveying, 'I have fulfilled, obeyed your commandment'. upasasāda means, approached. hainam means, what? uddālakam gurum pitaram. And he asked the question to his father, "kim bravīmi bho iti" - oh father, what should I chant? [Because he has gone to the classroom. All these things did not take place in the kitchen!] He has gone back to the classroom. Therefore, he asks the question, kim bravīmi? What vedā should I chant? bhoḥ - is addressing the guru, with reverence. Oh, reverential teacher. iti - thus, śvetaketu asked his father. And what did father say? Chant all vedās! Hey somya, oh dear son. rcaḥ yajū ši sāmāni iti sa hovāca. Chant the rg vedā, chant yajur vedā, chant sāma vedā - all the vedās you chant. ['somya' is not another vedā!] somya is, addressing the son. iti, here means, what? Thus, father commanded his son śvetaketu.

What did the son do? sa ha uvāca - the son looked in to his mind [computer?]; he tapped his brain [computer] and watched. What had happened? All of them erased! Therefore, sa hovāca - śvetaketu replied, 'oh, father! na vai mā pratibhānti bho iti'. Nothing, no vedā, comes to my mind. Nothing strikes my mind; everything is forgotten. [And remember, in the olden days, the vedās are repeated for thousands of times. That means, they are deeply registered in the mind.] In spite of that, he is not able to recollect! Why? 'annamaya thi somya manaḥ'. kāraṇa nāśe kārya nāśe. When annam was withdrawn, mind also behaves feebly. He had only 1/16th of the mind. That means what? One more day had he fasted, mind would have been permanently lost. But, now, there is a wee bit hanging. na vai, mā. mā means, 'for me'; na pratibhānti - they do not strike my memory. And what did the father do? anvaya vyatireka logic it is called.

anvaya vyatireka means what? 'In whose presence something is existent; and in whose absence something becomes absent', that becomes what? The cause of that. So, if sugar is added, sweetness comes. Sugar is not added, sweetness is absent. Therefore, sugar-eva sweetnassaya kāraṇam! Same way, first we have seen what the vyatireka argument. "anna abhāve, medhā śakti abhāvaḥ". In the absence of annam, medhā śakti is absent. This is called what? vyatireka logic. And hereafter, the father is going to introduce anvaya logic. What is anvaya logic? He will ask the boy to eat well That will come later. We will see that.

त्ँहोवाच यथा सोम्य महतोऽभ्या हितस्यैकोऽङ्गारः खद्योतमात्रः परिशिष्टः स्यात्तेन ततोऽपि न बहु दहेदेव ्ँसोम्य ते षोडशानां कलानामेका कलातिशिष्टा स्यात्तयैतर्हि वेदान्नानुभवस्यशानाथ मे विज्ञास्यसीति ॥

ta hovāca yathā somya mahato'bhyā hitasyaiko'ngārah khadyotamātrah pariśiṣṭah syāttena tato'pi na bahu dahedeva šomya te ṣoḍaśānām kalānām ekā kalātiśiṣṭā syāttayaitarhi vedān-nānubhavasyaśānātha me vijnāsyasīti || 6.7.3 ||

Now, the father is educating the son. So, ta hovāca. Father uddālakā addressed his son, tam uvāca means, śvetaketum uvāca. And what he says? yathā somya mahato'bhyā hitasya - he gives an example. Imagine there is a huge conflagration of fire; and the fire is very huge; and also the heat and light radiates all over. It spreads widely; because, it has been fed or nourished by lot of fuel. And imagine, you withdraw the fuel. That means, you do not add further fuel. Then, what happens to the fire? It becomes smaller and smaller and smaller; and finally, eko'nġāraḥ - ekaḥ anġāraḥ. There will be only one small ember, கனல், a small one. ekaḥ anġāraḥ means, a small ember of fire will be there. Of what? mahataḥ abhyā hitasya. abhyāhitam means, what? Well kindled fire; and therefore mahat. mahat and abhyāhitam refers to huge fire. And after withdrawal of the fuel it becomes what? ekaḥ anġāraḥ. And what is the size of the fire now? khadyota mātraḥ. khadyota means, a fire-fly. A fire-fly. In Tamil, we say, பின்பினி பூச்சி. In Malayalam, minnā minungi. Add one na; then it is Malayalam.

So, why he takes the fire-fly example? It is a very beautiful example. It is extremely small. It is bright also; but, what is the intensity of its brightness? The brightness is only that much intense to reveal its existence. The brightness of the fire-fly is only that much to reveal its existence. The brightness cannot illumine the things around. Suppose there is no current & you want to read a book. Can you say, "bring a fire-fly; and with the help of fire-fly I will read!" That will not happen. It does not have radiating light; because, the light is very, very small. In the same way, the memory power was so vast before; that it could remember rg vedā, yajur vedā, sāma vedā - all of them. Now, it has become khadyota mātraḥ. So small, that it cannot remember anything. It can reveal only what? Its existence. "I am here", that alone it can reveal. It cannot register or remember anything else. Therefore, the mind is compared to the fire.

So, he says, mahato'bhyā hitasya. mahataḥ is ṣaṣṭhĩ vibhakti. abhyā hitasya is also ṣaṣṭhĩ vibhakti. agneḥ is understood; 'of the fire'. ekaḥ aṅgāraḥ khadyotamātraḥ pariśiṣṭaḥ syāt. pariśiṣṭaḥ means, what? Remaining at the end. When? When the fuel is withdrawn. And because of that limited life, tena tato'pi na bahu dahed - with the help of that light, it cannot illumine anything more than itself. It cannot illumine or reveal more than itself. And also, it cannot burn other material. That dot of flame cannot burn anything. Suppose you put a newspaper, why newspaper, if you put a page of a book that dot of fire cannot burn that paper.

On the other hand it will get put out. That is all. Therefore, it cannot illumine more; it cannot burn more, than itself. Up to this is the example.

eva šomya te. Exactly as in this example, before the experiment you were fire. Gp(jij). So much bright you were. In fact, in Sanskrit, there is an idiom. agnir māṇavataḥ. Means, the fiery student. So much memory power! And what happened to all that? ṣoḍaśānāṃ kalānām - of the sixteen units of medhā śakti, [unit is for just a measurement]. Of the 16 units of your medhā śakti, 15 have been lost; because of fasting. And what is left out? ekā kalātiśiṣṭā syāt - one unit alone is remaining. Therefore, you remember what? 'My father has given me an experiment'. That much alone he can remember. He only remembers this much. What is the proof? He came back to his father! Therefore, that much alone he remembered; but, he could not remember rg vedā, yajur vedā, sāma vedā. But, you should know, that he has studied them before. [Otherwise, you will say, "we also do not remember!" Okay, you do not remember; because, you have not studied. You have to understand. That is not said here]. śvetaketu has studied all of them. He could reel out. Even now.

Somebody was telling. There is one person who is in America; but, he promotes vedās, śāstrās and all of them in India. Every year he comes and conducts various veda sammelanams, śāstrā sammelanams and encourages vedā adhyayanam and all. He says, there is a Mahārāṣtrian boy or some North Indian boy, who is 8 years or 10 years. He knows the entire brahma sũtrā, along with śańkarācāryā's bāṣyam by-heart. brahma sũtrā 555 sũtrams. Learning the sũtram by heart itself is a tough job. That boy has learnt the sũtram, along with bāṣyam. You ask, 4.3.24. He rattles out the sũtram and bāṣyam! And they conduct competitions also. Another boy, he can chant all the 700 ślokās of the gĩtā upside down and downside up! Two sides he can chant. Any particular number say 9th chapter, 13th verse if you say, he chants 9th chapter, 13th verse; and also the previous one as well as the later one! What I want to say is, these things were possible. Things are even now possible. There are people who chant even now a days. Because computer is available and everything is in the computer. Even if somebody asks, 'Qiminfik.f

என்ன கிழமை?' ['what day is today?'], we look into the computer! Because, when you do not use a faculty you lose it. The law is what? Use it or lose it. Now, we do not have to use memory power; and because we are not using, we are losing also. Anyway they are aside stories.

What I want to say here is śvetaketu remembered all the three vedās before; and now, he has forgotten all of them. Therefore, guru says, ekā kalātiśiṣṭā syāt - you only have 1/16th of your memory; and with this limited memory power, tayaitarhi vedān na anubhavati - with that imited medhā śakti, you are not able to remember. na anubhavati - you are unable to remember the vedās, even though you have studied them. And the father says, you need not worry; because, memory power is not lost; they are now in potential form; and if you feed the mind, [anvaya logic. When you feed the mind] you will get back all your medhā śakti. Therefore, father tells him aśāna. All these words should be properly split. tayaitarhi vedān na anubhavati. aśāna - may you eat food now. And, atha me, after implementing my commandment, here 'me' means, what? 'me vacanam śrutvā' - after listening to my commandment and implementing my instructions, vijñāsyasi - you will find, you will get back all your memory. And what did the son do? என்ன பண்ணினானா? 15 நாளா காஞ்சு கிடக்கறான்! He was waiting for the commandment. உடனே 'அம்மா' ன்னு சொல்லி ஒரு ஓட்டம் கிச்சனுக்கு! [He must have rushed to the kitchen, calling out, 'ammā!']

स हशाथ हैनमुपससाद त ँह यत्किञ्च पप्रच्छ सर्व ँह प्रतिपेदे 🛽

sa haśātha hainamupasasāda ta ta ta vatkiñca papraccha sarva ha pratipede || 6.7.4

sa haśātha. sa ha āśa. āśa means, he ate food, to his fill. And, athaḥ - after eating the food, he came back to his father uddālakā. And what did uddālakā do? Again asked him to chant rg vedā, yajur vedā, sāma vedā. And what was his response? Whatever vedā was asked for, instantaneously he could recollect & chant them. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, yatkiñca papraccha - whatever his father asked him, sarva <code>``</code> ha pratipede - he recollected all those mantrās and repeated them. So, this is what? anvaya logic. annam came. medhā came. So, anna abhāve medhā abhāvaḥ. anna bhāve medhā bhāvaḥ. tasmāt, "annamaya[°], hi somya manaḥa". Therefore, ANNAM IS THE CAUSE OF THE MIND.

Continuing.

त्ँ होवाच यथा सोम्य महतोऽभ्याहितस्यैकमङ्गारं खद्योतमात्रं परिशिष्टं तं तृणैरुपसमाधाय प्राज्वलयेत्तेन ततोऽपि बहु दहेत् ॥

ta į hovāca yathā somya mahato bhyāhitasyaikamangāram khadyotamātram pariśistam tam trnairūpasamādhāya prājvalayettena tato pi bahu dahet || 6.7.5 ||

Now, the father connects to the example given before. In the example, we withdrew the fuel and the huge fire has become a small ember. Now, the father says that, even though the fire has become very small, it is down; but not, out. Therefore, there is that dot. And out of that dot of fire, it is possible to reconstruct. And how do you do that? tṛṇaiḥ ũpasamādhāya - by adding dry grass. The first part is repetition what we saw before. When the fuel is withdrawn, there is a small ember; and imagine you add fuel. You have to add carefully; otherwise, the fire will be put-out. tṛṇaiḥ ũpasamādhāya. upasamādhānam means, re-kindling the fire with the help of dry grass. prājvalayet - a person can again make the fire burn bright. And once that ember has become a conflagration, then the heat and light of the fire is not confined to the fire only, it spreads beyond its peripheries also! Therefore, he says, tena tato'pi bahu dahet - it burns and illumines more than its size. In the same way, in your case, what happened? When you started eating, the ember of medhā śakti again came back to full-fledged power!

एव ्ै सोम्य ते षोडशानां कलानामेका कलातिशिष्टाभूत्सान्नेनोपसमाहिता प्राज्वाली तयैतर्हि वेदाननुभवस्यन्नमय ाहि सोम्य मन आपोमयः प्राणस्तेजोमयी वागिति तद्धास्य विजज्ञाविति विजज्ञाविति ॥

eva veva ve sodasanām kalānāmekā kalātisistābhūtsānnenopasamāhitā prājvālī tavaitarhi vedānanubhavasyannamava hi somva mana āpomavah prāņastejomavī vāgiti taddhāsya vijajñāviti vijajñāviti accesses versetas versetas kalātis kalātis versetas kalātis kalātis versetas kalātis kalātis versetas ka Exactly as in the case of fire, in your case also, eva te sodaśānām kalānāmekā kalātiśist ābhūt in your mind also. the medhā śakti had got reduced to 1/16th. And then what happened? sā annena upasamāhitā - in the case of fire it was dry grass. In the case of memory, we cannot eat grass[!], in the case of memory, it is food. So, sā annena upasamāhitā means, kindled, nourished. prājvālī means, what? It became bright again. Grammatically 'lī' must be short [li]. But, here, it is vedic usage. prājvāli. [It is jval dhātu, passive voice, luńg lakāraḥ, prathamā, eka vacanam]. It has become very bright. And, tayā etarhi vedān anubhavati - with that improved memory power, rekindled memory power, you are able to remember all the vedās, once again.

Thus, what is THE CONCLUSION OF THE EXPERIMENT? THAT IS VERY IMPORTANT. "annamaya thi somya manah". The mind is a product of annam. And in chandogya 6th chapter, "annam" represents, prthivî tattvam. Then, āpomaya prāṇaḥ. prāṇā is a product of jala tattvam. tejomayī vāg. vāg is a product of agni tattvam. With this, uddālakā, concludes adhyāropa apavādā discussion.

And with this 7th section, "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā" teaching is complete. And what is the response of śvetaketu? taddhāsya vijajñāv iti vijajñāv iti. śvetaketu was a bright student [like you!] and therefore, śvetaketu says, "vijajñāv". vijajñāv means, he has grasped the teaching.

And because the first part of vedāntā is over, the UPANIṢAD INDICATES IT BY REPEATING THE LAST PORTION. How? taddhāsya vijajñāv iti vijajñāv iti. With this, the first part of vedāntā is complete.

What is that? "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā". After this, what else should we understand? "jīvo brahmaiva nāparaḥ" - the mahāvakyam should start from the 8th section. We will start that from the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते l पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते l ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

12. Chapter 6.7.6, 6.8.1 and 6.8.2

एव ्ं सोम्य ते षोडशानां कलानामेका कलातिशिष्टाभूत्सान्नेनोपसमाहिता प्राज्वाली तयैतर्हि वेदाननुभवस्यन्नमय ाहि सोम्य मन आपोमयः प्राणस्तेजोमयी वागिति तद्धास्य विजज्ञाविति विजज्ञाविति ॥

eva voje somya te sodasanām kalānāmekā kalātisistābhūtsānnenopasamāhitā prājvālī tavaitarhi vedānanubhavasy annamaya viece kalātis vagiti taddhāsya vijajnāviti vijajnāviti 16.7.6

With this sixth mantrā, the 7th section of the sixth chapter of chāndogya is over. And, as I said in the last class, in the first 7 sections, we have got the sṛṣṭi prakāraṇam which is adhyāropa and apavādā form of teaching. And through this adhyāropa - apavādā method, the teacher has conveyed, "BRAHMA SATYAM; JAGAN MITHYĀ". BRAHMAN THE KĀRAŅAM ALONE IS SATYAM AND THE ENTIRE UNIVERSE THE KĀRYAM IS NOTHING BUT NAME AND FORM. VĀCĀRAMBHAŅAM VIKĀRO NĀMADHEYAM. And with this the first part of the sixth chapter is over.

Broadly, the sixth chapter is divided in to two portions. The first portion consists of 7 sections. And the second portion is the rest, beginning from the 8th section up to the end. And in the first portion we get, "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā" teaching. And in the following sections, we are going to get "jĩvo brahmaiva nāparaḥ". Therefore, the mahā vākyā part of the teaching is going to come hereafter. And to indicate this alone, the upaniṣad repeats the last line, taddhāsya vijajñāv iti, taddhāsya vijajñāv iti. How do you split that sentence? tad ha asya vijajñāv iti. tad ha asya vijajñāv iti. tad means, 'this teaching', in the form of "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā"; asya - of the guru uddālakā, vijajñāv - the student [śvetaketu] understood. That means, "brahma satyam; jagan mithyā" part has been received by śvetaketu, very well.

Hereafter, "aham brahmāsmi", he has to know. And that begins from the 8th section. You should not get confused between the chapters and the sections. We are now seeing which chapter? The sixth chapter. Of what upanişad? Chāndogya upanişad. And in the sixth chapter, we have completed 7 sections. We are going to enter the 8th section of the sixth chapter. We will read.

Sixth chapter - Section 8

उद्दालको हारुणिः श्वेतकेतुं पुत्रमुवाच स्वप्नान्तं मे सोम्य विजानीहीति यत्रैतत्पुरुषः स्वपिति नाम सता सोम्य तदा सम्पन्नो भवति स्वमपीतो भवति तस्मादेन र्स्वपितीत्याचक्षते स्व ह्रैयपीतो भवति ॥

uddālako hāruņiķ śvetaketum putramuvāca svapnāntam me somya vijānīhīti yatraitatpuruṣaḥ svapiti nāma satā somya tadā sampanno bhavati svamapīto bhavati tasmād ena svapitīty- ācakṣate sva hyapīto bhavati || 6.8.1 ||

uddālakah hāruņih śvetaketum putram uvāca. Here, the teacher Himself continues the teaching further; because, the teaching is incomplete. So, the teacher himself, continues. Thus, śvetaketum putramuvāca - putram, śiṣyam ca - son happens to be his disciple. And what did guru say? 'Hey somya, svapnāntam me vijānīhi iti' - oh, dear student! may you know about the deep sleep state of the individual. Through the analysis of deep sleep, the teacher is going to point out that, 'brahman is our real nature'. By the analysis of deep sleep, the teacher is going to point out that, brahman is the real nature. Therefore, He introduces the topic of deep sleep.

So, He says, svapnāntam. The word svapnāntam means, suṣuptiḥ. How does the word svapnānta mean, suṣupti? antaḥ means, 'end'. svapna antaḥ means, that state in which all the dreams have ended or resolved. बहुवीहि समास - bahuvrīḥ samāsa. 'svapnasya antaḥ yasmin sthāne tad sthānam svapnāntam '. And what is that state in which all the dreams are resolved? suṣupti alone! Therefore, svapnāntam means, suṣupta sthānam, the deep-sleep state. 'hey somya, me vijānīhīti - may you understand from my teaching. 'me' means, mama vacanāt - from my teaching, vijānīhīti - may you understand.

What is there to analyse in suṣupti? suṣupti is something to be enjoyed. So, why should you analyse suṣupti? The teacher says, suṣupti is to be analysed; because, that is the state wherein the jīvā, or the individuality, resolves in to the svarũpam. The individuality resolves only at the time of sleep; and whatever obtains at that time, must be the real nature of the individual. Just as when the pot is destroyed, it resolves in to clay, which is the real nature of the pot. Therefore, whatever be THE LOCUS OF RESOLUTION MUST BE THE NATURE OF THAT THING. What is the law? Whatever be the locus of resolution of a thing, that must be the nature of that thing! I will repeat. WHATEVER BE THE LOCUS OR PLACE OF RESOLUTION OF A THING, THAT MUST BE THE NATURE OF THAT THING. Pot dissolves or resolves in to clay. Therefore, clay is the nature of the pot. Similarly, if you have to find out the nature of the jīvā, you have to find out, "where the jīvā resolves?" And the jīvā, does not resolve in jāgrat avasthā. He is fully active. jīvā does not resolve in svapna avasthā also. He is partially active. ONLY IN SUSUPTI, JĪVĀ RESOLVES. Therefore, we have to find out, WHERE HE RESOLVES DURING SUSUPTI? WHAT IS THAT PLACE? The teacher says, the jīvā resolves in to pure EXISTENCE. That is said here. Look at the mantrā.

yatra etat puruṣaḥ svapiti nāma - when a person is called svapiti, in sleep, asleep. svapiti means asleep, puruṣaḥ means, any jīvā or individual is asleep what happens to him? Hey somya, tadā sampannaḥ bhavati - he merges in to a state of pure EXISTENCE, without any individuality. During jāgrat avasthā, I have an individuality, associated with the sthūla śarīram. In svapna avasthā, I have got an individuality associated with the dream body and sense organs. In suṣupti, the sense organs are resolved; mind is resolved; emotions are resolved; kartṛtvam [doer-ship] is resolved. Enjoyer-ship is resolved. Knower-ship is resolved. manaḥ, buddhiḥ, citta, ahamkāra; even cidābāsā is resolved. That means, even CONSCIOUSNESS is [not resolved] but, not manifest; because, for the CONSCIOUSNESS to be manifest, what is required? The mind has to be active! Therefore, jñānendriyam, karmendriyam, antaḥkaraṇam, kartṛtvam, bhoktṛtvam, pramātṛtvam - all of them are resolved. Even the manifest CONSCIOUSNESS, called cidābāsā, is resolved. What remains at the time of sleep? ONLY ONE THING REMAINS. WHAT IS THAT? I AM EXISTENT. I EXIST BUT I DO NOT EVEN CLAIM, 'I AM EXISTENT'. I EXIST.

This is what is said by śańkarācāryā in dakṣiṇāmũrti stotram, "rāhugrasta divākarendusadṛśo māyāsamācchādanāt sanmātraḥ, karaṇa upasamharaṇataḥ yaḥ bhūt suṣuptaḥ pumān II [sanmātraḥ means, pure EXISTENCE] 'I' have resolved where? 'I' have resolved into my nature, which is pure EXISTENCE. Now, the question is, "what is the proof that I exist at that time?" What is the proof that I exist at the time of deep-sleep? If I do not exist at that time, after waking up, I will never say, 'I slept well'. So, the very fact that I make the statement, 'I slept well', it means, I continued to exist, without the individuality, jīvatvam. And if my EXISTENCE is going to end in suṣupti, if my EXISTENCE is going to end in suṣupti, I will never go to sleep! [I have told you often. We will use GLDITGT&ITL GLIITLA and stay awake! Therefore, the upaniṣad says, 'hey somya, tadā sampannaḥ bhavati - the jīvā has merged in to his original svarūpam, which is called pure EXISTENCE. And what type of EXISTENCE? EXISTENCE; not associated with body or mind or sense organs; because, they are all resolved. EXISTENCE, IN ITS PURE FORM. If you want to experience the pure EXISTENCE, the nearest and easily attainable state is, just doze off. இப்ப வேண்டாம்; ராத்திரி, [Not now! At night].

Therefore, the teacher makes a very important statement. tadā. tadā means, what? With pure EXISTENCE. And what is that EXISTENCE called? brahman. tadā brahman. tadā - at the time of sleep, sampannah bhavati, jīvā has merged; or become one with. And what is that pure EXISTENCE? sva, hyapito bhavati - and that EXISTENCE is nothing but one's own svarūpam. svam means, what? svarũpam. He has resolved in to his very nature. And by this, what does the upanisad communicate? Very important. In susupti, whatever be the nature that is experienced by us, that is our svarũpam, the original nature. If that is my original nature, what about that nature obtaining in jagrat and svapna? That is, I am father, mother, husband, wife etc.? They are only incidental nature according to upanisad. And therefore, now whatever personality that we are experiencing is, incidental. And what we are experiencing in susupti, that is the original. But what is our [erroneous] conclusion? We think that, the nature that we have now, that is - father, mother, husband, wife, etc - that we take as our real nature! And what we experience in susupti, what do we think? That, it is temporary, we think. So, the 'localised self' is permanent, we think. Un-localised self is taken as incidental! The upanisad says, THE UN-LOCALISED SELF IS OUR REAL NATURE. AND, THE LOCALISED PERSONALITY, IS ONLY AN INCIDENTAL THING.

That is why somebody beautifully said, "you are not a human being seeking a spiritual experience. If you look upon yourself as a human being seeking a spiritual experience, it is a wrong notion. Your effort will never succeed. You WILL NEVER GET A SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE, YOU SHOULD UNDERSTAND. YOU ARE A SPIRITUAL BEING, TEMPORARILY HAVING A HUMAN EXPERIENCE. This human experience has come with the birth of this body. And, this human experience will end with the death of the body. Thus, the human personality is an arriving-departing, incidental nature. WHO AM 'I'? 'I' AM THE SPIRITUAL BEING! Pure EXISTENCE; which existed before the arrival of the human experience and which will continue later also.

Therefore, the teacher says, sva * hyapītaḥ bhavati - we are in our real nature during suṣupti. And from this, we get another conclusion also. In jāgrat avasthā, most of the time, our life is a struggle. But, in suṣupti avasthā, what is our experience? All the struggles end; and we are ānandā in suṣupti. And, if suṣupti is our real nature, then, ānandā becomes our real nature! And whatever struggles we have in jāgrat and svapna, they also become incidental. Therefore, so many corollaries we can derive from this very important line. sva * hyapīto bhavati. svam means, svarūpam. apītaḥ means - one who is resolved. apītaḥ - means, resolved in to one's own svarūpam. And because we have dissolved or resolved in to our own svarūpam, suṣupti is given a name. tasmād ena - because of this reason; svapiti iti ācakṣate - sleep is called, in Sanskrit as svapiti. In Sanskrit, when a person is asleep, the word used is svapiti. And the upaniṣad says, svapiti. How do you split? sva+apiti, sva means, what? Real nature. apiti means, resolved.

And therefore, our nature is, pure EXISTENCE, obtaining in the suṣupti avasthā. And jāgrat and svapna avasthās are only our veṣam. Look upon jāgrat avasthā, as a drama. svapna avasthā also as drama. The green room is what? suṣupti avasthā is the green room; in which we are in pure EXISTENCE and pure ānandā.

स यथा शकुनिः सूत्रेण प्रबद्धो दिशं दिशं पतित्वान्यत्रायतनमलब्ध्वा बन्धनमेवोपश्रयत एवमेव खलु सोम्य तन्मनो दिशं दिशं पतित्वान्यत्रायतनमलब्ध्वा प्राणमेवोपश्रयते प्राणबन्धन ्हि सोम्य मन इति ॥

sa yathā śakuniḥ sūtreṇa prabaddho diśaṃ diśaṃ patitvānyatrāyatanamalabdhvā bandhana- mevopaśrayata evameva khalu somya tanmano diśaṃ diśaṃ patitvānyatrāyatanamalabdhvā prāṇamevopaśrayate prāṇabandhana ุ៉ hi somya mana iti || 6.8.2 ||

So, this jīvātmā, during suṣupti, resolves in to its own nature; called sat, which also happens to be ānanda svarūpah. And not knowing that this sat svarūpā alone is the peace, security and happiness, what does the jīvā do in jāgrat and svapna? Putting on the jīva veṣa, [jīva veṣa means, what? Identifying with the body mind complex], it puts on the incidental personality, called kartā, bhoktā etc; and goes on searching for peace, security and happiness; which are available only in its original sat svarūpam! But not knowing this, the jīvātmā looks for these three - peace, security and happiness - in jāgrat avasthā and svapna avasthā. So it is fluttering all over. And after struggling throughout the jāgrat and svapna, the jīvā discovers that they are not available anywhere else; and therefore, what does it do? It comes back to its own nest; its own original nature. That is again sat rūpam or sat svarūpam. And to convey this idea, an example is given.

Suppose there is a bird which is tied to a pole. That bird tries to fly all over looking for various places to rest; and after flying in different directions, ultimately, the bird has to come back to the pole alone! Because, nowhere else it can rest. Just as the bird flies all over and comes back to its own original nest, similarly, the jīvātmā flutters, travels all over and comes back to its own nature for resting! So, sa yathā śakuniḥ. śakuniḥ, means what? Not, mahābhārata śakuniḥ. Very careful. śakuniḥ means, a bird. sūtreṇa prabaddhaḥ - which is tied to a pole; diśaṃ diśaṃ patitvā. Imagine that bird is tied by a rope to the pole on a ship. You can imagine. There is the ship and there the pole is there. The bird flies all over, all around what is there? Only ocean. No trees available. You have to imagine that. No trees available. No houses available. It flutters to find some āśraya or the other. And after so flying, it becomes tired. At last, it comes back to the same pole!

Similarly, the jīvātmā in the jāgrat avasthā runs all over; after that he sleeps off in the office itself! Or, he goes back home; to his own original pole. What is that pole? sat brahma. So, sūtreņa prabaddhaḥ - tied to a pole with a string. diśaṃ diśaṃ patitvā - travels in all the directions, patitvā means, flying; and, anyatra āyatanam alabdhvā - not finding a resting place anywhere in the world, finally comes to what? bandhanam eva upaśrayate - it comes back to the very pole to which it is tied. Similarly, the jīvātmā is connected to what? The paramātmā, which is the sat rũpam. And then, in jāgrat and svapna, it flies around. evam eva khalu somya - in the same manner, hey somya, oh dear student, tanmanaḥ - tat manaḥ. Here, the word manaḥ represents, the jīvātmā, the cidābāsa, the individuality, which is active in jāgrat and svapna avasthā.

Why do we say it is active only in jāgrat and svapna avasthā? Because, in suṣupti the mind is also resolved. Therefore, the cidābāsa is also resolved. Therefore, in jāgrat and svapna avasthā, the mind with cidābāsa, diśaṃ diśaṃ patitvā - goes towards varieties of sense objects, in search for these three basic requirements - peace, security and joy. It searches all over. Either it does not get them; or, whatever comes is lost also. And, anyatra āyatanam alabdhvā - not finding any real resting place, anywhere in the world; āyatanam - means, support or resting place. anyatra alabdhvā - does not get in any other place; and so, ultimately comes back to what? Its own svarũpam! What is the svarũpam, the original nature of cidābāsa? 'cit' is the original nature of cidābāsa; because, it has come from where? From the cit alone it has come.

Therefore, prāṇam eva upaśrayate. Very mischievous words. Here, the word prāṇaḥ means, ātmā. என்ன அக்ரமம் பண்றார், பாருங்கோ?! [what atrocity?!] Here, very carefully note. prāṇāħ means, prāṇasya prāṇaḥ of the kenopaniṣad. Here, the word prāṇā means, prāṇasya prāṇaḥ of kenopaniṣad. Whether we remember kena upaniṣad or not, note this much. prāṇaḥ means "OC", the ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS, ātmā. prāṇam eva upaśrayate. And why does it come to the ātmā? Because, prāṇa bandhanațh i somya manaḥ - because, manaḥ, the jīvātmā or cidābāsa, is originally connected to the 'cit' alone.

I have given the example before. Remember. When there is a mirror in front of me, the reflection of the face is formed in the mirror. Now, the reflection has got two fold sambandha. One is, it is connected to the original face. Why? Because it is the reflection of the original face only. Thus, there is one sambandha with the original face. Secondly, the reflection has got connection with the mirror also. Because, it is formed upon the mirror. Now, the reflection can claim connection either with the mirror or with the original face. I hope you can imagine. The reflection has got two choices. One is, it can claim, 'I belong to the mirror'. Because the reflection is located in the mirror. What is the second choice? The reflection can claim, 'I do not belong to the mirror, mirror is temporary; it will come it will go, I originally belong to the 'OC' the original'. The reflection can claim the original also.

Similarly, cidābāsa has got two options. cidābāsa can claim, 'I am associated with the bodymind complex', which is only a reflecting medium. Or, the cidābāsa can claim, 'I originally belong to the 'OC". But what do we do? Instead of claiming 'OC' as our real nature, we claim the temporary body!

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, manaḥ, the jīvātmā, is originally connected to the paramātmā only; and not to the reflecting medium, called the body or the mind. bandhanam means, what? 'Connected to'. prāṇā means, what? The 'OC', the ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS. manaḥ means, what? 'RC', the REFLECTED CONSCIOUSNESS. 'RC' is originally connected to 'OC'. Therefore, you should claim, 'aham brahmāsmi'. Do not claim this body as your 'self'!

Continuing.

अशनापिपासे मे सोम्य विजानीहीति यत्रैतत्पुरुषोऽशिशिषति नामाप एव तदशितं नयन्ते तद्यथा गोनायोऽश्वनायः पुरुषनाय इत्येवं तदप आचक्षतेऽशनायेति तत्रितच्छुङ्गमुत्पतित ्ँसोम्य विजानीहि नेदममूलं भविष्यतीति ॥

aśanāpipāse me somya vijānīhīti yatraitatpuruṣo'śiśiṣati nāmāpa eva tadāśitam nayante tadyathā gonāyo'śvanāyaḥ puruṣanāya ityevaṃ tadāpa ācakṣate'śanāyeti tatritacchuṅgam utpatita šomya vijānīhi nedamamūlaṃ bhaviṣyatīti || 6.8.3 ||

How they take simple, very ordinary things to reveal the extraordinary teaching! Previously, the analysis was of what? The most ordinary and regular thing. What is that? Sleep. By analysing sleep, our sat svarũpā was revealed. Now, the teacher says, 'we will analyse two more things. Very, very ordinary things. And by that analysis, we will arrive at sat'. What are those two ordinary things? Hunger and thirst. Hunger and thirst, which are common. Nobody can say, 'I do not have hunger or thirst. Sleep is also universal. Universal experiences are taken to reveal brahman. Otherwise, the student will say, 'I have not experienced the examples taken here.' Nobody can say, 'I have not experienced examples taken here'. Sleep is universal, hunger is universal, thirst is universal.

Now, that is introduced here. as an a pipase me somy a vijanihi iti. May you understand the truth of these two experiences; 'me' - from me. What are the two experiences? asana pipase. aśanā - means, hunger. pipāsā - means, thirst. And, what is to be analysed? The upanisad says, yatra etat purusah asisisati nāma - when a person gets hungry, in Sanskrit we use the expression, aśiśisati nāma. The person gets the name aśiśisati. aśiśisati means, what? aśitum istati - he desires to eat food. 'I am hungry', means, what? 'I desire to eat food'. And when he has desire to eat food and he consumes food, what happens? aśiśişati nāma bhavati purusah āpah eva tad āśitam nayante - he takes food; because, the body desires to consume food. And he eats the food. The body has to absorb this food. How does the body absorb food? The upanisad says, the body has got several juices or enzymes etc., which are liquid in nature. Which we can claim as āpah. āpah - literally means, water. But, 'water', in this context, refers to, various liquid things in the body; like, enzymes, digestive juices, blood etc. And the food goes in to the stomach. But, the body cannot absorb it, directly. How is it absorbed? The juices, the enzymes, digest the food and convert the food in to various nutrients, which the body can absorb. The food is converted in to absorbable nutrients. upanisad is giving funny theories. It wants to derive somehow and reach brahman.

Now, once this food has been converted in to absorbable nutrients, the āpah - the blood etc. carry the nutrients and distribute to the body organs, parts. And therefore, the water, which carries the food and gives to the body, is called aśanāyaḥ. So, whenever you use the word 'hunger, āśana' etc., it refers to the water. And how is the water called aśanāyaḥ? āśa means, what? Food. nāyaḥ means, the carrier. So, the water is called aśanāyaḥ, since it carries nutrition to the body. And from that, what is the conclusion we get? The conclusion is, body is a product of the annam that is consumed. śARīRAM, ANNA KĀRYAM. THE BODY IS THE PRODUCT OF ANNAM. How do you arrive at that? You should be highly imaginative. Water is called aśanāyaḥ. Means what? 'The carrier of the nutrition'. Since water is called, 'the carrier of nutrition to the body', you come to know that 'FOOD ALONE BECOMES NUTRITION. Nutrition is carried by the water; and it is absorbed by the body. So, body is the product of the annam, which has been converted in to the nutrients and carried and distributed to the body. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, śARīRAM, ANNASYA KĀRYAM BHAVATI.

Now, look at this mantrā. āpaḥ eva. Water in what form? In the form of various enzymes, blood etc. tad āśitaṃ nayante - water alone, like the courier service, carries the food and distributes to every limb of the body; and therefore, water gets a new title. What is the title? aśanāyaḥ. āśa means, what? Food. nāyaḥ means, what? Not dog! nāyaḥ is not dog. nayati iti nāyaḥ - carrier.

And the upaniṣad gives a few examples. tad yathā gonāyaḥ - so, a cow herd, who leads or tends the cows, is called gonāyaḥ. aśvanāyaḥ - the one who tends or leads the horses is called aśvanāyaḥ. And water is called aśanāyaḥ, indicating that it carries food. Therefore, tad yathā gonāyaḥ aśvanāyaḥ puruṣanāyaḥ iti - puruṣanāyaḥ means, the one who takes the people. evaṃ tad āpaḥ acakṣate aśanāya iti - the water is called aśanāyaḥ. And from this, what do you understand? tatra etat chuńgam utpatita vijānīhi - so, from this word, we come to know that the body is a chuńgam. chuńgam means, what? kāryam. chuńgam very careful. The Tamil chungam it is not. Sanskrit chuńgam. Means, kāryam. iti vijānīhi. What is the kāryam here? The body is the kāryam. utpatitam means, that which has been produced or effected or generated. And if the body is a generated product, what is the kāraṇam? annam is the kāraṇam. How do you know? Because, the water inside taken the annam and nourished the body.

Therefore, uddālakā says, idam amūlam na bhavişyati iti - idam amūlam na bhavişyati. idam means, what? This body, which is a product, can never come without a kāraṇam. This body which is a product can never originate, without a kāraṇam. And what is that kāraṇam? annam is the kāraṇam. Therefore, what should you do? From the body, you have to trace the kāraṇam, that is annam. And annam is, what? If you remember the previous portion, annam is the name of bhūmi tattvam. So, from body, you have to go to annam, the pṛthivĩ; and, from pṛthivĩ, you have to go to what? jala tattvam. From the jalam, you have to go to what tattvam? agni tattvam. From the agni, you have to go to what tattvam? sat brahman.

Thus, from analysing the hunger, you go to the body; from the body, you go to pṛthivĩ tattvam; from the pṛthivĩ tattvam, you go to jalam; to agni; and ultimately to "sat brahman". Thus, may you arrive at sat brahman as the kāraṇam of all the bodies. This is what is going to be said.

Very, very imaginative mantrās. Those details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

13. Chapter 6.8.3 and 6.8.4

अशनापिपासे मे सोम्य विजानीहीति यत्रैतत्पुरुषोऽशिशिषति नामाप एव तदशितं नयन्ते तद्यथा गोनायोऽश्वनायः पुरुषनाय इत्येवं तदप आचक्षतेऽशनायेति तत्रितच्छुङ्गमुत्पतित ्ँसोम्य विजानीहि नेदममूलं भविष्यतीति ॥

aśanāpipāse me somya vijānīhīti yatraitatpuruṣo'śiśiṣati nāmāpa eva tadāśitam nayante tadyathā gonāyo'śvanāyaḥ puruṣanāya ityevaṃ tadāpa ācakṣate'śanāyeti tatritacchuṅgam utpatita somya vijānīhi nedamamūlaṃ bhaviṣyatīti II 6.8.3 II

Among the daśa upaniṣads, the chāndogya upaniṣad and bṛhadāraṇyaka upaniṣad are special; because, they are very big upaniṣads. And in addition to that, there are certain portions in these two upaniṣads which are unique and different, which are not available in the other 8 upaniṣads. And that unique portion is, these upaniṣads take up a general Sanskrit word, which word has got a regular language derivation and also a regular dictionary meaning. And, taking such a regular Sanskrit words, the upaniṣads give a special and different derivation, leaving out the general grammatical definition given in the grammar books. The upaniṣads drop the regular derivation and give a special derivation and a special meaning; and through this special meaning, the upaniṣads convey a particular aspect of the teaching. We can call it nirvacana bhāgaḥ. That portion of upaniṣad which deals with special derivations. In English we can say 'PORTIONS OF WORD PLAY'. Word play means what? Playing upon the words.

And what is the play that these upaniṣads do? They drop the sāmānya nirvacanam, [sāmānya means regular, nirvacanam means derivation], the upaniṣads drop the sāmānya nirvacanam, the regular derivation; and the upaniṣads give a viśeṣa nirvacanam, a special derivation. And through such a special meaning, a vedāntic idea is communicated. This nirvacanā portions, or word play portions, are unique to these two big upaniṣads. Which two? Chāndogya and bṛhadāraṇyaka.

Therefore, to enjoy or appreciate these portions, we should have some exposure, some knowledge, of the Sanskrit language; because, we should know "what is the sāmānya nirvacanam, [the general derivation and the regular meaning]; and how the upaniṣad is playing fun". Literally, fun only. And it gives a special derivation, viśeṣa nirvacanam, and a special meaning. And chāndogya upaniṣad sixth chapter, 8th section, is such a section of word play. And therefore, this portion may appear a little bit difficult. Not because the vedāntic idea is difficult. That is only a known idea; but, the upaniṣad conveys this, through the method of word play. It again comes in the 8th chapter of chāndogya; word play is there also. In bṛhadāraṇyaka also, there are certain word play portions. śākalya brāhmaṇam is a brāhmaṇam where word play is there.

And, to understand "what a word play is", I will give you some examples in English and Tamil. Then you can apply it in Sanskrit. Suppose, a person asks a student, 'how are your studies going? Do you study well?' This boy answers, 'I am an out standing student'. And then this person asks, 'in the last examination, in all the subjects, how many marks you got, since you are an outstanding student?' The boy replies, 'I failed in all the papers'. Then this person asks, 'you only said you are an outstanding student?!' Then the boy says, 'that is right. Because I failed in all the subjects, every teacher, as a punishment, asked me to stand outside. Therefore, who am I? Out standing student'. This is word play. You split the word differently. The regular meaning is what? He is a student who 'stands out'. 'Outstanding' means, what? He is a student who 'stands out'. of taking the regular derivation; or, sāmānya nirvacanam, he takes a special derivation. He takes 'out, as out' and 'standing, as standing' and says, 'I am an out standing student'. This is the word play in English.

In Tamil there are several word plays. We have a humorous brahmacāri, who always comes up with several such word plays. He says, all the old freedom fighters were great people who said 'vande mātaram'. வந்தே மாதரம்! 'vande mātaram' means, we salute our mother nation. Now, the present day politicians also say the same mantrā. 'vande mātaram'. And what it means? வந்து ஏமாத்தறோம்! vandu emāttarom! When you change slightly, viśeṣa nirvacanam, vandu emātarom! That is what politicians do! Once he asked me, 'tell me, why mother Goddess is a beautiful spin bowler?' What a question?! 'Why mother Goddess is a beautiful spin bowler?' Who will imagine mother Goddess and cricket and bowling and spin! He said, the reason is, one of the names of the mother Goddess is bāla tripura sundari! LIITO

திருப்புற சுந்தரி! Beautiful spinner of ball. This is viśeṣa nirvacanam. Like this, he will say 100s of them. You take a word and play on the word and come up with a new meaning.

And this is not a new adventure. upanişad itself has done this, taking certain words and giving a non-pāṇinĩan derivation. pāṇinĩ is the original grammarian. He has given derivation of words. But, the upanişad gives a different meaning. This word play alone is unique; but, the message conveyed is what? We have already seen that in the previous 7 sections. The 8th section of chāndogya's 6th chapter is a word play section, which reinforces the idea we have seen in the previous 7 sections.

And, three words are taken for play. The first word is svapiti. I will try to explain the grammar part. If you understand it is good, even if you do not understand, it is okay; because, the message is not new. It is only playing upon words. The first word used for play, fun, is svapiti. The second word is aśanāyā. aśanāyā is the second word. And the third word is udanyā. Of these three words we have already gone through the words svapiti and aśanāya and I will give you the grammar part of it. I will try to communicate. Then, we will go to the third word udanyā.

In regular Sanskrit, the word svapiti is derived from the root svap. [svap is the Sanskrit root and svapiti is the verbal form. svap dhātu. 2nd conjugation. parasmaipada, lat, prathama purusah, eka vacanam]. svapiti is a verbal form derived from the Sanskrit root, 'svap', which means, 'to sleep'. And therefore, the word svapiti means, 'one who is asleep'; or, one who sleeps, is the meaning of svapiti. This is the pāninĩan derivation; regular derivation; grammatical derivation. We will call it sāmānya nirvacanam. sāmānyam means, 'regular'. nirvacanam means, 'derivation of the word'. And playing upon this word, [like 'வந்து ஏமாத்தறோம்!' மாதிரி], the upanisad says, svapiti as a compound made up of two words. One is, 'sva'; another is, 'apĩtih'. sva and apĩtih. And sva means, 'svarũpam', the real nature of EXISTENCE. Because, in sasthādyāyā, real nature is what? 'sadeva somya' EXISTENCE. So, sva means what? sat svarũpam, the real nature of EXISTENCE. And, apītih is a word which means, layah. Or, 'dissolution'. So, sva+apītih - joining these two words, normally, what should be the form? 'svāpĩtih' should come. But, playing on the words, [பால திருப்புற சுந்தரி" ஞாபகம் வெச்சுக்கோங்கோ!'] bāla tripura sundari, may you remember. By making certain changes, svāpīti becomes, svapiti. And, what is the meaning of sva and apîtih? Dissolution or resolution into one's own nature of EXISTENCE. Therefore, instead of taking the word svapiti as, 'one who sleeps', the upanisad says, svapiti means, 'one who has resolved in to his nature of EXISTENCE' - sat svarũpa layah.

And, it is taking this word as a बहुव्रीहि समास - bahuvrĩḥ samāsa a bahuvrĩḥ compound. This is viśeṣa nirvacanam. bahuvrĩḥ compound. And, what is the derivation? 'svasmin sat svarũpe apĩtiḥ layaḥ. yasya saḥ svapĩtiḥ'. What is the special derivation? svasmin sat svarũpe. sva means, 'sat svarũpam'; and, apĩtiḥ means, 'layaḥ yasya saḥ'. Therefore, whenever you say, 'a person is sleeping', vedāntā says, the meaning of 'sleeping' is, what? 'The one who has resolved in to the sat svarũpam'. Therefore, the very word 'sleeping', conveys that, 'a person has resolved in to kāraṇa svarũpam'. Thus, the very simple word of svapiti conveys, 'EXISTENCE IS KĀRAŅAM'. Every jīvā is a kāryam; and during sleep, jīvā - the kāryam - is resolving in to EXISTENCE, the kāraṇam. All these are meaning for what? 'He is sleeping', we say! When a person says, 'saḥ svapiti', the upaniṣad says, the word svapiti means, [like, bāla tripura sundari], the word svapiti means, "the kārya jīvaḥ has now merged in to kāraṇam brahma". svarūpa LayaḤ IS CONVEYED BY THE WORD svapITI.

Thus, what is the message conveyed? 'SLEEP' IS, MERGER IN TO BRAHMAN! And if you study the other upaniṣads, it is repeatedly said, '*everyday during sleep we are only merging in to our nature of brahman*¹. That is why, in sleep, we have got advaitam. During sleep, we do not have individuality! During sleep, we have no limitations! During sleep, we have no location! During sleep, we have no division. During sleep, we do not have kartṛtvam bhoktṛtvam pramātṛtvam. Thus, svapiti means, what? brahma layaḥ. And this special meaning, brahma layaḥ, is not derived according to regular grammar rules. The upaniṣad comes to this meaning by viśeṣa nirvacanam. And what is that? svasmin sat svarũpe apĩtiḥ layaḥ yasya saḥ svapitiḥ. This is the word play number one. How is it? Hope you like it. Now we will go to the word play number two.

{In the last class I thought I will leave-out all this headache. But, the response was not good. Therefore, I thought, I will explain. Do not say "today, it is worse!" [that we could have left-out this headache!] I am trying to convey what the upanişad is trying to do}.

The second word used for play, fun, is aśanāya and the regular pāninĩan derivation or sāmānya nirvacanam is aśitam icchā aśanāyā. aśitam icchā aśanāyā it is derived from the root as - 'to eat'. And asitum icchā means, what? Desire to eat. And, when do you get a desire to eat? When you have hunger. Therefore, the final meaning of the word asanaya is equal to hunger. This is the regular dictionary, pāņinĩan meaning. But the upaniṣad, what mischief [trisaman] it does?! Like, tripura sundari, the upanisad splits the word asanaya into another compound, consisting of as and naya; and the final portion naya is changed in to nāyah. How svapiti was converted to svapitih? Was given a visarga and converted; the verbal form in to a noun form. Here also, the word asanāyā, the upanisad makes asanāyah; and the portion asa is taken as asitam annam. asa means what? Food that is consumed. And the word nāyah is taken to mean, 'the carrier, the distributor to the body'. Just as from the factory, the distributing vehicles take the product and distributes to various places, similarly, nāyah means, what? nayati iti nāyah. Therefore, aśanāyah. The new, special derivation is, aśitam annam nayati iti aśanāyah - the distributor of food to the various limbs of the body. And where is the factory? There is a huge factory called tummy. Huge. We can see! So, there is a huge factory, working three shifts! Day and night we are eating. After fridge has come, some people get up in the night and eat! Therefore this 24 hour 'tummy factory' is converting the food in to the nutrients; and that eaten food is carried to various limbs of the body.

And therefore, the upaniṣad says, aśanāyaḥ means, "water or bodily fluids, like blood etc". So, what is the original meaning? Hunger. What is the special meaning? The water which distributes the food to the limbs of the body. And by extension, the word "water" means, the fluid portion in the body. Like, what? The blood, which carries the nutrition and hands over. Therefore, what is the final meaning of aśanāyaḥ? The bodily fluid which carry nutrients to the limbs of the body.

Okay. What is the advantage the upanişad gets by all this headache? It is simple word play only. And what is the message conveyed through this? The upanişad says, from this it is very clear that, the body grows or is nourished by annam alone. Why? Because, the bodily fluid alone takes the annam and gives to various parts of the body; and the body gets nourished. Therefore, body is anna kāryam. That is the final message. The message is known. It is a message which we have already seen. 'Whatever you consume that alone gets converted in to the body' - is a known message, which we saw in the previous section. [I will tell the section also where the food was divided in to 3 portions; Gross, subtle and subtlest portion. "annam aśitam tredhā vidhīyate". Section 5. mantrā no.1]. The message is already known. Food consumed alone nourishes the body. Therefore, the body is a product of annam is the message. In this 8th section, the message is not new; but, it is conveyed through the word play of aśanāyaḥ. And therefore, the bodily fluid is converting the food in to the body.

Not only that, śańkarācāryā adds one more point, in His commentary. He says that, the food consumed alone gets converted in to the puruṣa bījam, the seed for the child birth in both the male body and the female body. As they say, the egg, ovum etc; the seed in the male body, and the egg in the female body - both of them are products of what? annam alone! Thus, annam produces the seed and the egg. The seed and egg alone, during conception, join together and produces the baby. Therefore, the new baby's body is born out of what? The seed and the egg, which is born out of what? The annam consumed. Therefore, the śarīram, not only the parents' body; but, the next child's body is also a product of what? annam! All these ideas you get from what? The special derivation of the word aśanāya. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, "body is kāryam; annam is kāraṇam". So, with this, the aśanāyā word you have to forget; and now, we have to hold on to what? Body is kāryam; annam or earth, [annam means, earth we saw earlier] is the kāraṇam.

Then you should remember, vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. kāryam does not exist separate from kāraṇam. Therefore, body does not exist separate from annam, the earth. And thereafter, you should know that, the earth is a product of jalam. Original sṛṣṭi we should remember. annam is kāryam; jalam is kāraṇam. Therefore, there is no annam, separate from jalam. Then, jalam is kāryam; agni is kāraņam. Therefore, there is no jalam, separate from agni. agni is kāryam; sat brahman is kāraņam. Therefore, there is no agni, separate from brahman. Therefore, the body, the pṛthivĩ, the jalam, and the agni, none of them exist separate from brahman. Hence, what? sarvam brahmamayam jagat. Where did we start all this? From aśanāyā word play, the upaniṣad raises up to brahman! That is said in the next mantrā no.4. Now we will see whether these mantrās communicate something or not. mantrā 4.

तस्य क्व मूल ्ैंस्यादन्यत्रान्नादेवमेव खलु सोम्यान्नेन शुङ्गेनापो मूलमन्विच्छाद्भिः सोम्य शुङ्गेन तेजो मूलमन्विच्छ तेजसा सोम्य शुङ्गेन सन्मूलमन्विच्छ सन्मूलाः सोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सदायतनाः सत्प्रतिष्ठाः ॥

tasya kva mūla syād anyatrānnādevam eva khalu somyānnena sungenāpo mūlam anviccha adbhih somya sungena tejo mūlamanviccha tejasā somya sungena sanmūlam anviccha sanmūlāh somyemāh sarvāh prajāh sadāyatanāh sat pratisthāh # 6.8.4#

The upaniṣad says, 'by studying the special derivation of the word aśanāyā, the message that we have got is that, śarīram is the kāryam; annam is the kāraṇam'. Therefore, may you travel from śarīram, the kāryam, to annam, the kāraṇam. Therefore, he says, tasya kva mūla syād - what is the kāraṇam of this body? anyatra annāt - other than the food, what other kāraṇam is there for the body? What does it mean? 'Other than the food, what kāraṇam can be there for the body', means, what? Food alone is the kāraṇam for the body. How did we arrive at? aśanāyā pada nirvacanāt.

So, anyatra annāt. Therefore, from the śarīram you should go to annam. 'You should go to annam' means, what? Just as, 'going from pot to clay' means, what? You should 'go from pot to clay' means, you should understand, that "pot is born out of clay; sustained by clay; resolves in to clay. Therefore, there is no pot at all, other than clay". Same way, 'going from body to annam' means, what? You should understand, "body is born of annam; sustained by annam; goes back to annam. Therefore, there is no body, separate from annam". Which means, once you go to annam, body is converted in to vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ. Body is just a non-substantial name and form. Then, what is the substance? annam alone is the substance. annam means what? In some houses for ladies they have annapũraṇi name, and they call her 'annam'. That is not this annam. Here, it is food. So, annam; anyatra annāt. Once you have reached annam and dismissed the śarīram, what is your next step? From annam - which is the pṛthivĩ tattvam - you should go to jala tattvam; and dismiss the pṛthivĩ tattvam; and, jala tattvam alone exists.

It is like traveling from molecules to atom. What do you mean by traveling from molecules to atom? Scientifically looking, you understand "there are no such things called, molecules. Atoms alone, arranged in a particular configuration, is named a molecule". Molecule is nāma rūpa. What is the substance? Atom. After that, what should we do? From atom you go to subatomic particle. Like that, you dismiss the whole universe; and reduce it to what? Energy in motion. This is the scientific approach. The vedāntic approach is, instead of going from molecules to atoms to sub atomic particles, it is going from pṛthivĩ to jalam to agni. Therefore, it says, evam eva khalu. Traveling upwards in the same direction, Agrığğli Ggrığğlii GurıŋgıGərıiioiiman. You have to climb the stairs.

Therefore, he says, evam eva khalu. In the same manner, annena śuṅgena - with regard to the body, annam is called kāraṇam. But, from the standpoint of the jalam, what happens? annam, the pṛthivĩ tattvam, itself has become a kāryam. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, annena śuṅgena. śuṅgam means, kāryam. So, just as you see atoms also as products, born out of what? Sub-atomic particles, similarly, pṛthivĩ also is a product. And from the pṛthivĩ, where should we go? āpaḥ mūlam anviccha. āpaḥ means, the jala tattvam. mūlam means what? The kāraṇam. So, for kāryam, śuṅgam is the word. For kāraṇam, mūlam is the word. [@000 you take it correctly. Everywhere there is a board mūlam, see this doctor, that மூலம் is different. That is a disease!]

āpaḥ mūlam anviccha. anviccha means what? "May you seek". And once you have arrived at jala tattvam, what do you do? jalam is a kāraṇam, from the standpoint of pṛthivĩ; but, jalam itself is a kāryam, from the standpoint of what? agni. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, adbhiḥ somya śuṅgena. From the waters, which themselves are kāryam, [sāmānādhikaraṇya. adbhiḥ & śuṅgena. sāmānādhikaraṇya tṛtĩyā]. Waters, which are them-selves products; so, where should you go? tejaḥ mūlam anviccha - you have to go to the agni tattvam. [tejaḥ and mūlam - sāmānādhikaraṇyam]. agni is the kāraṇam. anviccha means, what? "May you travel".

And the beauty is, what? As you go in to deeper and deeper kāraṇam, the tangibility goes away. Molecules are tangible. Atoms are subtle. We cannot see. Sub-atomic particles are still subtler. And when you say, "energy", it is non tangible. And modern science says, "there is no tangible universe at all". "But, I am seeing", if you say, that is an illusion! The non-tangible energy in motion only, appears as tangible! Same way here also. pṛthivĩ to jalam to agni as we go, it will become subtler and subtler principles. Not perceptible to the sense organs. And from the agni tattvam where should you go? [If we were in taittirĩya upaniṣad, there are pañca bhũtās; therefore, we will go from agni to vāyu. And, vāyu to ākāśā. ākāśā is the subtlest form of matter available]. But, in chāndogya ṣaṣṭhādyāyā, the vāyu and ākāśā are not mentioned. We have to supply in the mind.

And finally, what should you do? That is important. Hey somya! oh student! are you awake? Here only one student. uddālakā and śvetaketu. And, if he also goes to sleep what to do? Therefore, teacher says, 'somya, somya', and he wakes-up the student! So, dear student, are you awake?

tejasā somya śuṅgena - agni itself, [you can take agni as energy also], that itself, is a kāryam. And so, from agni you have to make a big leap to the PURE EXISTENCE. san mūlam anviccha. And, what is the derivation of PURE EXISTENCE? Remember the five? It is NOT a part, product or property of anything in the CREATION. It is an independent entity, which pervades and lends EXISTENCE. It is not limited by any object. It survives even when the whole world is resolved; but, the pure EXISTENCE is not accessible to our instruments; not because it is non-existent. "EXISTENCE is non-existent", can anyone say?! So, not because it is non-existent; but, because pure EXISTENCE is beyond all transactions. Just as pure gold cannot be used to form ornaments. Because, they say, it is too malleable or something. Hence, you have to add few things. Then only, it is useful for ornaments. Same way, PURE EXISTENCE cannot be transacted. Only when the nāma rũpās are added - like, when 'mike' nāma rũpa is added to PURE EXISTENCE, only then mike is recognisable. Then, we say, 'there is a mike'. Can you see that? Do you understand? I think, you understand!

san mūlam anviccha - 'may you arrive' at the SUBTLEST, PURE EXISTENCE. Naturally, the next question of the student will be, what? Next question will be, keeping sat as the kāryam, should I go to its kāraṇam? You will get kuttu. 'SAT' IS THE ABSOLUTE AND ULTIMATE CAUSE ITSELF; IT IS NOT A PRODUCT. EXISTENCE IS NOT A PRODUCT. If EXISTENCE is to be produced, it should be produced out of something else. Something else, other than EXISTENCE, will be what? Non-EXISTENCE! So, how can you produce EXISTENCE out of non-EXISTENCE?! That will not happen. Therefore, he says, "that pure EXISTENCE is called brahman. And from brahman alone, all these people have come; in brahman alone, all the people rest; and unto brahman alone, all the people will go away!"

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, "hey somya" - dear student, imāḥ sarvāḥ prajāḥ - all these living beings. So, what is the difference between this section and the previous section? In the previous section, we only talked about the product in the form of the world; but here, we are including the living beings also. Therefore, sarvāḥ prajāḥ - all these living beings are san mūlāḥ - are born out of that brahman, the pure EXISTENCE only. So, what does it mean? san mūlāḥ means, sat is the sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. san mūlaḥ means, sat is the sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. बहुब्रीहि समास - bahuvrĩḥ samāsa. sat brahma eva mūlam, sṛṣṭi kāraṇam vyāsāmsāḥ prajāḥ bahuvrĩḥ. Adjective to prajāḥ. And not only is THE PURE EXISTENCE sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. sadāyatanāḥ. āyatanam means, abode, the support. Therefore, sadāyatanāḥ means, brahman alone is the sthiti kāraṇam, for all these living beings. Again, bahuvrĩḥ samāsa. sat brahma eva āyatanam sthiti kāraṇam vyāsāmsāḥ prajāḥ.

So, sṛṣṭi kāraṇam brahma. sthiti kāraṇam brahma. And what is left out? You know the answer! sat pratiṣṭhāḥ - the word pratiṣṭhā means, the laya kāraṇam, the resolution ground. Again, bahuvrīḥ samāsa. sat brahma eva pratiṣṭhāḥ laya kāraṇam vyāsāmsāḥ prajāḥ. And therefore, brahman alone is the sṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam; is the material cause of the CREATION. And we all know that, kāraṇam alone is substantial; everything else is what? Non-substantial nāma rũpa.

Therefore, what is world? It is PURE EXISTENCE. THAT ALONE IS THERE; and upon that only substance, called EXISTENCE, nāma rũpās are added. The EXISTENCE plus nāma rũpa is this world!

And if somebody asks, "EXISTENCE is non tangible. So, how can the intangible EXISTENCE appear as the tangible world?", if one asks, what answer we give? In science, if the intangible energy can appear as the tangible world, sheerly because of its configuration and arrangement, why cannot our non-tangible EXISTENCE appear as the solid tangible world?

Therefore, brahman alone was, is and will be. Whatever else you experience is nothing but, nāma and rũpa. So, this is arrived at through the second word play. And what is that word play? aśanāyā.

And now we will have one more word play 'udanyā' and I will bother you with that, in the next class, so that you can have some intellectual rest [in the meanwhile].

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

14. Chapter 6.8.4 to 6.8.7

तस्य क्व मूल ्ैस्यादन्यत्रान्नादेवमेव खलु सोम्यान्नेन शुङ्गेनापो मूलमन्विच्छाद्भिः सोम्य शुङ्गेन तेजो मूलमन्विच्छ तेजसा सोम्य शुङ्गेन सन्मूलमन्विच्छ सन्मूलाः सोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सदायतनाः सत्प्रतिष्ठाः ॥

tasya kva mūla syād anyatrānnādevam eva khalu somyānnena sungenāpo mūlam anviccha adbhih somya sungena tejo mūlamanviccha tejasā somya sungena sanmūlam anviccha sanmūlāh somyemāh sarvāh prajāh sadāyatanāh sat pratisthāh # 6.8.4#

In this 8th section of the 6th chapter of chāndogyā the upanişad conveys the teaching given before, by a unique method of word play, I said. Three words are taken for the special vedic interpretations, and the same message given before is given here also. That is the topic of the first five mantras. And, as I said, to understand this word play, we should have some Sanskrit knowledge. Otherwise, this may appear a little bit odd. But, whether we enjoy the word play or not, the final message is easier to understand. The first word taken was svapiti; and the general grammatical derivation is that, it is a verb, which means, 'a person is asleep'. 'He is sleeping'. And the special derivation is, the word svapitih is taken as a noun, by adding the visarga; and this noun is divided in to two portions. svam and apitih, sva referring to brahma svarūpam; and apītih meaning, layah. So, svapitih means, a person who has resolved in to brahman. And by giving this special derivation of brahma svarupa layah, what is the message conveyed? Not only the jīvās originate from brahman; all the jīvās resolve also in to brahman, as we experience in deep sleep state. Therefore, viśesa nirvacanena, for the word svapiti, through the viśesa nirvacanam, special derivation, the message given is simple. "Everything resolves in to brahman". Not only brahman is srsti kāraņam brahman is laya kāraņam, also. This is the message of svapiti nāma, viśeşa nirvacanam.

Then the next word taken is aśanāyā, which literally means, 'hunger' only. But, here, the vedā takes it as aśanāyāḥ, with a visarga; and it is a noun, in plural number; and the special derivation given means, it is 'water'. aśanāyāḥ, the meaning given through the special derivation is, water. And that too, the water which is in the form of fluids in the body which carries nutrition to the various parts of the body. aśitam annam nayati iti aśanāyāḥ, āpaḥ. Thus, aśanāyāḥ. The special meaning is, bodily fluid. General meaning is, what? Hunger. And by this special derivation, what is the message that upaniṣad wants to give? It says, the bodily fluid alone is carrying the nutrition to the various parts of the body. The nutrition come from annam. Therefore, the body is a product of annam. Message is simple. So, aśanāyā pada viśesa nirvacanena, through this special derivation, what the upanisad conveys is, the physical body is anna kāryam. Here, anna kāryam yuktam.

And since the body is a product of annam, annam is the kāranam. The essential nature of the body must be what? The kāraņam annam! Because, the essential nature of any kāryam is nothing but, kāraņam. deham is anna kāryam. Therefore, annam is kāraņam. Therefore, annam is the svarũpam of the body. But, this annam itself is a product of jalam. Therefore, jalam is the karanam. Therefore, jalam is the essential nature of annam. So, body's nature is annam. The nature of annam is, jalam. But, jalam itself is a kāryam; whose kāranam is, agnih. Therefore, agni is the nature of jalam. And the agni itself is born out of sat brahma. [All that you should not forget]. "sadeva somya idam agra āsīd" - sat brahma is the kāranam, the essential nature of agni. Therefore, what is the final nature of śarīram? annam, jalam or agni? The final nature is sat brahma only. Therefore, BRAHMAN IS THE SVARŨPAM OF EVERYTHING. And therefore, the mantrā concluded - which we saw in the last class - "imāh sarvāh prajāh san mūlāh sat āyatanāh sat pratisthā". mūlāh means, srsti kāranam. āyatanam refers to sthiti kāranam. pratisthā refers to laya kāranam. SAT BRAHMA IS SRSTI STHITI LAYA KĀRAŅAM. All this we arrived, by what? Special derivation of the word aśanāyā. We have thus seen two words. You have to tolerate one more. Okay. That we will see in the next mantrā.

अथ यत्रैतत्पुरुषः पिपासति नाम तेज एव तत्पीतं नयते तद्यथा गोनायोऽश्वनायः पुरुषनाय इत्येवं तत्तेज आचष्ट उदन्येति तत्रैतदेव शुङ्गमुत्पतित ्ैंसोम्य विजानीहि नेदममूलं भविष्यतीति ॥

atha yatraitat puruṣaḥ pipāsati nāma teja eva tatpītaṃ nayate tadyathā gonāyo'śvanāyaḥ puruṣanāya ityevaṃ tatteja ācaṣṭa udanyeti tatraitad eva śuṅgam utpatita šomya vijānīhi nedam amūlaṃ bhaviṣyatīti ‖ 6.8.5 ‖

So, now, we are entering the third word play. svapiti over. aśanāyā over. Now, the third word taken is udanyā. u+da+nyā. udanyā. In Sanskrit, the word udanyā is otherwise known as pipāsā. And both words pipāsā and udanyā mean, thirst. Thirst, the desire for drinking water, is called udanyā. So udakam pātum icchā udanyā. This 'desire for water' or thirst is the sāmānya nirvacanam; the general derivation of the word according to the regular Sanskrit grammar. Now, the upaniṣad wants to play upon the word; like, bāla trupura sundari, [hope you have not forgotten]. Do not forget! So, its playing upon the word.

What does it say? It says, udanyā refers to agni tattvam. udanyā refers to the agni tattvam or fire principle. And, what type of fire principle? The fire which is within the body, as the digestive fire called vaiśvānara agni. Just as we said, aśanāya refers to water - not, outside water - but, water within the body, in the form of fluids carrying nutrition. Similarly, the word udanyā means, agniḥ. And what agni? vaiśvānara agniḥ. Digestive fire. And what does the digestive fire do? When you consume water, when we consume water, the digestive fire principle absorbs the water that we drink, and distributes it to the body. So, what does the digestive fire principle do? When you are thirsty [and that is why there is another word for thirst - dāhaḥ. In Tamil also they say, <code>தாஹம்</code> - if you say, it is good. Literally, the word dāha means burning. So, when the body is burning with digestive fire, dahati iti dāhaḥ. And because of the digestive fire when the body is burning, you ask for what? Water. And when you drink water, the digestive fire absorbs the water and distributes it to every cell of the body. Therefore, digestive fire is called 'udanyā'. And how did this particular word come? The upaniṣad says, uda means, water. Shortened version of udakam; and, nya means nayati. So, udanyā means, udakam nayati iti udanyā. The digestive fire, which nayati, nayati means, what? 'Carries' the water and distributes to the body. Thus, general meaning is, thirst. Special meaning is, digestive fire. With this, the word play part is over. From this, we have to derive the corollary.

What is the corollary? Since the digestive fire is absorbing the water and distributing it to the body, body is not only the product of annam; body is the product of water also! Why? Because, the water enters every cell of the body and the cell gets nourished. Therefore, the corollary is that, the body is jala kāryam. In the previous derivation what did we say? Body is anna kāryam. Now, through udanyā definition, we say, body is jala kāryam. And therefore, jalam becomes what? kāraṇam of the body. Previously, what did we say? annam is kāraṇam, we said. Now we say, jalam is also the kāraṇam of the body. Therefore, the essential nature of the body is water. kāraṇatvat.

And then, the water itself is a product of agni tattvam. [All that is, like before]. Therefore, jalam is kāryam; agni is kāraņam. Therefore, agni is the essential nature of jalam. And, brahman is the essential nature of agni. Therefore, again, what did we do? śarīram to jalam to agni to brahman. In the previous definition, śarīram to annam to jalam to agni to brahman. Here, what do we do? We skip annam. śarīram to jalam to agni to brahman. But, what is the final message? śarīram is jala kāryam, immediately; but, ULTIMATELY, śARĪRAM IS BRAHMA KĀRYAM. And therefore the mantrā says, [the mantrā is developed in the same manner].

yatraitat puruṣaḥ pipāsati nāma teja eva tat pītaṃ nayate. tejaḥ means, the inside vaiśvānara agni alone, takes the water and distributes. tadyathā go nāyaḥ aśva nāyaḥ puruṣa nāyaḥ - the carrier of the cow is called go nāyaḥ. The one who takes the horses is called aśva nāyaḥ. The one who takes the puruṣās, the human beings, is puruṣa nāyaḥ. All these are examples. Similarly, one who takes udakam is called uda nāyaḥ. uda nāyaḥ has become, what? udanyā. This is the word play. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, evaṃ tattejaḥ ācaṣṭe udanyā iti - thus, the digestive fire principle is called udanyā. And, it should be in neuter gender, udanyam; but, it is called udanyā. chāndasa prayogaḥ. And, what you have to do is, you have to catch the kāraṇam, and go on climbing up and up, until you reach the ultimate cause, brahman. That is said in the next mantrā. We will read. This 5th mantrā is very much similar to mantrā 3. Therefore, I did not explain every word. C/o mantrā number 3. Okay. Now, we will go to mantrā 6.

तस्य क्व मूल ्रैंस्यादन्यत्राद्भ्य्ऽद्भिः सोम्य शुङ्गेन तेजो मूलमन्विच्छ तेजसा सोम्य शुङ्गेन सन्मूलमन्विच्छ सन्मूलाः सोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सदायतनाः सत्प्रतिष्ठा यथा तु खलु सोम्येमास्तिस्रो देवताः पुरुषं प्राप्य त्रिवृत्त्रिवृदेकैका भवति तदुक्तं पुरस्तादेव भवति [अस्य सोम्य पुरुषस्य प्रयतो वाङ्मनसि सम्पद्यते मनः प्राणे प्राणस्तेजसि तेजः परस्यां देवतायाम्]।

tasya kva mūla syādanyatrādbhy'dbhih somya śungena tejo mūlamanviccha tejasā somya śungena sanmūlamanviccha sanmūlāh somyemāh sarvāh prajāh sadāyatanāh satpratisthā yathā tu khalu somyemāstisro devatāh purusam prāpya trivrttrivrdekaikā bhavati taduktam purastādeva bhavati [asya somya purusasya prayato vāmanasi sampadyate manaḥ prāņe prāņāstejasi tejaḥ parasyām devatāyām] || 6.8.6 ||

Up to purastādeva bhavati we will see first. This portion is very much similar to mantrā number 4. Five and three are similar; six and four are similar. And here, the upanisad talks about the journey of the student from kāryam to the kāranam. śarīram to jalam, jalam to agni, agni to sat brahman. Only difference is, instead of using the word karyam and kāranam, the upanisad uses the word śuṅgam and mūlam. Therefore, it appears like some special mantrā, śungam in this mantrā is śungena. Refers to kārvena, mūlam refers to kāranam. May you go from kāryam to kāranam. How long you should go? Up to brahman! And you cannot go any further than brahman! Why? brahman is the dead end; like, some streets. They have dead-end. brahman is dead-end. Not because, brahman is dead! Very careful. brahman is the dead-end; because, brahman is not a kāryam having a kāraņam. brahman is the absolute final kāranam. Therefore, the upanisad says, sanmūlam anviccha - may you continue the enquiry up to sat brahman. anviccha means, conduct the enquiry. And thereafter, you should come to this conclusion. And, what is that conclusion? sarvāh prajāh sanmūlāh sadāyatanāh satpratisthāh - these are very, very popular sentences which śańkarācāryā repeatedly quotes. It means, brahman is srsti sthiti laya kāraņam.

Then, the upaniṣad itself is worried whether the people would have understood the word play. Since some Sanskrit grammar is involved! And therefore, the upaniṣad says, even if you do not understand the word play it does not matter. This message has been already given before. What is the message? The body is ultimately the kāryam of brahman. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, yathā tu khalu somya - oh, dear student, whether the word play is clear to you or not, I have already talked about this, before. tad uktaṃ purastād eva bhavati purastād means, previously. So, once you say, previously, the question will come where? That is the end of section four and the entire section five. [Not chapter, but section]. section 4, mantrā 7, third and fourth line you see. "somyemāstisro devatāḥ puruṣaṃ prāpya trivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati tanme vijānīhīti".

That message has been already given by pointing out that, what we consume is agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ alone. agni is consumed in the form of oil and ghee. Do you remember? Water we consume in the form of water. Earth we consume in the form of the solids, grains, vegetables. Therefore, the body is a product of agni, jalam and pṛthivĩ only. The details were given in section no.5. If you remember, the food was divided in to gross part, subtle part and subtlest part. The gross part becomes impurity, excretion and it is thrown out; and the subtle part becomes, the sthũla śarīram; and the subtlest part becomes, sũkṣma śarīram. In that section, it has been already mentioned that, the body is a product of the three bhũtās only. The same idea is now conveyed through the special derivation of aśanāyā and pipāsā. That is what is said here. trivṛttrivṛdekaikā bhavati tad purastād eva uktaṃ - in section number 5. With that, the topic of wordplay or viśeṣa nirvacanam is over; and thereafter, asya somya puruṣasya onwards, is a new topic.

In that sentence, there is no full stop also. In the same mantrā, within the same sentence, a new topic is begun. And the topic in last two lines mentioned is, "not only the body comes from brahman; at the time of maraṇam, the body or the jīvā, resolves back in to brahman only!" In the beginning of the section, [that is this 8th section], it was mentioned, during the sleep also the jīvā resolves in to brahman, losing its individuality. Now, the upaniṣad says, during maraṇam, death also, the jīvā resolves in to brahman only. And later, it will say, "during pralayam also, the jīvā merges in to brahman only. Therefore, brahman is the final laya kāraṇam.

Now, look at this. hey somya - oh dear student, asya puruṣasya prayataḥ. prayataḥ. means, prayāṇam kurvataḥ - the one who is departing. 'The departing jīvā'. Do we not say? 'The departed soul', we say. prayatah means, the dying or departing person. Derived from the root pra+e dhātu, second conjugation, and it is present participle prayan, prayantau, prayantaḥ and it is saṣṭhtĩ vibhakti. takārāntaḥ puṃlińgaḥ prayat śabdaḥ ṣaṣṭhtĩ eka vacanam. puruṣasya ங்கறதுக்கு viśeṣaṇam, prayatah. 'of the dying person', is the meaning.

So, at the time of death, what happens? upaniṣad is making you afraid! We do not want to think of all that. upaniṣad says, this is a very, very natural process. What happens? vāṅmanasi sampadyate - this person was a highly talkative person, all the time talking. First, the indriyās - the sense organs, will resolve their functions and get merged in to the mind. So, vāk [represents the vāg indriyam, the organ of speech] manasi sampadyate - resolves in to the mind. What does it mean? This person wants to say a lot; but, his speech does not come out; because, there is no energy. And therefore, the mouth does not speak. Sometimes, the tongue moves; but, the sound does not come; only air comes! You have to go near and listen. We will not be able to. vāk manasi sampadyate.

Then what happens? These are all typical situations; because, we want to share our thoughts; and the other people are eager to know what our thoughts are. But, there is no communication. Hence, what you need to say/do, do all that, now itself. And then, what happens? manaḥ prāņe - the mind, which was also efficient, now gradually loses its thinking capacity, memory power etc. It was a problem, earlier itself! Memory power goes; manaḥ, cittam, ahamkāraḥ - all of them, gradually get resolved. manaḥ prāņe. In the prāṇa tattvam. manaḥ is annāmayam. prāṇaḥ is āpomayam. The annāmaya manaḥ, gets resolved in to āpomaya prāṇaḥ. And, that means what? Speech has come down. Thoughts also have come down. But, this person is still alive. They have resolved in to prāṇa.

This person is not yet dead; but, alive. And for how many days? We do not know! Even though everybody prays for his quick departure. Everybody prays. But, we have no idea how long this condition will be. It is dependent on what? It is dependent on, not the wish of that person; it does not depend up on the wish of the other family members; it purely depends on the law of karmā. As long as karmā is there, the person survives. And I have often said, people ask the question, "when I have nothing to contribute, why should bhagavān keep me alive? I cannot contribute to the society. I cannot contribute to the family also. Why should I be kept alive?", people ask. It is an un-intelligent question. We should remember, we are not only kartā; but, we are bhoktā also. The kartā part of the individual might have stopped functioning. Therefore, I do not contribute. But, remember, the bhoktā has to go through the prārabdha karmā. And not only the old bhoktā; but, through him, the family members also are bhoktās. They have got their prārabdhā. What prārabdhā? For how many days they should serve him - they have their prārabdhā. Let us not feel bad about it. If others have to exhaust their prārabdhā by serving us, and if we have to give trouble to our children, it is again governed by the law of karmā! By resisting or worrying, nothing can be stopped. Therefore, until the prārabdham of kartā and the bhoktā is over, prāņā continues.

Then what happens? prāņā also starts fading away. That means what? The digestive system becomes weaker. prāņa, apāna - the excretory system becomes weaker; the circulatory system becomes weaker. They are all expressions of what? pañca prāņās only. Only one particular prāņā becomes active. What is that prāņa? Do you remember? The udāna prāņā, which is in charge of transportation. Because, time of quitting. The packers, they say! When do the packers come? When you have to vacate one house and go to another house, the packers have to come. udāna prāņā is the packer; and when it becomes active, all the other prāņās gradually come down. They come down to such an extent, that the others around even do not know 'whether this person is alive or dead'. Life is such a feeble thing, that we do not know whether he is there or not!

And, at that time, what has happened to the prāņa? The upaniṣad says, prāṇaḥ tejasi - the prāṇā dissolves in to the warmth of the body. The final trace of life is in the form of what? The warmth of the body itself. It is called the udāna tattvam. It is there; and therefore, the upaniṣad says, vāṅmanasi sampadyate manaḥ prāṇe prāṇaḥ tejasi - so, people touch the body and feel whether the warmth is there or not. And when the jīvā quits this particular body and merges in to brahman, then the body becomes what? tandā hogayā, in Hindi! The bodily warmth is gone. It is dead. Therefore, he says, tejaḥ parasyāṃ devatāyām.

So, what does the upaniṣad convey? At the macro level also, pṛthivĩ jalam agni! And from agni, merger in to brahman. At the micro level also, the final part is what? The agni tattvam, in the form of the warmth of the body. The jīvā, is experienced in the body in the form of the bodily warmth, called tejas tattvam. Then, the tejas merges in to brahman; which means, the jīvātmā merges in to paramātmā. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, tejaḥ - the warmth [we have to take it as the jīvātmā in the form of tejaḥ]. tejaḥ parasyāṃ devatāyām, means, paramātmani. You have to supply the verb 'sampadyate' at every stage. manaḥ prāṇe sampadyate. prāṇaḥ tejasi sampadyate. sampadyate means, ekĩ bhavati or merges.

Then, naturally, the question will come, "do you mean to say that, every dying jīvātmā merges in to brahman? because, you are saying, tejaḥ parasyāṃ devatāyām. parā devatā here means, what? brahman. Therefore, do you mean to say that, every dying jīvātmā merges in to brahman? The upaniṣad says, definitely. Because, the word used here is what? brahma layam or aikyam. So, naturally, the question will come, "does it mean all the jīvā gets liberation?" For this, the upaniṣad says, 'it depends'. Whether it is liberation or not will depend. Depend on what? Whether the merging jīvā is ajñānĩ jīvaḥ or jñānĩ jīvaḥ. [bhagavān will check whether he has attended chāndogya class or not! bhagavān will look into His diary! Do you understand? I am assuming; it is not said here!] And the upaniṣad says, an ajñānĩ jīvā also will merge in to brahman only. During suṣupti also brahma layaḥ.

All these mantrās are very elaborately studied in brahma sũtrā [fourth chapter second section. Several sũtrās are devoted for this one sentence]. Innocent looking sentence it is. Which sentence? asya somya puruṣasya prayato vāṅmanasi sampadyate manaḥ prāņe prāṇāstejasi tejaḥ parasyāṃ devatāyām - for this one sentence, several sũtrās have been written. śańkarācāryā writes elaborate bāṣyam - about, what happens at the time of death; how the jīvā travels; and how, the jñānĩ jīvā does not travel. All these details are discussed. And based on that only, I am giving you the hint. Both ajñānĩ jīvā and jñānĩ jīvā will merge in to brahman. But, the problem is, in the case of ajñānĩ jīvā, sañcita karmās are not burnt. Therefore they remain in the form of kāraṇa śarīram. Therefore, the merger is not absolute merger. It retains the individuality.

It is exactly like what? When we go to sleep we have lost our individuality. We do not remember our name, form, parentage, knowledge - all these things we do not know. We have dissolved our individuality, in sleep. But, all that is there in potential form; and, when we wake up, again the individuality comes. Exactly in the same manner, during death also, the ajñānī merges in to brahman; but, the kāraṇa śarīram the avidyā bījam continues. Therefore, what happens?

'போன மச்சான் திரும்பி வந்தான்' னு சொல்றமாதிரி from that brahman, again the ajñānī jīvā comes back with another sūkṣma, sthũla śarīram and all those things. Whereas, in the case of jñānĩ, "nasatya prāṇāḥ ukrāmanti brahmaivasan brahmāsyeti". So, brahma aikyam is common to jñānĩ and ajñānĩ. Continuing.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ̈̈́ sarvam tatsatya ̈̃ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca II 6.8.7 II So, all these previous portions are preparations for this mahā vākyam only. Until now, the teacher, uddālakā has elaborately established that, sat brahman is srṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam. Therefore, sat brahman alone is the material cause. And since sat brahman is the material cause, really speaking, THE MATERIAL CAUSE ALONE EXISTS. All the products are nothing but, nāma and rũpa. They do not have an EXISTENCE of their own. Remembering the example, they pot does not have an EXISTENCE of its own, other than the EXISTENCE of CLAY. The ornaments do not have EXISTENCE of their own. So, when you say, "bangle is, chain is etc", the ISNESS belongs to what? The bangle or chain? ISNESS belongs to the gold only. Bangle, chain etc have got the ISNESS borrowed from gold alone. Therefore, when I am experiencing the ISNESS of bangle, chain etc., really speaking, I am experiencing what? The ISNESS of the gold alone!

If I remember this, ultimately, brahman being the ultimate cause, the whole CREATION - from the minutest atom, to the biggest galaxy - all of them, are sheer non-substantial empty nāma and rũpā only. THERE IS ONLY ONE SUBSTANCE BEHIND THE ENTIRE CREATION. THAT SUBSTANCE IS BRAHMAN; and that brahman SUBSTANCE is appearing in the CREATION in what form? That brahman SUBSTANCE is appearing in the CREATION in what form? That brahman SUBSTANCE is appearing in the CREATION in what form? Just as gold appears in every ornament as 'is', 'is', 'is', as EXISTENCE, brahman the basic ULTIMATE SUBSTANCE behind the CREATION is experienced in the form of table 'is', chair 'is', pen 'is', mike 'is' when we say, the mike is nāma rũpā; but, behind the nāma rũpā, what is the SUBSTANCE? brahman! And how do I experience this? As the ISNESS. Therefore, "brahman experience do we have or not?" if someone asks, what should we say? "Everyone has brahman experience in the form of sat". "yasyaiva sphuraṇaṃ sadātmakam asat kalpārthakaṃ bhāsate". So, BRAHMAN IS IN THE FORM OF PURE EXISTENCE.

Now, naturally, the question will come, "I do experience brahman in the form of EXISTENCE in the world; but, when I experience EXISTENCE in the world, it is always associated with one nāma rũpā or another nāma rũpā. Here, I am experiencing brahman as the EXISTENCE; but, what type of EXISTENCE? Not PURE EXISTENCE; but, existence associated with what? Mike nāma rũpā. When I turn in this direction, I do experience brahman; but, again, not pure brahman; but, brahman associated with clip nāma rũpa. Therefore, I always experience what? nāma rũpa sahita sattā. EXISTENCE brahman, adulterated with, alloyed with, nāma and rũpa. When I turn towards my own body, here also brahman is there; but, in the form of a body IS, associated with nāma rũpa.

Now, the student's eagerness is, "how can I experience the pure brahman or EXISTENCE without adulteration; or, contamination with any nāma rũpā?" Because, when the existence is associated with nāma rũpā, it becomes localised. Is it not so? Mike existence is localised. Clip existence is localised. Therefore, nāma rũpa sahita sat is a localised, finite form, of existence. "How can I experience the pure unlocalised, all pervading, EXISTENCE; brahman?" This will be the natural eagerness of an intelligent student, like you. [Let me say that now and then, to please you!]

And uddālakā, the teacher, says, "PURE EXISTENCE, without nāma rũpā contamination, you can never know or experience". See the tragedy! The pure existence you can never experience, know or objectify. You can go anywhere, even in to the farthest galaxy; but, you cannot see PURE EXISTENCE! And suppose you travel inwards, [that is also there. Some people tightly close their eyes and travel inwards] inside also, what is there? Mental thoughts are there. Thoughts are also what? nāma rũpā only! There also, nāma rũpa sahita sat.

"PURE EXISTENCE", uddālakā says, "you cannot experience". Then, naturally, śvetaketu wonders, "then what to do? Why cannot I experience that?" Then, father uddālakā says, "you cannot experience that; because, YOU, THE EXPERIENCING CONSCIOUSNESS, ARE THAT PURE EXISTENCE!" The PURE EXISTENCE is NOT an OBJECT that you will come across. It is nothing but YOU, THE CONSCIOUS ENTITY, the WITNESS ENTITY, THE SĀKṢI CAITANYAM! Therefore, EXISTENCE is CONSCIOUSNESS. CONSCIOUSNESS is EXISTENCE.

Therefore, "tat sat, tvam cid asi, śvetaketo". So, what is that PURE EXISTENCE? Mind boggling statement - "I AM THE PURE EXISTENCE".

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

15. Chapter 6.8.7, 6.9.1 to 6.9.4

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ̈̈́ sarvam tatsatya ̈̃ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca II 6.8.7 II

By the adhyāropa - apavādā method, the teacher uddālakā established that, sat brahman the KĀRAŅAM OF THE UNIVERSE ALONE REALLY EXISTS AND EVERYTHING ELSE IN THE FORM OF KĀRYA PRAPAÑCA DOES NOT HAVE AN EXISTENCE OF ITS OWN. It is nothing but non-substantial nāma and rũpā; and this kāraṇam brahma, the PURE EXISTENCE, alone lends existence to everything in the CREATION. Just as, gold alone lends 'IS'NESS to every ornament; wood alone lends 'IS'NESS to every furniture, brahman alone lends 'IS'NESS to everything in the CREATION; and therefore, whenever I experience anything in the CREATION, not only I am experiencing the nāma rũpā; but, I am experiencing brahman also, in the form of EXISTENCE or 'IS'NESS.

Therefore, according to vedāntā, we do not require any sādhanā at all to experience brahman. In fact, vedāntā is giving us a challenge. 'Please try to avoid brahman! Let us see! You are struggling to experience brahman, my dear; you are struggling to experience brahman. Now, I am giving you a new challenge, try to avoid brahman. And to avoid brahman, you have only to experience things without EXISTENCE or 'IS'NESS. Try that out. You can never succeed. In wherever you perceive, the nāmā changes, rũpā changes, karmā changes; but, changelessly 'IS', 'IS', 'IS' will continue. Even when you use the word 'I', you may change the word from 'IS' to 'am'; but, 'am' is also another version of EXISTENCE only! Therefore, we are experiencing brahman all the time.

But the question is, we are only experiencing brahman with nāma rũpā. What should I do to experience brahman, the EXISTENCE, without any nāma rũpā? Without any adulteration in its pure form! The upaniṣad says, the pure brahman, the EXISTENCE, can NEVER become an object of experience. And what is the reason? The reason is given here. "saḥ yaḥ eṣaḥ aņima". aņima means, what? EXTREMELY SUBTLE. aṇoḥ bhāvaḥ aṇimā. And what do you mean by aṇima? aṇima is that "nature of subtlety", because of which, it is not available for the instruments of perception. As you travel from kāryam to kāraṇam, the kāraṇam becomes more and more difficult to perceive. If you take the pañca bhũtās themselves, earth is the grossest one, available for all the five sense organs. Its kāraṇam is jalam. It is available only for four sense organs; because, water does not have smell. Do not say, "Swāmĩji, our water has all types of smells". I mean, pure water does not have smell. The next higher kāraṇam, agni, is experience-able only by three sense organs. You cannot taste fire. If you go higher, to vāyu, it is still subtler; available only for two sense organs - śabda and sparśa. And when you go to ākāśā - which is the cause of all these things, it is almost imperceptible; not available for any sense organ. If you try to find out how we recognise space, it is a mystery. We do talk about space. We do say, 'there is lot of space'; 'there is no space' etc. Even though we do have a concept of space; but, how we recognise space is mysterious; because, it has no form, no colour, smell it does not have. Not available for any. It has only śabda guṇa, which can be indirectly experienced through echo. And brahman - THE PURE EXISTENCE - is the cause of even ākāśaḥ. Therefore, sarva indriya agocaram. Therefore, mana agocaram.

Then, comes the crucial question, 'if the PURE EXISTENCE is not available for objectification how do I know "it is"? How do I know the pure existence is, for that alone the teacher gives the mind boggling answer. The PURE EXISTENCE exists in the form of the PURE CONSCIOUSNESS, the observer the witness, the experiencer; and therefore, the teacher said, aitadātmyamida ", sarvam. So, ida ", sarvam - the whole CREATION, has got this brahman as the inner truth. ātmyam means, the inner essence. Because, KĀRAŅAM IS THE INNER ESSENCE OF THE KĀRYAM. tat satya", - tat satyam. [In some books, there is a different reading. sat satyam. Whether it is tat satyam or sat satyam, both are one and the same; because, tat is sat]. The word satyam means, that which can never be negated.

EXISTENCE is one thing which can never be negated; because, to negate EXISTENCE, there must be a negator. Is it not? To negate EXISTENCE, there must be a negator. The negator must be existent or non-existent? If the negator is non-existent, [it is little confusing], if the negator is non-existent, EXISTENCE cannot be negated! [Do you understand?] If the negator is non-existent, the EXISTENCE cannot be negated. Suppose, the negator is existent, then also EXISTENCE cannot be negated. Suppose, the negator is existent, then also EXISTENCE cannot be negated. Suppose, the negator is existent, then also EXISTENCE cannot be negated. Suppose, the negator is existent, then also EXISTENCE cannot be negated. Why? If the negator is existent, the existence cannot be negated; because, the negator is existent! Thus, WHETHER A NEGATOR EXISTS OR A NEGATOR DOES NOT EXIST, EXISTENCE IS ALWAYS UN-NEGATABLE. That is why, when you destroy a pot, the 'is'ness will not be destroyed. It will intelligently, jump to the pieces of pot. And suppose you powder the pieces, then, in the form of the powdered mud the EXISTENCE will be there! Suppose, you mix it with the earth, again the EXISTENCE will jump to something else! EXISTENCE is abādhyam. And, 'that which is un-negatable', is the definition of REALITY. That is why in tattva bodha, "sat kim? yat trikāle api abādhyatvena tiṣṭhati tat sat".

So, what is un-negatable is satyam. sa ātmā. That brahman alone, is the ātmā, the truth of everyone! And, do not look for that truth. Swāmĩji, how to see that? How many minutes one should remain in samādhi for the truth to come? uddālakā says, "never wait for the truth to come". Why? tattvamasi śvetaketo - this is the most powerful mahā vākyam; in which, PURE EXISTENCE is equated to PURE CONSCIOUSNESS. And that is why the five features of EXISTENCE and the five features of CONSCIOUSNESS - both are - one and the same. Should I remind you? CONSCIOUSNESS is not a part product or property of the body, we say. Same way, existence is not a part product or property of the whole body and mind, the PURE EXISTENCE, the PURE CONSCIOUSNESS, will survive. That surviving sat cit cannot be accessed; not because it is absent; but because, there is no medium. Therefore, uddālakā says, the only way you can know the PURE brahman is, only one way. What is that? tasya smṛtis-tatra dṛḍhaiva niṣṭhā.

Ramaņa maharṣi's ślokā comes to my mind. Anyway, kārtikai dīpam, in Tiruvaṇṇāmalai; it is special. And Ramaṇa maharṣi was a great devotee. And in the 'sad darśanam', Ramaṇa maharṣi starts with the prayer, "SAT-PRAYATYAYAḤ KIṃ NU VIHĀYA SANTAṃ HŖDYEṢA CINTĀ-RAHITO HŖDĀKHYAḤ, KATHAṃ SMARĀMAS-TAM-AMEYAM-EKAṃ TASYA SMŖTIS-TATRA DŖĐHAIVA NIṢṬHĀ" - he says, "I want to write the 'sad darśanam'; and for that, I have to remember the aṇṇāmalai ĩśvarā, who is none other than PURE EXISTENCE. And how can I think of that PURE EXISTENCE? Because, it is not available for "thought", as an object. Therefore, I remember Tiruvaṇṇāmalai only in one way. What is that? "tasya smṛtiḥ tatra dṛḍhaiva niṣṭhā eva" - "I am the jyotiḥ!".

So what is dĩpam? Not the local lamp. The original jyotiḥ is "jyotiṣāṃ api tat jyotiḥ tamasaḥ param ucyate" [gĩtā 13.18] brahman alone is in the form of PURE jyotiḥ. jyotiḥ is nothing but CONSCIOUSNESS; and, that consciousness, "I am". This is alone is brahma jñānam.

Okay. All these things came for what purpose? You should not forget the original question of the student. Who is the student? śvetaketu. And, he asked the question, "what is that, knowing which, everything is known?" eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam was the question. For that, uddālakā said, kāraṇa vijñānena kārya vijñānam. Then, He said, kāraṇam is brahman. That means, brahma vijñānena, sarva vijñānam. Now, He says, "THAT BRAHMAN IS I". Therefore, by knowing "myself", I have known everything; and therefore, 'oh śvetaketu, if you want to know everything, know yourself!" "ஒன்றைத் தெரிந்துகொள்; உன்னைத் தெரிந்துகொள்!" [Know that one; know yourself!].

With this, the tat padārtha jñānam is over. tvam pada jñānam is over. aikyam is also over. The actual teaching is over. But, śvetaketu wants more of the teaching. Therefore, he says, 'bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatu' iti. "It is very, very interesting. I would like to know more!" And uddālakā says, 'tathā somya', iti hovāca - 'I am waiting for some student to ask me. I have you. I will happily share'. Because, for a guru, talking about vedāntā is talking about Himself. It is biography that is being talked about. Who will not like to talk about one's biography?! For a vedāntic teacher, vedāntic teaching is, 'teaching about himself'. And the students also enjoy; because, the teacher's biography is [supposed to be] the student's biography also. This is one place wherein we have got a common biography. So, with this, the 8th section is over. We will now enter the 9th section.

Sixth chapter - Section 9

यथा सोम्य मधु मधुकृतो निस्तिष्ठन्ति नानात्ययानां वृक्षाणा ँरसान्समवहारमेकता ँरसं गमयन्ति ॥

yathā somya madhu madhukṛto nistiṣṭhanti nānātyayānāṃ vṛkṣāṇā ุ rasānsamavahāram ekatā ្៉ rasaṃ gamayanti II 6.9.1 II

ते यथा तत्र न विवेकं लभन्तेऽमुष्याहं वृक्षस्य रसोऽस्म्यमुष्याहं वृक्षस्य रसोऽस्मीत्येवमेव खलु सोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सति सम्पद्य न विदुः सति सम्पद्यामह इति ॥

te yathā tatra na vivekam labhante'muṣyāham vṛkṣasya raso'smyamuṣyāham vṛkṣasya raso'smītyevam eva khalu somyemāḥ sarvāḥ prajāḥ sati sampadya na viduḥ sati sampadyāmaha iti || 6.9.2 ||

With the 8th section, the actual teaching part is over. Therefore, that is equivalent to the śravaṇam part; and from the 9th section, it is more like mananam; wherein, certain aspects of vedāntā are clarified, so that the mind or intellect is free from doubt. And only when the intellect is free from doubt, it can receive the teaching without any hesitation. Therefore, the following portions are not the teaching portions; but, obstacles removal portions, so that the teaching is received.

Here, the teacher, uddālakā, is removing a possible doubt, based on the teaching given in the previous section. In the previous section, in the beginning, the teacher pointed out that, "all the jīvās whenever they go to sleep, their jīvatvam, their individuality, is dissolving". At the time of sleep, the jīvās are losing their jīvatvam or individuality; and therefore, it is something similar to pralayam. The only difference is, in pralayam, all the jĩvās are dissolving; whereas, in sleep, I have got a miniature of pralayam, in which, I the individual jĩvā alone resolve. And when the jīvās resolve, where do they resolve? Into their kāranam! And, what is the kāranam of all the jīvās? PURE sat brahman only. And therefore, every jīvā is resolving into, becoming one with, kāranam brahman, at the time of sleep. Without any spiritual sādhanā, without any karma yogā, upāsanā, śravanam, sādhana catustaya sampatti, without any effort, we all get what? jĩvā brahma aikyam! And this aikyam is so complete, that our experience itself is what? advaita anubhava. We do not have any duality at all. People say, advaita anubhava they are lacking; and they are trying to sit in samādhi for advaita anubhava. uddālakā says, 'we all have advaita anubhava; brahma aikya anubhava. When? When we go to sleep. [Wherever it may be; I do not want to give the details. Wherever it may be!] And this process was called sat sampattin. In the 8th section. In the first mantra itself yatraitatpurusah svapiti nāma satā somya tadā sampanno bhavati. tadā means what? sat brahma. tadā - at the time of sleep, sampanno bhavati - means, ekhī bhavati. Therefore, we have got what? sat sampatti. advaita anubhava.

And, based on that, a doubt may come. What is that? If we are all merging into brahman during sleep, how come we do not have that knowledge? Even at the time of sleep, we do not have that knowledge; and after waking up also, nobody claims, "do you know where I went? I went to brahman and came back!" So, "how come, we do not have that aikya jñānam in suṣupti?" is the question. And, in this section, the answer is given. An example also is given.

And what is the answer? And that is, "the jĩvā cannot know the brahma aikyam during the sleep or even in samādhi". jĩvā can never know; because, jĩvā has merged into brahman only by dropping the very jĩvatvam. As long as jĩvā has the jĩvatvam, he will be a limited entity. jĩvatvam means, jĩvāhood, that is individuality. Individuality is limitation; therefore, the limited jĩvā can never become one with limitless brahman. Therefore, condition for brahma aikyam is what? jĩvā should drop the jĩvatvam; and jĩvatvam means, individuality; and individuality means, what? Three things - kartā, bhoktā, pramātā. That is called individuality. kartā, bhoktā, pramātā.

In what way all of us are different? We are different kartās. We have done puņyam, pāpam, akramam - all we have done! And bhoktā status is different; pramātā status is different. So, individuality means, kartītva, bhoktītva, pramātītvam. But, during sleep, for brahma aikyam, we drop the jĩvatvam; which means, we drop the kartītvam-bhoktītvam. More than that, finally, [that is important] pramātītvam - the very "knower-hood" itself is dropped. That is why, 'suṣuptau sukham ahaṃ asvāptam na kiñcit avediśam' the knower is dissolved. All the differentiations are also gone. How can I know that, "I am one with brahman?", Therefore, there is no individuality to differentiate and to know. When I lose my individuality, I do not recognise other individuals also. That is by extension. I do not recognise other individuals also. tripuți is gone. Duality is gone. knower-known division being absent, where is the question of knowledge? This is the answer. And, for that, the teacher gives an example. What is that example? We will see the example.

"yathā somya!" uddālakā every time without forgetting somya, somya he calls. Oh dear one, madhukrto madhu nistiṣṭhanti. madhukrt means, the honeybee. And the honeybees, madhu nistiṣṭhanti - they extract the nectar or honey from different types of flowers; and the honey or nectar of each type of flower has its own individuality. So, the honey collected from different types of flowers will have different tastes. Some of them more sweet, some of them a little bit sour etc. How long the honey will enjoy their individuality? Until they are brought and mixed together. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, nānātyayānāṃ vṛkṣāṇā, - the honey from varieties of flower plants. vṛkṣāṇām means, plants or trees. nānātyayānāṃ - means, which are in different directions.

There are people who do research about honeybees. When one honeybee has gone to a place and discovered a source of honey, they come back and communicate that to other honeybees! We have compass and say, 'at this degree, east west and all', we can say. But, they do not have that facility. The researchers say, 'this honeybee does a particular type of dance'. What dance I do not know. Some dance it knows. By that particular dance and particular angle, rotation etc., it can communicate exactly what is the direction, what is the distance etc. They say it is one of the unique and wonderful methods of communication. Anyway, there is no connection between that and chāndogya. [I remembered reading this somewhere].

nānātyayānāṃ - means in different direction. After that what happens? The other bees also go there. te rasān. rasaḥ means, what? The nectar or honey. Directly bee cannot extract honey. What it sucks enters in to the stomach and undergoes certain chemical processing within and comes out of the body of the honeybee, as Honey. Only then it becomes honey. Before that, it is not exactly honey. Therefore, rasān samavahāram. samavahāram means, what? Having collected. samavahṛtya [lyabantam avyayam. An indeclinable word]. samavahāram means, collection.

Having collected and what does it do? ekatā vasaṃ gamayanti - it merges or mixes all the honey collected from several flowers. Until they merge and become one, they retain their individuality; but, the moment they merge in to one, thereafter, you will not be able to recognise the division. Same way, what do we do? We are all honey! That is why people in some places address their partner as "honey, honey". We are all honey; and we have got sour taste, sweet taste - differences are there. But, the moment we go to sleep, merging in to brahman, the differences are gone; individuality is gone. So, how can I know I have merged in to brahman? It is not possible. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, te yathā tatra na vivekaṃ labhante. In the previous mantrā, ekatā vasān, ekatā gamayanti is there. Word rasām should be converted to plural. rasān. All these rasān, ekatā vasān, ekatā vasān, what? They mix it to one, pool.

And once they have mixed, te yathā tatra na vivekaṃ labhante. vivekaṃ means what? The individuality, the distinction. 'This is from mango flower; this is from neem flower; this is from that flower', iti vivekaṃ na labhante. The distinction is not possible. And the upaniṣad is highly imaginative. The upanişad assumes that the honey is sentient. [Just for the sake of communication!] Therefore, the honeys from different flowers, before merging, each one was claiming, "I am the honey from mango tree". "I am from the neem tree". Slightly sour. Each could recognise its individuality. Therefore, previously, they were claiming, aham amuşya vrkşasya rasah asmi - "I am the honey coming from this flower". That is called abhivādaye. Do you know what is abhivādaye? Earlier everyone understood. Now, you have to explain also! abhivādaye means, each jĩvā claims the gotra, the rṣi paramparā. And, we think, "it is great!" The upaniṣad says, that is the declaration of ajñānam! That individuality you are presenting! This gotram, this sũtram, we say. How long abhivādaye? As long as there is ignorance! That is not supposed to say abhivādaye. Many people do not know. If they do that I do not protest; because, he is remembering abhivādaye. It is becoming rare. Many people do not do that; at least he is doing it. I do not protest! But, really speaking, he is not supposed to say that.

And so, each honey does abhivādaye. How? amuṣya ahaṃ vṛkṣasya rasaḥ asmi - "I belong to neem tree gotram"; "I belong to mango tree gotram" - iti. And once it has become ekatām, thereafter, the individuality is gone. So, losing abhivādaye is mokṣaḥ. Losing abhivādaye is mokṣaḥ. What is the proof? In muṇḍaka upaniṣad, what is the definition of brahman? "yat tad adreśyam agrāhyam agotram avarṇam acakṣuḥśrotraṃ tad apāṇipādam I" No gotram! And if at all you are particular, you should say, "brahma gotram!" So, amuṣya ahaṃ vṛkṣasya rasaḥ asmi, repeated for emphasis; iti vivekaṃ na labhante. This individuality is gone when they merge in to one! evam eva khalu somya - in the same way, during suṣupti also, we merge into brahman.

Therefore, if somebody claims that in samādhi a jīvā retains individuality and knows His merger into brahman, it is illogical. If anyone claims that in nirvikalapaka samādhi, a jīvā is able to experience brahman or the jīvā is able to experience his oneness with brahman, remember, it is illogical. jīvā might have experienced something, which has nothing to do with jīvā brahma aikyam! advaita anubhava, retaining one's individuality is, illogical. advaita anubhava retaining one's individuality is meaningless; because, retaining individuality is denying advaitam; and therefore, advaitam is not anubhava. advaitam has to be understood - in jāgrat avasthā, by knowing that the individuality is mithyā. advaita anubhava does not exist, separately. advaita jñānam exists; and advaita jñānam takes place in which avasthā? Not in samādhi; not in suṣupti; but, in jāgrat avasthā I should understand, "I am all the time advaitam; because, the differentiating individuality is mithyā.

Who says? uddālakā says. vivekam na labhante. So, evam eva somya - Oh dear one, oh honey! [in this chapter we can call that!] imāḥ sarvāḥ prajāḥ - similarly, all these jīvās also, sati sampadya - merge in to brahman. sampadya means, ekī bhūya. That is why sleep is called "sat sampattiḥ". It is an idiom, which śańkarācāryā freely uses in his bāṣyam. Another name for sleep is 'sat sampattiḥ'. [If you want to have a secret code you can have that. What was he doing? 'sat sampattiḥ' he was doing. Nobody will know. Only you will know. It means he was sleeping well]. So, sati. [sati is, sat sabdah, takārāntaḥ, napuṃsakaliñgaḥ, saptamĩ vibhakti, eka vacanam] In brahman, sampadya = ekĩ bhũya. When you have to supply the word suṣuptau - in deep sleep state. na viduḥ sati sampadyāmaha iti - they do not know that "I am so and so, who has merged in to brahman". And what knowledge they do not have, that is put within quotation. "sati sampadyāmahe". Means, what? 'We are merging in to brahman; or, we have merged in to brahman'. Such a knowledge is never possible! Continuing.

्त इह व्यघ्रो वा सि्ँहो वा वृको वा वराहो वा कीटो वा पतङ्गो वा द्ँशो वा मशको वा यद्यद्भवन्ति तदाभवन्ति ॥

ta iha vyaghro vā siૣtho vā vrko vā varāho vā kīto vā patango vā datitis vā mašako vā yadyad bhavanti tadā bhavanti II 6.9.3 II

So, naturally, a doubt will come. "If during suṣupti we are all merging in to brahman, it means, we are attaining mokṣā. Because, mokṣā is defined as, "brahma aikyam", "brahma nirvāṇam" etc. And therefore, sleep must be equal to what? mokṣā! It may be good news or it may be bad news also. Why it is good news? Because, it is attainment of mokṣā! Why it is bad news? Tomorrow you will not wake up. Tomorrow you will not wake up. You have so many plans. We have to do this and that, we have to buy this and that. In fact, many people will not go to sleep if they are told sleep is brahma aikyam! Therefore, "it is videha mukti. Therefore, you will not wake up tomorrow", if one says, they will say, "I will rather use Longsmui Gurrup [chilly powder]; but, I will not go to sleep.

The question is, if suṣupti is brahma ekhī bhāvaḥ, how come the jīvās comes back again, after suṣupti? For that, we give the answer, "because, the kāraṇa śarĩram, [sthũla śarĩram is non-functional, non-operational; sũkṣma śarĩram also is non-functional, non-operational, as though resolved]; but, kāraṇa śarĩram has not been DESTROYED BY KNOWLEDGE. Therefore, this seed of the jĩvā, called kāraṇa śarĩram or ajñānam, Is there. Therefore, what happens? From the seed, again it comes! It is like cutting a tree. Even if I cut the tree totally, after a few days, again it will come up. Why? Under the ground, invisibly the root is there. If I do not want the tree to come up again, I should up-root it. In suṣupti, I do not do that. Therefore, what happens? The very same jĩvā comes back; and the upaniṣad says, "if a human jĩvā has gone to sleep, when he wakes up, he wakes up as what? Thank GOD! Only as a human jĩvā! Otherwise, he might wake up as donkey, monkey. That is not there; because, the seed is what? Human jĩvā seed, it is.

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, vyaghraḥ. vyaghraḥ means, a tiger. It goes to sleep as tiger and wakes up as tiger. Similarly, siṃhaḥ - lion; vṛkaḥ - wolf , varāhaḥ - boar, [word for word meaning it is there in the book itself], kīṭaḥ - worm; pataṅgaḥ - flying insect, a moth; and da^{} śaḥ - a fly; any biting insect is called da^{} śaḥ. Then, maśakaḥ - a mosquito, a fly. Why he gives these examples? Each one of them goes to sleep; and during sleep, siṃha is not siṃha. That is why you can go near safely. But, make sure it is asleep! siṃha is, not siṃha. That is why, in bṛhadāraṇyaka [I think, in svayamjyothi brāhmaṇam] "tatra tenaḥ astenaḥ bhavati"; and, "vedāḥ avedāḥ etc" - Everyone loses their individuality. But, again, when the karmā becomes active, all of them come back.

Therefore, vyaghro vā, siṃho vā! Here, vā is Sanskrit vā, not Tamil "வா" [come]. We are not inviting them. vā means, 'either', 'or'. It is Sanskrit. So, yadyad bhavanti - whichever individual jĩvā it is, tat ābhavanti. After waking up, that jĩvā becomes that very same individual. THEREFORE, YOU ARE MERGING INTO BRAHMAN ONLY. BUT, YOU HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING THAT. And that brahman is what? That is said here.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ț̃ sarvaṃ tatsatya ț̃ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ‖ 6.9.4‖

Thus, uddālakā has answered the possible doubts. "We merge in to PURE EXISTENCE, during sleep. That is why in dakṣiṇāmũrti stotram, in the well known verse, "rāhu grasta divākarendusadṛśo māyā samācchādanāt sanmātraḥ karaṇa upasaṃharaṇataḥ yo'bhũt suṣuptaḥ pumān II" sanmātraḥ - "I am PURE EXISTENCE in sleep, without the individuality; including the knower-hood; because, knower-hood requires what? antaḥkaraṇam, to operate. Therefore, śańkarācāryā said, karaṇa upasaṃharaṇataḥ. All the instruments are resolved. yaḥ bhũt suṣuptaḥ pumān - after waking up, he does not talk about "brahman aikya jñānam". "prāgasvāpsam iti prabodha samaye yaḥ pratyabhijñāyate" - He only talks about what? The loss of individuality. "I did not know anything." And, therefore, that doubt is answered.

And then, the teacher says, sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketu! This mantrā, the fourth mantrā, is repetition of the 7th mantrā [6.8.7] That mantrā will be repeated 9 times. Hence, I am not going to repeat the meaning. You can note & refer to mantrā 6.8.7. And what is that?

"THAT BRAHMAN IS PURE EXISTENCE WHICH IS THE ESSENCE; AND THAT BRAHMAN YOU ARE!" śvetaketu says, "I am not satisfied. I want you to teach me more". uddālakā says, 'come next week'.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

16. Chapter 6.9.4, 6.10.1 to 6.10.3, 6.11.1 and 6.11.2

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद्ँसर्वं तत्सत्य्ँस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ț sarvaṃ tatsatya ț sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ‖ 6.9.4‖

With the 8th kāņḍa of this chapter, the teacher uddālakā has conveyed the main message to śvetaketu namely, tat tvam asi. 'tat' referring to the PURE EXISTENCE, which is called paramātmā; and the word 'tvam' referring to PURE CONSCIOUSNESS which is called the jīvātmā. And the equation conveys the ONENESS of PURE EXISTENCE and PURE CONSCIOUSNESS. tat eva cit bhavati. cit eva tat bhavati. And when we say the EXISTENCE is all pervading, we should remember the CONSCIOUSNESS is also all-pervading. In fact, I should not say "CONSCIOUSNESS also"; because, the very word also will create a doubt; they are TWO! Therefore, when I say, "EXISTENCE IS ALL PERVADING, it means CONSCIOUSNESS is ALL PERVADING"; which means, even in the jaḍa vastu, the inert object, CONSCIOUSNESS is very much there. But, we say 'inert', because of the limitation of the inert object, they are not able to manifest their CONSCIOUSNESS aspect. They are only manifesting the EXISTENCE.

Generally, we give this example. When a piece of iron comes in contact with fire and a glass of water comes in contact with fire, the fire pervades the iron also; the fire pervades the water also. When the fire pervades the iron, the iron manifests both the heat as well as the light aspects of the fire. prakāśah alone is experienceable in the iron piece. We say red hot iron ball. But, not only prakāśai is manifest in that, auṣṇyaṃ or heat is also manifest. If you have a doubt you can touch and you will get immediate realisation! The very same fire pervades the water; but, hot water is able to reflect or manifest only the auṣṇyaṃ, the heat; but, water is not able to manifest the prakāśah. The limitation does not belong to the fire principle; it only belongs to the medium of manifestation.

Similarly, the inert universe has got the limited capacity to manifest the sat aspect alone; whereas, the physical body has the capacity to manifest the sat, [hope you have no doubt! The body 'IS'] and also the cit, [the body is CONSCIOUS]. In fact, 'IS CONSCIOUSNESS' when you say, "both" [sat & cit] are there. Again 'both' within quotes! Whenever you are smiling, whenever you are smiling, in that particular condition of the mind, the ānandā aspect also is manifest. Of course, in the sixth chapter, sat and cit alone are discussed. Only in the 7th chapter, bhũma vidyā, the ānandā aspect will be revealed. Thus, the main teaching, equating sat and cit, is over with 8th section.

From the 9th section onwards, the teacher uddālakā is clarifying certain aspects of vedāntā, through various examples. In the 9th section, the teacher clarified one aspect, through the 'honey' drstānta. As long as honeys from different flowers are kept separate, their individuality is evident. When they are mixed together, we will not be able to recognise why the honey itself, [you have to imagine honey is a live thing. Honey itself] cannot identify itself as "I am from வேப்பம் பூ [or neem flower]. "I am from this flower" identification is not possible. Why? Because, the individuality has merged into one. Similarly, during deep sleep state, we all merge into param brahma and lose our individuality; and therefore, we do not know that we have merged into brahman. To know this fact, I should be a knower. To be a knower is, to be an individual; and therefore, the upanisad said, we all merge into brahman only in sleep; without knowing the fact! And even though we lose our individuality, the individuality is not destroyed; but, it is in potential form. What is the proof? Rāmā wakes up as Rāmā; Laksmanā wakes up as Laksmanā! That the very individuality comes back indicates that it is in kārana / potential form. That is what we call as kāraņa śarīram. susuptau sat sampatti was clarified through madhu drstanta. And thereafter, the teacher once again reminded aitadatmyam ida sarvam tatsatya sa ātmā tattvamasi. This current individuality is your fake nature. In deep sleep state whatever you are, that is your real nature. Waker is vesam. Sleeper is real nature! But, we have all along thought, "waker is our nature; and sleeper is the vesam!" Waker is in fact the vesam, it is clear. Waker is the vesam is clear. Therefore, nothing wrong in keeping the vesam. Play the role of father, role of mother, cry where you have to, laugh where you have to; but, remember, "these are all only role-playing or drama! My real nature is what? Un-localised existence! "aham brahma asmi". When the teacher says, "tat tvam asi", the student should not tell the teacher, "tat tvam asi"! The student should convert that into "aham brahma asmi". Up to this we saw in the last class. We have to enter into section 10.

Sixth chapter - Section 10

इमाः सोम्य नद्यः पुरस्तात्प्राच्यः स्यन्दन्ते पश्चात्प्रतीच्यस्ताः समुद्रात्समुद्रमेवापियन्ति स समुद्र एव भवति ता यथा तत्र न विदुरियमहमस्मीयमहमस्मीति ॥

imāḥ somya nadyaḥ purastātprācyaḥ syandante paścātpratīcyastāḥ samudrāt samudram eva apiyanti sa samudra eva bhavati tā yathā tatra na viduriyam aham asmīyamahamasm īti || 6.10.1 ||

In this section, another example is given. And another possible doubt is being clarified. In the previous section we said that, "the jīvā merges into brahman during suṣupti". I have become one with brahman! Then, the doubt was, 'if I have merged into brahman, how come I do not know the fact?' And teacher gave the answer, 'I do not know; because, the individuality, the knower hood, is resolved. Therefore, I do not know'. Then the student may ask a question. And what is that? "Okay, during suṣupti I do not know the fact; because, individuality is resolved. But, when I awake, the individuality comes back again, and since the individuality has come back in waking, why cannot the jīvā know that, "I had merged into brahman". 'During sleep I do not know I have merged into brahman. But, after waking-up, why cannot I claim, "I was one with brahman?" Because, after waking, individuality is there or not? Very much there. Therefore, "why cannot I recollect my merger into brahman? So that, I can tell everyone, 'do you know, in sleep, I was with brahman?' 'And, do you know from where I am coming? From brahman!''' So, why cannot an individual recollect his brahman merger, after waking up?

Suppose such a doubt comes, the teacher answers - through an example. And what is the answer? Very simple. The teacher says, "அசடு" [ignorant one], when you wake up, you cannot recollect or remember your merger into brahman; because, what you know alone you can remember. You can remember only what you know! Suppose, in college, you have taken maths or physics, I can ask you, "whether you remember those lessons?" Suppose, you have never taken economics, [and the maths you studied itself you do not remember; that is a different matter! If you have not studied economics] and you do not have that knowledge, where is the question of remembering what we do not know? Therefore the teacher says, 'a waker can never remember his merger into brahman; because, in sleep, he did not know that he is merging into brahman. In sleep, he was totally ignorant. 'susuptau sukham aham kiñcit avediśam' asvāptam na In kaivalya upanisad, "tamobhi bũthah sukharũpameti" Therefore, the teacher says, 'THE SLEEPER DOES NOT KNOW; THE WAKER CANNOT RECOLLECT'. For the first one, the example is honey; and for the second one, we are getting the example of rivers. Now, look at the mantra.

Hey somya, father does not forget that word. Hey somya, oh dear one, imāh prācyah nadyah. prācyah nadyah means, Eastern rivers going towards the Bay of Bengal. Because, some rivers go towards Bay of Bengal; and some, towards the Arabian sea. Even though they originate from the north, they go towards two different directions. Therefore, the teacher says, prācyah nadyah - eastern rivers. purastāt syandante - they flow eastwards to merge into the eastern ocean or the Bay of Bengal. syandante means, what? They flow towards. And, paścāt prācyah. prācyah nadyah means, the western rivers, the westward flowing rivers. paścāt syandante - they flow towards the west, towards the Arabian sea. But, ultimately, whether they are flowing eastwards or westwards, they all samudram eva apiyanti - they merge into the ocean losing their individuality. Gangā loses gangā-hood; yamunā loses yamunā-hood. All of them lose their individuality. And after merging into the ocean, again what do they do? From the ocean again during the summer season heated by the sun, they come up in the form of clouds; and again pour on the Himālayan mountains; and again, become what? Rivers! punar api jananam punar api maranam. Merge into the ocean; again reborn as gangā, yamunā, sarasvatī; and again they merge into the ocean! The rivers are like the jĩvātmā. The ocean is like paramātmā!

And teacher says, "the rivers do not have the knowledge. Both type of knowledge they do not have. What do you mean by both types? After merging into the ocean they lose their individuality. Therefore, they do not know, 'this is gangā part'. [Do you know that in the ocean?] Or, "I am yamunā" - they do not have that individuality. That is one thing. Again, after being reborn from the ocean, they do not recollect that, "we all merged into ocean and again we have come back as rivers". They cannot recollect their merger and reappearance. These are highly imaginative. Rivers are inert only; but, the upaniṣad is imagining that gangā is a devĩ. gangā devĩ, yamunā devĩ. upaniṣad imagines and says. Therefore, look at this. samudrāt samudram eva apiyanti - they raise from the ocean and they again go back to the ocean; and, samudra eva bhavati - they become one with samudra.

But, what is the problem? tā yathā tatra na viduḥ - they do not have the knowledge. What knowledge? iyam aham asmī iti - they do not know, "I am gangā"; "I am yamunā" etc., after merging into the ocean. You have to supply, not only they do not have the knowledge when they have merged into ocean; but, later also, when they come back again, they cannot recollect that, "we have come from the ocean; and we are going back to the ocean", recollection also is not there. Neither, knowledge nor memory. In the same way, the jīvās do not know that "in sleep we merge into brahman"; and also "on waking, we are coming from brahman". That knowledge is not there. That is said here in the next mantrā. First mantrā is example. Second mantrā is the original. dṛṣṭānta and dārṣṭānta. We will read.

एवमेव खलु सोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सत आगम्य न विदुः सत आगच्छामह इति त इह व्याघ्रो वा सि ्ँहो वा वृको वा वराहो वा कीटो वा पतङ्गो वा द ्ँशो वा मशको वा यद्यद्भवन्ति तदाभवन्ति ॥

evameva khalu somyemāḥ sarvāḥ prajāḥ sata āgamya na viduḥ sata āgacchāmaha iti ta iha vyāghro vā sị ho vā vṛko vā varāho vā kīṭo vā pataṅgo vā da ̣ śo vā maśako vā yadyadbhavanti tadābhavanti II 6.10.2II

So, based on the river example, the teacher extends it to the jĩvātmā. evam eva khalu somya - in the same manner, imāḥ sarvāḥ prajāḥ - all the jĩvātmās have experienced advaita anubhava. Nobody is lacking advaita anubhava. People are struggling to experience advaitam in nirvikalpaka samādhi. bhagavān has given us natural nirvikalpaka samādhi! We are one with brahman and again we come back from brahman only. But, these jĩvās do not know that. In fact, both anubhava we have. advaita anubhava also we have. dvaita anubhava also we have. advaita anubhava, when? In suṣupti. dvaita anubhava, when? In jāgrat & svapna. Our problem is not lack of anubhava. Our problem is not lack of anubhava or experience. Our problem is, we do not know which one is our real nature; and which one is our veṣam! Whether the localised personality is veṣam or unlocalised personality is veṣam? Which is nature; which is veṣam, we do not know.

Like some of the spies! In Reader's Digest magazine, there was an article of an American or Russian spy during the cold war years. For years he was playing the role of the spy. Therefore, he could never reveal his real identity. And so, all the time presenting a false identity. After several years, he had the problem - which one is the real one and which one is false identity?! He himself had difficulty in identifying his own real identity! In fact he claims, it took months or years to remove the viparĩta bhāvanā - the false identity! Like that, we are all spies now.

The "real I" is what? brahman! But, what have we done? We have put on the veṣam. Like, appā, ammā, akkā, citti, periammā etc! And we do not know which one is the veṣam; and which one we really are! śāstrā is here not to give us any experience. śāstrā need not give any new experience. śāstrā has to tell us which one is the real 'I' and which one is the veṣam! And therefore he says, sarvāḥ prajāḥ - all the jĩvarāsĩs, sataḥ āgamya - they all come from the green room. What is the green room? Sleep is our green room; because, during sleep, we are in our advaita brahma svarũpam. From that we have come to the drama of life; but, we do not know 'this is a drama'! It has become very, very serious/real. And therefore, he says, sataḥ āgamya. āgamya means, coming from the green room of brahman. na viduḥ - we do not know. sataḥ āgacchāmahe - we are coming from our real nature, brahman; and this personality is merely a veṣam. And, why I am putting on this veṣam? Because, bhagavān has set the play going. That is why bhagavān is called [kapaṭa] nāṭaka sũtradārĩ. And prārabdham is our script. In an orchestra, while playing violin, they keep the script in front; same way, based on our prārabdham script, we laugh & cry. But, they are all mere drama! na viduḥ - we do not know/realise. LIITOLID [how sad!]

iti ta iha vyāghro vā si č ho vā etc - this portion we have seen before. Because the individuality is in potential form, when he comes back again from the green room, both Rāvaņā and Rāmā will be in the same green room, talking, joking to each other! They do not talk as Rāvaņā and Rāmā; they talk about their next call sheet, next role, next act, Rāmā and Rāvaņā are close; and talk to each other. But, when the next scene comes, suddenly Rāvaņā will come ferociously and deliver his dialogue. How effortlessly they are able to play their allotted roles! Similarly, jñānĩs know; ajñānĩs do not know. [Up to maśako vā we have seen before, in mantrā 3. I have already explained.].

Continuing.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ț sarvaṃ tatsatya ț sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca || 6.10.3 ||

This mantrā is also the repetition of the mantrās [6.8.7, 6.9.4 - Refer to mantrā 6.8.7 for details.].

Therefore, the teacher uddālakā reminds, "in deep sleep state, you are in your PURE SPIRITUAL NATURE of PURE EXISTENCE; and in waking alone, you are putting on the material nature; because, your individuality - determined by the body mind complex - is material in nature; because, both body and mind are temporary matter. "My personality", based on my body & mind is what? Materialistic personality. That is why somebody very beautifully said, "you are not a human being, seeking a spiritual experience; but, you are a spiritual being, temporarily having a human experience". What a statement! You are not a human being, looking for spiritual experience; but, you are spiritual beings, temporarily having material experiences. manuşya is material or spiritual? manuşya corresponds to the physical body. It is material nature.

And that is why another person again beautifully said, "transformation in life is, transcending the form!" Transform means what? As a human being you have a form; whereas as a spiritual being, what form you have? You are formless. So, transcend the form! Instead of claiming the formed human status, claim the formless spiritual status. "tat tvam asi" śvetaketu. You are the spirit; not the mortal human being. [Take the correct meaning of spirit. Do not take the other meanings!] "tat tvam asi" śvetaketu. And what is the response of śvetaketu? He says, 'once more'. "I would like to hear more; because, I have got some more doubt." And uddālakā says, 'no problem, I will teach again'. With this the 10th section is over; now, we will go to the 11th section.

Sixth Chapter - Section 11

अस्य सोम्य महतो वृक्षस्य यो मूलेऽभ्याहन्याज्जीवन्स्रवेद्यो मध्येऽभ्याहन्याज्जीवन्स्रवेद्योऽग्रेऽभ्याहन्याज्जीवन्स्रवेत्स एष जीवेनात्मनानुप्रभूतः पेपीयमानो मोदमानस्तिष्ठति ॥

asya somya mahato vṛkṣasya yo mūle'bhyāhanyājjīvansravedyo madhye'bhyāhanyājjīvansravedyo'- gre'bhyāhanyājjīvansravetsa eṣa jīvenātmanānuprabhūtaḥ pepīyamāno modamānastiṣṭhati || 6.11.1 ||

Another doubt is being clarified here. According to the upanişad, 'I am the CONSCIOUS principle, the EXISTENCE principle, which is not a part, product or property of the body. And we say that, even when the body is destroyed or the death occurs, only the body dies; but, the caitanyam the CONSCIOUSNESS principle does not die. And after death, if CONSCIOUSNESS is not available for contact or experience, it is not because CONSCIOUSNESS is absent; but, because, the medium - the body - which has to manifest the CONSCIOUSNESS, that medium has become unfit; because, the prārabdha is gone. But, the problem is, "how do I know I the CONSCIOUSNESS survive after fall of the body?" How do I know? You are saying; but, how do I know? After death, will I feel, 'I am the CONSCIOUSNESS?' Will I claim, 'I am the surviving CONSCIOUSNESS?' For that, the nearest answer that we can give in terms of experience is, when the body is gone, even to claim 'I am the CONSCIOUSNESS', you require what? The body medium! Therefore, the nearest example for death is what? susupti avasthā. In sleep, I continue to exist; but, I cannot and I do not claim, 'I am existent'. Remember, after waking up, the story is different. But, during sleep, I cannot claim.

Similarly, after maraṇam, I cannot claim, "I am the CONSCIOUSNESS", unless, I take another physical body, punar janma. Then, I can claim. And that is why, they give an example for rebirth also. [We have an example for death - the example is suṣupti]. For rebirth the example is what? You know? svapnaḥ. During svapna, I withdraw from this body. Therefore, I am no more functional as an individual in the waking state. Suppose, in the middle of the class anyone of you sleep, [I hope you will not!] then, what happens? You are no more a live individual functioning in the jāgrat prapañca. And imagine you go to dream. Then, what happens? You wake up where? In the dream world, dream time, dream space and in the dream body and you start your life. In that dream body you have a wife there! Do not mistake me. There also a wife, children, water, house - all are there. Now, exactly like that, when I drop this physical body and take up another body, I wake up as it were in that body and continue the transactions. These are the two examples for maraṇam & punar janma.

Now, how do I know that after death I continue to survive? For that, an example is given by the upanişad. What is the example? vṛkṣa dṛṣṭāntaḥ. Chāndogya is, example-mayam! This is the third example. What was the first one? Honey. Do not forget. Honey is the first example. River is the second example. Now, the Tree is the third example. And the beauty is what you know? All these examples are widely available in nature. That is the beauty of upaniṣad. The teaching may be the highest truth; but, all examples are what? Taken from nature only. Sleep example; no difficulty, because we regularly sleep. Dream example; no problem, we regularly dream; day dreaming, night dreaming - all we do. In fact, we say, "I am waiting for my dream house!". Now, the third beautiful example is vṛkṣa dṛṣṭāntaḥ.

Now, what does the upanisad say? vrksa is also a live-being; and therefore, that also comes under the jĩvā category only. Even though in Tamil they use the word 𝔅πωιτιά. Remember, even though it is தாவரம், [தாவரம் means, what? Does not travel from place to place; stationary]. But, the tree is not an inert entity, like a stone. Tree is alive. It has got a physical body; and through the body, it experiences pleasures and pains. Therefore, behind the tree physical body also, there is the jĩvā. Therefore, first the upanisad says, jĩvā is the invisible principle which pervades throughout the tree. And how to know that? The upanisad says, asya mahato vrksasya - oh student, look at this huge tree. [In those days they were nearby. Now, there is a problem!] asya mahato vrksasya mule abhyahanya. mulam means, what? At the root or at the lower part suppose you strike with a knife or an axe - not totally cutting the tree - but, you strike. mūle abhyāhanyā. abhyāhanyā means, to strike, to hit, to wound. Even with a stone you hit hard. What do you find? jivansraved - you come to know that it is a live tree; because, the sap of the tree flows out. That sap indicates what? It is a live tree. So, jīvan. jīvan means what? Being alive. Since the invisible jīvā is behind the tree, sraved. sraved means, what? That sap, liquid that comes out, that liquid is called sraved. And now, I can make a conclusion. What is that? jīvā is pervading the root of the tree. Then, the teacher says, yah madhye abhyāhanyā - suppose you hit or strike the middle of the tree, then what is your experience jīvan sraved. The jīvātmā is - what jīvātmā? the invisible jīvātmā is inherent behind the middle part also. What is the proof? jīvan sraved. So, being alive, the sap comes out. And if you want to further probe, yah agre abhyāhanyā jjīvan sravet - suppose you climb the tree and go to the top and strike the tree, what happens? Again the sap comes. What is established? The jĩvātmā pervades which part of the tree? The whole tree, the trunk of the tree, the branches, the twig, the leaves and all of them jiva pervades. And therefore, the teacher says, sa eşah. sa eşah means, this huge tree is jīvena ātmanā. So this tree has got life or CONSCIOUSNESS; because of the inherent jīvātmā inside; and not only that, ānu prabhūtah - this tree is pervaded by the invisible jīvā tattvam, caitanya tattvam. jīvā tattvam means caitanya tattvam. And because it is a live tree only, pepiyamānah - it is absorbing water from the ground! And whenever you water the plant, [those people who have got gardens or trees they know what that experience is], whenever they water the plants, the plants seem to be smiling and they are very, very happy! And therefore, the upaniṣad says, modamānaḥ - they swing their heads well. modamānaḥ means, enjoying the fullness of life, they remain there! Simple things are being told, elaborately. Okay. What are you arriving at? What is the connection between chāndogya ṣaṣṭādyāya and the tree being alive?! The teacher says, be patient. I will explain it.

Continuing.

अस्य यदेका ्ँशाखां जीवो जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति द्वितीयां जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति तृतीयां जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति सर्वं जहाति सर्वः शुष्यति ॥

asya yadekā ្ថ័ śākhām jīvo jahātyatha sā śuṣyati dvitīyām jahātyatha sā śuṣyati tṛtīyām jahātyatha sā śuṣyati sarvam jahāti sarvaḥ śuṣyati 🛚 6.11.2 🖇

If you keep watching the huge tree, you will find, in due course, some of the branches of the tree dry up and fall off. What do you mean by drying up and falling off? They do not have life behind them. If you strike that dried-up branch, jīvan sraved - the sap will not exude; and it will fall off. And why does it happen so? Why does the branch of the tree dry-up and fall-off? The upanişad implies that jīvās association with the physical body of the tree is because of prārabdha karmā. Every part of the tree has got the jĩva sambandha. The sambandha is caused by what? sthũla śarĩram and the sũkṣma śarĩram are the jĩvā. They are together, because of what? prārabdha karmā. When there is a change in prārabdha, what happens? A particular branch of the tree does not get the support or blessing of the jĩvā. Why? The jĩvā's karmā [which jĩvā? The plant jĩvā. The jĩvā's] karmā for its association with that branch is gone. Therefore, the jĩvā withdraws - as it were. And when jĩvā withdraws, what happens? That green, live-branch becomes what? Dried-up branch. And, it withers and falls off. The branch dies. What happens to the jĩvā in that branch? That is what the upanişad wants us to think about. The branch dries up, withers and dies; falls-off and perishes.

But, what happens to the jĩvā which was pervading that branch? The upaniṣad says, the jĩvā has not died; because, the jĩvā continues to survive and bless the other parts of the tree. So, during the death of the branch, during the death of the branch, the jĩvā has not died. The jĩvā has only withdrawn from that branch; and the jĩvā continues to exist. What is the proof? Because, the rest of the tree is alive. Blessed by whom? The jĩvā! Similarly, after some time, another branch dies. The upaniṣad says, the death of the branch is not the death of the jĩvā. Therefore, from this example, you get a new definition for death. Death of the branch of the tree is not the death of the jĩvā behind the branch. It is withdrawal of the jĩvā from that branch. What is the proof? Brach dies; but, jĩvā survives. What is the proof? In the other parts of the tree, jĩvā is there! And the upaniṣad says, a second branch dries up and dies; the jĩvā has withdrawn. A third branch dries up and falls; the jĩvā has withdrawn.

Extend it to the entire tree, the tree dies. NEVER SAY, "THE JĪVĀ DIES", YOU USE THE EXPRESSION, "JĪVĀ HAS WITHDRAWN". In the same way, when the physical body of every one of us falls dead, [the doctor comes and tells, "the body is dead"], never say, "the jīvā is dead". Then, what should be the expression. "The jīvā has withdrawn from the body." And the body has become what? Dried up, withered away. Therefore, what dies? The physical part only. But, the jīvā is eternal. Therefore, "you are not the body, you bless the body. And what is your nature? ida," sarvaṃ tatsatya, sa ātmā tat tvam asi śvetaketo!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

17. Chapter 6.11.2 & 6.11.3, 6.12.1 & 6.12.2, and 6.13.1

अस्य यदेका ्ै शाखां जीवो जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति द्वितीयां जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति तृतीयां जहात्यथ सा शुष्यति सर्वं जहाति सर्वः शुष्यति ॥

asya yadekā į̇́šākhām jīvo jahātyatha sā śuṣyati dvitīyām jahātyatha sā śuṣyati tṛtīyām jahātyatha sā śuṣyati sarvam jahāti sarvaḥ śuṣyati || 6.11.2||

In this 11th section of the sixth chapter of chāndogya, the upaniṣad is giving the example of a tree. And through this example, the upaniṣad wants to point out that the JĨvĀ SURVIVES THE DEATH OF THE PHYSICAL BODY. When a person dies, only the physical body dies; the jĩvā behind the body which is invisible will continue to survive. In fact, jĩvā survives even during mahā pralayam. And, it is that surviving jĩvā which comes again in the next sṛṣṭi. Lord kṛṣṇā tells in the Bhagavad gītā [8.19] –

bhūtagrāmaḥ sa evāyaṃ bhūtvā bhūtvā pralīyate | rātryāgame'vaśaḥ pārtha prabhāvāty aharāgame ||

- the very same group of jĩvās which dissolved at the time of pralayam; and which remained in kāraņa śarĩram; that jĩvā alone comes up again. THERE IS NO DEATH FOR THE SAMSĀRĨ JĨvĀ. We are not talking about the videha mukta jĩvaḥ. That will come under the exception. We are talking about the regular process. And how to know that the jĩvā survives the death of the body? We do not see the jĩvā of any individual surviving?! No doubt, we do śrāddham, tarpaṇam, apara kriyā etc. But, we do not see the jĩvā! And similarly, we will also, after losing this body, even if we survive, we are not going to claim "I am surviving"; because, to claim that, I require a body!

Therefore, the question will come, "how do I know the jīvā survives?" For that, an experiment is given which we were seeing in the last class. When there is a huge tree and you cut any part of the tree, the presence of the invisible jīvā can be inferred. How do you infer? Because, the sap of the tree flows out. It is not a dry trunk or branch. That indicates the presence of jīvā. jīvan sravet. And every branch of the tree is associated with tree-jīvā, because of what? The prārabdha karmā is the force that keeps the jīvā and the tree-body together. And when the prārabdha of a particular branch gets exhausted, the jīvā withdraws from that particular branch of the tree. How do you know? That branch dries up. When that branch dries up and falls dead, the jīvā has not gone anywhere. The jīvā is behind the rest of the tree. What is the proof? jīvan sravet. If you cut any other part, the jĩvā continues to flow. From this it is very clear, when a branch dries up and falls, it is only the withdrawal of the jĩvā; not the destruction of the jĩvā. Similarly, the second branch dries up and falls. It is the death of that branch; but, not the death of the jĩvā. So, what do you call it? Withdrawal of the jĩvā from that particular branch. Thus, you can use this experiment with regard to a few branches. Like in chemistry lab, physics lab and all, we take a few readings; and thereafter, what do we do? We conclude. Extrapolation method. Every single thing we cannot read.

Thus, the upaniṣad talks about the experimentation with three branches. dvitīyām jahāti atha sā śuṣyati tṛtīyām jahāti atha sā śuṣyati. dvitīyā & tṛtīyā means what? First branch, second branch, the third branch. jahāti means, what? The jĩvā withdraws. Then what happens? That branch dries up and falls. Having taken these three readings, we have to what? Extend it to the whole tree. And one day when the whole tree dries up and falls, what should we understand? Instead of withdrawing from one or two branches, the jĩvā-tree or tree-jĩvā has withdrawn from the whole of the tree. Therefore, the death of the tree is not the death of the jĩvā. Then what is it ? Withdrawal of the jĩvā!

And having done this through the tree experiment, what should you do? Extend it to the human beings also. In our case also, what happens? We do not have branches; but, we have got several parts / organs - hair, teeth, eyes, ears etc. When the jĩvā withdraws from the hair what happens? vazukkai bhavati! When the hair falls from the head, the destruction of the hair is not the destruction of the jĩvā; but, only withdrawal. What next? Teeth. When the jĩvā withdraws from the teeth, teeth gacchati; denture āgacchati! Similarly, you can take any and every organ. Our ears do not work after sometime. Our eyes do not work. Our brain? Even now we have doubts! So, from different body parts, the jĩvā withdraws and the part dries up. At the time of death what happens? jĩvā withdraws from the whole body. That conclusion is given in the third mantrā. We will read.

एवमेव खलु सोम्य विद्धीति होवाच जीवापेतं वाव किलेदं म्रियते न जीवो म्रियते इति स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ् सर्वं तत्सत्य ्स आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

evameva khalu somya viddhīti hovāca jīvāpetam vāva kiledam mriyate na jīvo mriyate iti sa ya eșo'ņimaitadātmyamida vāram tatsatya vāra ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavān vijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca 16.11.31

So, 'hey somya!' - father does not give up that word; hey somya! Dear one, pleasing one. evam eva khalu iti viddhi. May you extend the same principle in the case of the jĩvā of a human body also. jĩvāpetam idam śarĩram, the word ida `- idam in the second line refers to the śarĩram or physical body. In the place of the tree, we have to take the physical body. jĩva apetam sat. jĩva apetam means what? When it is rid of, separated; when the body is separated from the jĩvā. And when the jĩvā chooses to withdraw from the body - which is dependent on what principle? The jĩvā's with-drawl, partial or total, is based on the prārabdha karmā alone. So, jĩvāpetam sat. [apa+e dhātu, apaiḥ, and, past passive participle] separated from. So, idam śarĩram mriyate jivo na mriyate - the jĩvā does not die.

In fact, the jīvā is anādi and ananta, until videha mukti. Thus, videha mukti, you should keep aside, exception. In the normal course, jīvā is anādi and jīvā is ananta. Which means, BHAGAVĀN DOES NOT CREATE ANY JĪVĀ! Because, if bhagavān has to create a jīvā, He will have a problem. What type of karmā He will give to that jīvā?! Because, jīvā should have what? A particular body; based on particular karmā. If bhagavān has to create a jīvā, on what basis He will determine the karmā? If He gives more of puņyam or pāpam, bhagavān will become partial. vaiṣamya nairguṇya doṣa will come. Therefore, jīvā is anādi. And that is the reason, THE SŖṢȚI OR THE UNIVERSE IS ALSO ANĀDI; because, bhagavān has to CREATE a world according to His whim and fancy. Then, He will become what? Partial. bhagavān CREATES a world in keeping with what? The karmā of the jīvā. SINCE Jīvā IS ANĀDI, KARMĀ IS ALSO ANĀDI. THEREFORE, THE SŖṢȚI ALSO IS ANĀDI. EVERYTHING IS ANĀDI. ĨŠVARĀ, JĨVĀ, JAGAT, KARMĀ, SŖṢȚI, AVIDYĀ - ALL OF THEM ARE ANĀDI ONLY.

Because of that reason only, at the time death, jĩvā cannot end also. If jĩvā ends at the time of death, what will happen? So many karmās will be hanging. Loads and loads of sañcita karmā will be hanging! To whom will bhagavān handover these? Suppose bhagavān CREATES a new jĩvā and hands over my karmā to that new jĩvā, "keep it. There is some pending sañcita karmā of his; you keep it". Like, in school, we buy second-hand books from senior students to save money. Like that, can bhagavān CREATE a new jĩvā and hand over this jĩvā's karmā? Why cannot He? bhagavān cannot do that; because, it will create kṛta hāna aśṛta abhyāgama doṣaḥ; because, I will escape the suffering and enjoyment of my karmā and the new jĩvā will have to suffer and enjoy some other jĩvā's karmā. Therefore, karmā exchange is not possible. So, jĩvās are always the same only. And that is why Lord kṛṣṇā said, bhūtagrāmaḥ sa eva ayaṃ bhūtvā bhūtvā pralīyate. And therefore, the teacher says, na jīvo mriyate - kṛta hāna aśṛta abhyāgama doṣa prasańgāt.

Then, one aside topic, even though not relevant here. Since a question may come, better I handle it. What about the videha mukta jĩvaḥ? According to śāstrā, in videha mukti, sañcita karmās are all destroyed, āgāmi karmās are avoided, prārabdha karmās are exhausted. So, that videha mukta jĩvā will not be reborn again. That means what? In the next sṛṣṭi, one jĩvā is less. Will bhagavān compensate that by creating another jĩvā? If you so ask, we have said, 'bhagavān cannot CREATE a new jĩvā; because, there will be a problem. 'Which karmā to give' problem will come. Therefore, in every new sṛṣṭi, what happens? Some of the jĩvās would have attained liberation; and new jĩvās bhagavān does not create. Therefore, what happens? Count-down!

So, next, what will be the doubt? You can guess. Sometime in future the last jĩvā, how he will get liberation we do not know. Whatever it is. There may not be a guru! Last jĩvā gets videha mukti. And when bhagavān looks for next sṛṣṭi, there will be no jĩvā! So, the jĩvās will end, CREATION will end, BHAGAVĀN WILL HAVE TO END! Why? Because, bhagavān can be a ruler only as long as there is something to rule over. So, this doubt may come. For that, our answer is, the number of jĩvās is infinite. The number of jĩvās is infinite. And therefore, infinite -1 = infinite. Therefore bhagavān will be employed! WE NEED NOT WORRY ABOUT bhagavān GOING UNEMPLOYED! This is an aside note.

And thereafter, the teacher says, sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida  sarvaṃ - this eternal jīvā alone is of the nature of caitanyam; and that caitanyam is the PURE EXISTENCE, the jagat kāraṇam, hey $vetaketo. [And since that portion is a repetition, I do not want to go to the word meanings.] And what did $vetaketu do? He said, "wonderful; but, I would like listen some more". uddālakā says, 'no problem. I also do not have work, I will tell'.

Sixth Chapter - Section 12

न्यग्रोधफलमत आहरेतीदं भगव इति भिन्द्धीति भिन्नं भगव इति किमत्र पश्यसीत्यण्व्य इवेमा धाना भगव इत्यासामङ्गैकां भिन्द्धीति भिन्ना भगव इति किमत्र पश्यसीति न किञ्चन भगव इति ॥

nyagrodhaphalamata āharetīdam bhagava iti bhinddhīti bhinnam bhagava iti kimatra paśyasīty aņvya ivemā dhānā bhagava ity āsāmangaikām bhinddhīti bhinnā bhagava iti kimatra paśyasīti na kiñcana bhagava iti || 6.12.1 ||

Another example is given; of course, in the form of a dialogue between uddālakā and śvetaketu himself. And this example is to show, 'HOW A SUBTLE INTANGIBLE CAUSE CAN PRODUCE A TANGIBLE EFFECT OR CREATION'. When we study cause and effect, we can find two types. In certain groups, cause is tangible; the effect is intangible. And in certain other cases, the cause is intangible; and the effect is tangible. When we talk about clay and pot, gold and ornaments, in those examples, what is tangible and what is intangible? In cause and effect, when you study the gold, clay etc., you find that the cause is tangible. You are able to touch the gold, touch the clay, touch the wood; but, the effect is mere nāma rũpā, which is intangible. So, when there is a desk in front of me and I am touching it, I am really touching the wood or desk? சரியா பகில் சொல்லலைன்னா, "மரமண்டை" ன்னு சொல்லிடுவேன்! [If you do not answer correctly I will say, you are woodenheaded!] Okay. When I am touching the desk, am I touching wood or desk? Wood is the tangible solid part; desk is only a nāma & rũpā, which is not tangible. Similarly, ornaments. Similarly, vase etc wherein, the cause is solid and tangible. In fact the weight of the desk is nothing but, what? Weight of the wood only. The weight also belongs to the cause; the effect is weightless. Ornament does not have weight. Gold alone has weight. So, this is one type.

In another type, the cause is intangible; the effect is tangible. When energy is converted in to matter - when the gaseous hydrogen and gaseous oxygen, the intangible gases condense and join together and become water and ice, the effect is tangible as water, ice etc. Here, the cause is intangible; and invisible. And according to the cosmologists and scientists also, before matter solidified, it was all in the form of energy, where, the energy, the cause, is intangible. The effect is what? Tangible. And therefore, a doubt may come, "how can an intangible cause produce a tangible effect?" Because, 'satyam jñānam anantam brahma' - THE PURE CAITANYAM - is tangible or intangible? You cannot touch caitanyam; you cannot see. aśabdam, asparśam, arũpam, avyayam. How can that PURE CONSCIOUSNESS produce a world which is solid and tangible? If such a question comes, the answer is given with an example. For modern students we can give the example of energy producing matter; but, here, uddālakā gives another example. What is that?

He talks about a banyan tree which is very huge, tangible and visible. But, if you take the seed of that huge tree, in that seed, you do not see anything. It is imperceptible. The banyan tree is hidden in the seed. And from that subtle, non-tangible cause, the seed, we are able to experience the arrival of the massive, tangible, distinctly available nyagrodha vṛkṣaḥ. That is the example.

Now, look at this. uddālakā commands śvetaketu. 'nyagrodha phalam ata āhara' iti -'from the banyan tree may you bring one fruit'. phalam means, fruit. ata - ataḥ means, from the tree. āhara - may you bring. And what did śvetaketu do? 'idaṃ bhagava', iti. iti indicates, conversation. Guru said, 'bring it'. And, śvetaketu brings. idaṃ bhagava', hey bhagavān - 'here is the fruit'. And, what does father say? 'bhinddhi' iti - bhinddhi means, what? 'May you cut open the fruit'. What does śvetaketu say? 'bhinnaṃ bhagava' iti - 'I have cut it open it'. Then, father asks the question, 'kim atra paśyasi' iti? 'What do you see within that fruit?' The fruit itself is very small compared to the huge banyan tree; and within that fruit, what do you see? 'kim atra paśyasi' means, in this fruit what do you see? Then śvetaketu says, 'aṇvya ivemā dhānā, bhagava', iti - dhānā means seed, bījam. dhānā, ākārānta strĩlińgaḥ, bahu vacanam. visarga [:] is dropped; because of, sandhi rule. So, "I am seeing minute seeds within the fruit". aṇvyaḥ means, minute, subtle, small. Because dhānāḥ is feminine gender, aṇvyaḥ is also feminine. ĩkārānta strĩlińgaḥ, aṇvĩ śabdaḥ, aṇvĩ aṇvyau aṇvyaḥ. And then, it is very, very difficult handle that seed.

Now what does his father say? 'You cut open that small seed'. It is like the scientist cutting open the molecule, arriving at atom; and from atom to sub-atomic particles! As you go inside, you get confusion! They are not able to go beyond a point. Same way, this also. Father says, hey anga. anga is another word for somya, oh dear one. āsām madhye - among the many minute seeds within this fruit, 'ekāṃ bhinddhi' iti - bhinddhi means, break open one seed. Then, what does śvetaketu say? 'bhinnā bhagava' iti - Oh teacher, I have cut open one seed. [How he managed we do not know! He must have done it minutely!] And then teacher asked the question - 'kimatra paśyasi?' iti. 'What do you see within that minute seed?' From that minute seed what is going to come? The would-be banyan tree, which can grow and spread over many square kilometers, [we have got one in Chennai; one is there in Calcutta; which are supposed to spread over huge area. All that has come out of what? From that dot! But what do we see now? He asks the question, 'kimatra paśyasi?' What is the answer? 'na kiñcana, bhagava!' iti - I do not see anything! taddhaika āhuḥ asad eva idam agra āsīd ekam eva advitīyam tasmād asatah sat jāyata [Ch.Up 6.2.1]. And then, what did father say? We will read the next mantrā.

त ्ँ होवाच यं वै सोम्यैतमणिमानं न निभालयस एतस्य वै सोम्यैषोऽणिम्न एवं महान्यग्रोधस्तिष्ठति श्रद्धत्स्व सोम्येति ॥

ta (hovāca yam vai somyaitamaņimānam na nibhālayasa etasya vai somyaiso'ņimna evam mahānyagrodhastisthati śraddhatsva somyeti || 6.12.2||

So, father uddālakā says, even though to our eye nothing is visible, in that minute seed, you should infer and understand - within that seed, the huge tree is unbelievably present, in potential manner. Just as in the modern micro chip, they are able to store millions of bytes of information. Millions and trillions of bytes of information within that seed is unbelievably present. What is the proof? If it is not there, the banyan tree cannot come. If you take a stone and plant it and regularly pour water, what will come? Nothing will come. Whereas, from that seed the tree it comes; therefore, father says, 'ta ` hovāca' - so hey somya, etam aņimānaṃ na nibhālayasa - this minute and subtle banyan tree in potential form - avyākṛta rũpam - na nibhālayate - your pratyakṣa pramāṇam is not able to perceive. That is why in the 15th chapter of the Bhagavad gītā, Lord kṛṣṇā said, ũrdhvam does not mean, physically above. Many people show an upside down tree in the books! ũrdhvam means, pratyakṣa agocaram, it is beyond comprehension.

And similarly, here also, na nibhālayate means, ũrdhvam vartate; indriya agocaram vartate. nibhālayate - is from the root ni+bhal dhātu 10th conjugation ubhayapati. nibhālayati, nibhālayate. Here, it is ātmanepada madhyama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam. nibhālayate. 'a' is dropped because of sandhi rule. tvam na nibhālayate - you are not perceiving that [the tree]. But, you know what is the greatness? From this imperceptible minute dot alone, the whole banyan tree has come and stands here. Therefore, father says, etasya aņimna - etasya aņimnaḥ [kāryabhutaḥ]. kāryabhutaḥ we have to supply. The effect or the product of this extremely subtle dot of the seed is the tree. asya should be connected with aņimnaḥ. Both are ṣaṣṭhĩ vibhakti. And you have to supply the word product. The product of this extremely subtle dot of a seed is what? eṣaḥ mahānyagrodhastiṣṭhati - visible, tangible, huge tree.

Extending the same principle, all the trillions of galaxies, before the big bang - to use the scientific language - it was all in the form of a minute dot. From that alone the whole cosmos emerged. And then the teacher says, 'it is unbelievable; but, better believe'. 'śraddhatsva somya' iti - hey somya, śraddhatsva. [In between, one takāra is missing. śraddhat tva.

ta and then a stroke needs to be added. It should be śraddhatsva. śraddhā dhātu, lot madhyama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam. In the previous mantrā also there is a correction. In that mantrā, third line, āsāmaṅgaikāṃ. aṅgaikāṃ, it should be. aṅga+ekāṃ = aṅgaikāṃ.] This minute cause is the PURE EXISTENCE, the PURE CONSCIOUSNESS, which is called brahman. From that alone all this have come. Therefore he says –

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिदद् ्ँसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ँस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamidad sarvaṃ tatsatya sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca 6.12.3

So, this mantrā is again repetition [of 6.8.7 / 6.9.4 / 6.10.3 / 6.11.3]. This minute cause is called brahman. It is called PURE EXISTENCE. It is called PURE CONSCIOUSNESS. But, the crucial thing we have note is what? THE CRUCIAL THING IS, THAT PURE EXISTENCE AND CONSCIOUSNESS 'tat tvam asi' śvetaketu, "YOU ARE THAT". That we should not miss. THAT ULTIMATE CAUSE AND MINUTEST STUFF OF THE CREATION is MYSELF; and therefore, "mayyeva sakalaṃ jātaṃ mayi sarvaṃ pratiṣṭhitam mayi sarvaṃ layaṃ yāti". śańkarācāryā says in his ātmabodha -

upādāne'khilādhāre jaganti parameśvare | sargasthitilayān yānti budbudānīva vāriņi || M-8

"I, like the ocean, the material cause of the CREATION, am like the ocean. The all pervading reality. And the galaxies that rise in me, they are all like bubbles in the ocean!" If galaxies are bubbles, what must be my size?! We talk about our address in a small street and claim we are located here. śańkarācāryā says, galaxies are bubbles rising in you; and resolving in you! Should not you claim that binary format someday or the other?! Do you want to eternally remain in triangular format? "I am a small jĩvā, oh Lord protect me". How long are you going to squeak like a mouse. Should you not roar like a lion? ācāryā is asking.

So, tathā somyeti. Okay. "tat tvam asi" śvetaketu. And what did śvetaketu do? 'Wonderful. It is so nice to hear'. [whether it is true or not, it is nice to hear!] It is true only. That is why teacher said, śraddhatsva somya, it is valid. And śvetaketu is very happy. Therefore, he says, 'teach me some more'. bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti. All small sections.

Sixth Chapter - Section 13

लवणमेतदुदकेऽवधायाथ मा प्रातरुपसीदथा इति स ह तथा चकार त ्ँहोवाच यद्दोषा लवणमुदकेऽवाधा अङ्ग तदाहरेति तद्धावमृश्य न विवेद ॥

lavaņametad udake'vadhāyātha mā prātarupasīdathā iti sa ha tathā cakāra ta hovāca yaddoṣā lavaṇam udake'vādhā aṅgatadāhareti taddhāvamṛśya na viveda 6.13.1

So, in the previous portions, the teacher uddālakā pointed out, "the sat brahman is the cause; and it is extremely subtle. From this subtle intangible cause alone, the whole CREATION has emanated or emerged. And since the subtle brahman is the cause of the universe, that brahman must be inherent in the entire universe. Just as the gold inheres every ornament, just as the wood inheres the furniture, the cause must inhere, interpenetrate, pervade every effect. Similarly, brahman, the cause, must be where? You should not search. It must be in everything in the CREATION. There is a saying, "கைல வெண்ணய வெச்சுண்டு நெய்க்கு அலயறான்!" [keeping the butter in hand, one searches for ghee!]. Like that, keeping the furniture, one should not seek the wood. Similarly, keeping the universe, I should not seek brahman elsewhere. brahman, as the cause, must be pervading all over. The question is, "if brahman pervades the whole CREATION, how come I am not able to perceive or recognise that brahman?!". If anybody asks, what is in your front? I say, "only the universe". I never say, "brahman is pervading".

So, the question comes, "how come we do not recognise the kāraṇam brahma, which pervades the kārya prapañca?" And for that, uddālakā wants to point out, you do not perceive; not because brahman is not there; but, you do not have the appropriate instrument to perceive. There are electro-magnetic waves in this room. That is why if you switch on the TV or radio, it is able to capture those waves in the form of music etc. Even though it is present, I am not able to recognise. Why? Because, I do not have a laser eye to recognise. Similarly, if the all pervading brahman is to be recognised, you require an appropriate pramāṇam. brahma abhāvāt na adarṣanam parantu, pramāṇa abhāvāt eva adarṣanam. So, you should make use of the appropriate pramāṇam.

And, what is that appropriate pramāņam? Every pramāņam that we have will not work. pratyakṣa, anumāna, upamāna, arthāpatti, anupalabdhi - [all these are what? you should not ask! I hope so]. So all these different means of knowledge are at our disposal; but, none of them is adequate to recognise brahman; and therefore, you have to go after another pramāṇam which is outside. That is called, guru śāstrā upadeśa pramāṇam. So, what one pramāṇam cannot perceive, some other pramāṇam can. And to convey this idea, uddālakā is giving an experiment. Every class is a laboratory now. Another experiment! So, the tree experiment is over; and the seed, banyan seed experiment is over. Now, we are going to enter another experiment. I will just summarise that. Then we will go to the mantrā, 6.13.2.

uddālakā asks śvetaketu to bring a cup of water and asks śvetaketu to dissolve a lump of salt in that. Just to drop a lump of salt in the water. All very simple experiments; you do not require special laboratory and equipments worth crores of rupees; nothing is required. One vessel, some jalam, a dash of salt. Highest advaita, just with salt water! And guru says, 'you keep that salt in water over night and bring that next day'. And he brings. In the night salt has completely dissolved in to the water. Now, father asks śvetaketu, 'you please bring out that lump of salt. You bring that lump of salt. Not another; very careful. That lump of salt. Sometimes children will ask for the return of the burst balloon! Same way, uddālakā asks for that salt!

And śvetaketu goes on feeling the water; but, he is not able to feel the salt with the help of the tvag indriyam. tvag indriyam is one of the pramāņams. The tvak pramāņam is not able to find the lump of salt. Then, what about sakṣu pramāṇam? When you look at the salt water, you are not able to see the salt. You see only water. So, tvak pramāṇam is useless. sakṣu pramāṇam is useless. But, we know there is salt. How do we know there is salt? We have dissolved it! Even though we know the salt pervades all over the water. Even though it pervades the water, tvak pramāṇam and sakṣu pramāṇam are not able to perceive. Therefore, if you want to recognise/perceive the salt, what should you do? Do not be adamant; make use of the appropriate pramāṇam. What should we do? uddālakā says, 'bring that water; take a drop of that water from the top and put it on your tongue'. antādācāma iti. dācāma means, the tip. As soon śvetaketu tastes it, he screws his face!

uddālakā asks what is it? "lavaņam iti' - 'I am able to experience salt', with a different pramāņam. "madhyādācāma" iti - take a drop from the middle. [Do not ask me how to take? May be using a pipette!] "kathamiti?" "lavaņam iti" Again, from bottom also you take a drop. "kathamiti?" "lavaņam iti" Then teacher says, if you want to see or perceive a thing, you have to use an appropriate pramāņam, which does not depend upon your will; but, which depends upon what? The type of material that is there.

Similarly, the whole universe is like water. And in & through the universal water, the salt of brahman is dissolved and pervaded. Where is it? It is in the mike. தாணிலும் இருப்பார் துரும்பிலும் இருப்பார்னு சொல்றமாதிரி, [like Prahlādā told his father, 'God is there even in that pillar!"] brahman is there everywhere, all pervading; but, eyes cannot perceive. Ears cannot perceive. What should you do? You should go for another pramāṇam. What is that? guru śāstrā upadeśa! And the moment we take the upadeśa, suddenly, it is an eye opener. IN EVERY OBJECT THERE IS ONE THING WHICH IS PERVADING. BUT, WHICH WE HAVE NOT IDENTIFIED OR TAKEN NOTE OF. What is that? We say mike IS. Table IS. Chair IS. The 'IS'ness which is your EXISTENCE, which is not a part, product, property etc. That inherent existence we have taken for granted. We did not notice. śāstrā comes and declares, "that PURE EXISTENCE is the dissolved brahman!" AND IN YOU IT IS THERE, NOT ONLY IN THE FORM OF EXISTENCE; BUT, IN THE FORM OF CONSCIOUSNESS ALSO. This is the experiment. Śāstra PRAMāŅāD EVA BRAHMA JÑĀNAM.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

18. Chapter 6.13.1 to 6.13.3 and 6.14.1

लवणमेतदुदकेऽवधायाथ मा प्रातरुपसीदथा इति स ह तथा चकार त ्ँहोवाच यद्दोषा लवणमुदकेऽवाधा अङ्ग तदाहरेति तद्धावमृश्य न विवेद ॥

lavaņametad udake'vadhāyātha mā prātarũpasīdathā iti sa ha tathā cakāra ta hovāca yaddoṣā lavaṇam udake'vādhā aṅgatadāhareti taddhāvamṛśya na viveda 6.13.1

In these two sections 13 & 14, the teacher uddālakā is revealing two profound ideas with simple, ordinary examples. Examples are ordinary; but, the idea conveyed is profound. WHAT IS THE IDEA? "BRAHMAŅAḤ AUPANIṢADATVAM" - BRAHMAN CAN BE KNOWN ONLY THROUGH THE UPANIṢAD ŚĀSTRAM. aupaniṣadatvam means, upaniṣad pramāṇa mātra avagamyatvam, means, it is knowable only through upaniṣad pramāṇam, apauruṣeya pramāṇam, alaukika pramāṇa. brahman can never be known through pauruṣeya, laukika pramāṇam. This alone, technically they say, apũrvatā or anadhigatatvam etc. Simply put, 'it cannot be known through regular instruments of knowledge.' And to convey this idea, an example is given; which I introduced in the last class. With that background, we will enter the mantrā.

So, here, the teacher uddālakā says, lavaņametad udake avadhāya. etat lavaņam - take this lump of salt; and, udake avadhāya - may you drop it in a glass of water. udakam means, jalam. avadhānam means, to put, drop. prakṣitya. And after dropping the lump of salt in to the cup of water, keep it overnight. Go to bed. Sleep well. And come tomorrow morning. We will continue the teaching. [I am not telling you! Do not get up and go!] He says, 'go home and come tomorrow morning'. So, atha. Means, after dropping of salt in to water, prātaḥ - tomorrow morning, mā upasīdathāḥ - may you approach me, again. After all father and son; no problem. They can meet at home itself. upasīdathāḥ - means, may you approach. [It is vedic usage. The correct word is upasīde thāḥ. upa+sad dhātu ātmanepadi vidiling madhyama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam]. And mā upasīdathā, means, may you approach, mā means me. [mā is dvitīyā ekavacanam mām/mā avām/nau asmān/naḥ] And what did śvetaketu do? Being an obedient son, not like the modern children, 'you yourself do it' they will say! Being an obedient son-cum-disciple, sa ha tathā cakāra. After iti, there must be a full-stop. And then a separate sentence. saha. saha means, what? śvetaketu, the student, tathā cakāra - did exactly as he was instructed. tathā means, did, as told. Then, ta `, hovāca. You have to imagine that the night is over, morning has come and śvetaketu has come with that cup of water in which he had dropped the lump of salt. Keeping that in hand, he has come. And father uddālakā addresses the son, tam ha uvāca. tam [śvetaketum], [pitā uddālakah] uvāca. And what did he say? yad lavaņam udake avādhā - so you have dropped a lump of salt in the water last evening and over night, remaining in the water, it would have dissolved. That lavaņam yad avadhāḥ. avadhā means, deposit, place, drop. [ava+dhā dhātu luńg madhyama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam] That salt which you have dropped in the water. aṅga - oh dear son, tad āhara - I want you to bring that lump of salt from the water. Not another lump from lavaṇa bharaṇi or salt container. I want you to bring that lump of salt. So, aṅga. aṅga is sambodhana [addressing, calling], 'oh dear one, tad āhara'. āhara means, what? You bring for me. iti uvāca - thus, the father commanded son śvetaketu. And what did the son do? taddha avamṛśya - by the hand he searched for the lump of salt by dipping the hand in to the water; means, he felt for the salt; and what did he find? avamṛśya - after feeling in the water, na viveda - he could not find that lump of salt.

So, you have to assume that, the lump of salt has been dissolved in water. And where is that lump of salt? Not in any particular part of the water; but, it has spread all over the water and taddha avamṛśya [lyabantam avyayam] - after feeling, na viveda - he could not find the salt. vid - to find, to get, discover. [vid dhātu, parasmaipada liţ lakāra [लिट्लकार] prathama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam]. na viveda - he could not find. That means what? Salt is very much in the water, pervading all over the water; but, it is not available for tvāg indriya pramāṇam. tvāg indriyam - the skin organ, is one of the sense organs, is one of the pramāṇams, which can know varieties of touch sensations, like heat, softness, hardness etc. Even though tvāg indriyam is a pramāṇam. And if it is not available for tvāg indriya indriya indriya agocaram. And if it is not available for tvāg indriya indriya, it does not mean the salt is non-existent; the salt is very much present.

If the indriyam is not able to find it, the problem is not with the salt; but, the problem is what? The limitation of the sense organ, called tvāk. So, na viveda. And you have to extend it, further. Not only the salt is not available for tvāg indriyam. [tvāg do you understand? I am assuming. tvāg means, the organ of skin which can feel touch sensations]. Not only the salt is unavailable for tvag indriyam, it is not available for cakṣur indriyam also. No doubt cakṣur indriyam is a valid pramāṇam; but, it is valid only within its field of operation. Unfortunately, the dissolved salt is not within the range of even the powerful cakṣur indriyam. Therefore, tvāg indriya agocaram, cakṣur indriya agocaram, even though it is very much pervading. Then what did his father do? Continuing.

यथा विलीनमेवाङ्गास्यान्तादाचामेति कथमिति लवणमिति मध्यादाचामेति कथमिति लवणमित्यन्तादाचामेति कथमिति लवणमित्यभिप्रास्यैतदथ मोपसीदथा इति तद्ध तथा चकार तच्छश्वत्संवर्तते त ँ्होवाचात्र वाव किल तत्सोम्य न निभालयसेऽत्रैव किलेति ॥

yathā vilīnamevāngāsyāntādācāmeti kathamiti lavaņamiti madhyādācāmeti kathamiti lavaņam ity antādācāmeti kathamiti lavaņamityabhiprāsyaitadatha mopasīdathā iti taddha tathā cakāra tacchaśvatsaṃvartate ta thovācātra vāva kila tatsomya na nibhālayase'traiva kileti || 6.13.2 ||

I have used two pramānams - tvāk indriya pramānam and caksu indriya pramānam; and still I could not find the salt. I have two options. One option is, what? Look for some other pramānam which can reveal the salt; or, I can blindly negate the existence of the salt, asserting that, 'there is no salt'. Why? It is not available for tvāg indriyam; not available for caksur indrivam! Seeing this, suppose I negate the salt, I am called a nāstikā. nāstikā means what? அசடு! [the ignorant one]. Because, it is not available for two pramānams, instead of knowing the limitations of the pramānam, I am negating the very prameyam itself. The negation of this prameyam, not understanding the limitation of pramanam is called nāstika buddhih. That is what Lord krsnā said in the 9th chapter of the gītā [9.3] aśraddadhānāh purusā dharmasyāsya parantapa | aprāpya mām nivartante mrtyusamsāra vartmani II - those people who do not understand that there are pramānams, other than the sense organs - do not come to the śruti pramānam, the apauruşeya pramāņam. And not coming to the śruti pramāņam, they negate what? ātmā nāsti, brahman nāsti - they negate, just as this afor a negating the salt, because it is not available for pramāna dvayam. But, here, śvetaketu had śraddhā. Therefore, his father told him, 'other than these two pramānams, there is a third indriyam, which can experience, recognise the invisible, intangible salt.

And what is that pramāņam? Very, very powerful. What is that? The tongue! Therefore, uddālakā said, hey ańga - oh dear one. You are continuing to be an āstikā and therefore, I am asking you to use another pramāņam. What is that? The tongue pramāņam. vāg indriyam. Therefore, he says, 'hey ańga asya antād ācāma', iti. ācāma means, what? 'May you sip' a drop of water from the top layer of that cup of water. How? yathā vilīnam eva - with the salt in dissolved condition. That is, without disturbing the cup of water, with the salt in dissolved condition, may you sip a part or portion of that water from the top of the layer. antād ācāma iti - ācam dhātu. ācam means, 'to sip'. From that only ācamanam came. [ācam - parasmaipada loț madhyama puruṣaḥ eka vacanam]. tvam ācama - may you sip. So, ācama iti. Who is telling whom? Father uddālakā is telling the son-cum-disciple śvetaketu. And you have to imagine the son sipping a little bit.

And then father asks the question, "katham?", iti - how does it taste? How does it taste? Katham vartate jalam? You have to imagine a dialogue, "katham?" iti pitā uvāca. Son's answer is "lavaņam", iti śiṣyaḥ śvetaketuḥ uvāca. He said, it is full of salt. So, sarvam khalu idam lavaṇam. For a jñāni, sarvam khalu idam brahma! So, 'do I have to lick brahman?' you should not ask! YOU HAVE TO USE THE APPROPRIATE PRAMĀŅAM, THAT IS LESSON OF THIS EXAMPLE. So, "katham?" iti. "lavaṇam", iti.

The next question is, is the salt only on the top of the water? To find that out that, uddālakā says, take a small drop of water from the middle. So he says "madhyād ācāma", iti. madhyād means, from the middle. May you take a drop and taste. And then he asks, 'how is it'; and the son said 'lavaṇam'. Then what did the guru do? "antād ācāma", iti - again go to the other end. That means, to the bottom of the cup. May you sip. How is it? It is saltish. Up to this is the example.

Now, based on this, we have it to extend it to the vedāntic truth that uddālakā is going to teach hereafter; THE LESSON THAT WE HAVE TO LEARN FROM THIS EXAMPLE. What is that? We will read. So, the father says, the experiment part is over. Now, we have to come to the conclusion. abhiprāsyaitadatha mopasīdathā iti taddha tathā cakāra tacchaśvatsaṃvartate ta , hovācātra vāva kila tatsomya na nibhālayase'traiva kileti II

So father says, abhiprāsyaitad - may you throw away that water. atha and thereafter, "mā upasīdathāḥ" iti - may you come back to me. "mā upasīdathāḥ" iti uddālakāh śvetaketum uvāca. He commanded, instructed. And what did śvetaketu do? He must be wondering, 'what is this big experiment? I drank some salt water. What is the great deal?' But, anyway, he wanted to learn. Therefore, taddha tathā cakāra. So, śvetaketu did exactly as commanded by his father.

And then upaniṣad adds a statement. tat chaśvat saṃ vartate - the salt was there in the water all the time [śaśvac-chaśvat]. All the time means, relatively, throughout the experiment, salt was all the time there. Initially, I could not find the salt; not because the salt was not there; but, because, I did not use or employ the appropriate pramāṇam. And later, when I used the appropriate pramāṇam, salt did not come to the water anew; rather, I recognised the salt, which was there through out. Therefore, tad lavaṇam, tatra jale, tat śvat sam vartate. And its knowability depends upon what? The EMPLOYMENT OF THE APPROPRIATE MEANS OF KNOWLEDGE.

Therefore, ta * hovāca - keeping this in mind, father uddālakā told $vetaketu - and what is that? He says, hey somya, "atra vāva kila tat" - tat vartate. tat means, what? The pure brahman, in the form of EXISTENCE, is there throughout the CREATION. Just as the invisible salt is pervading the entire water, EXISTENCE pervades the entire cosmos. Therefore, atra means, in this very CREATION that is in front of you, in your own body, hey somya! tat vartate. [vartate is understood].

The EXISTENCE is there. But, what is the problem? na nibhālayate - you are not able to appreciate that EXISTENCE. Even though EXISTENCE is all pervading, you are not able to appreciate that EXISTENCE. Why? Not because, it is not there; but, because, you are using all other instrument, all other pramāņam which cannot operate in the field of EXISTENCE! If you use the śrotra indriyam it will register śabda only. Similarly, all the pañca pramāņams will register śabda sparśa rũpa rasa gandha, belonging to the anātmā, matter. pratyakṣa pramāṇa is anātma viṣaya; therefore, any amount of study you make, you will only know more and more of what? anātmā or matter. And suppose, the scientists invent more powerful instruments - like, electron microscope or anything, again that will register what? Still subtler śabda sparśa rũpa rasa gandha! These belong to what? anātmā; the matter only!

That is why the scientists never ask the question, "what is EXISTENCE?" You will find they study everything else. The most common words we use in our life is what? EXISTENCE. But, nobody does research on the word "EXISTENCE". EXISTENCE is what? Is it a substance? Is it a property? Is it a relationship? What exactly is EXISTENCE? - they do not research at all. They do not even ask the question; let alone research. It is impossible; because, all their instruments can function only at the matter-level, śabda sparśa rũpa rasa gandha. At least with regard to CONSCIOUSNESS, they ask the question, "what is CONSCIOUSNESS?" Up to that, they have developed. But, they have not developed enough, to know the answer. They have developed enough to ask that question; whereas, with regard to EXISTENCE, even that question they do not ask! Why? Because, all our instruments, reasoning, mathematics, material sciences, they cannot deal with this topic. Even though the PURE EXISTENCE is where? Just as the salt is dissolved in water, EXISTENCE is "dissolved" in the word. Dissolved within quotation. It is in and through. Then what to do? Do not negate brahman; do not negate ātmā. Understand the limitation of all the laukika pramāṇạms. All the instruments of knowledge at our disposal or intrinsically limited. They can access only matter, anātmā. So, pratyakṣa is useless; anumāna is useless; upamāna is useless; arthāpatti is useless; anupa-labdhi is useless. veda pũrva bhāga is also useless. There is only one pramāṇa, which asks the question, "WHAT IS EXISTENCE?" And vedāntā gives us the knowledge, 'WHAT IS EXISTENCE'. EXISTENCE is not a part, product or property of matter. EXISTENCE is an independent entity, which pervades and lends EXISTENCE to the mithyā matter. EXISTENCE is not limited to the periphery or the dimensions of any particular object. EXISTENCE exists even when the entire universe crumbles down. The surviving PURE EXISTENCE will not be available for experience; not because it is not there; but because, there is no medium through which it can manifest. This NATURE OF EXISTENCE we can know only through one pramāṇam. And what is that pramāṇam? upaniṣad pramāṇam!

How will that PURE EXISTENCE be when the whole CREATION is resolved? Daily bhagavān gives us that experience. What is that daily experience? During deep sleep state when śabda sparśa rupa rasa gandha are resolved, all the pramānams and pramevams are resolved, I continue to exist in what form? In the form of the pure, triputi rahita satta. "yasyaiva sadātmakam kalpārthakam bhāsate" "rāhu sphuranam asat grasta divākarendusadrśo māyā samācchādanāt sanmātrah karana upasamharanatah yo'bhût suşuptah pumān II" sanmātrah - That PURE EXISTENCE is where? "tat tvam asi śvetaketu". And in the form of PURE EXISTENCE where are you? At Vidyā mandir do not say. You will get kuttu. In the form of that PURE EXISTENCE you are all pervading. "mayyeva sakalam jātam mayi sarvam pratisthitam mayi sarvam layam yāti".

This knowledge can be gained only through upanişad pramāņa. Just as, the dissolved salt can be known only through tongue, the PURE EXISTENCE can be known only through the upanişadic tongue. Therefore, he says, atra vāva kila tat somya - so hey somya, atra eva kila - here itself, tat - the PURE EXISTENCE is there, about which you are not able to make enquiry. Therefore, na nibhālayase - therefore you are not recognising that. And that is reinforced. atraiva kila iti - it is here itself. And in the living being the very same sat is available in the form of cit also. But, just as PURE EXISTENCE is not available for scientific observation, PURE CONSCIOUSNESS also will never be available for scientific observation. Any instrument you use to probe in to the body, you will know what? The body consists of chemicals. That only we know. But, 'what is life or CONSCIOUSNESS', no instrument can probe & perceive. That is why brahman is called aupanişadam. "sarvaṃ brahmopaniṣadam I mā'haṃ brahma nirākuryāṃ mā mā brahma nirākarod" aupaniṣadam brahma. And that is what is revealed through this salt example. Now the teacher concludes that example.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद्ँसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ँस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ̈́ sarvaṃ tatsatya ̈́ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ‖ 6.13.3‖

This is repetition of the mantrā which comes at the end of every example. [of 6.8.7 / 6.9.4 / 6.10.3 / 6.11.3 / 6.12.3]. This PURE EXISTENCE is aṇimā. aṇimā means, extremely subtle. It means, 'not available for any conventional instruments of knowledge'. So, never try to experience the EXISTENCE. You will never experience it; because, THAT EXISTENCE HAPPENS TO BE YOU THE EXPERIENCER CONSCIOUSNESS itself. sadeva cit citeva sat. In upadeśa sāra that equation is beautifully given - "सत्वभासिका चित् क्व वेतरा | सत्तया हि चित् चित्त्या हि अहम् ||" = sattva-bhāsika cit kva vetarā I sat tayā hi cit cit tayā hi aham II" - So, with this, the 13th section is over. HERE, WHAT IS THE MESSAGE? BRAHMAN CAN BE KNOWN ONLY THROUGH ŚĀSTRĀ PRAMĀŅAM.

Now, we will enter the 14th section, in which, another example is going to come.

Sixth Chapter - Section 14

यथा सोम्य पुरुषं गन्धारेभ्योऽभिनद्धाक्षमानीय तं ततोऽतिजने विसृजेत्स यथा तत्र प्राङ्वोदङ्वाधराङ्वा प्रत्यङ्वा प्रध्मायीताभिनद्धाक्ष आनीतोऽभिनद्धाक्षो विसृष्टः ॥

yathā somya puruṣaṃ gandhārebhyo'bhinaddhākṣamānīya taṃ tato'tijane visrjetsa yathā tatra prāṅvodaṅvādharāṅvā pratyaṅvā pradhmāyītābhinaddhākṣa ānīto'bhinaddhākṣo visrṣṭaḥ II 6.14.1 II

So, in this section, through another example, THE TEACHER UDDĀLAKĀ EMPHASISES THE IMPORTANCE OF A GURU. Even though śāstram is the pramāņam, it is apauruṣeya pramāņam. It has the capacity to reveal brahman; but, śāstram can reveal brahman only when it is employed properly! And, if I do not know 'how to use the śāstram', then, I will misinterpret. Just as, one prasthāna trayam itself [one prasthāna trayam means, one group of śāstrā - gītā, upaniṣad and brahma sūtrā], are commented by different ācāryās; and they come to different conclusions. gītā is the same; upaniṣad is the same; brahma sūtrā is the same. One group of people say, 'you are a nitya dāsaḥ. Never free. That is the discovery you should have. śańkarācāryā asks, "why should I discover that? Already I know I am dāsaḥ!" Even the household assistant lady who comes, I am not able to command even that lady. I am afraid that she may stop coming! Therefore, when I am the dāsa of the dāsa - dāsānudāsaḥ - why should I study the prasthāna trayam and come to the conclusion that "I am nitya dāsaḥ"? But, there are people who interpret the śāstrās and come to the conclusion that "I am dāsaḥ". Why this problem? We should know "how to do the analysis properly!"

And therefore, it should come from an ācāryā, who has got the sampradāya or the key, to open the śāstrā box. This sampradāya also comes in the form of a paramparā. nārāyaņaṃ padmabhuvaṃ vasiṣṭhaṃ or sadaśiva samārambhām śańkarācārya madhyamām. Even the key to open the śāstrā box has been coming down, which is only with the ācāryā. And therefore, śāstrā and guru are complementary to each other. śāstrā will not communicate, unless there is a guru; and guru can never communicate, unless He has the support of the śāstrā! And that is why śraddhā was defined as śāstrasya guruvākyasya sathyabuddhi. That is why yāgjñavalkyā said, "ātmā vā are draṣṭavyaḥ śrotavyaḥ". He said, 'you should not read the upaniṣad; but, you should listen to the upaniṣad! What do you understand by that? Listening requires somebody to teach. You should not say, 'I will read loudly and listen'. In these times, anything can happen! Therefore, in another example, the role of the guru is said.

I generally give the example of the audio cassette and the cassette player. If you have the audio cassette, without the player, what will you do? You can sit quiet only, looking at that. If you keep it on your ears, it will not work. And therefore, another person said, 'then I will throw away the cassette and get only the player'. Then also, you cannot hear. The cassette has the music; but, it will come out only when an appropriate medium is there, in the form of a player. So, you require both the casette & the player. Similarly, śāstrā is like the audio cassette. It has the teaching hidden in it; but, only a guru can bring out that teaching. And how did the guru get that capacity? Remember, guru does not have Gyimbi to listen. "iti śuśruma pūrveṣāṃ ye nastadvyācacakṣire" - in kenopaniṣad, ĩśāvāsya upaniṣad every ṛṣi says, "Copyright is not mine. Glory is not mine. We have heard it from our guru". Then, who is the ādiguru? FOR EVERYTHING, ĀDI IS BHAGAVĀN. THAT IS GOING TO BE THE MESSAGE. 13th section is śāstrā pramāṇam. 14th section is guru upadeśa. guru & śāstrā are complementary, is pointed out.

And, what is the example given? The upaniṣad says, let us imagine that there is a deśā called gandhāra deśa. gandhāra deśā is present day āfghanisthān. Of all places, why upaniṣad chooses that, we do not know. Anyway, let us imagine that was very popular, perhaps. And let us also imagine that a person - maybe he was a rich person - was kidnapped by some persons and he was blind-folded and was brought to a dense forest. Imagine, they took away whatever valuables were there on his body and they dropped that person in the middle of the forest, blindfolded. And this person what did he do? He tried to escape by himself. Also imagine what will happen when one tries to escape from that dense and vast forest, blindfolded. He may have fallen in to some ditch and must have struggled for a long time. For what? For mokṣā; for freedom. You have to imagine all those things. He must have struggled. 'கண்ணைக்கட்டி காட்டுல விடறது'ன்னு சொல்றமாதிரி!

So, what did he do? He shouted, cried out aloud, looking in all directions. prān vā udan vā adharān vā pratyan vā - looking at northern direction, eastern direction etc., because, he does not know from which direction help is to come. And what did he shout? "I am blindfolded and I am in the middle of the forest. Is there someone? I do not know. There may not be anyone. Even if there is someone, I do not know whether that person is blindfolded or not!" Why he thought so? A blindfolded person can never know whether the other person is blind or not! And then what happens? Because of aneka janma samprāpta - because of some puņyam which he had done in some janma, what happened? Somebody happened to pass through. What did the passerby do? He removed the blindfold, and said, "your own anເ) [in Tamil, anc) has two meanings. 1. anc) means home. 2. Second meaning is, mokṣā. So he said, "your anc), [home, mokṣā] your gandhāra deśā, is in this particular direction. And also so much distance is there. You can go". Thus, he gave the directions and left. With the help of the śruti, [śruti means what? What he has heard]. And using śruti alone will not help. So, using both śruti and also his yukti [thinking capacity], this person started travelling. And, with the help of śruti, yukti and anubhava, at last he reached anc) [home, mokṣā].

In the same way, we the ātmā, the paramātmā, the brahman, has been blind-folded by ajñānam. ajñāna timarāndhāh varam. And the puņya pāpa kidnappers or robbers, śańkarācāryā writes a very elaborate bāṣyam. puņya pāpa sattarāhā - they have brought me in to the dense forest called pañca kośaḥ or śarĩra trayam. We are caught. And therefore, we feel, aham pitā, aham mātā, prapitā, pitāmahāḥ or hā putraḥ naṣṭaḥ and dhanam me naṣṭam - this person is wailing and crying, "I am a saṃsārī". And he is trying various methods. Various parihārams he does, he goes to several temples, does parihāram to rāhu, parihāram to ketu, so many things he does. What was the result? The priests earned lot of money. Anyway, he helped them all right.

And then he understands that, 'I cannot escape by myself'; and so, ultimately, surrenders. "śiṣyaste'haṃ śādhi māṃ tvāṃ prapannam". Comes to a guru, because of some puṇyam. And the guru gives the upadeśa. But, the teaching alone is not sufficient. The śiṣyā should have the buddhi to grasp the teaching. Thus, with the help of śruti, yukti and anubhava, we reach where? Our own வீட், [home, mokṣā] - which is, "sthūla sūkṣma kāraṇa śarīrād vyatiriktaḥ pañcakośa atītaḥ san avasthātrayasākṣī saccidānanda svarūpaḥ san yastiṣṭhati sa ātmā". [Where have you heard all this?! Somewhere you have heard! In tattvabodha, saccidānanda svarūpaḥ iti] Thus, jñānena he comes to relief. This is the example. Details of which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

19. Chapter 6.14.1 to 6.14.3, 6.15.1 to 6.15.3 and 6.16.1

यथा सोम्य पुरुषं गन्धारेभ्योऽभिनद्धाक्षमानीय तं ततोऽतिजने विसृजेत्स यथा तत्र प्राङ्वोदङ्वाधराङ्वा प्रत्यङ्वा प्रध्मायीताभिनद्धाक्ष आनीतोऽभिनद्धाक्षो विसृष्टः ॥

yathā somya puruṣaṃ gandhārebhyo'bhinaddhākṣamānīya taṃ tato'tijane visrjetsa yathā tatra prāṅvodaṅvādharāṅvā pratyaṅvā pradhmāyītābhinaddhākṣa ānīto'bhinaddhākṣo visrṣṭaḥ || 6.14.1 ||

In these 2 sections, 13 & 14, the teacher, uddālakā is revealing the importance of śruti pramāņam and the importance of a guru or ācārya. Therefore, both these sections are important. In the 13th section, through the salt example, the upaniṣad pointed out that, 'BRAHMAN CAN BE RECOGNISED ONLY THROUGH ŚĀSTRA PRAMĀŅAM'. And here, through the gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭānta, the upaniṣad points out, 'Ācāryā IS ALSO EXTREMELY IMPORTANT'. ŚĀSTRĀ AND Ācāryā ARE NOT TWO SEPARATE AND INDEPENDENT PRAMĀŅAMS. THEY COMPLEMENT EACH OTHER. The ācāryā gets validity only because of śāstrā; and śāstrā is able to reveal its meaning only because of ācārya upadeśa.

And that gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭānta I was explaining in the last class. How a person was kidnapped from gandhāra deśaḥ and blindfolded and left in the forest. He screams facing all directions; because, he does not know whether there is somebody; and if there is somebody, in which direction he is. And therefore, taking a chance, he is looking in all directions and screaming. Then somebody comes and rescues him. That is the example. We were seeing the first mantrā in the last class. yathā somya puruṣaṃ gandhārebhyaḥ - gandhāraḥ is the name of a country. gandhāra deśaḥ. Plural number indicates the nation. gandhāraḥ, in singular, refers to a person. gandhārāḥ refers to a country. A person was kidnapped. How? abhinaddhākṣaḥ - blindfolded. abhinaddhām - means, tied with a bandage. [abhi + naḥ dhātu, fourth conjugation. parasamaipada. nahyati]. To bind, to bandage. abhinaddhaakṣa means, bandaged in the eye. That means what? Blindfolded. After blindfolding, he was brought intothe forest and taṃ tataḥ atijane visrjet - he was left in a place where there was nobody. atijane means, jana rahita deśaḥ. So, an isolated place. A secluded place. As good as a forest. So, he was left in the forest; and thereafter, the kidnappers ran away.

They might have taken whatever valuables he had. And what is the most valuable thing? śāntiḥ. Whatever peace was available, they took the peace and left him. What is the proof? Now, there is no peace of mind! atijane visrjet. And what does he do? When he cannot help himself, by himself, he requires grace from some unknown source. And therefore, what does he do? sa yathā tatra - in that particular place, pradhmāyīta - he screams, loudly. [pra+dhmā dhātu, first conjugation. dhamati. In the gītā first chapter we saw "śaṅkhaṃ dadhmau pratāpavān" - from the same root, blowing the conches or loudly screaming].

And in which direction he looks? prānvā udanvā adharānvā pratyanvā - in all directions; because, he does not know where his is guru available! Everybody cries for a guru. A guru is required. Where to find the guru? Therefore prān, the eastern direction he faces and screams; and no response. Therefore, what does he do? udan - the northern direction, adharān - in the southern direction. pratyan - the western direction. In all the four directions, he screams. And what does he scream? abhinaddhākṣa ānītaḥ - I have been brought here blindfolded. ajñāna timirāndhasya - so every saṃsārī is blindfolded. He does not require a physical cloth! We all have got what? ajñāna bandage! So, abhinaddhākṣa ānītaḥ. [bahuvrĩhi. abhinaddhākṣaḥ visṛṣṭaḥ - I have been left here to die by myself. Then what happened? The story continues. mantrā 2.

तस्य यथाभिनहनं प्रमुच्य प्रब्रूयादेतां दिशं गन्धारा एतां दिशं व्रजेति स ग्रामाद्ग्रामं पृच्छन्पण्डितो मेधावी गन्धारानेवोपसम्पद्येतैवमेवेहाचार्यवान्पुरुषो वेद तस्य तावदेव चिरं यावन्न विमोक्ष्येऽथ सम्पत्स्य इति ॥

tasya yathābhinahanam pramucya prabrūyādetām diśam gandhārā etām diśam vrajeti sa grāmādgrāmam prcchanpaņḍito medhāvī gandhārānevopasampadyetaivamevehācāryavān puruṣo veda tasya tāvadeva ciram yāvanna vimokṣye'tha sampatsya iti || 6.14.2 ||

śańkarācāryā in His commentary mentions this saṃsārī also has been brought into the forest. What is that forest? śańkarācāryā says, dehāraṇye praveśitaḥ. dehā - the pañca kośā is the āraṇyam [forest] where we have been left high and dry. And we are tied here, with what rope? tṛṣṇā pātitaḥ, tṛṣṇa means, attachment or rāga. Because of that we are tied. puṇyāpuṇya taskaraiḥ ānĩtaḥ. And who are the thieves who have brought us here? puṇyam and pāpam alone have decided in which body we should come. Then, what is the screaming? Looking for a guru is the screaming of the seeker. Because of the puṇyam of long time. [ācāryā says in viveka cũḍamaṇi] –

durlabham trayamevaitaddevānugrahahetukam | manuşyatvam mumukşutvam mahāpuruşa samśrayah ||

- because of some puṇyam, some guide comes! And what does he do? The upaniṣad says, tasya abhinahanaṃ pramucya - so, some guru comes. And here, guru means what? Some person, 'a good samaritan', they say. A good person, a well wisher, happens to pass by that area. It is not a place regularly visited by people. But, due to his puṇya kālam, the stranger comes. What does he do? abhinahanaṃ pramucya - first he removes the bandage, the cloth, covering the eyes. And, then, prabrūyāt - he tells him, "I will not be leading you up to the house, I have other work; I will give you the directions. etāṃ diśaṃ gandhārāḥ - "the gandhāra deśā is in this direction", he says. And therefore, etāṃ diśaṃ vraja - "may you travel in this direction" [which we call as the spiritual education program]. So, 'etāṃ diśaṃ vraja' iti prabrūyāt.

So, what does this afflicted person do? He cannot straight away travel in one direction continuously; because, it being a forest, there will be lot of obstacles. Therefore, he keeps the general direction [east] in mind. But, sometimes he has to travel in the west or even backwards. Therefore, the general direction given by the guide must be kept in mind and by himself he has to use what? His own discretion, in directing himself. And therefore, sah - while travelling, what does he do? Now and then he gets a doubt, 'am I in the right direction or going in the opposite direction?' He might get such doubts, now and then. Therefore, he has to regularly cross check. [Either with the scriptures or with the ācāryā. As we saw in taittirīya [bhrguvallī 2.1] - annam brahmeti vyajānāt, punareva varuņam pitaramupasasāra [do you remember? I do not know]. And the teacher says, "you are in the right direction, continue". prano brahmeti vyajānāt, mano brahmeti vyajānāt - thus, at regular intervals, guidance is required. That is why, paunahpunyena śravanam kuryāt. One must repeatedly do śravanam. Okay, What does this person do? sa grāmādgrāmam prcchan - he goes from village to village. While going to gandhara deśa in between several villages come; and from each village, several roads branch. So, what does he do? Even though he has a general idea or knowledge, he confirms it by asking someone, prcchan pandito medhāvi. So, he takes further guidance during the journey.

What happens finally? He travels adequately and in the right direction. Travel involves two factors. First, it must be in the right direction. Otherwise, what will happen? You may walk in the wrong direction and say, 'nothing has come?!'. So, wrong direction is useless. Second, one may travel in the right direction; but, not adequately. Direction is right; but, the problem is what? They take five steps and say, 'I am done', and sit down. So, not only direction must be right; it must be, adequate also. And so, if a person travels in the right direction, adequately - means, adequate śravaṇam, mananam and nididhyāsanam, then what will happen? saḥ paṇḍito medhāvī gandhārān eva upasampadyeta - such a bright seeker will certainly reach the destination.

Here, two qualifications are mentioned. One is paṇḍitaḥ; and another is, medhāvī. paṇḍitaḥ means, an intellect which is able to resolve the interpretational confusions regarding śāstrā. So, pāṇḍityam refers to the capacity to interpret properly the scriptures; because, in the scriptures, dvaitam is also mentioned; viśiṣṭa advaitam is also mentioned; and, advaitam is also mentioned. Madhvācāryā says, 'dvaitam is the reality'. Rāmānujācāryā says, 'viśiṣṭa advaitam is the reality'. Sańkarācāryā says, 'advaitam is the reality'. All of them are quoting what? The same upaniṣad! And when a doubt comes in our mind 'which interpretation is correct?', we should be able to resolve the confusion, if there is confusion. This capacity is called pāṇḍityam. It is a mīmāṃsā issue. One must be mīmāṃsa kuśalaḥ, if a doubt comes regarding interpretation.

medhāvī indicates the capacity to resolve logical doubts and questions which arise in the intellect. It is not an interpretational problem; it is not a textual issue; but, it is a logical issue. And when there is a logical issue is raised by nyāya or vaiśeṣika śāstrā, my intellect must be able to resolve that. So, pāṇḍityam is the capacity to resolve interpretational obstacles; and medhāvītvam is the capacity to resolve logical problems.

If we do not have either, no problem! Rāmānujācāryā, if you read only, you will get doubt. Suppose, we do not read those books, and I find 'śańkarācāryā is okay for me', if you say, you escape. You do not have to bother about elaborate analysis. What is "dvā suparņā sayujā sakhāyā" - these head-breaking is not required. We accept the interpretation by our guru. "I have accepted it" if you say, no problem. But, if you do not accept, you require mīmāṃsa kuśalata. Similarly, if you do not read tarka śāstrā, no problem. But, if tarka śāstrā is read, they will raise many logical issues. samavāya sambandham, samyoga sambandham - they will say. If those problems come, I should have the capacity to resolve. And such a student reaches the destination.

gandhārān eva upasampadyeta - here, gandhārāḥ is what? aham brahma asmi - that is my svarũpam. In the example the travel is outwards. But, in vedāntā, the travel is inwards. As we were seeing in the morning class, from ahańkāraḥ "I" to sākṣi "I" travel. That is the toughest and subtlest travel. So, gandhārān eva upasampadyeta. evam eva. In the same way, iha - in this world of saṃsārā, ācāryavān puruṣaḥ - a person who has got the guidance of śāstra pramāṇam and the guidance of an ācāryā, such a person, veda - he will certainly arrive in brahman. So here veda is, jānāti - he will know, no doubt. THIS ŚAŃKARĀCĀRYĀ VERY OFTEN QUOTES. ācāryavān puruṣaḥ veda - the one led by a guru will certainly know the truth. See His confidence. But, the ācāryā must be an ācāryā. Then, certainly, he will know the truth. veda is a verb here; not rg vedā, yajur vedā. veda means, jānāti. [vid dhātu parasmaipada lat prathama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam].

Okay, after knowledge what will happen to him? What will happen? Nothing will happen! tasya tāvadeva ciraṃ yāvanna vimokṣye - he will remain in the forest, called the physical body. Even after knowledge he will remain in the forest, called the physical body, until he is relieved by the prārabdham. As long as prārabdha is there, the physical body will continue and until the exhaustion of prārabdha, the jñāni lives in the world. tāvadeva ciraṃ means, kāyaḥ, wasting time. But, even though he has got the physical body; and even though prārabdha gives various experiences, because of the knowledge of a higher reality, the impact of prārabdha comes down.

I have often given the example, "during the day time, in the sky, stars are there or not?" if one asks, what will you answer? "During the day time, in the sky, stars are there or not?", if someone asks, what should be the answer? During the day time also stars are there; but, they are as good as nonexistent; because, the light of the stars is over-powered by the brightness of the sun! Similarly, in the discovery of the pāramārthika satyam, all the issues of the vyāvahārika satyam will appear like what? An entertainment, a serial having episodes. How do we watch the serial? Even though we may shed tears now and then, we are able to shake it off, seeing the serial as a serial. Serial is not serious! Similarly, vyāvahārika satyam will become mithyā, from pāramārthika dṛṣṭi. Therefore, He is called, jīvan muktaḥ. So, yāvat na vimokṣye. vimokṣye is uttama puruṣaḥ, passive voice. It will be converted intoprathama puruṣaḥ, yāvat na vimokṣyate - until He is released by prārabdha. prārabdha is holding Him. Until He is released, let go by prārabdha, He will have jīvan mukti also. Here also, sampatsye should be converted intosampatsyate. Means, videha mukti mpāpnoti.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ̈́ sarvam tatsatya ̈́ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ‖ 6.14.3‖ So, this mantrā is again repetition. [6.8.7 / 6.9.4 / 6.10.3 / 6.11.3 / 6.12.3 / 6.13.3] The upanişad or uddālakā says that, the truth which is revealed by ācāryā and śāstrā is none other than aņimā, that subtlest brahman, which is sat, the jagat kāraņam. So, sa ya eṣaḥ, we have to connect correctly. This truth is the one which is revealed by the śāstrā pramāņam, as given through lavaņa dṛṣṭānta; and ācārya pramāņa, as given through gandhāra puruṣaḥ dṛṣṭānta. The truth is revealed. Where is that truth? Because, gandhāra dṛṣṭānta should not create a confusion. Just as puruṣaḥ travels towards gandhāra dṛṣṭānta should not create a to travel towards gandhāra! Travel is, nothing but KNOWING THAT I AM THAT BRAHMAN. Therefore, he says, 'tat tvam asi' śvetaketu. Then, what did śvetaketu do? He said, 'it is very nice, I am enjoying the class'. [I am just saying that!] 'It is very nice. Therefore, I like to listen to more'. uddālakā is very, very happy. Therefore, he says, 'certainly. I shall teach further'. With this, the 14th section is over. Now, we will enter the 15th section.

Sixth Chapter - Section 15

पुरुष्ंसोम्योतोपतापिनं ज्ञातयः पर्युपासते जानासि मां जानासि मामिति तस्य यावन्न वाङ्मनसि सम्पद्यते मनः प्राणे प्राणस्तेजसि तेजः परस्यां देवतायां तावज्जानाति ॥

purușa somyotopatāpinam jñātayah paryupāsate jānāsi mām jānāsi māmiti tasya yāvanna vānmanasi sampadyate manah prāņe prāņastejasi tejah parasyām devatāyām tāvajjānāti I 6.15.1

In this section, the process of death or the mechanism of death is being described, once again. This we saw already in mantrā 6.8.6. [6th chapter, 8th section, 6th mantrā] - the process of death. The same idea is repeated here, just to show that the process of death is the same in the case of ajñāni also, as well as in the case of a jñāni. Death being the resolution of the faculties one by one. Gradual folding of the faculties; and in the end, the jĩvātmā merges intobrahman or paramātmā.

Up to this merger intobrahman, the steps are common for jñāni and ajñāni. Then, where is the difference? ajñāni jĩvā also resolves into brahman. jñāni jĩvā also resolves. But, in the case of ajñāni jĩvā, only the prārabdha is exhausted. sañcita is very much there. Therefore, the next prārabdham will come, and tell what? 'Get up, getup'. It will wake the jĩvā up and push into another śarĩram. Whereas, in the case of jñāni's death, everything folds; and the jĩvā merges into brahman; and thereafter, there is no question of punar janma. Therefore, the upaniṣad wants to say, brahma sampatti is common to both. And in mantrā 6.8.6, ajñāni's brahma sampatti is talked about; whereas, in this section, jñāni's brahma sampatti is talked about. The stages are the same.

What is that? Folding of the faculties, one by one. If you remember muṇḍaka upaniṣad, "te brahmalokeṣu parāntakāle parāmṛtāḥ parimucyanti sarve" - an ajñāni's folding is called antakālah; whereas, a jñāni's folding is called parāntakālah. Now, that is graphically described. Some people are afraid when they read this. These are truth. Bitter or sweet, these are all facts of life. Now, you have to imagine a dying person. So, "hey somya" - hey śvetaketu! upatāpinaṃ puruṣa, - this dying person is suffering from varieties of illnesses or ailments. One of them has to be the cause of death. Some reason has to be written! So, upatāpinaṃ means, suffering from some ailment or the other. And what happens at that time? jñātayaḥ paryupāsate - all the relatives - close as well as distant - they want to bid farewell, perhaps. Therefore, they all visit. Sometimes doctors also recommend, 'call who all should be called. Let them see and go.' And therefore, relations paryupāsate means, they attend to him, standing around. Till now they did not talk; they did not have time! Now, an extra interest is shown. Not only they surround the dying person, they also ask, "jānāsi māṃ jānāsi mām" iti - "are you able to recognise me? Open your eyes, see who has come!" cittappā's grandson & all - something we say. Therefore, jānāsi mām - do you recognise me? Sometimes they open their eyes, sometimes they do not open the eyes; sometimes the mouth moves, sometimes it does not move; sometimes sound comes, sometimes only air comes!

And then, what happens? mantrā says, as long as the faculties are not folded, tāvat jānāti yāvat na sampadyate. sampadyate means, what? Folding. And na sampadyate means, what? The faculties have not folded. And what are they? vāk manasi. The organ of speech has not folded into the mind. As long as it has not resolved into the mind, the organ of speech is active. Therefore, he is able to at least whisper and say, 'in this bank, this account is there'. NO, rāmā - kṛṣṇā! vāṅmanasi na sampadyate. Similarly, manaḥ prāṇe - as long as the mind has not resolved into prāṇā, the mind goes on thinking of various things. Everything, other than GOD! manaḥ prāṇe. And prāṇaḥ tejasi - and as long as the prāṇā has not resolved into the tejas tattvam, [all this I explained earlier in 6.8.6, hence I am not going elaborately. You can go back and refer to that].

As long as the warmth of life is there, even though all the pañca prāṇās have almost folded; but, still, the life is lingering! Because, the warmth is there, so long, minimum functions go on. During that time, jānāsi - this person is able to minimum recognise the people and surroundings. After that what happens? Gradually, the life force will dissolve; and he does not recognise. He has merged into brahman. That is said here in the next mantrā.

अथ यदास्य वाङ्मनसि सम्पद्यते मनः प्राणे प्राणस्तेजसि तेजः परस्यां देवतायामथ न जानाति ॥

atha yadāsya vānmanasi sampadyate manaņ prāņe prāņastejasi tejaņ parasyām devatāyām atha na jānāti || 6.15.2||

All these mantrās are very elaborately discussed in brahma sūtrā 4th chapter, second section, third section and all. Each part is taken for elaborate discussion. The procedure of death is analysed there. All these faculties fold ultimately intotejas tattvam. And why does the upanişad take tejaḥ here? We should remember, while sṛṣṭi is talked about from brahman, what is the first creation? Not, ākāśā and vāyu; but, it started with tejaḥ. Therefore, death is in the reverse order. brahman, then, agni tattvam, then, prāṇā tattvam etc. Therefore, the resolution is in the reverse order. Final stage is, warmth of life. That is tejaḥ. Then, tejas merges. And therefore, vāṅmanasi sampadyate manaḥ prāṇe prāṇastejasi tejaḥ. [All this I have explained. Where? In mantrā 6.8.6 see that]. Then, all of them resolved intoparasyāṃ devatāyām. Means, brahman. Where is that brahman? Do not look here and there! All-pervading brahman is within ourselves only. atha na jānāti - when everything is so resolved, na jānāti. Therefore, the doctor pronounces the death of the jĩvā. And what is the definition of death? Non-manifestation of CONSCIOUSNESS. Very careful. Not, departure of consciousness. CONSCIOUSNESS CAN NEVER DEPART; it is merely, non-manifestation. The sũkṣma śarĩram has either left the body; or, it has dissolved intobrahman. And that brahman alone is your real nature. That is said in the next mantrā.

स य एषोऽणिमैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंसर्वं तत् सत्य ्ंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति भूय एव मा भगवान्विज्ञापयत्विति तथा सोम्येति होवाच ॥

sa ya eṣo'ṇimaitadātmyamida ̈̃ sarvaṃ tat satya ̈̃ sa ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo iti bhūya eva mā bhagavānvijñāpayatviti tathā somyeti hovāca ‖ 6.15.3 ‖

So, this mantrā is again repetition. [6.8.7 / 6.9.4 / 6.10.3 / 6.11.3 / 6.12.3 / 6.13.3 / 6.14.3] It is intothis brahman the jīvan mukta will resolve at the time of death. And, as I said, the difference between the previous description and the present description is, previously it is the resolution of an ajñāni, to come back again; whereas, this mantrā is dealing with videha mukti, in which, the jĩvā has permanently merged. This is sat brahma. And this is your real nature. The uniqueness of this section is, in all the previous sections one example was given. Only in this section, there is no example. An odd section, without an example. Now comes the final section. We will read.

Sixth Chapter - Section 16

पुरुष ्ं सोम्योत हस्तगृहीतमानयन्त्यपहार्षीत्स्तेयमकार्षीत्परशुमस्मै तपतेति स यदि तस्य कर्ता भवति तत एवानृतमात्मानं कुरुते सोऽनृताभिसन्धोऽनृतेनात्मानमन्तर्धाय परशुं तप्तं प्रतिगृह्णाति स दह्यतेऽथ हन्यते ॥

purușa și somyota hastagrhitamānayantyapahārsitsteyamakārsitparasumasmai tāpateti sa yadi tasya kartā bhavati tata evānrtamātmānam kurute so'nrtābhisandho'nrten ātmānam antardhāya parasum taptam pratigrhnāti sa dahyate'tha hanyate || 6.16.1 ||

This is also a famous example, which śańkarācāryā quotes very often. It is called taskara dṛṣṭāntaḥ. taskaraḥ means a thief. So the example is like this. A policeman catches hold of a thief or someone who is supposed to be a thief; one who is accused of theft. And he is brought to the king. In the olden days, he is brought in front of the king; and the policeman says that, "this person has stolen". But, the thief himself says, "I have not stolen". Now, we do not know, which one is the truth. And in the olden days, they had a method of finding out the truth. What did they do? They bring a hot iron bar or a hot paraśu. paraśu means, axe. It need not be an axe, any metal. Therefore, this is also known as tapta paraśu dṛṣṭānta. Two names are there. taskara dṛṣṭānta or tapta paraśu dṛṣṭānta. Hot iron bar. And the king will tell him, "you say whether you have stolen or not. You have to make one statement. 'I have stolen' or 'I have not stolen'". And what will the thief say, generally? "I have not stolen". Now the king says, "if your statement is true, that truth itself will guard you, protect you as an immunity. And therefore, with truth as your protection, may you hold the tapta paraśu". [Now you do not try this. I am talking about the story of the olden days].

Now, between the hot iron piece and himself what is there? Only his own statement. That statement has to be what? Either truth or untruth. The king says, "if your statement is the truth, that truth itself will serve as a kavacam for you!" Like the raincoat or the gloves that we wear before handling electricity protects us. And what does this person do? The accused person holds this hot iron bar. And if his hand is burnt, what does it mean? His statement is untrue. And if it is untruth, two fold problem he has to face. First problem is, what? Hand gets burnt. And what is the second problem? Because he has stolen, he will be punished. Put in the jail. Imprisonment. Two fold saṃsārā or suffering is the result! Of course, if the statement is the truth, the tapta paraśu will not burn him; and so, he is relieved. He is free from kārāgṛaḥ.

Similarly, when a person says, aham jĩvaḥ asmi. Is it true or untrue? It is untruth! And because we are stating the untruth, what is happening? The world is tapta paraśu. The world is tapta paraśu! And it has got ādhyātmika ādhybautika ādhydaivika tāpa trayam. And the tāpa trayam is burning us when we say, aham jĩvaḥ. And not only we are burnt in this life for stating, "I am a jĩvaḥ". For remaining in triangular format, not only I suffer now; again, that causes what? saṃsārā. punar api jananam punar api maraṇam. Whereas, when I say, "aham brahma asmi", because it is truthful, neither the tāpa trayam - which is called jīvan muktiḥ; and there is no imprisonment called punar janma - which is called videha muktiḥ. Thus I get both jīvan mukti and videha mukti. Therefore, what is the right statement? Not, 'aham jivosmi' But, "aham brahma asmi", if you say, you escape!

Now look at this. puruşa somyota hasta gṛhītam ānayanti - hasta gṛhītam means what? A person who is held by the hand by the policeman; held by the hand or hand cuffed. ānayanti - the police bring that person to the Court of the king. And what do they say? apahārşīt - he has taken away the wealth of someone. And how did he take away? If it has been donated no problem. steyam akārşīt - he has taken away, without permission. That is called steyam. And when this much was said, you have to supply in between. [That person himself says, 'I have not done anything. I am not a thief', he says. And therefore, there is controversy. If he accepts, no problem. Police says that, 'he has stolen'; but, he says, 'I have not'. Therefore, what does the king do? He will do the litmus test. What is that?] 'asmai paraśum tāpata' iti - may you keep the paraśu in fire and bring it here. Then what should the accused do? He has to hold that tapta paraśu in hand.

And the upaniṣad says, sa yadi tasya kartā bhavati - if he has really stolen and he says, 'I have not stolen', he is protected by what? Untruth. He is surrounded by, clothed by, untruth. So, tasya kartā bhavati - if he has stolen; but, says, 'I have not stolen', then what will happen? tataḥ eva anṛtam ātmānaṃ kurute - he becomes a liar, a dishonest person, who is surrounded by, who is clothed by, like the electricity conductor and non conductor, he is clothed by conductor. So, anṛtam ātmānaṃ kurute - here, ātmā is reflexive pronoun. He will not have help or protection. And because of that, saḥ anṛtābhi sandhaḥ - that person, who is committed to the untruth, who is holding on to the untruth, anṛtena ātmānam antardhāya - covering himself and his hand with "untruth", [untruth, within quote. Not that there is a physical thing called untruth. He is covered by untruth only] And paraśuṃ taptaṃ pratigṛḥṇāti - he takes, holds the tapta paraśu. And what is the consequence?

What should every saṃsārĩ - when we read this example - what should we think? The whole universe is the tapta paraśu. And we are all what? The accused people. So, 'am I jĩvaḥ?' or, 'am I brahman?' Which statement I should say? If am in triangular format, we need to keep running. saḥ dahyate - he is burnt every other day. Burnt by what? In the example, he is physically burnt. But here of course, by tāpa trayam. And not only he is burnt, atha hanyate. hanyate means, he is punished by the king. Punishment will depend upon the type of untruth. Literally, hanyate means, killed. Need not be actual killing; but, it refers to the punishment. What is the punishment? saṃsārā kārāgṛham. Rigorous imprisonment in this world! For how many years? Life imprisonment is all there you know! This is the problem. In the same way! That will be said in the next ślokā which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

20. Chapter 6.16.1 to 6.16.3 and Summary of Chapter 6

पुरुष ्ंसोम्योत हस्तगृहीतमानयन्त्यपहार्षीत्स्तेयमकार्षीत्परशुमस्मै तपतेति स यदि तस्य कर्ता भवति तत एवानृतमात्मानं कुरुते सोऽनृताभिसन्धोऽनृतेनात्मानमन्तर्धाय परशुं तप्तं प्रतिगृह्णाति स दह्यतेऽथ हन्यते ॥

puruṣa (somyota hastagṛhītamānayantyapahārṣītsteyamakārṣītparaśumasmai tāpateti sa yadi tasya kartā bhāvati tata evānṛtamātmānaṃ kurute so'nṛtābhisandho'nṛten ātmānam antardhāya paraśuṃ taptaṃ pratigṛhṇāti sa dahyate'tha hanyate || 6.16.1||

In this final section of the chāndogya ṣaṣṭhādyāya, the teacher uddālakā is giving taskara dṛṣṭāntaḥ; otherwise known as, tapta paraśu dṛṣṭāntaḥ. The example of a thief; or, the example of a hot iron bar. And the significance of this section and this example is, "satyābhisandhaḥ mucyate, anṛtābhisandhaḥ baddhyate". abhisandhaḥ - means, the one committed to, who dwells upon, who holds on to. abhi + san + dhā dhātu, abhi sandhānam means, holding on to, committed to. niṣṭhaḥ. In fact, instead of the abhisandhaḥ, we can use the word niṣṭhaḥ also. The significance is, satya niṣṭhaḥ mucyate; asatya niṣṭhaḥ baddhyate. THE ONE WHO HOLDS ON TO REALITY IS RELIEVED. THE ONE WHO HOLDS ON TO UNREALITY IS BOUND.

The question is, "is advaitam reality or is dvaitam reality?" The upaniṣad has been teaching "advaitam alone is real", "tat satyam" - tat advaitam brahman alone is satyam. And what about the dvaita prapañca? "vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ mrtika eva satyam" - the dvaita prapañca, the product is asatyam or mithyā. And whoever holds on to advaitam will be released. Whoever holds on to dvaitam will be bound. Even if the dvaitam is in the form of upāsya - upāsaka dvaitam, do you understand? upāsya upāsaka dvaitam. upāskaḥ is a meditator. upāsyam means, the worshipped, meditated devatā. Even if this division we hold on to, there is dvaitam. And dvaitam is "vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ".anṛtam. Therefore, this will also keep a person in bondage only.

"upāsanāśruto dharmaḥ jāte brahmaṇi vidyate prāg utpatter ajam sarvam tenāsau kṛpaṇa smṛtaḥ". Even ĩśvara bhakta dvaitam is a cause of bondage. But, still, this dvaitam we look upon as sacred. Why do we look upon bhakti - the bhakta bhagavat dvaitam - as sacred? Why do we so look upon? Not because that is a reality. But, this dvaitam should help us, should serve as a stepping stone, to come to what? advaitam "aham brahma asmi" jñānam. So, if this dvaita bhakti is a stepping stone for advaitam, then it is sacred. If one are going to permanently remain in dāsa - ĩśvara bhāva, he is anṛtābhisandhaḥ dvaitābhisandhaḥ. He will be dahyate. This is the significance of the dṛṣṭānta.

We saw the meaning of the first mantrā in the last class. A person has been captured by the police and he has been brought in front of the king; and he asked, "have you stolen or not?" And, as usual, the thief says, "No. I have not stolen". Now, the statement can be either right or wrong, truth or untruth. If he has stolen; but, says, "I have not stolen", he comes under what? anṛtābhisandhaḥ. But, if he has not stolen, and says, "I have not stolen", then he is satyābhisandhaḥ. Now, the king says, 'bring the tapta paraśu'. If he is satyābhisandhaḥ, the protecting kavacam for him is, his satya vākyam. There is nothing else in the hand; it is not a hand with gloves or anything. It is a free, open, naked hand. And with that he has to catch hold of the tapta paraśu, making the statement, "I have not stolen". If the statement is satyam, it is that satyam which has to insulate him.

But, on the other hand, if he is a thief, and says, "I have not stolen", it is anṛtam [untruth] that has to serve as the insulator. And the anṛtam - the untruth, cannot insulate a person. Untruth cannot save a person; only truth can save. And that, we saw in muṇḍaka upaniṣad - "satyameva jayate na anṛtam". Of course, if we look at our politicians [and also, this is the statement in all our coins and what we call rupee notes], people will doubt whether the upaniṣad vākyam is satyam or not! But, remember, upaniṣad vākyam will never go wrong. asatyam politicians will have problems certainly.

And therefore, the mantrā said, sa yadi kurute tasya kartā bhāvati tata evānṛtamātmānaṃ kurute - by saying, 'I have not stolen', if he has already stolen something, then, his statement becomes untruth. And, saḥ anṛtena ātmānam antardhāya. antardhānam means, covering, protection. So, covering his hand with the untruth when he holds the tapta paraśu, untruth cannot save him. Therefore, his hand will be burnt. And not only it will be burnt, he also has to go to jail. saṃsārā and punar janma. Burning is called, saṃsārā; and entering the jail is, punar janma!

So, in our context, when will it happen? If you say I am kartā, I am bhoktā, I am pramātā, I am jĩvaḥ, I am appā, I am ammā - all those statements are what? anṛtābhisandhaḥ. Therefore, we should not say that. What is the punishment for all these statements. dahyate - burning. What is this burning? ādhyātmika ādhybautika ādhydaivika tāpa trayam - worries are the burning. Not only I will be burnt in this janma, punar api jāyate. On the other hand, suppose he has really not stolen anything, what will happen to him? That is given in mantrā 2.

अथ यदि तस्याकर्ता भवति ततेव सत्यमात्मानं कुरुते स सत्याभिसन्धः सत्येनात्मानमन्तर्धाय परशुं तप्तं प्रतिगृह्णाति सन दह्यतेऽथ मुच्यते ॥

atha yadi tasyākartā bhāvati tateva satyamātmānam kurute sa satyābhisandhaņ satyena ātmānam antardhāya paraśum taptam pratigrhnāti sana dahyate'tha mucyate || 6.16.2||

You can understand. It is the opposite of the previous ślokā. atha - on the other hand, yadi tasya akartā bhāvati - he has not performed the theft, which he has been accused of. yadi tasya - tasya here refers to what? The theft or burglary akarta; he is the non-performer of the burglary. Means what? He has not really stolen. And therefore, when he makes the statement, "I have not stolen", the statement becomes what? satyam. Therefore, tateva, because of that very reason, satyam ātmānam kurute - he makes himself truthful. Here, the word ātmānam, is reflexive pronoun. He makes himself a truthful person. And thereafter, sah satyābhisandhah - thus committed to the truthfulness, who is holding on to the untruth, satyena ātmānam antardhāya - now he is wearing the invisible kavacam of truthfulness; so satyena - satya kavacena, ātmānam - here also ātmānam reflexive, himself. "Himself" means, especially the hand. He has to hold the hot iron in the hand. He has got a powerful glove. What is the glove? satyam shield he has got. ātmānam antardhāya - covering himself and his hand with "truth"; having covered, antar + dhā dhātu, third conjugation. [Iyabantam avyaya rũpam] having covered his hand, protected his hand with truthfulness. paraśum taptam pratigrhnāti - he holds the tapta paraśu, the red hot iron axe. And what is his experience? sah dahyate - his hands are not at all burnt. That is indicative of freedom from the present samsārā. Otherwise known as, jīvan muktih. atha - thereafter, mucyate ca, after the experiment is over, the king says, "you are free. You can go back". Released.

This is the example. This we have to extend to ourselves, the jĩvās also. That extension is made in the next and final mantrā of the section / chapter. We will read.

स यथा तत्र नादाहोतैतदात्म्यमिद ्ंसर्वं तत्सत्य ्ंस आत्मा तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो इति तद्धास्य विजज्ञाविति विजज्ञाविति ॥

sa yathā tatra nādāhyetaitadātmyamida č sarvam tatsatya č sa ātmā tattvamasi svetaketo iti taddhāsya vijajñāviti vijajñāviti || 6.16.3 ||

saḥ yathā tatra nādāhyeta - just as a truthful person is not burnt by the tapta paraśu; similarly, the jñāni also is not burnt, afflicted by the tapta paraśu, called the universe. And this alone we present as the triangular format and binary format. In triangular format, I look upon myself as a jĩvaḥ, which is satyam or anṛtam? As long as I say, "I am a jĩvā, an individual, kartā, bhoktā, pramātā", I am in the triangular format; and I see the world as different from me; and ĩśvarā as different from me. This very darśanam, this very triangular format, makes me anṛta abhi sandhaḥ. Holding on to untruth. Because, really speaking, I am not a jĩvaḥ. Then who am I? tat satya sā ātmā tattvamasi śvetaketo - I am not the miserable jĩvātmā; but, the paramātmā.

Therefore, as long as I live in triangular format, saṃsārā tāpa will constantly afflict me. No doubt îśvarā will help me off & on; but, I can never be permanently free. I will have to keep on running to îśvarā every other day. One day one parihāram; another day another parihāram! There is no end to the SOS business! That there is the advantage of îśvarā it is there; but, the jĩvā will have to constantly fight the attacking prārabdha. Even death is not a solution! The very same ĩśvarā - who comes and rescues me now & then - the very same ĩśvarā, will have to give me punar janma. ĩśvarā is helpless. ĩśvarā is helpless; because, as long as I am a jĩvātmā, sañcita karmā will have to haunt me and chase me. And bhagavān has to act according to the law of karmā. Every now and then He may give comfort; but, the karmā thrashings bhagavān cannot stop.

At least now I have got manuṣya janma. In the next birth, I am not even sure of that! Therefore, we should remember, in triangular format, bhagavān is available to save me; but, it is not a permanent solution. punar api jananam, punar api suffering. Suffering will continue. And why it continues? Because, remaining in triangular format makes me anṛtābhisandhaḥ. Holding on to untruth. Then, what should you do? Sooner or later, drop the triangular format and raise yourself to the binary format. And binary format is what? I am not a jĩvaḥ. I am not a kartā bhoktā pramātā. I do not have ahańkāraḥ and mamakāra. CLASP rejection I have practised. [Hope you remember. If you do not, it is Okay. CLASP rejection is the definition of sanyāsa. Hope you have not done sanyāsa to that!]

Therefore, I have given up that triangular format. I look upon myself as the ātmā; and the entire universe is anātmā! And, I am the asańga akartr abhoktr svarũpam. With this knowledge I touch the mithyā anātmā, remembering the fifth capsule of vedāntā. [All our technical jargons!] The fifth capsule of vedāntā, what is that? "By forgetting my real nature, I am converting life in to a struggle. By remembering my real nature, I am converting life into an entertainment". The entire universe is the viśvarũpa ĩśvarā darśanam; and, I am not affected by whatever happens; and therefore, sa yathā tatra nādāhyeta. Then, to have satyābhisandhana, I should be in which format? Binary format. Hence, sooner you come, safer you are; otherwise, regularly we have to run to the ICU. Means, we have to regularly run to bhagavān! "Oh, Lord, save me. Save me. Save me". We need to keep running. 'ārthānām ārthi hantāram' we cry daily. Even bhagavān is tired of hearing our cries. Imagine, He would have got bored! So, saḥ yathā tatra na adāhyeta - just as that truthful person in the example is not burnt and is protected by his truthfulness, similarly. The upaniṣad leaves that sentence incomplete. Crucial sentence; should he not write? uddālakā thinks that we are all expert students; therefore, we will fill up. How should we fill up. Just as the person in the example got saved, similarly, a jñāni who is satyābhisandhaḥ - who claims "aham brahma asmi" - He is saved by that satya darśanam, samyak darśanam, from both ihaloka saṃsārā and paraloka saṃsārā. He will get both jīvan mukti and videha mukti. So, with this, that example part is over.

Now, the upaniṣad comes again to the mahā vākyam. "ātmyamida sarvaṃ tatsatya sa ātmā". That sat - JAGAT KĀRAŅAM BRAHMA - alone is THE TRUTH OF THE ENTIRE CREATION. tat satyam - that brahman, THE PURE EXISTENCE alone is satyam; the reality. And saḥ ātmā that brahman alone is the ātmā, the inner essence of everyone! And do not look for that brahman. Do not look up and down. "tat tvam asi" śvetaketo - YOU ARE THAT BRAHMAN! And śvetaketu was such an intelligent student [like, you!] that with this much teaching, He grasped the whole knowledge! And therefore the upaniṣad glorifies śvetaketu. taddhāsya vijajñau. ['śvetaketu', we have to supply]. śvetaketu knew, realised the teaching. tat means, what? THAT TEACHING. asya. asya means, of the guru uddālakā. vijajñau - he realised, he got aparokṣa jñānam.

And this sentence is taken as a pramāņam for an important idea in vedāntā. "Whether knowledge - aparokṣa jñānam, direct knowledge - can come through śravaṇam? Or, will it come only later, in nididhyāsanam and samādhi? This is a very big discussion in vedāntā. Do we get realisation in the class or we get only book knowledge in the class; and realisation will come in meditation and samādhi only? This is a very big debate. śravaṇāt aparokṣa jñānam or dhyāṇāt aparokṣa jñānam? And there are some people - among the advaitic ācāryās themselves, there are some - who claim that aparokṣa jñānam comes only in meditation. They claim. However much you may read, only in dhyānam you get jñānam, they say. There are many other ācāryās who point out that, 'if you listen to properly, then, direct knowledge is possible, even during śravaṇam itself'. Meditation is not required for aparokṣa jñānam. And to establish this, we quote this mantrā as the example.

śvetaketu did not go for meditation. Then and there, in front of his father, straightaway, vijajñāu he knew. [vijajñāu means he know. vijajñāu = vi+jajñāu. jñā dhātu parasmaipada lit prathma puruṣa ekavacanam]. That is repeated again.

And, incidentally, the question will be asked, if direct knowledge can come in śravanam itself what is the role of meditation? We say, the role of meditation is, not for getting direct knowledge; it is only to remove the habitual triangular format. As soon as early morning arrives, naturally the thought is dvaitam. And so, in binary format I get up. With what thought? "I am a miserable jĩvā, to be protected by GOD." That should not be the thought. It should be –

प्रात: स्मरामि ह्र्दि संस्फुरदात्मतत्वं सच्चित्सुखं परमहंसगतिं तुरीयम् । यत्स्वप्नजागरसुषुप्तिमवैति नित्यं तद्ब्रह्म निष्कलमहं न च भूतसङ्ग: ॥

prātah smarāmi hrdi samsphuradātmatatvam saccitsukham paramahamsagatim turīyam |

yat svapna jāgara susuptimavaiti nityam tadbrahma niskalamaham na ca bhūtasangan II

"I do not have problem to be solved by GOD". This is the habit which I have to deliberately nourish. And only for removing the old habit, nididhyāsanam is prescribed; not for getting any knowledge.

So, with this the 16th section is also over. The chāndogya ṣaṣṭhādyāya is also over. And since I have got half an hour more, I thought I will give you summary of this chapter.

Sixth chapter summary

This is a straight chapter. This chapter has got 16 sections. Of them, the first 7 sections deal with "brahma satyam jagan mithyā", which is the first component of spiritual knowledge. Spiritual knowledge has two components. First component "brahma satyam, jagan mithyā" is discussed from section 1 to section 7. And then, from section 8 to section 16 - the end, the second component "jivobrahmaiva nāparaḥ". This is the essence of vedāntā. ṣaṣṭhādyāya is what? This only!

And how is this idea conveyed? In the first 7 sections, srṣṭi prakaraṇam or CREATION is discussed. And through CREATION, adyāropa apavāda nyāya is employed. By which, the CREATION is introduced as a product; and then, CREATION is negated, as mere nāma rũpa. Introduction of CREATION as a product is called adyāropaḥ. Negation of the CREATION as mere non-substantial name and form - this process is called apavāda. And, for that, brahman - the jagat kāraṇam - was introduced as PURE EXISTENCE. "sadeva somya idam agra āsīd".

What is the definition of EXISTENCE? Remember 5. 1] EXISTENCE is not a part product or property of any object. 2] EXISTENCE is an independent entity which pervades every object and lends EXISTENCE to that. 3] EXISTENCE is not limited by the boundaries of any object. 4] The EXISTENCE survives, exists even after the disintegration of the entire universe. 5] And the surviving EXISTENCE [as in deep sleep, that is the example, as in deep sleep the surviving PURE EXISTENCE] is not available for transaction; not because it is non-existent; but, because, there is no medium for transactions. This EXISTENCE, with Capital E, is brahman.

And thereafter, CREATION was given. In the second section, sũkṣma bhũta sṛṣṭi; in the third section sthũla bhũta sṛṣṭi; in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh, bhautika sṛṣṭi. So, sũkṣma bhũta, sthũla bhũta and bhautika. Thus, the entire CREATION was talked about up to the 7th section; which is called adyāropaḥ. And there itself, the upaniṣad did apavāda also, by saying that, "on enquiry, the kārya prapañca is, "vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ". "āpāgād agner agnitvaṃ" - agni is not agni; it is nothing but, brahman + nāma rũpa. Thus, the entire CREATION! Later, it extended to even the body, the mind etc. "annamaya, hi somya manaḥ āpomayaḥ prāṇastejomayī vāg" even the micro creation is nothing but what? brahman+nāma rũpa. Then what is satyam? "mṛttikā eva satyam". mṛttikā means, what? kāraṇam eva satyam. kāryam is what? nāmadheyaṃ.

This sentence is very important. What sentence? "vācārambhaṇaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ". What is the meaning? vikāraḥ = kāryam, a product. A product means, any product. nāmadheyaṃ means, what? It is only a name, hanging on your tongue. Remember the example. There is no such thing called clip, other than the plastic that it is made up of. The plastic itself is what? Something else. And like that, when you proceed, there is no such thing called CREATION! Therefore, what is the essence of the 7th section? brahman alone is satyam. jagat mithyā.

Now, the next question is what? "I" come under which category? Should I claim, "I am brahman"; or, should I claim, "I am the mithyā jagat"? This is the question. For that, the enquiry is made from 8th section up to 16th section. And the upaniṣad said, "jivobrahmaiva nāparaḥ" - THAT SAT, THE PURE EXISTENCE, WHICH IS THE ESSENCE OF THE WHOLE CREATION, HAPPENS TO BE THE ESSENCE OF YOU ALSO! What is the essence of the ocean, happens to be the essence of the wave also. Therefore, "ocean and wave are different or identical?", if one asks, what should you answer? "Superficially, ocean & wave are different; one is kāraṇam and another is kāryam. One is macro; another is micro. One is more permanent; another is temporary. Thus, superficially looking, ocean and wave are different; but, essentially, there is no ocean other than water. There is no wave other than water."

Similarly, the essence of kāraņa paramātmā is ātmā. The essence of kārya jīvātmā is also what? ātmā! Therefore, you are essentially sat brahman. And how is that sat brahman available in me? How is it available in me? sat brahman, the PURE EXISTENCE is available as the CONSCIOUSNESS principle, the sākṣi caitanyam. Thus, 'I' the experiencer of my body, 'I' the experiencer of my mind, 'I' the experiencer of the thought - that, 'I' the experiencer am different from the body, which is nāma rũpa, different from the mind, which is nāma rũpa; different from the thought, which is nāma rũpa. Body is nāma rũpa; mind is nāma rũpa; thoughts are nāma rũpa. "Worry alone is solid", you should not say. Worry also is a form of thought only; so, nāma rũpa. All of them are nāma rũpa. Then, "who am 'I'?" 'I' am the sat cit ātmā, which is the witness of all of them; different from all of them. As we saw in morning class, "jyāsyamaneḥ iva paramātmā pratīpakaḥ sarvadĩ vyañjakah bhāvati".

And therefore, the teacher said, "tat satyam sa ātmā 'tat tvam asi' śvetaketo". You are that brahman. And, here also, what is the most important part to be noted? asi is the verb used. asi is present tense. Present tense reveals a particular fact, which is already obtaining. Therefore, you have to underline the verb. The upaniṣad says, "you are that brahman". Then, what is the meaning? When? Is it tomorrow? Therefore, the upaniṣad does not ask me to do sādhanā "to become" brahman. The upaniṣad does not ask me to do sādhanā to become brahman. Then, what is the sādhanā to be done? [What a question?!] Then, what is the sādhanā to be done? The sādhanā to be done is, constantly reminding the fact! What fact? "that sādhanā need not be done to be brahman! " I will repeat it. THE sādhanā TO BE DONE IS CONSTANTLY REMINDING THE FACT THAT SĀDHANĀ NEED NOT BE DONE TO BECOME BRAHMAN. THIS IS THE SĀDHANĀ!

And then this paramānanda śiṣyā will ask, "if I do that sādhanā, will I become brahman?" JIF(). [the ignorant one!]. All my struggles to become brahman and to attain mokṣā will be dropped! And, as I said in the morning class, after claiming "aham brahma asmi", thereafter also, I can try to improve the mind; but, I will not call it sādhana catuṣṭaya sampatti. I will call improving the mind as my hobby and entertainment. For mokṣā, I am not improving the mind; because, 'I' am not the mind. And 'I' am ever free also. I am not improving the mind for the sake of mokṣā; because of two reasons. One reason is, 'I' am not the mind. And second reason is, 'I' am already free! Then, should I improve the mind? Improve it. We have lot of time. Rest of the life what to do? Therefore, keep improving; but, do not connect it to mokṣā. Let it be for 'loka kṣemārtham'; because, when mind is better, family members will have better treatment. Otherwise, you will be angry all the time. Mind will do all that. When mind is good, it is good for the family. loka kṣemārtham you can do.

But, one need not do any sādhanā for mokṣā; because, mokṣā is not a sādhyam, a goal; mokṣā is my very svarūpam. śańkarācāryā - at end of the 16th chapter, writes a special commentary to point out that, "the upaniṣad says, we are already free!"

Thus, from 8th to 16th sections, "jivobrahmaiva nāparaḥ"; and this 'tat tvam asi' is the mahā vākyam which is repeated 9 times in these 9 sections.

One last point. And to convey the various aspects of the teaching, the teacher gave 7 examples. Each example clarifying one aspect or the other. I am not going to the details. Just I am giving you the list of the 7 examples. 1] madhu dṛṣṭāntaḥ - honey example. 2] samudra dṛṣṭāntaḥ - Ocean example. 3] vṛkṣa dṛṣṭāntaḥ - tree example. 4] bĩja dṛṣṭāntaḥ - seed example. 5] lavaṇa dṛṣṭāntaḥ - salt example. All these are simple, ordinary, day-to-day things only. But very, very important ideas are conveyed. 6] gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭāntaḥ - the kidnapped āfghāni. gandhāra is āfghanistan. gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭāntaḥ - kidnap example. And the last one. 7] taskara dṛṣṭāntaḥ - thief example or tapta paraśu dṛṣṭāntaḥ. These are the well known 7 examples.

So, with this, the sixth chapter is over. Because, brahman is called "sat" here, this chapter is called, is titled "sad vidyā".

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते ॥ ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

21. Summary of Chapter 6 (Cont'd) and Chapter 7 Intro, 7.1.1. to 7.1.2

chāndogya - 6th chapter summary [contd]

In the last class we completed the 6th chapter of chāndogya upaniṣad which is known as "sad vidyā" prakaraṇam. And in the tradition, the sixth chapter is taken as a 'model chapter' in vedāntā, which is taken for arriving at the central teaching of vedāntā. While studying vedānta sāra - especially in the 5th chapter, the author sadhānandā took this 6th chapter alone for analysis, to find out the central theme. This analysis is important; because, the same upaniṣads are analysed by different ācāryās; and they have drawn different and even opposing messages. In advaita, we take the central teaching as jĩvātma paramātma aikyam.

But the very same upanisads are taken by Rāmānujācāryā and other visistādvaita followers, who strongly and vehemently argue that jīvātmā can be never be identical with paramātmā; and they claim that jīvātmā is a minute part of paramātmā. jīvātmā is of the size of the anu and paramātmā is all pervading vibhū. How can anu jīvātmā and vibhū paramātmā, [vibhũ means, 'all pervading'] paramātmā be ever equal? Therefore, they say, the teaching of vedāntā is that jīvātmā is an amśa of paramātmā; and therefore only, the jīvātmā has to depend on the paramātmā; and therefore, the aim of jīvātmā is to become the dāsā of the paramātmā. Therefore, what is liberation? 'Discovery of my dāsā status and by going to vaikuntha lokā and eternally serving bhagavān is liberation'. And this teaching is taken from where? The same ekā daśa upanişad. So advaitin says, "I am svāmī". viśistādvaitin says, "I am dāsah". And there is madhvācāryā and His followers. And they equally-vehemently argue that, jīvātmā is neither identical with paramātmā; nor, is it a part of paramātmā. The two are totally distinct entities. And they also say that, 'you can never hope to become one with paramātmā. Your aim should only be serving the LORD eternally, by going to vaikuntha loka, after death'. And they also extract this teaching from where? The same ekā daśa upanisad. The same brahma sũtra. And the same bhagavat gĩtā. The prasthāna trayam.

Therefore, even though the scriptures are considered to be sources of knowledge, when we are extracting the teaching, there is the intervention of the human intellect. You never receive the teaching without the intervention of the intellect. And when the teaching comes through the intellect, certainly there is the influence of that. Thus, different systems arise. Therefore, in the tradition, we try to observe certain rules, so that, we can explain the teaching with limited intellectual influence. How can we be as close to the teaching as possible? And for that only, we have the method of şaḍ lińga vicāraḥ, so that we can try to find out what is the intention of the upaniṣad. And for doing that enquiry, the model chapter we take is the sixth chapter.

And the şaḍ lińgās [6 indicators] we have seen in vedānta sārā. But since we have recently completed the 6th chapter, I think it is still hot in your mind! I think it is warm. Therefore, I will briefly mention the 6 indicators to extract the teaching. [उपक्रमोपसंहारौ अभ्यासोऽपूर्वता फलम् । अर्थवादोपपत्ती च लिंगं तात्पर्यनिर्णये] The first indicator is upakarama and upasaṃhāra. Observe the introduction & conclusion. Then you can know, 'what the intended message is'. And in the sixth chapter we find "sad eva somya idam agra āsīd ekameva advitīyam". advitīyam is the beginning [mantrā 6.2.1] and at the end of this sixth chapter also "aitadātmyamida šarvaṃ tatsatya ša ātmā TATTVAMASI śvetaketo". So, tat satyam means, that advaitam which was introduced in the beginning, that alone is satyam, the reality.

So, if advaitam is declared as satyam, what does it indicate? Keeping two people alongside, if I say "this person is intelligent", then, without so declaring, it will mean, 'the other person is so so'. That is why never praise one of the children in front of Swāmĩji. If you are praising, do so with all children; praise equally. So, here, the upaniṣad says "tat sad advaitam satyam" - indirectly saying, dvaitam is mithyā. Thus, the introduction and the conclusion [upakarama and upasamhāra of Chapter 6] reveal, advaita satyatvam and dvaita mithyātvam.

Then, the second clue that we see is, abhyāsa. Whichever idea is repeated several times from that only abhyāsa got the translation, "practise". Why? abhyāsa is translated as practise? In any practise, you will repeat the same thing, again and again. In the sixth chapter of chāndogya which one is repeated? "aitadātmyamida, sarvaṃ tatsatya, sa ātmā TATTVAMASI śvetaketo". 16 sections are there. There, 9 times TAT TVAM ASI is repeated. From that, it is very clear that, the upaniṣad wants to highlight only the jīvātma paramātma aikyam. This is the second clue. abhyāsa.

Then the third clue is apũrvatā. apũrvatā means, unique. The scriptures must teach us something which is not knowable through our own instruments of knowledge. Scriptures have to teach us something which is not knowable through our own instruments of knowledge. That which is inaccessible to pauruṣeya pramāṇam. pauruṣeya pramāṇam means, instruments that we have. Whatever cannot be known through *our instruments, the scriptures have to teach us.

Why? Very simple. If we can know something by science, by mathematics, by reasoning, by perception, if we can learn something, why should the scriptures waste their time teaching something known or knowable?! Therefore, scriptures become valid only when they teach something apũrvam. And, is advaitam is apũrvam or dvaitam is apũrvam? Scriptures need not teach dvaitam. Why? All that we see, experience is dvaitam. Why should scriptures say, "Rāmā is Rama. kṛṣṇā is kṛṣṇā. World is world. Chair is not you. You are not chair". To say each one is different from the other, you do not require the scriptures! And to declare that, "I am a dāsa", we do not require scriptures; because, already we know we are the dāsa! dāsa of whom? Of all the people - including our domestic help! In fact, they dictate the terms! When you want a new domestic help, you think you are going to interview; on the other hand, they interview to find whether you are fit! Therefore, I am the dāsa of the car driver; I am the dāsa of domestic help; I am the dāsa of auto rickshaw fellow. And therefore, dāsa bhāva need not be taught by prasthāna trayam.

So, what is unique to scriptures? "aham svāmi; brahma asmi" we have no way of knowing by any instrument. Even science proves that we are helpless creatures only. In fact, science is tending towards fatalism only; because, they teach, "the whole world is governed by a set of laws". When everything is governed by the laws, where is the question of freewill?! Even Einstein questioned the very freewill. Hence, when our freewill itself is in danger, where is the question of freedom, called mokşa or liberation?! No branch of science can tell me, "I am the substratum; I am the support of whole universe!" - no science can tell. Therefore, that is the unique topic taught by vedāntā, by TATTVAMASI. Thus, introduction & conclusion prove this. First clue. Repetition or abhyāsaḥ is the second clue. apũrvatā, [meaning, uniqueness] is the third clue. Fourth clue is phalam. phalam means, benefit. The teaching of the upaniṣad should give some practical benefits. Everybody will ask the question, "you are attending the classes, what benefit you get?" Because, one hour going to the class, one hour returning. One hour class. Minimum 3 hours are required. And time is scarce! And time is money!! So, everybody will ask, "what do you get out of it?" Thus, phalam is also a clue.

Incidentally, one point I have to tell. That this teaching is a unique teaching, not available for any other instrument of knowledge, is revealed in the sixth chapter, through the lavaṇa dṛṣṭānta. [If you remember lavaṇam, do you remember? If yes, then it is good]. The salt which cannot be experienced through the eyes and the skin - can be known only by the tongue. Similarly, what can not be known through pratyakṣa, aṇumānam, upamānam etc that can be known by what? [Tongue do not say! Tongue is relevant in the example]. Here, ṣāstram is the pramāṇam to reveal that. What type of ṣāstram? ṣāstram, supported by ācāryaḥ, which was given through gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭānta. Thus, lavaṇa dṛṣṭānta and gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭānta revealed the apũrvatā of advaitam brahma.

Then, what is the phalam, the 4th clue? That was also given in the gandhāra puruṣa dṛṣṭānta in the form of jĩvan muktiḥ and videha muktiḥ. The greatest benefit of this knowledge is, muktiḥ or freedom. Freedom of what? Not the body, body is never free from the influences of the world. Even the mind can never be totally free from the influences of the world. When you read a terrible news, certainly the mind is disturbed. Freedom at the level of the atma caitanyam. 'I', the caitanyam, am free from the influences of the world, the time and the space. deśa kāla vastubyaḥ; which is svatantraḥ. Thus, the fourth clue is what? There is benefit in advaitam. What is the benefit in dvaitam? In duality, the benefit is, punarapi jananam. That only! This is the fourth clue.

Then the fifth clue is arthavādaḥ. arthavādaḥ means, glorification of the teaching. Whichever is glorified, that has to be the message of the upaniṣad. advaitam is glorified or dvaitam is glorified? You find, dvaitam is strongly criticised in several upaniṣads. Whereas, advaita jñānam is glorified. How? eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam. By knowing this one, you have known everything, essentially. Essentially is very important. You have known everything, essentially. Thus, eka vijñānena sarva vijñānam is the fifth clue; called, arthavādaḥ.

And the sixth and final clue is upapattiḥ. upapattiḥ means, reasoning in support of the teaching. What is the reasoning given? kāraṇam alone can be satyam; kāryam can never be satyam. It has to be nāma rũpa mithyā only. This was shown through the example of gold and ornaments; clay and pot; iron and nail cutter; yathā ekena mṛtpiṇḍena sarvaṃ mṛnmayaṃ vijñāta syād. So, what is the reasoning? kāraṇam alone is satyam; kāryam has to be mithyā nāma rũpa only. Therefore, brahman alone has to be satyam! And how many kāraṇams are possible? The ultimate cause has to be only one. This is called reasoning. Thus, with the help of these six clues if we study the sixth chapter - which is the model chapter - and based on that you study all other upaniṣads also, it will be very clear that, THE TEACHING IS NOT DVAITAM, THE TEACHING IS NOT VIŚIṣṬĀDVAITAM, THE TEACHING IS ADVAITAM ONLY. Then, does it mean that we have to condemn and criticise and throw them away? śańkarācāryā says, 'we need not criticise dvaitam and viśiṣṭādvaitam. We will use them as stepping stones'. As somebody nicely said, 'deha buddhyātu dāsoham i jīva buddhyā tvadaṃśakaḥ I ātma buddhyā tvamevaaham iti me niścitā matiḥ II' - all three philosophies he has finished in just one ślokā.

'From the standpoint of the body, Oh Lord, I am your dāsa. I cannot claim all-pervasion. I do not even pervade the hall; so, where is the question of all-pervasion? From the standpoint of the physical body, I can never claim mastery. In fact, simple weather change disturbs the throat. What mastery we have?! Simple weather change, we start coughing. What freedom I have got from deha buddhi? Therefore, 'Oh Lord! Who am I? "tava dāsoham tava dāsoham tava dāsoham tava dāsoham dāśarathe" - there is beautiful a song in nāda-nāma kriyā [by Saint Tyagarājā].

Then, jĩva buddhyā tvadaṃśakaḥ - from the standpoint of cidābhāsa, I can never claim oneness with or identify with brahman, which is the cit itself. cidābhāsa has to depend on what? The cit! pratibimba caitanyam has to depend on bimba caitanyam. Therefore, cidābhāsa dṛṣṭyā, I am only one of the parts. Why one? Everyone of you have one one cidābhāsa. Not just one cidābhāsa. I am one of the cidābhāsa, depending upon you, the only cit. Every jĩva is one cidābhāsa, depending upon one brahman. Therefore, jĩva dṛṣṭyā, tvadaṃśakaḥ. Whereas, ātma dṛṣṭyā, tvam eva aham - from the standpoint of 'I' the sākṣi caitanyam, the bimba caitanyam, I am neither dāsaḥ nor amśaḥ. The bimba caitanyam cannot be a part of brahman; it is one with brahman. So, ātma dṛṣṭyā, bimba caitanya dṛṣṭyā, sākṣi dṛṣṭyā, tvam eva aham. iti me niścitā matiḥ.

Having known this, you can start from dāsa bhāva. In karma yogā, dāsa bhāva only. In fact śańkarācāryā himself, while talking about karma yogā says, svāmi bhṛtya nyayena, you have to claim you are a dāsaḥ. That is called triangular format. But, when you come to binary format, claim, 'I am neither the mithyā body; nor, am I the mithyā cidābhāsaḥ; but, I am citrũpa sākṣi! And therefore, we do not criticise dvaitam and viśiṣṭādvaitam. We say, 'they are stepping stones; they are not an end in themselves.' But, if a person says, 'I am not ready for advaitam'; we will say that, "come slowly, there is no hurry. But, one thing, both [dvaitam and viśiṣṭādvaitam] of them cannot give mokṣa. Only advaitam can give mokṣa. You can postpone; but, you cannot skip it". Thus, the sixth chapter is a model chapter. Now we will enter in to the seventh chapter.

Chāndogya upanişad

Commentary by Swami Paramarthananda

Sanatkumara

Narada

Seventh Chapter

Seventh Chapter

The 7th chapter is also dealing with brahma vidyā only, exactly like the 6th chapter. And in the 7th chapter brahman is called bhũmā. [In Sanskrit bhũmā is masculine gender; even though it ends in 'ā'. Normally, 'ā' is feminine, means lady. Here, it is masculine gender. nakārāntaḥ puṃlińgaḥ bhũman śabdaḥ. bhũmā, bhũmānau, bhũmānaḥ]. And the word bhũmā has two meanings. Both are going to be revealed in this chapter. The first meaning is, anantaḥ. The infinite one. deśa kāla vastu pariccheda śũnyaḥ. Free from the limitations of space, time and attributes. This is one meaning. And the second meaning of the word bhũmā is, ānandaḥ. First and second do you see the difference? First is anantaḥ [अनन्त:]. 'a' is short, and 'ta' is first 'ta'. Second meaning is ānandaḥ [आनन्द:], 'a' is long and 'da' is the third 'da'. In Tamil, everything is the same. But, in Sanskrit, it is third 'da'. ānanda means, what? sukham. And therefore, in the sixth chapter sadrũpam brahma has been talked about. In the 7th chapter, ananta - ānanda rũpam brahma is being talked about.

And here, the upaniṣad is going to point out that, "I am of the nature of ānanda". In the entire universe, there is no other source of ānanda! alpe, sukham nāsti. Very boldly it says. alpe means, what? In Tamil also they use [அல்பம், அல்பத்தனம்]. In any limited entity, sukham nāsti. So, what is the only source of ānanda? Remember the second capsule of vedāntā. "I am the only source of permanent peace, security and happiness!"

Thereafter, the upaniṣad also shows that, ātmānanda is never an object of experience. ātmānanda is never an object of experience. Why? Why it is not an object of experience? Because, it happens to be 'I', the subject; and therefore, you should never ask, "Swāmĩji, how can I experience ātmānanda?" This question one should not ask. If someone asks, I will bring a daṇḍa and hit on your head. Whether you get ānanda or not, you will get duḥkham! Never ask the question, "how to experience the bliss of ātmā; the bliss of brahman; or, eternal ānanda?". Eternal ānanda is never an object of experience. IT IS MYSELF. A very, very important lesson.

Then, the śāstrā will say, if at all you want to experience ānanda, if at all you want experience ānanda, you have to make a compromise. I have given the example before. If you want to experience your face, you can never experience your original face. I have said before. What a tragedy? You are all having beautiful face. [Let me say that!] But, you can never, never, never, never experience your own face! But, suppose, you are yearning to experience that, I can give you a compromise method. What is that method? Take a mirror and look. In the mirror, you do not experience your face; but, you can experience a reflected version, which is certainly not original. Which is temporarily available, as long as the medium is available! But, what you should remember is, whenever you are seeing a beautiful face in the mirror, you have to remember, that beautiful face does not belong to the mirror; but, 'it is my own'.

Similarly, if you want to enjoy ātmānanda, what should you do? If you want to enjoy ātmānanda, what should you do? Never work for enjoying original ātmānanda. Why? AFG. [the ignorant one!] You ARE THAT! Then, how to enjoy reflected ātmānanda? ātma pratibimbaānanda? It is by remembering - whenever you are enjoying anything in life, whenever you are enjoying anything in life, just remember that - the thing itself does not have the pleasure, just as the mirror itself does not have the face. Where did the face in the mirror come from? It came from you only! Similarly, when you eat a nice dish and when you are enjoying that, remember, that ānanda does not belong to the dish. Rather, "I am enjoying ātmānanda!"

Therefore, how does jñāni get ātmānanda? Do not think He will get a "special ānanda & it will come from somewhere", do not think. jñāni gets ātmānanda in two ways. One is, whenever he enjoys anything in life, brought by prārabdha, instead naming it as viṣaya ānanda, He renames it as ātmānanda. In Tamil, "σoi⁻joy". That is said in English, "enjoy". They themselves are teaching vedāntā! So, whenever you enjoy, name it as what? "σoi⁻joy", 'my reflection'! And, whenever the question of infinite ānanda comes, He does not look for its cause, outside. He claims that, "the original cause of the ānanda - for all the xerox versions - is my own self! Whether it is music ānanda, or even class ānanda [assuming that you are enjoying the class!] - whether it is class ānanda, or food ānanda, or grandchild ānanda. [I have to tell this, because most of the students who come to the class are grandmothers only! Youngsters are not coming. Hence, I am saying, grandchildren instead of, children!

vidyāraņyā, in his pañcadaśi, devotes the last five chapters to convey this idea only. And what does He convey? "You are enjoying ātmānanda all the time". vedāntic study is, to relook / re-orient viṣaya ānanda, as ātmānanda. And what type of ātmānanda? pratibimba ātmānanda. And not only to re-look every viṣaya ānanda as pratibimba ātmānanda; and also to understand that, if there is a reflection of the face in the mirror, what is the source of that! You should not look up and down. The face that is there is of the bimba [the original face] only. So, the proof for original face is what? Every reflected face is proof for that original face! Every time I enjoy anything, I should claim, "I am the original; and what I am enjoying is only my reflection!" Thus, ātmā is ānanda svarũpaḥ. And, ātmā is the only source of ānanda. There is no ānanda in any other thing.

One Swāmīji nicely says, 'whenever you buy any food stuff from a shop, that would have a list of ingredients. That list of ingredients, does it have 'happiness' as an ingredient? "Happiness 3% or 30% or 90%?" It is not there. If ānanda ingredient is 90%, all the people should get that! But, the very fact that no object in the creation has happiness as its ingredient, means, there is only source. What is that? "I AM THAT HAPPINESS". Do not work for experiencing this Original. Claim, "aham ānanda ātmā". This is going to be the beautiful topic of bhũma vidyā. With this background we will enter the section proper.

Seventh Chapter - Section 1

अधीहि भगव इति होपससाद सनत्कुमारं नारदस्त्ँ होवाच यद्वेत्थ तेन मोपसीद ततस्त ऊर्ध्वं वक्ष्यामीति स होवाच ॥ adhīhi bhagava iti hopasasāda sanatkumāram nāradasta voksta vadvettha tena mopasīda tatasta ūrdhvam vaksyāmīti sa hovāca 17.1.11

The 7th chapter is divided in to 26 khandās. Just as the 6th chapter had 16 khandās, the 7th chapter has 26 small khandās. In English, it can be translated as sections. 26 sections. And each section is divided in to mantrās. So, now, we are entering the 1st section and the upaniṣad introduces a guru and a śiṣhya and brahma vidyā is given in the form of guru śiṣhya saṃvādaḥ. And who is the guru here. sanatkumāraḥ. Later it will said, sanatkumāra is the avatāra of Lord Subrahmaņyā. That is how Subrahmaņyā has got one of the names, kumāraḥ. So, the upaniṣad itself says at the end, tam skanda iti āsakṣate - this sanatkumāra. That is why Lord Subrahmaṇyā is often visualised as jñāna guruḥ. They also say His Cவல் [spear] is jñāna Cவல். They say. So kumāraḥ, sanatkumārā is the guruḥ and the disciple is Nāradaḥ. And nāradā approaches sanatkumāra, properly. 'Properly' means, according to the śāstric rules. That is said here. nāradaḥ sanatkumāraṃ upasasāda.

And having approached Him, He addressed, "hey bhagava adhīhi" - 'oh bhagavān, oh lord, may you teach me, impart spiritual knowledge'. So adhīhi means, 'may you teach'. The sixth chapter is a dialogue between who and who? Hope you have not forgotten. uddālakā and śvetaketu, father and son. Here it is, Nārada - Sanatkumāra saṃvādaḥ. And what did Sanatkumārā say? He said, 'before I begin to teach you, I should know what is your present level'. Without knowing your level if I am going to teach you, either it may become too high or it may become too low also.

That is the problem in public teaching! guru always has a problem. If He goes a little bit high, some students may be say, 'it is too tough', and they will not come. Suppose He teaches the fundamentals all the time, some others will say, 'boring', and will not come. Therefore, it should not be too low also; not too high also. Both has to be mixed up; otherwise, students will have trouble. And that is why in the olden days, in gurukula sampradāya, the teacher used to measure and teach. But, in the public class, you do not know what the student has studied and not studied! I remember one person attending my Brahma Sũtra classes. After 15 or 20 classes, he asked, "Swāmīji you used the word 'sũkṣma śarĩram', what is the meaning of that?! Then, I asked him, "there is a book by name tattvabodham. Do you know about it?" He said, he does not know! He has started attending! What to do?! Suppose I start explaining 'sũkṣma śarĩram' in the next class, other students will get angry.

Therefore, here the teacher asks the question, 'hey Nārada, you tell me, 'what is your current level?' So, yadvettha - what do you already know? tena mā upasīda - with that knowledge you come to me. In the next session you should clearly tell me what all you know. And even now, there are some gurus, after teaching a class, in the next class, the first half session, the guru will test the student. 'You have to summarise what happened in the last class', and based on that the guru will raise questions also! And after making sure that the previous class is assimilated, then alone he will go to the next lesson. All that if I do, students will not come! Hence, we have to assume that the previous class is assimilated.

Here, guru says, 'come to the next session and tell me what all you know'. So, mā upasīda means, approach me. tena means, with information regarding what you already know. And what will I do? tataḥ - after assessing you very well, ta ūrdhvaṃ vakṣyāmi - I shall teach you the next higher lesson. If you have completed daśa upaniṣad thoroughly, I can teach Brahma Sũtra. If you have completed gĩtā thoroughly, I can teach upaniṣad. So, 'tell me where you stand?' iti. Then Nārada must have gone back; and he came the next day. And, sa ha uvāca. Nārada told sanatkumāra regarding His knowledge. He gave a list of the various sciences he already knows. And what is that list? In the next mantrā He says, [we might get afraid!!] –

ऋग्वेदं भगवोऽध्येमि यजुर्वेद ्ंसामवेदमाथर्वणं चतुर्थमितिहासपुराणं पञ्चमं वेदानां वेदं पित्र्य ्ंराशिं दैवं निधिं वाकोवाक्यमेकायनं देवविद्यां ब्रह्मविद्यां भूतविद्यां क्षत्रविद्यां नक्षत्रविद्या ्ंसर्पदेवजनविद्यामेतद्भगवोऽध्येमि ॥

rgvedam bhagavo'dhyemi yajurveda sāmavedamātharvaņam caturthamitihāsapurāņam pañcamam vedānām vedam pitrya rāśim daivam nidhim vākovākyamekāyanam devavidyām brahmavidyām bhūtavidyām kṣatravidyām nakṣatravidyā šarpadeva janavidyām etad bhagavo'dhyemi || 7.1.2||

He says, "I know only this much". What is that? You can see. rgvedam bhagavah adhyemi - oh lord, I have learnt rgvedam yajurveda sāmavedamātharvaņam. ātharvaņam means ātharvaņa veda. itihāsapurānam pañcamam - pañcama means, pañcama veda. itihāsa purānam is figuratively looked upon or termed as pañcama vedah. So itihāsa means, rāmānyaṇam and mahābhāratam; and purāṇam means, all the 18 purāṇams. Then, vedānām vedam. There are some people who wonder whether itihāsa purāṇam existed during chāndogya upaniṣad. If you look at the upaniṣad historically, we will have some problem. Because, in the upaniṣad itself, the word vāsudeva kṛṣṇā is there. vāsudeva kṛṣṇā is supposed to have come later in dvāpara yuga. The vedā is supposed to have existed before. How come the vedā talks about vāsudeva kṛṣṇā? If you study historically, you will have problem; and therefore, you should not get in to chronological enquiry. Do not get in to that. To avoid the problem, some people interpret itihāsa purāṇa as the stories occurring in the vedās themselves. If you take itihāsa as rāmānyaṇam and bhāratam, those came later?! question will come. To avoid the problem, itihāsa purāṇaṃ they take as various portions of the vedās themselves. Anyway, what we have to know is, Nārada knows all that.

Then, vedānām vedam. vedānām vedam is vedic grammar. vaidika vyākaraņam. There are two grammars, laukika vyākaraņam and vaidika vyākaraņam. It is a special grammar used for interpreting the vedās. That is called vedānām vedam. Then, pitrya, - pitryam. pitryam means, all the rituals associated with the forefathers. śrāddha kalpam. Then, daivam. daiva means, capacity to predict the future. So, based on various indications, like the meteor falling or the comet, meteor - based on that, the capacity to predict the future. Future prediction is called daivam. Then, nidhim - knowledge of various treasures, underground. That will be good! Where you get diamond, where you will get gold etc if you say, it will be good. vākovākyam - means, tarka śāstram. [All, peculiar words. From dictionary, we can never know. śańkarācāryā gives this commentary. How śańkarācāryā knew we do not know. Otherwise, without śańkara bāşyam, all these mantrās will be obscure mantrās]. vākovākyam tarka śāstram etc. Some more big list is there. Details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

22.Chapter 7.1.2 to 7.1.5, 7.2.1 and 7.2.2, 7.3.1

ऋग्वेदं भगवोऽध्येमि यजुर्वेद ्ंसामवेदमाथर्वणं चतुर्थमितिहासपुराणं पञ्चमं वेदानां वेदं पित्र्य ्ंराशिं दैवं निधिं वाकोवाक्यमेकायनं देवविद्यां ब्रह्मविद्यां भूतविद्यां क्षत्रविद्यां नक्षत्रविद्या ्ंसर्पदेवजनविद्यामेतद्भगवोऽध्येमि ॥

rgvedam bhagavo'dhyemi yajurveda sāmavedamātharvaņam caturthamitihāsapurāņam pañcamam vedānām vedam pitrya rāśim daivam nidhim vākovākyamekāyanam devavidyām brahmavidyām bhūtavidyām kṣatravidyām nakṣatravidyā sarpadeva janavidyām etad bhagavo'dhyemi || 7.1.2||

In this first section of the 7th chapter of chāndogya, known as, bhũma vidyā, the upaniṣad is introducing the guru and śiṣhya. guru being sanatkumāra and śiṣhya is nārada. And nārada approaches the guru, and asks for knowledge. And guru sanatkumāra says, 'first you give me an introduction about yourself, giving your intellectual qualifications, so that I can teach beyond what you already know.' And nārada is giving the list of various sciences He has already mastered. The list is a scary list. Such vast knowledge He has got! The essence of this mantrā is that, all the branches of science that He knows happen to be aparā vidyā. And from vedāntic angle, aparā vidyā is avidyā. aparā vidyā is classified as avidyā only. Because, aparā vidyā is dealing with anātmā. So, He has known a lot of anātmā. But, He does not have ātma vidyā. That is what the idea is. We were seeing the meaning of the various sciences.

vedānām vedam pitrya rāśim daivam nidhim. rāśih is ganita śāstram. That is mathematics. daivam is utpāta jñānam - knowledge of the future. The capacity to predict the future from various indirect indications is called utpāta jñānam, daivam. Then, nidhim the capacity to know what is under the ground, without digging. After digging we also know; but, without digging the capacity to know what is underneath. nidhi jñānam. vākovākyam is tarka śāstram. And ekāyanam is nīti śāstram or dharma śāstram. Then, devavidyām. śańkarācāryā comments as nirukta śāstram. nirukta śāstram is veda mantrās or veda padam's etymology. The knowledge of the derivation of the words occurring in the veda is called niruktam. That is called here devavidyā.

Then, brahmavidyām. Here, we should be careful. The word brahmavidyā should not be understood as the original brahma vidyā. If he already knows that he cannot be a student here. Therefore, śańkarācāryā says, brahma vidyā means, knowledge regarding various aspects of the vedās. So, here the word brahma means, veda. And what do you mean by 'various aspects of veda'? śańkarācāryā comments, śikṣā kalpam chandas etc. śikṣā means, the knowledge about the pronunciation of veda mantrās. So, if you remember taittirĩya upaniṣad śĩkṣāvallĩ, "śīkṣāṃ vyākhyāsyāmaḥ | varṇaḥ svaraḥ | mātrā balam | sāma santānaḥ | ityuktaḥ śīkṣādhyāyaḥ || 1|| How to pronounce each letter and also about the svara etc - that is called śikṣā, the phonetics. The science of pronunciation of veda mantrās. Then, kalpaḥ means, the knowledge of the various rituals mentioned in the veda; and, chandas means, knowledge regarding the meters, [the vedic meters like gāyatrĩ, uṣnik, anuṣṭubh, bṛhatĩ etc]. All these three will come under brahma vidyā. śikṣā, kalpam & chandaḥ.

Then the next one is bhūtavidyām. bhūta vidyā means, what? Not, Tamil 以g应 [ghost]. bhūta means, all the material sciences. Sciences like, physics, chemistry etc. is called here bhūta vidyā. So, in local vernacular language, like malayālam and all, physics is called bautika śāstram. Even now, physics is called bautika śāstram. If you study in a Convent, you will not know. Local medium students alone will know. Chemistry is called rasāyana śāstram. Mathematics is called ganita śāstram. So, bhūta vidyā is material sciences. Then, ksatravidyā. The science of warfare. How to send the missiles, various dhanur vidyā. ksatravidyā is dhanur vedah. Then, naksatravidyā. You can understand. The science of astronomy & astrology. Astronomy is called jyotis śāstram. Astrology is called jyotisa śāstram. Then, sarpa devajana vidyām. This is to be divided in to two. sarpa vidyā and deva jana vidyā. sarpa vidyā means, knowledge about various types of poisons and the methods of neutralising those poisons. They call it gāruda vidyā, means garuda mantram. By chanting those mantras, poison can be brought down. And here, sarpa refers to snake poison. By extension, all forms of poison and also the medicines for that is sarpa vidyā. Then devajana vidyā refers to all forms of fine arts. Like, dance music and varieties of musical instruments. How to play violin, veenā. Now, we can add piano also! All those will come under devajana vidyā. And, at last, nārada says, etad bhagavah adhyemi. I know all this only. GILLIG! All this only. Why? Because, no trpti. That He is going to express in the following mantrās. We will read.

सोऽहं भगवो मन्त्रविदेवास्मि नात्मविच्छ्रुत्ँ होव मे भगवदृशेभ्यस्तरति शोकमात्मविदिति सोऽहं भगवः शोचामि तं मा भगवाञ्छोकस्य पारं तारयत्विति त ऱ्होवाच यद्वै किञ्चैतदध्यगीष्ठा नामैवैतत् ॥ ७.१.३॥

so'haṃ bhagavo mantravidevāsmi nātmavicchruta ̈́ hyeva me bhagavaddṛśebhyastarati śokamātmaviditi so'haṃ bhagavaḥ śocāmi taṃ mā

bhagavāñchokasya pāram tārayatviti tač hovāca yadvai kiñcaitadadhyagīsthā nāmaivaitat || 7.1.3 ||

So, so'haṃ bhagavaḥ mantravidevāsmi. Here the word mantravid means, anātmavid. 'I know only the anātma prapañca. I do not know the ātmā, the reality!' And the knowledge of anātmā is called aparā vidyā in muṇḍaka upaniṣad. Therefore, mantravid = aparā vidyā vid eva aham asmi. Okay, so what? na ātmavid, I do not know ātma the ultimate reality. Okay. But, He knows so many other things! After all, only one He does not know. We have to split the nātmavid properly. na ātmavid - 'I do not have self knowledge'. And I have heard a very, very important saying from mahātmās like you'. And what is that? He says, chruta `hyeva me bhagavaddṛśebhyaḥ. The following statement we have heard from many mahātmās like you. What is the statement? He will tell that later. The following statement is heard from many mahātmās like you. bhagavad dṛśebhyaḥ means, great people like you. And what is that? A very often quoted statement. 'tarati śokamātmavid'. You can understand. ātmavid means, the knower of the self. śokam tarati - He alone will cross the ocean of sorrow. The knower of the self alone will cross the ocean of sorrow!

And what is my position? I know everything, except this. Therefore, I am a knowledgeable, sorrowful person. Others are there, they are illiterate, sorrowful people. I am an educated, sorrowful person. That is the only difference! And that is what we get in the first chapter of the Bhagavad Gĩtā also. Arjunā had everything, except this knowledge. And therefore, śokah. So ātmavid eva śokam tarati. iti śrutam. Now, what is my lot? so'ham bhagavah śocāmi. Clearly, He presents His condition. Oh Lord, my condition is, I am an aggrieved person. I have got several grievances in life. And if you ask for details, I can give you several discourses; but, I have not come here to talk about my grievances. Then, you will not have much time left to teach! That way many people get caught. They come for advice; they tell their story for one hour; take prasādam and go! But, nārada is very, very intelligent. He wants to keep His words minimum, so that sanatkumāra is allowed to talk. Therefore, he says, 'aham [nāradah] śocāmi'. I am an aggrieved person. What should you do? tam mā bhagavāñ chokasya pāram tārayatu. You can understand. Oh, bhagavān, sanatkumārah, your lordship should take me across the ocean of grief. śokasya pāram - to the other shore of grief; that is to the shore of anandah, tarayatu - may you take me across.

When this much was said sanatkumāra gives the answer. ta ` ha uvāca. Up to tārayatu is the word of nārada. Then, the upaniṣad comes and gives the report. ta ` ha uvāca is the statement of the upaniṣad. It is giving us the report. sanatkumāra h answered. And what is

His answer? yadvai kiñcaitad adhyagīṣṭhā - 'all the sciences that you know, they are nāma eva. yetat - they are all nothing but mere nāma. Words, words, words only. Okay. What does he mean by 'words'? You have to remember the sixth chapter. vācārambhaņaṃ vikāro nāmadheyaṃ mrtika iteva satyam. The whole creation is nothing but words, means what? It is non-substantial nāma rũpa. It is only mithyā. Therefore, you know all about the mithyā prapañca, which is in the form of nāma or words. So, adhyagīṣṭhā means, you know. [adhi + ĩ dhātu, second conjugation. adhyaiṣṭha or adhyagīṣṭhāḥ. ātmanepada luń madhyama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam. In between, by grammar rule, the letter gha comes]. adhyagīṣṭhā. And therefore what? Based on this, sanatkumāra is going to develop the teaching. Up to this is the introduction. Hereafter the teaching is going to begin.

नाम वा ऋग्वेदो यजुर्वेदः सामवेद आथर्वणश्चतुर्थ इतिहासपुराणः पञ्चमो वेदानां वेदः पित्र्यो राशिर्दैवो निधिर्वाको वाक्यमेकायनं देवविद्या ब्रह्मविद्या भूतविद्या क्षत्रविद्या नक्षत्रविद्या सर्पदेवजनविद्या नामैवैतन्नामोपास्स्वेति ॥

nāma vā rgvedo yajurvedah sāmaveda ātharvaņaścaturtha itihāsapurāņah pañcamo vedānām vedah pitryo rāśirdaivo nidhirvākovākyamekāyanam devavidyā brahmavidyā bhūtavidyā kṣatravidyā nakṣatravidyā sarpadevajanavidyā nāmaivaitannāmopāssveti || 7.1.4 ||

All the knowledge that you have is nothing but "words". It is a philosophical expression by saying that all of them are words! sanatkumāraḥ wants to say, they all are mithyā in nature. He wants to point out that, even though this nāma is mithyā, since it is associated with the entire universe, this nāma is infinite in nature. Because, nāma or a word or a name is associated with everything in the creation. nāma pervades what? The whole creation is pervaded by nāma or name. Why? Because, every object has got a nāma. Even the farthest star also is associated with a name, nāma. Therefore, first he says, nāma is infinite in nature. And since nāma is all-pervading, you can say that, nāma is brahman. nāma eva tat.

tat nāma upāssu. 'And therefore, as a preparation for my teaching, I am prescribing a upāsanā for you'. And what is that upāsanam? nāma brahma upāsanam. What do you mean by nāma brahma upāsanam? You take nāma as a symbol, as a pratīkam, which is the ālambanam for visualising brahman. It is known as pratīka upāsanam. Just as śivalińga is a pratīkam for śiva upāsanā. śālagrāma is a pratīkam for viṣṇu upāsanā, here, sanatkumāra prescribes nāma as a pratīkam for brahma upāsanā. Thus it becomes a preparatory sādhanā. And the development is going to be that, nārada will ask a question. "Is nāma really infinite?" Then, sanatkumāra will point out, "No. There is something slightly bigger than that!" Then, sanatkumāra will introduce next bigger one, which will be the second pratīka upāsanā. Thereafter, nārada will ask, "is it really the big one?" Then, sanatkumāra will say, "No. There is something slightly bigger!" Just as in taittirīya, the guru will say, 'annāmaya is ātma'; and thereafter, he will say, 'No, no. anyontara ātma prāņāmayaḥ'. Thus, the student is gradually taken from annam brahma, prāņo brahma etc. In taittirīya, only five stages we have got. But, in bhũma vidyā, we are going to get 15 pratīka upāsanās. Therefore, section number 1 to section number 15 we will get a gradually expanding list of pratīkam.

The first pratĩkam is nāma. nāma means what? Not the one vaiṣṇavās use. It is not that நπமம்! Here, nāma means, word. śabda brahma. And the 15th item is prāṇaḥ. So, nāmādi prāṇānta pañca daśa pratĩka upāsanāni. 15 pratĩka upāsanās, beginning from nāma ending with prāṇa. And the idea is, as a student travels from nāma to prāṇa, the mind will expand, and the mind will become subtle. So, manasaḥ sũkṣmatvam and manasaḥ vistāravatvam or viśālavatvam. Expansion & subtlety of the mind. And once we have crossed these 15 stages, later, sanatkumāra will talk about the real brahman. And what is that brahman? ānando brahmeti divyajānāt, that ānanda brahma is going to come. Therefore, the first pratĩka upāsanā is being introduced here.

sanatkumāraḥ says, 'r̪gvedaḥ yajurvedaḥ ... devajanavidyā', nārada gave a list earlier, guru is repeating that. All the sciences that you talk about are nothing but what? Various books in a college library! That is all. Look at the 5th line; that is important for us. Rest is all repetition only. nāmaivaitat - everything is just nāma. nāma is all pervading. 'nāma upāssva' iti - therefore, may you practise nāma brahma upāsanā. And this is the basis for our book-worship during sarasvatī pūjā day! During sarasvatī pūjā, what do we worship? The books. The books contain what? nāma. Not, Rāmā, Kṛṣṇā names! Here, the word nāma means, all the words. We call it what? śabda brahma. And therefore, nāma upāssva - may you practise nāma brahma upāsanā. Okay. Then what will happen? The phalam is given. Next mantrā.

स यो नाम ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावन्नाम्नो गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो नाम ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो नाम्नो भूय इति नाम्नो वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yo nāma brahmetyupāste yāvannāmno gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo nāma brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo nāmno bhūya iti nāmno vāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavān bravītviti || 7.1.5|| For each upāsanā, we have got two fold phalam, depending upon the type of upāsanā. And you can have two types of upāsanā. One is sakāma upāsanā and another is niskāma upāsanā. When a person practises sakāma upāsanā for material benefit, these are the benefits that he will get. It is enlisted. And if a person practises niskāma upāsanā, then the benefit is what? Mind will get all the qualifications required for bhuma vidyā. jñāna yogyatā prāptih niskāma upāsanā phalam. For sakāma upāsanā, the phalam is mentioned here. sa yo nāma brahma iti upāste - if a person practises that, then yathā kāmacāro bhavati he will get capacity to move about everywhere without any restriction. He will get sufficient punyam to go to all the lokas that he wants to go. A free visa for all the lokas! Which lokas? Where ever nāma extends, to all those places he can freely move. yathākāmacāro bhavati. Because, in all these upāsanās the main idea conveyed is pervasion. And because of that, he also gets the capacity to freely move all over. That is the phalam. But, for vedantic students, that is only secondary. So, 'yathākāmacāro bhavati yo nāma brahma iti upāste' - up to this is the words of sanatkumārah. Then, nārada asks, the question 'bhagavo nāmno bhūya' iti - Oh Lord, is there something which is vaster, more expansive than nāma? For that sanatkumāra answers, 'nāmno vāva bhūyah asti' iti - yes, there is something which is vaster, bigger. And for that nārada says, 'tanme bhagavān bravītu' iti - please tell me what is bigger than the nāma. So, with this, section one is over. And what is the essential teaching of this section? nāma brahma upāsanā - which is the first upāsanā. Now, we are going to enter the next higher upāsanā.

Seventh Chapter - Section 2

वाग्वाव नाम्नो भूयसी वाग्वा ऋग्वेदं विज्ञापयति यजुर्वेद ्सामवेदमाथर्वणं चतुर्थमितिहासपुराणं पञ्चमं वेदानां वेदं पित्र्य ्राशिं दैवं निधिं वाकोवाक्यमेकायनं देवविद्यां ब्रह्मविद्यां भूतविद्यां क्षत्रविद्या ्सर्पदेवजनविद्यां दिवं च पृथिवीं च वायुं चाकाशं चापश्च तेजश्च देवा ्श्च मनुष्या ्श्च पशू्र्श्च वया्ंसि च तृणवनस्पतीञ्श्वापदान्याकीटपतङ्गपिपीलकं धर्मं चाधर्मं च सत्यं चानृतं च साधु

चासाधु च हृदयज्ञं चाहृदयज्ञं च यद्वै वाङ्नाभविष्यन्न धर्मो नाधर्मो व्यज्ञापयिष्यन्न सत्यं नानृतं न साधु नासाधु न हृदयज्ञो नाहृदयज्ञो वागेवैतत्सर्वं विज्ञापयति वाचमुपास्स्वेति ॥

vāgvāva nāmno bhūyasī vāgvā rgvedam vijnāpayati yajurveda

sāmavedamātharvaņam caturthamitihāsapurāņam pañcamam vedānām vedam pitrya vrāśim daivam nidhim vāko- vākyamekāyanam devavidyām brahmavidyām bhūtavidyām kṣatravidyā varpadevajana vidyām divam ca prthivīm ca vāyum cākāśam cāpaśca tejaśca devā vsca manuṣyā vsca paśū vsca vayā varpadānyākī trṇavanaspatīñ vāpadānyākī tapatangapipīlakam dharmam cādharmam ca satyam cānrtam ca sādhu cāsādhu ca hr dayajñam cāhr dayajñam ca yadvai vānnābhaviṣyan na dharmo nādharmo vyajñāpayiṣyanna satyam nānr tam na sādhu nāsādhu na hr dayajño nāhr dayajño vāgevaitatsarvam vijnāpayati vācamupāssveti II 7.2.1

Here sanatkumāraḥ introduces the next superior one. The highest one is brahman. For that we are progressing, slowly. From 1st we are moving to 2nd. What is the 2nd superior thing? vāgvāva nāmno bhūyasī - vāg indriyam is superior to the words. vāg indriyam - the organ of speech - is superior to the words. What is the reason? [For every step we have got some kind of reasoning also given]. The reason here is, vāg indriyam is kāraṇam and vāg - the words - are the kāryam; because, vāg indriyam alone generates or produces words. And therefore, kāraṇam must be more pervading than kāryam.

Now, all of you are listening to this upaniṣad and you are all producing what? Notes. Therefore, you are yourself generating words. Imagine, each one of you starts taking classes. Then, you are generating what? Further words. Many of my students have written books. They have written more than me! Therefore, what I want to say is [I am not criticising or negatively saying anything] the vāg indriyam can produce words. And that means what? More books can be generated. And what is the cause for those words? vāg indriyam. Imagine, the human beings do not have vāg indriyam. What will be the life on earth, like? All schools are out. Colleges are out. Libraries out. Audio cassettes out. CDs out. In fact, a big bunch of things will disappear. Life has become vaster, of great value addition, because of one thing. What is that? The organ of speech. We are able to read the upaniṣads; we are able to read śańkarācāryā's commentary. They are all what? Written words are nothing but the symbol for the spoken word. I am hearing śańkarācāryā when I am reading His bāṣyam. Therefore, vāg indriyam is one of the fantastic faculties, unique to human beings.

And therefore, may you meditate upon vāg devĩ. That is why in our culture, sarasvatĩ is given such an importance! And therefore sanatkumāraḥ says, vāgvāva nāmnaḥ bhūyasī. vāva is emphasis. The organ of speech indeed is superior to even the words! And that is why if the words are destroyed, you can again produce those words!

And what is the reason for superiority of vāg indriyam? He gives the reason. vāgvā rgveda vijñāpayati. vāg indriyam alone reveals the rgveda yajurveda sāma veda etc. That list is given as in the first mantrā. We need to add all that again. I do not want to go to the details. kṣatravidyā šarpadevajana vidyām - all of them are revealed by the organ of speech. And guru adds a few more. See after, sarpadevajana vidyām. The list continues. He adds a few more. divam ca pṛthivīm ca vāyum ca ākāśam ca āpaśca tejaśca. We are able to talk about pañca bhũtās, we are able to talk about the various lokās, like the earth, heaven etc. All because of vāg indriyam.

devā šća manuşyā šća paśū šća vayā ši ca. And not only that. Upon the earth itself, upon these lokās themselves, manuşyā, devā, paśu - we are able to name each one of them! In birds how many categories are there?! The birds themselves do not study! Okay, the ornithologist, he studies and categorises. And in Vedanthāńgal, for us everything looks the same! But ornithologist says, "this is a new variety. What we know is 1,321 species only; the new one is something other than all of them", he will say! All this, how we are able to talk? vāg indriyam. Therefore, paśu - varieties of animals; devās; vayā ši - birds. Moreover, trņa vanaspatīń śvāpadāni ākīţa pataṅga pipīlakam. trņa means, grass. vanaspatī means, plants. śvāpadāny means, animals; kīţa - insects, pataṅga means, moth; and pipīlakam means, ant. All these things we are able to talk about! And for each one, we have got a separate branch of science. There are people who are studying; also doing research; getting fresh PhDs! Study about what? Cockroach! All this is possible due to what? We are able to write because of what? vāg. Work of vāg.

dharmaṃ cādharmaṃ ca satyaṃ cānṛtaṃ ca. And not only these things, there are some extraordinary things also, dharmaṃ cādharmaṃ ca. We are able to talk about dharma and adharma. satyaṃ cānṛtaṃ ca. [That is the problem!] Truthfulness and untruth. Even that vāg does. sādhu cāsādhu ca. And, sādhu asādhu - good and bad. [In my book, there is a dot after sādhu. Here the dot is extra. And in the previous page, in mantrā one, in top line, last word gata is there, it should be gatam. Take the dot from here and put it there! In gata, the dot is missing. In sādhu dot is extra!] So, sādhu ca asādhu ca. Then, hṛdayajñaṃ cāhṛdayajñaṃ ca. hṛdayajñaṃ means, pleasing to the heart. And ahṛdayajñaṃ - not pleasing to the heart. After every music program, dance program, there are critics, who evaluate. All this is done how? Again, vāg indriyam only. During the December season in all newspapers an extra supplement. 8 pages! On what? Each dance. Each music program. All this is done how? vāg indriyam.

Each one of this you have to connect to the first line. vāgevaitatsarvam vijnāpayati. vāg indriyam alone talks about all these things. Not only that. yadvai vag na abhavisyanna - in fact we do not think or meditate upon that possibility. If only we do not have the speech, the problem is huge. All the thinking, emotions, findings - all of them [what a particular scientist has discovered] he will never be able to pass on to the student! And so, everyone will have to learn everything, independently; because, you will not be able to transfer your experiences. You have to imagine this situation! It is a very, very interesting thing to imagine. The beauty of vedā is, many things that we do not imagine, veda focuses on them. If vāg indrivam were not there, what will happen? na dharmo nādharmo vyajñāpayişyan na satyam nānrtam na sādhu nāsādhu na hrdayajño nāhrdayajño - we will not be able to talk about any one of the above mentioned things. upanisad is repeating. na satyam na anṛtam na sādhu etc - all these things we will not be able to talk about at all. [na yajñāpayisyan - a peculiar verb, for Sanskrit students. vi+jña dhātu, causal and lrńg form]. ajñāpayisyat - one will not be able to communicate if the vag indrivam is not there. 'Therefore, narada, may you graduate from nāma brahma upāsanā to vāg brahma upāsanā!' Then what will happen? phala śruti is given.

स यो वाचं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावद्वाचो गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो वाचं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो वाचो भूय इति वाचो वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥ ७.२.२॥

sa yo vācam brahmetyupāste yāvadvāco gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo vācam brah-mety upāste'sti bhagavo vāco bhūya iti vāco vāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavānbravītviti 11 7.2.211

The phala śruti mantrā in every section is very, very similar. It says, if it is a sakāma upāsanā, then as a result of this upāsanā, the upāsakā is able to move about all over; which is of a vaster area; because, vāg indriyam is more expansive than nāma. If it is niṣkāma upāsanā, [that is not said here we have to supply] then we will be ready for the third upāsanā. nārada is not interested in sakāma upāsanā, He is interested only in ātma jñānam. Therefore, He asks sanatkumāra, 'is there something which is greater than the vāg indriyam?' And sanatkumāra says, 'certainly, there is something greater'. Then nārada asks, 'what is that?' sanatkumāra replies in the next section. Two sections over. Two upāsanās over. Now we are entering the 3rd section and the 3rd upāsanā.

Seventh Chapter - Section 3

मनो वाव वाचो भूयो यथा वै द्वे वामलके द्वे वा कोले द्वौ वाक्षौ मुष्टिरनुभवत्येवं वाचं च नाम च मनोऽनुभवति स यदा मनसा मनस्यति मन्त्रानधीयीयेत्यथाधीते कर्माणि कुर्वीयेत्यथ कुरुते पुत्रा ्श्च पशू ्र्श्चेच्छेयेत्यथेच्छत इमं च लोकममुं चेच्छेयेत्यथेच्छते मनो ह्यात्मा मनो हि लोको मनो हि ब्रह्म मन उपास्स्वेति ॥ 7.3.1 ॥

mano vāva vāco bhūyo yathā vai dve vāmalake dve vā kole dvau vākṣau muṣṭiranubhavaty evaṃ vācaṃ ca nāma ca mano'nubhavati sa yadā manasā manasyati mantrānadhīyīyetyath- ādhīte karmāṇi kurvīyetyatha kurute putrā šca paśū šceccheyetyathecchata imaṃ ca loka-mamuṃ ceccheyetyathecchate mano hyātmā mano hi loko mano hi brahma mana upāssveti N

You can understand. The next one superior to vāg indriyam is, the mind. Because, mind alone controls the vāg indriyam; and mind alone desires to speak something. And when the mind desires, then alone the vāg indriyam speaks or generates words. Therefore, vāg indriyam is within the control of the mind or the desire of the mind. Therefore, mind is vaster than both nāma and vāg. So, he says, mano vāva vācaḥ bhūyaḥ - mind is bhūyaḥ [vaster / superior]. More expansive than both nāma and vāg indriyam. What is the reason? Because, both of them are within the mental concept only. All the words that have come out have existed within the mind only. In fact, the mind has got more words; and of the words within the mind, I am only expressing some of the words. Therefore, the mind has got a greater range. So, the upanişad says, the mind contains within itself both nāma and vāk. The mind contains within itself both nāma and vāk. For that, an example is given. It is like two fruits being kept within the hand. Hand or palm is compared to the mind. Inside the palm you can keep two berries/fruits. Similarly, within the mind, vāk and nāma are contained. For that, a few examples are given. Which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

23. Chapter 7.3.1 and 7.3.2, 7.4.1 and 7.4.2

मनो वाव वाचो भूयो यथा वै द्वे वामलके द्वे वा कोले द्वौ वाक्षौ मुष्टिरनुभवत्येवं वाचं च नाम च मनोऽनुभवति स यदा मनसा मनस्यति मन्त्रानधीयीयेत्यथाधीते कर्माणि कुर्वीयेत्यथ कुरुते पुत्रा ्श्च पशू ्र्श्चेच्छेयेत्यथेच्छत इमं च लोकममुं चेच्छेयेत्यथेच्छते मनो ह्यात्मा मनो हि लोको मनो हि ब्रह्म मन उपास्स्वेति ॥ 7.3.1 ॥

mano vāva vāco bhūyo yathā vai dve vāmalake dve vā kole dvau vākṣau muṣṭiranubhavaty evaṃ vācaṃ ca nāma ca mano'nubhavati sa yadā manasā manasyati mantrānadhīyīyetyath- ādhīte karmāṇi kurvīyetyatha kurute putrā šca paśū šceccheyetyathecchata imaṃ ca loka-mamuṃ ceccheyetyathecchate mano hyātmā mano hi loko mano hi brahma mana upāssveti N

In this 7th chapter of chāndogya upaniṣad, titled "bhũma vidyā", the student nārada approached sanatkumāra and asked for ātma vidyā. He pointed out that, 'I have got a lot of knowledge; but, they all happen to be anātma vidyā or aparā vidyā only; and they are not able to take me out of saṃsārā or śokaḥ; and I have heard that, 'only ātma vidyā - the knowledge of the infinite, can take a person across the ocean of saṃsārā or sorrow'. Therefore, he asked for ātma vidyā.

Here the word the ātmā should be understood as bhũmā, the infinite one. The word ātmā has several meanings. One of the meanings of the word ātmā is 'sarvam āpnoti vyāpnoti iti ātmā'. The infinite one. And the infinite is known by another name also; that is bhũma. Thus, nārada asks for ātma vidyā; otherwise called, bhũma vidyā; otherwise called, brahma vidyā. All these three words are synonymous. ātma = bhũma = brahma. All the three mean, 'the infinite one'.

And nārada asked for it; and sanatkumāra, the teacher, has decided to teach brahma vidyā to nārada. But, sanatkumāra feels that nārada has 'to be prepared for this knowledge, through a series of upāsanās, known as pratīka upāsanāni. And therefore, the actual brahma vidyā will come, very much later only; in the 24th or 25th section only it will come. In the first 15 sections, sanatkumāra teaches 15 pratīka upāsanāni; and by the word pratīkam, we mean 'any object which can serve as a symbol. And taking that pratīkam, the symbol, sanatkumāra suggests the superimposition or visualisation of the infinite, upon the finite pratīkam. So, 'paricchinne pratīke aparicchinasya brahmanaḥ dṛṣṭiḥ'; or, darśanam. This is the subject matter. And of the 15 pratïkams, we have already seen two, in section one & section two. The first pratïkam is nāma. nāma, meaning, 'the word'. And 'the word' has been chosen as the first pratïkam; because of two reasons. One is, 'word' is all pervading; since every object is associated with a word, which is its name. Even the farthest star has the name, 'a star'. Therefore, first reason is, nāma - the word - is all-pervading; almost all-pervading, like brahman. Therefore, nāma can serve as a symbol. So, here the word 'nāma' should be understood as, 'a word', in general. Every padārtham is associated with a padam. What is the proof? That is why it is called padārtham! Every padārtham is called a padārtham; because, it is padasya arthah! It is an object referred to by a padam. Therefore, every padārtham has got pada sambandha; and therefore, padam is 'as though' brahman. Hence, 'may you meditate brahman upon nāma'. And what is that upāsanā called? nāma brahma upāsanā.

And there is a second reason also for choosing nāma as the pratīkam. Because, nārada has studied several śāstrams by heart. That is one of the practices in our tradition. Even though that tradition is fast dying, it is still alive. What is that? Learning many ślokās, by heart. Getting by heart is unique to India; that too, to South India! There also, unique to Keralā. In Kerala, they have got a game called akṣara ślokā game; and in that game, one person has to chant a ślokā. 'śuklāmbharataram viṣṇuṃ śaśivarṇaṃ caturbhujam prasannavadanam dhyāyet sarva vighnopaśāntaye' - suppose I start the game, you have take the first letter of the third quarter. What is the third quarter? prasannavadanam dhyāyet is third quarter. What is the first letter? pra. Now, the other person has to chant a ślokā beginning with pra. And in advanced games, you have to chant a ślokā exactly beginning with pra. But, if you are beginner, some concession is given. If pra is not possible, pa, pi, pu - any nearby letter he can begin. But, if you are advanced, then you do not have even that concession; and also, you will not have much time. You cannot look in to the books or switch on the computer and recite! As even the first person completes the ślokā, the second person has to start the chanting! And then, the next person will have to take over. Like that, they have the game. And even now, at the state level, they have got aksara ślokā competition. And at the state level, they give prizes also. I do not see that anywhere. In TV they do it for cinema music. Why do not they do it for ślokā? For Cinema music, they are doing. What I want to say is, if I have to win that game, I should know 100s and 1000s of ślokās, by heart! And not only that. As even I hear the chanting, my brain should search the entire ślokā list and pick up the appropriate ślokā. That means what? In the traditional brain 100s and 1000s of ślokās are there.

All ślokās consist of what? nāma. And therefore, nārada's mind also is full of what? nāmā o nāma. Therefore, let the first upāsanā be 'nāma brahma upāsanā'. In the second section, sanatkumāraḥ introduced the next pratīkam, which is still more extensive, compared to the nāma. And what is more extensive? 'vāk brahma upāsanam'. vāk meaning, 'the organ of speech'. And what is the relationship between the organ of speech and a word or nāma? The relationship is, speech is kāraṇam and words are kāryam. Is not it correct? One hour if I am going on uttering words, my speech organ is the kāraṇam; and it goes on producing what? kāryam after kāryam. Word after word I am producing. And therefore, nāma is kāryam. vāg indriyam is kāraṇam. kārya kāraṇayoḥ madye, which is more extensive? Between kāryam and kāraṇam, kāraṇam is more extensive! Just as clay is more extensive than pot. Wood is more extensive than furniture. Water is more extensive than wave. kāraṇam is more extensive than kāryam. In fact, one part of kāraṇam, when it is associated with a particular nāma rũpa, that part alone is called, a kāryam. kāraṇaya eka śeṣaḥ - one part alone - is kāryam.

And therefore, sanatkumāra said that, 'after practising nāma brahma upāsanā for some time, may you graduate to vāk brahma upāsanā. Once you have practised vāk brahma upāsanā for some time, you can go to something else, which is more extensive. You have to remember the word bhūmā. bhūmā means, 'more and more extensive'; and in section 3, which I introduced in the last class [I have not forgotten. In section 3, which I introduced in the last class [I have not forgotten. In section 3, which I introduced in the word bhūmā in to the third pratĩkam called manaḥ. What is the meaning of the word manaḥ? Generally, we say, 'mind'.

But, śańkarācāryā gives a special meaning. Here, the word manaḥ means, manasyanam. manaḥ = manasyanam. manasyati is a verb. Abstract noun of that is manasyanam. And manasyanam means, intention. manasyanam = intention, in Sanskrit. śańkarācāryā translates it as vivakṣā buddhiḥ. Why do we say so? If the organ of speech is able to utter certain words, the speech organ cannot utter by itself. If the speech organ goes on uttering something or the other, it will not be called speech. it will be called blabbering. If the speech organ is uttering a word, it is because, 'my mind has got an intention to communicate certain ideas', and that intention alone comes out in the form of words; because, ideas are converted into language, and language is in the form of words. And only when the intentional mind operates or persuades the organ of speech, the speech organ utters the word. Therefore, the speech organ is capable of talking because of what? manasyana śakti or the mind endowed with manasyana śakti. In English, I will translate it as intention. What is the relationship between speech and intention? The relationship is kārya kāraṇa sambandhaḥ. What is kāryam, and what is kāraṇam? Speech is kāryam or kāraṇam? Intention is kāryam or kāraṇam? What will you say? Intention is the kāraṇam; and because of that alone, speech comes out. Thus, manah being the kāraṇam, it is must be more bhũmā; means, more extensive. Therefore, sanatkumārah says, 'may you practise mano brahma upāsanā'.

If you take these three - which three? nāma, vāk and manah - nāma is kāryam, vāk is kāranam; vāk is kāryam, manah is kāranam. You know kāryam is enclosed within the kāranam. Therefore, nāma is included in vāk. Why? kāryam is included in the kāranam. And so, vāk is included in what? manah. Therefore, ultimately, nāma and vāk - both of them are included in manah, the kāranam. The son and the father are included in the grandfather! And the upaniṣad is giving an example. Just as within your hand you can keep two small fruits. Not papaya; either, two nellikkais or two grapes. Just as within the hand two small fruits can be contained or enclosed, similarly, within the mind, both nāma & vāk can be contained. Highly imaginative portion. All the 18 sections are high imagination, high poetry & high appreciation of the creation! It has to be enjoyed, as it is. Whether we practise the upāsanā or not, these are beautiful portions, for simple enjoyment. I am enjoying, hoping that you are enjoying also.

mano vāva vāco bhūyo. Mind is more expansive, extensive than the vāk; and within the mind both nāma and vāk are included. Like what? The three examples. yathā vai dve vā āmalake - you can understand. āmalaka is the நெல்லிக்காய். dve vā kole - kole is of another type of small fruit. We will translate as it kola fruit. Two kola fruits. So, two kola. Here two kola is not coca colā or pepsi colā! It is not English colā; but, Sanskrit kola. [akārāntaḥ strĩlińgaḥ - kola, kole]. kola means, an animal also. Very beautiful. So dve vā kole or dvau vā akṣau also is the name of another two small fruits. So, just as these pairs of fruits are contained within the hand, similarly, the nāma fruit and vāk fruit can be contained within what? The mind. We know the general law. What is that? The container is more pervading than the content. Is not it? Therefore, manaḥ is more extensive. Not only the mind is more extensive, the mind is more powerful also. What type of mind? The mind which is capable of intention. Intention powered mind. What are the different intentions possible?

sa yadā manasā manasyati. When a person intents to do the following activities he can accomplish it. What are they? mantrānadhīyīya iti - let me learn to chant the veda mantrās. atha ādhīte - the intention is later implemented and he is able to learn the vedās. If you are learning the chāndogya upaniṣad before coming to the classes in your mind what should be there? The intention to come to the class. Without intention you cannot come. Therefore, chāndogya upaniṣad knowledge is a result of what? Intention. Similarly, karmāņi kurvīya - let me accomplish these activities. The intention comes first. Later they are realised. putrā ` śca paśū ` śceccheyety - here, iccheya means, prāpnuyām. [iccheyam -

'iş' dhātu, ātmanepada, vidhiliń, uttama puruṣaḥ, eka vacanam]. Here the word iccha refers to accomplishment, attainment. So, iccheya means, "let me" get children and also animals. Animals means, pets. So, a person wants to, they say, 'I want to start a family'; 'raise a family', they say. Thus, first, the intention is required, to get married, to get children. Similarly, getting animals, that is different. Getting children is different; getting animals is, buying pets etc. Again it starts with what? Intention. And that alone gets converted in to reality. So, atha icchate. Means, prāpnoti. A person fulfills his intention.

And, imam ca lokamamum iccheyety - 'let me attain the bhũlokā itself in the next janma; or, let me attain svarga lokā in the next janma'. That is also what? An intention only. Thus, because of the mental intention or the intentional mind, a person is able to accomplish everything. That is why there is a beautiful proverb. I have told you before. "WATCH YOUR THOUGHTS, THEY BECOME WORDS; WATCH YOUR WORDS, THEY BECOME ACTIONS; WATCH YOUR ACTIONS, THEY BECOME YOUR HABIT, WATCH YOUR HABITS, THEY BECOME YOUR CHARACTER; WATCH YOUR CHARACTER, THAT BECOMES YOUR FUTURE!" What is the beginning for all this? Your thought! Therefore, manasyanam, or, intention is very extensive and very powerful. So, remember, when you are living in a house that you have built, the solid house is nothing but your own intangible thoughts, which have crystalised in the form of the house. That house existed a few years before in the form of intention. Thus, intention pervades where? Everywhere! All these walls are also what? The intention of somebody. Therefore, WHAT IS THE WHOLE CREATION? INTENTION CRYSTALISED IS THE CREATION!

And therefore, he says, mano hyātmā - the mind alone is the ātma. Here, ātma means, the kartā, the subject. Because, with the help of the mind alone, I play the role of a kartā. So, it is the mind that gives me kartṛtvam. What is the proof? In sleep, when the mind is resolved, I do not have kartṛtvam. In waking, when the mind becomes active, I become a kartā. Therefore, the mind alone is the kartā jĩvātmā. And therefore, mano hi lokah [highly imaginative]. The kartā alone - through various actions - accomplishes the various lokās, like svarga loka, bhũ loka, bhuvar loka, mahar loka etc. They are all accomplished by whom? The kartā. [Highly imaginative].

"Why did bhagavān create the world?" This is an often asked question. Why cannot bhagavān have kept quiet? Why did bhagavān create the world? The only purpose of creation is, bhagavān wants to give karma phalam to jĩva. bhagavān creates the world; because, He wants to give sukha duḥkha phalam to the jĩva. And, who is the jĩva? The bhoktā. And how did the bhoktā come in to being? Because, he was a kartā. So, since kartā is there, bhoktā comes. Since bhoktā is there, bhogya prapañca comes. Therefore, ultimately, the kartā alone is responsible for the arrival of the bhogya loka^h. And, how do I become karta? Because of the mind. Therefore, because of the mind alone I am the karta. And, because I am kartā, I become a bhoktā. And, because I am a bhoktā, a bhogya loka is required. Thus, the MIND ALONE IS ULTIMATELY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE 14 LOKAS. Can you see the stretch of imagination? Mind alone is ultimately responsible for the arrival of all the 14 lokās. Do you understand the journey? From mind to kartā; from kartā to bhoktā; from bhoktā to bhogya lokāh! Therefore, sanatkumāra says, mano hi lokah. MIND ALONE IS IN THE FORM OF, RESPONSIBLE FOR, THE LOKAS; AND THEREFORE, MANO HI BRAHMA. The mind extends to all the 14 lokās; because, intention alone has crystalised in to the 14 lokās. Therefore, mind is how extensive? As extensive as the 14 lokas. Therefore, mano hi brahma. Mind can be visualised as brahman. 'mano hi brahma mana upāssva' iti - therefore nārada, mano brahma upāssva. This is the third pratīka upāsanam. How many we have to see? 15. I hope you will have the patience. 15 upāsanams we have to see. So, mana upāssva. sanatkumāra says, may you practise mana upāsanam, which means mano brahma upāsanam. Okay, if I do that what will I get?

स यो मनो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावन्मनसो गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो मनो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो मनसो भूय इति मनसो वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥ 7.3.2॥

sa yo mano brahmetyupāste yāvanmanaso gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo mano brahmety upāste'sti bhagavo manaso bhūya iti manaso vāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavān bravītv iti II

So, every section ends with the upāsanā phalam and the upāsanā phalam is similar in all the sections. And what is the upāsanā phalam? The upāsakā gets a free access and the capacity go through any place. And what is the extent of this access? As extensive as the upāsanā pratīkam. Thus, if you do nāma upāsanā, the access is up to a particular limit. If it is vāg upāsanam, it will be more extensive. mana upāsanam, still more extensive. Depending upon the extent of the pratīkam, the upāsakā will get a vaster access. This is the general idea. And at the end of the phala śruti, nārada asks the question, 'is there something more extensive?' sanatkumāra has come well prepared; and therefore he says, 'I am waiting for you ask! I have the answer." What is the answer?

Seventh Chapter - Section 4

सङ्कल्पो वाव मनसो भूयान्यदा वै सङ्कल्पयतेऽथ मनस्यत्यथ वाचमीरयति तामु नाम्नीरयति नाम्नि मन्त्रा एकं भवन्ति मन्त्रेषु कर्माणि ॥ saṅkalpo vāva manaso bhūyānyadā vai saṅkalpayate'tha manasyatyatha vācamīrayati tāmu nāmnīrayati nāmni mantrā ekaṃ bhavanti mantreṣu karmāṇi || 7.4.1||

sanatkumāra says, sańkalpaḥ vāva manaso bhūyān - the next extensive principle which is going to serve as the pratĩkam, symbol for brahman, is sańkalpaḥ. What is sańkalpaḥ? śańkarācāryā gives a special contextual meaning for the word sańkalpaḥ. That contextual meaning is, "the power of classification of the activity into proper and improper". The classification power of the mind. Or the mind, with this classification power. And what type of classification? With regard to the propriety of various words and various actions. Especially, with regard to the words. So, 'kartavya akartavya viṣaya vibhāga samarthanam', is śańkarācāryā's definition of sańkalpaḥ. 'kartavya akartavya viṣaya vibhāga samarthanam'. It is very long.

So 'viṣaya vibhāgana samarthanam' means what? Classification and fixing. What? The two viṣayās. These two factors. And what are those two? 'kartavyam & akartavyam. The 'words' which can be uttered. Which words are proper and which words I should not utter. Even government has got certain rules. If you scold someone, the SC/ST group, if you use certain special words, like paraya word, if those words are used, government can arrest you.

Thus, 'vaktavya avaktavya viṣaya vibhāgam'. vibhāgam means, classification. samarthanam [contemplation / deliberation]. And after classification - based on what? Propriety. It is called propriety classification. What is the meaning of the word 'propriety'? What is proper, what is improper, mind has to classify that first. And once the classification has been done, then the mind develops what? The intention. What intention? After classification, the intention is generated to use which word? The appropriate word. Only after classification, intention will come, do you understand? Once the mind knows that this word should not be used, then I will not have the intention to use the word. Therefore, I will not speak out. But, once I know this word is appropriate, then in the mind the manasyanam vivakṣā buddhi comes. Thereafter speech, thereafter nāma. Classification > intention > speech > word. Word is born out of speech. Speech is born out of intention. Intention is born out of the classification, which is sańkalpaḥ. san refers to samyak, kalpaḥ means, kalpanam. samyak kalpanam, sańkalpaḥ.

So, sanatkumāra says, sańkalpa śakti - classification power, is bhūyān, is more extensive than manaḥ, the intention. What is the logic? Because, intention is the kāryam; classification is the kāraṇam. And, kāraṇam is more extensive than the kāryam. Therefore he says, yadā vai sańkalpayate - once the mind has thought of the propriety [that is why when certain words come to the tip of the tongue and we are about to use that word, then what we do? We quietly swallow it. Because, the classification tells, 'do not say this, you will lose your teeth! The other person is stronger']. That is what is called classification. So, yadā vai sańkalpayate, once the classification is done, atha manasyati - then, the intention comes. And, atha vācamīrayati - based on intention, speech. tāmu nāmni īrayati - and the speech is with regard to the various nāmās. tāmu has to be split as tām. tām refers to speech; nāmnīḥ is viṣya saptamĩ. Speech is always with regard to varieties of words; because, the organ of speech can function only in the field of words.

As a result of that, what are born? nāmni mantrā - from the words are born all the vaidika mantrāh. Because, what are mantrās? Nothing, but 'words'! So, nāmni mantrāḥ ekaṃ bhavanti. Means, mantrās are included in words. Here, the mantrā, is an extension of nāma only; because, mantrās are a part of the words. In the possibility of infinite words, mantrās are a portion of those words. Therefore, mantrās are included in words; word is included in speech; speech is included in intention; which is included in classification.

Okay, from mantrās what are born? Just an aside extension. mantreşu karmāņi - from the mantrās alone we come to know of vaidika karmās. mantreşu karmāņi - all the vaidika karmās, ritualistic activities, like sandhyāvandanam are born out of what? veda mantrās. So, karmās are the kāryam. veda mantrās are the kāraṇam. Now, you trace. karmās are included in the mantrās; mantrās are included in the nāma; nāma is included in vāk; vāk is included in manaḥ; manaḥ is included in sańkalpa. Like, the olden times adukkuppoņi. One vessel it will fit in to another; inside that another one; inside that another one. Same way, you have to have sańkalpaḥ, inside that manaḥ, etc. That is what is said. nāmni mantrāḥ ekaṃ bhavanti. ekam bhavanti means, they are included. mantreṣu karmāṇi ekaṃ bhavanti - and therefore, all the vaidika karmās are nothing but the 'classification power of the mind'. Therefore, what do you do? That is going to be said here.

तानि ह वा एतानि सङ्कल्पैकायनानि सङ्कल्पात्मकानि सङ्कल्पे प्रतिष्ठितानि समकॢपतां द्यावापृथिवी समकल्पेतां वायुश्चाकाशं च समकल्पन्तापश्च तेजश्च तेषा्ँकॢप्त्यै वर्ष्ंसङ्कल्पते वर्षस्य सङ्कॢप्त्या अन्न्ँ सङ्कल्पतेऽन्नस्य सं कॢप्त्यै प्राणाः सङ्कल्पन्ते प्राणाना्ँ सं कॢप्त्यै मन्त्राः सङ्कल्पन्ते मन्त्राणा्ँ सं कॢप्त्यै कर्माणि सङ्कल्पन्ते कर्मणां सङ्कूप्त्यै लोकः सङ्कल्पते लोकस्य सं क्रुप्त्यै सर्व[्] सङ्कल्पते स एष सङ्कल्पः सङ्कल्पमुपास्स्वेति ॥

tāni ha vā etāni saṅkalpaikāyanāni saṅkalpātmakāni saṅkalpe pratiṣṭhitāni samaklpatām dyāvāpṛthivī samakalpetām vāyuścākāśam ca samakalpantāpaśca tejaśca teṣā saṃ klptyai varṣa saṅkalpate varṣasya saṅklptyā anna saṅkalpate'nnasya saṃ klptyai prāṇāḥ saṅkalpante prāṇānā saṃ klptyai mantrāḥ saṅkalpante mantrāṇā saṃ klptyai karmāṇi saṅkalpante karmaṇāṃ saṅklptyai lokaḥ saṅkalpate lokasya saṃ klptyai sarva saṅkalpate sa eṣa saṅkalpaḥ saṅkalpam upāssveti || 7.4.2 ||

So, from this we come to know that in the kārya-kāraņā chain, we have got sańkalpa as the top kāraṇam. And everything else is a kāryam, a product; and, therefore the upaniṣad says, sańkalpā is the sṛṣṭi, sthiti, laya kāraṇam of all the later kāryams. Later kāryams means, you should remember, sańkalpa to manaḥ to vāk to nāma to mantrā to karmāṇi. Thus, all those later paramparā is born out of sańkalpa. Therefore, he says, tāni ha vā etāni - all these members of the chain, the lineage, saṅkalpa ekāyanāni - they all resolve into sańkalpa at the time of pralayam. ayanam means, the 'resolution ground'. So, saṅkalpa ekāyanāni means, sańkalpa is the 'resolution ground' for all the later products. What is the logic? Because, kāraṇam alone is the 'resolution ground', in which, all the kāryams will resolve.

And not only laya kāraņam; sańkalpātmakāni - all of them have got the sańkalpā as the sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. So, sańkalpā is the Origin also; the Source also. Because, only after classification, intention comes. When you decide to buy a house, first what should we do? Based on our financial status, that is the classification! Within Madras city if you see, it will be a few crores! So, where to go?! So, the mind has to classify the propriety & non-propriety. Thereafter, either in Pallavaram or in Maraimali Nagar - மறைமலை நகர் - [we look]; then, there is an intention.

Maraimali மறைமலை means, veda giriḥ, marai [மறை] means vedam, that which is a hidden teaching. [I am digressing!]; malai [மலை] means, giri; so, Maraimali Nagar means, veda giri purī! It only shows vedā was pervading all-over. All that is extinct [மறை] now! That is why 'marai' malai nagar! Anyway, after classification, there is intention. Thereafter only, he tells various people, "I have to construct a house here", like that. And after 15 years, by raising loans all over, and pledging everything & all, then you have got a 300 sq.ft house, which is the crystallised version of what? sańkalpaḥ. Who says? sanatkumāra is telling.

saṅkalpātmakāni - sańkalpa is the source. saṅkalpe pratiṣṭhitāni - pratiṣṭhitā here means, sthiti kāraṇam. So, first one is the laya kāraṇam; the second one is sṛṣṭi kāraṇam and the third one is sthiti kāraṇam. More we will see in the next class. We get some more highly imaginative portions, that we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

24. Chapter 7.4.27.5.1and 7.4.3 &

तानि ह वा एतानि सङ्कल्पैकायनानि सङ्कल्पात्मकानि सङ्कल्पे प्रतिष्ठितानि समक्रूपतां द्यावापृथिवी समकल्पेतां वायुश्चाकाशं च समकल्पन्तापश्च तेजश्च तेषा ्ंसं क्रूप्त्यै वर्ष ्ंसङ्कल्पते वर्षस्य सङ्क्रूप्त्या अन्न ्ंसङ्कल्पतेऽन्नस्य सं क्रूप्त्यै प्राणाः सङ्कल्पन्ते प्राणाना ्ंसं क्रूप्त्यै मन्त्राः सङ्कल्पन्ते मन्त्राणा ्ंसं क्रूप्त्यै कर्माणि सङ्कल्पन्ते कर्मणां सङ्कूप्त्यै लोकः सङ्कल्पते लोकस्य सं क्रूप्त्यै सर्व ्ंसङ्कल्पते स एष सङ्कल्पः सङ्कल्पमुपास्स्वेति ॥

tāni ha vā etāni sańkalpaikāyanāni sańkalpātmakāni sańkalpe pratisthitāni samakļpatām dyāvāprthivī samakalpetām vāyuścākāśam ca samakalpantāpaśca tejaśca teṣā sam kļptyai varṣa sańkalpate varṣasya saṅkļptyā anna sańkalpate'nnàsya sam kļptyai prāṇāḥ sańkalpante prāṇānā saṃ kļptyai mantrāḥ sańkalpante mantrāṇā saṃ kļptyai karmāṇi sańkalpante karmāṇām saṅkļptyai lokaḥ sańkalpate lokāsya saṃ kļptyai sarva šańkalpate sa eṣa sańkalpaḥ sańkalpam upāssveti || 7.4.2 ||

As a preparation for "bhūma vidyā", which is another name for brahma vidyā, the teacher sanatkumārā is talking about 15 upāsanās, known as pratīka upāsanāni. pratīkam meaning a symbol for brahman. The first pratīkam is nāma or words, the last pratīkam is prāņaņ. We have got nāmādi prāņānta pañcadaśa pratīka upāsanāni. Very, very famous and often quoted in the bāşyams. nāmādi prāņānta pañcadaśa brahma pratīka upāsanāni. 15 symbol upāsanams on brahman, beginning from nāmā symbol, up to prāņā symbol. Each one of the later pratīkams is more extensive than the previous one, to indicate that it is more and more bhūmā; because, the final one is bhūmādiņ, THE INFINITE. Since we are travelling towards THE INFINITE as it were, each pratīkam is vaster, or more extensive, than the former. And its vastness is proved by showing that each one of the later is the kāraņam for the former; and the upanişad shows that THE KĀRAŅAM HAS TO BE MORE EXTENSIVE THAN THE KĀRYAM.

Of these 15 upāsanās, we have completed three and we have entered into the fourth one known as sańkalpa brahma upāsanā. And the previous three are nāma, vāk, mana, And the word "sańkalpa" primarily means, WILL. And that is that primary meaning alone is given in the English book that you have. But, even though the translation WILL is the dictionary meaning, śańkarācāryā takes a different meaning; because of the context. Those who are not seeing the English translation, no problem. But, if you happen to see the English translation also, there may be some slight discrepancy. Therefore, I thought, I will refer to that.

śańkarācāryā does not translate the sańkalpa as WILL; and the reason is, in the previous upāsanā, the word manah itself, contextually, means WILL. The word manah itself in the previous case, [previous case means, in the previous upāsanā], the word manah itself contextually means WILL. How do you know manah means WILL? Because, in the mantra it is manasyati mantrānadhīyīyetyathādhīte said, "sa vadā manasā karmāni kurviyetyatha kurute putra šća pašu šćeccheyet-yathecchata" - if a person with the mind WILLS that, "I should study the vedā", with that WILL he studies. karmāni kurvīvetvatha kurute - if with the mind a person intends or WILLS to perform a karmā, then he performs it. Thus, the definition of manah given in the previous section conveys the idea of WILL, which I translated as INTENTION. Therefore, manah means INTENTION or WILL. Since the word manah itself means WILL, the word sańkalpa cannot be translated as WILL. So, śańkarācāryā gave a different meaning. And that is the meaning I gave you in the last class.

'kartavya akartavya vişaya vibhāga samarthanam', is śańkarācāryā's definition of sańkalpaḥ. THE SENSE OF PROPRIETY. kartavyam means, 'this is the proper thing to do'. akartavyam means, 'this is not a proper thing to do'. iti viṣaya vibhāgena - thus doing the classification, the mind having THE SENSE, THE IDEA OF PROPRIETY, is called sańkalpaḥ. And this is not the regular dictionary meaning. The proper dictionary meaning is what? WILL only. Therefore, this book has given the right dictionary meaning. I cannot say it is wrong. But, śańkarācāryā defines sańkalpa as saṃyak kalpanam. Properly classifying as which is proper or improper. And therefore, I will translate sańkalpa as either CLASSIFICATION or a SENSE OF PROPRIETY.

So, first the SENSE OR PROPRIETY operates; and after I have decided what is proper and improper; thereafter, I use my WILL POWER to do. Do what? Whatever is proper. Therefore, INTENTION BECOMES, KĀRYAM. SENSE OF PROPRIETY BECOMES, KĀRAŅAM. Therefore, sańkalpa - the kāraṇam - is more extensive than manaḥ, the intention. Thus, sańkalpa is the kāraṇam. kāraṇam for what? The previous, manaḥ. And manaḥ is kāraṇam for what? vāk. That you should not forget. vāk is the kāraṇam for nāma. Therefore, all the previous ones are kāryams. nāma, vāk, manaḥ - they are all kāryams; and sańkalpa is the kāraṇam. What type of kāraṇam? sṛṣṭi - sthiti - laya kāraṇam.

And that is said in mantrā 2. First two lines we saw in the last class. sańkalpaikāyanāni - pralaya kāraṇam. sańkalpātmakāni - sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. sańkalpe pratiṣṭhitāni - sthiti kāraṇam. sańkalpā is sṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam. Up to this we saw. The mantrā continues. The upaniṣad is highly poetic and imagnative here. The upaniṣad says, if you look at nature, every thing and being in the nature seems to have a sense of propriety. The upanişad is imaginative. Every thing and being in the CREATION seems to have a sense of propriety; because, they all function in proper order. You look at the sun, [put the spelling of sun correctly! It is doubtful if our sons have sense of propriety! No parent will agree with that!]. Sun seems to be perfectly functioning, according to the universal order. And it does not violate the order. It has a sense of propriety. Similarly, the moon. Similarly, the planets. The seasons. The rains. The rivers. The mountains. All of them have got what? sańkalpa. Because of their sańkalpa, there is order in the UNIVERSE. And, if there is any disorder in them, it is caused by whom? We can answer that without even thinking! Until the humanbeings enter, there will be order. But, once he enters the mountains, போச்சு. He enters the ocean, போச்சு. Now, he is landing on the moon. Moon-ஐயும் குட்டிச்சுவரு பண்ணப்போறான். Anywhere human being enters, there alone there is problem. But, in nature, there is order. That sańkalpa is everywhere.

So, the upanisad says, samakipatām dyāvāprthivī. dyāvā means what? dyuh means, heaven. The upper regions of the universe. prthivi means the earth, the lower region. All those regions of the cosmos, samaklpatām - they function in keeping with the sense of propriety or bhīsā'smādvātah order, as it were. pavate bhīsodeti sūrvah T Т bhīsā'smādagniścendraśca | [taittirīya brh. vallī 8] And not only the heaven & earth. samaklpatām. For grammar students, samaklpatām [समकूपतां] is a verbal form. sam+klp (recording inaudible at this point - some disturbance, due to mike or power).

Dayānanda Swāmījī says, "the whole creation has an order. And wherever there is orderly functioning, we have to imagine an intelligent principle harmonising. And this harmonising, invisible, intelligent principle alone we call as īśvaraḥ". This samṣti cidābhāsa - in the form of īśvaraḥ, the cidābhāsa pervades the kāraṇa prapañca. hiraṇyagarbha - the cidābhāsa pervading sũkṣma prapañca; and, the virāt - the cidābhāsa pervading the sthũla prapañca. Thus, because of the pervasion of cidābhāsa, we look at the universe as an alive, intelligent being only. We do not look at the 'sun' as an inert object. We appreciate the śakti which alone we present here as sańkalpa śaktiḥ. THAT SENSE OF PROPRIETY AND ORDERLINESS. And therefore, samakļpatāṃ.

samakipatām is derived from the root - that is what I was saying. sama + kirp dhātu, klip does not mean English clip, Sanskrit kirp. kirp dhātu. kalpate. Its luń [النبي] AORIST form, prathama puruṣaḥ dvi bahuvacanam. dyāvāpṛthivī is a vedic usage. The correct grammatical form is dyāvāpṛthivyau. It is dual number; and therefore, samakipatām is also dual number. The heaven and earth function with a sense of propriety. Not only the heaven and the earth, vāyuścākāśaṃ ca - the wind and the sky. They also function perfectly in order, as though they have a sense of propriety. kartavya akartavya viṣaya vibhāgena. Here samakalpetāṃ is lań [லங்] form. The same root samakipatāṃ is luń [லுங்] AORIST and samakalpetāṃ is lań [லங்]. lań [லங்] is called imperfect past in Sanskrit. In Sanskrit there are two pasts. Perfect past [லுங்] and imperfect past [லங்].

And not only the wind & the sky. samakalpanta āpaśca tejaśca, āpaḥ means what? The water principle. The rivers, the ocean etc. And tejaḥ means, the agni tattvam - including the sun etc. They also samakalpanta. Again, samakalpanta means, PERFECTLY FUNCTION WITH THE SENSE OF PROPRIETY & ORDERLINESS. What is the proof? What is the proof that they are perfectly functioning? According to śāstram, the litmus test for the orderliness of the universe is, rainy season coming at proper time - 'kāle varṣatu parjanyaḥ, pṛthvĩ sasya śālinĩ, deśo yam kṣobha rahitaḥ, sajjana santu nirbhayāḥ'. Just as we have got pressure, sugar etc. - some important features to find out whether we are healthy or not - similarly, for the orderliness of the cosmos, what is the primary test? The right flow of seasons. The most important season being, the rainy season. That is why when there is global warming because of ə̯iகɨŋinɨ, the rainy seasons go haywire. In January it is raining in Chennai! That is also a problem.

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, teṣā, šaṃ kļptyai. When all the pañcabhũtās and the natural forces have a sense of propriety, varṣa, šańkalpate - the rainy season also has a sense of propriety and it pours at the right time and the right amount also. One day 90 cm rain should not happen. It should be the right amount. teṣā, šaṃ kļptyai. saṃ kļptyai means, sańkalpa nimittam. Because of the right sańkalpa, varṣa, šańkalpate. varṣam meaning, the rainy season, is orderly.

Okay. Because of that, what happens? You know. varṣasya saṅkiptyā anna šańkalpate - when there is no athivṛṣṭi or anāvṛṣṭi. In athivṛṣṭi also, the crops are destroyed. athivṛṣṭi means, too much rain. And in anāvṛṣṭi also, crops do not come. Therefore, for the right amount of food grains the Indian economy heavily depends upon the July to October season, that regular season. That is the main rainy season. If it fails, the economy is in doldrums. வானம் பார்த்த பூமி and all they say. It means, earth depends upon the rain. So, varṣasya saṅkiptyā - when the rain has got a sańkalpa.

In all these, what/where should we underline? THE TOPIC IS SAŃKALPA^H. Because, we are going to do the upāsanā on what? SAŃKALPĀ BRAHMA UPĀSANĀ. Hence, SAŃKALPAM is coming, repeatedly. varṣasya saṅklptyā. saṅklptyā is because of sandhi rule. If you split it, it will become saṃ kļptyai. Because of the sańkalpā of the rainy season, what happens? anna sańkalpate. annam means what? All the crops and plants. They also follow the sense of propriety. satya saṃvṛddhi. kāle varṣatu parjanyaḥ, pṛthvĩ sasya śālinĩ, deśo yam kṣobha rahitaḥ. That is what he says. anna šańkalpate. Then what? annasya saṃ kļptyai - the upaniṣad is beautifully bringing the chain reaction. When annam is plenty, we will get plenty of food to eat. There is no starvation death. Everything can have plenty of nutritious food. What will it lead to? The upaniṣad says, annasya saṃ kļptyai prāṇāḥ sańkalpante - all the pañca prāṇās will function properly.

There was an article recently in one of the magazines about, how because of the chemical fertilisers, pesticides etc all the food that we consume, without exception, they all have got traces of poison! Therefore, we are consuming what? Slow poison! What does it mean? All the pañca prāņās are in trouble. So, when nature is in order and they interfere with nature; they do akramam by putting chemicals that give plenty of crops. They sell this cheap. Then, they themselves bring "organic foods" and they themselves charge three times! So, later, for natural food, we have to pay more! All are akramam. So, the upaniṣad says, when there is natural food, prāṇāḥ sańkalpante - all the living beings are healthy. prāṇāḥ sańkalpante means, they function in order.

Okay, then what will happen? When the prāņās are in order, people can do all the karmās properly. pañca mahāyajñaḥ, all the vaidika karmās will be done in plenty. Therefore, it says, prāņānā, saṃ kļptyai mantrāḥ sańkalpante. mantrāḥ means what? veda adhyayanam and veda pārāyaṇam - people are able to do. Even for that, you need śakti. ruḍram anuvākam, continuous anuvākam chanting itself you will get heart-attack! It is a continuous mantrā, you need to hold dhum and recite. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, when there is prāṇā, there is veda adhyayanam. Study. Education.

Okay, so what? mantrāņā, saṃ kļptyai karmāņi sańkalpante - when we have scriptural education we know how to live harmoniously. And all our actions will be what? In keeping with dharmā, the order. So, mantrāņā, saṃ kļptyai - when the scriptural education is in order. That is what I said, there was a news item about, "How India was doing well and prosperous and its values were strong", It is a beautiful passage. In effect He said, India will be prosperous, powerful and will be proud of their own culture, as long as their gurukulavāsa system was strong. THUS, THEIR TRADITIONAL EDUCATION SYSTEM WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR PROSPERITY. And so, if we have to make India weaker and subjugate them, they should develop an inferiority complex about their own culture. So, what should we do? You have to completely change the gurukulavāsa system. This passage is there in the internet also. He said, we must revamp their educational system, so Indians will look up to the Westerners and they will conclude that whatever is white is superior and whatever is Eastern, ours, is inferior. In 30 years India can be subjugated. This was the theory. He implemented it. This statement was in 1835 or so. Thereafter, they worked and the educational system was changed in 1920 or so. Now, all our youngsters value everything that is Western. Hence, what happened? I do not want to get lost in that. Few lines are there. I will read it next week.

[Note: The following is the passage referred to by Swāmījī] Lord Macaulay said the following about India in 1835 in British Parliament. "I have traveled across the length and breadth of India and I have not seen one person who is a beggar, who is a thief. Such wealth I have seen in this country, such high moral values, people of such calibre, that I do not think we would ever conquer this country, unless we break the very backbone of this nation, which is her spiritual and cultural heritage, and, therefore, I propose that we replace her old and ancient education system, her culture, for if the Indians think that all that is foreign and English is good and greater than their own, they will lose their self-esteem, their native self-culture and they will become what we want them, a truly dominated nation."

Why I say this is, in gurukula sampradāyā, one lived a life of harmony, following pañca mahā yajña. Now, pañca mahā yajñās are gone. Therefore, he says, karmāņi sańkalpante - karmās will be there in order. And, karmaņā sańkļptyai when the karmās are noble, śāstric, in order, lokaḥ sańkalpate - the karma phalam will be in order and the best. Here, the word lokaḥ means, karma phalam. Lokyate anubhũyate iti lokah. lok dhātu, karma vyutpatti. And what is karma phalam? Whatever we experience is karma phalam. The 14 lokās are karma phalam only! And all the different bodies that we have acquired, they are also what? Our karma phalam only! When the karmās are in order, the whole world also will be in order. And lokasya saṃ kļptyai - when the karma phalam is in one order, sarva sańkalpate - everything will be in order.

Thus, what is the root for all of them? sańkalpaḥ. And therefore, the upaniṣad concludes, sa eṣa sańkalpaḥ - thus, the kāraṇam sańkalpā ALONE IS IN THE FORM OF ALL THESE THINGS. Because, kāraṇam alone expresses in the form of kāryam. Our sańkalpa also, as I said in the last class, if this hall, tangible hall is there for us to experience, before it was produced, it has already come in the mind of someone. In what form? In the form of sańkalpa. After sańkalpa, WILL. After WILL, vāk. All of them follow. Therefore, Sańkalpā CRYSTALLISED IS THE WORLD. And therefore, sańkalpā is as extensive as the whole universe. Therefore, what do you do? sańkalpam upāssva iti - may you do upāsanā upon sańkalpa. As what? brahma iti. That is understood. sańkalpam brahma iti upāssva. Continuing.

What will we get? If you do upāsanā, what will be the benefit?

स यः सङ्कल्पं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते सङ्क्रृप्तान्वै स लोकान्ध्रुवान्ध्रुवः प्रतिष्ठितान् प्रतिष्ठितोऽव्यथमानानव्यथमानोऽभिसिध्यति यावत्सङ्कल्पस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यः सङ्कल्पं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवः सङ्कल्पाद्भूय इति सङ्कल्पाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yaḥ saṅkalpaṃ brahmetyupāste saṅkļptānvai sa lokāndhruvāndhruvaḥ pratiṣṭhitān pratiṣ-ṭhito'vyathamānānavyathamāno'bhisidhyati yāvatsaṅkalpasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathā kāma- cāro bhavati yaḥ saṅkalpaṃ brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavaḥ saṅkalpādbhūya iti saṅkalpād- vāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavānbravītviti ‖ 7.4.3 ‖

So, sańkalpa brahma upāsanā phalam is given in this mantrā. sa yaḥ saṅkalpaṃ brahmeti upāste - if a person practises this upāsanā, he will get the following results. And, we should always remember, the upāsanā can be done in two ways. sakāma upāsanā and niṣkāma upāsanā. niṣkāma upāsanā phalam the vedā does not give; because, it is uniform for all the niṣkāma upāsanās. Since it is uniform and understood, it does not mention. WHAT IS THE UNIFORM RESULT OF NIṣkāma Upāsanā? JÑāNA YOGYATĀ PRĀPTI - THE MIND WILL GET PURIFIED. MIND WILL GET EXPANDED. THE MIND WILL BECOME READY FOR "BHŨMA VIDYĀ". That is the phalam, which we can take for every stage of upāsanā. nāma brahma upāsanā also will get that phalam. mano brahma, vāk brahma, sańkalpa brahma - for all these, uniform citta naiścalyam, citta ekāgratā, citta viśālatā etc.

If it is sakāma upāsanā, the result will vary from upāsanā to upāsanā. Therefore, the upaniṣad mentions sakāma upāsanā phalam. What is that phalam? The upaniṣad says, sa lokān abhisidhyati. After death, he will go to higher and greater lokās. Various attributes are given to those lokās. What type of lokās? kļptān lokān - so, those lokās which are ordered by bhagavān. kļptān means, īśvara sańkalpitān lokān. Why it is so said? Because, īśvarā is karmā phala dātā. Therefore, any benefit - good or bad phalam I get, who is the commander? The controller being bhagavān, every karma phalam is īśvara sańkalpitam. Therefore, it is called, kļptān lokāḥ. ĩśvara anujñābhūtāḥ, ājñābhūtāḥ.

Not only they are klptān, dhruvān lokān. dhruvān means, the lokās which last longer compared to these lokās. The higher lokās are long lasting. So, dhruvān means, more permanent. Then, pratiṣṭhitān lokān. pratiṣṭhitān, śańkarācāryā comments, samasta upcarana sampannān. Well equipped; well furnished, lokās! In some places, when you rent a house, certain houses are totally empty. After you go only, you have buy almirāh, fridge, phone etc. But, there are certain houses where everything is already there. Ofcourse, you have to pay a higher price. It is well furnished and equipped. Same way, all these have not come just now! In svarga lokā, every house will have a fridge, TV, home theatre, swimming pool [with water inside! What can you do in a swimming pool without water?] So, upaniṣad envisages. pratiṣṭhitān. śańkarācāryā comments samasta upcarana sampanna sampannān. Then, avyathamānān - without any disturbances; like, the power cut in the middle of the class! Okay, avyathamānān means, without any disturbances. The four adjectives to lokās, kļptān, dhruvān, pratiṣṭhitān, avyathamānān lokān, saḥ abhisidhyati.

But what is the use of the world being wonderful, if my body mind sense complex is not wonderful? Tooth pain! Everything is fine, enjoyable; but, my tooth is aching?! All the organs, my own personal upkaraṇams also must be in good condition. Therefore, dhruvān lokān dhruvaḥ san. The word dhruvaḥ means, the upāsakā also will have longevity. Not only the world is long lasting, if the world is long lasting and I am not long lasting, what is the use? Therefore, dhruvān lokān dhruvaḥ san. Two times it has been said. First dhruvān goes to the lokā. The word dhruvaḥ means, what? The upāsakaḥ will also be long living. Similarly, pratiṣṭhitān lokān. Not only the surrounding are well equipped; but, he also is well equipped means what? pañca jñānendriyam, pañca karmendriyam, pañca prāṇādayaḥ, manaśca, buddhiśca - all of them are pratiṣṭhitām. Means, in fit condition.

So, world is well equipped; and, he is also well equipped. That is why he is saying everything twice. pratisthitān pratisthitah. Similarly, avyathamānān avyathamānah. The world is also without disturbance; and, he himself is also without any disturbance. ādibhautika disturbances are not there. ādhyātmika disturbances are also not there. How carefully presented, you must see! avyathamānān lokān avyathamānah san. [san, we have to add]. avyathamānah san - upāsakah abhisidhyati. abhisidhyati means, accomplishes - as a result of upāsanā. Therefore, if in the current janmā we are enjoying an ideal surrounding and also we have got an ideal set of body mind complex, what should we understand? Some upāsanā we have done, sometime in the past! That is why we have got ideal conditions. If it was not there, we cannot blame the LORD. We do not deserve it. Powercut, watercut means what? We have not done upāsanā!

Not only that, yāvatsaṅkalpasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathā kāmacāro bhavati. This is the general result which was mentioned in the previous sections also. The upāsakā will have free access to various lokās, without requiring H1 visā, all those visās! Without requiring any document, he can travel all over. Like, nāradā - the triloka sañcārĩ. yathā kāmacāraḥ - means, free movement. How much? yāvatsaṅkalpasya gataṃ - as extensive as the sańkalpā is! All these are for whom? yaḥ saṅkalpaṃ brahma iti upāsteḥ. So said, sanatkumārā.

And, LITGUD sanatkumārā! He has so elaborately taught; and nārada, even before sanatkumārā completed this, he asked the next question! Is there something more extensive than sańkalpa? Should not he give some breathing time at least? Immediately, he asked the next question. 'asti bhagavaḥ saṅkalpāt bhūya?' iti - nārada asked. 'saṅkalpādvāva bhūyaḥ asti' - iti sanatkumārā replied. 'tanme bhagavān bravītv' iti - nārada asked. nārada asked, te bhavavah - oh bhagavān sanatkumārā, is there something bhūyaḥ? bhūyaḥ means, bigger. Greater. More extensive, than sańkalpa - the sense of propriety? And sanatkumārā answers. What is that? 'saṅkalpādvāva bhūyaḥ asti' - iti. The asti will continue. How long? Till the 15 sections are over asti, asti will keep coming! 'saṅkalpādvāva bhūyaḥ asti'. This is sanatkumāraḥ uvāca. Again, nārada asked, 'tanme bhagavān bravītu' iti - Oh Lord, may you teach me the next level! With this, the fourth section is over. Now, we will enter the fifth section.

Seventh Chapter - Section 5

चित्तं वाव सं कल्पाद्भूयो यदा वै चेतयतेऽथ सङ्कल्पयतेऽथ मनस्यत्यथ वाचमीरयति तामु नाम्नीरयति नाम्नि मन्त्रा एकं भवन्ति मन्त्रेषु कर्माणि ॥

cittam vāva sam kalpādbhūyo yadā vai cetayate'tha sankalpayate'tha manasyatyatha vācam-īrayati tāmu nāmnīrayati nāmni mantrā ekam bhavanti mantreșu karmāni || 7.5.1 ||

So the next one, that is the fifth. What is that? cittaṃ vāva saṃ kalpād bhūyaḥ - the word cittam has been translated here [in the Book] as intelligence. That is fine. But, śańkarācāryā gives a clean definition of cittam. He presents it as 'THE AWARENESS OF THE TOTALITY OF THE SITUATION'. cittam means, ceta itrutvam - the total awareness of the setup; and the awareness of the people, the society etc. The awareness of the things around. Only when you are aware of the totality, you can know what is proper and improper. You can never know what is proper and improper until you are aware of not only the setup, the people, the things and also what produces which effect etc. That is why when we travel to other countries, we are asked to read their culture, their habits. What words are good words, what is not good, what you should do, what you should not do.

So, one man went to America from India. A traditional man, he does not know much about other cultures. When he was travelling in some - what you call a museum or aquarium, where lot of people come and visit - there was a small baby looking at him. He just only touched the baby. Small baby. Because, when we see a baby, we do that here. But, there, it is not proper; because, child abuse, kidnap so many things are happening! Some camera had taken the picture. And after a day or two, he gets a notice for an enquiry! An innocent person, he did not even remember that incident. He was grilled questioned and all kinds of things. Hence, you note this when you go to America. யாரயன்னாலும் போய் தொட்டுடாதீங்கோ! [Do not touch anybody!] They will arrest you. So, what is allowed here may not be allowed elsewhere. Cultural awareness is required. To know what? What is proper and improper. ஒரு காலு மோட்டுன்டு மால இன்னொரு கால போட்டுண்டு ஸ்டைலா உக்கார்றது [Putting one leg over another] is proper in international meetings. பேண்டெல்லாம் போட்டுக்கறதுனால [You have pants and all]. So it is okay. Here, it is not okay. பின் கையக் கட்டிக்கறது [Folding one's arms behind] In one culture it is a normal habit. Here, it is considered improper! Anyway, what I want to say here is, a person must have the awareness of the totality. Therefore, śańkarācāryā translates cittam as – cittam cetayitrutvam prāpte vastuni idam vastu evam iti tad anu rũpāt tad jātiyā āgāmini api tad prayojana avadhāraņa rũpā buddiḥ II

எத்தனை பெரிய definition பாருங்கோ! [See, how big a definition!] So, we should know what is what; and act in keeping with that. Then alone, you will know the propriety. Therefore, I will translate it as THE AWARENESS OF THE SETUP. By setup, I mean - the people, the culture, the things, even what to eat, what not eat.

Swāmī Chinmayānandā tells about His experience. He went to some international religious dinner meeting. When they pass the plate around, there will be lot of things, lot of items will be there. In the middle of the plate, there will be an item. When they pass the plate around, you are supposed to take only the middle one it seems. All other items are only for alańkāram, [may be]. When the plate went to Swāmījī, he finished off the whole thing! Other people were wondering! But, we do not know what to eat, when to eat, how to eat etc. Anyway, what I want to say is, tad anu rũpāt vrittiḥ. So, what is the best thing? அவாஅவா ஊர்ல ஸௌக்கியமா இருந்துடலாம்! [Stay in one's place. Safely!]

Okay. And this cittam, this awareness, is the kāraṇam for what? sańkalpaḥ. sańkalpaḥ means, SENSE OF PROPRIETY. sańkalpā will lead to what? manaḥ. manaḥ means, what? Right intention or WILL. And based on that, there will be vāk. Based on that the words, based on that mantraḥ. karmāṇi. Thus, cittam is the kāraṇam for all the previous four. Therefore, it is more extensive.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

25. Chapter 7.5.3to 7.5.1, and 7.6.2 & 7.6.1 7.7.1

चित्तं वाव सं कल्पाद्भूयो यदा वै चेतयतेऽथ सङ्कल्पयतेऽथ मनस्यत्यथ वाचमीरयति तामु नाम्नीरयति नाम्नि मन्त्रा एकं भवन्ति मन्त्रेषु कर्माणि ॥

cittam vāva sam kalpādbhūyo yadā vai cetayate'tha sankalpayate'tha manasyatyatha vācam-īrayati tāmu nāmnīrayati nāmni mantrā ekam bhavanti mantreșu karmāni || 7.5.1

nāradā the student, in this 7th chapter of chāndogyā, has approached sanatkumārā the ācāryā and has asked for "atma vidyā", which is going to be called here as "bhũma vidyā". And as a preparation for this "bhũma vidyā" the teacher sanatkumārā is presenting 15 pratĩka upāsanāni. The word pratĩkam meaning, an ālambhanam or symbol, upon which brahman is invoked. And the idea is, if a person practices these upāsanās, or at least some of these upāsanās, the mind of the upāsakā will not only get purified; but, the mind will also EXPAND. Because, the mind has to expand to such an extent, to appreciate the infinite brahman! And not only the infinite brahman, one has to learn to claim, "I am that infinite brahman!" And not only I have to claim, 'I am the infinite brahman', I should look upon the entire cosmos as bubbles rising in me. "mayyeva sakalam jātam, mayi sarvam pratiṣthitam, mayi sarvam layam yāti". Thus, instead of looking upon myself as a bubble in the world, I SHOULD LOOK UPON THE ENTIRE UNIVERSE - INCLUDING ALL THE GALAXIES DISCOVERED & UNDISCOVERED - ALL OF THEM, I SHOULD SEE AS A BUBBLE. Which means, my concept of aham should not be a dot of flesh; but, the 'I' must mean, THE INFINITE ITSELF!

This requires lot of upāsanā, preparation. Therefore, sanatkumārā is introducing 15 pratīkams. And each one of the later pratīkams are vaster than the previous one. And the later ones are all vaster or bigger; because, the later ones are the kāraṇam for the former one. Thus, kāryam to kāraṇam and kāraṇam to its kāraṇam to its kāraṇam to its kāraṇam! AND, WE APPRECIATE CAUSE AS MORE EXTENSIVE THAN ITS EFFECT. And in this journey, we have covered four layers and have entered in to the fifth. What are the four layers we have seen? nāma brahma upāsanā. vāk brahma upāsanā. mano brahma upāsanā. sańkalpā brahma upāsanā. nāma, indicating any WORD that we utter. vāk, indicating the ORGAN OF SPEECH which is the kāraṇam for nāma. And manaḥ, the MIND, is the cause of the vāk also; because, before uttering a word, it must have taken place in the mind. vivakṣā buddhiḥ, the intention, must be there. Thus, nāma to vāk to manaḥ and from manaḥ we went to sańkalpa. And we said, sańkalpa is the SENSE OF PROPRIETY. Because, only when my mind first analyses what is proper and improper - based on that, the mana^h is developed. mana^h means, vivakṣā. From that only, vāk etc. will come. Therefore, sańkalpa we translate as a SENSE OF PROPRIETY. Even though the word sańkalpa has the meaning of WILL, we have already included that in mana^h, the intention. Therefore, sańkalpa means, THE SENSE OF PROPRIETY. And thereafter, nāradā asked the question, "is there something vaster than that sańkalpa?" For which, the answer comes in section five.

And in the first mantrā - which I had introduced sometime before, we saw, cittam is the fifth layer. And we said, cittam is THE AWARENESS OF THE TOTALITY of the surroundings or setup. Because, only when I know the surroundings properly, I know what is proper and improper. From society to society, nation to nation, community to community, setup to setup, there are rules & regulations. dharma śāstrā. Even Constitutions vary from country to country. Therefore, I should have the awareness of the totality. Then alone, the sense of propriety. Thereafter, manaḥ etc.

Therefore, sanatkumārā said, cittaṃ vāva saṃ kalpād bhūyaḥ and yadā vai cetayate - when that awareness is there, atha saṅkalpayate - one knows what is proper and improper. atha manasyaty - thereafter, one intends to speak. Speech represents actions also. So, speak or do other actions. Thereafter, he utters. Thereafter, the word comes. Thus, each one is a cascading effect. And therefore, cittam is kāraṇam of the other four. Of course, from nāma, two more extensions are said, which is not in our list. The extension is nāmni mantrāḥ ekaṃ bhavanti; mantreṣu karmāṇi etc. In short, the whole world rests upon nāma or, the words only. Up to this we saw in the last class. Now, sanatkumārā wants to talk about the glory of cittam. citta stutiḥ or citta mahimā.

तानि ह वा एतानि चित्तैकायनानि चित्तात्मानि चित्ते प्रतिष्ठितानि तस्माद्यद्यपि बहुविदचित्तो भवति नायमस्ती-त्येवैनमाहुर्यदयं वेद यद्वा अयं विद्वान्नेत्थमचित्तः स्यादित्यथ यद्यल्पविच्चित्तवान्भवति तस्मा एवोत शुश्रूषन्ते चित्त ्ँ ह्येवैषामेकायनं चित्तमात्मा चित्तं प्रतिष्ठा चित्तमुपास्स्वेति । । tāni ha vā etāni cittaikāyanāni cittātmāni citte pratisthitāni tasmādyadyapi bahuvidacitto bhavati nāyamastīty evainamāhuryadayam veda yadvā ayam vidvānnetthamacittah syādity- atha yadyalpaviccittavānbhavati tasmā evota śuśrūṣante citta thyevaiṣāmekāyanam cittam ātmā cittam pratisthā cittamupāssveti II 7.5.2 So, citta stutių as a preparation for citta brahma upāsanā. He says, tāni ha vā etāni from the above description we come to know that all the previous four pratīkams. etāni referring to previous four - nāma, vāk, manaų and sańkalpa. All these four, citta ekāyanāni - they have got cittam as ayanam - the basis. That is, cittam is the laya kāraṇam. cittātmāni and cittam is the utpatti kāraṇam also; and, citte pratiṣṭhitāni cittam is the sthiti kāraṇam, also. So, ekāyanāni citt- ātmāni citte pratiṣṭhitāni. All three put together indicates, sṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam. Which is the sṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam? And, of what? Confusion should not come. cittam is the sṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam of the previous four - nāma, vāk, manas, sańkalpaų. Therefore, cittam is sarva kāraṇam. And kāraṇatvāt vaster, more pervading. Not only that. Therefore only, whoever has got cittam as a virtue, he is glorified in the universe! And the one who does not have this virtue, he or she is looked down upon.

tasmād - therefore, yad yapi bahuvid acitto - suppose there is a person who is very, very scholarly in the academic sense. He has got all the degrees - bahuvid. bahuvid means, great scholar. But, acittah syād - suppose he does not have the virtue of cittam. What is the meaning of cittam? Hope you have not forgotten. cittam meaning, AWARENESS OF THE TOTALITY of the setup. If a person does not have this much worldly wisdom, about how to conduct himself in a setup; if he does not have that knowledge, even if he is a great scholar, if that knowledge is missing, then, what will the world say about him? ayam na astī iti āhuh - this person is as good as non-existent. That means, his existence is not worthy. He is not worthy of counting as a person. If one does not know how to behave in front of other persons, generally we avoid taking that person for a public function. Why? How to behave in a setup if he does not know, that person is immature. And sanatkumārā says, such a acitta person ayam na astī iti āhuh - people say he is not worthy to be counted as a person. So, "ayam nāstī" [that is, within quotation], iti enam āhuh - thus, people talk of that person. And not only they say, 'he is as good as non-existent', yat ayam veda - they will say, 'his scholarship also is as good as not there'. Because, the SCHOLARSHIP SHOULD BE CONVERTED IN TO WORLDLY WISDOM AND AWARENESS. IF THAT AWARENESS IS NOT THERE, HIS SCHOLARSHIP ALSO IS AS GOOD AS NOT THERE. Therefore, yat ayam veda - 'whatever this person knows'. [The sentence is incomplete. We have supply 'tad api nasti iti ähuh']. People will declare that he does not have any knowledge. Because, his knowledge is purposeless. So, yat ayam veda tad api nāstī iti āhuh.

What is the reason? They say, 'yadvā ayaṃ vidvān'. [This is also within quotation. The comment of the other people]. What do they say? 'yadi ayaṃ vidvān bhavati' - if this person is really educated, not a mere academic scholar - but, if this person is really educated, yadvā has to be split as yadi vā. yat = yadi. yadi means, what? If this person is really educated, ittham acittaḥ na syād - this person would not have been an acittaḥ. acittaḥ means, an immature person; lacking the awareness of the surroundings. So, yadi ayaṃ vidvān syād saḥ ittham acittaḥ nasyād - he would not been. But now we find he does not have cittam. So, his knowledge is as good as no knowledge. syād iti āhuḥ - thus people will talk. Therefore, cittam is a great virtue.

Then, the upaniṣad says, yady alpa vid cittavān bhavati - like many people in the village who do not have formal education; but, because of sheer experiences in life, they know how to handle situations. Therefore he says, yady alpa vid. Even if a person is not that scholarly in the academic sense of the term, MA, PhD etc even if he does not have it all, even though a person lacks formal education, cittavān bhavati - if a person is worldly wise, mature, knows how to conduct himself, tasmā eva uta śuśrūṣante - then, all the people in the society would like to approach a mature, even though illiterate person; rather than, an immature, literate person. These are all glorification of cittam. That is to be underlined. tasmai eva - because of sandhi rule, it is tasmā eva. If you split it, it should be tasmai eva śuśrūṣante - people would like to listen to such a person only.

Therefore, what is the conclusion? CITTAM ALONE IS SARVA KĀRAŅAM. Therefore, he says, citta, hyeva eṣām eka āyanaṃ - therefore cittam is the ayanam, the ādhāram, the support - of the previous ones. cittam ātmā - therefore, as kāraṇam, CITTAM ALONE IS THE INNER SUBSTANCE BEHIND ALL OF THEM. Why? According to the general rule - "CAUSE ALONE IS THE INNER SUBSTANCE OF ALL THE PRODUCTS", cittam is the kāraṇam. Therefore, it is the ātmā - the essence of all. Therefore, cittaṃ pratiṣṭhā. Therefore, 'cittam upāssva' iti - may you meditate upon cittam. You have supply 'brahma iti' - as brahman. Okay, then what will happen? The phala śruti is given in next mantrā.

स यश्चित्तं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते चित्तान्वै स लोकान्ध्रुवान्ध्रुवः प्रतिष्ठितान्प्रतिष्ठितोऽव्यथमानानव्यथमानोऽभिसिध्यति यावच्चित्तस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यश्चित्तं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवश्चित्ताद्भूय इति चित्ताद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yaścittam brahmetyupāste cittānvai sa lokāndhruvāndhruvah pratisthitān pratisthito 'vyathamānān avyathamāno'bhisidhyati yāvaccittasya gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yaścittam brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavaścittādbhūya iti cittādvāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavān bravītviti || 7.5.3 ||

upāsanā phalam is mentioned here. citta brahma upāsanā phalam. And as I said, this is the phalam for sakāma upāsanā. For niṣkāma upāsanā, the phalam is not mentioned here. That is understood. In every section it is uniform. What is that? bhūma vidyā yogyatā prāpti is the common niṣkāma upāsanā phalam. Here, the sakāma upāsanā phalam only is said.

And what is that? This person gets freedom to move about in all the lokās, which are within the range of cittam. And here the phalam given is the same or similar as the phalam given for the sańkalpa brahma upāsanā. So, I do not want to go word by word. This we have seen in mantrā number 3. cittānvai sa lokāndhruvāndhruvaḥ pratiṣṭhitān pratiṣṭhito 'vyathamānān avyatha māno'bhisidhyati yāvaccittasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yaścittaṃ brahmety upāste'sti - these words repeated again. Therefore, I do not want to repeat the same. You can note the meaning based on that mantrā. In short, upāsakā can go to all the lokās and he will have the best equipment; not only the internal equipment like the body, the external ones also will be good. He can move about and enjoy. [Thus, c/o mantrā 3 to understand this upāsanā phalam].

Again, as even the upāsanā phalam is completed, nāradā is impatient. Okay, okay. 'Tell me, is there something vaster, more extensive than cittam?' So, 'bhagavaḥ cittād bhūyaḥ asti?' iti. Who is asking whom? nāradā is asking sanatkumārā. And sanatkumārā answers, 'cittād vāva bhūyaḥ asti' - there is. iti. Then, nāradā again requests, 'tanme bhagavān bravītva' - may you teach the sixth layer of pratĩka upāsanā. iti. Totally, how many layers are there? 15 layers. 5 only are over. We have to be patient. The sixth is going to come in the next section. With this third mantrā, section number 5 is over. Now, we have to enter section six. Here, the section number and the upāsanā number both are same. It is easy to remember. We will go in to that. [Page 501] section 6 mantrā 1.

Seventh Chaper – Section 6

ध्यानं वाव चित्ताद्भूयो ध्यायतीव पृथिवी ध्यायतीवान्तरिक्षं ध्यायतीव द्यौर्ध्यायन्तीवापो ध्यायन्तीव पर्वता देवमनुष्यास्तस्माद्य इह मनुष्याणां महत्तां प्राप्नुवन्ति ध्यानापादा ्ँशा इवैव ते भवन्त्यथ येऽल्पाः कलहिनः पिशुना उपवादिनस्तेऽथ ये प्रभवो ध्यानापादा ्ँशा इवैव ते भवन्ति ध्यानमुपास्स्वेति ॥

dhyānam vāva cittādbhūyo dhyāyatīva prthivī dhyāyatīvāntarikṣam dhyāyatīva dyaurdhyā- yantīvāpo dhyāyantīva parvatā devamanuṣyāstasmādya iha manuṣyāṇām mahattām prāpnu- vanti dhyānāpādā šā ivaiva te bhavantyatha ye'lpāḥ kalahinaḥ piśunā upavādinaste'tha ye prabhavo dhyānāpādā šā ivaiva te bhavanti dhyānamupāssveti || 7.6.1 ||

So, what is the sixth one that is superior to and the cause of cittam? sanatkumārā says, dhyānaṃ vāva cittād bhūyaḥ. dhyānam - we know the popular meaning only. Meditation or concentration. In this context, we can understand it as ATTENTIVENESS or ALERTNESS. Because, during the practise of dhyānam, we focus upon, we have attention on, one object or the other. Therefore, dhyānam is the practise of attentiveness or alertness. This dhyānam is the cause of cittam; and therefore, it produces cittam as a result. How? We said, cittam is awareness of the surroundings or the setup. When do you get awareness of the setup? Only when you are alert and attentive, you will be aware of the setup. Even when you walk in this hall, suppose you are not attentive or alert, what will happen? [It might have happened to you]. There is a gradual flow of the steps here. If you are looking here and there and thinking of something when you are walking, then you will fall down. When walking, one must be alert and attentive. Only then I can operate properly. It is not only at the level of walking, but at the level of operation of all the sense organs. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, ATTENTIVENESS IS THE CAUSE OF AWARENESS. OR, ALERTNESS IS THE CAUSE OF AWARENESS.

In fact, in the class also, if you have to listen to one hour without dropping a single word, you require what? Attentiveness and alertness. Otherwise, gaps will come. If you do not want gaps, you need not close your eyes; but, what is important? The mind must be open, alert, vigilant and attentive. Therefore, he says, dhyānaṃ vāva cittād bhūyaḥ. vāva means, what? It is not, Tamil வாவா. But, Sanskrit. Indeed superior to the cause - and more extensive than - cittam.

And the upanişad is highly poetic. If you watch nature, the upanişad says, it appears as though everything in nature is practising meditation! He does not say everything is practising meditation. Be alert. Be attentive. Everything is, as though, practising meditation. And every law of nature seems to be so alert that they do not violate their laws. Therefore, the upanişad says, pṛthivī dhyāyatīva - the earth seems to be alert, attentive and careful, doing whatever it has to do, without fail. So, dhyāyatī iva pṛthivī - that is bhũ lokaḥ. dhyāyatī iva antarikṣaṃ. antarikṣaṃ means, the bhuvar lokaḥ - the intermediary world. dhyāyati iva dyauḥ. dyauḥ means, the suvar lokaḥ. The upper regions. In fact, the whole creation seems to be in meditation, following the force of their action, perfectly. So, dhyāyati iva dyauḥ. dhyāyanti iva āpaḥ - the waters, the ocean. They are also as though in meditation. āpaḥ is plural number. Therefore, dhyāyanti is plural. āpaḥ is waters. [pakārāntaḥ strĩlińgaḥ 'ap' śabdaḥ. nityam bhauvacanāntaḥ. āpaḥ apaḥ abhdiḥ abhdyaḥ abhdyaḥ apāṃ apsu āpaḥ - iti rũpāṇi]. Then, dhyāyanti iva parvatāḥ. If you go to himālayan ranges and see all the peaks, it looks as though each peak is a sage, sitting in meditation, being erect all the time. Some imagination! dhyāyanti iva parvatā.

dhyāyanti iva devamanuṣyāḥ. Here, śańkarācāryā gives two meanings. devāḥ manuṣyāḥ ca - devās and manuṣyās. He gives a second meaning also, which seems to be better. Which means, deva manuṣyāḥ - the godly human beings! deva tulyāḥ manuṣyāḥ. They are also meditating, all the time; because, they are attentive & alert all the time. And therefore, dhyānam is a great virtue.

In bhaja govindam, śańkarācāryā concludes all the series of sādhanās. He presents varieties of sādhanās. And at the end, He gives one sādhanā. kur avadhānam mahad avadhānam, He says. And closes. After that, gurucaraņāmbuja nirbhara bhaktaḥ saṃsārādacirādbhava muktaḥ I sendriyamānasa niyamādevaṃ drakṣyasi nija hṛdayasthaṃ devam II

But, the last virtue He mentions is what? avadhānam. avadhānam means, what? Alertness & attentiveness. From that only in Hindi, the word is there. What is that? sāvadhān. avadhānam. Because of this dhyānam, this virtue alone, a person attains all the great results in life! So, the later portion is dhyāna stutih. Up to this is imagination. After that, dhyāna stutih comes. What is that?

tasmād - therefore. Therefore, means wherefore? You should be attentive. Since dhyānam is a great virtue, which is the cause of the previous five virtues; therefore, manuṣyāṇām mādhye - among the human beings, ye iha mahattāṃ prāpnuvanti - whichever human beings, men or women, have accomplished greatness, among the human beings whoever have accomplished greatness, mahattāṃ prāpnuvanti - means, accomplished greatness; that is, great achievers in life. All those achievements are what? Result of dhyānam only. Result of an alert, attentive life only. Thus, in any field success requires alertness and attentiveness. Whether it is sports, football or cricket, when the ball comes at 160 km per hour, one second I cannot see away. In one second, all 3 wickets will fly. Cannot afford to lose alertness. Therefore, accomplishment in any field is dhyāna phalam. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, dhyāna apādā [•], śā. apādā - means, anuṣṭhānam. dhyāna apādā - means, dhyāna anuṣṭhānam. dhyāna anuṣṭhānam means, the practise of meditation. And here, it refers to anuṣṭhāna phalam. dhyāna anuṣṭhāna phalam. amisah means, a small portion of dhyāna phalam is all the accomplishment.

Do you see the difference? He does not say all the accompaniments are dhyāna phalam. He does not say. He says, all the accomplishments are just a portion of dhyāna phalam. Which means what? dhyāna phalam is much, much greater than all these! So, dhyānā pāda amśaḥ - bahuvrĩhi. dhyāna anuṣṭhāna phalasya aṃśaḥ eṣām te. This is the result that they are enjoying. ivaiva te bhavanti - thus, they enjoy the result of their alert life. On the other hand, those people who do not have dhyāna rahitāḥ ye bhavanti. [dhyāna rahitāḥ is understood]. ye dhyāna rahitaḥ bhavanti - they are all of what nature? alpāḥ. In Tamil also they say, அல்பம், அல்பத்தனம். They are alpāḥ - mean people. kalahinaḥ - quarrelsome people. One minute interaction, they pick up some quarrel or the other. You ask, 'when did you come?' That is enough. They will start. kalahinaḥ piśunā. piśunāḥ means, fault finders. piśunāḥ - para doṣa utpādakāḥ, means what? They loudly proclaim or declare the doṣam, defect of other people. piśunāḥ and upavādinaḥ - those who are abusive people; whose language is very mean. upavādinaḥ abusive. te bhavanti. upavādinaḥ te bhavanti. te means what? dhyāna rahitāḥ ye bhavanti.

On the other hand, atha ye prabhava^h - he comes to the original topics, ye prabhava^h - means, those great people, who have got dhyānam, the virtue of alertness [it is repetition of the previous idea only]. So, on other hand, those people who are great ones, prabhava^h means, great one, dhyāna sahitā^h - they enjoy the result of dhyānam. dhyānāpādā^{*}, śā ivaiva te bhavanti - they have achieved that greatness because of their dhyānam. Their alert and attentive living. Therefore what? dhyānam upāssva iti - dhyānam upāsva - may you meditate upon that. You do dhyānam on dhyānam. What is this upāsanā? DHyāna BRAHMA DHYĀNAM. DHYĀNA BRAHMA UPĀSANĀ. Okay, what will happen? The phala śruti is given in mantrā 2.

स यो ध्यानं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावद्धानस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो ध्यानं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो ध्यानाद्भय इति ध्यानाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yo dhyānam brahmetyupāste yāvaddhyānasya gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo dhyānam brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo dhyānādbhūya iti dhyānādvāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavānbravītviti || 7.6.2 ||

Here also sakāma upāsanā phalam is given, which very, very similar to the previous phalam. If you want to put the phalam in one word, it is nothing but, kāmacāratva phalam. What is common to all? kāmacāratvam. kāmacāratvam means, free movement, free access. kāmataḥ yatheṣṭam carati. caraḥ means carati or caranam - movement. kāmaḥ means, at will. What is the difference between kāmacāratvam of the previous upāsanā and the kāmacāratvam of the present upāsanā? As the upāsanā gets more and more extensive, the range of access also will extend further. So, previously if kāmacāratvam in 5 lokās, now it will be 10. kāmacāratvam is common. But, the extent increases. That is the idea. And nāradā is not interested in all these things; or, he has got already those qualifications. Therefore, he asks the question, 'is there something superior to dhyānam?' And sanatkumārā says, 'certainly there is'. Then, nāradā requests, 'please tell me what it is'. Thus, with the second mantrā - [earlier three slokās came. Now it is only two] - the sixth upāsanā is over. Now, we will enter the 7th section. I will introduce.

Seventh Chapter - Section 7

विज्ञानं वाव ध्यानाद्भूयः विज्ञानेन वा ऋग्वेदं विजानाति यजुर्वेद ्सामवेदमाथर्वणं चतुर्थमितिहासपुराणं पञ्चमं वेदानां वेदं पित्र्य ्राशिं दैवं निधिं वाकोवाक्यमेकायनं देवविद्यां ब्रह्मविद्यां भूतविद्यां क्षत्रविद्यां नक्षत्रविद्या ् सर्पदेवजनविद्यां दिवं च पृथिवीं च वायुं चाकाशं चापश्च तेजश्च देवा ्र्ञ्च मनुष्या ्र्ञ्च पशू ्र्ञ्च वया ्सि च तृणवनस्पतीञ्छ्वापदान्याकीटपतङ्गपिपीलकं धर्मं चाधर्मं च सत्यं चानृतं च साधु चासाधु च हृदयज्ञं चाहृदयज्ञं चान्नं च रसं चेमं च लोकममुं च विज्ञानेनैव विजानाति विज्ञानमुपास्स्वेति।।

vijñānam vāva dhyānādbhūyah vijñānena vā rgvedam vijānāti yajurveda sāmavedam āthar- vaņam caturthamitihāsapurāņam pañcamam vedānām vedam pitrya^{} rāśim daivam nidhim vākovākyamekāyanam devavidyām brahmavidyām bhūtavidyām kṣatravidyām nakṣatravidyā^{} sarpadevajanavidyām divam ca prthivīm ca vāyum cākāśam cāpaśca tejaśca devā^{} śca manuṣyā^{} śca paśū^{} śca vayā^{} si ca tṛṇavanaspatīnchvāpadānyākīṭapataṅga pipīlakam dharmam cādharmam ca satyam cānṛtam ca sādhu cāsādhu ca hṛdaya jñam cāhṛdayajnam- cānnam ca rasam cemam ca lokamamumca vijnānenaiva vijānāti vijnānamupāssveti II 7.7.1

It [slokā] keeps going on & on. Let us see up to a part. What is the 7th layer. You can understand vijñānaṃ vāva dhyānādbhūyaḥ - here the word vijñānam means, śāstrārtha vijñānam, especially, the upāsanā kāṇḍa śāstrārtha vijñānam. So, śāstrārtha vijñānam is here referred to as vijñānam. What does it mean? The knowledge of the various upāsanās prescribed in the upāsanā kāṇḍam of the vedā. The knowledge of the varieties of upāsanās prescribed in the vedās in general; and there also, in the upāsanā kāṇḍam. You can understand why vijñānam is presented here. The previous one is dhyānam. If I have to develop alertness & attentiveness by practising dhyānam, then I require what? THE KNOWLEDGE OF MEDITATION. And that meditation knowledge, where do I get? From the scriptures. Therefore, śāstra jñānam helps in dhyānam. śāstrā jñānam helps in dhyānam. Can you see the connection? Only when I study the śāstrā, I can practise the upāsanā; and only when I practise upāsanā, I can develop what? Attentiveness or alertness. Therefore, vijñānaṃ vāva dhyānād bhūyaḥ. And through this vijñānam alone, one gains the knowledge of all the śāstrams.

A big list is given. This list is not new to you. Do you remember? In the beginning itself, when nāradā introduced himself to sanatkumārā, he gave a list of what he has learnt, he gave this list. Which means, I need not give you the word for word meaning [c/o the first mantrā]. nāradā gave the list rg vedam, yajur vedam etc. That entire list has been reproduced here. By gaining this śāstra jñānam alone, one develops what? Attentiveness or dhyānam. And from dhyānam to cittam. You should not forget the order. From cittam alone sańkalpaḥ, sańkalpaḥ to manaḥ, manaḥ to vāk, vāk to nāma. Therefore, vijñānam is sarva kāraṇam. This is going to be the development, which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

26. Chapter 7.7.1 & 7.7.2, 7.8.1 & 7.8.2, 7.9.1 & 7.9.2, 7.10.1 & 7.10.2, and 7.11.1

Sanatkumārā, the 'ātma vidyā' guru, is giving a series of brahma pratīka upāsanāni, as a stepping stone for brahma vidyā and I said, 15 upāsanās are being given. And in this, each one of the later objects is superior and more extensive, compared to the previous one. And the reason is, the later one happens to be the kāraṇam of the former one. And in this series, we have entered in to the 7th upāsanam, which comes in the 7th section and we have read the first mantrā in the last class. It is a very long mantrā. Therefore, I did not want to read it again. And in this mantrā, sanatkumārā introduces vijñānam as the 7th pratīkam. What were the previous six? First one is, nāma - the word. Second is, vāk or speech. Third is, manaḥ or intention. Fourth one is, sańkalpa or sense of propriety. Fifth one is, cittam - awareness of the totality. Sixth one is, dhyānam. dhyānam meaning, attentiveness or focus. And the 7th one is vijñānam.

Only where there is vijñānam, dhyānam is possible. By vijñānam, we mean śāstra vijñānam. Especially, upāsanā śāstra vijñānam when I have, then I can practise upāsanam. And dhyānam will come. And when I have dhyānam, then cittam or awareness will come. When there is awareness, I have a sense of propriety. When I have a sense of propriety, I will have right intention. And when there is right intention, it is verbally expressed as speech. When there is speech, there is nāma. Thus, from dhyānam we have come down to nāma! Each one is responsible for the other. And sanatkumārā glorified the vijñānam in this long mantrā, pointing out that, through vijñānam alone one will be able to know all these items.

A big list is given. rg vedam, yajur vedam, sāma vedam etc. And in the last class I said that, this list we have already seen before. [Where did we see? Better I give the reference so that you can refer back to that. The first mantrā in section 2]. rg vedam, yajur vedam, sāma vedam, itihāsa purāṇaṃ etc. There, I have explained the meaning. You can take it and put it here. The net result is, through śāstra jñānam alone, we come to know all these things. The bhūta bhautika prapañca, as well as all the other animals, paśū šća vayā si ca tṛṇavanaspatīnchvā padānyā kīṭa pataṅga pipīlakaṃ - all of them we come to know through vijnānam. Both laukika vijnānam and śāstrārtha vijnānam. Then, dharmaṃ cādharmaṃ ca. dharmaṃ and adharmaṃ. satyaṃ cānṛtaṃ ca. satyaṃ and asatyaṃ. [In mantrā-1, fourth line from the bottom].

satyam cānrtam ca sādhu cāsādhu ca. śańkarācāryā asks the question, "what is the difference between dharmam adharmam and sādhu asādhu? Both of them are same only. śańkarācāryā differentiates. dharmam and adharmam is from śāstrĩya dṛṣṭi, whereas sādhu and asādhu is from laukika dṛṣṭi. One is from adṛṣṭā angle. The other is from dṛṣṭā angle. So, sādhu cāsādhu ca hṛdayajñaṃ cāhṛdayajñaṃ ca - what is pleasant and unpleasant. annaṃ ca rasaṃ ca - food and nutrition. imaṃ ca lokām amuṃ ca - this lokā as well as other lokās - all of them, vijñānenaiva vijānāti. Therefore, hey nāradā, vijñānam upāssva - may you meditate upon knowledge as brahman. So, vijñānam upāssva how should we read? vijñānam brahma iti upāssva. This is the 7th upāsanā. Now, the phalam will be mentioned in the next mantrā. We will read.

स यो विज्ञानं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते विज्ञानवतो वै स लोकाञ्ज्ञानवतोऽभिसिध्यति यावद्विज्ञानस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो विज्ञानं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो विज्ञानाद्भूय इति विज्ञानाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yo vijñānam brahmetyupāste vijñānavato vai sa lokāñjñānavato'bhisidhyati yāvad vijñān- asya gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo vijñānam brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo vijñānādbhũya iti vijñānādvāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavānbravĩtviti II 7.7.2

The phalam is very similar to the phalam of previous upāsanās. sa yo vijñānam brahmetyupāste - the upāsakā if it is a sakāma upāsanā, he will go to such lokās which are full of vijñānam and jñānam. vijñānavataḥ lokān. The world which posses vijñānam. vijñānavataḥ is adjective to lokān. [takārāntaḥ puṃlińgaḥ 'vijñānavat' śabdaḥ. dvitĩyā bahuvacanam]. Not only the world of vijñānam, jñānavataḥ lokān - the world of jñānam he will go to.

So, here, two questions. 'What is the difference between vijñānam and jñānam?' In Tamil, normally, ரானம் jñānam means 'spiritual knowledge' and [விக்ஞானம் vijñānam in Tamil they say as, விஞ்ஞானம்], in Tamil, விஞ்ஞானம் is material science. Spiritual science they call as மெய்ஞ்ஞானம் meyjñānam. śańkarācāryā is reversing that here. In Sanskrit, it is the opposite. vijñānam means, śāstrīya jñānam. Scriptural knowledge. jñānavataḥ means, laukika jñānam, material knowledge. The upāsakā will go to the world of scriptural and material knowledge.

And then, śańkarācāryā asks the second question, 'how can the world have scriptural and material knowledge? World is after all inert! How can the inert world have knowledge?' śańkarācāryā says, here, the world of knowledge means, the world of the people who have got scriptural and material knowledge. Means, the upāsakā will be surrounded by learned, educated people. Such lokās he will go to, as a result of this upāsanā. And tatrāsya yathākāmacāraḥ bhavati - he will have free access to all those lokās. [And here in page 506 top line tatrāsya in my book it is wrongly printed as tatrasya. It should be tatrā. Long. If that mistake is there in your book, make a correction]. tatrāsya yathākāmacāraḥ bhavati. "yaḥ vijñānaṃ brahma iti upāsva" iti.

And, immediately after listening to this, nāradā is in a hurry for the next state! Therefore, he asks, "asti bhagavaḥ vijñānād bhũya" iti - 'hey bhagavaḥ, is there something vaster than vijñānam? And sanatkumārā says, "vijñānād vāva bhũyaḥ asti" iti - yes, there is something vaster. Then again, nāradā asks, "tanme bhagavān bravĩtva" iti - what is that? Can you tell me about that? And sanatkumārā says, 'certainly I will tell you'. sanatkumārā is going to give that in the next section. Section number 8. We will read.

Seventh Chapter - Section 8

बलं वाव विज्ञानाद्भूयोऽपि ह शतं विज्ञानवतामेको बलवानाकम्पयते स यदा बली भवत्यथोत्थाता भवत्युत्तिष्ठन्परि- चरिता भवति परिचरन्नुपसत्ता भवत्युपसीदन्द्रष्टा भवति श्रोता भवति मन्ता भवति बोद्धा भवति कर्ता भवति विज्ञाता भवति बलेन वै पृथिवी तिष्ठति बलेनान्तरिक्षं बलेन द्यौर्बलेन पर्वता बलेन देवमनुष्या बलेन पशवश्च वया ्ैसि च तृणवनस्पतयः श्वापदान्याकीटपतङ्गपिपीलकं बलेन लोकस्तिष्ठति बलमुपास्स्वेति॥

balam vāva vijnānādbhuyo'pi ha śatam vijnānavatāmeko balavānākampayate sa yadā balī bhavatyathotthātā bhavatyuttiṣṭhanparicaritā bhavati paricarannupasattā bhavaty upasīdan draṣṭā bhavati śrotā bhavati mantā bhavati boddhā bhavati kartā bhavati vijnātā bhavati balena vai pṛthivĩ tiṣṭhati balenāntarikṣam balena dyaurbalena parvatā balena devamanuṣyā balena paśavaśca vayā si ca tṛṇavanaspatayaḥ śvāpadānyākīṭapataṅgapipĩlakaṃ balena lokastiṣṭhati balamupāssveti II 7.8.1

What is the 8th stage of upāsanā? sanatkumārā says, balam vāva vijnānādbhūyah - balam means power or strength. Strength at all levels. Physical strength must be there. Only when there is physical strength, mental strength will be there. Only when mental strength is there, intellectual strength will be there. Strength in general is superior to even vijnānam; because, vijnānam requires strength to gather vijnānam. To come and attend the class, you require what? Strength. And to sit for one hour, you require strength. And to remember what has been taught, you require strength. Therefore, strength is the kāraņam for vijnānam.

And if you remember the sixth chapter [section-7] of chāndogya, there was an experiment. Do you remember? The guru told the student, 'you can drink water. Water will give you prāņā; but, do not eat food for 15 days'. annamaya ", hi somya manaḥ - when you do not have physical strength, mind will not be able to recollect. After 15 days, guru asks him to chant the sāma vedā, and the śiṣyā says, 'nothing strikes'. Therefore, balam is basic. So, here, the teacher says, balaṃ vāva vijñānād bhữyaḥ. And how do you prove it? He says, api ha śataṃ vijñānavatām - imagine there are 100 lean, educated people. 100 lean - முருங்கைக்காய் like - but, educated people; and, there is one gũndā, strong person. This one strong person, with one stroke, will push all of them! Therefore, upaniṣad says, api ha śataṃ vijñānavatām ekaḥ balavān - even if 100s are there, one balavān can pooh-pooh every one. ākampayate - he shakes them off.

śańkarācāryā gives the example of an elephant. Elephant does not have vijñānam. But, even if 100 people come, just with its trunk, it can throw them off. Therefore, śatam api vijñānavatām ekaḥ balavān ākampayate - therefore, do not neglect strength. And what are the advantages of having strength? upaniṣad is enjoying. sa yadā balī bhavaty. balī means, what? Not, mahābali. balī means the one who is strong. Only when a person is physically strong atha utthātā bhavati - first he can get up and stand. So, mere standing itself requires some strength. In school they will say, 'stand up' - 'sit-down'. Let us assume, I say that! I can say only once! I cannot say four times! Therefore, that will be a project! [you can remember this]. So, upaniṣad says, atha utthātā bhavati. First getting up requires strength; and, uttiṣṭhan - only when a person can get up and stand, paricaritā bhavati - he can do some service to a learned person!

He is connecting it to vijñānam. Only when there is strength, he can get up. And only when he can get up, he can serve anyone. And serve a learned ācāryā, also. That, we have to supply. And paricarann upasattā bhavati - only when a person serves an ācāryā, then alone he will become a dear disciple. So, before becoming a disciple, "tat viddhi praņi pātena paripraśnena sevayā" [gĩtā 4.34]. Therefore, strength is required for sevā; and sevā is required for becoming a dear disciple. upasattā means, priya śişyaḥ. He will become close to an ācāryā. And only when he becomes a priya śişyaḥ, draṣṭā bhavati - he can approach and meet, draṣṭā bhavati means, meet an ācāryā as a disciple. So, here, in this context, draṣṭā means, he can become dear to an ācāryā and meet a guru. Okay, what then? śrotā bhavati. Where all it starts? Strength. Only then he can do the śravaṇam of the śāstrā. And only when he does śravaṇam, mantā bhavati - he can do enquiry or think about the teachings of the śāstrā. Here, we are not talking about brahma vidyā; this is a general study of any śāstrā. And only when he listens to and analyses, boddhā bhavati - he can become a learned person. For vijñānam to come, balam is required. This development he is communicating. So, only then boddhā bhavati - he becomes a learned person.

And only when he is a well educated person, he can work somewhere and have a career. Why is he doing all this? To work! kartā bhavati. kartā means, what? Implementation of whatever knowledge he has gathered; like, vaidika karmāņi. kartā bhavati - means, śāstrīya karmā anuṣṭhātā bhavati. So, he can go to a guru, he can study, he can learn and he can work. And only when he implements his learning, vijñātā bhavati - here vijñātā means, karma phala bhoktā bhavati. karma phala anubhavitā bhavati. Thus, the entire series begins with what? balī bhavati. That is why when children are not healthy enough, you cannot send them to school. Where is the question of learning or getting employed. Therefore, be strong. So, balam is superior. vijñātā bhavati - means, karmā phala bhoktā bhavati.

Thus, balam is not only important at the micro level, vyaṣṭi level. balam is required at the macro samaṣṭi also. Therefore, sanatkumārā glorifies. balena vai pṛthivĩ tiṣṭhati - how much energy power must be there for the earth to rotate around itself and also go around the sun also?! Therefore, pṛthivĩ survives because of its strength. balena antarikṣaṃ tiṣṭhati - the intermediary lokās stand because of power. balena dyauḥ the upper lokās the heavenly regions pṛthivĩ is bhũlokā, antarikṣaṃ is bhuvar lokā, dyauḥ is suvar lokā, mahar lokā - all the upper ones. balena parvatāḥ tiṣṭhanti - all the mountains. balena devamanuṣyāḥ tiṣṭhanti - all the devās and manuṣyās. balena paśavaśca vayā si ca tiṣṭhanti. paśavaḥ means, animals. vayā si means, birds. tṛṇavanaspatayaḥ. tṛṇa is grass, vanaspatayaḥ is creepers. śvāpadāni is insects.

kīţapataṅgapipīlakam. pipīlakam means, ant. So, they had written in the paper, somebody had asked the question, "how is the ant able to carry a weight which is many more times than the weight of its own body. 20 times, 30 times, 50 times its weight ant can carry. Imagine us?! Let us say we are 50, [not 50] but 80 kg! Suppose, we are 50kg, can we carry 50k. 5kg itself is a problem! Ants can carry, it seems. Why? balena pipīlakam tiṣṭhanti. pataṅga means, moth; kīṭā means, insect. In short, balena lokaḥ tiṣṭhati - everywhere there is balam. So what should I do? sanatkumārā says, balam upāssva - may you meditate upon balam, as brahman. Then what will happen?

Continuing.

स यो बलं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावद्वलस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यो बलं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवो बलाद्भ्य इति बलाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥ 7.8.2॥

sa yo balam brahmetyupāste yāvadbalasya gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo balam brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo balādbhũya iti balādvāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavānbravĩtviti II

You can add ditto to all. Same type of result. This person will go to all the lokās which are as extensive as the balam is. And then, again nāradā asked the question, 'is there something superior to balam?' And sanatkumārā says, yes; and agrees to teach that. balam is the 8th in the upāsanā. Now, the question is, 'what is superior to balam?' That comes in the 9th section we will read.

Seventh Chapter - Section 9

अन्नं वाव बलाद्भूयस्तस्माद्यद्यपि दश रात्रीर्नाश्रीयाद्यद्युह जीवेदथवाद्रष्टाश्रोतामन्ताबोद्धाकर्ताविज्ञाता भवत्यथा न्नस्यायै द्रष्टा भवति श्रोता भवति मन्ता भवति बोद्धा भवति कर्ता भवति विज्ञाता भवत्यन्नमुपास्स्वेति ॥

annam vāva balādbhűyastasmādyadyapi daśa rātrīrnāśnīyādyadyuha jīved athavā adraṣṭā aśrotā amantā aboddhā akartā avijñātā bhavaty athānnasyāyai draṣṭā bhavati śrotā bhavati mantā bhavati boddhā bhavati kartā bhavati vijñātā bhavaty annamupāssveti 7.9.1

Now the 9th one sanatkumārā says, annam vāva balādbhũyaḥ - annam or food, is certainly superior to balam. What is the reason? Because, balam is the kāryam; annam - the consumed food alone is the kāraṇam. How do you prove annam is the cause of balam? Very simple! anvaya-vyatirekaḥ - you do not eat for śivarātri and see what is the condition?! Later, you eat and see the condition. You will know. Therefore, he says, annam vāva balād bhũyaḥ. tasmād - therefore, yadyapi daśa rātrī - I said only one śivarātri; but, sanatkumārā wants to make sure. Therefore, he says, for 10 nights or 10 days, suppose a person does not consume food. daśa rātrī. rātrī is dvitīyā bahu vacanam. For a duration of 10 nights, [here night stands for 10 days] nāśnī - if one does not consume food, [then you have to complete the sentence by supplying mriyeta - he may die. Not, he will; but, he may die.

On the other hand, yādyadyu ha jīved athavā. athavā means, on the other hand. yady jīved - suppose a person has not died, after fasting for 10 days, if he has not died, the upaniṣad says, even if he is alive, he is as good as not living. Why? As good as not living. Because, he cannot do anything mentioned in the previous sections. What is that? sa yadā balī bhavaty athotthātā bhavaty uttiṣṭhan paricaritā bhavati paricarann upasattā bhavaty upasīdan draṣṭā bhavati śrotā bhavati mantā bhavati boddhā bhavati kartā bhavati vijñātā bhavati - that list, all those activities will not happen. "a" "a" - he adds. yadyuha jīved athavā - if by chance a person survives, adraṣṭā bhavati. adraṣṭā bhavati means, he cannot even see things properly. And aśrotā bhavati. Due to sandhi rule, "a" is not visible; but, you have to understand. athavā adraṣṭā bhavati; then, aśrotā bhavati - he cannot hear the teaching. amantā bhavati - there is no question of analysis. aboddhā bhavati - no question of knowing. akartā bhavati - no question implementing. Only when you know you can implement. avijñātā bhavati - he cannot reap for experience the phalam. avijñātā bhavati means, karma phala bhoktā api na bhavati.

And suppose, after 10 days, you give him food. Then what happens? atha annasya āyai. āyai is chāndasa prayogah. It should be read as āyesati. āyah means, arrival. āyesati [sati saptamī] when the food arrives after 10 days and also he consumes, [if he just looks at the food what will happen?!] Then, what will happen? atha annasyāyai draṣṭā bhavati śrotā bhavati mantā bhavati boddhā bhavati etc. All we have to add. Thus, annesati balam, anne asati bala abhāvaḥ. tasmāt annam eva balasya kāraṇam. Means, kāraṇam [annam] is more extensive than kāryam [balam]. Therefore, hey nāradā, annam upāssva. Do not say, 'that is what am doing! All the time thinking of food only!' Then, what is the phalam for anna upāsanā? We will read.

स योऽन्नं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽन्नवतो वै स लोकान्पानवतोऽभिसिध्यति यावदन्नस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति योऽन्नं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवोऽन्नाद्भ्य इत्यन्नाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yo'nnam brahmetyupāste'nnavato vai sa lokānpānavato'bhisidhyati yāvadannasya gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo'nnam brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo'nnādbhũya ityannā-dvāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavānbravĩtviti II 7.9.2

Why cannot the upaniṣad enlist all the 15 together, in one section? That is upaniṣad! The upaniṣad enjoys presenting the dialogue one by one. It is a style in the vedās. We should have patience with that pattern. What is the phalam for anna upāsanā? The upaniṣad says, 'he will go to those lokās where is plenty of annam and also plenty of pānam. If annam is there, but jalam is not there, what to do? Therefore, annavataḥ lokān pānavataḥ lokān abhisidhyati as a result of this upāsanā. And, as usual, nāradā asked for the next one. And sanatkumārā says, 'I shall teach you'. Now where are we? annam is the 9th one. Now, we have to go to the 10th upāsanā.

Seventh Chapter - Section 10

आपो वावान्नाद्भूयस्तस्माद्यदा सुवृष्टिर्न भवति व्याधीयन्ते प्राणा अन्नं कनीयो भविष्यतीत्यथ यदा सुवृष्टिर्भवत्या- नन्दिनः प्राणा भवन्त्यन्नं बहु भविष्यतीत्याप एवेमा मूर्ता येयं पृथिवी यदन्तरिक्षं यद्द्यौर्यत्पर्वता यद्देवमनुष्या यत्पशवश्च वया ्सि च तृणवनस्पतयः श्वापदान्याकीटपतङ्गपिपीलकमाप एवेमा मूर्ता अप उपास्स्वेति ॥

āpo vāvānnādbhūyastasmādyadā suvrstirna bhavati vyādhīyante prāņā annam kanīyo bhavisyatītyatha yadā suvrstirbhavatyānandinaņ prāņā bhavantyannam bahu bhavisyatī- tyāpa evemā mūrtā yeyam prthivī yadantariksam yaddyauryatparvatā yaddevamanusyāyat pasavasca vayāši si ca trņavanaspatayaņ śvāpadānyākītapatangapipīlakamāpa evemā mūrtā apa upāssveti II 7.10.1

You must have understood as even we read. You would have started understanding Sanskrit, by now. āpo vāvānnād bhūyaḥ - in some books there is another reading, bhūyasyaḥ. bhūyah is neuter gender. Better reading is bhūyasyaḥ. āpaḥ is feminine plural. Therefore, bhūyasyaḥ must be better reading. So, what is the meaning? Water is superior to annam. Why? Because, annam, vegetable kingdom etc comes only when there is rain. Therefore, āpo vāvānnādbhūyaḥ.

How do you prove that? anvaya-vyatireka logic. When there is plenty of rain, there is sāmṛddhi. kāle varṣatu parjanyaḥ, pṛthivĩ sasya śālinĩ I deśo'yam kṣoba rahitaḥ sajjanāḥ santu nirbhayāḥ II That is the prayer. And the upaniṣad says, tasmād - therefore. Therefore means, what? Since water is kāraṇam and annam is kāryam, yadā suvṛṣṭir na bhavati. When there is deficiency in the rains, vyādhīyante prāṇāḥ - all the pañca prāṇās of the jīvā - of an individual, becomes afflicted, affected. pañca prāṇās are affected means, what? Life itself is threatened. vyādhīyante means, duḥkhinaḥ bhavanti. All living beings are afflicted. Disturbed. And annaṃ kanīyo bhaviṣyati iti - and they are worried that there will not be enough annam. That year is going to be drought year. The growth will not be 8.7%, [they are publishing in paper], it will come down to 5.7% Thus, without rain, we are caught. Therefore, annaṃ kanīyaḥ. kanīyaḥ means, what? alpam. Deficient. So, food will be deficient, iti cintāḥ vyādhīyante prāṇāḥ - all the jīvā s are disturbed.

Whereas, yadā suvṛṣṭiḥ bhavati - when there is plenty of rain. That is, enough rain; not, athivṛṣṭi, excessive rain is also problem. When there is plenty of rain, ānandinaḥ prāṇāḥ bhavanti. Here, the word prāṇaḥ can be understood as prāṇinaḥ - the living beings. They all will be ānandinaḥ, they will be happy. They year we will have plenty of annam. Especially from the farmer's angle. Their life is dependent on from agriculture. Our life is dependent on them also.

What is their thinking? annam bahu bhaviṣyatī - "we will have enough annam". With this thought, ānandinaḥ bhavanti. And therefore, āpaḥ is important. This is at the level of jīva rāśis.

And the upanişad also says, 'all this solid materials in the creation have ultimately come from water alone!' If you remember the taittirîya upanişad [brh.vallî] - ākāśādvāyuḥ, vāyoragniḥ, agnerāpaḥ, adbhyaḥ pṛthivĩ, pṛthivyā oṣadhayaḥ, oṣadhîbhyonnam, annātpuruṣaḥ, sa vā eṣa puruṣo'nnnarasamayaḥ. Therefore, all the mũrtāḥ - tangible, solid, physical materials ultimately have come out of water only; or, come out of liquid state only. Even the earth was once upon a time molten and then, it condensed. Thus, āpaḥ can be understood as water or liquid state also. āpaḥ eve imāḥ mũrtā. mũrtā means, tangible substances. And what are they? yeyaṃ pṛthivĩ - the earth, yad antarikṣaṃ. [The list we have seen before. Same list we have to add here]. pṛthivĩ yadantarikṣaṃ yaddyauryatparvatā yaddevamanuṣyāyat paśavaśca vayā š si ca tṛṇavanaspatayaḥ śvāpadānyā kīṭa pataṅga pipĩlakam antarikṣaṃ. All the visible world is ultimately from water only. That is why in sandhyā vandanam also - āpovā ida š sarvaṃ viśvā bhūtanyāpaḥ prāṇava āpaḥ paśava āpaḥ annamāpaḥ amṛtamāpaḥ saṃrāḍāpaḥ virāḍāpaḥ chanda š siāpaḥ jyothi š sy āpaḥ yajū sy āpaḥ sathyam āpaḥ sarvadevathāpaḥ bhūḥ bhuvaḥ suvaḥ āpaḥ. That water he takes - a spoon full of water - and address the water. See, what an awareness! Therefore, āpaḥ evemā imāḥ mũrtā!

Okay, so what? sanatkumārā says, āpaḥ upāssva. Therefore, may you practise jala brahma upāsanā. āpaḥ is waters. [pakārāntaḥ strĩlińgaḥ 'ap' śabdaḥ. nityam bhauvacanāntaḥ. āpaḥ apaḥ abhdiḥ abhdyaḥ abhdyaḥ apāṃ apsu āpaḥ - iti rũpāṇi]. apaḥ is dvitīyā bahuvacanam - object of upāssva. May you meditate upon jalam as brahman. Okay, what will happen? The phalam is said.

स योऽपो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्त आप्नोति सर्वान्कामा ्ॅस्तृप्तिमान्भवति यावदपां गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति योऽपो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवोऽद्भ्यो भूय इत्यद्भ्यो वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yo'po brahmetyupāsta āpnoti sarvānkāmā virptimānbhavati yāvadapām gatam tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yo'po brahmetyupāste'sti bhagavo'dbhyo bhũya ityadbhyo vāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavānbravĩtviti II 7.10.2

So, whoever meditates on jalam, as brahman, he will go to the extensive lokās where he will enjoy tṛptiḥ because, in the mantrā it was said jalam in the form of rains gives tṛpti to the humanity. tṛpti, how? By giving lot of food. Since jalam is tṛpti janakam, the jala upāsakā also will go to lokās where he will have tṛpti - contentment. So, tṛptimān bhavati, is the phalam. Again, nāradā asks, 'what is the next higher thing?' And sanatkumārā gives that in the next section. I will introduce.

Seventh Chapter- Section 11

तेजो वावाद्भ्यो भूयस्तद्वा एतद्वायुमागृह्याकाशमभितपति तदाहुर्निशोचति नितपति वर्षिष्यति वा इति तेज एव तत्पूर्वं दर्शयित्वाथापः सृजते तदेतदूर्ध्वाभिश्च तिरश्चीभिश्च विद्युद्भिराह्रादाश्चरन्ति तस्मादाहुर्विद्योतते स्तनयति वर्षिष्यति वा इति तेज एव तत्पूर्वं दर्शयित्वाथापः सृजते तेज उपास्स्वेति ॥ 7.11.1

tejo vāvādbhyo bhūyastadvā etadvāyumāgrhyākāśamabhitapati tadāhurniśocati nitapati varsisyati vā iti teja eva tatpũrvam darśayitvāthāpah srjate tadetadũrdhvābhiśca tiraścĩbhi-śca vidyudbhirāhrādāścaranti tasmādāhurvidyotate stanayati varsisyati vā iti teja eva tat pũrvam darśayitvāthāpah srjate teja upāssveti I

So, what is the next one? Superior to jalam, water. And when he said jalam, primarily the rainy waters are kept in mind. And the upanişad says, these waters come because of the summer heat caused by sũrya bhagavān. Rain is always preceded by heat, the fire principle. And also, before rains, there is thunder and lightning. Lightning is also agni tattvam. Thus, before rain, we experience two forms of agni tattvam. One agni tattvam is, heat in the atmosphere. And the other agni tattvam is, lightning among the clouds. And thereafter, rain comes. Therefore, agni is kāraṇam; vṛṣṭiḥ - jalam is kāryam. Even though from taittirĩya angle, agner āpaḥ, directly itself it is said. But, here, the upaniṣad quotes our experience. Whenever there is heat, experience of summer heat, we ourselves say, 'it is too hot, it may rain in the evening', we say. So, the upaniṣad says, agni is the cause of jalam. Thus, kāraṇam agni is more pervasive than kāryam jalam. Therefore, agni upāsanam kuru. Details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

27. Chapter 7.11.1 & 7.11.2, 7.12.1 & 7.12.2, 7.13.1

तेजो वावाद्भ्यो भूयस्तद्वा एतद्वायुमागृह्याकाशमभितपति तदाहुर्निशोचति नितपति वर्षिष्यति वा इति तेज एव तत्पूर्वं दर्शयित्वाथापः सृजते तदेतदूर्ध्वाभिश्च तिरश्चीभिश्च विद्युद्भिराह्रादाश्चरन्ति तस्मादाहुर्विद्योतते स्तनयति वर्षिष्यति वा इति तेज एव तत्पूर्वं दर्शयित्वाथापः सृजते तेज उपास्स्वेति ॥ 7.11.1 ॥

tejo vāvādbhyo bhũyastadvā etadvāyumāgrhy ākāśamabhitapati tadāhurniśocati nitapati varsisyati vā iti teja eva tatpũrvam darśayitvāthāpah srjate tadetadũrdhvābhiśca tiraścĩbhi-śca vidyudbhirāhrādāścaranti tasmādāhurvidyotate stanayati varsisyati vā iti teja eva tat pũrvam darśayitvāthāpah srjate teja upāssveti I

In this previous 10 sections which we have completed, the teacher sanatkumārā introduced 10 upāsanās known as brahma pratīka upāsanāni. And those 10 items were nāma, vāk, manaḥ, sańkalpaḥ, cittam, dhyānam, vijñānam, balam, annam, āpaḥ. And now, in this 11th section, sanatkumārā is entering the next higher superior entity which is called tejaḥ and tejaḥ means the agni tattvam. And agni tattvam is not mere fire only. We look upon sũryā, candraḥ, lightning or vidyut - all of them as agni tattvam only and here sanatkumārā says, this agni tattvam is superior to the jala tattvam; because, agni is the kāraṇam of jalam. If you take the order of pañca bhūta sṛṣṭi, [taittirĩya upaniṣad - brh.vallī] - ākāśādvāyuḥ, vāyoragniḥ, agnerāpaḥ. āpaḥ is fourth. But, here sanatkumārā says that, our regular experience also proves that agni is the cause of jalam. And that experience is being described here by showing that, the rainy season comes only after the hot summer season. The summer season indicates the agni tattvam as the kāraṇam; and the rainy season indicates the jala tattvam as kāryam. Therefore, this natural phenomenon is explained here; which we were seeing in the last class.

teja eva adbhyo bhũyaḥ - agni tattvam is superior to jala tattvam. And during summer season, what do we experience? tadvā etad vāyum āgṛhyā. tat means, the famous tattvam, the agni tattvam, taking the vāyu as the support, āgṛhyā means, ādhāratvena āśrayatvetna svĩkṛtya - using the vāyu as the support, through the vāyu, the agni heats up the whole sky or ākāśā. It does not heat the ākāśā directly; but, through the vāyu - which pervades the ākāśā - through that vāyum āgṛhyākāśa avastabya ākāśam abhitapati - the whole atmosphere warms up. And the temperature - we know in Chennai, it is 30, 31, 32, 33 - it goes on mounting up. And how do we express that? sanatkumārā says, tat āhuḥ - people start talking about this only. Conversation begins with this only. 'சம்மர் ஆரம்பிச்சாச்சு', 'summer has started'. After śivarātri, "'சிவ, சிவா' ன்னு சொல்லிப் போயிடும்!" Some logic is given! But, there is only one common topic. What is that?

tat āhuḥ - people always talk, niśocati. niśocati means, what? sāmānyena sañjapati - the temperature is warming up, all over. niśocati means, the general increase of the atmospheric temperature; and because of the increase in temperature, what is our experience? niśapati - because of that, we feel the heat in the body. viśeṣeṇa dehān tapti - therefore, nitapati. niśocati means, sāmānyena tapati; nitapati means, viśeṣeṇa tapati. The difference is both at the micro level & macro body level. Not only that. They say, 'sooner or later, the rains will come'. During summer season also, when the temperature goes up, we have summer showers. It is doubtful if it is here. But, sometimes, in Chennai also, we have summer showers. And later, during rainy season, normal rains will come. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, 'varṣiṣyati vā' [all these three are within quotation]. sanatkumārā is 'quoting' the peoples conversation. 'Temperature is up'. 'Body is burning'. 'Rain will be coming'. Grūuu? Temperature is up. Body is burning. Rain will be, hopefully, coming. iti āhuḥ.

In all these seasonal experiences, what we do see? ALWAYS, THE HEAT PRINCIPAL PRECEDES AND JALA TATTVAM FOLLOWS. THUS, AGNI IS KĀRAŅAM. PŨRVA BHĀTITVĀT. JALAM IS KĀRYAM PAŚCĀT BHĀTITVĀT. Therefore, he says, tejaḥ eva - agni tattvam alone, pũrvaṃ darśayitva - presenting itself first, as the preceding principle. atha - afterwards, apaḥ srjate, athāpaḥ has to be split as atha and apaḥ. [pakārāntaḥ strĩlińgaḥ 'ap' śabdaḥ. nityam bhauvacanāntaḥ. āpaḥ apaḥ abhdiḥ abhdyaḥ abhdyaḥ apāṃ apsu āpaḥ - iti rũpāṇi]. apaḥ is dvitĩyā bahuvacanam. apaḥ srjate - creates water. And, not only in the form the summer heat, agni tattvam serves as the cause of rain later during rainy season also.

The agni tattvam alone appears in the form of lightning. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, tat etat - the very same agni tattvam, which was very much present during the summer season, that agni tattvam alone precedes before the rains also. How? ũrdhvābhiśca tiraścībhiśca vidyudbhi. vidyut means, lightning. And what type of lightning? All this you have seen. Two types of lightning. ũrdhvābhiḥ vidyudbhi - in the form of the vertical streak of lightning. Have not you seen it?! ũrdhvābhiḥ means, vertical streaks of lightning; and tiraścībhiḥ - through horizontal streaks of lightning. This lightning represents what tattvam? agni tattvam. Remember, our subject matter is what? agniḥ kāraṇam, jalam kāryam. Therefore, kāraṇam is more extensive than kāryam. That is the topic; you should not forget.

tiraścĩbhiḥ ca vidyudbhiḥ - through such streaks, tritĩyā vibhakti, sahat tritĩyā - along with this lightning. āhrādāścaranti - so this agni tattvam alone comes in the form of the thunder claps.

āhrādāḥ means, the sounds of thunder, the peels of thunder. āhrād dhātu, first conjugation, ātmane pada. āhrādaḥ means, dhvanita śabdam, the sounds of thunder. Very careful; not, āhlādaḥ, instead of ṟ if you add l, it will mean āhlādaḥ, joy, happiness. āhrādāḥ means, peels of thunder. What is that thunder? sanatkumārā says, agni tattvam alone appears in the form of thunder, along with streaks of lightning. Therefore, āhrādaḥ sandhaḥ caranti. sandhaḥ, we have to supply. caranti - it moves in the atmosphere. Because of this reason alone, again people declare the following. What do people talk? 'tasmād āhuḥ' - because of this alone people declare, 'vidyotate' - 'there are flashes of lightning'. stanayati varṣiṣyati vā iti. stanyati - 'there are peels of thunder'. 'There is lightning, there is thunder'. Lightning & thunder represent what? agni tattvam. And immediately, what do they say? 'varṣiṣyati' - 'soon it is going to rain'. Again this indicates, agni is kāraṇam; jalam is kāryam. And therefore, what is the conclusion? tejaḥ eva tat pũrvaṃ darśayitvā agni tattvam alone appears in the beginning as the kāraṇam; and, ata - afterwards, apaḥ srjate - the agni tattvam alone produces the rains. And, therefore, agni is superior to jalam.

Okay. Therefore, what should I do? He says, teja upāssva - therefore may you practise agni upāsanā. So, if you take the 15 upāsanās mentioned here, you will find that all the forces of nature have been covered. Not only at the macro level, at the micro level also. mind, speech all of them are covered; which means, if a person practises these upāsanās, he has indirectly practised viśvarũpa upāsanā. In the 11th chapter of the gĩtā, upon the body of kṛṣṇā we visualise. Here, nature itself is directly taken for upāsanā. Therefore, annam when you say, prithvĩ tattvam is over. When you say jalam, jala tattvam is over. Now, we have come to agni tattvam. All the elements sanatkumārā is covering. Okay, tejaḥ upāssva. Then, what is the phalam? That is given in the next mantrā.

स यस्तेजो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते तेजस्वी वै स तेजस्वतो लोकान्भास्वतोऽपहततमस्कानभिसिध्यति यावत्तेजसो गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यस्तेजो ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवस्तेजसो भूय इति तेजसो वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yastejo brahmetyupāste tejasvī vai sa tejasvatolokān bhāsvato'pahatatamaskānabhi- sidhyati yāvattejasogatam tatrāsya yathākāmacārobhavati yastejobrahmetyupāste'sti bhagavastejaso bhūya iti tejaso vāva bhūyo'stīti tanme bhagavān bravītviti II 7.11.2

The phalam is similar. yaḥ tejaḥ brahmeti upāste - if it is a sakāma upāsanā, then after death, he will become tejasvĩ bhavati - he will become very bright devatā. And having become devatā, tejasvataḥ lokān bhāsvataḥ abhisidhyati - he will go to higher lokās, which are bright. Bright we can take in the regular primary meaning also. They are bright lokās. And it can be taken in figurative sense also. He will be bright and happy. That much joy will be there. And, apahata tamaskān - the worlds which are free from tamaḥ, darkness. apahata tamaskam is bahuvrīḥ samāsā. apahatam means, 'free from'. tamaḥ means, 'darkness'. teṣu lokeṣu apahata tamaskām. This, 'free from darkness' also can be taken in the literal and figurative sense. 'It is a brightly lit world', is number one. And again, 'his face is free from gloom. He will also be bright and smiley'. Not, உம்மணாமுஞ்சி! gloomy-faced! apahatatamaskām - his face is bloomy, not gloomy. In both senses, we can take.

abhisidhyati - and how extensive it will be? yāvattejasaḥ gataṃ tatrāsya yathākāmacāraḥ bhavati - he will have free movement all over as the all pervading agni tattvam is. And agni tattvam is more pervasive than jala tattvam; because, agni is the kāraṇam and jalam is kāryam. Therefore, kāraṇa rũpeṇa more extensive he will have movement. This is for whom? yaḥ tejo brahma iti upāste. And nāradā is in a hurry. "Let us see all that later. Please tell me is there something which is more extensive than the previous one?" Therefore, he asked that question. And sanatkumārā says, 'yes'. Until brahman, this kārya-kāraṇā chain will continue. Only after reaching brahman - which is mũla kāraṇam, the journey will end. So, with this, the 11th section is over, and the 11th upāsanā is also over. Now, we have to enter the 12th section, the 12th upāsanā. We will read section 12, mantrā 1.

Seventh Chapter - Section 12

आकाशो वाव तेजसो भूयानाकाशे वै सूर्याचन्द्रमसावुभौ विद्युन्नक्षत्राण्यग्निराकाशेनाह्वयत्याकाशेन शृणोत्याकाशेन प्रतिशृणोत्याकाशे रमत आकाशे न रमत आकाशे जायत आकाशमभिजायत आकाशमुपास्स्वेति ॥

ākāśo vāva tejaso bhũyānākāśe vai sũryācandramasāvubhau vidyunnakṣatrāṇyagnir ākāśen- āhvayaty ākāśenaśṛṇoty ākāśenapratiśṛṇoty ākāśe ramata ākāśe na ramata ākāśe jāyata ākāśam abhijāyata ākāśam upāssveti II 7.12.1

sanatkumārā says, ākāšā tattvam is superior to even agni tattvam. ākāšaḥ vāva tejasaḥ bhũyān. And, as even we read this, a question might arise in the mind, if it comes good; otherwise, okay. What is that? After agni tattvam, why does sanatkumārā jump to ākāšā, giving up vāyu? vāyu problem he does not want?! So, śańkarācāryā observes that, and gives a note. The reason śańkarācāryā gives is, while talking about agni tattvam, sanatkumārā has included vāyu also; pointing out, vāyum āgṛhyākāśam abhitapati - taking vāyu as the support, agni heats up the atmosphere. Since agni goes along with vāyu as the support, agni & vāyu have been taken together, as one unit. That is śańkarācāryā's reason.

Also, we can see another reason. Later, prāņa tattvam is going to be separately mentioned as the 15th stage of this upāsanā series. And since prāņa tattvam is nothing but the vāyu's expression or manifestation, perhaps, sanatkumārā leaves out vāyu. Whatever be the reason, he does not mention that here. He says, ākāśā is superior; and what is the reason? Two reasons can be given.

Here, the upanişad gives one reason. We have seen in all the previous cases, that kāraņam is superior and extensive. That is why we said, tejaḥ is kāraṇam and superior to āpaḥ. Similarly, we can argue ākāśā being the kāraṇam of all the later elements, ākāśā is more extensive. How do you know ākāśā is kāraṇam? taittirĩya upanişad [brh.vallĩ] - tasmādvā etasmādātmana ākāšaḥ sambhūtaḥ I ākāśādvāyuḥ, vāyor-agniḥ, agnerāpaḥ ... But, instead of giving kāraṇam as reason, sanatkumārā gives another reason. He says, ākāšā ALONE ACCOMMODATES EVERYTHING. Therefore, ākāšā IS THE ACCOMMODATOR AND CONTAINER OF EVERYTHING IN THE CREATION. Container must be bigger than the content. Is not it? You cannot have an elephant within a pot. Why? Because, the pot is smaller. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, all the four elements, like vāyu agni jalam and all the suns, moons, stars and planets, all living beings exist/rest in ākāśā. And not only they reside in ākāśā; they do all their transactions in ākāśā. Therefore, ākāśā is more pervading.

So, look here. ākāśe vai sũryā candramasāvubhau. The sun which is a form of agni tattvam exists in ākāśā. Therefore, agni is existing in ākāśā. So, ākāśā is greater than agni. Similarly, candraḥ - the moon, is also is a version of agni tattvam alone. And therefore, candramasau - they exist in ākāśā. Then, vidyunnakṣatrāṇyagnir. vidyut means, lightning, which is also a version of agni. Why am I mentioning that? Because, remember the previous one is agni tattvam. Therefore, specifically sanatkumārā says, all these agni tattvams - sũryā, candrā, vidyut, nakṣatram - all of them are accommodated in ākāśā. Therefore, vidyut - the streaks of lightning, flashes of lightning; and, nakṣatrāṇi - all the stars, are nothing but agni tattvam. They are all embodiments of fire. And of course, agniḥ - the regular fire that we use - they are all in ākāśā.

And not only all things and beings exist in ākāśā, all the transactions take place in ākāśā! What are the some of the transactions? sanatkumārā says, ākāśena āhvayati. āhvayati means, one person addresses another person & interacts where? In ākāśā. Thus, the caller is in ākāśā and the other person answers from where? In ākāśā alone. ākāśena śrņoti - through the medium of space alone we listen. And, ākāśena pratiśrņoti - he listens to the answer also in ākāśā only. In short, all the conversations - which are a form of transaction. All forms of transactions, mainly consisting of conversation - they are all happening in ākāśā.

And, ākāśe ramate, [in this verse, ramata it is given. That is not a printing mistake. Because of sandhi rule, it is printed as ramata. If you split it, it will be ramate]. Thus, a person revels because of his association with anything dear to him. priya saṃyogena ramate. Do you understand? priya saṃyogam means, association with a dear person or a dear object. All these saṃyogā are taking place where? In ākāśā. That is why, in deeply sleep state, there is no ākāśā; there is neither saṃyoga, nor viyoga. Therefore, jāgrat avasthāyām ākāśaḥ vartate saṃyoga viyogau; svapna avasthāyām ākāśaḥ vartate saṃyoga viyogau; svapna avasthāyām ākāśaḥ vartate saṃyoga ramate - because of this saṃyoga, this person is very, very happy. He embraces. That is, ramaṇam. And, akāśe na ramate. Again, later, he experiences displeasure also. na ramate means, what? The opposite of pleasure. He experiences displeasure. Because of what? viyoga. And that viyoga also happens where? In akāśe. So, saṃyogasya kāraṇam ākāśaḥ. For everything, kāraṇam is ākāśam only.

Not only that, ākāśe jāyate - all the things, all the seeds or causes produce their kāryam in ākāśā only. Thus, a sprout grows in ākāśā. A sprout or a plant grows in ākāśā. Not only it grows in ākāśā, it grows into ākāśā. In and into. It needs a place to sprout; and to grow also it needs a place. It requires a place to stay; and also space to grow in to. Therefore, ākāśe jāyate ākāśam abhi jāyata. abhi means, in to, in the direction of ākāśā alone all the leaves and sprouts expand. Therefore, as an accommodator, as an āśraya, as a container, ākāśā is more extensive than all the previous 11 tattvams. This is the 12th one.

And therefore what? So what? ākāśam upāssva - may you practise 'space meditation', which is nearest to brahman. I have often talked about this. Before you conceive of brahman, learn to conceive ākāśā. People always say, "Swāmījī how to meditate on brahman? It is aśabdam, asparśam, arūpam, arasam. How can I meditate on it?" vedāntā asks the question, 'how do you understand ākāśā?' You cannot say, 'I do not'. You cannot say, 'I do not understand ākāśā'. Why? If you do not understand, it will not come in your language. You can never have a word for something which you do not understand. We regularly use the word ākāśā. And, it is not 'absence of things'. ākāśā is a positive entity. If you say, ākāśā is nothingness, suppose you say, ākāśā is nothingness, then, what will it mean? Between that wall and this wall what is there? ākāšā is there. And, if you say, ākāśā is nothing, it means, between that wall and this wall 'nothing' is there. If 'nothing' is there, no distance is there! If there is no distance, these two walls must be in the same place?! Therefore, REMEMBER, WHEN YOU SAY SPACE OR DISTANCE, IT IS NOT NOTHINGNESS OR EMPTINESS.

ĀKĀŚĀ IS A POSITIVE DRAVYAM. vedāntā has been mentioning it millennia before scientists have been struggling to understand & continue to struggle. And now only they are getting some glimpse. They say, ākāśā is 'not absence of things. ākāśā is a positive substance'. Therefore, 'what exactly is ākāśā', if you try to conceive, you will get a mind subtle enough to conceive of or understand CONSCIOUSNESS; which is not a part, [do not get angry],' which is not a part, product, property', all we say. What is that 'CONSCIOUSNESS'? Similarly, 'EXISTENCE' what do we say? NOT A PART, PRODUCT, PROPERTY. IT IS AN INDEPENDENT ENTITY.

When you are not able to conceive of PURE CONSCIOUSNESS, when you are not able to conceive of PURE EXISTENCE, start with ākāśa upāsanā. Because, ākāśā AND BRAHMAN HAVE GOT SEVERAL COMMON FEATURES. Both are formless. Both are all pervading. Both are indivisible. Both of them accommodate everything. Both are uncontaminated. Thus, you can see several common features. That is why ākāśa dhyānam is considered to be THE BEST UPĀSANĀ, preceding brahman jñānam. ākāśa upāsanā is considered to be the best upāsanā. We talked about eka rũpa upāsanā and aneka rũpa upāsanā. You can add the third one. This has not been said before. arũpa ākāśa upāsanā is a third form of upāsanā. And if a person crosses over eka rũpa, aneka rũpa, arũpa ākāśa upāsanā, the mind has been tuned for 'aham brahma asmi' jñānam. And that is why caitanyam is also called cidākāśaḥ. natarājā is what lińgam? ākāśā lingam, called cit ambaram.

Dayānanda Swāmījī says, 'what is cidambara rahasyam? You will say, 'nothing is there; because, in the sanctum sanctorum, nothing is there! And they do ārati!' So, you wonder, "nothing is there!"

The idea is what? WHAT YOU THINK AS "NOTHING" IS SOMETHING. And what is that "SOMETHING"? ākāśā! Similarly, when you negate ākāśā also, [do not ask how? Suppose, you negate ākāśā also], 'Swāmījī, in meditation, NOTHING is coming' when you say, THAT NOTHING IS, YOU ONLY! When you say, 'there is śūnyam', the so called śūnyam is nothing but YOU, THE FORMLESS CONSCIOUSNESS.

This ākāśa upāsanā is a beautiful upāsanā, found rarely in the upaniṣad. We have only a few examples. One example is the 12th section of bhūma vidyā. And another place is, taittirīya bhṛgu vallĩ - "sarvamityākāśe, tatpratiṣṭhetyupāsīta, pratiṣṭhāvān bhavati, tan maha ityupāsīta, mahān bhavati, tanmana ityupāsīta, mānavān bhavati, tannama ityupāsīta, namyante'smai kāmāḥ, tadbrahmetyupāsīta, brahmavān bhavati, tadbrahmaṇaḥ parimara ityupāsīta ...". That, tat - tat, is ākāśa upāsanā, beautifully presented in bhṛgu vallĩ.

Thus, this is a beautiful upāsanā. And therefore, sanatkumārā said, ākāśa upāssva iti. And in taittirīya śikṣāvallĩ also, "ākāśa śarīraṃ brahma, satyātma prāṇārāmaṃ mana ānandam, śānti samṛddham amṛtam, iti prācīnayogyopāssva". ākāśa śarīraṃ brahma! What is the body of brahman? Brahman is what? CONSCIOUSNESS. For brahman, the CONSCIOUSNESS, what is the body? ākāśā is the body. Both are unmeditatable. Very beautiful. May you practise. Then the next question is what? What will I get? We will read.

स य आकाशं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्त आकाशवतो वै स लोकान्प्रकाशवतोऽसम्बाधानुरुगायवतोऽभिसिध्यति यावदाकाशस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति य आकाशं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगव आकाशाद्भूय इति आकाशाद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa ya ākāśaṃ brahmetyupāsta ākāśavato vai sa lokān prakāśavato'sambādhān urugāyavato'- bhi sidhyati yāvadākāśasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati ya ākāśaṃ brahmety upāste'sti bhagava ākāśādbhũya iti ākāśādvāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavān bravĩtviti || 7.12.2 ||

So, similar phalam; because, yathā yathā upāsate, tat eva bhavati. Whoever practices this extensive ākāśa upāsanā, he will also go to extensive lokās. Of course, the lokās are not named. The idea is, higher lokās. What is the nature of those lokās? ākāśavataḥ - where there is plenty of space. Not, 300 sq feet, 200 sq feet. It is not like that. Plenty of space. And, prakāśavataḥ - which is all bright; because of the tejas tattvam. And asambādha - just as ākāśā is asańgaḥ, unaffected by, uncontaminated by, whatever it accommodates. Similarly, this person also will remain unaffected in those lokās. He will be pīḍārahitaḥ. asambādhān - śańkarācāryā comments as, anyonya pīḍārahitān. ĀĸĀśĀ IS IN CONTACT WITH EVERYTHING; BUT, IT IS NOT CONTAMINATED BY ANYTHING. Therefore, unafflicted. And, urugāyavataḥ - which is available for vast and free movement. urugāyaḥ means vistīrṇagatiḥ. They say, காலாற நடக்கறதுக்கு இடம் இல்லை! There is no space to walk freely. 'காலாற நடக்கணும்'. 'We want to walk freely'. I did not understand the meaning. In the city we do not get space. So, people talk about that. Those problems will not be there. urugāya-vataḥ - free movement, everywhere. Like some countries where people are less & area is more.

urugāyavataḥ - all dvitīyā bahuvacanam. Adjective to lokān. ākāśavataḥ - sakārāntaḥ dvitīyā bahuvacanam; prakāśavataḥ - again dvitīyā bahuvacanam; urugāyavataḥ - again dvitīyā bahuvacanam. They are descriptions of those lokās. abhisidhyati - he will go to such lokās. And what is the extent of those lokās? yāvadākāśasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati - whatever be the extent of ākāśā, that will be the extent of his motion or movement also.

yaḥ ākāśaṃ brahmeti upāste. And this is the phalam for whom? The sakāma upāsakā. And, what is the phalam for niṣkāma upāsakā? Later, brahman is going to be described as pure ānandā; because, just as we use five principles for EXISTENCE and CONSCIOUSNESS, we will use the same principle for Happiness also, with capital H. [Happiness is not a part product or property of the mind. Happiness is an independent entity which pervades and reflects in priya, moda, pramoda vṛtti. Happiness is not limited by the boundaries of the mind etc - we are going to see them later. I do not want to say everything; If I say everything now, then, I will have nothing to say there!]

Therefore, PURE CONSCIOUSNESS, PURE EXISTENCE and PURE HAPPINESS - all these three are as unobjectifiable as the space is. And they have to be understood exactly as we understand space. In a peculiar way. GLUMA? In whatever way you understand space, better you understand sat cit ānandā also. Then, nāradā asked, 'is there something superior to ākāśā'; and sanatkumārā said, 'yes'. What he is going to say, we do not know. 'Yes, there is something superior to ākāśā also'. And nāradā asked for that. That comes in the next section. I will introduce.

स्मरो वावाकाशाद्भूयस्तस्माद्यद्यपि बहव आसीरन्न स्मरन्तो नैव ते कञ्चन शृणुयुर्न मन्वीरन्न विजानीरन्यदा वाव ते स्मरेयुरथ शृणुयुरथ मन्वीरन्नथ विजानीरन्स्मरेण वै पुत्रान्विजानाति स्मरेण पशून्स्मरमुपास्स्वेति ॥ ७.१३.१॥

smaro vāvākāśādbhũyastasmādyadyapi bahava āsĩranna smaranto naiva te kañcana śṛṇuyur na manvĩranna vijānĩran yadā vāva te smareyur atha śṛṇuyur atha manvĩrannatha vijānĩran smareṇa vai putrān vijānāti smareṇa paśũn smaram upāssveti || 7.13.1 ||

I will just give you the gist of it. The exact word meaning I will explain later. Here, sanatkumārā says, smaraḥ or smaraṇam or smṛtih or memory is the most powerful one. Superior to ākāśā is memory. How do you connect ākāśā and memory?! Thank GOD, śańkarācāryā explains that! These are all unique things. What is the connection between ākāśā and memory?! ācāryā says, in the previous section it was said, ākāśā alone accommodates everything, and in ākāśā alone all transactions are taking place. Therefore, ākāśā is great, as an accommodator of things and transactions. śańkarācāryā says, all transactions are possible only if one can identify things, clearly. Only when a person experiences an object and understands what an object is, and then registers in the mind, like, 'this is water. Water can quench the thirst'. Thus, the mind should have the capacity to understand water and also remember the function or utility of water. Only when the mind has that capacity, it will identify and know its utility and transacts.

Suppose a person gets total amnesia or dementia - some problem or the other, that person will be staring at the world. Staring at the people. Sometimes even staring at his own children or wife! And the wife or children ask, 'I have come here. Do you realise me?' Even 'words' that person is not able to understand! Even the people he is not able to identify. And he is not able to even recollect the language to reply. All these are possible for how long? Only till one's memory works.

Thus, transactions are possible only because of smaranam, memory. Therefore, THE VERY EXISTENCE OF THE WORLD IS BECAUSE OF MEMORY. MINUS MEMORY, THE WORLD IS AS GOOD AS, LET US PUT IT THAT WAY, AS GOOD AS NONEXISTENT!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

28. Chapter 7.13.1 & 7.13.2, 7.14.1 & 7.14.2 and 7.15.1 & 7.15.2.

स्मरो वावाकाशाद्भूयस्तस्माद्यद्यपि बहव आसीरन्न स्मरन्तो नैव ते कञ्चन शृणुयुर्न मन्वीरन्न विजानीरन्यदा वाव ते स्मरेयुरथ शृणुयुरथ मन्वीरन्नथ विजानीरन्स्मरेण वै पुत्रान्विजानाति स्मरेण पशून्स्मरमुपास्स्वेति ॥

smaro vāvākāśād bhūyas tasmād yadyapi bahava āsīran nasmaranto naiva te kañcana śrņuyur namanvīran navijānīranyadā vāva te smareyuratha śrņuyur atha manvīrannatha vijānīran smareņa vai putrān vijānāti smareņa paśūn smaram upāssveti || 7.13.1 ||

In the 12 sections which we have completed, sanatkumārā taught 12 upāsanās to nāradā. And all of them are pratīka brahma upāsanāni. And each one of the later upāsanā is upon the kāraņam of the former one. Thus, we have been travelling from kāryam to kāraņam. And naturally, kāraņam is more extensive than kāryam; and therefore, it becomes closer to brahman, which is the most extensive one, which is the infinite principle. And in this list, the 12th one was ākāśā. And as I said, Ākāśa UPĀSANĀ IS THE BEST UPĀSANĀ TO TUNE THE MIND TO APPREHEND BRAHMA CAITANYAM; BECAUSE, Ākāśā AND BRAHMAN ARE VERY, VERY SIMILAR.

And, after ākāśa brahma upāsanā, now, in the 13th section, sanatkumārā is talking about the 13th upāsanā, which is smara brahma upāsanā. I had introduced this in the last class. smaro vāva ākāśād bhűyaḥ. The word smaraḥ here means, smaraṇam or memory. So, this memory faculty is superior to ākāśa. ākāśād bhűyaḥ. bhűyaḥ is neuter gender. It has been converted in to masculine gender, bhűyān. Because, smaraḥ is masculine, so grammatically, bhűyaḥ must be bhűyān. Superior. And what is the reason? I was explaining this in the last class. Memory is the basic power because of which, we are able to 'identify a thing' as it is; and after identifying a thing we 'register' that in our mind; like, when you take the pen from your bag or pocket, you are able to handle and use the pen; because, in your mind, you are not merely perceiving a substance. pratyakṣa pramāṇam 'will reveal only a substance' which has the physical features. pratyakṣa pramāṇam will never tell, 'this is a pen'. pratyakṣa pramāṇam will never tell, 'what is the use' of the pen is.

That is why, when you give a pen to a baby, what will it do? Baby has got pratyakṣa pramāṇam. It sees the pen physically; but, it does not identify it; and therefore, it does not know 'how to use' it. When you give something to the child, what will it do? It will put it in the mouth! It only takes it in to the mouth. That alone is the function it is aware of. But, if we are given an object, immediately we use the object, appropriately. chāndogya upaniṣad book we open and keep in the front; we keep the notebook that side; keep the pen this side; keep the clip also! So, all those things, even without thinking, you use, appropriately. Why? Because, the mind has registered, identified and it knows its artha kriyā kāritvam. In mīmāmsā terminology we call it, artha kriyā kāritvam. Means what? Its useful function or utility is registered. And not only you remember and identify objects, we are freely using language. I am able to communicate to you; because, you have remembrance of those words. Imagine, you come fresh as a baby; not even one language is known! I will not be able to do anything! That is why when you go to a new place, where there is a different language, you have lot of problem. Therefore, śańkarācāryā says, THE VERY UTILITY OF AN OBJECT, DEPENDS UPON OUR MEMORY. And when the memory is totally gone, as in dementia, in amnesia etc, the utility of the world is gone. And when the utility is gone, it is as good as non-existent. So, kārya abhāvāt, tattvam eva nāsti. tattvam means, its very existent is irrelevant. THEREFORE, THE VERY EXISTENCE OF THE WORLD DEPENDS ON ITS UTILITY. AND UTILITY ITSELF DEPENDS ON OUR CAPACITY TO IDENTIFY & USE. THUS, MEMORY LENDS EXISTENCE TO THE WORLD. Very beautiful. This is the explanation given by śańkarācāryā. upanisad does not say all this. upanisad merely says, memory is superior to akāśa. The logical support is given by ācāryā. And the upanisad continues further.

tasmād - because memory is the significant faculty which is the basis for all transactions, tasmād yadyapi [there is a printing mistake here. So yadyapi means, even if bahava āsĩran - many people are seated together in an assembly. Imagine every member in the group has forgotten everything; including, who is who. So, yadyapi bahava āsĩran - they are seated. How? na smarantaḥ - without remembering 'who is who' or 'what is what', including language. Then, what will happen? naiva te kañcana śṛṇuyuḥ - they will not be able to hear the other person or understand what he is talking.

I gave you the example. Some people, because of some disease, they lose their total memory power, they are not able to register anything. Even if you give food, they do not know where to put it. Whether to put it in to the mouth or the nose they do not know. And even if you feed, they do not know whether to swallow or not. All can happen, when the memory faculty is gone. na smarantah - without remembering, naiva te kañcana śṛṇuyuḥ - they will not be hearing each other. And since they do not hear and register any information, na manvĩran - there is no question of analysing the received information. Only when you "receive" the information, 'analysis' can happen. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, na manvĩran - they cannot do mananam. They cannot do śravaṇam. They cannot do mananam. na vijānĩran - and therefore, there is no question of knowing anything; understanding or comprehending anything.

On the other hand, yadā vāva te smareyuḥ. So, now we greet each other. Why? Since we remember each other, we greet each other. Otherwise, it will not happen, he says. yadā vāva te smareyuḥ - when we remember things, including language, atha śṛṇuyuḥ - they will be able to listen. atha manvĩran - then alone they will be able to think or reflect. And, atha vijānĩran - as a result of reflection, they will be able to gain the knowledge. And, smareṇa vai putrān vijānāti - the upaniṣad says, parents are able to recognise, identify their children because of memory! In old age, it may go also. One may ask the son himself, 'who are you?!' You all might have had your own experiences in some family member or the other. So, smareṇa vai putrān vijānāti - they identify their children. smareṇa paśūn. paśūḥ means, their possessions they are able to identify. In fact, the entire world exists only if you can identify and recognise it! And śańkarācāryā says, it includes ākāśa also. And therefore, smaram is superior to ākāśa.

Okay, so what? sanatkumārā says, smaram upāssva - may you meditate upon smaram. In tattvabodha language, it is called 'cittam'. That faculty may you meditate upon. Okay, what is the benefit? The upaniṣad gives.

स यः स्मरं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्ते यावत्स्मरस्य गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति यः स्मरं ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगवः स्मराद्भूय इति स्मराद्वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa yaḥ smaraṃ brahmetyupāste yāvatsmarasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathākāmacāro bhavati yaḥ smaraṃ brahmety upāste'sti bhagavaḥ smarād bhũya iti smarādvāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavān bravĩtviti || 7.13.2 ||

So, in computer, they say, there is a particular button which says "delete". By mistake if you press that 'delete', what will happen? Everything will go. During one digital recording - after the full recording was done - at the end, the 'delete' button was pressed; and the whole class was gone! So, one 'delete button' you press, the whole thing goes away! [Jaya did not do; someone else did it. You do not do not look at her. <code>அவ பாவம்</code>! Someone else did it. Okay, whatever it is]. Similarly, in our brain also, it is all nerve connections. Some concussion or something happens, and if the 'delete' button is pressed, the whole thing can go away! Do not worry, it will be there for us. Like that, he says, sa yaḥ smaraṃ brahma iti upāste - that person who meditates upon memory as brahman, yāvat smarasya gataṃ tatrāsya yathā kāmacāro bhavati. We have seen these before. As a result of the sakāma upāsanā, he will go to lokās which are as extensive as smaraḥ.

Then, nāradā asks, asti bhagavaḥ smarād bhũya? iti - is there something which is superior to smaraḥ. And sanatkumārā says, there is. I shall teach you that. [in the next section]. Thus, we have covered how many upāsanās? 13 we have covered, so far. Now, we have to enter the 14th one.

आशा वाव स्मराद्भूयस्याशेद्धो वै स्मरो मन्त्रानधीते कर्माणि कुरुते पुत्रा ्श्च पशू ्श्चेच्छत इमं च लोकममुं चेच्छत आशामुपास्स्वेति ॥

āśā vāva smarād bhũyasy āśeddho vai smaro mantrān adhīte karmāņi kurute putrā śca paśũ šcecchata imaṃ ca lokāmamuṃ cecchata āśāmupāssveti || 7.14.1 ||

So, what is the next one superior even to memory? sanatkumārā says, āśā vāva smarād bhũyaḥ - you can understand. āśā means, kāmaḥ. Desire. Liking. Admiration etc. Something that we value. So, this āśā or desire or like is superior to even memory. And at every stage the upaniṣad does not justify it. upaniṣad does not give the reason. Remember, it is śańkarācāryā's task to give the reason. śańkarācāryā says, the reason is, 'IN ANY SITUATION, WHATEVER YOU VALUE, YOU LOVE, YOU LIKE, THAT ALONE GETS REGISTERED IN MIND'. Even in one hour class, if you ask different students 'which one you remember?', some remember only the joke part. Because they like that. Some remember, something else. Even though all of them are receiving the same, whichever they love, like or value, that alone is registered. When you are travelling on the road, which ones will be registered? Whatever you value or like that alone you remember. In a hotel, if we remember what all we ate, then we are #πப்பாட்டு ராமன்ஸ்! We remember some; because, we like.

Hence, śańkarācāryā says, MEMORY IS DEPENDENT ON YOUR VALUE. Therefore, āśā - that is like or value - is superior to even memory. Because, that is kāraṇam. Memory is kāryam. And, āśeddho vai smaraḥ - a person who has got desire for something, anything, mantrān adhīte karmāṇi kurute - he has got a value for a particular vedā, gītā or any text for that matter, he is able to study it. He is able to even remember those portions. Therefore, smaraḥ. smaraḥ means, a person who has the capacity to remember. Because of āśā iddhaḥ. iddhaḥ means, kindled by desire. Having developed memory power, kindled by desire in that particular field. Memory power is not general / uniform; you will find that in particular fields we have got greater memory power. In other fields we do not have. Why? We have no value for it. Having developed the memory power, kindled by a desire in that particular field, mantrān adhīte - a person learns the vedās. That is an example. mantrān adhīte and karmāṇi kurute - a person is able to remember sandhyāvandanam; and he is able to do those particular things. karmā. Therefore, karmā depends upon memory. Memory depends upon āśā. And, putrā šca paśū š ca icchate - through total karmā, he desires to accomplish various goals in life. Like, what? Children or house or health or pet etc. That accomplishment of goals depends upon karmā.

karmā depends upon the remembrance of those vedā portions; which depends upon the desire. And not only that. imam ca lokām amum ca icchate - he desires iha loka phalam; as well as, para loka phalam. All of them ultimately are based on kāmaḥ, which is the basic drive in every human being. Therefore, āśām upāssva - may you meditate upon icchā śakti as the most extensive power or principle. Okay. Then the question is, what is the phalam for this upāsanā?

स य आशां ब्रह्मेत्युपास्त आशयास्य सर्वे कामाः समृध्यन्त्यमोघा हास्याशिषो भवन्ति यावदाशाया गतं तत्रास्य यथाकामचारो भवति य आशां ब्रह्मेत्युपास्तेऽस्ति भगव आशाया भूय इत्याशाया वाव भूयोऽस्तीति तन्मे भगवान्ब्रवीत्विति ॥

sa ya āśāṃ brahmety upāsta āśayāsya sarve kāmāḥ samṛdhyanty amoghā hāsyāśiṣo bhavanti yāvad āśāyā gataṃ tatrāsya yathā kāmacāro bhavati ya āśāṃ brahmety upāste 'sti bhagava āśāyā bhũya ity āśāyā vāva bhũyo'stĩti tanme bhagavān bravĩtviti || 7.14.2 ||

Normally in the scriptures, the topic of kāmā or desire comes only in the context of obstacles or enemy to mokṣā. kāmā is generally discussed as a villain. Throughout the gĩtā, you will find [v. 3-37] kāma eṣa krodha eṣa rajoguṇasamudbhavaḥ, mahāśano mahāpāpmā viddhyenamiha vairiṇam. "Desire is the root cause". Popular proverb. "desire is the root cause of all evils". And in the second chapter of the gĩtā, mokṣā itself is defined "as a state when all the desires are eliminated". "prajahāti yadā kāmān sarvān pārtha manogatān" [v. 2-55]. Thus, generally, kāmā is introduced as a disease, as an enemy, as a saṃsāra bĩjam. avidyā kāma kārma.

But, we should remember, this is not an absolute view. kāmā has got a very important, positive side also. And we should balance that view with this right understanding. kāmā is a unique blessing called icchā śakti, which is available only to human beings. If there is one faculty which makes human beings superior to all the other animals, desire is one of the important faculties. That is why here we are seeing the positive side of kāmā. jñāna śakti and kriyā śakti both will be operational only if icchā śakti is there. If there is no desire to learn something, what is the use of all the brains? I will not learn anything at all, if I do not have a desire. For either material knowledge or even spiritual knowledge, what is required? "athāto brahma jijñāsā". The first sũtrā in brahma sũtrā is, "now begins the desire for brahma jñānam". So, if desire is not there, jñāna śakti is useless. If desire is not there, kriyā śakti is useless. If desire is not there, all the śāstrās are useless; because, nobody will come to study the śāstrā! All the four puruṣārthās will become irrelevant. Why? Nobody will have desire for dharma or artha or mokṣā. Therefore, we should remember, icchā - by itself, is never a villain or evil. icchā - polluted by avidyā, is the problem. Desire, contaminated by avidyā, is bondage. Minus, the contamination of avidyā, desire is the greatest blessing. In pañcadaśĩ, vidyāraṇyā says, "may you have crores of desire, without the avidyā pollution; it is a blessing to the world!" All the ācāryās wrote commentaries, because they wanted to bless the world. loka sańgraḥ mevāpi saṃpaśyan. It too was a desire. And even bhagavān has got the "desire" to create the world; to take avatārā etc. Thus, THIS UPĀSANĀ IS A VERY IMPORTANT UPĀSANĀ.

In this upāsanā, we see kāma as a sacred, noble, unique privilege that we have. And we are grateful to the LORD, for blessing us with icchā śaktiḥ. Therefore, may you meditate upon icchā śakti, as brahman itself. kāma brahma upāsanā. And the one who practises this upāsanā, of course, he will get the material result, if it is sakāma upāsanā. That is the same idea given here. āśām brahmetyupāsta āśayāsya sarve kāmāḥ samṛdhyanti - this person will have nobler and nobler desires, which will be all a blessing for the world. And not only he will have healthy desires, [I gave a talk on a new year day. I do not know whether you remember. I called it ABCD. ABCs Desire is a healthy desire]. That person will have plenty of healthy desires. And not only he will have that, all his desires will be fulfilled also. sarve kāmāḥ samṛdhyanti - all his desires, goals will be accomplished. amoghāḥ asya āśiṣaḥ bhavanti - he will become a satyakāmaḥ, satyasańkalpaḥ. All his wishes will become fruitful. amoghāḥ means, what? They will never become obstructed. They will never become futile. amoghā hāsyāśişo bhavanti. āśiṣaḥ means, āśāḥ. And this is the phalam. iha loka phalam while he is alive in this world. After death, he will reach those lokās which are as extensive as āśā is.

nāradā asked, 'is there something which is more extensive than āśā also?' So, now you would have lost track. Anyway, go home write down what are all the various items. nāmādi - āśāntam. From nāma, we have come up to āśā the 14th one. Now, we have to enter the 15th and the final in this series. We will read.

प्राणो वा आशाया भूयान्यथा वा अरा नाभौ समर्पिता एवमस्मिन्प्राणे सर्व ्ंसमर्पितं प्राणः प्राणेन याति प्राणः प्राणं ददाति प्राणाय ददाति प्राणो ह पिता प्राणो माता प्राणो भ्राता प्राणः स्वसा प्राण आचार्यः प्राणो ब्राह्मणः ॥

prāņo vā āśāyā bhũyān yathā vā arā nābhau samarpitā evam asminprāņe sarva samarpitam prāņah prāņe na yāti prāņah prāņam dadāti prāņāya dadāti prāņo ha pitā prāņo mātā prāņo bhrātā prāņah svasā prāņa ācāryah prāņo brāhmaņah 7.15.1 II

The 15th and final in this series, just before brahman. The penultimate one is, prāṇaḥ, which is called, hiraṇyagarbaḥ at the macro level. Now, we have come to hiraṇyagarba brahma upāsanā which is in the form of the sacred life principle, prāṇa śakti in all the living beings. And not only prāṇa śakti is the life force in all the living beings, prāṇā or hiraṇyagarba is the life force behind the universe also; which maintains the harmony, the law and order of the whole cosmos. Because of which alone, the universe is alive; it does not disintegrate. That harmony of the universe is the prāṇa śakti. And therefore, sanatkumārā says, the prāṇa śakti - the harmonising force in the universe and the life force in the living beings - is superior to even āśā. In fact, āśā is possible only if you are alive. A dead body cannot have any āśā!

Therefore, sanatkumārā says, prānah vāva. prāna śakti, the life force in the individual. āśāyā bhũyān - is superior even to āśā. And that is why, in brahma sũtrā, there is a discussion among all the organs - 'which is the most important one?' pañca jñānendriyāni, pañca karmendriyāni, catvāri antahkaranāni and prānah of these, which one is the basic one? And vyāsācāryā establishes that, 'prana is the basic one, because of which, all of them are alive'. And only if they are there, you can think of further transactions. Suppose any busy person falls sick, say, the Prime Minister, what will they say? 'The Prime Minister has cancelled all his programs. That means what? All the programs are relevant only if the prana sakti is there. If there is a threat to that, there is a threat to health and even life. Then, all transactions become meaningless. That is the basic tattvam. Therefore, prānah vā āśāyā bhũyān and yathā vā arāh nābhau samarpitā just as the spokes of a wheel are connected to the central hub or axle, nabhi means, central part of the wheel. And this spokes alone sustain the outer rim. The outer rim is able to remain in shape and to move about only because of the spokes; and the spokes are there because of what? Because of the nābhi. Minus the nābhi, spokes are gone; and without that, the outside rim itself cannot survive. Similarly, he says, just as arāh, arāh means, spokes. nābhau - upon the hub of the wheel, samarpitāh - spokes are based or supported. We saw this in mundaka upanișad also. [mantrā 2.2.6] - arā iva ratha nābhau samhatā yatra nādyah sa eșo'ntaścarate bahudhā jāyamānah II

evam - in this manner, asmin prāņe sarva samarpitam - the entire kārya prapañcā is supported in kāraņa hiraņyagarba. If you remember tattvabodha, from īśvarā the hiraņyagarbā came. And from hiraņyagarbā alone, all the other things originated. Therefore, hiraņyagarbā is kāraņam for the entire macro universe, called virāt or viśvarũpa. And therefore, he says, sarvam - the entire sthũla prapañcā is supported by or is based on prāņe, the prāņa tattvam only. Therefore, the whole CREATION is nothing but, prāņa tattvam, with nāma & rũpa. And therefore, he says, sarvam prāņamayam jagat. Why? kāraṇatvāt. prāṇaḥ prāṇena yāti - prāṇā is able to function because of its own power; whereas, the world is able to function because of prāṇā. So, this is said to show that, prāṇā is svatantram or independent; whereas, everything else is dependent on prāṇā.

Take the example of the individual himself. prāņā can function even if the sense organs are not functioning. How do you prove that? During suṣupti avasthā, all the sense organs resolve. The jñānendriyams, the karmendriyams all resolve. manaḥ - emotions resolve; buddhi - thinking resolves. Even the ego - ahamkāraḥ resolves. cittam - memory power resolves. In suṣupti, even when everything else resolves, what continues to be active? prāṇā continues. What is the proof? Quŋlu C&maî! Big question! If prāṇa had gone, resolved during suṣupti, we would not get up! Not only that, people would have disposed us off! So, when everything else is resolved, prāṇā continues to function. That means what? prāṇā is independent of others. But, you cannot say, 'let prāṇā go away; and let all the other organs function', you cannot say. So, prāṇaḥ svatantraḥ, sarvam anyat paratantram. Or, prāṇaḥ kāraṇam; sarvam anyat kāryam. Therefore, prāṇā is the greatest one.

And in chāndogya [and bṛhadāraṇyaka] itself we have got a story also. I do not know whether you remember. To find out who is the greatest one amongst them, the Organs agree on an arrangement. For one year each organ will go away & then come back. So, the eyes go away; this person becomes blind; but, he survives. Another year, ear goes away. This person becomes deaf; but, he survives. Thus, each organ goes away; yet, this person survives. Thereafter, prāṇā says, "I will now go away." It does not really go away. It only plans to go away, and withdraws a little bit. Then, all the organs become weaker. In praśnopaniṣad, this story is there. In chāndogya & bṛhadāraṇyaka also this story comes. And thereafter, all the organs join together and give a big stuti of prāṇaḥ. All those portions you should remember.

And so, sanatkumārā says, PRĀŅĀ IS EVERYTHING. So, prāņaņ yāti - the prāņā functions, prāņena by itself, not because of any other organ. prāņaņ prāņam dadāti - prāņā alone gives prāņā. The idea is what? The giver is prāņā; the receiver is also prāņā! sarvam prāņamayam jagat. To emphasise that, he is saying this. So, prāņaņ dadāti - prāņa is the subject, the giver. prāņaṃ dadāti - prāņa is the object that is given. In our class also, I am able to speak because of what? prāņā. You are able to listen, because of what? prāņā. All this, prāņa does. [He is saying, ப்ராணனை வாங்காதே! Do not nag me]. prāņaņ prāņaṃ dadāti, prāņāya dadāti - the receiver is prāņā. And prāņo ha pitā - prāņā is father; prāņā is mother. That means, father continues to be father, because of prāņā. But, the moment prāņa goes away, you change the language! Similarly, mother is mother because of prāņā. And if the mother enjoys any reverence, [இருக்கோ இல்லையோ தெரியாது! - I do not know if it is there or not!] If there is some reverence, it is because of prāņā. The moment the prāņā goes away - in bhaja govindam śańkarācāryā says – as long as the prāņā is there, one has respect for that body. The moment prāņā goes away, even the dearest husband or wife thinks of, 'how to dispose of at the earliest'. That is what is the dear one is! That means what? Apply anvayavyatireka logic. When prāņā is there, body is loved. If prāņā is not there, the body is disposed. So, you love what? The prāņa alone. Therefore, prāņo mātā prāņo bhrātā. bhrātā means, brother. prāņaḥ svasā - the dear sister. svasā means, sister. The dear brother; the dear and revered father; revered mother. prāņa ācāryaḥ - [the dear and revered, put that also!] teacher; and, prāņo brāhmaṇaḥ - dear and revered brāhmaṇā - a cultured, learned person. ALL OF THEM ENJOY THEIR STATUS BECAUSE OF PRĀŅĀ ALONE!

yāvatpavano nivasati dehe tāvatprcchati kuśalam gehe | gatavati vāyau deha apāye bhāryā bibhyati tasminkāye ||

And in chāndogyā itself, another story is there. I do not want to go into the story part. There, it is said, a person is judged as good or bad based on the jñānendriyās and karmendriyās. The indriyās can be good or the indriyās can be bad, based on their type of activity. But, as far as prāņā is concerned, there is no question of bad prāņā! LIFE IS ALWAYS SACRED IN EVERYONE. When you talk about a criminal as a criminal, the criminality belongs only to his thoughts & actions. His prāņā - by itself - does not have any pollution. Therefore, it is " jyeṣṭhanca sreśṭhanca". śāstrā has talked a lot about prāṇā. All of them we have to remember here. Thus, prāṇā is unpollutable. It is always sacred. prāṇaḥ brāhmaṇaḥ.

Continuing.

स यदि पितरं वा मातरं वा भ्रातरं वा स्वसारं वाचार्यं वा ब्राह्मणं वा किञ्चिद्भृशमिव प्रत्याह धिक्त्वास्त्वित्येवैनमाहुः पितृहा वै त्वमसि मातृहा वै त्वमसि भ्रातृहा वै त्वमसि स्वसृहा वै त्वमस्याचार्यहा वै त्वमसि ब्राह्मणहा वै त्वमसीति ॥

sa yadi pitaram vā mātaram vā bhrātaram vā svasāram vācāryam vā brāhmaņam vā kiñcid bhrśamiva pratyāha dhiktvāstvity evainam āhuņ pitrhā vai tvamasi mātrhā vai tvamasi bhrātr- hā vai tvamasi svasrhā vai tvamasy ācāryahā vai tvamasi brāhmaņa hā vai tvamasĩti || 7.15.2 ||

The glory of prānā is pointed out here. So, when we are respecting our parents and others, the respect really goes to the prana only; and vice versa. If we show any disrespect to any one of them, then it is like disrespecting the very prana tattvam. And disrespecting the prana tattvam is as good as killing them! And therefore, the upanisad says, sa yadi pitaram vā mātaram vā bhrātaram vā svasāram vācāryam vā brāhmanam vā. To any one of these people mentioned here, bhrśam iva pratyāha - suppose a person talks little bit rudely, need not do anything. śāstrā says, 'even a little bit rudely'. bhrśam means, rudely. Suppose a person talks to any one of them. Any one of them means who? Who all were said. pitā, mātā, bhrātā, svasā, ācāryah, brāhmanā - any one of them. dhiktvā astu iti eva enam āhuh - immediately, the elders scold the person who talks rudely, "by talking rudely, you are killing them". 'Disrespecting them is a like disrespecting the prānā. It is like hurting the prānā or killing them'. Thus, they say. Indicating that their essential nature and respectability belongs to the prana tattvam only. Therefore, the upanisad says, enam āhuh - all the others reprimand him. Whom? The one who talks rudely to the other members. The elders reprimand him, saying what? dhiktvā astu iti - "shame upon you. You are using such words. It a shame. Because, by using these words you are killing them. It is as good as killing them". Therefore, pitrhā vai tvam asi. ha means, killing. So, you are murdering, destroying your father by using these rude words. The idea is, prānā is the essence in all of them. Details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

29. Chapter 7.15.2. to 7.15.4

स यदि पितरं वा मातरं वा भ्रातरं वा स्वसारं वाचार्यं वा ब्राह्मणं वा किञ्चिद्भृशमिव प्रत्याह धिक्त्वास्त्वित्येवैनमाहुः पितृहा वै त्वमसि मातृहा वै त्वमसि भ्रातृहा वै त्वमसि स्वसृहा वै त्वमस्याचार्यहा वै त्वमसि ब्राह्मणहा वै त्वमसीति ॥

sa yadi pitaram vā mātaram vā bhrātaram vā svasāram vācāryam vā brāhmaņam vā kiñcid bhrśamiva pratyāha dhiktvāstvity evainam āhuḥ pitrhā vai tvamasi mātrhā vai tvamasi bhrātr- hā vai tvamasi svasrhā vai tvamasy ācāryahā vai tvamasi brāhmaņa hā vai tvamasīti II 7.15.2

In this 7th chapter of chāndogyā, known as bhūma vidyā, sanatkumārā is teaching various upāsanās to nāradā, as a preparation for the main teaching of brahman, which brahman is called as ātmā or bhūmā. All these three words [brahman, ātmā, bhūmā] mean, THE INFINITE REALITY. And 15 upāsanās are taught, known as pratīka upāsanāni; and each one should be taken as a pratīkam or a symbol, for visualising as brahman. And in this series, we have come to the 15th and final upāsanā, which is before the main brahman teaching. And the 15th and highest taken in this series is, prāṇa tattvam or prāṇa śaktiḥ. And here, the word prāṇā should be understood as the samaṣṭi prāṇā, which inheres all the living beings.

THIS PRĀŅĀ IS THE SUPERIOR MOST PRINCIPLE IN THE CREATION, because of several reasons. The first reason is that, prāņā alone is the controller of the entire sũkṣma śarĩram. All the jñānendriyās all the karmendriyās and even the four antaḥkaraṇams - they are all functional and efficient only when prāṇa śakti is powerful. When the prāṇā is weaker, as when we fall sick or when we are about to die, [let us not say we, someone else! You may be afraid]. When somebody is about to die or when we are sick, the prāṇā is weaker, then, all the organs are non-functional or feeble. That is why in bṛhadāraṇyaka it is said, prāṇa śakti alone is given to all the other organs. Therefore, all the other organs are known as gauṇa prāṇāḥ. In brahma sũtrã also, we studied this. The sense organs are also called prāṇā alone lends energy or power to them. Therefore, the sense organs are called secondary prāṇā and the pañca prāṇās are called mukhya prāṇaḥ. Thus the first glory of prāṇā is, that alone controls the entire sũkṣma śarĩram.

And not only that. The prāņā alone keeps the sũkṣma śarĩram in a particular physical body; and at the time of death, the prāņā alone takes away the sũkṣma śarĩram in the form of udāna prāṇaḥ. [Hope you remember, I do not know]. udānā is that aspect of prāṇā which takes the sũkṣma śarĩram away from the body. During our lifetime, udānā is weak. At the time of death, all the others become weaker. prāṇā, apānā, vyānā, samānā. But, at the time of death, the udāna prāņā becomes stronger. And why is it called udānā? ũrdvam nayati iti udānaḥ. That alone drags away the sũkṣma śarĩram and leaves the body. And because of the prominence of prāņā alone, when the sũkṣma śarĩram leaves the body at the time of death, we do not say sũkṣma śarĩram has left. What do we say? ப்ராணன் போச்சு! only we say. We do not use the word sũkṣma śarĩram, indicating that prāṇā alone is prominent. It keeps the sũkṣma śarĩram within the body; and it drags the sũkṣma śarĩram out of the body. Thus, sũkṣma śarĩram is under the தயவு or care of prāṇa tattvam alone. Not only prāṇā is the controller of the sũkṣma śarĩram, the interesting thing is even the ātmā's presence is determined by the prāṇā alone! I will explain. Even the presence of ātmā is available only because of prāṇā; because, [are you able to guess? You must have understood. Anyway, I will explain].

Only because of prāņā, sũkṣma śarĩram is in the body; and because of the sũkṣma śarĩram alone, ātmā is able to reflect as the cidābhāsa caitanyam. Thus, the all pervading ātmā is able to come down as cidābhāsā, because of sũkṣma śarĩram. And the sũkṣma śarĩram is within the body, because prāṇā holds it. And therefore, if prāṇā leaves the body, the sũkṣma śarĩram leaves the body, the cidābhāsā leaves the body, even if ātmā is present in the body, do you understand? Even though the all pervading ātmā is present in the body, ātmā is as good as not there.

In a dead body, ātmā is there or not? [What answer will you give? Say, correctly!] IN A DEAD BODY ALSO ĀTMĀ IS VERY MUCH THERE. BUT, STILL, ĀTMĀ IS AS GOOD AS NOT THERE; BECAUSE, FOR ĀTMĀ TO FUNCTION, IT HAS TO COME AS CIDĀBHĀSA. FOR CIDĀBHĀSA TO BE THERE, IT REQUIRES SŨKṢMA ŚARĨRAM. FOR SŨKṢMA ŚARĨRAM TO BE THERE IN THE BODY, THE PRĀŅĀ MUST BLESS. THEREFORE, ĀTMĀ'S EFFICIENCY IS DETERMINED BY PRĀŅĀ. So, if prāṇan is not there, ātmā's caitanyam is not available for the body. If prāṇā is absent, ātmā's caitanyam is not available for the body. What is the case? Dead body is the case! Therefore, for all practical purposes, when prāṇā leaves the body, we can say it is "AS GOOD AS" ātmā leaving the body. So, wherever prāṇā is, ātmā is available. Wherever prāṇā is not, ātmā is not available. Therefore, prāṇā is called ātma pratinidiḥ. I have not used this word before. I am introducing a fresh word. prāṇa is called ātma pratinidiḥ. A representative. A powerful secretary.

Like, often the secretaries are more powerful than the VIP boss! You would have experienced, perhaps. Because, if you want the boss for some function and you make a phone call, you do not directly contact the VIP boss. You contact whom? prāņā!. The secretary is the prāņā! And the secretary can make the VIP not available, just by saying, 'already some program is there'.

How can you know?! On the other hand, if she loves you - therefore only, they say, காக்கா பிடிக்கணும்னா யாரை பிடிக்கணும்? Not the boss; but the secretary! Similarly, ātmā is VIP boss all right; but, more powerful - within quotes, "as though more powerful" - than ātmā is prāņā". If prāņā is not there, even ātmā's existence we cannot talk about; because, all will be dead bodies. How can dead body talk about ātmā?! That is why prāņā is often equated with ātmā. And when prāņā goes away, [in English we have an expression, 'the departed soul'. What do you mean soul? ātmā!] Really speaking, ātmā, the soul, never departs. Cannot depart. Still we talk about 'jīvātmā departing', 'jīvātmā traveling' - in all these expressions, the word jīvātmā refers to what? The prāņā alone!

Thus, prāņā and ātmā are as though synonymous; and therefore, sanatkumārā says, PRĀŅĀ IS THE GREATEST AND THE MOST POWERFUL SYMBOL FOR BRAHMA UPĀSANĀ. And not only that. sanatkumārā gives certain practical experiences also as a proof for that. And, in this mantrā he says, if you analyse by anvayavyatireka logic, you will see that all respectable & lovable people are respectable & lovable only as long as they are alive, or, there is prāņā. Therefore, what is the anvaya logic? prāņa satve love satvam. Lovability satvam. Respectability satvam. prāņa abhāve, once the prāņā is gone, that very same body is treated as impure body. In fact, anybody who comes to that house, they have to go home and take bath. Therefore, prāņa satve ādahraḥ. prāṇa abhāve, ādharābhāvaḥ. Thus, all love and respect are really directed towards whom? Not the body; it is impure. All the love and respect are directed towards prāņā only! This anvayavyatireka logic is given in mantrā two and three. The second mantrā gives the anvaya vyāpti and the third mantrā gives the vyatireka. We were seeing this in the last class.

So, a few examples, people are taken as representatives of lovable & respectable persons. Who are they? Six of them. pitā, mātā, bhrātā, svasā, ācāryaḥ, brāhmaṇā. Father, mother, brother, sister, teacher and a learned person. brāhmaṇaḥ means, a learned, cultured person. All these six are lovable & respectable only because of prāṇā's presence. How much love and respect they deserve? The upaniṣad explains it. They are so lovable and respectable that even if somebody uses a slightly impolite word; during conversation, if a boy or girl uses a slightly sharp or impolite word; while conversing with these elders, then it is considered as a great sin. In fact, he has not done anything serious. Only a slight impolite expression. And therefore he said, kiñcid bhṛśam iva, it is not even impolite. Only an 'as though' impolite word. So, bhṛśam iva pratyāha - directed towards whom? The six people. Any one of them - pitaraṃ vā mātaraṃ vā bhrātaraṃ vā svasāraṃ vācāryaṃ vā brāhmaṇaṃ vā, [vā - you can take Tamil வா also. வாங்கோ also]. Here, the vā means either or. Either father or mother or brother or sister - if a person talks to slightly impolitely.

And what is the impoliteness? You can take this Tamil 'வா' itself. Sometimes parents would have brought the child along. The child will tell, "Swāmījī வா!" அம்மா! will become jittery. "வாங்கோ! சொல்லுடா!" Therefore, do not say வா vā; it is disrespect. It is vā here also. But, it is not Tamil வா; but, you can take like that. bhṛśam iva pratyāha - then the elders cannot tolerate that impolite expression; and immediately they retort, dhiktvā astu - 'shame upon you. It is very bad to use such an expression. And how much sinful it is? The elders say, using impolite expression is as good as even killing them. Of course, this is an exaggeration; just to show that this much respect is there because of what? The prāṇa tattvam. To tell the prāṇā's glory, the upaniṣad is exaggerating. The elders reprimand. And what do they say? pitṛhā vai tvam asi - by using such an impolite expression, you have killed, as though. Similarly, mātṛhā vai tvam asi; bhrātṛhā, svasṛhā etc.

Thus, when prāņā is there, all these people are lovable and respectable. This is what argument? anvaya argument. Now, in the next mantrā, the upaniṣad or sanatkumārā will talk about the vyatireka. What is vyatireka? The moment prāṇā is absent - remember bhaja govindam ślokā. That is the typical quotation. "yāvatpavano nivasati dehe". pavanaḥ means what? Life breadth. "yāvatpavano nivasati dehe tāvatpṛcchati kuśalaṃ gehe". 'How are you? Are you hungry? Do you need food', people will ask, generally. [There may be exceptions!] "gatavati vāyau, vyatireka, gatavati vāyau deha apāye bhāryā bibhyati tasminkāye". But, when prāṇā is gone, even the wife treats the body differently. That is what he is going to say. We will read mantrā 3.

अथ यद्यप्येनानुत्क्रान्तप्राणाञ्छूलेन समासं व्यतिषन्दहेन्नैवैनं ब्रूयुः पितृहासीति न मातृहासीति न भ्रातृहासीति न स्वसृहासीति नाचार्यहासीति न ब्राह्मणहासीति ॥

atha yadyapyenānutkrāntaprāņāñchūlena samāsam vyatiṣandahennaivainam brūyuḥ pitṛhās-ĩti na mātṛhāsĩti na bhrātṛhāsĩti na svasṛhāsĩti nācāryahāsĩti na brāhmaṇahāsĩti I 7.15.3

sanatkumārā says, 'suppose the prāņā has left the body', atha - on the other hand, to indicate the contrast, the vyatireka nyāyā. utkrānta prāņān - once the prāņā has left any one of the six members - that is father, mother, brother, sister, ācāryā and brāhmaņā - any one of them; then, even the physical body is not treated that respectfully! Previously, we did not talk about physical mis-handling; just a few impolite words are considered to be disrespectful. But, now, even if the body is physically handled in an impolite manner, then, nobody considers it as disrespect. In fact, when the person is alive, suppose it is hot summer, and I forget to switch on the fan or AC, we profusely apologise. 'I forgot to switch on the AC / Fan' we say. Even that heat to the body is considered to be painful. But now, after the prāņā is gone, the very physical body is going to be what? Is going to be lit up with fire! We said, summer heat should not make the body suffer; but, for that body, sākṣāt agni dahanam is done! And before the dahanam is done, the physical body may be handled in different ways in different communities. And in different occasions, the body may be handled differently. But, nobody will consider it as disrespect. The words "handling it" mean, 'burning it'.

Before that, when the body it handles [the upanisad is imagining a worst condition. And what is the worst condition?] Suppose there are so many dead bodies because of some violent accident or earth quake or tsunāmi, and several bodies have to be handled, and a person uses a sharp instrument, either to bring the bodies together or to separate the bodies, even when such actions are done, nobody considers it as disrespectful. Therefore, the upanisad takes an extreme case. What is that? chulena samāsam, chulam means, a spear or any sharp instrument, used to handle the dead bodies, in certain contexts. And samāsam means, what? Piling the bodies together. And vyati sandahet. vyati means, separating the bodies. So, when a person uses a sharp instrument, either for piling the dead bodies or separating the dead bodies, and all for what purpose? For burning the bodies. sandahet - burn the bodies. So, vyati - be separated; then, sandahet. vyati means, separating. sam dahet - burning; samāsam means, piling. So, by piling or by separating the bodies, suppose a person burns them, even when such activities go on, [often we do not have such experiences; because, we do not go to such places. When tsunāmi came, some people did service in the beach area and they were explaining their experiences. We will not sleep for three days just if we hear them. All those things. Often 10s and 100s of bodies are piled in one place and together they are burnt, buried] - at that time, nobody says, you are impolite. இதெல்லாம், எதுனால?

The prāņan makes all the difference. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, enaṃ naiva brũyuḥ - when such a treatment is given to the body, naiva brũyuḥ - the elders never reprimand or scold the person then. And at that time they do not consider it as disrespect. And they do not use the words pitṛhā, mātṛhā etc. In the last mantrā they said, pitṛhā etc. They criticised, saying, you are a killer. Now, they do not use that expression. na brũyuḥ pitṛhāsĩti. hā means killer. It is derived from the root hun - to kill. pitṛam hanti iti pitṛhā. mātaram hanti iti mātṛhā. Such words are never used. And therefore, what? Real respect goes to prāṇā only.

Even though it is not said in the upaniṣad, even in our own body, when the nail or hair is associated with a live body, it gets great respect. In fact, there is a ślokā in hitopadeśa - rājā kulavadhūr viprā mantriņās'ca payodharāķ | sthāna-bhraṣṭā na śobhante dantāķ keśā narā nakhāḥ II - There are some things which deserve respect only when they are in the appropriate place. And what are they? [second line] dantāḥ - the teeth. As long as the teeth are inside the mouth, you regularly brush it and do all kinds of treatments; like, polishing. Some people even give gold cover! Now, it is not there much. But, the moment the teeth come out, it is āśaucam. If you touch it, you have to take bath. Similarly, nakhāḥ, the nails also. As long as it is associated with prāṇā, the live body, what all we do? Pedicure, manicure and so much care is given! But, the moment the nail is cut, according to dharma śāstrā you have to take snānam even if you touch it. Not supposed to touch. And similarly, keśāḥ. As long as it is and how much advertisements for varieties of shampoo!] But, the moment the hair is removed, it is āśaucam. Anyway, that alone is relevant for us. prāṇa saṃbhande even they get respect. Once the prāṇa saṃbhanda is gone, they do not. In that ślokā, the fourth one is narāḥ, human being. Even human beings have respect only as long as they occupy some power or position. The moment they retire, at home itself, you can see the difference! There is a difference at home itself. Anyway I do not want to dwell on that. Therefore, prāṇā is great!

Continuing.

प्राणो ह्येवैतानि सर्वाणि भवति स वा एष एवं पश्यन्नेवं मन्वान एवं विजानन्नतिवादी भवति तं चेदब्रयुरतिवाद्यसीत्यतिवाद्यस्मीति ब्रयान्नापह्नवीत ॥

prāņo hyevaitāni sarvāņi bhavati sa vā eṣa evaṃ paśyann evaṃ manvāna evaṃ vijānann ativādī bhavati taṃ cedbrũyur ativādyasīty ativādyasmīti brũyān nāpahnuvīta || 7.15.4

So from this anvayavyatireka argument, we come to know that, PRĀŅĀ IS THE ESSENCE OF ALL LIVING BEINGS. PRĀŅĀ IS THE VERY ĀTMĀ OF ALL LIVING BEINGS, in the relative sense of the term. Not absolutely; but, only in the relative sense of the term. And that is why prāņā is meditated upon as hiraṇyagarba tattvam. hiraṇyagarba being the CREATOR, the sustainer, the resolver and the one who is all pervading. Known as, sũtra ātmā. The very word sũtrā means, what? The thread. Just as one thread sews all the beads of a mālā together, the moment the thread goes, the beads all get dismembered. They cannot stand as a mālā. THE VERY UNIVERSE SURVIVES AS A UNIVERSE, ONLY BECAUSE OF THE SŨTRĀTMĀ, THE PRĀŅA ŚAKTI. And the moment that goes away, the universe cannot survive. Therefore, prāṇaḥ eva idam sarvam. prāņo hi eva etāni sarvāṇi bhavati. Even in the temple, before a stone becomes bhagavān and the stone is honoured and respected, what do they do in the temple? What word we use? PRāŅA PRATIṢȚHĀ. We do not use the word ātma pratiṣṭhā. We say prāņa pratiṣṭhā. Use anvayavyatireka logic. Before prāņa pratiṣṭhā, it is only a piece of sculpted rock. Nobody does prostration or worship or abhiṣekam. Nothing it deserves. But, the moment prāņa pratiṣṭhā is done, it becomes a great temple; and people in tirupati like temples, 7 hours they stand to see what? A stone! After all what is venkatācalapati there. It is a stone only. But, that stone has got so much caitanyam; so much sāṃnidhya; because of what? prāṇa pratiṣṭhā. In that ślokā, the prayer is, parā prāṇa śaktiḥ. It is called parā śaktiḥ. That is invoked. Thus, even bhagavān is bhagavān in the relative sense of the term. bhagavān gets the bhagavān status, only after prāņa pratiṣṭhā.

Therefore, sanatkumārā says, prānah hi eva - that all pervading prāna tattvam alone, etāni sarvāni bhavati - is in the form of all the loveable living beings and respectable living beings. They are all one prānā only. Therefore, whoever understands this prānā and practises this prāna upāsanā, that person is the greatest person. Compared to nāma upāsakā, vāk upāsakā, do you remember? mana upāsakā, sańkalpa upāsakā, citta upāsakā, dhyāna upāsakā, vijnāna upāsakā etc compared to all the 14 upāsakās, prāna jnāni and prāna upāsakah and prānavādi, vādi means what? The one who talks about the glory of prānā, he is the greatest one. prāna jñāni prāna upāsakā, prānavādi is the greatest person. And the upanisad gives a special title to him - which title is not given to the previous 14 upāsakās, for him alone special title he is going to give. What is the title? ativādi. ativādi means what? He is a superior jñāni, he is a superior upāsakā and he is a superior speaker. vādi means, speaker. ati means, superior. ativādi means, 'superior speaker'. [I am not talking about our lok sabha Speaker. Is he superior or inferior? He looks like an elderly man! Of course, even in a democracy, Speaker has a powerful position]. So, this prāna upāsakā is called ativādi - a superior speaker; because, he is the speaker of the superior prānā. Okay, the superior - which is an adjective given to the speaker - is really an adjective belonging to what? The prānā! Since he is talking about the superior prānā, he is called a superior speaker. For grammar students, it is not karmadhāraya samāsa; it is sasti tatpurusa samāsah. If you take superior as an adjective of speaker it is called karmadhāraya. But tatpurusa samāsa, how should we understand? Superior speaker means, he is the speaker of the superior prānā. Do you understand the difference? If you understand it is okay; otherwise, note this much. He is superior speaker. Now, look at this.

sa vā eṣa evaṃ paśyan - that person who appreciates this fact. What fact? The glory of prāṇā in his own body, and the glory of prāṇā in everybody; and also who has THE KNOWLEDGE

THAT THERE IS ONLY ONE PRĀŅĀ WHICH PERVADES ALL LIVING BEINGS IN THE FORM OF HIRAŅYAGARBHA TATTVAM. Thus, the one who knows the glory of prāņā. Now, they are talking about prāņic healing etc. After that, some respect has come to prāņā! They also say, the concentrated prāņic energy is available in the sũrya devatā. That is why in our culture, sũrya namaskāra mantrā is considered sacred. Our prāņa śakti is supposed to increase because WE LOOK UPON sũRYĀ AS THE CENTRE OF LIFE FORCE OR LIFE ENERGY. And again, it has become popular because of another reason. After the BPO has come, there are many youngsters who work in the nights and they are all the time in the air-conditioned room where the sun light is not coming to them. And because they work in the night, in the day-time what do they do? They sleep. And so they say, because we do not get exposure to sunlight, it is creating varieties of health problems. From that, it is very clear that, our prāņā is connected to the solar energy. So much is talked about that prāņā.

All these glories - paśyañ - who ever appreciates or admires. And how does he do that? manvānaḥ - after thoroughly studying the glory of prāṇā. In fact, many upaniṣads talk about prāṇa upāsanā. In praśna, chāndogya, bṛhadāraṇyaka - in several upaniṣads. And evaṃ vijānan - after thoroughly gaining conviction, the one who has thoroughly studied the glory of prāṇā; and the one who is thoroughly convinced, [vijñānam means, niścaya jñānam]. paśyañ means, one who appreciates that everywhere, saḥ ativādĩ bhavati, if you allow him to talk, he will keep on talking about prāṇā and ப்ராணனை வாங்கிடுவான்! [take your prāṇā!] So, if you let him talk about prāṇā, he will endlessly talk about prāṇā! atīta prāṇavādi, ativādi. madhyama pada lopa [lopĩ] samāsa. atīta prāṇavādi, ativādi.

Not only that. The upanişad says, if anybody gives him the title ativādi, that prāņa upāsakā need not hesitate to receive this glory. He can comfortably and happily declare, 'yes. I am ativādi', indicating, it is a real and true title that a prāņa upāsakā deserves. Therefore, the upanişad says, taṃ ced brũyuḥ - suppose all the people of the world address the prāņa upāsakā and they give him the title 'ativādi asi' - 'you are an ativādi' if they say; if they glorify him, then what should the prāņa upāsakā do? sanatkumārā says, the prāņa upāsakā need not decline that title. The prāņa upāsakā can happily accept the title; because, he deserves that title, since prāņa upāsakā can unreservedly claim, 'yes. That title I deserve', he can happily claim. He can declare what? ativādi asmi - 'yes. I am an ativādi'. And if he is declining or refusing to accept the title, it is a disrespect. For what? It is disrespect shown to prāņā! Hence, he should not decline. He must accept the title; because, the glories belong to the prāņā which he worships. Therefore, the upanişad says, na apahnuvīta. na apahnuvīta means, what? Let him not negate or decline or refuse that title. apa + hnu dhātu second conjugation, ātmanepada vidiliń prathama puruṣaḥ eka vacanam [hnute, hnuvāte, hnuvate is the verbal form]. In ātmanepada vidiliń, hnuvĩta, hnuvĩyātān. apa is prefixed. na apahnuvĩta means, let him not refuse that title. THE ESSENCE IS, PRĀŅĀ IS THE GREATEST TRUTH.

So, with this, the 15th kāṇḍa is over. The series of upāsanās is also over, culminating in prāṇā. And here, prāṇā is introduced as sākṣāt ātmā itself. And all the glories of ātmā have been given to the prāṇā itself.

When this much is said, in fact nāradā is happy. And he thinks, the teaching is over. He has falsely concluded. What is the false conclusion? 'That the ultimate reality is prāņā! The real ātmā of everyone is prāņā - nāradā has falsely concluded. When prāņā goes, ātmā goes! And, prāņā is the essence of the entire universe. Whatever be the description of ātmā, that has been taken as prāņā, and nāradā is absolutely satisfied. He is about to do namaskārā to his guru sanatkumārā and say, 'hey guro! I am very happy. You have given me the teaching of the ultimate reality. And prāņā is that reality; whoever knows it becomes ativādi'. Therefore, pũrṇamadaḥ he is about to tell.

How do you know nāradā is satisfied? [We have five more minutes]. How do you know nāradā is satisfied? We know nāradā is satisfied; because, in all the previous sections, nāradā asked the question 'is there something superior? sanatkumārā used to say, 'yes there is' and the teaching used to continue. Now that nāradā is satisfied, he did not ask for anything superior to that. That means, nāradā wants what? pũrṇamadaḥ. Therefore, now it is sanatkumārā's responsibility to tell nāradā, "come to the next class". So, even though nāradā does not ask further, sanatkumārā himself voluntarily decides to teach further.

THIS SHOWS THAT, IF THE STUDENT IS A DESERVING STUDENT, EVEN IF THE STUDENT DOES NOT KNOW HOW TO ASK THE QUESTION, EVEN IF THE STUDENT DOES NOT ASK THE APPROPRIATE QUESTION, THE TEACHER MUST TEACH THAT STUDENT. WHAT IS THE GENERAL RULE? DO NOT TEACH, UNLESS ASKED. IT IS A GENERAL RULE. NOW, AN EXCEPTIONAL RULE IS GIVEN. WHAT IS THAT? EVEN IF THE STUDENT DOES NOT ASK, IF HE IS DESERVES THE TEACHING, THE TEACHER MUST VOLUNTARILY TEACH.

Therefore, sanatkumārā voluntarily teaches the REAL ĀTMĀ in the following sections, which we will be seeing from the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

30. Chapter 7.15.4, 7.16.1, 7.17.1, 7.18.1, 7.19.1 and 7.20.1

प्राणो होवैतानि सर्वाणि भवति स वा एष एवं पश्यन्नेवं मन्वान एवं विजानन्नतिवादी भवति तं चेद्ब्रूयुरतिवाद्यसीत्यतिवाद्यस्मीति ब्रूयान्नापह्नवीत ॥

prāņo hyevaitāni sarvāņi bhavati sa vā eṣa evaṃpaśyann evaṃmanvāna evaṃvijānann ativādībhavati taṃcedbrũyur ativādyasīty ativādyasmĩtibrũyān nāpahnuvĩta || 7.15.4 ||

In this 15th section sanatkumārā taught the 15th and final preparatory upāsanā in the form of prāņa brahma upāsanā. And here, the word prāņā refers to samaṣṭi prāņā - the life principle pervading the whole CREATION. And samaṣṭi prāṇā is called hiraṇyagarbha or sũtrātmā. Thus, here the upāsanā is hiraṇyagarbha upāsanā. And the glory of hiraṇyagarbha was talked about in several words. And we should remember that, hiraṇyagarbha is closest to ĩśvarā or brahman.

So, in several respects, the description of brahman and hiraṇyagarbha are very similar. We say, brahman is the kāraṇam. Similarly, hiraṇyagarbha is also the kāraṇam of the entire virāt sthüla prapañca. Both of them enjoy the status of being the kāraṇam. Therefore, just as brahman or ĩśvarā is all-pervading, hiraṇyagarbha is also all-pervading. That is why we say, hiraṇyagarbha, the kāraṇam, alone is in the form of the entire universe. And therefore, concluding the topic sanatkumārā said, prāṇo hyevaitāni sarvāṇi bhavati - prāṇā, the hiraṇyagarbha alone, is in the form of everything. And therefore nāradā thought, 'this hiraṇyagarbha is the ultimate absolute kāraṇam; and therefore that is the real, infinite one'. We know the truth that hiraṇyagarbha is not the ultimate kāraṇam. hiraṇyagarbha Himself is born out of what? ĩśvarā, the māyā sahitam brahma! And that is why muṇḍaka upaniṣad begins with the mantrā - "brahmā devānāṃ prathamaḥ sambabhūva viśvasya kartā bhuvanasya goptā". There, the word brahmā refers to this hiraṇyagarbha alone, who is the ultimate kāraṇam of all. Thus, because of its proximity, nāradā mistook hiraṇyagarbha itself as the ultimate kāraṇam. And therefore He thought, His journey was over; that hiraṇyagarbha jñānam will give liberation!

And for this misconception there is another legitimate reason also. sanatkumārā says whoever talks about brahmā, the hiraṇyagarbha he deserves a special title. I do not know whether you remember; the title was not given to any other previous upāsakā. But, hiraṇyagarbha upāsakā alone is given a special title. What is that title? ativādi. ativādi means what? 'The superior speaker'. That means, 'the superior knower'. That means, 'the knower of the superior most reality'. So, sarva atīta prāņavādi is called, ativādi. sarva atīta prāņavādi means what? The one who talks about prāņā or hiraņyagarbha, which transcends all the previous things. Previous things means what? all the 14 items - nāma brahma, vāk brahma, mana brahma etc - compared to all of them, prāņā is sarva atīta ḥ; and therefore, sarva atīta prāņavādi. The upāsakā who talks about sarva atīta prāņā is given the title ativādi. And because of this special title, nāradā concludes that His journey is over. Therefore, He was about to do namaskārā and say 'thank you' and go away.

When He was about to go away because of the misconception, sanatkumārā Himself thinks that He should call nāradā back. 'Do not go away. There is something superior to even hiraṇyagarbha. hiraṇyagarbha is only the penultimate cause; but, it is not the ultimate cause. ULTIMATE CAUSE IS BRAHMAN ONLY - [taittirĩya bṛgu vallĩ 1.1] yato vā imāni bhūtāni jāyante I yena jātāni jīvanti I yatprayanyabhisaṃviśanti I tadvijijñāsasva I tad brahmeti I

And therefore, this section is over with nāradā getting ready for departure. And in the next section, sanatkumārā is not going to allow nāradā to go, He continues the teaching. [I raised a question in the last class. If the śiṣyā does not ask for the teaching, how can a guru teach? Because, the rule is what? Only when asked, it should be taught. For that, the ācārāyā gives the answer, "if the teacher knows that the student is qualified and ready to know, then the teacher Himself can voluntarily teach!" In fact, in the bhagavad gĩtā itself, arjunā did not ask for 'self knowledge'. arjunā did not ask for ātmā vidyā. arjunā did not ask for brahma vidyā also. He only said, 'I want to get out of my sorrow; you please teach me. I have deep sorrow I want to get out of this sorrow. You please teach me' [gĩtā 2-8] –

na hi prapaśyāmi mamāpanudyād yacchoka mucchoṣaṇam indriyāṇām | avāpya bhūmāu asapatnamṛddhaṃ rājyaṃ surāṇāmapi cādhipatyam ||

He did not ask for ātmā vidyā. He only said, 'teach me'. And Lord kṛṣṇā could have taught dharma śāstram. But, kṛṣṇā chose to teach; because, kṛṣṇā felt that only this knowledge will take him across sorrow. tarati śokam ātmavid. Thus, kṛṣṇā's teaching also is voluntary. Here, sanatkumārā also voluntarily teaches the real brahma vidyā. How does he start. We will read.

एष तु वा अतिवदति यः सत्येनातिवदति सोऽहं भगवः सत्येनातिवदानीति सत्यं त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्यमिति सत्यं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

eșa tu vā ativadati yaḥ satyenātivadati so'haṃ bhagavaḥ satyenātivadānīti satyaṃ tveva vijijñāsitavyamiti satyaṃ bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.16.1 ||

So, sanatkumārā is voluntarily addressing nāradā. 'Hey nāradā, note this. esa tu vā ativadati - the word tu means, however or really speaking. So, in fact, really speaking, yah satyena ativadati - whoever is talking about jagat kāraņam brahma, satyam jñānam anantam brahma - that brahmavādi alone is the real ativādi . Previously what did we say? hiranyagarbhavādi. What is the meaning of the word 'vādi'? The one who knows and talks about it. We can translate vādi as jñāni. So, previously it was said hiraņyagarbha jñāni is ativādi . Here, sanatkumārā says, really speaking, satya jñāna ananta brahmavādi alone is the real ativādi. That means, what? The previous ativādi is, a pseudo ativādi; an āpeksika ativādi alone. The brahmavādi alone is the ātyantika ativādi. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, eşa. eşaņ here means, brahma jñāni. What brahman? nirguņa brahma jñāni. Hiraņyagarbha is saguņam brahma. Saguņa brahma jñāni is a relative ATIVĀDI. NIRGUŅA BRAHMA JÑĀNI ALONE IS THE ABSOLUTE ATIVĀDI. So, esa tu. esah means what? The following brahman jñāni. esa here refers to the brahma jñāni, who is going to be talked about in the following portions. Therefore, you should translate esah as, 'the following nirguna brahma jñāni'; the one to be discussed in the ensuing mantrās. And this brahma jñāni alone is ativadati. He alone is the real ativādi.

Why is He called real ativādi? Because, satyena ativadati - nirguņam brahman alone is satyam. Therefore, what is the statement? nirguņa brahmavādi alone is satya vādi. And satyavādi alone is the ativādi. Or, if you replace the word vādi by jñāni, we can say, nirguņa brahma jñāni alone is satya jñāni. SATYA JÑĀNI ALONE CAN BE CALLED ATIVĀDI. So, yaḥ satyena ativadati. And from this, we get another message also. By saying that nirguņa brahmavādi alone is satyavādi, sanatkumārā wants to say, NIRGUŅAM BRAHMAN ALONE IS SATYAM.

Okay, so what? Once you say 'nirguṇam brahma alone is satyam', it is like introducing two people. Suppose the mother introduces the two children and says, 'this boy studies well'. What does it mean? The other boy is going to feel bad! Because, once you say, 'this boy studies well', it implies, the other one does not. If both study well, either you do not say anything; or, you say, 'both study well'. But, if you identify one and say, you are excluding the other. Therefore, by saying, 'nirguṇa brahma is satyam', indirectly sanatkumārā says, 'all the previous 15 items are mithyā'. So, in one sweep, in one stroke, all the previous ones are dismissed as mithyā. prāṇā is mithyā. āśā is mithyā. smaraḥ is mithyā. ākāśā, vāyu, agni - all of them are mithyā. brahman alone is satyam. That is why in taittirĩyam - 'satyam jñānam anantam brahma'. So, this brahmavādi is satyavādi.

And the moment this was said, nāradā's curiosity got aroused; because, He is now only an āpekṣika ativādi. He is only a prāṇavādi. Now, nāradā wants to become the ātyantika satyavādi; a real ativādi he wants to become. Therefore, nāradā replies. Who says, "eṣa tu vā ativadati"? sanatkumāraḥ uvāca. Then, nāradaḥ uvāca. What does He say? "hey bhagavah so'haṃ" - now I am really interested satyenātivadānĩti - to be a speaker of nirguṇam brahma. I am no more interested in talking about prāṇā. So, prāṇā has been pushed in to waste paper basket. Now, he wants to talk about the nirguṇam brahma, the real satyam. Therefore, he says, ātivadāni. ātivadāni means, let me be a real ativādi . For that sanatkumārā gives the answer.

What does sanatkumārā say? satyam tu eva vijijñāsitavyam - nāradā, wonderful. Now you have got a real desire to know satyam nirguņam brahma. Therefore, if you want to be real ativādi, if you want to be satya brahmavādi, better you know what is satyam brahma. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, satyam tu eva - the nirguņam satyam jñānam anantam brahma alone vijijñāsitavyam - should be really desired by all the seekers. iti sanatkumāraḥ uvāca. And for that, nāradā is giving His reply. nāradaḥ uvāca. And what does He say? hey bhagavah, satyam vijijñāte - now I have a desire to know the satyam brahma :: athāto brahma jijñāsā. For that, sanatkumārā is going to come with the reply in the next section. Here after, each section has only one mantrā. Therefore, with this one mantrā, 16th section is over. Now, we are entering the 17th section. We will read.

यदा वै विजानात्यथ सत्यं वदति नाविजानन्सत्यं वदति विजानन्नेव सत्यं वदति विज्ञानं त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्यमिति विज्ञानं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai vijānāty atha satyam vadati nāvijānan satyam vadati vijānann eva satyam vadati vijñānam tveva vijijñāsitavyam iti vijñānam bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.17.1 ||

In the following sections, through dialogue between sanatkumārā and nāradā, the upaniṣad shows that, a seeker should go through several stages to become the real ativādi. So, what is the aim of nāradā? He wants to become the real ativādi. And to receive the real ativādi title, He has to go through several stages. And all those stages are going to be mentioned in the following sections. So, the following sections are sādhanā sections; and brahman definition will come later only.

I will briefly mention 'what are the stages of sādhanā talked about in the following sections'. And in this, the upaniṣad goes from higher stage to next lower stage; and to come to that stage, one should come to the next lower stage. From Higher to Lower. It is like, the five stages of bhakti talked about in the 12th chapter of the bhagavad gĩtā. For nirguṇa upāsanā, viśvarũpa upāsanā is required. For that, eka rũpa upāsanā; and for that, karma yogā etc. Similarly, various stages are going to come. First I will mention the stages.

So, to become an ativādi, what is required? satyavādaḥ is required. satyavādaḥ means what? Talking about satyam brahma is required if I should become a superior talker. So, only brahman talker is the superior talker. Then, the next question is, "if I should become satyavādi, what is required? He says, satya vijñānam is required. Logical. Because, I can talk about brahman, when? Only when I know brahman. Therefore, to do satyavādaḥ, I require satya vijñānam. So, this is the next lower stage. satyavādaḥ to satya vijñānam. Then, the next question is, 'how can I get satyavijñānam'? sanatkumārā says, for that, you require satya mananam.

satya mananam. mananam means what? Enquiry in to satyam brahma. Enquiry will lead to knowledge. Knowledge alone will lead to talking about the truth. This satya mananam is called in the upaniṣad as matiḥ. So, from vijñānam, the next lower stage is matiḥ. matiḥ means what? Enquiry. Enquiry into what? If brahma jñānam is required, we have to enquire in to the śāstra pramāṇam, the upaniṣad pramāṇam; because, upaniṣad alone talks about brahman. No other śāstram deals with brahman. Even veda pũrva bhāga does not deal with brahman. Therefore, enquiry means what? Enquiry in to brahman, with the help of upaniṣad pramāṇam, śāstra pramāṇam. Okay, for that what is required? He says śraddhā. You can enquire in to upaniṣad pramāṇam or śāstra pramāṇam only if you have śraddhā.

śraddhā means what? Faith in śāstram; and of course, the guru. Thus, matiḥ requires śraddhā. guru vedanta vākyeṣu viśvāsaḥ śraddhā. This definition where did we learn? The definition of śraddhā - guru vedanta vākyeṣu viśvāsaḥ śraddhā [this definition we learnt in some tretā yugam or dvāpara yugam. And there was a text by name tattvabodha; and there, while talking about sādhana catuṣṭaya sampatti, we talked about śamādi ṣaṭka sampattiḥ; and there, the word śraddhā came! That you should remember]. Therefore, satyavādaḥ to vijñānam. vijñānam to matiḥ. matiḥ to śraddhā. guru-śāstra śraddhā. To get śraddhā, what should you do? The upaniṣad says niṣṭā. And, what is niṣṭā ? śańkarācārāyā comments niṣṭā means, guru śāstra sevā or śuśrũṣā. You have to serve both of them. The more you serve, the more you develop śraddhā & bhakti. And that is why Lord kṛṣṇā said in the bhagavad gïtā - [4.34] "तद्विद्धि प्रणिपातेन परिप्रश्नेन सेवया - tadviddhi praṇipātena paripraśnena sevayā" sevā means what? [Not eating C&mou!] There is another word in Tamil C&mou. That sevā means, śuśrũṣā or service.

And service done to śāstra is pārāyaņam, with reverence. Even if I do not know the meaning, if I do pārāyaņam of the śāstram, my reverence will increase. That is why they prescribe gĩtā pārāyaṇam. upaniṣad pārāyaṇam. pārāyaṇam is sevā towards the śāstram. And similarly, service to the guru becomes guru sevā and that is called here by the name niṣṭā. guru śuśrũṣā. And this guru śuśrũṣā will lead to what? śraddhā. śraddhā will lead to what? Enquiry. Enquiry will lead to what? Knowledge. Knowledge will lead to talking. Talking will lead to what? ativādi status. It is jĩvan mukti. ativādi status means jĩvan mukti.

Then, the next question is, 'to do the śuśrũṣā, what is required?' The upaniṣad says, kṛtiḥ. kṛtiḥ means, commitment & integration of the personality. Commitment & integration of the personality. "ekāgratā indriya sāmyamaḥ ca" is śańkarācārāyā's commentary. śańkarācārāyā says, kṛtiḥ means, ekāgratā indriya sāmyamaḥ ca - which means, commitment & integration. Because, if a śiṣyā has to decide to become a resident student of a teacher and serve the teacher for a length of time, stay in the gurukulam and learn the śāstrams, he requires commitment & integration. He requires what? A mind committed to remain in one place. That requires an integrated personality. For many people, it is impossible to stay in one place; serve the teacher; prepare, and then ask for knowledge; and go through consistent and systematic study for a length of time. That is not possible; because, many are 'scatterbrains'. In English, there is an idiom what 'scatterbrain'? 'scatterbrains'. You know is [A] person who tends to be disorganized & lacking in concentration]. They cannot remain in one place. We have experienced that in gurukulam. How many students joined the gurukulam? Ideal conditions are there. They are provided with room [single room, not even sharing]; and all the books are provided; dress is provided; food, clothing, shelter, medical facility; and the only job we have to do is, what? Study and assimilate! But, many people could not take to that atmosphere, because after one or two days [we experience that in our camps also! I request the students to continue for 7 days in the Rishikesh āśramā & not to go out. They cannot! Whenever there is a gap, they want to go to gîtā bhavan, they want to go to Haridwar, they want to do shopping!] It is impossible to remain in one place.

A mind which cannot remain steady, cannot delve on the teaching & assimilate. It requires śamādi ṣaṭka sampattiḥ. śamaḥ. damaḥ. uparamaḥ. Means, what? Not going out in search of some escapism. I told you, in Siddhabhari, Swāmĩ Chinmāyānanda used to tell, "in the evenings, you go out and remain alone in one area, just assimilating the teaching that you have received" But, people cannot stay like that, alone! What they do, they will go out alone; because, Swāmĩjĩ will be watching! Chinmāyānanda was a very strict ācārāyā. So, what they will do? They will talk to each other, 'you come to that tree'. So, you will find in twos and threes they go and join together. And do what? Gossip! It is very difficult for the mind to remain in one field.

Therefore, integration. Gathering / collecting one's thoughts. Togetherness. That is called what? kṛtiḥ. So, kṛtiḥ will take a person to gurukulam and guru sevā. guru sevā will lead to śraddhā. śraddhā will lead to enquiry. Enquiry to knowledge. Knowledge to ativādi. Okay, to do the sādhanā and integrate the personality, what is required? What is required? The last stage.

sanatkumārā says, if a person has to do so much preparation to go through all the stages and gain brahma jñānam, it is possible only under one condition. What is that? He must know that to become ativādi is to "GAIN INFINITE ĀNANDĀ". Therefore, what is the last stage? The AWARENESS that by becoming ativādi, I will have INFINITE ĀNANDĀ. So, ānanda prāpti jñānam. That, it is worth all the trouble. Integration, guru sevā, śraddhā, vicāraḥ, jñānam all this effort is worth because it is going to give me what? ānandam. Thus, this ānanda prāpti jñānam is the last stage. And the desire for ānandā, [what ānandā? Not, the finite sense pleasure], desire for brahmānandā, will drive the person to go through all these stages. Therefore, what is the last or lowest stage? sukha jñānam. These are going to be said in each section, for each stage one section is going to come.

We will now see the meaning of the 17th section. What is that? He says yadā vai vijānāty only when a person gets brahma vijñānam or satya vijñānam. atha. atha means, then alone, satyam vadati - he can become satyavādi; and consequently, ativādi. And, na avijānan satyam vadati - [you can understand] - na avijānan means, without knowing satyam brahma, he cannot talk about satyam brahma. na avijānan - how do you connect it? na vijānan satyam na vadati. na should be connected with vadati. 'On the other hand', vijānann eva satyam vadati, only after jñānam, one can talk about brahman. All these are whose words? sanatkumārā's words. Thus, sanatkumārā says, vijnānam tu eva vijijñāsitavyam - therefore nāradā, first may you seek brahma jñānam. vijñānam tu eva. Here vijñānam means, brahma vijñānam or satya vijñānam. The word satyam & brahman are synonymous. So, vijñānam tveva vijijñāsitavyam. vijijñāsitavyam means, should be sought after. The moment sanatkumārā said this, what did nāradā say, 'okay, okay. Now, I am interested in brahma jñānam'. He says, 'hey bhagavah'. So, up to iti is sanatkumārah uvāca. Now, nāradah uvāca. What? hey bhagavah - oh lord sanatkumārā! vijñānam vijijñāse - I am desirous of brahma vijñānam. What does sanatkumārā say? The next section, we will read.

यदा वै मनुतेऽथ विजानाति नामत्वा विजानाति मत्वैव विजानाति मतिस्त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्येति मतिं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai manute'tha vijānāti nāmatvā vijānāti matvaiva vijānāti matistveva vijiņāsitavyeti matim bhagavo vijijnāsa iti || 7.18.1 ||

So, sanatkumārā says, hey nāradā, you are interested in vijñānam. If vijñānam or knowledge is a substance, you can keep it in place and distribute to everyone like the śańkarācārāyās giving the tĩrtham at the end of the pũjā! Suppose, the guru can keep a huge vessel of brahma vijñānam and a long uddharaņi and go on giving, it would have been easy. tĩrtham can be distributed; but, jñānam can never be transferred in that manner. jñānam comes only through vedānta vicārā. Spiritual education you have to undergo. Therefore, he says, yadā vai manute - only when a person enters in to śāstric enquiry. And why do we insist on śāstram? Because, śāstram alone talks about brahman. No other pramāņam deals with brahman. atha vijānāti - then alone, jñānam comes. na amatvā vijānāti - without systematic vedāntic education; amatvā - means, without education, without enquiry; nāmatvā how do you split ? na + amatvā and the word na should be connected with vijānāti. So what is the order? amatvā na vijānāti - without enquiry, one can never know.

All these are important; because you should know that meditation cannot produce any knowledge; because in meditation, I am not making any enquiry. In fact, I am holding back all the thoughts. Therefore, DHYĀNAM IS NOT A MEANS OF KNOWLEDGE. VEDĀNTIC STUDY ALONE IS THE MEANS. That, sanatkumārā insists. Therefore, he says, matvā eva vijñānati. So, only through vedāntic study, one can know; and therefore, what should you concentrate on? matih tu eva vijijñāsitavyeti therefore you should look for vedāntic enquiry. Therefore your aim should be - "tadvijñānārtham sa gurumevābhigacchet samitpāṇiḥ śrotriyam brahmaniṣṭham" [muṇḍaka 1.2.12]. You should look for vedānta vicārā. Up to this are the words of sanatkumārā.

Then, nāradā, the obedient student says, 'okay, okay, okay! I am interested in enquiry'. So, hey bhagavaḥ - oh lord sanatkumārā, "matiṃ vijijñāse", iti. 'I seek that enquiry'. And, for that, sanatkumārā is going to talk further; which comes in the next section. We will read.

यदा वै श्रद्दधात्यथ मनुते नाश्रद्दधन्मनुते श्रद्दधदेव मनुते श्रद्धा त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्येति श्रद्धां भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai śraddadhāty atha manute nāśraddadhan manute śraddadhad eva manute śraddhā tveva vijijñāsitavyeti śraddhām bhagavo vijijñāsa iti II 7.19.1 **||

If you have to make vedāntic enquiry, upaniṣad enquiry, first you should know that, vedāntā is a direct means of ātma jñānam; and vedāntā is a valid pramāṇam which alone gives brahma jñānam and this is called śraddhā.

[I gave a long talk on śraddhā; and gave you the definition also. upajĩvya pramāņa svata pramāņya jñānam śraddhā]. Therefore, he says, yadā vai śraddadhāty. Remember the example. If you want to look at your face, there is only one way. However powerful your eyes may be, if you want to look at the face, there is only one way. What is that? You have to keep a mirror in front. Similarly, for ātma jñānam, there is only one mirror. What is that? vedānta vākyam is the only mirror. So, he says, yadā vai śraddadhāty - only when a person has got śraddhā; atha manute - then alone, he will enquire in to upaniṣad.

Otherwise, one will think, 'upaniṣadic study is only an academic pursuit'. Many people say, 'do not study the upaniṣad; it is only looking outwards! upaniṣad is outside you know! It is looking outwards. Therefore, do not look in to the book. You have to look in to yourself. Why? Because brahman is inside. Therefore close your eyes and look within'. And if you look within, what will be there? rāga dveśā kāma krodhā. You do not get brahman! Therefore many people do not know how important vedāntic study is.

And therefore, sanatkumārā says, 'only the one who knows its importance; manute - he will make an enquiry. aśraddadhan na manute. nāśraddadhan How do you split? na + aśraddadhat. That 'na'kāra will become 'ta'kara. aśraddadhat - without this śraddhā, na manute - one will not make an enquiry. He will try other methods, like meditation; not knowing the importance of śāstra vicārā. And so, sanatkumārā highlights, śraddhat eva manute - only the one who has śraddhā will make śāstric enquiry. Therefore, hey nāradā! what should you work for? 'śraddhā tu eva vijijñāsitavya' - iti he should work to build up śraddhā. So, vijijñāsitavya means, should be sought after.

In fact there is a sũktam called śraddhā sũktam. And śraddhā is in our tradition personified as a mother. śraddhā devĩ. When a brahmacārĩ puts on the sacred thread, since he is going to study the vedās after initiation, he does many special prayers and pũjās to build up what? śraddhā in the vedās. Otherwise, like the modern youngsters, they will take vedās as a bunch of superstitions and a useless scripture! Therefore, buildup śraddhā first. iti. Up to this is the words of sanatkumārā. And what does nāradā say? 'śraddhāṃ bhagavo vijijñāsa' iti - 'Okay, okay! I am an obedient student; therefore, I am interested in developing śraddhā'. For that sanatkumārā has to answer. He does that in section 20. We will read.

यदा वै निस्तिष्ठत्यथ श्रद्दधाति नानिस्तिष्ठञ्छ्रद्दधाति निस्तिष्ठन्नेव श्रद्दधाति निष्ठा त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्येति निष्ठां भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai nististhaty atha śraddadhāti nānististhañchraddadhāti nististhann eva śraddadhāti nisthātveva vijijñāsitavyeti nisthām bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.20.1 ||

So, how to develop śraddhā? sanatkumārā says, yadā vai nistiṣṭhaty. nistiṣṭhaty means, nistiṣṭham karoti. śańkarācārāyā comments, nistiṣṭhā, as guru śuśrũṣāti paratvam - as service, adoration and reverence shown or directed towards the ācārāyā. Because, the more a person worships the ācārāyā - if you remember the 13th chapter of the gĩtā, Lord kṛṣṇā talks about 20 virtues "amānitvam adambhitvam ahimsā kṣāntiḥ ārjavam" then what? "ācārya upāsanam śaucam sthairyamātma vinigrahaḥ". So, when I act it out, then, the mind also begins to develop a reverence to that. This is what is called, faking and making. Initially, when I do namaskārā, it is a mechanical, physical routine. But, if I keep on doing namaskārā, gradually the physical action will bring about an internal transformation.

And what is that transformation? Whichever object I worship physically, I develop reverence, internally. So, initially my reverence is to the guru only. I do not know the importance of śāstram. But, when I develop reverence to the guru, the guru says, 'hey śiṣya, whatever glory I have, is not because of my body or mind; but, because of my wisdom. Because, before wisdom, nobody respected me; after wisdom, people respect me. Therefore, respect is towards what? Wisdom. And this wisdom that I have, is coming from the śāstram alone'. Therefore, the guru repeatedly tells, 'hey śiṣyā, the real glory belongs to the śāstram; and, I have got the great wisdom from the śāstra only. Therefore, may you study the śāstram properly. I will teach you'.

Therefore śraddhā in guru and śāstram comes only through śuśrũṣā. śuśrũṣā means, even simple namaskārā will gradually develop. Details we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

31. Chapter 7.20.1, 7.20.1, 7.21.1, 7.22.1, 7.23.1, 7.24.1

यदा वै निस्तिष्ठत्यथ श्रद्दधाति नानिस्तिष्ठञ्छ्रद्दधाति निस्तिष्ठन्नेव श्रद्दधाति निष्ठा त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्येति निष्ठां भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai nististhaty atha śraddadhāti nānististhañchraddadhāti nististhann eva śraddadhāti nisthātveva vijijñāsitavyeti nisthām bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.20.1 ||

In these sections sanatkumārā is dealing with some of the sādhanās beginning from the 16th section onwards. And first, sanatkumārā said, a person can become really ativādi, a superior speaker, only if he becomes a satyavādi. satyam meaning, brahman. So, THE SPEAKER OF BRAHMAN ALONE CAN BE THE SUPERIOR SPEAKER. And thereafter, he said, if one should be a satyavādi, one should have satya vijñānam; because, without vijñānam, one cannot be a speaker of that. Therefore, to become a ativādi, you should a satyavādi. To be a satyavādi, you should have vijñānam. And then, sanatkumārā said, vijñānam is possible only when there is matih or enquiry. Without śāstric enquiry, knowledge is not possible. Then he said, śāstric enquiry is possible only when there is śraddhā in the guru and śāstrā. Without guru śāstrā śraddhā, where is the question of enquiry? Therefore, śraddhā is important.

So, sanatkumārā says in the 20th section, which we were seeing in the last class, śraddhā is possible. One more step is there. śraddhā is possible only when there is niṣṭā. niṣṭā meaning, guru śāstra sevā or śuśrũṣā. Only when a person does service to the ācārāyā and śāstrā, the very service will generate reverence for the object of service. Therefore, śraddhā comes through niṣṭā or sevā. Thereafter, sanatkumārā said [that is what we are seeing now] this niṣṭā or service to a guru for a length of time is possible only when a person has an integrated personality, wherein the body, the mind, the sense organs, they are all well disciplined. Then alone, a person can remain with a guru for a length of time. Otherwise, the mind will be wandering and getting distracted. He will stay for a day, maximum for a week. Thereafter, he will run away for watching cricket match! Some kind of distraction is required. And therefore, the next step mentioned was, kṛtiḥ. kṛtiḥ means, integration of the personality, which is mentioned in the 21st section, which we have to see now. So, the 20th section deals with niṣṭā or guru śuśrūṣā. Section 21 is dealing with kṛtiḥ, the integration of the personality. We will read section 21.

Seventh Chapter - Section 21

यदा वै करोत्यथ निस्तिष्ठति नाकृत्वा निस्तिष्ठति कृत्वैव निस्तिष्ठति कृतिस्त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्येति कृतिं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai karotyatha nististhati nākrtvā nististhati krtvaiva nististhati krtistveva vijijnāsitavyeti krtim bhagavo vijijnāsa iti || 7.21.1 ||

So, in the previous section, nistā or guru śuśrũsā, was talked about. And here, sanatkumārā says, if one should have consistent guru śuśrũsā remaining in an āśramā as an antevāsi, as a resident student, one should have a disciplined personality. He says, yadā vai karoti - only when a person practises self-discipline; karoti, śańkarācārāyā comments as, indriya samyama citta ekāgratādi anusthānam. And by discipline we mean, pañca jñānendriyam, pañca karmendriyāni, catvāri antahkaranāni - all the 14 organs must be focused. Without focus, one cannot remain. Therefore, he says, yadā vai karoti. And for this integration of personality alone, the entire astāńga yogā of patañjali rsi has been designed & developed. The āsanās integrating the annamaya kośā, prānāyāma integrating the prānamaya kośā, pratyāharā, dhāranā & dhyānam integrating the manomaya kośā and śāstric study, like tarka śāstrā etc, integrating the vijñānamaya kośā. Thus, the entire astāńga yogā is coordination, the organisation. Swāmī Chinmāyānanda uses the word 'the orchestrarisation of the personality', by which he means, all the organs should function like an orchestra - where 20 violins are there, clarinets are there. [What is the one which kadri gopalanath uses?] Saxophone and mandolin! So many are there. And even if one instrument goes apaśruti, it will be heard. Similarly, here also, like an orchestra, my personality should be disciplined. That is called karoti. Then, what will happen?

nistiṣṭhati - that person can go to a guru and study vedāntā. Consistent and systematic study for a length of time is possible. So, karoti atha nistiṣṭhati - then alone it is possible. na akṛtvā nistiṣṭhati - without integration of personality, it is difficult to become a resident student under an ācārāyā. Therefore, kṛtvā eva nistiṣṭhati. This is to emphasise - 'only by practising the indriya samyama, one will get niṣṭā or guru śuśrũṣā'. Therefore, what should you do? kṛtiḥ tu eva vijijñāsitavya - may you understand what is discipline. And that alone in sādhana catuṣṭaya sampatti we have got. The third one, śamādi ṣaṭka sampattiḥ. And naturally, nāradā says, 'I am interested in that. What should I do for that?' So, 'kṛtiḥ tu eva vijijñāsitavya' - up to that is sanatkumārā's words. Then, 'kṛtiṃ bhagavo vijijñāsa' is nāradā's request to sanatkumārā. Then, what does sanatkumārā say? We will read section 22.

Seventh Chapter - Section 22

यदा वै सुखं लभतेऽथ करोति नासुखं लब्ध्वा करोति सुखमेव लब्ध्वा करोति सुखं त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्यमिति सुखं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yadā vai sukham labhate'tha karoti nāsukham labdhvā karoti sukhameva labdhvā karoti sukham tveva vijijñāsitavyam iti sukham bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.22.1 ||

So, what is the next stage? sanatkumārā says, yadā vai sukham labhate - only when a seeker sees the possibility of ānandā in all these stages of sādhanā as the destination, only if the possibility of ānandā is known, then alone, a person will take the trouble of going through all these stages. Why? Because, ultimately, everybody wants what? ānandaḥ alone! Therefore, the carrot which is held before is, the ānandā carrot. Once you say that, 'by integration you can do guru śuśrũṣā. By guru śuśrũṣā you will get śraddhā. By śraddhā you can do enquiry. By enquiry you will get jñānam. By jñānam you will become satyavādi. By satyavādi you will become ativādi. And when you become ativādi, you will get infinite ānandā! The moment I say that, then alone a person will take the trouble of following all this. Therefore, ultimately what is required? sukha jñānam. One should know the potential or the possibility of sukham, through all these sādhanās.

Therefore, sanatkumārā says, yadā vai sukham labhate. sukham labhate must be understood here properly. śańkarācārāyā says, sukham labhdavyam asti iti jānāti. sukham labhate means, what? Literally translated, it will mean, 'when a seeker gets pleasure'. First that is not the right translation. When a seeker knows that the sukham will be attained as the destination, then alone he will follow. Because, if he actually gets sukham here itself, then, he will not follow all of them. When he understands the destination as ānandā, it is called sukham labhate. Destination of what? This journey. What type of journey? All these stages as ānandā. atha karoti - then the person will go through all these stages; because, he knows he will get ānandā. na asukham labhvā karoti - if a person thinks that there is no sukham in that, he will never pursue that sādhanā. Therefore, asukham labhadvā na karoti - otherwise one will not pursue.

Then, when will a person pursue? sukham eva labdhvā karoti - only when he knows that ānandā is the destination. And that too if you say it is a finite ānandā, he will say that, 'I don't want vedāntā; because, finite ānandā I will get through other simpler sources'. One masala dosai I can buy and eat. [I said this for example. You all do not bring masala dosai tomorrow!] Therefore, if I talk about alpa sukha prāpti, he will say, 'I can get it through other means'. So, you have to promise what? Infinite ānandā! Then alone, a person will work for that. Therefore, he should know what is sukham. sukham tveva vijijñāsitavyam iti - he should understand the destination of this spiritual journey, which is sukham.

Naturally, nāradā says, 'now I am interested in knowing that destination, sukham'. Therefore he said, 'bhagavaḥ sukhaṃ vijijñāsa' - 'I am desirous of knowing what is ānandā'. For that only all these preparations. So, vijijñāsa iti. That is because of sandhi rule. If you split it, it is, vijijñāse iti. vi+jña dhātu desiderative ātmanepadi lat uttama puruṣaḥ ekavacanam. vijijñāse means, 'I am desirous of knowing what is sukham, which is the destination of this spiritual journey'. For that sanatkumārā is going to answer. All these are one mantā in one section.

Seventh Chapter - Section 23

यो वै भूमा तत्सुखं नाल्पे सुखमस्ति भूमैव सुखं भूमा त्वेव विजिज्ञासितव्य इति भूमानं भगवो विजिज्ञास इति ॥

yo vai bhūmā tatsukham nālpe sukhamasti bhūmaiva sukham bhūmā tveva vijijñāsitavya iti bhūmānam bhagavo vijijñāsa iti || 7.23.1 ||

So, in this section alone bhuma vidyā is beginning. Up to section 22, it is all only preparation grounds. The main theme of the 7th chapter begins from this section alone. So, 23rd section, up to the end of this chapter, that is section 26, only these 4 sections are actually dealing with bhuma vidyā. 22 sections are preparations. 4 sections only are the actual teaching.

Here, nāradā asked the question, sukham vijijnāse - 'what is happiness?' Very, very important question. And sanatkumārā says, yo vai bhūmā tat sukham. bhūmā means the limitless one. The infinite one. Otherwise, popularly known as, brahman. Another word for bhūmā is brahman. Both are synonymous. Both mean, the infinite one.

The only difference is, bhūmā is masculine gender. brahman is neuter gender. brahman is not neuter gender. The word brahman is neuter gender. The word bhūmā is masculine gender. In Sanskrit, the words too have got genders, irrespective of the meaning. I have told you before. The word mitram means a friend. The word mitram is neuter gender. The friend may be a boy friend or may be a girl friend. Irrespective of the gender of the friend, the word mitram is neuter gender. Similarly, I have told the word dārā means, wife. You know wife is feminine. But, the word dārā is masculine. Thus, in Sanskrit, words have genders. And, these genders have nothing to do with the meaning of those words. Here, bhūmā is masculine gender. nakārāntaḥ napuṃsakalińgaḥ brahman śabdaḥ. brahma brahmaņĩ brahmāṇi.

And here, sanatkumārā says, the infinite brahman alone is sukham or ānandaḥ. This is parallel to the bṛguvallĩ vākyam. "ānando brahmeti divyajānāt I ānandādhyeva khalvimāni bhūtāni jāyante I ānandena jātāni jīvanti I ānandaṃ prayantyabhisaṃviśantīti I

The same idea is given here. brahman is happiness. And we should be very careful. We do not say brahman is happy, we do not say. We don't say brahman is happy. We say brahman is happiness. It is pleasure. It is ānandā. It is joy. Joy is, brahman. And yo vai bhūmā tatsukham.

And then, sanatkumārā says, alpe sukham na asti. There is no happiness at all in any finite thing in the CREATION. There is no happiness at all in any finite thing in the CREATION. alpe means, what? alpa viṣaye. In a finite object, there is no happiness. In the finite body, there is no happiness. In the finite mind, there is no happiness. In the finite thoughts also, there is no happiness. Happiness is not a part of any finite thing in the CREATION. From this statement alone we have to derive the five features of happiness. Which is very, very similar to the five features of CONSCIOUSNESS.

And what are the five features of happiness? You must be able to tell that! But, we will see that together. Because the upanişad says, 'happiness is not there in the world, body, mind or thought', our conclusion is: HAPPINESS IS NOT A PART OR A PRODUCT OR A PROPERTY OF ANYTHING IN THE CREATION. Why do we say so? Because of the upanişad vākyam - alpe sukham na asti. Mind is alpam or analpam? You know, mind is alpam. In the mind there is no sukham at all, the upanişad says. So, happiness is not a part, product or property of any object, including the mind or thought.

Then the second feature of happiness is what? HAPPINESS IS AN INDEPENDENT ENTITY WHICH PERVADES CERTAIN MINDS AT CERTAIN TIMES AND MANIFESTS AS PRATIBIMBA ĀNANDĀ, the reflected joy. Happiness is an independent entity which pervades certain minds at certain times. Certain minds at certain times means, what? Whenever you are happy, at that moment of joy, in that happy person, in that happy mind, the happiness is manifest or reflected. And that does not belong to the mind; but, it is separate. Just as the brightness of the moon on the paurnami night is only manifest upon the moon; but, it does not belong to the moon. Similarly, during happy moments, the infinite ānandā is only manifest in the finite mind; but, it does not belong to the finite mind. So, it is reflected in mind. tasya priyameva śirah I modo dakṣiṇah pakṣah I pramoda uttaraḥ pakṣaḥ I ānanda ātmā I [The priya vṛtti or moda vṛtti or pramoda vṛtti we saw in tattvabodha once upon a time; and which we also saw in taittirĩya upaniṣad!] The mind gets priya, moda & pramoda vṛtti at certain times. At those times, the all pervading infinite ānandā reflects in the mind. But, it does not belong to the mind! Therefore, what is the second feature of ānandā? Happiness is an independent entity which reflects in the finite mind at some time.

Then what is the third feature of happiness? HAPPINESS IS NOT LIMITED BY THE BOUNDARIES OF THE MIND OR THE BOUNDARIES OF THE THOUGHT. HAPPINESS EXTENDS BEYOND THE MIND AND THOUGHT. It is all-pervading, just as CONSCIOUSNESS is all-pervading. And, in the 6th chapter of chandogya we said, the PURE EXISTENCE is all-pervading - 'sadeva somya idam agra āsīd'. Now we say, like the CONSCIOUSNESS, like the PURE EXISTENCE, the PURE HAPPINESS [with capital H] also is not limited by the boundaries of the body-mind complex. It is all-pervading. This is the third feature of Happiness [with capital H]. Very careful.

Then what is the fourth feature? THAT PURE HAPPINESS CONTINUES TO EXIST EVEN WHEN THE HAPPY THOUGHT IN THE MIND ENDS. When the happy thought in the mind ends, only the thought ends. But, even when the happy thought ends, the PURE HAPPINESS continues to survive, continues to exist even when the priya vṛtti, moda vṛtti and pramoda vṛtti subsides, the PURE HAPPINESS continues to exist. What has ended? ONLY ITS REFLECTION IN THE THOUGHT, THE PRATIBIMBA ĀNANDĀ HAS ENDED; BUT, THE PURE BIMBĀNANDĀ CONTINUES TO EXIST. "sa yaścāyaṃ puruṣe I yaścāsāvāditye I sa ekaḥ I sa ya evaṃvit I asmāllokātpretya I". [taittirĩya 2.8.5] And again, in taittirĩya upaniṣad in the second vallĩ, "raso vai saḥ I rasa hyevāyaṃ labdhvā ānandī bhavati I ko hyevānyātkaḥ prāṇyāt I yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt I" [taittirĩya 2.7.1]

ānandā is referred to by the word rasaḥ. [When I say rasaḥ don't think of pepper rasam, tomato rasam, lime rasam and all!] rasaḥ means what? ānandaḥ! What ānandā? bimba ānandā, the PURE HAPPINESS. So, what is the fourth feature? PURE HAPPINESS continues even when the happy thoughts in the mind are replaced by unhappy thoughts. Even during unhappy thoughts in the mind, pure happiness exists. This is the fourth feature.

What is the 5th feature of happiness? EVEN WHEN THE HAPPY THOUGHT ENDS OR EVEN WHEN THE MIND IS DISSOLVED, THE SURVIVING PURE HAPPINESS IS NOT ACCESSIBLE TO US. The surviving pure bimba ānandā, the ORIGINAL HAPPINESS, [instead of OC, we have to say OH], THE ORIGINAL HAPPINESS IS NOT ACCESSIBLE TO US. NOT BECAUSE IT IS ABSENT; BUT, BECAUSE THERE IS NO MEDIUM FOR ITS MANIFESTATION OR REFLECTION. This PURE HAPPINESS is bhūmā or bhūmā is the PURE HAPPINESS.

And in the world, there is no happiness at all. Whenever a person argues that, 'I am getting happiness from music or dance or food etc', what will be our argument? Our argument will be, 'they do not produce happiness. They only create a condition in which brahmānandā is reflected. They do not give happiness. What is the example we give? The dog and the bone! Never forget that example. The dog gives the argument! Before biting the bone, no blood. After biting the bone, blood. Bone is very sharp edged. Therefore, the dog uses - anvayavyatireka logic - bone satve blood satvam; bone abhāve blood abhāvaḥ; tasmād, bone eva bloodasya kāraṇam! The dog argues! And when the dog gives the argument, we laugh at the dog and say, 'it is foolishness'. Bone only brought out the blood, which was within the dog itself, all the time. Because, bone is extremely dry. How dry is the bone? Bone dry! Similarly, all the music and dance - according to vedāntā, is what? Bone. They are dry, they do not have even a dot of ānandā.

There is only one source of ānandā in the entire creation. What is that? bhūmā. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, alpe sukham na asti. alpe jagati. And alpam includes all the sense objects in the world. All your family members. Do not get angry with me. All the family members. Your own body your own mind. All of them do not have even a dot of ānandā. So, bhūma eva sukham. Therefore, bhūmā tu eva vijijñāsitavyam - if you want to know sukham, you have to know bhūmā; and therefore, may you gain the knowledge of bhūmā, to know what is sukham. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, bhūmā tu eva vijijñāsitavyam - may you get bhūma vidyā, for what purpose? To get sukham. Up to this is sanatkumārā uvāca; then nāradaḥ uvāca.

And then immediately, nāradā jumps and says, 'bhūmānam bhagavo vijijñāsa' iti - 'I want to know that bhūmā'. hey bhagavo bhūmānam vijijñāsa. Here, Sanskrit students, be careful. bhūmā is not feminine gender like bālā bāle bālāḥ or ramā rame ramāḥ. So, bhūmā bhūme bhūmāḥ you should not say. In Sanskrit, bhũmā is masculine gender; even though it ends in 'ā'. Normally, 'ā' is feminine, means lady. Here, it is masculine gender. nakārāntaḥ pumlińgaḥ bhũman śabdaḥ. bhũmā, bhũmānau, bhũmānaḥ; bhũmānam, bhũmānau, bhũmānau, bhũmānau, bhũmānau, bhũmānam, bhũmānau, bhũmānau, bhũmānau, bhũmānam. Now, sanatkumārā is going to define bhūmā or brahman. What is the definition?

Seventh Chapter - Section 24

यत्र नान्यत्पश्यति नान्यच्छृणोति नान्यद्विजानाति स भूमाथ यत्रान्यत्पश्यत्यन्यच्छृणोत्यन्यद्विजानाति तदल्पं यो वै भूमा तदमृतमथ यदल्पं तन्मर्त्य् ्स भगवः कस्मिन्प्रतिष्ठित इति स्वे महिम्नि यदि वा न महिम्नीति ॥

yatra nānyatpaśyati nānyacchṛṇoti nānyadvijānāti sa bhūmā atha yatrānyat paśyaty an yat chṛṇoty anyad vijānāti tadalpaṃ yo vai bhūmā tad amṛtam atha yad alpaṃ tanmarty ̈ sa bhagavaḥ kasmin pratiṣṭhita iti sve mahimni yadi vā na mahimnīti I 7.24.1 II

So, THIS IS THE MOST IMPORTANT SECTION OF THIS 7TH CHAPTER; BECAUSE, THE DEFINITION OF BRAHMAN IS GIVEN IN THIS SECTION. And, what is the definition of brahman or bhūmā? sanatkumārā says, 'yatra' - BRAHMAN IS THAT PURE EXISTENCE PRINCIPLE. EXISTENCE is not mentioned here. That we have to borrow from the 6th chapter. Where? sadeva somya idam agra āsīd. That we have to remember here. 'yatra'. yatra means, what? sati. satvastuni. brahman is that PURE EXISTENCE in which there is NO SUBJECT - OBJECT DUALITY. BRAHMAN IS THAT PURE EXISTENCE IN WHICH THERE IS NO SUBJECT-OBJECT DUALITY. Or, to put it in another language, THE NON-DUAL EXISTENCE PRINCIPLE is called brahman. Or, you can also say, THE NON-DUAL CONSCIOUSNESS PRINCIPLE is brahman. And the duality is generally in the form of subject & object. Experiencer & experienced. Knower & known. Seer & seen. Hearer & heard etc. Therefore, a few samples of duality is given.

What is the first sample? anyah anyat na pasyati. anyah understood. anyah means what? One subject. anyat pasyati - perceives an object. And na is what? The negation of that. brahman is that PURE EXISTENCE in which there is NO perceiver, perceiving an object. Or, to put in another language, there is NO perceiver subject, perceiving an object. That in which the perceiverperceived, subject-object duality is absent, that PURE EXISTENCE, that NON-DUAL EXISTENCE is called bhūmā or brahman or ānandā. anyah anyat na paśyati. Seer-seen duality is negated. Then, another example is given. anyah anyat na chrnoti - anyah anyat na śrnoti - a hearer subject does not have a heard object. That means, what? Hearer-heard duality is absent. So, bhūmā is that PURE NON-DUAL EXISTENCE in which hearer-heard duality is not there. Then, another example is given. nānyadvijānāti = anyah anyat na vijānāti - there is NO knower-subject having a known-object. That means, brahman is that PURE EXISTENCE in which, the knowerknown, subject-object duality is not there. That is why bhuma is called advaita vastu. advaitam means, what? Where the subject-object dvaitam is not there. Or, sometimes it is presented in a different language also. bhūmā is that principle in which there is NO tripuţi. tripuţi means what? The triad in the form of subject-object-instrument. Seer, seen & seeing instrument. Hearer, heard & hearing instrument. Knower, known & knowing instrument. So, either you say, 'duality is absent' or you say, 'plurality is absent'. Whatever you say, brahman is advaita sattā - pure EXISTENCE.

And therefore, how should you know brahman? Very simple! You take the EXISTENCE available in the world. EXISTENCE available in the world, where is it available ? If I ask you, 'where is it available?' what should be your answer. You should not answer. You should ask a counter question where is it not available? தூணிலும் இருப்பார்; துரும்பிலும் இருப்பார்! எப்படி இருப்பார்? இருப்பாக இருப்பார்! brahman is there in every object in the form of EXISTENCE. Therefore wall IS, chair IS, table IS, pen IS, mike IS, student IS, teacher IS. You appreciate the 'IS' NESS in everything. And what should you do? Negate the duality in the form of subject-object. Seer-seen. Hearer-heard. IN SHORT, THE ENTIRE CREATION YOU NEGATE AND RETAIN THE PURE EXISTENCE. That is called brahman or bhūmā or ānandā .

So, thus, this is a statement which negates the duality and retains what? The PURE EXISTENCE. And therefore, THIS DEFINITION OF BRAHMAN IS CALLED DVAITA NIŞEDA VĀKYAM - a statement which negates duality. And since the entire universe is dvaitam only - in the form of subject-object, we can say this is a vākyam, a statement, which negates the entire universe. prapañca niṣeda vākyam. Retaining what? PURE EXISTENCE.

And this niṣeda vākyam [niṣeda means, what? Negation] is not new to us. In katopaniṣad we had a niṣeda vākyam. 'neha nānāsti kiñcana' - there is no duality at all. In katopaniṣad it is there. And we saw in kaivalya upaniṣad also, "na bhūmirāpo na ca vahnirasti na cānilo me'sti na cāmbaram ca" is a niṣeda vākyam. In māṇḍũkya upaniṣad, "nāntaḥ prajñaṃ na bahiṣprajñaṃ nobhayataḥ prajñaṃ na prajñānaghanaṃ na prajñaṃ na aprajñam prapañcopaśamam etc" we saw. In bṛhadāraṇya, neti neti etc.

ALL THESE NEGATION STATEMENTS ARE VERY, VERY IMPORTANT FOR AN ADVAITĀ STUDENT. Because, when the upaniṣad negates the world, an important idea is conveyed. What is that important idea? YOU SHOULD KNOW TWO IMPORTANT LAWS OR PRINCIPLES. VERY IMPORTANT PRINCIPLES. What is that? 1. WHAT IS EXISTENT CANNOT BE NEGATED. What is existent cannot be negated. Why? Because it is existent! Principle one. Very important. 2. WHAT IS NON-EXISTENT NEED NOT BE NEGATED. What is non-existent need not be negated. Why? It is non-existent! So, what is existent cannot be negated; and what is non-existent need not be negated. Therefore, whatever is negated has to be something different from existent & non-existent. [I hope your head is not reeling]. WHAT IS EXISTENT CANNOT BE NEGATED. WHAT IS NON-EXISTENT NEED NOT BE NEGATED. THEREFORE WHATEVER IS NEGATED HAS TO BE SOMETHING DIFFERENT FROM EXISTENT AND NON-EXISTENT.

In vedānta śāstrā, it is called sadasat vilakṣaṇam. Whatever is negated by the upaniṣad has to be what? sadasat vilakṣaṇam. And whatever is sadasat vilakṣaṇam is called mithyā. Whatever is sadasat vilakṣaṇam. vilakṣaṇam means, 'different from'. sat means, 'existent'. asat means 'non-existent'. Therefore, SADASAT VILAKṢAŅAM MEANS, WHATEVER IS DIFFERENT FROM EXISTENT AND NON-EXISTENT IS CALLED MITHYĀ. sad asadyām, anirvacanĩyam mithyā. Then, how can we understand the word mithyā in English? I have told you. mithyā, "how do you do? Now a days, modern children whenever they use a word, they say 'yā' 'yā'. "I am coming yā", "you are going yā". Similarly, mithyā means what myth+yā. mithyā means, a myth! And myth means, what? It is neither existent nor non-existent; it is seemingly existent.

Thus, by negating the world, the upaniṣad says, THE ENTIRE WORLD IS SEEMINGLY EXISTENT. That PURE EXISTENCE is called bhūmā. And in that bhūmā, the duality is seemingly existent; but, it is not really existent! Or, to put in another language, brahman is the adhiṣṭhānam. adhiṣṭhānam means, what? The substratum, the support, of the mithyā duality, the seeming duality! And this brahman lends EXISTENCE to the seeming duality, in the form of hearer-heard etc. Some more corollaries we have to derive from this mantā. śańkarācārāyā writes a slightly longer bāṣyam on this. Some of the points there I would like to discuss; which we will do in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

32. Chapter 7.24.1

यत्र नान्यत्पश्यति नान्यच्छृणोति नान्यद्विजानाति स भूमाथ यत्रान्यत्पश्यत्यन्यच्छृणोत्यन्यद्विजानाति तदल्पं यो वै भूमा तदमृतमथ यदल्पं तन्मर्त्य् ्स भगवः कस्मिन्प्रतिष्ठित इति स्वे महिम्नि यदि वा न महिम्नीति ॥

yatra nānyatpaśyati nānyacchrņoti nānyadvijānāti sa bhūmātha yatrānyat paśyatyan yacchrņoty anyad vijānāti tadalpaṃ yo vai bhūmā tad amrtam atha yad alpaṃ tanmarty ̈́ sa bhagavaḥ kasmin pratiṣṭhita iti sve mahimni yadi vā na mahimnīti || 7.24.1 ||

In the 7th chapter of the chāndogya, we had the preparatory ground for the teaching. THE ACTUAL TEACHING IS GIVEN ONLY IN THE LAST 4 IMPORTANT SECTIONS. THE 23RD 24TH 25TH AND 26TH. SO THESE FOUR SECTIONS ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT PART OF THE 7TH CHAPTER AND IN THESE FOUR SECTIONS THE UPANIṢAD IS ANALYSING THE NATURE OF SUKHAM OR HAPPINESS.

And I said in the last class, that the upanişadic definition of HAPPINESS is totally unique & different, which we remembered through these five features. 1. HAPPINESS is not part, a product or a property of any object or even the mind. 2. HAPPINESS is an independent entity, which pervades the mind some times. 3. HAPPINESS is not limited by the boundaries of the mind or any object. 4.HAPPINESS continues to exist even after everything, including the mind, resolves. 5. The surviving HAPPINESS is not accessible; because, there is no medium. So, this HAPPINESS alone we call as bimbānandaḥ or ORIGINAL HAPPINESS. And, according to vedāntā, this ORIGINAL HAPPINESS is exactly the same as the ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS [i.e.] bimba caitanyam. bimba caitanyam, the ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS; and bimba ānanda, the ORIGINAL HAPPINESS - both of them are synonymous. One and the same! cideva ānandaḥ; ānandaḥ eva cit or caitanyam. Also, this ORIGINAL HAPPINESS or ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS is the same as the ORIGINAL EXISTENCE also, which is otherwise known as, sat principle. Therefore, according to vedāntā, ORIGINAL EXISTENCE [sat] = ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS [cit] = ORIGINAL HAPPINESS [ānandaḥ]. sadeva cit; cit eva ānandaḥ. THEY ARE THREE NAMES; BUT, THE SUBSTANCE IS ONE AND THE SAME BRAHMAN OR ĀTMĀ.

And these three fundamental principles alone get reflected or manifest in the world. And when these three are manifest in the world, we call it pratibimba ānandaḥ, pratibimba caitanyam and pratibimba sattā. Thus, we have got reflected existence which is called sadābhāsaḥ. Reflected consciousness, cidābhāsaḥ. Reflected happiness which is called ānanda ābhāsaḥ. This reflection is experienceable as an object. sadābhāsaḥ can be experienced. cidābhāsaḥ can be experienced. ānanda ābhāsaḥ can be experienced. BUT, THE ORIGINAL SAT, THE ORIGINAL CIT, THE ORIGINAL ĀNANDĀ IS NOT EXPERIENCEABLE; AND, THIS ORIGINAL SATCIDĀNANDĀ ALONE IS CALLED SATYAM, JÑĀNAM ANANTAM, WHICH ALONE IS CALLED BRAHMAN, WHICH ALONE IS CALLED BHŨMĀ.

And bhũmā, the ORIGINAL EXISTENCE-CONSCIOUSNESS-HAPPINESS is never experienceable; because, in the original bhũmā, there is no division in the form of experiencer and the experienced. Since subject object division is absent, bhũmā is neither an object of experience nor is it a subject. It is something in which subject-object duality is resolved.

And therefore, sanatkumārā, the teacher, in the 24th section first mantrā - which we were seeing in the last class - defines bhūmā as non-dual reality. He said, yatra - in that bhūma brahma nānyatpaśyati nānyacchṛṇoti nānyadvijānāti - a seer does not contact a seen; a hearer does not hear an object; a knower cannot contact a known. This duality is not there. Therefore, bhūmā is non-dual brahman.

And I said, ŚAŃKARĀCĀRĀYĀ GIVES IMPORTANCE TO THIS TOPIC; BECAUSE, THIS IS THE CRUCIAL DEFINITION OF BRAHMAN, ESPECIALLY BRAHMAN AS ĀNANDAḤ, THE NON EXPERIENTIAL ĀNANDAḤ. We get this topic only in two places. One is this particular mantrā in chāndogya; and another place is, bṛhadāraṇyaka upaniṣad [3rd chapter, 9th brāhmaṇam, last mantrā 28. 3.9.28] - brahman is defined as vijñāna ānandam brahman. Here the word sukham is used. There the word ānandā is used. In both places, śańkarācārāyā writes a significant commentary. So, as I said in the last class, I will share a few points from śańkarācārāyā's commentary.

śańkarācārāyā points out, many people mistake this definition as a non-dual state. yatra nānyat paśyati - we have to understand as the definition of non-dual brahman, which non-dual brahman is available all the time. "All the time" means what? jāgrat svapna suṣupti. But, there are some people who mistake this as a description of a non-dual state, as advaita avasthā. And this understanding will create a lot of problem; because, really speaking, THERE IS NO SUCH 'THING' CALLED NON-DUAL STATE. State means what? avasthā. advaitic avasthā does not exist at all. Any state of experience you go through - jāgrat svapna suṣupti samādhi maraṇam pralayaḥ mũrchā. [mũrchā means, what? Unconscious condition]. All the different avasthās that we can imagine - jāgrat svapna suṣupti samādhi maraṇam pralayaḥ mũrchā - all these various avasthās we can imagine. They are all dualistic states only. There is no such thing called *non-dual state. Only that the dualistic state is of two natures. In certain dualistic states, duality is in passive condition. In certain other dualistic states, duality is in active condition. Thus, all the states are either active duality or passive duality. There is no state called non-dualistic state. Advaita avasthā Nāsti.

In jāgrat or waking state, the duality is active or passive? During jāgrat avasthā, duality is active. During suṣupti - here alone we should be careful - during suṣupti, duality is there or not? Our tendency will be to say that 'in suṣupti duality is not there'; but, we should know, during suṣupti also, duality is very much there. But in what form? In passive, dormant, unmanifest form. Similarly, in samādhi avasthā also, you cannot call it non-dual state. You should call it what? 'Duality in dormant form'. Similarly, during unconscious state also, passive duality. During maraṇam also, passive duality. During pralayam also, passive duality. You should know, there is no such state called advaita avasthā. It is a misnomer.

And this is clearly proved by śruti, yukti and anubhava. śruti - the vedās - very clearly say, "avyaktādīni bhūtāni vyaktamadhyāni bhārata, avyakta nidhanān eva tatra kā paridevanā" - arjunā, you go from manifest duality to unmanifest duality; and again, you come to manifest duality. Therefore, śruti declares, 'there is no advaita avasthā state'. Then, yukti - logic - also very clearly shows that, matter cannot be created or destroyed. Therefore, whatever state you go through, the dualistic universe will continue to be there. It can never be destroyed. Only condition is, in pralaya, it will be in dormant form. So, logic also proves there is no advaita avasthā. And our anubhava - experience - also proves that, all the avasthās are dualistic. In susupti, we are in which state? Dualistic state only! But, in potential form. How do you know there is duality in susupti ? Suppose, during susupti, the duality is destroyed, what will happen? Suppose when you go to susupti, the body is destroyed, your house is destroyed, your mind is destroyed, what will happen? You will never wake up! Not only that, if the body gets destroyed in susupti, you will never go to sleep. You will put chilli powder in your eyes and keep awake! Similarly, in nirvikalpaka samādhi, we have advaita state or dvaitic state? We should carefully note. nirvikalpaka samādhi is also dvaita avasthā only. There is no advaita avasthā. How do you know that in nirvikalpaka samādhi dvaitam is very much there? How do you know? Again this person wakes up! The mind wakes up! The thoughts wake up! Similarly, during pralayam also, the dvaita prapañca is very much there. What is the proof? Again next srsti comes. Therefore, The FIRST AND FOREMOST IMPORTANT THING TO BE NOTED IS, THERE IS NO SUCH THING CALLED ADVAITA AVASTHĀ.

So, advaita brahma jñānam should be gained in which avasthā? There is no advaita avasthā; and therefore, advaita brahma jñānam should be gained in which avasthā? Only in dvaita, jāgrat avasthā we have to gain advaita jñānam. And for argument's sake, even if you are going to imagine an advaita avasthā [there is no advaita avasthā is our first theory; but, for argument's sake, let us imagine there is an advaita avasthā, called nirvikalpaka samādhi]. We argue that, even if such an nirvikalapaka advaita avasthā is there, it is of no use to us. It is of no use to us. Why? If there is an advaita avasthā in that non-dual state, what all things will be there? What a question?! If there is an advaita avasthā, what all things will be there? There cannot be a second thing. There can only one thing. In advaita avasthā, there is only one thing. Which one thing will be there? It should be only ātmā.

Now, let us imagine that there is an advaitic state, where ātmā alone exists; everything else has disappeared. Body has disappeared. Mind has disappeared. Intellect has disappeared. Thoughts have disappeared. śāstrā has disappeared. Poor guru has disappeared. ātmā alone is there! Tell me, what is the use of that avasthā? Because, ātmā cannot get any knowledge by itself. ātmā can never get any knowledge by itself. If ātmā is the knower, there will be no known. If ātmā is known there will be no knower. Therefore, even if there is an advaita avasthā, it is of no use to the seeker; because, pure ātmā is not a knower of anything. It is apramātā. And therefore, advaita avasthā is not there. Even if it is there, it is of no use; because, ātmā cannot know anything. Knowing is, a process. Process means, change. ātmā being changeless, it cannot do any action, including the knowing action. This also we have to carefully note. So, THE SECOND IMPORTANT THING TO BE NOTED IS, EVEN IF ADVAITA AVASTHĀ IS THERE, IT IS OF NO USE.

And now the third point. For argument's sake, let us assume, ātmā knows itself. We have said, ātmā cannot know itself. This is our second theory. But, for argument's sake, let us assume there is an advaita avasthā. [First, we have said, it is not there. Let us assume there is an advaita avasthā]. And even if there is such an avasthā, ātmā cannot be knower of itself. But, let us assume, ātmā becomes a jñāni of itself. Then, we argue, even if ātmā knows itself in the advaita avasthā - called nirvikalapaka samādhi - that is of no use to us. Even if there is an advaita nirvikalapaka avasthā, in which ātmā alone is there knowing itself, [all these will not happen; but even if it is going to happen] it is utterly useless. You know why it is useless? Because, all our problems are in the mind and intellect. Our ignorance, our confusion, our adhyāsā, they are all in ātmā or anātmā? They are in the mind. And in nirvikalapaka samādhi, who gains knowledge? ātmā gains knowledge! What about the mind? Mind was not there; because, we called it advaitic state. Therefore, even if in nirvikalapaka samādhi ātmā knows itself, my mind will continue to be ignorant. My mind will have its own problems; we will not get any benefit. Therefore, we should know this mantrā is not describing an advaitic state. It is not describing a nirvikalapaka samādhi state.

It is describing the advaitam brahma, which has to be known in jāgrat avasthā. At the time of vedāntā śravaņam from the guru, I have to use my intellect. And in this dvaita avasthā, I have to know "brahman is advaitam". It has to be known in which avasthā? Not in nirvikalapaka avasthā. Not in advaita avasthā. In the dvaita avasthā, dualistic state, we have to gain what jñānam? advaita jñānam. And the dualistic state means, jāgrat or svapna? jāgrat / waking is also dvatiam. svapna is also dvaitam. 'Swāmĩjĩ, why cannot I know in svapana?' do not ask. In jāgrat itself we are finding it difficult! In svapna, when buddhi is not functioning, when only vāsanās are functioning, where do we have the freedom to decide what is going to happen?

THEREFORE, THIS MANTRĀ IS NOT DESCRIBING ADVAITA AVASTHĀ. THIS MANTRĀ IS DESCRIBING ADVAITAM BRAHMAN, WHICH HAS TO BE KNOWN IN DVAITA AVASTHĀ CALLED JĀGRAT AVASTHĀ. How do you know that? With the help of guru śāstra upadeśa pramāṇam; with the help of systematic teaching, I should know & recognise the advaitam brahman.

Then, the next question is, how can we know brahman as advaitam, in dvaita avasthā? In dvaita avasthā, I can know only what? dvaitam! How will I be able to know advaitam brahman in dvaita avasthā? [I hope the question is relevant. Otherwise for my satisfaction, I will raise this question and answer]. How can we know the advaitam brahman in dvaita avasthā? This question people may ask. And, for that, we answer that, 'in dvaita avasthā, even though we continue to experience duality, with the help of śāstra pramāṇam, we understand that THE EXPERIENCED DUALITY IS OF A LOWER ORDER OF REALITY. NOT WORTH COUNTING'. It is exactly like keeping a mirror in front of me and I experience two people. One is myself; and the other is, a person in front of me. Who smiles when I smile. Who frowns when I frown. Thus, even though I experience dvaitam, [what is that dvaitam? I am number one; and the second person - the reflection - is number two] I will still say, "there is only one person". Thus, dvaita anubhava is there; yet, advaita jñānam is possible.

Thus, retaining the dvaita anubhava, remaining in dvaita avasthā, remaining in jāgrat avasthā, using the guru śāstra pramāņam, I will clearly know that, 'there is only one nondual brahman'. The experienced duality is not worth counting; because; they are all mithyā; of a lower order of reality. And this knowledge of advaitam brahman, in the dvaita jāgrat avasthā, is the aim of this first mantrā in section 24, which we were seeing. yatra na anyat paśyati - in that brahman there is no duality, even though we continue to experience duality. EXPERIENCE CANNOT CHALLENGE KNOWLEDGE. I have told this very often. A valid knowledge can never be challenged by the opposite experience. Very important. Valid knowledge can never be challenged by the opposite experience. What are the examples? I have given several examples. The sunrise is an experience. It will never challenge my valid knowledge that the sun does not go around the earth. The experience of a flat earth does not challenge my knowledge that the earth is spherical. The experience of stationary earth does not challenge my knowledge that the earth is moving very fast. The experience of a small star, twinkle twinkle little star; that experience of a small star does not challenge my knowledge that the earth. Similarly, advaitin has the knowledge, valid knowledge, that brahman alone is. This valid knowledge can never be challenged by the continuous experience of the duality in jāgrat avasthā. Therefore, we need not go to meditation. We need not go to samādhi. Keeping the eyes open, we can gain the knowledge - advaitam brahma.

And therefore sanatkumārā says, saḥ bhūmā - this non-dual PURE HAPPINESS is called bhūmā. Then, in the next sentence, sanatkumārā, yatra anyat paśyaty anyacchṛṇoty anyad vijānāti tad alpaṃ. On the other hand, in the vyāvahārika field, the empirical field; yatra means, what? in the vyāvahārika kṣetre. anyat paśyaty - there is a perceiver, perceiving an object. Perceiver-perceived duality is there. anyacchṛṇoty - hearer-heard duality is there. anyad vijānāti - knower-known duality is there. And, in that vyāvahārika field, tat alpaṃ - everything is finite. And, we have already said that, infinite alone is sukham. And therefore, we should derive the corollary. Finite does not have even a droplet of sukham. pramātā-pramāṇam they do not have sukham. Wherever they teach finitude, sukham nāsti.

Then, naturally, the question will come, "if the vyāvahārika prapañca does not have sukham, how come I derive happiness from music, dance, television serial and wonderful food etc?" yadi alpe sukham nāsti, katham alpaviṣayebhyaḥ aham sukham anubhavāmi? For that, you already know the answer. What is that answer? "They do not have the sukham; but, they are only reflecting the ātma ānandā or brahmānandā. Remember the example. [Of course one example is dog and bone. That you know. I will give another example I have given in gītā class. I will transfer it here!]

Imagine, you have got a mirror in hand. The mirror has got a glass, a frame, and a beautiful face. [சொல்லிவைக்கறேன்!]. So, I am experiencing three things. The glass, the frame and a beautiful face. Even though three things I am experiencing, only two belong to the mirror. The third one does not belong to the mirror. Which two belong to the mirror? [I am just enjoying!] The mercury coated glass belongs to the mirror; and the beautiful decorative frame belongs to the mirror. But, the face that I experience in it, even though it is intimately associated with the mirror, it does not belong to the mirror. If the face belongs to the mirror, what will happen? Every time you see the mirror, that face will be there! Not only that. When I see my face my face will be there; and when a second person comes, he will see two faces! Therefore, we understand, though we experience three things in the mirror, only two belong to the mirror [glass & frame]; and one [face] belongs to something else.

Similarly, whenever a person enjoys any object, there are 3 things he is experiencing. One is called nāma, another is called rūpa, the third is called ānandā. I experience nāma, rūpa and ānandā. And vedāntā says, as in the mirror example, only two of these belong to the object. The third one does not belong to the object. Which two belong? Be careful. nāma and rūpa alone belong to the object. The ānandā experienced there, does not belong to vyāvahārika prapañca; but, it is pāramārthika brahmānandā reflecting in the vyāvahārika viṣaya. And so, sanatkumārā says, tadalpaṃ.

अस्ति भाति प्रियं रुपं नाम चेत्यंस पंचकम् आद्यत्रयं ब्रह्म रुपं जगद् रुपं ततो द्वयम् । -

asti bhāti priyam rũpam nāma cetyamsa pamcakam ādyatrayam brahma rũpam jagad rũpam tato dvayam i

In drg-drṣṣa viveka, vidyāraṇya swāmĩ says, 'you experience five things always. sat, cit, ānandā, nāma and rūpa. Of these, nāma & rūpa alone belong to the world. EXISTENCE, CONSCIOUSNESS and HAPPINESS - all these three do not belong to the world. They belong to what? bhũmā. Therefore, look at the mantrā. tat alpaṃ. tat means, what? Any entity in the empirical world is finite. And so, joyless. yo vai bhūmā tad amṛtam - whereas, this original ānandā, which is none other than brahman, that original ānandā is amṛtam. amṛtam means, what? Eternal. It does not die.

But, when the very same ānandā is reflected in the mind, as pratibimba ānandā, that reflected ānandā is eternal or non-eternal? You can understand. Reflected ānandā has to be non-eternal; because, it will be there only as long as the reflecting medium is there. When I take the small mirror from the pocket [many people keep a mirror handy. They want to regularly check up whether they are presentable or not! Or, may be, out of consideration for the world! Okay. Good intention!] - they take out the mirror and they see the pratibimba mukham. The pratibimba mukham comes when you hold the mirror. pratibimba mukham goes away when you put back the mirror. Similarly, in the mind, when there is priya vrtti, moda vrtti or pramoda vrtti [which we saw in taittirĩya ānandamaya kośa] - when conducive thoughts are there, ānandā reflection comes, which is always ephemeral. pratibimba ānandā is ephemeral; because, it depends upon mental condition. Good news you hear, pratibimba ānandā rises. Bad news you hear, the face itself becomes gloomy. Bloom to gloom is the lot of pratibimba ānandā. Therefore, it is amṛtam or maṛtyam? Reflected ānandā will always be fleeting.

That is why Lord kṛṣṇā said, "ye hi saṃsparśajā bhogā duḥkha yonaya eva te; ādyantavantaḥ kaunteya na teṣu ramate budhaḥ" [gĩtā 5-22] - do not be attached to pratibimba ānandā. When it comes, enjoy. But, do not get attached; because, in pratibimba, there is gradation also. priya, moda, pramoda. Happy, happier, happiest. Whereas, in bhūmānandā, the original brahmānandā, there is no gradation; and the reflected ānandā alone is called experiential ānandā. So, all experiential ānandā will be reflected or original? All experiential happiness will only be reflected ānanda. That is why when the experiential joy comes, he jumps up & down, hits the head against the ceiling. Too high he jumped! Or, some people laugh too much and get a catch. Catch means, Gurrɨæ.! [you had it!] Thus, reflected ānandā is experiential. Original ānandā is non-experiential.

Therefore, never ask the question, "how to experience original brahmānandā?" This question is the blunderous, the worst blunder. You never experience original ānandā, just as, you never experience your own original face. What a tragedy! You have never experienced your original face, only reflection you can. So, original ānandā is a matter for claiming. It is not a matter for experiencing.

And if anybody says that "in nirvikalapaka samādhi on April 1st [I only like that day!] - on April 1st, in nirvikalapaka samādhi, I had brahman bliss!", it is the biggest misconception. He might have experienced bliss, no doubt; but, that bliss has nothing to do with brahman bliss. It is only a reflection in the mind, at a particular time. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, yo vai bhūmā - the non experiential original ānandā is eternal. The non-experiential original ānandā is amṛtam, eternal. On the other hand, atha yad alpaṃ - the experiential ānandā, reflected in the empirical world of duality, tat martyam - it will be perishable. Therefore, 'should we enjoy pratibimba or not?', if anybody asks, we will say, 'certainly enjoy; but, with the knowledge that the joy is not coming from that object'. Therefore, even when the object goes away, and even when the experiential pleasure goes away, I have not lost ānandā. Because, the original, the master copy, MC, the original, the master copy is not with wife, not with children, not with grand-children. Let them be there. Let them be not there. [Now & then I add that also]. Whether the relationships continue or not, they have no power to take away the master copy, brahmānandā. Therefore, yat alpaṃ tat martyam - pratibimba ānandaḥ is alpaṃ; tat martyam. So with this, THE DEFINITION OF BRAHMAN AS ĀNANDĀ is over.

Now, nāradā is asking a question. What is that? sa bhagavaḥ kasmin pratiṣṭhitaḥ? bhagavaḥ means, oh lord. [Who is addressing whom? I hope we have not forgotten the guru and siṣyā. nāradā is addressing the guru, sanatkumārā.

hey guru, please tell me 'where is that brahmānandā located?' 'What is the source and support of brahmānandā?' Because, viṣayānandā or experiential ānandā has a support. Either we say, 'it is in the external object' or we say, 'it is in the mind'. Either inside or outside. Experiential ānandā thus has a support; because, experiential ānandā is reflected ānandā. Reflected ānandā always requires the support of what? Any reflection requires the support of the reflecting medium. So, pratibimba ānandasya āśrayaḥ vartate; bimba ānandasya kascid rūpasya bhūṃnaḥ brahmaṇaḥ āśrayaḥ kaḥ? pratiṣṭhitā kā? What is its support? And for that sanatkumārā says, 'what a question you are asking?! sve mahimni pratiṣṭhitah. brahman is supported by its own glory, or, in its own glory. mahimā means, glory. brahman is supported by its own glory. It is based on its own glory. And sanatkumārā feels that, this answer may confuse nāradā; and therefore, He gives another, refined answer.

The first answer is what? brahman is based on its own glory. And what is the refined, second answer? yadi vā - otherwise, to be more precise, na mahimni - it is not based on anything. It is not supported by anything. It is un-supported. It is baseless. [Baseless you do not mistake. Not the basement is baseless]. brahman does not have a base or support. And these two answers sanatkumārā Himself will explain in the next mantrā. One general answer; then, a refined answer. General answer is, 'brahman is supported by its own glory'. Refined answer is, 'brahman is not supported by anything'. na mahimni. Explanations come in the next mantrā.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

33. Chapter 7.24.1 & 7.24.2 and 7.25.1 & 7.25.2.

यत्र नान्यत्पश्यति नान्यच्छृणोति नान्यद्विजानाति स भूमाथ यत्रान्यत्पश्यत्यन्यच्छृणोत्यन्यद्विजानाति तदल्पं यो वै भूमा तदमृतमथ यदल्पं तन्मर्त्य् ्ंस भगवः कस्मिन्प्रतिष्ठित इति स्वे महिम्नि यदि वा न महिम्नीति ॥

yatra nānyatpaśyati nānyacchrņoti nānyadvijānāti sa bhũmātha yatrānyat paśyatyan yacchrņoty anyad vijānāti tadalpaṃ yo vai bhũmā tad amṛtam atha yad alpaṃ tanmarty ूँ sa bhagavaḥ kasmin pratiṣṭhita iti sve mahimni yadi vā na mahimnĩti || 7.24.1 ||

In this important mantrā the teacher sanatkumārā defined HAPPINESS as that absolute reality which does not have a division in the form of observer and observed. So, the pure ABSOLUTE HAPPINESS is not an object of experience; and whatever is an experienced happiness it is not bhũmānandaḥ; but, it is only bhũma pratibimbānandaḥ I said. And we saw the same definition was given to the PURE EXISTENCE in the 6th chapter and the very same definition is given to PURE ĀNANDĀ.

Therefore, we come to know that PURE EXISTENCE IS PURE HAPPINESS WHICH ITSELF IS PURE CONSCIOUSNESS. Therefore, sat, cit and ānandā - all the three are one and the same only. From the standpoint of inert object, we define brahman as sat; because, in the inert object, brahman manifests only in the form of sat principle. Even though the very same brahman is cit and ānandā, that aspect is not manifest in the inert object. Whereas, when you come to the physical body, there, the very same brahman expresses in the form of not only sat / EXISTENCE; but, in the form of the cit / CONSCIOUSNESS aspect also! Therefore, brahman is defined as sat, cit. And, in ānandamaya kośa, or, priya, moda, pramoda vṛtti, the very same brahman expresses in the form of sat, cit and ānandā. Therefore, the difference is not in brahman; but, the difference is in the manifesting medium. Based on the manifesting medium, we define it as sat or cit or ānandā. And this was done. Definition was given in the first half of the mantrā.

Then, the student nāradā asked the question, "what is the support of that bhũmā?" And for that, sanatkumārā gave two answers. The first answer was, "sve mahimni pratiṣṭhitaḥ" - it is supported by its own glory. sve mahimni means, 'in its own glory'. And later, sanatkumārā revises the answer and says, "no, no, no. It is not supported by its glory. na mahimni". Naturally, nāradā wondered, 'why sanatkumārā is contradicting himself?' First, He says, "brahman is supported in its glory". Then, he says, "brahman is not supported in its glory". So, the question is, why these 2 answers? For that, sanatkumārā Himself gives the clarification in the next mantrā. We will enter the mantrā.

गोअश्वमिह महिमेत्याचक्षते हस्तिहिरण्यं दासभार्यं क्षेत्राण्यायतनानीति नाहमेवं ब्रवीमि ब्रवीमीति होवाचान्यो ह्यन्यस्मिन्प्रतिष्ठित इति ॥

goaśvamiha mahimetyācakṣate hastihiraṇyaṃ dāsabhāryaṃ kṣetrāṇyāyatanānīti nāhamevaṃ bravĩmi bravĩmīti hovācānyohyanyasminpratiṣṭhita iti || 7.24.2 ||

This mantrā is commentary on the last section of the previous mantrā. 'sve mahimni pratiṣṭhitaḥ' Then, 'na mahimni pratiṣṭhitaḥ'. Here, sanatkumārā says, normally when we say somebody is 'supported by his glory', the word glory refers to the possessions & positions of that object or person. This is the normal convention when we say, 'a person is propped up by, supported by his own glory'. The word 'glory' conveys the things possessed by him. The possessions are referred to as the glory. And therefore, when you say, somebody is supported by his glory, it will mean that somebody is supported by his possessions. That means, there is a duality of possessor and possessed. Thus, when I say, "brahman is supported by his glory", one may misunderstand that, "brahman has certain possessions as its glory; and, those glorious possessions are supporting brahman!" Thus, the idea of duality will be conveyed! And therefore, sanatkumārā says, 'I revised my answer'.

So, first, the conventional meaning of the word mahimā, sanatkumārā gives. What is the conventional meaning? He says, iha mahimā iti ācakṣate. iha means, 'in this world', 'in the common parlance', 'conventionally'. mahimā iti ācakṣate - the following possessions are termed as one's glory. What are those items? goaśvam. Means, what? The various domesticated animals like cow, ox, horse etc. Therefore, goaśvam - cows & horses. What type of cows and horses? Not found somewhere; but, one's own possessions. Then, what is the next item? hastihiraṇyaṃ mahimā iti ācakṣate. We should add the word mahimā to each one. hastihiraṇyaṃ. You can understand. hasti means, elephants. [I do not think here elephant is possessed. For cow itself there is no place, like, cowshed. Where is the question of elephant?!] May be in Kerala, some people may possess. But, in those days, they must have been possessed. hasti means, elephant; hiraṇyam means, gold. These are samāhāra dvandva samāsa. hasti ca hiraṇyam ca tayoḥ samāhāraḥ hastihiraṇyaṃ.

Then, dāsabhāryaṃ. You can understand. bhāryā means, wife; and dāsaḥ means, what? Several assistants. dāsaḥ means, servants or help. They are also called mahimā iti ācakṣate. And what is the next one? The real estate! kṣetrāṇyāyatanānĩti. kṣetrāṇi means, land. For investment and all they say! āyatanānī - in the city and in Kodaikanal and Ooty and all such places. They are considered to be mahimā of a person. And normally, a person is propped up by all these possessions & people. The moment he loses all of them, that person is gone! He becomes flat! Both physically & psychologically. Therefore, normally mahimā means, possessions. But, you cannot say brahman is supported by its possessions! Because, we have seen brahman as without a second thing. yatra nānyatpaśyati nānyacchṛṇoti - therefore, where is the question of brahman being supported by mahimā?! So, sanatkumārā says, āham evaṃ na bravĩmi - I do not convey this meaning when I say, 'te mahimni pratiṣṭhitaḥ'. And why I do not convey this meaning? If I convey this meaning, there will be duality.

And therefore, sanatkumārā says, anyohy anyasmin pratiṣṭhita. [Here, you have to rearrange the sentences properly. After nāhamevaṃ bravīmi you have to read anyohyanyasmin pratiṣṭhitaḥ. After nāhamevaṃ bravīmi you have to read anyohy anyasmin pratiṣṭhitaḥ]. "I do not convey this meaning; because, there will a duality". When the possessed supports the possessor, the owned supports the owner, duality will come. And therefore, what did I say? na mahimni - brahman is not supported by its glory. Which means, it is not supported by a second thing.

If you are not conveying this meaning, then, 'what is the meaning that you convey when you say, 'brahman is not supported by its glory?' - this will be nāradā's question. [We have to supply]. If you did not convey this meaning by the revised statement, [what is the revised statement? 'brahman is not supported by its glory'] "what is the idea you convey?" will be nāradā's question. For that, sanatkumārā says, bravīmi iti hovāca. [That left out portion you have to put at the end]. bravīmi iti hovāca [and you have to add an expression evam]. evam bravīmi iti hovācā. sanatkumārā says, "what I want to convey through the revised statement is the following." And what do you mean by "the following'? That will come in section 25, which we will enter in to. With this 2nd mantrā, section 24 is over. Section 25 is refining this definition. "Nothing supports brahman". We will read that.

Chapter 7 - Section 25

स एवाधस्तात्स उपरिष्टात्स पश्चात्स पुरस्तात्स दक्षिणतः स उत्तरतः स एवेद ्ंसर्वमित्यथातोऽहङ्कारादेश एवाहमे -वाधस्तादहमुपरिष्टादहं पश्चादहं पुरस्तादहं दक्षिणतोऽहमुत्तरतोऽहमेवेद ्ंसर्वमिति ॥

sa evādhastātsa uparistātsa paścātsa purastātsa daksiņataņ sa uttarataņ sa eveda sarvam- ity athāto'hańkārādeśa evāhamevādhastādahamuparistādaham paścādaham purastād aham daksinato'hamuttarato'hameveda sarvamiti || 7.25.1 ||

So sanatkumārā had given a revised answer, "that brahman is not supported by anything; because, there is no second thing possessed by brahman which would have supported brahman, just as a normal human being is supported by the possessions". So, naturally, the question will come, 'how do you say there is no second thing possessed by brahman and it does not support brahman? What about the whole CREATION? Is it not possessed by brahman and would have supported brahman? This will be the natural question. sanatkumārā gives the answer here.

There is no second thing possessed by brahman or possesable by brahman because the whole creation is nothing but brahman only, with different nāma rũpā. Therefore, what you see as the world is not a second thing possessed by brahman. What you see as world is nothing but brahman itself! In short, there is no world, other than brahman. Then, what about the world that I am experiencing? sanatkumārā says, 'what you are experiencing in front is nothing but brahman. What you are experiencing behind is nothing but brahman. What you are experiencing on the right hand side is brahman. Left hand side is brahman. Up above is brahman. Down below is brahman. brahman alone was, is and ever will be! It appears as though manifold, with different nāma rũpā. nāma rũpās are many; but, there is only one substance called brahman. Therefore, where is the question of a second substance to support brahman? You cannot say, 'wave supports water'. Why you cannot say, 'wave supports water?' Because, there is no such thing called wave, other than water, to support the wave. You cannot say ocean supports water; because, there is no such thing called ocean, other than water, to support the water. Thus, there is no second thing at all. sarvam brahma mayam jagat. Thus, it is a very important bhāsa sāmānādhikaraņya mantrā, through which mantrā, THE WORLD IS DISMISSED AND BRAHMAN IS ESTABLISHED AS NON-DUAL. And, by this statement itself, world is falsified. We had a similar mantrā in mundaka upanişad. [2.2.11]

brahmaivedamamṛtaṃ purastād brahma paścād brahma dakṣiṇataścottareṇa I adhaścordhvaṃ ca prasṛtaṃ brahmaiva idaṃ viśvamidaṃ variṣṭham II

- the only difference is the word brahman is a neuter gender word; whereas, the word bhũmā is a masculine gender word. Therefore, sanatkumārā uses the expression 'he' instead of 'it'. Now, look at the mantra. sa evadhastatsa. sah means, what? bhuma. So, that bhuma alone is down below. sah upariştāt - bhūmā is up above. sah paścāt - bhūmā alone is behind. sah purastāt - bhūmā alone is in front. And, sah daksinatah - bhūmā alone is on the southern side. If you are facing the east, on your right side and sah uttaratah - bhũmā alone is on the northern side, that is the left hand side. So, if you say paścāt - western side, purastāt is east, daksinatah is right, uttaratah is left. In short, all the four directions + up & down, every where brahman alone is. Then what about world? MISUNDERSTOOD BRAHMAN IS WORLD. And what is brahman? UNDERSTOOD WORLD IS BRAHMAN! Just as misunderstood rope, [once I give that example, I hope, it will be clear.] Misunderstood rope is snake; and understood "snake" is nothing but rope. Thus, misunderstood brahman is the world. Understood world is brahman. So, what the wise people see as brahman, the otherwise people see as the world. bhagavad gîtā - 2.69 - yā niśā sarvabhūtānām tasyām jāgarti samyamí - and therefore, there is no question of closing the eyes to realise brahman. Because, for a wise person, His problem is, he cannot miss brahman; and therefore, sanatkumārā said, sah bhūmā eva ida m sarvam. ida m sarvam means, all this is nothing but bhũmā.

And thereafter, sanatkumārā is worried. If you go on saying saḥ bhũmā brahman - that bhũmā - is sat, that bhũmā is cit, that bhũmā is ānanda, that bhũmā is reality. Everything you keep on saying "that", you will think, brahman is an object! And by knowing "brahman is great", I do not get any benefit. In fact, I will become more miserable. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, 'you have to replace the word saḥ by aham'. As long as you say "that" is brahman, your jĩvatvam will not go away. Only when you claim "aham brahma asmi" your jĩvatvam will be displaced by brahmatvam. If the wave is going to declare that, 'all the waves are water. The ocean is water. The bubble is water. Everything is water'. What about you? I am wave. No use! Therefore, the wave should learn to say, "I am the water behind all the waves, the ocean and bubble". Similarly, you have to replace the word saḥ by aham. That is why guru says, 'tat tvam asi' śvetaketu. Therefore, comes mahā vākyam.

Very important. athātaḥ - after saying "that is brahman", you have to progress to the statement "I am brahman". Therefore, ahańkāra ādeśa eva - means, teaching by using the word aham. Here the word ahańkārā should not be translated as ego. But, the word ahańkārā should be understood as 'employment of the word 'aham' in the place of saḥ bhũmā'. Therefore, ahańkāra ādeśa eva - means, giving the same teaching, by replacing the word saḥ by the word aham. And then what should you say? Instead of saying 'He is in front. He is behind etc', learn to claim, 'I am everywhere'. Come to the binary format, is the meaning. Otherwise, you will say, 'I am jĩvaḥ' and, 'this is jagat'; and, "அவனின்றி ஓர் அணுவும் அசையாது" அப்படின்னு, 'அவன், அவன், அவன்னு' சொல்லி, again you will say, "oh lord, protect me!" That miserable crying should not come.

Therefore, he says, [VERY BEAUTIFUL, VERY IMPORTANT MANTRĀ!] āham eva adhastād aham upariṣṭād ahaṃ paścād ahaṃ purastād ahaṃ dakṣiṇato 'hamuttarato'hameveda `` sarvam iti. So, joining the first part and the second part it is called mahā vākyam. "I alone am", all the words are the same. "I alone am down below, I alone am up above, I alone am behind, I alone am in front. North-south-east-west-everywhere!" If you remember taittīriya upaniṣad, "aham annam aham annādaḥ aham šlokakṛt" - I am everything! So, aham purastād - I am in front; ahaṃ dakṣiṇataḥ - I am on the right hand side; ahaṃ uttarataḥ - I am on the left hand side; ahaṃ eve ida `sarvam - I alone am all these! That is why I say, first you say when "I am all" it is Tamil ஆன். But, later, when you say "I am all", it should become English "all". Tamil ஆனு to English 'all' is mokṣa! Tamil ஆனு is சின்ன ஆளு; English 'all' is பெருமான்! பெரும் ஆள்! So, ahaṃ eve ida `sarvam - I am the very பெரும் ஆன்! - who is in the form of everything. yaḥ sākṣāt kurute prabodha samaye, sva ātmānam eva advayam [dakṣiṇāmũrti stotram].

So, this is mahā vākya mantrā. The mantrā 7.24.1 - "yatra nānyatpaśyati nānyacchṛṇoti" is an important mantrā, as BRAHMA LAKṢAŅA MANTRĀ. BUT, BRAHMA LAKṢAŅAM IS NOT CALLED MAHĀ VĀKYA MANTRĀ. IT IS AVĀNTARA VĀKYA MANTRĀ. WHEREAS, THIS MANTRĀ ALONE IS MAHĀ VĀKYA MANTRĀ; BECAUSE, I SAY, "THAT GREAT BHŨMĀ IS NONE OTHER THAN MYSELF!" Continuing. mantrā-2

अथात आत्मादेश एवात्मैवाधस्तादात्मोपरिष्टादात्मा पश्चादात्मा पुरस्तादात्मा दक्षिणत आत्मोत्तरत आत्मैवेद ् सर्वमिति स वा एष एवं पश्यन्नेवं मन्वान एवं विजानन्नात्मरतिरात्मक्रीड आत्ममिथुन आत्मानन्दः स स्वराड्भवति तस्य सर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति अथ येऽन्यथातो विदुरन्यराजानस्ते क्षय्यलोका भवन्ति तेषा ्ंसर्वेषु लोकेष्वकामचारो भवति ॥

athāta ātmādeśa evātmaivādhastādātmopariṣṭādātmā paścādātmā purastādātmā dakṣiṇata ātmottarata ātmaiveda sarvamiti sa vā eṣa evaṃ paśyannevaṃ manvāna evaṃ vijānannātma ratirātmakrīḍa ātmamithuna ātmānandaḥ sa svarāḍbhavati

tasya sarveșu lokeșu kāmacāro bhavati atha ye'nyathāto viduranyarājānaste kṣayyalokā bhavanti teṣā šarveșu lokeșva kāma cāro bhavati || 7.25.2 ||

So, first sanatkumārā said that, bhũmā is everything. First, sanatkumārā thought that, it will be objectification of brahman. That will be parokṣa jñānam which will not give any benefit. It should be converted in to aparokṣa jñānam, by employing the word aham. "aham brahma asmi" it should be. Thereafter, sanatkumārā is further worried. What is that? When a person claims 'aham brahma asmi', he should be very clear about the meaning of the word 'aham'. If he is not very clear about the meaning, then he will always hesitate to claim 'I am everything' 'I am all' 'I am infinite'. It will appear like a contradiction. And therefore, sanatkumārā wants to clarify 'aham' is understood as aham pada lakṣyārtha; not as, aham pada vācyārtha. Do not take the primary conventional meaning. We saw this elaborately in vedānta sārā.

The primary or the common meaning of the word 'aham' is what? The ahańkārā, the individual - consisting of sthūla śarĩram, sũkṣma śarĩram and cidābasa - the localised aham is the vācyārtha. Therefore, sanatkumārā says, claim 'aham brahma asmi', taking the lakṣyārtham. That is, OC, the ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS. The sākṣi caitanyam. Which alone sureśvarācāryā is repeatedly analysing in the naiṣkarmya siddhi. The body, the mind, the cidābasa all of them should be transferred to anātmā. Body also should be the meaning of the word anātmā; and the mind also should belong to anātmā. I should refer to only the WITNESS CONSCIOUSNESS. And what type of CONSCIOUSNESS? That which is not a part, product or property of the body-mind complex etc etc. That 'I' - the witness CONSCIOUSNESS - am everything! And if you keep that caitanyam in mind, without batting the eyelid, without any hesitation, you can claim 'I' am satcidānandam brahma. mayyeva sakalam jātam mayi sarvam pratiṣṭhitam mayi sarvam layam yāti. I need not be protected by anyone. pāhimām, rakṣamām - all these are in triangular format. In binary format, no pāhimām, no

And therefore, in this revised mahā vākyam, sanatkumārā says, aham pada lakṣyārtham is to be taken. So, athāta ātmādeśaḥ eva - aham pada lakṣyārtha ādeśaḥ. That is, shifting from triangular format I to the binary format 'I'. When I am in triangular format, the mantrā is dāsoham. When I am in binary format 'I' am soham. This soham is called mokṣaḥ. Now, look at this mantrā. ātmādeśa eva - the teaching using the real 'I', the higher 'I'. That is why in English also there are two "I"s in the alphabet. One is small I, which is crooked; and there is a capital I, which is tall and bigger! And that 'I' is called 'uttamaḥ puruṣastvanyaḥ paramātmetyudhāḥrtaḥ' etc [bg 15-17]. So, ātmādeśa evā athāta. sanatkumārā says, 'you need not change the word to ātmā; because, if you change the word to ātmā, again there will be problem. You will say, "ātmā is everything; but, I am miserable". Therefore, ātmā means, the real 'I', you have to claim as everything. ātma upariṣṭād - the real 'I' is up above. Similarly, paścād, similarly purastād, similarly dakṣiṇataḥ, similarly uttarataḥ. In short, ātmā eva ida sarvam - the real 'I' am everything. Then, what about the false I? It is a temporary veṣam I have put on. For what purpose? Entertainment purpose I have put on this veṣam.

This you can understand with the help of the dream example also. When I am identified with dream body, I am a creature within the dream world. But, when I wake up, identified with the waker's body, I am not a creature in dream world; but, I am the creator of the dream world! Similarly, identified with this body, I am a creature. Identified with CONSCIOUSNESS I am the CREATOR. Claim the CREATOR- HOOD, drop the creature-hood. Claim the paramātmā-hood, drop the jīvātmā-hood; claim the soham-hood, drop the dāsoham-hood. That is the essence of this mantrā. ātmā eva ida sarvam!

Once I have come to binary-format / soham, thereafter, what will be the result of this knowledge? bhuma - ātma aikya jñānam will lead to what? The phalam is given in the later portion. sa vā eşah - so that person, evam paśyannevam manvāna evam vijānan referring to śravana, manana and nididhyāsana, claiming & internalising this teaching, through śravana, manana and nididhyāsana. paśyannevam manvāna vijānan. paśyan referring to śravanam. manvāna referring to mananam. vijānan referring to the nididhyāsanam and nisthā. For him what is the phalam? ātma ratih ātmakrīdah ātmamithunah ātmānandah - he at once gets all forms of happiness. All forms of ānanda, worldly pleasures belong to him. sah aśnute sarvān kāmān saha brahmanā vipaścitā iti or if you remember taittīriya - "te ye śatam manuşyagandharvānāmānandāh śrotriyasya cākāmahatasya" - all the worldly ānandā, simultaneously belong to him. How do you say so? How can all the worldly pleasures be his pleasure? The logic is this. Whatever pleasures he enjoys or anybody enjoys in the world, he is not going to think that they are outside his nature. Because, he understands ALL THE PLEASURES IN THE WORLD ARE ONLY REFLECTION OF ONE ĀNANDĀ! And what is that ānandā? My own ānandā! Therefore, he is not going to miss any ānandā. He understands them to be his own xerox copy or reflection.

And what are various ānandās possible? A list is given. ātma ratiķ ātmakrīda ātmamithuna ātmānandaķ. ātma ratiķ. ratiķ means, any pleasure enjoyed with the help of the internal world of thought is called ratiķ. Either by remembering the past experiences or by projecting the future experience. 'I am going to go there. I am going to go there'. Suppose you have planned to go somewhere during vacation and you are looking forward to it, then, that is what ānandā? You are in the imaginary world. There is no external object. Any ānandā coming from within yourself is called ratiḥ. And that rati ānandā is also what ānandā? bhũmānandā, reflected in the internal world of thought. And what is another type of ānandā? ātmakrĩḍaḥ. So, pleasures derived by contacting external world of objects. bāhya sādhana sāpekṣā krĩḍā - śańkarācāryā defines. bāhya sādhana nirapekṣā ratiḥ. bāhya sādhana, sādhana means without object. Some people they smile alone even when nobody is there. They just smile imagining something. So, bāhya sādhana nirapekṣa ratiḥ. bāhya sādhana sāpekṣa krĩḍā.

All these pleasures are nothing but ātmānandā for a jñāni. Because, he knows, the ānandā does not belong to any object. How does he know? You have to go back to that mantra [7.23.1] yo vai bhūmā tatsukham nālpe sukhamasti bhūmaiva sukham - that he remembers. No finite entity in the world has got even a drop of ānandā. If anything gives ānandā, what example you should remember? The dog & bone example! Therefore, if somebody somewhere is enjoying any worldly pleasures, jñāni does not feel, 'எனக்கு அது இல்லயே!' it is not there for me'. Especially, if he is a sanyāsī, he can miss many of the "குழல் இனிது யாழ் இனிது!" [there are beautiful statements about ānandā coming from children, from grandchildren. They are all glorified by people]. But, when jñāni sees the other people enjoying children & grand children, this jñāni sanyāsī, does He feel, 'I made a mistake, I got caught! Perhaps I could have gone through brahmacarya āśramā; maybe I should have finished grhastha āśramā and then taken sanyāsā'. No. jñāni does not miss any blessed ānandā; because, His wisdom tells that, 'all the so called pleasures they do not come from children, they do not come from grand children, they do not come from Ooty or Kodaikanal or Alāskā, for that matter! Because, no object has got even an iota of ānandā. All those ānandās are coming from where? So, 'I' am giving that ānandā to the parents, 'I' am giving ānandā to the grandparents. Therefore, when he looks at his heart, "குறை ஒன்றும் இல்லை! " He does not miss anything in life.

And suppose, because of prārabdhā he enjoys some sense pleasure. Because pāpa prārabdham is there. puņya prārabdham is there. Because of the puņya prārabdham, this jñāni may get some pleasures. After all, bikṣā itself is of several kinds, depending upon the type of devotees. Therefore, some nice dish he gets and He enjoys that ānandā. At that time also, He has the awareness 'this ānandā also does not come from tongue - food contact; but, that is also my own ānandā, reflected.' And when the food is exhausted, ānandā does not go away. Only the reflection has gone. The master copy [MC] is myself! So, he is not going to feel miserable when the puṇya sukham comes & puṇya sukham goes away. Therefore, ratiḥ is also ātmānandā for him. krīḍā is also ātmānandā.

Then, what is the next type? ātmamithuna^h. Relationship-born pleasures. Previously, krīḍā refers to the object contact. mithuna means relationship with people, sańga ānandā. Because, we will think that jñāni is claiming asańgoham asańgoham asańgoham, and He is negating all the relationships. na mātā, na pitā, na bandhu^h, na mitram, na gurur, na śiṣya^h. If he has all the relationships, from where will he get ānandā? [Like some person who said, he had gone to some other place for job-work for two or three months, leaving the family here. I am not referring to any one of the students. Somebody not in this class. That person said, "Swāmíj̃i, when I come back home, normally I see my wife or children and that used to give me such a joy. And after going to that place when I came back from office, there was nobody. Only walls were staring at me. I was feeling so miserable, that I could not stay there. I rushed for a movie."] That means what?

Many people think that no relationship means no ānandā. Here sanatkumārā says a wise person knows that mithuna ānandā, sańga ānandā also does not come from sańga. No relationship can give even an iota of ānandā; but, it is what? ātmānandā getting reflected temporarily. Therefore, ātmamithunaḥ means what? mithuna ānandā is also ātmānandā for Him. So, everything is nothing but one ātmānandā, either with reflection or without reflection. If there is a mirror in front your face comes. When the mirror is removed what goes away? Reflected face goes away. The original face exists. Thus, neither attached to pratibimba ānandā nor rejecting pratibimba ānandā! Comes, wonderful; goes, okay! This ātmānandā is the phalam of bhũma vidyā. More in next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते ॥ पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते ॥ ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

34. Chapter 7.25.2, 7.26.1 and 7.26.2

अथात आत्मादेश एवात्मैवाधस्तादात्मोपरिष्टादात्मा पश्चादात्मा पुरस्तादात्मा दक्षिणत आत्मोत्तरत आत्मैवेद ् सर्वमिति स वा एष एवं पश्यन्नेवं मन्वान एवं विजानन्नात्मरतिरात्मक्रीड आत्ममिथुन आत्मानन्दः स स्वराड्भवति तस्य सर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति अथ येऽन्यथातो विदुरन्यराजानस्ते क्षय्यलोका भवन्ति तेषा ्ंसर्वेषु लोकेष्वकामचारो भवति ॥

athāta ātmādeśa evātmaivādhastādātmopariṣṭādātmā paścādātmā purastādātmā dakṣiṇata ātmottarata ātmaiveda sarvamiti sa vā eṣa evaṃ paśyannevaṃ manvāna evaṃ vijānannātma ratirātmakrīda ātmamithuna ātmānandaḥ sa svarādbhavati tasya sarveṣu lokeṣu kāmacāro bhavati atha ye'nyathāto viduranyarājānaste kṣayyalokā bhavanti teṣā sarveṣu lokeṣvakāma cāro bhavati || 7.25.2 ||

The teacher sanatkumārā defined ānandā or sukham as brahman - the infinite principle. And that brahman was defined as the division-less entity which alone is the jagat kāraṇam. And this ānanda svarūpam brahma, being the jagat kāraṇam, that brahman alone is in the form of everything. This was the teaching given in the previous mantrās. In section 25 first mantrā, sa evādhastāt sa upariṣṭāt sa paścāt sa purastāt sa dakṣiṇataḥ sa uttarataḥ - which means, bhūma brahma being the kāraṇam of everything, that alone is in the form of everything. And after defining brahman as everything, later sanatkumārā says, the very same brahman can be presented as ātmā. In mantrā 2 that we read now, athāta ātma ādeśa eva - 'now I am teaching the very same brahman or bhūmā by using the word ātmā'. And then, sanatkumārā pointed out, that ātmā alone is in front and behind. ātmā alone is on the right & left. In short, ātmā alone is everything.

So, first he said, brahman alone is everything. Later he said, ātmā alone is everything. Combining these two statements, what is the teaching we get? First we say, brahman alone is everything. Then we say, ātmā alone is everything. Therefore, what is the conclusion? BRAHMAN ALONE IS ĀTMĀ. ĀTMĀ ALONE IS BRAHMAN. Thus, brahma ātma aikyam is revealed, indirectly. In the previous chapter, the teacher directly said, 'tat tvam asi' śvetaketu. Whereas, in this 7th chapter, the brahma ātma aikyam is indirectly revealed. How? By first saying 'brahman is everything'. Which mantrā? sa evādhastātsa upariṣṭātsa etc [7.25.1]. saḥ means, what? brahman, bhũmā. And in this mantrā it is said, ātmā is everything. So, when you combine these two mantrās, we come to know that bhũmā is ātmā. bhũmā is myself. Thus, jīvātma paramātma aikyam has been taught in this manner. Normally, the aikyam is revealed through sat rũpā or cit rũpam. But, here, aikyam is revealed through ānanda rũpā. And therefore, the teacher concluded saying [in the 3rd line] - ātmā eve ida sarvam. But, when we use the word ātmā, we should remember that is not said here, we should remember ātmā does not refer to sthũla śarĩram; it does not refer to sũkṣhma śarĩram or kāraṇa śarĩram. But, it refers to what? The sākṣi caitanyam!

And as a result of this, what is the phalam that a person enjoys? That is said here. sa vā eṣa evaṃ paśyann evaṃ manvāna evaṃ vijānann - the one who thoroughly goes through śravaṇam, mananam and nididhyāsanam, he recognises 'I' AM BRAHMA SVARŨPAḤ! What type of brahman? ānandam brahma or sukham brahma. Because it was said, [you should remember] yovai bhūmā tat sukham. bhūmā is defined as sukham. Therefore, when I claim, 'I am brahman', I claim 'I am sukha svarũpaḥ'. And thereafter, what is the benefit he gets? He understands the important point. [we had discussed before vacation; you have to remember here].

The teacher had said, ONLY BHŨMĀ HAS GOT ĀNANDAḤ. bhũmā means, what? ātmā. ātmā means what? 'I' myself. Only 'I' am the source of ānandā. [mantrā 7.23.1] yo vai bhūmā tatsukhaṃ nālpe sukhamasti - there is no ānanda in the world he said.

And at that time we raised a question [that you should recollect in this context]. "If 'I' am the only source of ānandā, and there is no sukham in the outside world, how come I am getting ānandā from the external world through sense pleasures?! If there is no ānandā in the world, how come I am deriving pleasure from the external world through śabda sparśa etc? And what was our answer? We said that, world does not give ānanda. What is the example? The dog & bone example. Whenever the dog bites the bone, bone does not give blood; but, what is in its own inside is brought out because of the bone! And therefore, according to vedāntā, any pleasure coming from outside is my own pleasure, manifest either in śabda, sparśa, rũpa, etc.

And therefore, what is the conclusion of a jñāni? We saw - ātma ratiḥ ātmakrīḍa ātmamithunaḥ ātmānandaḥ. A jñāni understands "all forms of pleasures enjoyed by all the people are nothing but my own ānandā, which is manifesting in their respective minds when the mind is conducive!" And therefore, He does not run after pleasure. He understands, all pleasures are included in ātmānandā. Therefore, here the four words ratiḥ, krīḍaḥ, mithunaḥ and ānandaḥ refer to all forms of graded pleasures, which was expressed in taittīriya as priya, moda, pramoda etc. All those graded pleasures are only reflection of my own original ānandā, which is ungraded. Original ānandā is not graded; but, only the reflected ānanda becomes graded. Depending upon what? The type of the reflecting medium. You have to remember the taittĩriya - "te ye śataṃ manuṣya gandharvāṇām ānandāḥ ...". All ānandaḥ is ātmānandaḥ. Therefore, jñāni concludes, 'I do not have to run after any ānandā'. Thus, ātma ānandaḥ bhavati. Up to this we saw in the last class.

And this is called jīvan muktiḥ. What is called jīvan muktiḥ? Not running after external pleasures! And even when - because of some puṇya prārabdham - I get nice sensory pleasures, I do not look upon them as sensory pleasures. I understand it as what? En-joy. [roi joy] My pleasure, which is appearing through dance, music etc. Even when the dance goes away, music goes away, ānandā does not go. The reflection came, the reflection went. The original is always there! And what is the original? 'I' am the master copy. MC. And suppose somebody asks, "how to experience the original ānandā?" Then, I will ask the counter question, "how will you experience your original face?" [I know how you will experience your reflected face. How do you do that? Keep a mirror]. You can only experience the reflected face. Unfortunately or fortunately, you can never, never, never, [I can go on up to 7 p.m!], never, never experience original face.

Similarly, brahmānandā is not a matter for experience; but, it is a matter for claiming 'aham brahmānandāḥ asmi' - which alone I enjoy now & then, reflected in conducive condition. And the reflected pleasure is not totally under my control. The reflected pleasure depends upon so many factors, including karmā. Therefore, ātmānandaḥ bhavati. jñāni claims, 'I am ānandaḥ'. This is called jĩvan muktiḥ.

And thereafter what happens? The upanişad says, sa svarād bhavati. So, when the prārabdha karmā is exhausted, what happens to that jñāni? He says, 'he becomes videha muktah. [All these you know]. When the prārabdha karmā is exhausted, prārabdhā is gone. sañcita karmā has been burnt by knowledge. āgāmi karmā is not acquired. Therefore, His karmā balance sheet shows zero karmā! And therefore, He does not take another body as an individual. He remains as ātmā. That is nirupādika ātmā. He does not have that particular upādi or body. So, svarād means, videha muktah. saḥ svarādbhavati. And, as brahman, that jñāni is where? Where is the videha muktaḥ located? He is present. Present in what form? Either in the form of sat, which is everywhere; or, you can say, He is in the form of cit - in every being; or, He is in the form of ānandā. saccidānanda rũpeṇa jñāni sarvatra vartate. videha muktaḥ sarvatra vartate.

On the other hand, suppose a person does not gain this knowledge, [what knowledge? 'aham brahma asmi' knowledge is not acquired] what will be his loss? That is said. atha ye anyathato viduh. athah means, what? Other than this. In any manner, other than the manner that has been taught here. vidun - if a person knows. And what can be any other manner? If aikyam is not known, jĩva ĩśvara bedhā alone will be there. And once I am in jīva īśvara bedhah, then, what is my loss? As a jīvah I am subject to the influence of karmā; and therefore, naturally, I am a dāsah. If aikyam is there, you can say 'I am Swāmī'. The moment I lose the Swāmī status, the only other status available is what? dāsah. Triangular format means, dāsah. Binary format means, Swāmĩ. If you leave Swāmĩ, then dāsah. Okay, so what? So what?! Immediately, bhagavān will take out my jātakam. Because, jīvah means, jātakam. [J & J - is coming correctly!] Once jātakam comes, naturally karmā comes. Therefore, even though bhagavān is compassionate, bhagavān as a karmā phala dātā, will have to give you rāhu daśā, ketu daśā, śani daśā etc. Means, I will be a samsāri. And even death will not solve the problem; because, bhagavān will take the old file and from sañcita karmā another birth will come. There is no escape! Thus, the upanisad says, OTHER THAN AIKYAM, ANY FORM OF KNOWLEDGE IS BONDAGE.

Therefore, anyarājānaste bhavanti = te anya rājānaḥ bhavanti. They have got somebody else as their master! Who have got somebody else? Ignorant people have got somebody else as their master. 'Somebody else' means what? bhagavān - who will control me through my karmā. So, anya rājānaḥ means, they will have somebody as their master. To put in another language, they will be slaves. Okay, then why cannot I do some good karmā? bhagavān will put me in to suffering only because of bad karmā?! Suppose, I keep doing good karmās, I can escape from this problem?! sanatkumārā says that also will not work; because, even if you do good karmās, those karmās will end one day. And again, te taṁ bhuktvā svargalokaṁ viśālaṁ kṣĩne puṇye martya- lokam viśanti [bg 9.21] Therefore, kṣayyalokā bhavanti. Means, they will be associated with limited, finite, karma phalam. They will be associated with kṣayyam. Means what? Perishable. lokā means, karma phalam. They can never permanently escape from saṃsārā. Therefore, the only way out is what? aikyam alone will solve the problem. bedha will not solve the problem.

And, teṣām. What is their loss? teṣā (sarveṣu lokeṣu - whichever lokā they go to, they are not free birds. Whichever lokā they go to, they are not free birds. Why? Because, their life is constantly governed by karmā. Therefore, upaniṣad says, akāma cāro bhavati - they move without freedom. And unfortunately, karmā - which controls us, happens to be in the form of adṛṣṭam; and therefore, I cannot even fight the karmā! I hope you remember the example. Suppose there is a boxing sport and one boxer has got an invisible form and imagine I have to fight him! I do not know where he is; but, he can see me. See the tragedy! Therefore, I look in this direction, I get one bash from behind! Heavy pain. I turn, I do not see him. From the other side, he gives one on my cheek. What kind of game it is?! I am absolutely helpless. Similarly, ajñāni means, life is a continuous boxing with our own adṛṣṭa karmā. Tomorrow morning how I am going to get up I do not know! Whereas, karmā can see me. Do you want such a saṃsārā?! Or, do you want to get out of this? If you are interested in getting out, the only way is what? aham brahma asmi! Thus, the phalam for jñānam was mentioned. The phalam for ajñānam also was mentioned. With this, the teaching of bhūma vidyā is over. Now comes the last section. The conclusion. Section 26, mantrā 1.

Seventh Chapter - Section 26

तस्य ह वा एतस्यैवं पश्यत एवं मन्वानस्यैवं विजानत आत्मतः प्राण आत्मत आशात्मतः स्मर आत्मत आकाश आत्म-तस्तेज आत्मत आप आत्मत आविर्भावतिरोभावावात्मतोऽन्नमात्मतो बलमात्मतो विज्ञानमात्मतोध्यानमात्मतश्चि- त्तमात्मतः सङ्कल्प आत्मतो मन आत्मतो वागात्मतो नामात्मतो मन्त्रा आत्मतः कर्माण्यात्मत एवेद[°]सर्वमिति ॥

tasya ha vā etasyaivam paśyata evam manvānasyaivam vijānata ātmatah prāņa ātmata āśātmatah smara ātmata ākāśa ātmatasteja ātmata āpa ātmata āvirbhāvatirobhāvāvātmato 'nnamātmato balamātmato vijñānamātmato dhyānamātmataścittamātmatah saṅkalpa ātmato mana ātmato vāgātmato nāmātmato mantrā ātmataḥ karmāṇyātmata eveda sarvamiti || 7.26.1 ||

Just a consolidation of the teaching. In this, the vision of this jñāni is given. Previously, in the beginning of the 7th chapter, sanatkumārā introduced 15 upāsanās, nāma brahma upāsanā, [I hope you remember]. vāg brahma upāsanā, mano brahma upāsanā, etc. 15 upāsanās were mentioned; where, 15 items were taken for meditation; which included both the micro world, like vāk, manah etc., as well as, the pañca bhūtāni. All of them were taken. Thus, in the beginning stage, the student meditated upon the entire world, for expanding the mind. Then the world was outside him. And what about me, the individual? I am an insignificant entity. When I meditate upon ãkāśā, what is my vision? ãkāśā is infinitely big; and, 'who am I'? I am an insignificant speck of dust, who is located in one corner! That was the vision during upāsanā. And now, the whole table is turned.

sanatkumārā says that, now, after jñānam, the jñāni says, all these 15 items including the pañca bhūtās, which I meditated upon - as though outside, they are all in me; and they have originated from me. mayyeva sakalam jātam mayi sarvam pratisthitam mayi sarvam layam yāti. Previously, I said, I am in the world. Now, the vision is, the world is in me! The only small difference is, when I said, 'I am in the world', the meaning of the word I was, the miserable body-mind complex.

Now, when I say, 'the whole world is in me', what is the meaning of the word 'me'/'I'? It refers to the caitanyam! And this we can easily assimilate if you remember the dream example. When I am in dream, looking at the vast dream universe, my vision is what? The dream world is very big; and I am one of the members in dream. And you can never avoid this, as long as you are in dream. And when I wake up, then, instead of saying, 'I am in dream', I say, "the dream was and is in me!" The only difference is, when you wake up from the dream, the dream world disappears; whereas, when you wake up through jñānam, this world would not disappear. Looking at this world, looking at this body, I have to declare that, "I am the adhiṣṭhānam of the universe!" And therefore, sanatkumārā says, 'for that jñāni', tasya jñāninaḥ, etasya evaṃ paśyata evaṃ manvānasya evaṃ vijānata - the one practises śravaṇam, mananam and nididhyāsanam of this, and assimilates this teaching, what does he say? All those 15 items are enumerated, in the reverse order.

First one was nāma, last one was prāṇaḥ. Here it is presented in the reverse order. prāṇa and thereafter āśā, smaraḥ etc. All of them are born out of where? ātmataḥ! They are born out of 'me'!

And that is why I said in the morning class, that we should never pray for escaping from the world. moksā should never be understood as escaping from the world! I do not escape from the world; I cannot escape from the world. Because, I am the adhisthānam of the whole world. I do not, I cannot, and finally I need not, escape from the world; because, the nāma rũpā prapañcā cannot affect me in any manner. Therefore, what is moksā? It is not escaping from the world; but, it is escaping from ignorance about myself. And therefore, [I am not going through every word; because, they are nothing but repetition of those 15 items. Only two or three new words are added. In the fourth line]. avirbhava tirobhāva. āvirbhāva means, what? Appearance. tirobhāva means, disappearance. ātmatah means, from me. Just as dream world appears out of me and when I wake up, dream world disappears in to where? Not, elsewhere. It disappears in to me. Similarly, this world also, rises from me and resolves in to me. Thus, āvirbhāva tirobhāva are new additions. Then, in the last but one line ātmatah mantrāh. mantrāh means, what? Even vedās arise out of me; and ātmatah karmāni - all the karmās are also born out of me. And then, sanatkumārā is tired of mentioning each one! Therefore, he says, ātmatah eveda sarvam iti. So we have to start with Tamil 头前; and we have to end with English 'all'. Do you understand ? I am this ஆள். Then, after jñānam, what should you say? I am all (English, all). This is the wisdom! iti.

Continuing. mantrā-2.

तदेष श्लोको न पश्यो मृत्युं पश्यति न रोगं नोत दुःखता ्ंसर्व ्हं पश्यः पश्यति सर्वमाप्नोति सर्वश इति ...

tadeṣa śloko na paśyo mṛtyuṃ paśyati na rogaṃ nota duḥkhatā ̈́ sarva ̈́ ha paśyaḥ paśyati sarvam āpnoti sarvaśa iti ... [initial part of mantrā 7.26.2] tadeṣa ślokaḥ - with regard to this teaching, there is the following rg mantrā. So, the upaniṣad, [which upaniṣad?] A sāma veda upaniṣad is quoting a rg veda mantrā! ślokaḥ means, rg mantraḥ. First, we will take the last part. sarvamāpnoti sarvaśaḥ - after knowledge, jñāni pervades everything. After knowledge, jñāni pervades everything. How does it happen? Before knowledge, when I look at myself as the body, I am not all-pervading; I am confined to a place. But, after jñānam, I do not look upon myself as the body; but, I look upon myself as the cit behind the body. And the moment I change my identification from the body to caitanyam, at once, I can say, "I am the caitanyam, not only behind this body; but; I am the caitanyam behind all the bodies".

Therefore, where am 'I'? 'I' am all-pervading. sarvam sarvaśaḥ āpnoti. sat rũpeṇa, cit rũpeṇa sarvam āpnoti. And because of this, [see previous quarter], paśyaḥ - this jñāni, sarva ʿātmatvena paśyati, [ātmatvena we have to supply]. Therefore, He looks upon everything as Himself. sarvam means, everything. paśyaḥ means, jñāni. paśyati means, He sees. He sees everything as ātmatvena - His own expression. To remember the example, when a wave looks upon itself as a wave, the wave will look upon itself as a localised entity from the standpoint of nāma rũpā. But, the moment the wave shifts the vision, and instead of claiming, 'I am a wave', the moment it claims, 'I am the water'; then, the very same wave can say, 'as water, not only I pervade this particular wave, I pervade all the waves! In fact, not only I pervade all the waves, I pervade the entire ocean! And later, it can say, 'in fact, there is a radical change in outlook! Therefore, jñāni looks upon Himself as all- pervading. [Now, go back to the first line].

Such a vidvān, paśyaḥ na mṛṭyuṃ paśyati na rogam paśyati, na duḥkhatām paśyati. Such a jñāni does not see any saṃsārā in Himself caused by birth death old age etc. mṛṭyuḥ means, mortality. rogam means, diseases. duḥkha means, pain. All of them, the jñāni does not see; because, mortality belongs to the wave, not to the water. In short, He is free from all the problems caused by modification or change. saḥ muktaḥ bhavati. iti r̪g mantraḥ.

Continuing.

स एकधा भवति त्रिधा भवति पञ्चधा सप्तधा नवधा चैव पुनश्चैकादशः स्मृतः शतं च दश चैकश्च सहस्राणि च वि ्शति राहारशुद्धौ सत्त्वशुद्धौ ध्रुवा स्मृतिः स्मृतिलम्भे सर्वग्रन्थीनां विप्रमोक्षस्तस्मै मृदितकषायाय तमसस्पारं दर्शयति भगवान्सनत्कुमारस्त ्रैंस्कन्द इत्याचक्षते त ्रैंस्कन्द इत्याचक्षते ॥ [Continuation of later part of same mantrā 7.26.2] sa ekadhā bhavati tridhā bhavati pañcadhā saptadhā navadhā caiva punaścaikādaśaḥ smṛtaḥ śataṃ ca daśa caikaśca saḥasrāṇi ca vi ̈́ śatirāhāraśuddhau sattva śuddhau dhruvā smṛtiḥ smṛtilambhe sarvagranthĩnāṃ vipramokṣastasmai mṛditakaṣāyāya tamasaspāraṃ darśayati bhagavān sanatkumārasta ̈́ skanda ityācakṣate ta ̈́ skanda ity ācak ṣa te II

Now, the upaniṣad concludes, by pointing out the idea which was given in the first mantrā. That jñāni understands Himself as the non-dual jagat kāraṇam brahma. That same idea is repeated here. saḥ - this jñāni alone, is jagat kāraṇam brahma; who multiplies into this universe. And this multiplication is given in the form of various numbers. It is enough if you say, 'He multiplies in the form of everything'. But, the upaniṣad gives that in this manner.

saḥ ekadhā bhavati - that jñāni is initially in the form of the non-dual brahman, before the sṛṣṭi comes. You have to imagine our suṣupṭi avasthā. There we are ekadhā. Then what do we do? We get up! Thereafter, [sṛṣṭi kāle] tridhā bhavati - he himself multiplies in to three. pañcadhā saptadhā navadhā caiva. pañcadhā in to five. saptadhā seven, [just random numbers there is no special significance] navadhā - means 9. punaśca ekādaśaḥ smṛtaḥ śataṃ ca daśa ca saḥasrāṇi ca. ekādaśaḥ is 11. śataṃ means 100. daśa means 10. saḥasrāṇi means 1000. vi šátiḥ means 20. Then, in the form of this multifarious universe, jñāni Himself comes. If you remember taittĩriya upaniṣad, jñāni thinks "aham annām aham annādaḥ aham ślokakṛt - I am everything!" - that you have to remember.

And then what happens to Him? ekaś ca [bhavati] - in the third line beginning there is a word ekaḥ. That means, again at the time of pralayam what happens? All the 1000 get reduced to 100. 10. Then again 9,8,7,5, etc again punaḥ ekaḥ bhavati. Then what happens? Again, ekadhā tridhā pañcadhā saptadhā navadhā etc. Then what happens? Again, one! Thus, I myself, with my māyā power am enjoying the game of expansion & contraction. If this expansion & contraction is really happening, then there may be some pain. If it is a real event, there is some pain; but, the blessing is, this expansion & contraction is not satyam; it is only mithyā. I seemingly multiply; and then I contract. Exactly as in dream. I do not really multiply in to many. Comfortably lying down on the bed as ekaḥ. Seemingly, I become plural in dream; and, seemingly that plurality is resolved. My non-duality is not disturbed by this seeming expansion & contraction.

Then, what is the purpose of it? - if you ask, sheer entertainment! Otherwise, if this māyā and world are not there, 'I', the brahman, cannot even claim 'I am brahman'! Remember, brahman by itself cannot claim, 'I am brahman'! For that, what is required? māyā is required. Therefore, the whole life will be waste, if māyā is absent. If pure brahman alone is there, that brahman cannot even claim, 'I am non-dual saccidānanda brahma'. To so claim, what do you require? māyā - mind - upādi. Therefore, all these fun is possible because of this māyā. This fun will not affect me. Remember the fifth capsule of vedāntā. What is the fifth capsule? "By remembering my real nature, 'I' convert life in to an entertainment; by forgetting my nature, 'I' convert life in to a struggle'. jñāni remembers. So, punaḥ ekaḥ bhavati. And after vi ţ śatiḥ in the third line, you have to put a full-stop. There, the teaching is complete.

sanatkumārā thinks that this teaching would have been received by the student. But, there will always be some people who feel that this is too much; and it is difficult to understand. So, sanatkumārā says, for those people who cannot grasp the teaching, they have to start sādhanā from the LKG. And those sādhanās are outlined in the last portion. For whom? [Not for you; because, you all have understood!] But, there may be some people who are not able to grasp.

What all they should do is given here. āhāraśuddhau sattva śuddhau dhruvā smṛtiḥ. āhāra śuddhau sattva śuddiḥ - first, one should purify the mind by controlling the āhāra. āhāra literally refers to the tongue; and tongue represents all sense organs. By the mastery of the sense organs, citta śuddhi should be acquired; which is called karma yogā. karma yogā in one line! āhāra śuddhau sattva śuddiḥ = karma yogā. Then what he should do? sattva śuddhau dhruvā smṛtiḥ - after citta śuddhi, one has to gain clear knowledge. smṛtiḥ means jñānam, dhruvā means, firm. This refers to what? jñāna yogā. In one line, karma yogā; in another line, jñāna yogā!!

Then, what is the phalam? smṛtilambhe sarvagranthĩnāṃ vipramokṣaḥ - once knowledge comes, all the knots of the heart are destroyed. Knots representing ignorance and confusion. This is called liberation. sarvagranthĩnāṃ - avidyā kāma karmāṇam vipramokṣaḥ. With this, the sādhanā condensation is also over.

Now, the upaniṣad comes as the master of ceremonies and concludes this dialogue by saying, tasmai mṛditakaṣāyāya bhagavān sanatkumāraḥ tamasaspāraṃ darśayati - until now bhagavān sanatkumārā took nāradā across the ocean of ignorance. tamasaḥ means, ignorance or saṃsārā. mṛdita kaṣāyāya means, for the pure minded nāradā. kaṣāyā means, impurity. mṛdita means, free from. To the pure nāradā, bhagavān sanatkumārā showed the shore across the ocean of darkness or ignorance. And this sanatkumārā is not an ordinary teacher! taʾ skanda ityācakṣate - He is an avatāram of Lord subraḥmaṇyā. This sanatkumārā is skandaḥ. skandaḥ means, subraḥmaṇyā! He alone has come down as ācārya sanatkumārā. And therefore, we offer namaskārā to the Great ācāryā, for taking nāradā as well as us also across the ocean of ignorance. With this the 7th chapter named bhũma vidyā is over.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

Chāndogya upanişad

Commentary by Swami Paramarthananda

Eighth Chapter

35. Chapter 8.1.1 to 8.1.4

In the last class, we completed the 7th chapter of chāndogya, named bhũma vidyā, which was in the form of a dialogue between nāradā and sanatkumārā. And in this bhũma vidyā, brahman was revealed as sukha svarũpam or ānanda svarũpaḥ. In the sixth chapter, brahman is revealed as sad rũpam brahma; in the 7th chapter ānanda rũpam brahma; and in the following 8th chapter cid rũpam brahma. avasthātraya sākṣi rũpam brahma will be pointed out. Thus, these three chapters - 6, 7 and 8 - reveal the saccidānanda svarũpam of brahma. With this background, we will enter in to the 8th chapter. And in this final chapter, we have got 15 sections or khaṇḍās. Of these 15 khaṇḍās, or sections, the first six sections are dealing with saguṇa brahma upāsanā. That is section 1 to section 6. Then, the next six sections, that is from 7th up to 12th section, we have got nirguṇa brahma jñānam, in the form of a dialogue between prajāpati and indrā. And therefore, this teaching is called prajāpati vidyā. And after dealing with saguṇa brahma upāsanā and nirguṇa brahma jñānam in 12 sections, then in the last 3 sections, the upaniṣad talks about some general spiritual disciplines. This is the layout of the 8th chapter.

In the first six sections, saguna brahma or isvara upāsanā is talked about. And for that upāsanā, the ālambanam or symbol is the inner space obtaining within our own heart. hrdaya ākāśā is taken - which is a small space obtaining within the heart; and that is called dahara ākāśah. And in that dahara ākāśā - limited space, obtaining within the heart - we have to meditate upon saquna ĩśvarā. Therefore, this upāsanā is popularly known as dahara vidyā. A very, very popular îśvara dhyānam within our own heart. And it is very elaborately discussed in brahma sũtrā in a particular adhikaranam - dahara adhikaranam. [First chapter, third section, of brahma sũtrā, this dahara vidyā is discussed] And in this particular upāsanā, our very physical body is taken as the temple; our own heart is taken as THE SANCTUM; and THE CAITANYAM OBTAINING WITHIN THAT HEART IS TAKEN AS ĨŚVARĀ. Therefore, instead of seeing isvarā outside - as bheda, with division - we get abheda upāsanā here; wherein, îśvarā is invoked in myself. Because, in karma kāndā, we get the habit of seeing ĩśvarā always outside. Gradually, we break that habit, and learn to see ĩśvarā within ourselves; so that, later, we can gain the knowledge aham brahma asmi. Thus, bheda jñānam to abheda upāsanam to abheda jñānam is our progress. And therefore, this upāsanā is considered very significant. With this background, we will enter Ch-8 Sec-1 mantrā-1.

Eighth Chapter – Section 1

अथ यदिदमस्मिन्ब्रह्मपुरे दहरं पुण्डरीकं वेश्म दहरोऽस्मिन्नन्तराकाशस्तस्मिन्यदन्तस्तदन्वेष्टव्यं तद्वाव विजिज्ञासितव्यमिति ॥

atha yadidamasminbrahmapure daharam puṇḍarĩkam veśma daharo'sminnantarākāśas tasmin yadantastadanveṣṭavyam tadvāva vijijñāsitavyam iti || 8.1.1 ||

So, as I said, the first six sections deal with saguņa brahma upāsanā. And here we do not get the name of the guru and śiṣyā . Here, the upaniṣad itself is imagining a dialogue between the guru and śiṣyā . The name prajāpati and indrā are introduced only in nirguņa brahma jñānam. Here, the upaniṣad itself is presenting the upāsanā in the form of a dialogue. So, you have to imagine some guru is making a statement to a set of disciples. And what does this guru say? X guru and Y śiṣyā. śiṣyā is called Y because he keeps on asking why! Therefore, you imagine a Y disciple! Now, the guru declares yadidam asmin brahmapure - we all have got a physical body. This physical body is named brahmapuram. puram means what? The city. brahma means what? brahma, saguņa brahman or ĩśvarā. The physical body is called brahmapuram; because, it is like a city in which the king, called brahma, is residing. Therefore, the body is called brahma puram.

And this is important; because, all the time in vedāntā, we keep on negating the body. We keep on looking down upon the body; and in fact, in the name of videha mukti, we even pray that "I should not take the body once again". Thus, constantly criticising the body, we will get a very, very negative opinion. In vivekacũdāmani and all, body is - why vivekacũdāmani? - in naişkarmya siddhi, we talked about the body as full of filth etc. Here, we are changing the attitude. Do not look down upon the body. Body is sacred. Why it is sacred? Because, it is brahmapuram. Why it is brahmapuram? Because, within it is brahma - that is saguna brahma - is residing. In this physical body there is the sanctum sanctorum. What is that? daharam pundarīkam veśma. veśma means, a residence or abode. veśma - it is a residence or abode. Here, they translate it as mansion. Because, if brahman is the Lord, He cannot have an ordinary residence! Therefore, veśma means, a palatial residence. It is what? pundarīkam - the hrdaya pundarīkam. The heart, which is like a lotus bud hanging upside down. The heart's shape is like a lotus bud hanging upside down. Therefore, within brahmapuram, there is the palatial residence, which is the lotus like heart. What is the size of the heart? daharam. daharam, means what? Which is a small one. Because, body itself is small; and within the body is the lotus like heart. So, daharam pundarīkam veśma.

daharaḥ asminn antar ākāśaḥ. And, asmin - in that lotus-like heart, daharaḥ ākāśaḥ, there is small and subtle ākāśā [space]. And what is that ākāśā? Here, the word ākāśā - alpa ākāśaḥ - finally refers to saguṇam brahman or ĩśvarā. daharākāšaḥ refers to cidākāšaḥ or saguṇam brahma! And, how do you say so? We have to understand the logic. According to the śāstrā, the heart is the location, the physical heart - the pumping heart - is the location where the mind resides. Even though modern science talks about the mind as associated with the brain, according the scriptures, the mind is not associated with the brain; but, the physical heart is the location, where the subtle mind is there. When these medical people cut the body, they can see the physical heart; but, they cannot see the mind. Why? Because, the physical heart belongs to sthũla śarĩram. The subtle mind belongs to sũkṣma śarĩram. Doctors have not yet proved a sũkṣma śarĩram. What is the proof for sũkṣma śarĩram?, if someone asks, what should you say? śāstrā is the proof for sũkṣma śarĩram; and therefore, within the body the heart is there. Which is small. Within the small heart, there is the mind. And, in that mind, lot of thoughts are rising! That means what? There must be some subtle space, within the heart, in which, thoughts are arising.

So, within the heart, there is the mind. In the mind thoughts are arising. That means, there must be a subtle space, where the thoughts are rising. Then, these rising thoughts are known or unknown? The problem is, they are known! If they are not known, perhaps, we may be welloff. But all the thoughts rising in the mind are known. That means, within the heart, there is the mind; and in that mind, there is the awaring WITNESS CONSCIOUSNESS. This CONSCIOUSNESS obtaining within that subtle space - illumines all the thoughts. And this CONSCIOUSNESS is called cidākāśā. The physical space within the heart is called bhūta ākāśā. The non-physical CONSCIOUSNESS, obtaining within the heart, is called cid ākāśā. [Is it complicated? I will repeat]. Within the heart there are two ākāśās. One is, the physical space; another is, non-physical, space-like CONSCIOUSNESS. One is called bhūta ākāśā. [bhūta means, pañca bhūtās - ākāśā, vāyu, agni etc]. And, there is the cidākāśā; because of which, all the thoughts are known. This cidākāśā is called daharākāśah. So, within the body there is heart. And in that heartspace, there is the mind. In that mind there is, WITNESS CONSCIOUSNESS. The WITNESS CONSCIOUSNESS is also formless; like, ākāšā. Therefore, the caitanyam also is called ākāšā. But, what type of ākāśā? It is called cidākāśā. Therefore, the upanisad says, asmin - within the heart, there is daharākāśaḥ, which is otherwise called cidākāśā, which is none other than brahman or ĩśvarā.

And if this cidākāśā is understood as the all-pervading CONSCIOUSNESS, then it is called jīvātma paramātma aikya jīnānam. But, here, we are not talking about jīvātma paramātma aikya jñānam. We say, "may you meditate upon it." It is not understanding; but, it is just visualisation. Imagination of that internal space of CONSCIOUSNESS as iśvarā. So, when you visualise something as something, it is called upāsanam. When you understand something as something, it is called jñānam. Here, we are not involved in analysis and understanding. You imagine that within the heart, iśvarā is there. In the form of what? The caitanya tattvam. Blessing the body, the mind etc.

iśvaraḥ sarvabhūtānāṃ hṛddeśe arjuna tiṣṭhati - [where does it come? Already secret is out! arjuna, when I say, you know where it comes! In the bhagavad gĩtā. Maximum I can ask is, 'which chapter?' V-61 in the 18th chapter]. Thus, I visualise saguṇa ĩśvarā within my heart, as cidākāśā. That is why in lalitā sahasra nāma, one of the nāmā of devĩ is daharākāśa rũpiņĩ. daharākāšā means, THE INNER SPACE OR INNER CONSCIOUSNESS. So, antarākāśaḥ - there is an internal space. Here, the word ākāśā means, what? cidākāšā. And, tasmin - in that ĩśvarā, tasmin = cidākāšā rũpa, daharākāšā rũpa saguṇa ĩśvare, what all things are there; yad antaḥ means, whatever is based on / located on that ĩśvarā, the internal ĩśvarā, tad anveṣṭavyaṃ - may you enquire in to.

Thus, the essence is, 'may you enquire in to the inner ĩśvarā; and may you also enquire in to things which are located in that ĩśvarā. So, tasmin - daharākāśā rũpa ĩśvare antaḥ yad vartate, tad anveṣṭavyaṃ. anveṣaṇaṃ means what? May you enquire. And do not merely enquire. tad vāva vijijñāsitavyam - you should also know about that internal ĩśvarā. vijijñāsitavyam means, what? You should know that internal ĩśvarā. Later, it will be told, [I will break the suspense] - later it will told that, the internal ĩśvarā which you think as a small ĩśvarā residing inside is not small ĩśvarā; but, that is nothing but 'viśvādhāram gagana sadṛśam'. Ĩśvarā is within you, as well as outside you. That will be taught later. For that, this is the introduction. tad vijijñāsitavyam.

Continuing. v2

तं चेद्ब्रूयुर्यदिदमस्मिन्ब्रह्मपुरे दहरं पुण्डरीकं वेश्म दहरोऽस्मिन्नन्तराकाशः किं तदत्र विद्यते यदन्वेष्टव्यं यद्वाव विजिज्ञासितव्यमिति स ब्रूयात् ॥

tam cedbrũyuryadidamasminbrahmapure daharam puṇḍarĩkam veśma daharo'sminnantar- ākāśaḥ kiṃ tadatra vidyāte yad anveṣṭavyaṃ yad vāva vijijñāsitavyam iti sa brũyāt || 8.1.2 ||

Now, the upaniṣad continues. taṃ cedbrũyuḥ - suppose a guru makes such a declaration that "there is ĩśvarā within your heart and you should know what is located in that ĩśvarā" - if a teacher declares in this manner, a student may ask a counter question. [Who says this? the upanişad says]. A Student may ask a question. tam. tam means, such a guru. brũyuḥ - a śiṣyā may address such a guru in the following manner. So, brũyuḥ means, what? śiṣyā may raise a question to such a teacher. And what will be the question? "What is the use? What is the use of knowing that ĩśvarā?"

Because, the īśvarā that you are talking about, must be EXTREMELY SMALL. Why? Because, the body itself is small; and within the body heart is still smaller; and within the heart you are talking about īśvarā! And that īśvarā is called, dahara ākāśā. The very adjective "daharam" indicates what? alpam. The very fact that it is called alpa ākāśā indicates that the īśvarā is extremely small. Within that extremely small īśvarā, what can be there? உழக்குல கிழக்கு ேற்கு! What can be there within that small īśvarā? Thus, the student may ask. Means, 'nothing will be there within that īśvarā! Even if there is something, it will be of no great value. Therefore, why should I do anveṣaṇaṃ? anveṣaṇaṃ means, enquiry. What is the use of knowing that small īśvarā within the heart?'

Therefore, the student is repeating the teacher's statement. yad idam asmin brahmapure. Okay, I am willing to accept that this is the body of brahman. Body is brahmapuram. And Okay, I am willing to accept that within the brahmapuram there is the lotus heart - daharaṃ puṇḍarĩkaṃ veśma. The student is paraphrasing. Not even paraphrasing; but, repeating the words of the teacher. Okay, there is brahmapuram; Okay, there is lotus heart I am willing to accept; and, daharah asminn antar- ākāśaḥ - I am also willing to accept that within that lotus heart there is the daharākāśā - there is the cidākāśā, which is called paramātmā; or, which is called ĩśvarā, I am willing to accept. What must be the size of that ĩśvarā? Certainly smaller than me. Because, I have such a big body and whichever ĩśvarā is there within the heart, must be (ĐĻuḥ [small] ĩśvarā, like some people having the pũjā room. Small pũjā room. There, they will keep (ĐĻuḥ [small] idols etc.

Now, the student asks, kiṃ tadatra vidyāte? - so within that small īśvarā, alpa īśvarā, what can be there? There is not enough accommodation to keep anything. So, atra kim vidyāte? yad anveṣṭavyaṃ - what is there, which I should enquire in to? What is the worth of such an enquiry? And, yadvāva vijijñāsitavyam - and what is worth knowing within that īśvarā? That īśvarā Himself is not worth knowing; and what is within that īśvarā is also not worth knowing; because, īśvarā is small and within that īśvarā whatever is there, must be still smaller. And therefore, why make such an enquiry? iti. iti means, in this manner, the student may raise a question. And for that, saḥ brữyāt - saḥ means, what? The guruh. That guru - who made that statement in the previous first mantrā - that guru, must give a reply. He will give a reply to the student. And what is that reply? "ïśvarā is within the heart, does not mean, ïśvarā is only within the heart." Like saying, space is within the hall, does not mean, space is within the hall only. That is your problem. Space is within means, it is within and without. Similarly, ïśvarā is within and without.

If you remember māņdukya, we said, viśva & virāt, taijasa & hiraņyagarbha; similarly, prājñā and iśvarā must be understood as one and the same. [I do not know whether you remember] The iśvarā obtaining within you is called prājñah. Similarly, here also, the teacher says iśvaraḥ is sarva vyāpī, 'antar-bahiśca tat-sarvam vyāpya nārāyaṇaḥ sthitaḥ'. And that all-pervading iśvarā is within your heart also. Initially, you learn to invoke the iśvarā outside. But, later, you should learn to invoke that iśvarā within. Thus, saguṇa upāsanā is prājña - iśvara aikyam. nirguṇa jñānam is turīya - brahma aikyam. The first 6 sections talk about prājña - iśvara aikyam. Later 6 sections talk about turīya - brahma aikyam. So, that is what is going to be said by the teacher. We will read.

यावान्वा अयमाकाशस्तावानेषोऽन्तर्हृदय अकाश उभे अस्मिन्द्यावापृथिवी अन्तरेव समाहिते उभावग्निश्च वायुश्च सूर्याचन्द्रमसावुभौ विद्युन्नक्षत्राणि यच्चास्येहास्ति यच्च नास्ति सर्वं तदस्मिन्समाहितमिति ॥

yāvānvā ayamākāśastāvāneṣo'ntarhṛdaya akāśa ubhe asmindyāvāpṛthivĩ antareva samāhite ubhāvagniśca vāyuśca sũryācandramasāvubhau vidyunnakṣatrāṇi yaccāsyehāsti yacca nāsti sarvaṃ tad asmin samāhitam iti || 8.1.3 ||

Now, the teacher answers. 'Even though the caitanyam is recognisable within the body only, the caitanyam is not confined only to the body. caitanyam goes beyond the periphery of the body. If you remember the five principles of CONSCIOUSNESS, in that, what is the third? CONSCIOUSNESS is not limited by the boundaries of the body; but, it goes beyond. But, since the scientists cannot recognise the CONSCIOUSNESS outside, what do they conclude? They think, CONSCIOUSNESS is a property confined to the body. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, the CAITANYAM IS ALL-PERVADING. That all-pervading caitanyam is called ĩśvarā.

Therefore, he says, yāvānvā ayamākāśaḥ - whatever be the extent of the space outside, yāvān means, what? As much is the extent of the space. The expansiveness of the space as much it is. tāvān eṣaḥ antar hṛdaya akāśa. Here, the word ākāśā means, what? The cidākāśaḥ. The caitanyam, which is obtaining within the heart as the sākṣi caitanyam; that caitanyam spreads all over. So, yāvānvā ayam ākāśaḥ tāvān eṣaḥ antar hṛdaya cidākāśa. So, here, yāvānvā ayam ākāśaḥ - first ākāśā refers to bhutākāśa, which is the example. The second antar hṛdaya akāśa refers to cidākāśā - thus, the word ākāśā, is used for the inert space also; it is used for the caitanyam also. We should not get confused. And therefore, where is the caitanya rũpā ĩśvarā? That ĩśvarā is all-pervading. So, antar hṛdaya akāśa - in that all-pervading caitanya ĩśvarā, dyāvāpṛthivĩ antareva ubhe asmin samāhite. samāhite means, located, based. asmin means, what? In that all-pervading consciousness, called ĩśvarā. dyāvāpṛthivĩ. pṛthivĩ means, the bhũlokā, dyāvā means, the svarga lokā. The lower lokā, the upper lokā - all of them, are located in viśvādhāra ĩśvarā.

And remember. We are not revealing that caitanyam as nirguṇa caitanyam. Then, it will become what? nirguṇa brahma jñānam! Here, we are not talking about nirguṇa. We are taking it as what? saguṇa ĩśvarā, endowed with the creative power, sustaining power, etc. The caitanyam is sarvajña caitanyam. Once you negate the omniscient, it will become what? nirguṇa caitanyam. Here, we are not going to nirguṇam. That is the subtle difference.

Therefore, in that ALL PERVADING CONSCIOUSNESS, which is omniscient, which is omnipotent, which has got creative power, which has sustaining power, upon that isvarā caitanyam, both the higher & lower lokās are located. dyāvāpṛthivī samāhite. Not only dyāvāpṛthivi, ubhāu agniśca vāyuśca - upon that omniscient, omnipotent, all-pervading, saguņa caitanyam, called parameśvarā, agniśca vāyuśca - agni tattvam and vāyu tattvam - in short - all the pañca bhūtās are located in that isvarā. That is, isvarā is sarva ādhārah. So, agniśca vāyuśca. Then, sũryācandramasāvubhau - you can understand sũryā means the sũryā. [sũryā - do not think anybody else!] sũryā means the sun. Then, candramasāu. candramasāu is - the moon. All of them are located.

This teaching of ĩśvarā is to get out of our previous concept of bhagavān. Before coming to this ĩśvara upāsanā, what is our concept of bhagavān? There is one place called vaikuņtha; and in vaikuņtha, there is milky ocean; and on the milky ocean is floating the ādiśeṣā. Upon that is lying mahāviṣņu! Or, there is kailāsā, [do not say viṣņu alone; say, kailāsā also!] Thus, we are so much used to bhagavān as a person. We have transcend that concept, and bhagavān should be seen as the kāraņa ĩśvarā - the inherent one, who supports the whole CREATION! And later, we will say, 'bhagavān is not kāraņam also!' And when he negates the CREATION, then it will become what? nirguņa brahma vidyā! So, kāraņa ĩśvarā is saguņa brahma. In these 6 sections, we are seeing kāraņa ĩśvarā. In later 6 sections, we will see akāraņa ĩśvarā.

Here, sũryācandramasāvubhau upon that kāraņa ĩśvarā, vidyunnakṣatrāņi - all the nakṣatrams. In fact, in Sunday class - viśvarũpa darśanam - we are seeing that only. viśvarũpa ĩśvarā. So, vidyut means, what? The lightning. nakṣatrāņi means, the nakṣatrams, the stars, the galaxies - all of them. And for all of them, you have to supply the word samāhitam. samāhitam means, what? Based, located, supported. And not only that, yacca asya iha asti - whatever is obtaining now in the present they are all located in that ĩśvarā. And, yacca nāsti - whatever is not available now; but, which was in the past; or, will be in the future, they are also located in that ĩśvarā. yaccāsyehāsti refers to the present things. yacca nāsti refers to past and future things. Because, past & future are nāsti - are not here, now. Past is gone; future has not yet come. They also are located in that ĩśvarā! And therefore, that ĩśvarā is worth enquiring into. Worth understanding. Worth meditating upon. It is not a small thing, a small being, within the heart.

Then why do you say ĩśvarā is in the heart? For two reasons. One is, ĩśvarā is in the heart also; and the second reason is, ĩśvarā is available as caitanyam only within the individual. Outside, ĩśvarā is present; but, not manifest as caitanyam. Therefore, in manifest form, ĩśvarā is in you. Or, in the temple also. Why do you go to a temple for worshiping ĩśvarā? Even though we know bhagavān is all-pervading, we believe that in the temple we have invoked the Lord and chanted several mantrās called prāṇa pratiṣṭhā. āvāhito bhava sthāpito bhava etc. And because of that special worship, the presence of ĩśvarā is more manifest in temples.

Similarly, here also, ĩśvarā is available in the heart. And śańkarācāryā adds a note -"especially in the upāsakā's heart ĩśvarā is manifest more; because of his chanting; because of his purity; because of his meditation etc". In the upāsakā's heart ĩśvarā is more evident. That is why he has got various siddhis; he has got the capacity to read your mind. He has got the capacity for A(ர.ன் வாக்கு. All because of what? ĩśvara's siddhis are manifest in the upāsakā more. Why? Because he has invoked. What about ordinary people? There are also ĩśvarā is there. But, lot of A(ர.ன், lot of impurities cover Him. And so the teacher says, yaccāsyehāsti yacca nāsti sarvaṃ tad - all of them. In short, the entire universe is present in that saguṇa ĩśvarā. asmin samāhitam - is located. And that all pervading ĩśvarā is in your heart. In the gĩtā, kṛṣṇā says, aham ātmā guḍākeśa sarva bhũta āśayasthitaḥ - hey arjunā, I am the very caitanyam who is present in the heart of everyone! All those gĩtā verses are based on what? The dahara vidyā of chāndogya.

Continuing.

तं चेद्ब्रूयुरस्मि ्ंश्चेदिदं ब्रह्मपुरे सर्व ्ंसमाहित ्ंसर्वाणि च भूतानि सर्वे च कामा यदैतज्जरा वाप्नोति प्रध्व ्ंसते वा किं ततोऽतिशिष्यत इति ॥

taṃ ced brũyur asmi ̈́ śced idaṃ brahmapure sarva ̈́ samāhita ̈́ sarvāṇi ca bhũtāni sarve ca kāmā yadaitajjarāvāpnoti pradhva ̈̃ sate vā kiṃ tato'tiśiṣyata iti ‖ 8.1.4 ‖

śişyāḥ [understood]. So, taṃ gurum cedbrũyuḥ. The śiṣyā may raise another question to or in front of that teacher, the guru. Who says it? The upaniṣad is reporting. This is a reported dialogue. And what do the student say? 'If ĩśvarā is located in the individual body, the body & heart become the containers. And the ĩśvarā is the content within. What may happen if container is destroyed?' Whenever a container is destroyed, what happens to the content? That also will go! Suppose you have a pot full of milk or water. When it is destroyed, the content will also be destroyed. If there is a pregnant women and the women is destroyed, [let us hope it does not happen. Just for example]. Then, the baby within also is destroyed. Thus, the student may extend the same logic to ĩśvarā.

What is that? We are all pregnant. And within us, who is there? Poor ĩśvarā is located. And we are growing old; and one day when we die, [remember this is also the view of scientists. When the brain is destroyed, what do they say? caitanyam also is gone. Because CONSCIOUSNESS is an epiphenomenon in the brain, it will also go is their view. And they will argue, we do not see an ĩśvarā surviving. A sũkṣma śarĩram surviving. A mind surviving. Thought surviving. The witness of thought surviving. All these things we do not see. Therefore, "they are destroyed", they may think.

And so, the student argues here. asmi šćed - suppose within this body-heart container, brahmapure - called brahmapuram, sarva šamāhita š - everything is contained, enclosed, supported or based. sarvam - meaning what? sarvāņi ca bhūtāni - all the beings. sarve ca kāmā - all the pleasurable things. Everything is contained in this brahmapuram. [And, in this context, the brahmapuram should be taken as the daharākāša īšvarā. Very careful]. So, asmin brahmapure daharākāša rūpa īšvare - if everything is located and if that īšvarā is enclosed within the body pack; sarve ca kāmā - and also all the sense objects, then what will happen? A big tragedy will happen! yadaitajjarāvāpnoti - when the body becomes old, īšvarā inside also will be screaming, especially when there are heart problems! Heart shrinking or expanding, varieties of problems. īšvarā also must be screaming, "வலிக்கறதே, வலிக்கறதே", Oh, it is paining, it is paining! உள்ள உட்கார்ந்திருக்காறோல்லியோ! [He is inside you know!] So, this student takes it literally and he misunderstands. So jarāvāpnoti - poor iśvarā must be suffering! And, pradhva sate vā - when the body dies - naśyati, then, what will happen? kiṃ tato'tiśiṣyate? - what will be left behind? Nothing will be left. iśvarā is also gone! Somebody wrote a book it seems 'Death of God' or, something like that. You will have write in the obituary column! God gone! So, kiṃ tataḥ atiśiṣyate? If this the question of the student, then what does the teacher say? [You know the answer]. Teacher says, whatever happens to the body, when taijasa itself is not destroyed. Maximum, viśva only goes away. [I hope viśva, taijasa all make sense to you]. When taijasa himself is not destroyed, what to talk of prājñaḥ. prājñaḥ is none other than iśvarā enclosed in the body. When that goes, prājñaḥ is one with iśvarā. Therefore, the teacher says, NOTHING WILL HAPPEN TO iśvarā. Just as, when an enclosure is destroyed, the space will not go away. Only there is a change in the name. Hall space will be called total space. Similarly, prājñā will be called iśvarā. That is the only change. Details in next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

36. Chapter 8.1.4 to 8.1.6

तं चेद्ब्रूयुरस्मि ्श्वेदिदं ब्रह्मपुरे सर्व ्समाहित ्सर्वाणि च भूतानि सर्वे च कामा यदैतज्जरा वाप्नोति प्रध्व ्सते वा किं ततोऽतिशिष्यत इति ॥

tam ced brũyur asmi čáced idam brahmapure sarva šamāhita šarvāni ca bhũtāni sarve ca kāmā yadaitajjarāvāpnoti pradhva šate vā kim tato tišisyata iti || 8.1.4 ||

In this 8th chapter of chāndogya upaniṣad, the first six sections or khaṇḍās, are dealing with saguṇa brahma upāsanā, otherwise known as, ĩśvara upāsanā. And, in this portion, the upaniṣad uses the word ātmā and brahma. And we should understand that the words ātmā, as well as brahman, both refer to māyā sahita paramātmā. And māyā sahitam brahma = saguṇam brahman. In simple language, ĩśvaraḥ. [And ĩśvarā, according to our definition is brahman + māyā]. And this ĩśvarā alone is the jagat kāraṇam - the cause of the universe; and therefore, endowed with omniscience, omnipotence etc.

And this ĩśvarā, being the jagat kāraṇam, ĩśvarā will be subtler than everything in the CREATION; because, we know that, ALWAYS KĀRAŅAM IS SUBTLER THAN KĀRYAM. If you take the pañca bhũtās themselves, the pṛthivĩ - the earth, is the final product; and it is the grossest element available for all the five sense organs. And its cause is jalam. It is available only for four sense organs. agni is available only for three sense organs. These are all tattvabodha lessons. [You should not stare at me!] agni is available for three sense organs. vāyu which is its cause, is available only for two. ākāšā which is the cause of all the later elements, is the subtlest one, with only one guṇā. ākāša guṇa, available for kevala śrotrendriyam. We know that the space is the subtlest element. How we recognise space is a mystery! We somehow understand. If you analyse "how", there will be lot of gaps, lot of space! If ākāšā itself is subtle, ĩśvarā is the cause of even ākāša. "tasmādvā etasmād ātmanaḥ ākāša sambhũtaḥ" [taittirĩya 2.1.1]. Therefore, ĩśvarā is subtler than even ākāšā.

Whether you take the brahman part of īśvarā or whether you take the māyā part of īśvarā both components of īśvarā are atīva sūkṣmam. Because of this reason alone, the subtle īśvarā is invoked upon some ālambanam. Some symbol or the other. Like śālagrāmā, śivalińgā etc. We use a grosser symbol. But, later, to improve our intellectual faculty, we make the symbol also subtler, so that, the mind will get well sharpened. And among the pañca bhūtās, the subtlest being ākāśā, ākāśā is also treated as a symbol for meditating upon īśvarā, who is subtler than ākāśā. And that is why in cidambaram, the symbol for natarājā is who? ākāśa lińgam. Space is the symbol. And thereafter, what they do when you take space as the symbol? [It is very good; because, the mind becomes more and more subtle]. It is visualising ĩśvarā upon ākāśā. But, in this visualisation, ĩśvarā is taken as different from me; because, ākāśā is outside space. And therefore, what śāstrā wants to do is, even that division must be removed. Therefore, instead of taking the external space as the symbol for ĩśvarā, the upaniṣad goes one step further.

And what is that? The internal space obtaining within your heart, [when you close your eyes, varieties of things are happening within you; and for that, there must be some space] - this internal space is called hrdaya ākāśah or dahara ākāśah. This dahara ākāśā is internal and subtle also. The upaniṣad says, may you invoke ĩśvarā [māyā sahitam jagat kāraṇam sarvajñam sarva śakti brahma], brahma means, saguṇam brahman or ĩśvarā, upon that internal space.

And naturally, we will get a doubt. "If īśvarā is invoked within the heart, that īśvarā - who is residing in the heart will certainly be smaller. Smaller than the heart?!" Because, the content must be smaller than the container. Is not it so? You cannot put the Cpjjġரib பழib [A kind of banānā fruit. I do not know what is its English name], the Keralā banānā into your mouth. Why? Because, it is bigger than the mouth, however big the mouth may be! The content should be smaller than the container. So the question will come. Then, the upanişad says, we are invoking the īśvarā within our heart; but, that īśvarā is not confined to or limited within the heart. The all-pervading īśvarā is available in the heart also; and that īśvarā is invoked.

Then the next question is, "how big is that ĩśvarā?" For which, the teacher said, the entire universe is resting within that ĩśvarā only. He is viśvādhārah. He is sarva ādhārah. He is even ākāśasya ādhārah. What is the reason? Because, even ākāśā is a kāryam, a product. ĩśvarā is kāraṇam. kāraṇam must be more pervading than the kāryam. Just as the ocean must be more pervading than the waves generated in the ocean. And therefore, sarva ādhāra ĩśvaram hṛdi dyāyet. This is the essence of the four mantrās we have completed. sarva ādhāra saguņa ĩśvarā antar hṛdaye dhyāyet. May you meditate within.

This alone Lord kṛṣṇā presents in a simple verse in the bhagavad gĩtā. ĩśvaraḥ sarvabhũtānām hṛd deśe arjuna tiṣṭhati. And this alone is presented in the purāṇās also, symbolically. When yaśodā asked kṛṣṇā to open the mouth, it is said, within the mouth of the Lord, all the 14 lokās she saw! You should not ask the question, "how is it possible?" It symbolises the teaching that kṛṣṇā is paramātmā, the jagat kāraṇam brahma. And when this much is said, a doubt is raised by the student. It is only an əɨசɨ Lileɨ.

only. [But, all doubts are not silly, until you know the answer. Or silly, if you know the answer! It is profound, until you know the answer. It becomes silly, after you know the answer!] What is the doubt of the student? If īśvarā is within the heart and the whole world is within ĩśvarā, then what will happen? When the individual body perishes, then, ĩśvarā - the content - also will go away! I gave you the example of when a pregnant women dies, the baby also will die. And so, if ĩśvarā will die with the body, what will happen? Within ĩśvarā, all the lokās are there. The lokās also will perish. That is why the bhaktā sings ஆடாது அசையாது வா கண்ணா! All these songs are based on this idea only. Therefore, the student asks, "if ĩśvarā is within, will He not die when the body dies? And when ĩśvarā dies, will not the entire universe also perish?"

Therefore, he asked the question - kiṃ tataḥ atiśiṣyate? tataḥ means śarĩra nāśaḥ anantaram kim atiśiṣyate? - what will remain? Because, his logic is what? śarĩra nāśe ĩśvara nāśaḥ. ĩśvara nāśe sarva nāśaḥ. This is his extrapolation. Up to this we saw. [I do not know when! Some time before!] Now, what is the answer. It is going to come in mantrā five. We will read.

स ब्रूयात्नास्य जरयैतज्जीर्यति न वधेनास्य हन्यत एतत्सत्यं ब्रह्मपुरमस्मिकामाः समाहिताः एष आत्मापहतपाप्मा विजरो विमृत्युर्विशोको विजिघत्सोऽपिपासः सत्यकामः सत्यसङ्कल्पो यथा ह्येवेह प्रजा अन्वाविशन्ति यथानुशासनम् यं यमन्तमभिकामा भवन्ति यं जनपदं यं क्षेत्रभागं तं तमेवोपजीवन्ति ॥

sa brūyāt nāsya jarayaitajjīryati na vadhenāsya hanyata etatsatyam brahmapuramasmikāmāḥ samāhitāḥ eṣa ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimṛtyurviśoko vijighatso'pipāsaḥ satyakāmaḥ satyasańkalpo yathā hyeveha prajā anvāviśanti yathānuśāsanam yaṃ yamantamabhikāmā bhavanti yaṃ janapadaṃ yaṃ kṣetrabhāgaṃ taṃ tamevopajĩvanti || 8.1.5 ||

The teacher answers the question, pointing out that, ĩśvarā obtains within the body; but, ĩśvarā is not dependent on the body for His survival. ĩśvarā is available in the body. Do not take availability as dependence. When in a mud pot you have kept some liquid, then the liquid depends upon the pot. Therefore, when the pot is destroyed, the liquid will spill and disintegrate and disappear. Whereas, space is also obtaining within the same pot. SPACE IS AVAILABLE IN THE POT. BUT, IT IS NOT DEPENDENT ON THE POT. EVEN AFTER THE DESTRUCTION OF THE POT, SPACE WILL HAPPILY SURVIVE.

Similarly, ĨŚVARĀ OBTAINS IN THE BODY; BUT, NOT DEPENDENT ON IT. Therefore, even if all the bodies are destroyed, even if all the lokās are destroyed, ĩśvarā will happily survive. Not enough to say 'survive'. You have to say, 'happily survive'. Therefore, he says, sa brūyāt - if the student raises the question [as given in the fourth mantrā], the teacher must give such an answer. [It is a new method. The upaniṣad presents in this manner]. If the student raises such a question, the teacher should give such an answer. Who says? The upaniṣad gives that. sa [ācārya] brūyāt. What will the teacher say? nāsya jarayaitajjĩryati. etat means what? This ĩśvarā who is known by different names - brahman, ātmā etc. etat brahma tattvam or brahma, na jĩryati - does not disintegrate or decay when the body goes through wear and tear. na vadhenāsya hanyata. asya vadhena etat na hanyate - [you can understand]. Because of the destruction of this body, ĩśvarā is not destroyed. And etat satyaṃ brahmapuram - this ĩśvarā alone is called brahmapuram. etat satyaṃ - this ĩśvarā alone is the real brahmapuram.

So, here, the upanişad is doing a mischief. Previously, in the first mantrā, the upanişad said, body is brahmapuram. puram means what? Abode. So, there it said, body is brahmapuram. Body is the abode of brahman, īśvarā. But, here, the upanişad says, īśvarā is brahmapuram. How to understand? We should say that THIS ĭśvARĀ ALONE IS BRAHMAN, WHICH IS THE ABODE OF THE ENTIRE CREATION. Previously, brahmapuram means, brahman's abode, şaşţhītatpuruşa samāsa. [Here grammar will be useful]. Previously, when you said body is brahmapuram, how should you translate it? BODY IS BRAHMAN'S ABODE. BRAHMAN'S. Here, when you say īśvarā is brahmapuram, how should you translate? Not as brahman's abode. We should translate "THIS is BRAHMAN, which IS THE ABODE OF", what? "THE ENTIRE COSMOS". So, we can see it in both ways. We can say, īśvarā is residing in every living being. Or, we can also say, īśvarā is the resident of all the living beings. Both are equally correct only. Therefore, satyam brahmapuram - this is karmadhāraya samāsa. IN ŞAŞŢHĨTATPURUŞA, IT IS, BRAHMAN'S ABODE; HERE IN KARMADHĀRAYA, IT IS, BRAHMAN - THE ABODE!

And, asmin - in this brahman. Again, it will be clear if you remember the example also I have given. First I say, 'space is inside the hall'. [Do you remember the example I gave?] First I say, space is inside the hall. Then I say, 'space is both inside and outside the hall'. Then I say, "really speaking, space is not inside the hall; on the other hand, all the halls are inside the space!" Just as we revise the statement, here also brahman's abode and brahman the abode. I hope you understand.

asmin - in this ĩśvarā, kāmāḥ samāhitāḥ - all the pleasures, all the objects of experience in general, and all the objects of enjoyment in particular, all of them are based upon this ĩśvarā. kāmāḥ - here we should translate not as desires; but, it should be translated as desirable object. It is not bhāva vyutpatti [व्य्त्पत्ति], it is karma vyutpatti - objects of desire. And hereafter, the upaniṣad is giving the definition of this saguṇam brahma. Giving 8 descriptions or 8 virtues of ĩśvarā, otherwise called, saguṇa m brahma; otherwise called, saguṇa ātmā. And therefore, this portion is called, aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa ĩśvara lakṣaṇam. aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa ĩśvara varṇanam. aṣṭa means 8; guṇa means virtues. And the idea is this. I will give you a rough idea about the development of this portion.

The upaniṣad is going to talk about the upāsanā of this aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa ĩśvarā. And upaniṣad will say, 'as a result of this ĩśvara upāsanā, this person will become tanmayaḥ. tanmayaḥ means what? Soaked in that ĩśvarā. And ĩśvarā will be soaked in Him. And because of this reason - tasmāt sarveṣu kāleṣu mām anusmara yuddya ca - this upāsakā will remember the ĩśvarā all the time. And as a result of that, at the time of death also, He will have this ĩśvara cintanam. This was given in the 8th chapter of the bhagavad gītā [bg 8.7]. In fact, these six sections are summarised in the 8th chapter of the gītā.

And as a result of this saguņa upāsanā, the upāsakā will, after death, that is the important condition, after death - go through what gati? Do you remember śukla gati? He will go to brahma lokā; and later, He will get krama mukti. But, before getting krama mukti, in brahma lokā, He will get several powers which are closer to ĭśvarā! All the 8 virtues which we are describing here, all those virtues also, He will get. Thus, He will be a mini ĭśvarā in brahma lokā, with various siddhis or powers. And siddhis means what? Materialising things. Later, the upaniṣad will say, if He wants an object, He does the sańkalpa of that. sańkalpa mātreṇa, people will come; things will come; lokās will come. Just as viśvāmitrā created an intermediary triśańku svargah, similarly, He can create at will. He gets svātantryam and power to get anything. Therefore, this īśvara upāsanā will give both iha lokā sukham, para lokā sukham and krama mukti also. Therefore, may you practise daharākāśa upāsanā. This is going to be the development. For that, īśvarā is glorified here.

Who is He? eşa ātmā [in this book there is a printing mistake, in some editions. eşa ātmā, it should be. Not, eva]. And here the word ātmā refers to what? paramātmā. paramātmā refers to what? saguņa paramātmā. māyā sahita paramātmā, îśvarā. [The nirguņa paramātmā will come from 7th section; and the nirguņa paramātma jñānam will give mukti. When? In bāla vidyā mandir itself! Therefore, krama mukti is up to 7th section; and thereafter, we will get nirguņa paramātma jñānam. We have to use the appropriate language. saguņa paramātma upāsanam. nirguņa paramātma jñānam! And that saguņa paramātmā is described.

The first glory is, apahatapāpmā - that īśvarā is free from influence of all the karma phalam. Here the word pāpmā refers to all types of karma phalam. Both puņyam & pāpam. pāpmā means pāpam. pāpam includes puņyam also! īśvarā is beyond puņya - pāpam. And why is He is beyond puņya pāpam? Because, He is not saṃsāri. If He also has got puņya pāpam, He will become a saṃsāri. And He does not have puņya pāpam; because, He does not have kartṛtvam. Only when ahańkārā is there, the actions will produce puņyam and pāpam. ahańkāra vimũḍhātmā 'kartā aham' iti manyate. īśvarā does not have ahańkārā. Therefore, He does not generate any puņyam or pāpam. Just as we say, a jñāni does not generate puņyam or pāpam; but, he generated puņya pāpam before jñānam. Whereas, in the case of īśvarā, there is no question of before jñānam!

Why? Are you listening? In the case of ĩśvarā there is no before jñānam; because, He is nitya jñāni. Therefore, He does not have sañcita. Therefore, He does not have prārabdha. And akartṛtvāt, no āgāmi. Therefore, puṇya pāpa rahitaḥ, though busily active. sṛṣṭi He does; sthiti He does; laya He does. avatāram He keeps on taking. Still, He is eṣa pahatapāpmā.

Then the second virtue is vijaraḥ. vijaraḥ means, free from jarā. Decay. Again caused by karmā. karma janya jarādi doṣa rahitaḥ. So, vijaraḥ. Then, the third one is, vimṛtyuḥ. Very evident. īśvarā being kāraṇam, He is free from death. If īśvarā also dies, next sṛṣṭi will not come! And therefore, vimṛtyuḥ and viśokaḥ - he is free from all forms of sorrow. Again, because of what? jñānam. As a result of jñānam, He is free from sorrow. If bhagavān does not have jñānam, He will have greatest sorrow in the world; because, how many millions of people are suffering all over! In narakā in the cauldron of oil. People are fried. They are roasted. We do not see all that. But, remember, īśvarā must be seeing all the sufferings of these people. Seeing that, if He does not have sorrow, the only saving grace must be what? jñānam! That alone can keep him sane. Otherwise, īśvarā will go crazy; because, even with limited knowledge, we are disturbed, reading the newspaper. Therefore, He is viśokaḥ. Being a jñāni. This is the fourth virtue.

Then the next one is vijighatsaÅ. All physical needs. jighatsā means hunger. [astum icchā, jighatsā. derived from the root 'ad'. atti - to eat. Its desiderative form is jighatsā]. vijighatsā means, free from hunger. Free from hunger - which is also considered to be karma janyam. So, free from hunger. Then apipāsaÅ. pipāsa means what? Thirst. So, apipāsaÅ means, free from thirst. Each one is connected with one, one kośa. sthũla śarĩram - there is jarā etc. That is annamaya kośa. prāṇamaya kośa - hunger, thirst etc. manomaya kośa causes śoka, sorrow etc. ĩśvarā does not have all these problems.

Then, satyakāmaḥ. satyakāmaḥ means, what? The one whose desires are always fulfilled. Whose desires will never go in vain. Unobstructed desires. One whose desires are unobstructed is called satyakāmaḥ. And satyasańkalpaḥ, the one whose will is immediately materialised. sańkalpa need not be followed by effort. In the case of human beings also, sańkalpa has to take place first. A person decides to buy a house or build a house. Because, from the rented place they drove him a few times; then he thought, 'how long I should be a parivrājaka?' Therefore, 'a house of my own', he decides. That is sańkalpaḥ. After sańkalpa, so many things are required. Therefore, sańkalpa with prayatna produces the result for humans. Whereas, for ĭśvarā, sańkalpa itself produces results. Therefore, He is called satyasańkalpaḥ. In brahma sũtra, there is an exclusive adhikaraṇam, 'sańkalpa adhikaraṇam' - with several sũtrās, discussing the mystic powers of upāsakā in brahma lokā. In fact, this alone, in viśiṣṭa advaitam they consider as mokṣā. viśiṣṭa advaita mokṣā is nothing but these extraordinary glories enjoyed in the brahma lokā by the upāsakā. Only thing is, vaiṣṇavās call that viṣṇu lokā, instead of brahma lokā. This is the only difference. In brahma sũtra, there is an elaborate discussion.

sańkalpā. So, this is the 8th virtue. All these 8 virtues belong to ĩśvarā, in infinite measure. And why are these virtues mentioned? This is to show a particular principle used in the śāstrā. What is that principle? Whichever particular virtue of ĩśvarā we meditate upon, that particular virtue we will get, as a result. As we have an English proverb, 'as a person thinks, so he or she becomes'.

In śāstrā, it is said, yathā yathā upāste tadeva bhavati. Therefore, if ĩśvara upāsakā meditates upon satyakāma and satyasańkalpa virtues of ĩśvarā, in brahma lokā, he will also be satyakāmaḥ and satyasańkalpaḥ. In brahma lokā; not, here. Otherwise, you will start thinking of petrol! Petrol price is going higher and higher. You may think of petrol and it will come! How nice it will be! It is not here; but, in brahma lokā. But, the only difference is what? ĩśvarā will have all these in infinite measure. The upāsakā will not have in infinite measure. Then, he will begin to challenge ĩśvarā Himself. ĩśvarā does not want a challenger to His post. And therefore, the upāsakā will be closer to ĩśvarā; but, not equal to ĩśvarā. All these are beautifully discussed in brahma sũtrā, we saw for several days. brahma sũtrā students should recollect. So, satyasańkalpaḥ.

Here after, the upaniṣad wants to talk about the upāsanā and the upāsanā phalam. The upāsanā phalam is what? The upāsakā will be free from all types of restrictions or limitations and to talk about the glory of the unrestricted, unrestrained life, the upaniṣad wants to contrast the upāsakā's position with the position of the local human being here; so that, when the contrast is made, you will be interested in the upāsanā! Now look at your miserable condition here; and now you imagine the upāsakā's glory there! And once you have an appreciation of the superior glory, then, naturally, you will be interested in this upāsanā, and therefore in the following three lines, the upaniṣad is talking about what? The limitation of a local jĩvaḥ. bhũloka jĩvā. For what purpose? For contrasting his position with the upāsakā's limitless power and pleasures.

What is the condition of the local person? yathā hyeveha prajā anvāvišanti. After satyasańkalpaḥ the topic is suddenly and totally changed. From īśvarā to miserable jīvā we are coming. yathā hyeva iha. iha means, in this bhũlokā; [and there also, in India!] Okay. iha prajāḥ anvāvišanti. prajāḥ means, the people. anvāvišanti - attain various things or karma phalam. anvāvišanti means what? Acquire or accomplish or prāpnuvanti. What? Varieties of karma phalam [we have to supply]. Varieties of worldly benefits. According to what? yathānušāsanam - according to the rules & regulations fixed by the local master. The local human being, even if he works 14 hours a day and 24X7, 7 days a week, he will get some local, earthly benefit. And the benefits are fixed by whom? Not the worker, the master fixes according to his rules & regulations. The worker will get some petty, paltry benefit. He may be dismissed from service any time also! yathā anušāsanam. anušāsanam means what? According to the rules of the local Swāmī. [That is understood]. The local master. The local boss. So, local people have got only limited power. This is one type of limitation.

And what is the second type of limitation? Whatever he accomplishes in this world, he will get the enjoyment that can be given by only that particular object; because, any accomplishment has got its own limitation. And therefore, if he buys a house in a particular area, only that particular limited result he can get. Therefore, it has got a second limitation also. What is that? It is said yam yam antam abhikāmā bhavanti. antam means, what? A pradeśaḥ. pradeśaḥ means, a particular land or kṣetram, an area. abhikāmā bhavanti - suppose the people are interested in a particular land for purchase, [this is always what city people will say -"village life is wonderful. No pollution, this is not there, that is not there". But, Once they go there, first complaint is, "no good hospital. We are growing old and hence, city is better!"" City better or village better? If you have a debate, you will have advantages & disadvantages in both].

Therefore he says, yaṃ yam antam. antam means, area or pradeśa. abhikāmā bhavanti - people seek. yaṃ janapadaṃ yaṃ kṣetrabhāgaṃ taṃ tam eva upajīvanti. taṃ tam eva upajīvanti - the limited advantages of only that particular place, upajīvanti - they can resort to. They can enjoy. So, you have to connect in this manner. yam yam antam abhikāmā bhavanti, tam tam eva upajīvanti. [That way it must be connected]. And that land or prades that a person chooses, may be, yam janapadam - it may be a vast country or land; it may be a state itself. People buy even islands. So, yam janapadam means, it may be a huge state or land. Or, ksetra bhāgam - it may be small area. [So, here again, 'big bungalow is good or a small flat is good?' If you have a debate, people who vote for big bungalow will say that 'the flat is like matchbox, a small area'. So, they buy a big bungalow. And after some time, "Swāmĩjĩ, maintenance problem. No workers available. One day they come; another day they do not come. Therefore, we have decided a 400 sq.ft. flat is better!" So, you can debate eternally. From here, that appears better. From there, this appears better]. What the upanisad says is, the limited result alone a local human being can get. This is said, for what purpose? To contrast and show that the upāsakā does not have any such limitation. Whatever he wants [in fact the next section is going to talk about that only] whatever he wishes, that is in his front! Today, he wants a bungalow, given! And tomorrow he feels a small flat is okay, he wakes up with a flat only. Just by kevala wish mātrena bhavati. This is the idea. So, yam janapadam or yam ksetrabhāgam tam tam eva upajīvanti. Who? iha prajāh. The ordinary, non-upāsakā living being.

तद्यथेह कर्मजितो लोकः क्षीयत एवमेवामुत्र पुण्यजितो लोकः क्षीयते तद्य इहात्मानमनुविद्य व्रजन्त्येता ँश्च सत्यान्कामा ँस्तेषा ँसर्वेषु लोकेष्वकामचारो भवत्यथ य इहात्मानमनिवुद्य व्रजन्त्येत ँश्च सत्यान्कामा ँस्तेषा ँसर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति ॥ 8.1.6 ॥

tadyatheha karmajito lokah kṣĩyata evamevāmutra puṇyajito lokah kṣĩyate tadya ihātmānam- anuvidya vrajantyetā šca satyānkāmā steṣā sarveṣu lokeṣvakāmacāro bhavaty atha ya ihātmānamanivudya vrajantyeta šca satyānkāmā steṣā sarveṣu lokeṣu kāmacāro bhavati II

The first part of this mantrā, continues with this same topic of the limitation, which is suffered by an ordinary non-upāsakā human being. Previously it was said that, within the rules prescribed by the master, he can acquire something. That itself is a restriction. And whatever he acquires, there also, he can enjoy only the limited benefit that object gives. This is the second problem. And the third problem is what? Even that benefit that he enjoys is not going to be eternal. Being karma phalam, it will be lost in time. Even if he is going to get svarga lokā as a result of karmā, even that svarga phalam also will be limited; because, karmā will give what gati? kṛṣṇa gati or śukla gati? karmā can give only kṛṣṇa gati. [I hope you remember]. As a result of that, they may go to svarga lokā. But, what is the problem? "te taṃ bhuktvā svargalokaṃ viśālaṃ kṣĩṇe puṇye martya lokaṃ viśanti" [gĩtā 9.21].

In contrast, the upāsakā will go through śukla gati. There, He will enjoy so much powers also and not only that. No return; but, He will attain krama mukti also. Therefore, time-wise limitation of the karma phala is talked about. If you remember the 8th chapter of the gĩtā, "śuklakṛṣṇe gatĩ hyete jagataḥ śāśvate mate ekayā yātyanāvṛttimanyayāvartate punaḥ" [gĩtā 8.26].

karmā will take a person through kṛṣṇa gati. There he will go to svarga and return. Whereas, upāsanā will take a person through śukla gati. There, He will enjoy not only brahma lokā pleasures; but, later, will attain krama mukti also!

So, between karmā & upāsanā, which is superior? Do not say, jñānam. Here I am asking between karmā and upāsanā. That is why at the end of 8th chapter, kṛṣṇa says, 'arjunā, upāsanā is superior to karmā!' Thereafter, in the 9th chapter kṛṣṇa says, 'jñānam is superior to upāsanā'. Similarly, here also, in the first six sections, the topic is UPĀSANĀ IS SUPERIOR TO KARMĀ. Then, in the later sections, JÑĀNAM IS SUPERIOR TO EVEN UPĀSANĀ. This is going to be the layout of this teaching.

Look here. iha - in this world, karmajito lokaḥ kṣĩyate. kṣĩyata is printed here. It is not a printing mistake; because of sandhi rule, it is kṣĩyata. if you split it, it is kṣĩyate. Here the word lokaḥ means, karma phalam. lokaḥ means, karma phalam. And when you say karma phalam, it can be in the form things. It can be in the form of particular atmosphere. It can be in the form of type of a body. It can be in the type of family that you have. It can be in the form of a relationship. karma phalam can be things, beings, situations, anything. lokaḥ karmajitaḥ. jitaḥ means, what? 'Accomplished through karmā'. kṣĩyate. kṣĩyate means, it is exhausted right in front of our eyes. If you plant a tree and you get a fruit, that fruit you have got as a result of your effort. But, whenever you pack the fruit what do you write outside? 'Perishable'! And always the 'date of manufacture' is followed by 'date of expiry'. And the upaniṣad says, this is proved by what? pratyakṣa pramāṇam!

You can extend this to the enjoyment of svarga lokā also. You can extend the perishable nature to things of svarga lokā also. And how do you prove that? You cannot give pratyakṣa pramāṇam. Why you cannot give pratyakṣa pramāṇam? Because, svarga is not pratyakṣa. Therefore, the upaniṣad gives anumāna pramāṇam. What is the inference? Whatever is karma phalam, is perishable. yat yat karma phalam, tat tat anityam. svarga sukham anityam, karmaphalatvāt. Like what? āmraphalavat! Like, the mango fruit.

And therefore the upaniṣad says, evam eva. anumānam. First one is pratyakṣa pramāṇam - for iha lokā karma phalam. Now, anumāna pramāṇam for paraloka karma phalam. amutra. amutra means, paraloka. puṇyajito lokaḥ. Here also, lokaḥ means what? karma phalam, accomplished through puṇya karmās, like varieties of rituals. They also kṣĩyate. Therefore, you have to go to upāsanā, rather than karmā. And what upāsanā? Our ĩśvara upāsanā. Who is our ĩśvarā? aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa ĩśvarā. Very careful; not kaṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa. aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa ĩśvarā!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

37. Chapter 8.1. to 8.2.1 ,68.2.8.3.1and 10

तद्यथेह कर्मजितो लोकः क्षीयत एवमेवामुत्र पुण्यजितो लोकः क्षीयते तद्य इहात्मानमनुविद्य व्रजन्त्येता ्ँश्च सत्यान्कामा ्ँ स्तेषा ्ँ सर्वेषु लोकेष्वकामचारो भवत्यथ य इहात्मानमनिवुद्य व्रजन्त्येत ्ँ श्च सत्यान्कामा ्ँ स्तेषा ्ँ सर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति ॥ 8.1.6 ॥

tadyatheha karmajito lokah kṣĩyata evamevāmutra puṇyajito lokah kṣĩyate tadya ihātmānam- anuvidya vrajantyetā šca satyānkāmā s teṣā sarveṣu lokeṣvakāmacāro bhavaty atha ya ihātmānamanivudya vrajantyeta šca satyānkāmā š teṣā sarveṣu lokeṣu kāmacāro bhavati II

In this 8th chapter of chāndogya we get ĩśvara upāsanā in the first part of the chapter. And here ĩśvarā - saguņam brahma - māyā sahitam brahma is invoked not outside the body; but, within oneself. Within the body there is the physical heart; and there is an inner space within the heart, which is known as dahara ākāśa. dahara ākāśa meaning, alpa ākāśa. Limited space. That dahara ākāšā itself is visualised as ĩśvarā. And what type of ĩśvarā? viśvādhāra ĩśvara, the lord which is the support of the entire cosmos. And not only ĩśvarā is viśvādhārah, ĩśvarā is aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭah, endowed with 8 great virtues, which were enumerated in the 5th mantrā. eṣa ātmā- pahatapāpmā vijaro vimṛtyurviśoko vijighatso'pipāsaḥ satyakāmaḥ satyasańkalpaḥ.

[So, in the last class, while reading this mantrā, I read as avijighatsaḥ, it should be read as vijighatsaḥ only. Not avijighatsaḥ; but, vijighatsaḥ]. And here, the upaniṣad uses the word ātmā. And we should understand that the word ātmā in this context means, paramātmā. And that too, not nirguņa paramātmā; but, saguņa paramātmā. That is, ātmā means, īśvaraḥ. So, what is the upāsanā? aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa viśva ādhāra īśvara upāsanā has to be practised within the inner space of one's own heart. And this upāsanā will lead a person to brahma lokā, after death; and in brahma lokā, the upāsakā will enjoy extra-ordinary powers and siddhis.

In the 8th chapter of the gĩtā, bhagavān talks only about krama muktiḥ; but, here, we get an additional information which is not in the 8th chapter. And what is that additional information? The upāsakā in brahma lokā will enjoy extra-ordinary powers. Which means, all the aṣṭa guṇās of ĩśvarā he will enjoy, to a great measure. Thus, he will be closer to ĩśvarā; and therefore, he will enjoy satyakāmaḥ, satyasańkalpaḥ etc. So, in brahma lokā he can enjoy any type of sense pleasure he wants. These are the material benefits of ĩśvara upāsanā. These siddhis were not mentioned in the gītā. That is added here. And not only this upāsakā will enjoy these great powers; later, he will get nirguņa brahma ātma jñānam also, and attain videha muktiḥ. Of these two, now the upaniṣad talks about the various extra-ordinary powers the upāsakā can enjoy in brahma lokā.

And to glorify the upāsanā phalam, the upaniṣād is talking about the limitations of karma phalam, so that, a person can contrast karma phalam and upāsana phalam, and he can know that upāsanā is far superior to karmā. Here, the comparison is between karmā and upāsanā. We are not bringing nirguņa jñānam. Only karmā and upāsanā. And in the sixth mantrā which we were seeing in the last class, first the upaniṣad talks about the limitations of karma phalam. And karmā means what? vedic rituals. And what is the limitation? The upaniṣad says, tadyatheha karmajito lokaḥ kṣĩyate. This is a very often quoted, famous sentence. śańkarācāryā quotes it, very often. In the brahma sũtra introduction itself, this quotation comes. karmajito lokaḥ. The word lokaḥ means phalam. karmajito lokaḥ means, the result accomplished through vedic rituals. And what is the result accomplished? One can go to svarga lokā, and no doubt he can enjoy the material pleasures.

But, those pleasures are both qualitatively & quantitatively finite only. And once the karma phalam is exhausted in the heavens, one has to come back. Therefore, the upanişad says, yatheha - yatha iha - in this world, any result born of action is kşïyate is exhausted. evam eva - in the same manner, amutra. amutra means, in the svarga lokā also, in the heaven also, puņyajito lokaḥ. lokaḥ means, karma phalam, svarga etc. Which is accomplished through puņya karmās performed. Where? Not there. puņya karmās performed in the bhülokā. That also, kṣĩyate - is subject depletion. Like the credit card! You keep on purchasing, then suddenly, it goes to minus, without your knowledge! Suddenly, one day, Indra's assistants come and say, 'time go back to Chennai!' Therefore, puṇyajito lokaḥ kṣĩyate. Based on this only, Lord kṛṣṇā tells in the gĩtā, "te taṃ bhuktvā svargalokaṃ viśālaṃ kṣĩṇe puṇye martya lokaṃ viśanti" [gĩtā 9.21]. That famous gĩtā slokā is based on this mantrā only. [Which has borrowed from which? We should not say chāndogya has borrowed. You should not say so. gĩtā has borrowed from chāndogya]. The upanişad continues further. Up to this we saw in the last class.

tadya iha ātmānamanuvidya vrajanty. Therefore, suppose a person performs lot of noble activities, including vedic rituals etc., but, refuses to practise ĩśvara upāsanā, tadya iha - you split it as ye iha. yaḥ means, what? Those ritualist. iha means, what? In this bhūlokā. ātmānam - the word ātmā means what? aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa sarva ādhāra ĩśvaraḥ. ātmānam anuvidya - means, without meditating. Without practising ĩśvara upāsanā; but, merely practising karmā, a person dies and travels. vrajanty - means, he goes or he dies, or departs from this world. And since he does not meditate upon îśvarā, naturally, he will not meditate upon the universe also. Because, in this îśvara upāsanā, the universe is also included. Why? Because îśvarā is defined as viśva ādhāra ĩśvarā! Therefore, in ĩśvara upāsanā, the cosmos is also included.

Thus, this ritualist, neither meditates upon ĩśvarā, nor meditates upon the cosmos, located in the ĩśvarā. Therefore, etān satyānkāmān. The word satyān kāmān refers to the entire universe of objects. And you have to supply the word anuvidya. anuvidya means, without meditating upon ĩśvarā & the world. Suppose a person dies thus, then what is the benefit this ritualist will get? steṣā sarveṣu lokeṣu akāmacāro bhavati - he will not get the benefit of satyakāmaḥ, satyasańkalpaḥ etc. Therefore, he will have only limited powers. kāmacāraḥ means, will power. And, akāmacāraḥ means, he will not have the satyakāmaḥ & satyasańkalpaḥ. In short, he will not have siddhis which belong to ĩśvarā. akāmacāraḥ bhavati. paratantraḥ bhavati, paricchinnaḥ bhavati.

Whereas, there are some other people, who are intelligent enough to include the īśvara upāsanā also. They are talked about in the next sentence. atha ya iha ātmānam anuvidya vrajanti. atha ya iha - on the other hand, there are some people who practise the following upāsanā. iha means, bhūloke, manuṣya janmāni. What do they meditate? ātmānam anuvidya - here also, the word anivudya means, what? upāsanam kṛtvā. anu + 'vid' dhātu - to meditate upon. What type of upāsanā? aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa viśvādhāra upāsanā. In fact, in viṣṇu sahasranāma, we get this - śāntākāram bhujagaśayanam padmanābham sureśam. Thereafter, viśvādhāram. There also, gagana sadṛśam. gagana sadṛśam means, what? The dahara ākāśa only; which is, viśvādhārah. But we do not practise that upāsanā. We do not do viṣṇu sahasranāma pārāyaṇam. Even if we do pārāyaṇam, these dhyāna slokās we do very fast. They are supposed to be dhyāna slokās; not, meant for parayanam. But, meant for meditation.

Suppose a person practises this meditation, anuvidya vrajanti, according to the scriptures, even before death, even while living in this world itself, the upāsakā will get varieties of siddhis. But, because of the physical limitations, the siddhis are smaller siddhis. But, when he goes to brahma lokā, these siddhis will become expanded; bigger siddhis. In fact, the upaniṣad says, he will be closer to ĩśvarā Himself! So, the upaniṣad says, vrajanti - the one who departs from bhũlokā.

Eighth Chapter - Section 2

स यदि पितृलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य पितरः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन पितृलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

sa yadi pitrloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya pitaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena pitrlokena sampanno mahīyate 8.2.1

In this second section, how this upāsakā becomes satyakāmaḥ and satyasańkalpaḥ - closer to ĩśvarā - is talked about. saḥ yadi pitṛloka kāmo bhavati. Suppose the upāsakā wants to experience the various people that he has been associated with, all his family members, parents, forefathers etc, whomever he loves, which ever pitṛs he wants to meet, saḥ yadi pitṛlokakāmo bhavati. lokā here means, objects of experience. The word lokaḥ, does not mean a world; but, it refers to bhoga viṣaya. Suppose a person wants to experience his forefathers, parents or any one that he likes, any of the ancestors, then what happens? sańkalpād eva - by his mere sańkalpa, all the forefathers are available in his mental screen. Not for others. They all will be available for him.

sańkalpād evā asya pitaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti. And, he can interact with them; enjoy the transaction with them. And śańkarācāryā later says, [and also in brahma sũtra] 'it is exactly like projection of a dream world. The only difference is, the dream world that comes is not according to our choice. If the dream world comes according to our choice, it would have been wonderful! But, here, it is something similar to the dream world, in the sense that, it is born out of his own mind or thought. So, it is comparable to the dream world; but, it is according to his will and choice. Just as in the dream we do interact with objects. And not only interact, we also get pleasures & pains. Similarly, this upāsakā can enjoy the interaction and the consequent experiences of pleasures. So, sańkalpādevā asya pitaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti. Not only that. The dream world can last only a few seconds; which is not dependent on our will. But, for the upāsakā, the sańkalpa lokā will last as long as he wants. In these respects, it is different from the svapna. Therefore, pitaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti.

And consequently, tena pitrlokena sampanna^h. So he is enriched; because of all these interactions. Enriched, experientially. And, mahĩyate - he becomes great. He becomes happy because of the experiences. And suppose he is not interested in the pitr, but only mātr, then what about mātā? She also will come!

अथ यदि मातृलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य मातरः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन मातृलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi mātrloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya mātarah samuttisthanti tena mātrlokena sampanno mahīyate || 8.2.2 ||

All the words in this mantrā are exactly like the previous mantrā. Only, you have replace the word pitr by mātr. So, if upāsakā wants to experience his mother, grandmother or anyone, by mere sańkalpa, he or she will be available and he can interact and experience. And tena mātrlokena sampanno mahĩyate. And suppose he wants to experience brothers. Not, father or mother; but, close brother. Some time, the brother might have even passed away, early. So, he would like to revive that contact. Then, what should he do? Just, sańkalpa! What sańkalpa?

अथ यदि भ्रातृलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य भ्रातरः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन भ्रातृलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi bhrātrloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya bhrātaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena bhrātrlokena sampanno mahĩyate || 8.2.3 ||

Similarly, if he wants to experience the bhrātā [means brothers] he can re-live those experiences. Almost like action replay, without requiring a TV set. His mind itself can bring that world.

अथ यदि स्वसृलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य स्वसारः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन स्वसृलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi svasrloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya svasāraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena svasrlokena sampanno mahĩyate || 8.2.4 ||

Almost similar. Only difference is, in place of bhrātr, it is svasr. svasr means what? Sisters. And sisters of not only this janma; but, all the other janmās also.

अथ यदि सखिलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य सखायः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन सखिलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi sakhiloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya sakhāyaḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena sakhilokena sampanno mahĩyate || 8.2.5 ||

If such a person is not interested in the family members, but in close friends. Some people are closer to friends. The upaniṣad says yadi sakhiloka. sakhi means, friends. Males or females. Okay. sakhilokakāmo bhavati. Then, he will get the same world as he wishes.

अथ यदि गन्धमाल्यलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य गन्धमाल्ये समुत्तिष्ठतस्तेन गन्धमाल्यलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi gandhamālyaloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya gandhamālye samuttiṣṭhatas tena gandhamālyalokena sampanno mahīyate || 8.2.6 ||

Here the upaniṣad says, not only various living beings; but, even other sense objects of pleasure also will come for upāsakā, AT WILL. Therefore, some of those sense pleasures are enumerated. gandha mālya loka. gandhaḥ means, what? The perfumes etc. And mālya means, what? The ornaments etc which a person would like to have. Whatever is there in all the shops in T.Nagar you can have! Imagine. Now, we cannot purchase anything. So expensive. But upāsakā can have all the ornaments of all the shops, can wear and enjoy, sańkalpādeva!

अथ यद्यन्नपानलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्यान्नपाने समुत्तिष्ठतस्तेनान्नपानलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadyannapānaloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsyānnapāne samuttiṣṭhatastenānnapāna lokena sampanno mahĩyate || 8.2.7 ||

You can understand. anna pāna. annam means, what? Food. pānam means, drink. All types of foods and all types of drinks - whatever he wants - they also will be available AT WILL.

अथ यदि गीतवादित्रलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य गीतवादित्रे समुत्तिष्ठतस्तेन गीतवादित्रलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi gĩtavāditraloka kāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya gĩtavāditre samuttiṣṭhatas tena gĩtavāditralokena sampanno mahĩyate || 8.2.8 ||

So, ornaments have been said; and varieties of eatables have been mentioned. Now, music, dance, entertainments are mentioned. gïtavāditra. gĩtam means, music; and vāditram means, musical instruments. And, all the entertainments associated with that. Whatever upāsakā wants, he can enjoy them also, AT WILL. And, in brahma sũtra there is a discussion. Is it by mere WILL, or some kind of effort is involved? There, it is said, no effort is involved for him. Because, here also we do sańkalpa, that 'I should build a house'; but, mere sańkalpa alone is not enough. It should be followed by time, effort, energy, earning etc. Between sańkalpa and materialisation, there is a gap. Sometime in decades! And some of our wishes are never fulfilled, through-out this life also! Whereas, for the upāsakā, there is no question of time, energy, money etc. sańkalpa mātreṇa, instantaneously, they are fulfilled. For each of them, there are special sũtrās. In brahma sũtrā these are discussed. sańkalpād eva tu tat śruteḥ is the sũtrā. Here, he says, sańkalpa mātreṇa.

अथ यदि स्त्रीलोककामो भवति सङ्कल्पादेवास्य स्त्रियः समुत्तिष्ठन्ति तेन स्त्रीलोकेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

atha yadi strîlokakāmo bhavati sańkalpādevāsya striyaḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena strîlokena sampanno mahīyate || 8.2.9 ||

So, in this bhũlokā, we experience the people all right; but, it is a mixed crowd. Anywhere you go, there are males, females, children - all are mixed up. Suppose this upāsakā wants an exclusive world of either males only or females only or children only, even those sańkalpas He can fulfill! Previously mixed up; now, strĩloka; or, puruṣaloka; or, 'all children only' śiśu lokakāmo bhavati. He can get any type of world AT WILL. tena sampanno mahĩyate - the upaniṣad is tired of enumeration. And therefore, the upaniṣad says, [it could have done it before! But, the upaniṣad just enjoys a few; and now says] - "in short, whatever wises he has, he can fulfill!" So, this is the last mantrā of siddhi section. This is the siddhi section of the upaniṣad. A unique section, which we do not find in the other upaniṣads. In muṇḍaka upaniṣad, there is a brief mention. mantrā 3.1.10 –

yam yam lokam manasā samvibhāti viśuddhasattvah kāmayate yāmśca kāmān | tam tam lokam jayate tāmśca kāmāmstasmādātmajñam hyarcayet bhūtikāmah ||

That is a brief of mention of siddhi. But, here, in chāndogya, it is very elaborate.

यं यमन्तमभिकामो भवति यं कामं कामयते सोऽस्य सङ्कल्पादेव समुत्तिष्ठति तेन सम्पन्नो महीयते ॥

yam yamantam abhikāmo bhavati yam kāmam kāmayate so'sya sańkalpād eva samuttiṣṭhati tena sampanno mahīyate || 8.2.10 ||

So, in short, the advantage of this upāsanā is, instead of working and struggling and getting one object or the other, which is time bound, by this mere upāsanā, the whole cosmos consisting of all the 14 lokās are available for enjoyment. In fact this is the greatest material pleasure that a person can imagine. Through physical effort you will never be able to acquire all things.

Even if you go on a world tour, you cannot complete all the places. And when you go to a particular place, on that day, it will be a holiday! They will say, "Swāmījī, I saw all those places"."Are you happy?" "No. That particular place I wanted to see; but, exactly on that day it was a holiday! There was a bandh, and I have to make another tour". So, you travel around the globe for several years, still you will be missing some objects. And even if you see all the sense pleasures on the bhũlokā, you will still be missing rambhā, ũrvaśi, menakā; because, they belong to another lokā. Whereas, this upāsanā is such a great upāsanā, that everything belonging to all the 14 lokās we can experience, AT WILL. Therefore, this is the highest in sense pleasures.

So, the upaniṣad says, yaṃ yam antam abhikāmo bhavati - whichever part of the cosmos, [the entire universe. Not bhũlokā only]. antam refers to all the 14 lokās. abhikāmo bhavati - a person is desirous of experiencing. And in any part of the universe also, yaṃ kāmaṃ kāmāyāte, whichever particular specific sense pleasure he wants to experience, saḥ asya sańkalpād eva samuttiṣṭhati. saḥ means, what? That particular part of the cosmos and that particular sense pleasure. sańkalpād eva samuttiṣṭhati - it arises for him, will be there for him, by mere sańkalpa. And, tena sampannaḥ - he can materially enrich himself by those experiences. This is the result of what? dahara ākāśa upāsanā, if it is performed with worldly desires. sakāma upāsanāyāḥ phalam. With this, the second section is over. Now, we will enter the third section.

Eighth Chapter – Section 3

त इमे सत्याः कामा अनृतापिधानास्तेषा ्सत्याना ्सतामनृतमपिधानं यो यो ह्यस्येतः प्रैति न तमिह दर्शनाय लभते ॥

ta ime satyāḥ kāmā anṛtāpidhānāsteṣā ų̇́ satyānā ų̇́ satām anṛtamapidhānaṃ yo yo hyasyetaḥ praiti na tamiha darśanāya labhate || 8.3.1 ||

The upanişad continues with the topic of the material worldly results, the upāsakā can attain as a result of sakāma upāsanā. And what is the glory of this upāsanā? Most of the people in the world are interested in worldly pleasures, sense pleasures. All of them can be attained by the practise of this single upāsanā, which is a replacement for all the efforts that a person can put forth. Even though all these sense pleasures are available within his own heart, which he can bring these out through what? satyakāmaḥ and satyasańkalpaḥ. AT WILL he can bring out and enjoy. But, that power nobody is trying to exploit. On the other hand, they are all struggling to get them from outside. Therefore, the essence of this mantrā is, WHATEVER SENSE PLEASURE IS AVAILABLE OUTSIDE, THEY ARE AVAILABLE WITHIN, IN THE DAHARĀKĀŚA. And even though his own heart is a treasure house of all the worldly pleasures, human beings do not want to unearth this treasure of worldly pleasures!

Now, the upaniṣad comes down and says, 'even if you do not want mokṣa, it does not matter. Even if you are interested in materialistic pleasures, you have got a short cut method. They are available within the heart!' Therefore, the upaniṣad says, ta ime satyāḥ kāmā. satyāḥ kāmaḥ means, all the worldly sense pleasures. Here, the word satyaḥ means, vyāvahārika satyaḥ. kāmaḥ means, sense pleasures. All the possible sense pleasures in the external world are available where? Within your own heart! So, ta ime satyāḥ kāmāḥ. Where are they available? ātma niścitāḥ. That we have to understand]. They are all located in your own inner heart. You can replay, at will. But, now, they are all hidden; just as treasures are hidden under the ground. Similarly, the treasures which are within the heart, they are also hidden! Hidden by what? anṛtāpidhānā. apidhānam means concealment, covering. apidhānam means, covering, a cover, a lid. Here what is the cover? anṛtam.

śańkarācāryā says, anṛtam is the misconception that the sense pleasures are available only outside. anṛtam means, the misconception that the sense pleasures are only available outside. Then, what is the fact? They are not available outside only; but, they are available inside also! You can bring them into your mind. And remember, even when you are experiencing the external worldly pleasures like a dance or music, we think that the dance and music are outside. But, really speaking, you are not experiencing the outside world. All those objects have entered your mind in the form of thoughts. So, what you are enjoying is not the external music; but, actually you are enjoying what? The external music which are available in the form of thoughts. What is the proof? If the music does not get converted into thoughts, for you, the music does not exist. Now, there may be a music program in Music Academy; but, you cannot enjoy it. Why? Because, they have not been converted into thoughts. THUS, ALWAYS YOU ARE ENJOYING WHAT? THE WORLD OBTAINING IN YOUR MIND ONLY.

The ordinary person wants to generate the thought from outside. The upāsakā generates these music from inside. Therefore, both have got the same status only. You are enjoying only a mental world of thought. When you go to Music Academy, the mental world has been generated from outside. But, for the upāsakā, the very same world is generated from daharākāśa, as a result of what? upāsanā phalam. And of these two, which one is cheaper? Now in the TV also, 'world travel' there is a channel. So, which one is cheaper? One person goes and stands in queue for tickets. And there also, lot of disturbances. Some cell phones will be on! But, here, the cheapest one is, from his own daharākāśa, the inner world, it can be generated, where it is available.

The upaniṣad says, the human being does not make use of the cheaper means of sense pleasures. Therefore, the upaniṣad is sympathising with these people. So, satyāḥ kāmaḥ - all the worldly pleasures, which are daharākāśe vartamānaḥ, which are in our own heart; but now, anṛta apidhānaḥ - they are covered; because of our own extrovertedness and the misconception that we have to go outside for that. And the upaniṣad says, teṣā ţ satyānā ţ satām - and those internal enjoyment are as much real as external enjoyment; because, the external enjoyments also will become enjoyments, when? Only when they are converted into thoughts. They are also in the form of thoughts only. Here also the upāsakā generates the enjoyment in the form of thoughts only.

That is why in the TV also, if they do not write whether it is replay or not, for the experiencer, he does not know whether he is watching it Live. Suppose in Wimbledon, [today what will happen we do not know! Williams sisters are playing] sometimes, because of rain delay, they will show a previous match. But, suppose you do not know the result of that match, for you, there is no difference between live and not live match! In fact, you have no way of knowing also. Similarly, remember the mind is like TV. THE THOUGHT WORLD IS THE SAME, WHETHER IT HAS COME FROM EXTERNAL STIMULI OR FROM INTERNAL SAŃKALPA. THEREFORE, BOTH LOKĀS ARE THE SAME.

teṣā ̈ satyānā ̈ satām. For those pleasures, anṛtam apidhānaṃ. Literally, the word anṛtam means, unreal. But, in this context, anṛtam means what? The extrovertedness of the mind.

Because of that, he is missing the world within; but, he has a desire to experience many things which are not available around. Like some people may have some relatives abroad and may like to see them & so call them to come here. The other day, a lady was telling, "I am calling my son to come to India for vacation; but, he is not coming!" So, we have so many people and objects we want to experience. And if only we had this method, we could have easily experienced! But, these people are troubled, the upanişad says.

yo yo hyasyetaḥ praiti - some people he wants to experience are already dead and gone. He is missing them. In fact he would be happy to meet them, at least briefly. Even though the heart craves, that person, the dear person, is not available. He is missing. So, hyasy etaḥ iṣtaḥ. You have to supply the word iṣtaḥ - the dear ones. itaḥ praiti - that person is gone and he is not available around. And even though he can bring them from inside, he does not know the method. And therefore, he is craving for interaction. And some people even ask, "Swāmĩjĩ, can I see them at least in dream?" So, there is a desire. But, what type of dream will come is not in our hand!

So, tam iha darśanāya na labhate. He would like to experience many things. He has that craving. But, not available! Whereas, the upāsakā is the most powerful person. Whatever he craves for, is available! All this is glorification of upāsanā and the worldly benefits. The details in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

38. Chapter 8.3.4to 8.3.1

त इमे सत्याः कामा अनृतापिधानास्तेषा ्ंसत्याना ्ंसतामनृतमपिधानं यो यो ह्यस्येतः प्रैति न तमिह दर्शनाय लभते ॥

ta ime satyāḥ kāmā anṛtāpidhānās teṣā ̈ satyānā ̈ satām anṛtam apidhānaṃ yo yo hyasyetaḥ praiti na tamiha darśanāya labhate ‖ 8.3.1 ‖

In this first half of chāndogya upaniṣad 8th chapter, the upaniṣad is talking about saguṇa ĩśvara upāsanā, wherein saguṇa ĩśvarā is invoked as "the inner space obtaining in the heart, known as hṛdayākāśați". hṛdayākāśa ĩśvara upāsanam and here the ĩśvarā is visualised as sarva ādhārah, as the repository of everything in the cosmos. So, sarvādhāra ĩśvarā is meditated within the heart. And also, the ĩśvarā is endowed with aṣṭa guṇāh or aṣṭa aiśvaryāṇi. Of which, two powers or virtues are important. satyakāmā and satyasańkalpaḥ. Materialising or experiencing whatever one wishes to experience. So, ĩśvarā is meditated upon thus. And the glory of that meditation is talked about in the second section, third section etc. The meditation itself has been mentioned in the first section. From the second section onwards, it is glorified. In this third section also we get the glorification of ĩśvarā. We get the glorification of ĩśvara upāsakā and also the glorification of ĩśvara upāsanā phalas. So ĩśvarā stutiḥ, ĩśvara upāsakā stutiḥ and ĩśvara upāsanā phala stutiḥ.

And, in the first mantrā, the upāsanā phalam is mentioned. And therein, this mantrā says, for the upāsakā, as a result of this upāsanā, THE ENTIRE CREATION IS AVAILABLE WITHIN THE HEART ITSELF FOR INVOCATION WHENEVER HE WANTS. Because, his hrdaya ākāśā is ĭśvarā and that ĭśvarā is viśva ādhāraḥ. Therefore, within the heart, the entire cosmos is available. Even though it will be available for all the people, for the upāsakā, it is specially available; because of the power of the upāsanā. And not only that, because he has meditated upon ĩśvarā as satyakāmā and satyasańkalpaḥ, this upāsakā also gets satyakāmā and satyasańkalpā power. And, as the result of this siddhi, what is the advantage this upāsakā has? Within the heart the whole cosmos is there; and he has got this satyasańkalpa vṛtti. Therefore, from his own heart, AT WILL, he can invoke any sense object or person which is in the CREATION. And, as a result of this invocation, that sense object will be available for him. Of course, it will not be available for others; but, will be available for him. And not only that, from that interaction he can enjoy the bhogaḥ - the benefit also.

'And how can a subjective projection give me enjoyment', if you ask, śāstrā will give the example of svapna. svapna is also a subjective projection. And the svapna prapañca is capable of giving intense experiences - both pleasure & pain. Remember, 'for the dreamer, the dream world is not a dream, in dream'. For the dreamer, the dream world, in dream, is not a dream. It has got a intense reality. May be subjective. But, it is capable of giving both pleasure and pain. In this same way, the upāsakā is able to interact with any segment of the CREATION and draw whatever bhoga that he wants. The only difference between svapnā and this is, whereas the svapnā is decided by prārabdha, here the bhogā is decided not by prārabdha; but, by his own sańkalpa. svapnā is prārabdha siddham this is sańkalpa siddham.

The upaniṣad says, every human being can develop this power through ĩśvara upāsanā. A wonderful power; because, the advantage of this power is, we need not travel all over the globe! You do not need a passport. Do not need visa! Sitting here, you can get the experience of any part of the CREATION. Thus, everything is available within; but, the human being, not knowing the treasure with-in, is hunting outside! "இருக்கும் இடத்தைவிட்டு, இல்லாத இடம்தேடி, எங்கெங்கோ அலைகின்றார் ஞானத்தங்கமே! அவர் ஏதும் அறியாறடி ஞானத்தங்கமே!" [அஞ்ஞானத்தங்கமேன்னு சொல்லணும்!] Anyway, that is the song.

The upaniṣad is sympathising with the entire humanity, which is not tapping the resources within. Like the atom. After we developed the capacity to unearth the atomic energy, from one atom they are able to draw so much energy. [In fact our political problems are because of what? Are you in this world or in brahman only? Now, India is going through the hassles of "123 Agreement" (An agreement under Section 123 of the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954); because, even though atom is a minute matter, it has got infinite potential]. śāstrā says, you have got everything within. We are not talking about nirguņa brahman jñānam and mokṣā. That is a later topic. Here, we are talking about saguņa ĩśvara upāsanam and satyasańkalpādi siddhayaḥ.

So, upaniṣad says, ime satyāḥ kāmā - all the possible desires of the entire humanity. satyāḥ kāmāḥ - they are all obtaining where? Within our own heart. In the hṛdayākāśā. But, now, these internal resources are concealed; not available, because of our extrovertedness. We have decided they are not available within! Therefore, we look outward. So, anṛtam. I said in the last class, anṛtam means, bahirmukhatvam. And because of the bahirmukhatvam, apidhānāḥ. Means, all our inner treasures are concealed. apidhānam means concealment, covering etc. teṣā ʿ satyānā ʿ satām - for all this internal wealth - consisting of the entire cosmos, anṛtam apidhānaṃ. This anṛtam, otherwise called extrovertedness, is the cover.

And therefore, what happens? The human being, instead of tapping the inner source, he is looking outside! Outside, he can see things and beings; but, he cannot have contact with everything that he wants. And some of his near & dear ones, whom he would love to contact and interact, they are not available; because, they are gone from here. Either temporarily to another part of this world; or, they have left for another world. Therefore, the upanişad says, yaḥ yaḥ itaḥ praiti - so whichever person or object has left the individual, departed from the individual, either in the form of temporary separation or permanent departure, all those things and beings are not available for darśanam. So, tam iha darśanāya na labhate - that object is not available. But, the very same object is available where? Within the heart, that being or object is available. But, the very same object is available where? Within the heart, that being or object is available! One has to only unearth and bring out and enjoy the interaction. But, he does not know. Why? Because of anṛta apidhānaṃ. na tam iha darśanāya labhate. In the purāṇās they talk about the trikāla dṛṣṭi. jñāna dṛṣṭi of the ṛṣis. A ṛşi closes His eyes and visualises the past of the devotee in front. He reels out, 'in the past janmā you were this and this'; or, He is able to see the future! All these are because of what? Varieties of upāsanā. But, this ordinary person, does not have this advantage. Up to this we saw in the last class. Continuing.

अथ ये चास्येह जीवा ये च प्रेता यच्चान्यदिच्छन्न लभते सर्वं तदत्र गत्वा विन्दतेऽत्र ह्यस्यैते सत्याः कामा अनृतापिधानास्तद्यथापि हिरण्यनिधिं निहितमक्षेत्रज्ञा उपर्युपरि सञ्चरन्तो न विन्देयुरेवमेवेमाः सर्वाः प्रजा अहरहर्गच्छन्त्य एतं ब्रह्मलोकं न विन्दन्त्यनृतेन हि प्रत्यूढाः ॥ ८.३.२ ॥

atha ye cāsyeha jīvā ye ca pretā yaccānyadicchanna labhate sarvam tadatra gatvā vindate'tra hyasyaite satyāh kāmā anrtāpidhānāstadyathāpi hiranyanidhim nihitamaksetrajñā uparyupari sañcaranto na vindeyurevamevemāh sarvāh prajā aharahargacchantya etam brahmalokam na vindantyanrtena hi pratyūdhāh 18.3.2

[From atha up to anṛtāpidhānaḥ, we can take as one sentence. We can put a full stop there]. So, here the upaniṣad says, there are many things and beings which are not available in front of our limited mind and sense organs. How many things can you contact with a limited mind and sense organs? If I am looking in this direction, in another direction I cannot see. If I am seeing behind, I cannot see the front. My back-side is not available at all, permanently. Dayānanda Swāmĩjĩ says, 'there are many people who die without seeing their back! Unless you several mirrors and make an effort for that, we will never see our back the entire life time; and we die also. Because of such intrinsic limitations, many things are not available for bhoga.

But, for this upāsakā, there is no such restriction. The upaniṣad says, ye cāsyeha jĩvā - ye ca asya iha jĩvā - there are many near & dear ones for an individual, who are jĩvāḥ. jĩvāḥ means, who are alive. There are many near & dear ones who are alive; but still, not available for interaction or transaction; because, they are physically away from us - in another country or another state. This is one type not available. So asya means, for an individual. jĩvāḥ means, live relatives; or, live near & dear ones. ye ca pretā - and there are other people who are pretāḥ. They are also near and dear ones and you cannot contact or interact; because, they are pretāḥ. pretāḥ means, they are departed souls. The previous ones are not yet departed. But, they are elsewhere; therefore, cannot be contacted. Or, yacca anyad icchanna labhate - there may be many other sense objects which a person desires to see or interact with; but, they are not available around; because, they are away. May be in some other country. So, it may be a mountain; it may be a water fall; it may be anything. So jĩvāḥ and pretāḥ refers to sentient beings. yacca anyat refers to sense objects. All these are inaccessible, because of various reasons. anyat icchan - even though he wants, he desires to interact with, na labhate - they are not accessible; because of, human limitations.

But, for the upāsakā, such limitations do not exist. What does the upāsakā do? [upāsakaḥ we have to supply]. sarvaṃ tadatra gatvā vindate. upāsakaḥ, atra gatvā by entering the hṛdaya ākāśaḥ - which is none other than ĩśvarā, which is sarva ādhāraḥ; in which the whole CREATION is there - by his satyakāmā and satyasańkalpaḥ, what does he do? atra gatvā - hṛdaya ākāśam gatvā - which is ĩśvarā. By contacting ĩśvarā. vindate. vindate means, the upāsakā IS ABLE TO ACCESS AT WILL - as a result of this upāsanā. How he is able to access them? Because, atra hi asya ete satyāḥ kāmāḥ. atra hi means, in this hṛdayākāśā itself.

Now-a-days scientists talk about hologram. I do not know what it is. Hologram they talk about. It is a thing in which any part you take, it has got all of them inside. It is a wonderful, beautiful thing they have found out. And they think that, the whole creation may be a hologram. You know what is this hologram? We imagine it is like a ball. You imagine. Any part of the hologram is not containing a part of total. Any part contains the totality within. It is something like the stem cells of an individual. The uniqueness of the stem cell is, it is one cell - in which, all other cells are hidden. That is why stem cell research is becoming very important. These two you can study more & more. Wonderful revelations are coming. Stem cells & Holograms. What is that? Any one part contains the total.

Now, the śāstrā says, the hṛdayākāšā - even though it appears as a part of the CREATION - within the hṛdayākāšā, the totality is there! The only thing is, normally we do not know how to access it. But, the upāsakā has the capacity to access; and therefore, atra asmin hologram madhye, stem cell madhye, hṛdayākāšā madhye, satyāḥ kāmāḥ - all this vyāvahārika satya prapañca. Here, the word satyam should not be taken as pāramārthika satyam; but, it refers to the vyāvahārika satyam. And the word kāmāḥ means, what? Sense objects of human desire. All the human desires. atra - are very much there; for tapping, for accessing. But, what is the problem? anṛtāpidhānāḥ - but are concealed, because of our extrovertedness.

tadyathāpi hiraņyanidhim nihitamaksetrajñā uparyupari sañcaranto na vindeyuh. The upanisad gives an example. It is like a poor person who has got a small piece of land only. A barren land. He cannot even use it to grow any type of crop. And he is extremely poor. And he is wondering, 'how to earn some wealth and procure my needs?' And imagine, under the ground suppose there is a huge treasure; but, he does not know the treasure! Therefore, he does not dig and unearth that treasure. Thus, in spite of being the owner of a rich treasure, now he happens to be the poorest person! What an irony?! This is the example. tad yathāpi the story of a human being is like the story of this person. And who is this person? The one who has got a ksetram. ksetram here means what? A small piece of land he posses. But aksetrajñāh - but he does not know the hidden treasure underneath. aksetrajñah means, possessor of hidden treasure underneath his land; but, who does not know the available treasure. And what type of treasure it is? hiranya nidhim - treasure of gold [or you can add diamond or you can add oil, petrol! Now, that is the black gold! We know how we are suffering!] Imagine, underneath there is that treasure. hiranyanidhim nihitam. nihitam means, hidden [treasure]. aksetrajñāh - people who do not know the land and its wealth, na vindeyuh - they are not able to access and enjoy, claim the richness, claim the wealth. They are going with a begging bowl. So, aksetrajñāh, uparyupari sañcarantah api - even though they are repeatedly walking over the same land, they are not able to know.

[If only there is some treasure diviner! You would have heard about water diviner, I heard petrol diviners are also there! The diviner holds a rod made of a particular metal and in a plastic bottle he has some water. And keeping that water bottle and metal rod, he walks all over. He might be some upāsakā; we do not know! Or, pũrva janma upāsanā he did. We do not know! His body has got some speciality, that when he walks over the water resource, [I have seen that. That is why I am able to openly say] that rod violently moves! [Even though the water is there, when I took that rod and walked up & down, nothing happened! I might not have done upāsanā perhaps!] And it is so violent, he is wearing rubber glove; because of the violent movement sometimes his hand gets hurt. So violent is the movement! It is nihitam treasure. He is able to know. The other people are not able to even with that rod if they walk. And that person claims he can divine petrol also. Only in that plastic bottle he will fill petrol & not water. And when he walks, wherever petrol is, then the rod will go down. That I have not checked. Water I have seen.]

Similarly, akṣetrajñaḥ - those who do not know; uparyupari sañcarantaḥ api na vindeyuḥ - they do not. evam eva imāḥ sarvāḥ prajā - just as these ignorant people move around; but, still they do not know; similarly, every jĩvā has got a treasure within. That is ĩśvarā, with everything in Himself. So, sarvāḥ prajāḥ. And the śāstrā says, this jĩvā is walking over the hṛdayākāśā, every day. In fact, he goes to hṛdayākāśā every day. At what time? Do you know? According to śāstrā, during sleep, we have withdrawn all our faculties - jñānendriyam, karmendriyam and antaḥkaraṇa faculties. And we go in to what? hṛdayākāśā! Even though we are walking over the treasure daily, sometimes several times also, like afternoon nap etc. The upaniṣad says, the human beings do not know the treasure within.

satā somya tadā sampanno bhavati svamapīto bhavati tasmādena svapitītyācaksate sva vhyapīto bhavati - in the 6th chapter the upanisad said, jīvā merges with isvarā and experiences advaitam during susupti. Therefore, the upanisad says aharahah. aharahah means, what? Every day. gacchantyah - the jīvā approaches or enters, etam brahmalokam - here the word brahma lokā means, brahma caitanyam. brahma caitanyam means, saguna ĩśvarā. asta guna viśista sarva ādhāra ĩśvarā is called brahmalokā. And, where is that ĩśvarā? hṛdaya ākāśā. This ĩśvarā the hṛdayākāśā gacchantyaḥ - every day we enter; but, we do not know what the treasure is, because of ajñāna timirāndhāh. So, etam brahmalokām = hrdayākāśam. hrdayākāśam = saguņa ĩśvaram, otherwise called, prājñah. If you remember māndūkya, "esa sarveśvarah esa sarvajña eso'ntaryāmy esa yonih sarvasya prabhavāpyayau hi bhūtānām" - [in the form of the third pādā description. I do not know whether you remember! prājña - ĩśvara aikyam was talked about in the 6th mantrā of māndukya upanisad]. That prājna isvara aikyam we are experiencing everyday. But still, na vindanti. Who? sarvāh prajāh - this entire humanity, does not discover this fact. And why do they not discover? anrtena hi pratyūdhāh - because that ĩśvarā is concealed by anrtam. anrtam here means, ajñānam. So, during suşupti, anrtam cannot be interpreted as extrovertedness. Are you able to understand? During suşupti, our problem is not extrovertedness; because, we have withdrawn into ourselves. Therefore, here the word anrtam means, what? ajñānena hi pratyūdhāh - they are carried away; they do not discover.

Continuing.

स वा एष आत्मा हृदि तस्यैतदेव निरुक्त ँहुद्ययमिति तस्माद्धदयमहरहर्वा एवंवित्स्वर्गं लोकमेति ॥

sa vā esa ātmā hrdi tasyaitadeva nirukta (hrdyayamiti tasmāddhrdayamaharaharvā evamvit svargam lokameti ii 8.3.3 ii

[A small correction. In the second line, last word is svargam lokam. In certain books svarnam is printed. If the word is svarnam in your book, any svarnam is also okay. hiranyanidhim you can say! Anyway, the word is svargam]. So, here, the upaniṣad says, because īśvarā - who is the treasure of everything is in the heart of everyone - īśvarā is given a title. And one of the titles of īśvarā is hṛdayam. The word hṛdayam means, heart also. But, in this context, the word hṛdayam is introduced as one of the names of īśvarā. Why īśvarā has such a name? hṛdayam! The upaniṣad says, the reason is, hṛdy ayam - hṛdayam. hṛdy ayam means, that Lord - who obtains, who is accessible, within the heart. So, the one who is accessible within, is called hṛdayam. Therefore, the very derivation of the word hṛdayam reveals, that īśvarā is within us. That is why in the gītā, "īśvaraḥ sarvabhūtānāṃ hṛdeśe'rjuna tiṣṭhati" [v-18.61]

And that is why I have said this point also. We have to note. That, whenever we want to do a pũjā to the Lord, we invoke the Lord upon some symbol or the other. It may be a śivalińgā, śālagrāmā or turmeric powder. And at the time of pũjā, we invoke the Lord by saying prāņa pratiṣṭha mantrās. "āvāhito bhava, sthāpito bhava" etc. That means, we are bringing the Lord to that particular place / object. And, after bringing the Lord to that particular place, we worship the Lord. And, after the pũjā is over, we say - yathāsthānam pratiṣṭhāpayāmi - we send the Lord back to His own or Her own residence! So, naturally, the question will come. "If the Lord is brought here and the Lord is sent back, what is its original residence? From where is bhagavān brought to śivalińgā? We do not ask the question. Or, we imagine, bhagavān is brought from some vaikuṇṭha or kailāsā.

But do you know, what is the truth? THE RESIDENCE OF THE LORD IS OUR OWN HRDAYAM! But when you want to do abhişekam, arcanā etc, you take out the Lord and do the pũjā etc and again bring back the Lord [back into your hrdayam!] And there are some śaivā people, śaivās are there, especially in Karanataka - vĩra śaivās. They keep śivalińgā in their mālā itself! There is a small pocket. Within that, the Lord is kept! And wherever they go, they take the Lord, they carry the Lord! They take out the Lord and do abhişekam. For abhişeka purposes we bring the Lord out of us; and after the pũjā, we bring back. What I want to say is, the original residence of the Lord out? Otherwise, all pañcāmṛtam and all you have to pour over your head itself! So, only for the sake of convenience, we keep a śivalińgā and do abhişekam to that.

Therefore, the upaniṣad says, sa vā eṣa ātmā - the previously described paramātmā. And, who is He? sarva ādhāra aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa paramātmā. sarva ādhāra aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa

paramātmā, hrdi vartate - is very much present in our heart. And the word hrdi is the 7th case of the word hrd; and the word hrd means, heart. hrdi means, in the heart. Therefore, hrdi vartate. vartate we have to supply, and put a full-stop. And because the Lord is in the heart, tasya etad eva nirukta, tasya means, what? For the Lord, who is in the heart, for the heart-residing Lord. etad eva niruktam - there is the following significant word. NIRUKTAM means, what? IT IS A SIGNIFICANT WORD, WHICH REVEALS HIS NATURE. In Tamil there is an expression "காரணப் பெயர்". காரணப் பெயர் means, the word itself reveals its meaning. Similarly, the paramātmā has got a significant word which reveals its meaning. And, what is that? HRDAYAM. That காரணப் பெயர் is, hrdayam.

Why is He called hṛdayam? hṛdi ayam iti. So, hṛdyayam is printed. You have to split it as hṛdi ayam iti. iti means, since. Since the paramātmā is residing in the heart, hṛdayam, hṛdi ayam. ayam means, what? paramātmā. hṛdi means, in the heart. paramātmā is in the heart. paramātmā is in the heart. hṛdi ayam = hṛdayam. Repeated several times, hṛdi ayam will become hṛdayam! yasmāt hṛdi ayam vartate, tasmāt hṛdayam bhavati. That Lord is called hṛdayam.

And evam vit - this upāsakā is regularly merging into that paramātmā, during sleep. Therefore, he says, evam vit. Means, this hrdaya upāsakā or this daharākāśa upāsakā, svargam lokam eti. The word svarga lokā, very careful, the word svarga lokā here means, the inner paramātmā. And why is He called svargam? The word svargam means, ānanda hetuh, the source of ānandā is called svargā. The inner paramātmā is also a source of ānanda. Therefore, the paramātmā is called svarga. And, it is called lokah; because, this paramātmā is experienced. So, svargam lokam - the inner paramātmā, ETI, the upāsakā merges into, every day! aharahah. aharahah means, what? Every day. At what time? You know the answer! The jivātmā, upāsakā, during susupti, he is merging into that inner paramātmā only! Why do you say the upāsakā is merging into paramātmā? In fact, ajñānis [non-upāsakās] also are merging! śańkarācāryā says, even though he also merges, after waking up, he does not say, "I was one with the Lord!" The non-upāsakā also merges; but, the problem is, what? He does not know the fact. Therefore, because of ignorance, it is as though he does not merge. But, the upāsakā knows. Therefore, he considers susupti as a sacred avasthā. That is why in the ślokā, ātmā tvam girijā matih sahacarāh prānāh śarīram grham, pũjā te visayopa bhoga racanā nidrā samādhi sthitih - where does it come? [Daily, not daily, in every class we are chanting this! śiva mānasa pũjā!] So, an ordinary person, does not look upon sleep as a samādhi; whereas, for the upāsakā, ātmā tvam - the paramātmā, śivā, is within the heart, as hrdayākāśā. Therefore, every time he goes to sleep, he looks upon it as what? samādhi avasthā! advaita avasthā!

nirvikalapaka samādhi avasthā! In which, jīvātmā has embraced paramātmā. So, in brhadāraņyaka, this is very, very elaborately discussed, in svayam jyothi brāhmaņam. "tad yathā priyayā priyā samparisvaptaņ na bāhyam kiñcana veda nāntaram evam eva imāņ" Similarly, the jīvātmā has embraced the paramātmā. Therefore, evam vit aharahaņ svargam lokam eti.

Continuing.

अथ य एष सम्प्रसादोऽस्माच्छरीरात्समुत्थाय परं ज्योतिरुपसम्पद्य स्वेन रूपेणाभिनिष्पद्यत एष आत्मेति होवाचैत दमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति तस्य ह वा एतस्य ब्रह्मणो नाम सत्यमिति ॥

atha ya esa samprasādo'smāccharĩrātsamutthāya paraṃ jyotirupasampadya svena rūpeṇā- bhiniṣpadyata eṣa ātmeti hovācaitadamṛtamabhayametadbrahmeti tasya ha vā etasya brahmaṇo nāma satyam iti II 8.3.4 II

So, in this important mantrā - which will be quoted again later - the upaniṣad says, during suṣupti this jĩvātmā is merging into paramātmā; and during waking, the jĩvātmā again comes back. Now, we think that, we are the jĩvātmā; and paramātmā is something different, into which we are merging during suṣupti! Here, the upaniṣad says, really speaking, during the suṣupti we are one with the paramātmā! That alone is our real nature!

So, now, what are we saying? 'We are jīvātmā. Temporarily we are merging into paramātmā during suṣupti'. Thus, paramātmā seems to be something different, which we reach; or, go to, now & then. The upaniṣad says, REALLY SPEAKING, THIS PARAMĀTMĀ IS OUR REAL NATURE. And the jīvātmā is what? Our temporary veṣam that we have put on! And therefore, the upaniṣad says, DURING SUṢUPTI, THE JĨVĀTMĀ HAS MERGED INTO ITS SVARŨPAM. So, paramātmā is not an object; but, PARAMĀTMĀ IS THE REAL NATURE OF JĨVĀTMĀ. And therefore, we are in our real nature, during which avasthā? [We think now we are in our real nature. Husband-wife, male-female, young-old etc. This individuality, we think, as our real nature. But, the upaniṣad says, the individuality is a veṣam given to you by GOD, to play the cosmic entertainment, a drama! And the veṣam as your real nature!

The fact is, what? jĩvātmā is in His real nature, abiding in paramātma svarũpam, during suṣupti. And therefore, this jĩvātmā is given a title. samprasādaḥ. [samprasādaḥ is not English - some prasādaḥ like, vadai, sundal, kadalai - it is not some prasādaḥ!] It has a totally different meaning. samyak prasĩdati svasya svarũpe iti samprasādaḥ - the one who abides in His real nature during suṣupti, is called samprasādaḥ. That is the name / title of jĩvātmā. Especially, this name is used for the jĩvātmā in suṣupti avasthā. prājĩa jĩvaḥ is called samprasādaḥ. But, later, it is extended to viśva and taijasa also. This prājña jĩvaḥ is called samprasādaḥ. Why? Because, he abides in his svarũpam. Therefore, the upaniṣad describes this svarũpa avasthānam, the advaita niṣṭhā, in this mantrā. The details we will in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

39. Chapter 8.3.4 & 8.3.5 and 8.4.1 and 8.4.2

अथ य एष सम्प्रसादोऽस्माच्छरीरात्समुत्थाय परं ज्योतिरुपसम्पद्य स्वेन रूपेणाभिनिष्पद्यत एष आत्मेति होवाचैत दमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति तस्य ह वा एतस्य ब्रह्मणो नाम सत्यमिति ॥

atha ya eṣa samprasādo'smāccharĩrāt samutthāya paraṃ jyotirupa sampadya svena rũpeṇā- bhiniṣpadyata eṣa ātmeti hovācaitad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti tasya ha vā etasya brahmaṇo nāma satyam iti || 8.3.4 ||

In this mantrā, the upaniṣad points out that, the paramātmā which was represented by daharākāśa - the inner space obtaining in the heart - that paramātmā, is really our svarũpam. And during the jāgrat and svapna avasthā, because of our deha abhimānā - identification with the body, [of course, due to ignorance], we have a feeling of separation from that paramātmā. And when that body-identification is dropped, the jĩvātmā is one with paramātmā only. This identification gets dropped on two occasions. One occasion is of course, clear knowledge, which we gain in the jāgrat avasthā. And through that knowledge, we understand that the body mind complex is not myself; and then I claim oneness with paramātmā. THAT IS AIKYAM, THROUGH WISDOM.

But, the upaniṣad says, even without getting this knowledge, every jĩvā experiences aikyam with paramātmā or brahman, during suṣupti avasthā. And this aikyam 'takes place', in fact 'takes place' [is within quotes]; because, WE ARE, ALL THE TIME, ONE WITH PARAMĀTMĀ ONLY. But, this aikyam seemingly 'takes place' in suṣupti; because, in suṣupti, we disidentify from the body-mind complex and temporarily drop our individuality, our jĩvatva nature. And therefore, we have this aikyam. From this, it is very clear that, PARAMĀTMĀ IS THE REAL NATURE OF THE JĨvĀ. This is given in this mantrā, which I had introduced in the last class.

ya esa samprasādah. samprasādah means, the sleeping jīvā, the prājña jīvah, which has disidentified from sthüla-sükşma śarīrams. Remember, once that identification is gone, jīvā has lost its jīvatvam - at least temporarily. And this prājña jīvah, [why is he called samprasādah? The word samprasāda means, 'he who has become tranquil'. The tranquillised jĩvā. The tranquil jĩvā. The quietened jĩvā, is called samprasādah. samyak prasĩdati iti samprasādah]. And what does this prājña jĩvā do? asmāccharīrātsamutthāya - this prājña jīvā leaves these two bodies asmāccharīra means, the body. samutthāya means, transcending or going out. But, here, the word 'going out should not be taken literally. It is nothing but, dropping the identification. What is the proof for that? Only when we have the identification with the body, we have got jāgrat prapañca anubhava. Because we disidentify from this body only, jāgrat anubhava is resolved. Similarly, sũkṣma śarĩra abhimānā also has been dropped. What is the proof? If sũkṣma śarĩra abhimānā were there, svapna prapañca would have come out of the vāsanās in sũkṣma śarĩra.

And since I am out of jāgrat prapañca, and out of svapna also, the prājňa jĩvaḥ has withdrawn from śarĩradvayam, dropping jĩvatvam. And, svena rũpeṇa - this jĩvātmā has attained its real nature of limitlessness. Because, only when I have sthũla śarĩra abhimānā, I feel I am localised in this particular hall. And during svapnā, when I have sũkṣma śarĩra abhimānā, then, I feel localised within the svapnā time & space. During suṣupti, since I have withdrawn from both śarĩrams, I do not have any localised experience. ahańkārā has resolved. Even cidābhāsā has resolved. What is the proof for that? cidābhāsā will be active only when the mind is active. When the mind has resolved in suṣupti, the cidābhāsā also has resolved. That resolution may be temporary. We are not bothered whether it is temporary or permanent. There is withdrawal.

Thus, sthũla śarĩra abhimānā gone. sũkṣma śarĩra abhimānā gone. cidābhāsā gone. Knower-hood gone. jĩvatvam gone. During suṣupti, how do I experience 'myself'? 'I' am sākṣi pradhāna jĩvaḥ. During jāgrat and svapna, I am cidābhāsa pradhāna jĩvaḥ. But, in suṣupti, cidābhāsā is 'absent' we will not say; but, it is in dormant, resolved form. And when it is resolved, it is as good as non-existent. And therefore, in what form I am? sākṣi pradhāna jĩvā, I am. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, svena rũpeṇa abhi niṣpadyate - and this jĩvā assumes its real sākṣi svarũpam.

And, as I said in the last class, we generally think, 'our jāgrat individuality is our real nature; and, suṣupti is an incidental, temporary experience'. But, what śāstrā says is, 'the suṣupti sākṣi svarũpam is our real nature; and this jāgrat individuality is only incidental'. Whatever is veṣam, we have taken as real; and what is real, we have taken as veṣam! Small change only. But, that has created havoc. Therefore, svena rũpeṇa means, sākṣi sva rũpeṇa, abhi niṣpadyata. And because I am in sākṣi svarũpa, and jĩvatvam, cidābhāsa has resolved, that is why my fate or condition is nirvikalpaka rũpam. In suṣupti, I am free from all the divisions. In suṣupti, I am free from duality. advaita nirvikalpaka sākṣi svarũpam I experience in suṣupti.

That is why Dayānanda Swāmījī repeatedly says, 'advaita anubhava, we are not lacking. Our problem is not lack of advaita anubhava. We do have advaita anubhava, everyday. Sometimes in the middle of the class also!' [For joke, now and then I say that! We do that]. What we are lacking is advaita jñānam. And, unfortunately, when we have advaita anubhava, at that time, we cannot get jñānam! Why? Because, during advaita anubhava, mind is resolved; and, in the absence of the mind, where will you get the knowledge? Therefore, advaita anubhava kāle, advaita jñānam na bhavati. Why? Because, mind abhāvāt. dvaita anubhava kāle, advaita ma bhavati. Why? We are in dvaita anubhava kāle, advaitam na bhavati. Why? We are in dvaita anubhava! And therefore, what we require is, DVAITA ANUBHAVA KĀLE WE SHOULD STUDY THE ŚĀSTRAM AND UNDERSTAND THAT THE ADVAITA ANUBHAVA IN SUṢUPTI IS MY REAL NATURE. What do we require? dvaita anubhava we require. Then only, guru and śāstrā are available. And, DURING DVAITA ANUBHAVA, WITH THE HELP OF ŚĀSTRĀ AND GURU, I SHOULD UNDERSTAND THE ADVAITA ANUBHAVA THAT I GET IN SUṢUPTI, IS MY REAL NATURE.

Thus, for everyone, svena rũpeṇa, advaita rũpeṇa, nirvikalpaka rũpeṇa, sākṣi rũpeṇa ābhi niṣpadyate - He comes. paraṃ jyoti rũpa sampadyate - and at that time, this jĩvātmā has merged into paraṃ jyotiḥ, which is paramātmā. So, two points during suṣupti - 1] I have come to my original nature of sākṣi. 2] And not only I have come to original sākṣi svarũpam, I have merger or oneness with paramātmā also. Both have happened. Therefore, paraṃ jyoti rũpa sampadyate - the jĩvātmā experiences paramātmā. And this alone is very, very elaborately analysed in the svayamjyoti brāhmaṇam of bṛhadāraṇyaka upaniṣad; where, suṣupti is compared to mokṣā itself! Compared to mokṣā. It is not mokṣā; because, we wake up and get into problems.

Then, the upaniṣad says, eṣa ātmeti hovāca. eṣaḥ means, what? This prājña jĩvā, who has disidentified from the anātma upādhi alone is the real ātmā, the real 'I'. And not only it is the real 'I', etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti. etad amṛtam - this real 'I' is immortal. And that is why in suṣupti, we do not experience even deśa & kāla. And where kāla is absent, where is the question of mortality! That is also not there. etad abhayam - this jĩvātmā is ever free from insecurity, ever secure. abhayam means, ever secure. And, the upaniṣad says, 'in fact, etad brahma - this jĩvātmā, that is the sākṣi obtaining in suṣupti, alone is brahma!'

In fact, in the 8th chapter of pañcadaśĩ, vidyāraṇyā gives a beautiful example. That thought came. And since I am doing that chapter, that idea is in my mind. Therefore, I will give you that beautiful example. He says, during the day time, imagine the sunlight is falling upon the wall. The whole wall is pervaded by the sāmānya sũrya prakāśaḥ. The general sunlight. Which is located, where? All over the body. And, he says, imagine somebody brings a mirror and forms a reflection and throws the reflected patch of light on a particular area of the wall. So, upon that area, there is the reflected bright patch of light. And vidyāraņyā asks the question, 'in that area, where the bright patch is there, the general sunlight is present or not? The general sunlight which pervades all over the wall, whether that is there on that reflected bright patch or not? What would be your answer? The general sunlight is very much there; but, what has happened is, that general sunlight is over shadowed by the brighter patch of reflected light. Reflected sunlight is brighter than the original! And therefore, pratibimba sũryaḥ overshadows the bimba sũryaḥ! And if you want to experience the sāmānya sũryā there, what do you do? Remove the mirror. The bright patch goes away. And then, what is there? The dull, original sunlight. The original is dull! The reflection is brighter! The original dull sāmānya light is there. If this example is understood, our discussion will become clear.

In suṣupti, the sākṣi caitanyam, the sāmānya caitanyam, is very much there. And in jāgrat avasthā, not only the sākṣi caitanyam is present; over and above that, there is cidābhāsa also, which is bright and localised. And, we are so preoccupied with cidābhāsa, that we miss what? The sākṣi! And if you have to experience the sākṣi, what do you do? Remove the mirror. Remove the reflection. And that is what we regularly do. When? In suṣupti. And that sākṣi alone is, brahman. Therefore, we do not lack sākṣi anubhava; we do not lack advaita anubhava; we do not lack brahma-ātma aikya anubhava. Everything we have experienced / are experiencing. But, we have not understood THAT is our real nature. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, etad amṛtam etad abhayam etad brahma. And, this brahman alone, we are meditating upon in the daharākāśa.

And this upāsakā discovers THAT brahman alone, after going to brahma lokā. Here itself why cannot he study vedāntā? He does not want to. He meditates upon THAT brahman in the daharākāśa, all the time it being His svarũpam, he does not want to claim it. He wants to meditate, go to brahma lokā and there he wants to learn from brahmājĩ. He does not want a local Swāmĩ. He wants to learn from catur mukha brahmājĩ. Thus, the topic is upāsanā topic. [Do not forget].

And now, the upaniṣad wants to glorify this brahman, which is the object of meditation as daharākāśam. And which is our real nature which we experience in suṣupti. And that brahma, the upāsyam is going to be glorified in the following mantrās. For that, the introduction is given at the end of this mantrā. So, with etad brahmeti, you have to put full stop.

And tasya ha vā onwards, this brahma stuti is starting. And, what is the glory of brahman? tasya ha vā etasya brahmaṇaḥ - for that great brahman [and in these portions, the upaniṣad is loosely using the word brahman for both saguṇa and nirguṇa, it is a fuzzy area. Certain areas, apahata pāpmā na jarā na mṛtyuḥ etc it is nirguṇam also. satyakāmāḥ, satyasańkalpaḥ etc refers to saguṇa also. Both of them are mixed in this area. For that brahman, the paramātmā, nāma, there is a famous title, which reveals its glory. And what is that title? satyam iti nāma - it has got the name 'satyam'. And the word 'satyam' is analysed in the upaniṣads in several ways; and the word is split in different forms, etymologically. In bṛhadāraṇyaka one type of splitting is done, sat+yat is satyam. bṛhadāraṇyaka 2nd chapter, 3rd brāhmaṇam, that word satyam is divided as sat+yat. But, here, the upaniṣad is going to etymologically derive the word satyam in a particular way, which is given in the following mantrā. These are all play with words. Word play.

तानि ह वा एतानि त्रीण्यक्षराणि सतीयमिति तद्यत्सत्तदमृतमथ यत्ति तन्मर्त्यमथ यद्यं तेनोभे यच्छति यदनेनोभे यच्छति तस्माद्यमहरहर्वा एवंवित्स्वर्गं लोकमेति ॥

tāni ha vā etāni trīņy akṣarāṇi satīyamiti tadyatsat tadamṛtam atha yatti tanmartyam atha yadyaṃ tenobhe yacchati yad anenobhe yacchati tasmādyam aharaharvā evaṃ vit svargaṃ lokam eti || 8.3.5 ||

All these word plays are unique to chandogya upanisad and brhadaranyaka upanisad. And that is why we generally study these two upanisads only if we want to; and that too, after the study of other simpler upanisads. Here, the upanisad has different forms of approach. And what is the word play? It says, tāni ha vā etāni trīņy aksarāņi - if you take the word satyam, it has got three components - etāni trīņi aksarāņi. aksarāņi means, letters. The word has got three component letters. And, what are they? sa ti yam iti. What are the three components? sa - स is one component then t - त is another component. yam - यम् is the third component. But, since it is difficult, the half letter t - त, satyam the middle t - त being half, you cannot pronounce a consonant by itself. Therefore, for the sake of pronunciation, the upanisad says, the middle letter is tĩ. Even though the upanisad says the middle letter is tĩ. ती, we should understand the middle letter is what? t - त् is the middle letter. Then, why tí? For the sake of pronunciation! So, sa - स + tī - ती + yam - यम्. iti. These are the three letters. And what do they refer to? The upanisad gives the meaning of each one. tat yat sat tad amrtam - the first letter which is sa refers to sat, which is immortality. The first letter sa refers to sat; and sat means, what? The PURE EXISTENCE; which is, immortality. Therefore, the letter sa = amṛtatvam. So, tadyatsat, tat amṛtam. First component is over.

atha yat ti - the middle letter tī - ती - and here also, tī - ती should not be understood as tī - ती. 'ī' is only for pronunciation purpose. t - त् is the middle letter. What does it stand for? tat martyam. That stands for, what? Mortality or the mortal principle. Because, in the word martyam, 'ta' kārā is there. In the word martyam half t - त् is there. Therefore, t - त् is like, a shortening of the names of people. martyam shortened is, t - त्. sat shortened is, sa - स. Therefore, sa - स and t - त represent immortality and mortality.

Okay. Then what about 'yaṃ'? atha yat yaṃ - thereafter, the component 'yam' of the word satyam, tena ubhe yacchati - that 'yam' stands for, control or mastery. 'yam' stands for, control or mastery; because, in Sanskrit, there is a root 'yam', from which ['yam' the root means to control], and from that only, the word yamā has come. yamā is, 'the controller' of the population. And the word 'antaryāmî' - the inner controller, is also derived from the root 'yam' only. The verbal form of 'yam' is yacchati niyacchati - to control. So, the 3rd component 'yam' refers to what? The controller.

Then, the next question is, 'controller of what'? The upaniṣad says, 'the controller of the previous two'. Now, you should remember what are the previous two. sa - the immortality; and, t - the mortality. And therefore, what is the final meaning of the word satyam? "That paramātmā, which is the controller of mortality and immortality!" Because, paramātmā has got immorality represented by brahma tattvam; and, it has got mortality represented by māyā, the changing principle. Therefore, paramātmā is called satyam, the master of immortality and mortality. He is the master of both. That is why paramātmā is going to, is able to, give mortality to ignorant jīvās. And the very same paramātmā gives immortality. To whom? The wise jīvās. Thus, He has got two pockets.

I have told you. Immortality pocket and mortality pocket. śreyas and preyas. mokṣā and dharma artha kāma. He can take any one and give to the people. And depending upon the seeker, He gives any one. Therefore, paramātmā gets, what title? satyam. tena ubhe yacchati yat anena ubhe yacchati - since paramātmā is the master of both immortality & mortality, tasmāt yam - paramātmā is revealed through the final component yam. tasmāt yam.

And, yaḥ evam vit - whoever meditates upon paramātmā as endowed with this particular guṇa, [what is the guṇa? Being the master of martyam and amṛtam, represented by satya guṇa. 'satya guṇa viśiṣṭa paramātma upāsanam' suppose a person does; [previously we talked about aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa paramātmā. And we are adding a few more glories. Another glory added here is what? satyam - the master]; and the upaniṣad says, evam vit. evam vit means, this upāsakā, paramātma upāsakā, saguṇa paramātmā upāsakā. svargam lokameti. Here, the word svarga lokā means, paramātmā - the source of ānandā.

svargam lokam means, infinite ānandā, the paramātmā. eti. eti means, what? He merges / he becomes one with the paramātmā. When? During His lifetime He goes to paramātmā; and has a dip in paramātmā regularly, during deep sleep state. This upāsakā regularly dips into paramātma brahman every day or every night. And then you have to add, 'after death, He will attain krama mukti; and finally, merge into paramātmā'. Therefore, aharaharvai every day, every night, svargam lokam eti.

And then the question will come, "why do you say only upāsakā merges? After all, all the jīvās are merging into sākṣi, the paramātmā, every night?!" For that, our answer is, others also merge into paramātmā; but, they do not know, they do not declare also. Therefore, they have not merged. But, the upāsakā knows, 'nidrā samādhisthitiḥ'. Other people will never say, 'nidrā is samādhi'. Where, 'nidrā samādhisthitiḥ' comes? We are chanting [śivamānasa pũjā]. For the upāsakā, sleep is daily samādhi. We are in advaitam brahma.

So, with this section, the third khaṇḍa is over. All these are part of upāsanā. vedāntā will start only from the 7th section, remember.

Eighth Chapter - Section 4

Continuing.

अथ य आत्मा स सेतुर्धृतिरेषां लोकानामसम्भेदाय नैत ्ँसेतुमहोरात्रे तरतो न जरा न मृत्युर्न शोको न सुकृतं न दुष्कृत ्ँसर्वे पाप्मानोऽतो निवर्तन्तेऽपहतपाप्मा ह्येष ब्रह्मलोकः ॥

atha ya ātmā sa seturdhrtireṣām lokānāmasambhedāya naita setumahorātre tarato na jarā na mrtyur na śoko na sukrtam na duṣkrta sarve pāpmāno'to nivartante'pahatapāpmā hyeṣa brahma lokaḥ || 8.4.1 ||

So, in the śāstrā, there is always a convention - that is a mĩmāmsā convention - which is observed and noted in pũrva mĩmāmsa śāstram. And, what is that? Whenever the śāstrā prescribes a particular ritual or a particular upāsanā, several sections must glorify that ritual; and also, glorify the upāsya devatā. In fact, actual teaching will be one or two sentences only; but, the glorification will run into several sections. In sĩkṣāvallĩ we saw this. An upāsanā was mentioned. omkāra upāsanā. The upāsanā itself was prescribed in a short sentence "om iti brahma ". That is the upāsanā vākyam. But, all the lines following that were glorification.

omiti brahma I omitīda sarvam I omityetadanukrtirha sma vā apyo śrāvayetyāśrāvayanti I omiti sāmāni gāyanti I ośomiti śastrāni śasanti I omityadhvaryuh pratigaram pratigrnāti I omiti brahmā prasauti I omityagnihotramanujānāti I omiti brāhmaņah pravakṣyannāha brahmopāpnavānīti I brahmaivopāpnoti I [taittirīya sĩkṣāvallī - aṣṭama anuvākaḥ]

[I hope you remember!] Several mantrās. They were all, what? Glorification. But actual upāsanā vākyam - 'aitadātmyamida sarvaṃ'. What? Only three words. "oṃ iti brahma upāsīta". There also, upāsīta is left out. The convention is, glorification must be elaborate.

Here also, the actual upāsanā is only one sentence. "daharākāśe paramātmānam upāsīta". The teaching is over. But, the upaniṣad does not leave us. It goes on glorifying paramātmā, by various methods. One word, hṛdayam was used. In the last class we saw the word hṛdayam. Then, satyam word was used. And now, another word is introduced. For what? Glorification of paramātmā! And what is that word? The upaniṣad says, yaḥ ātmā this paramātmā, which is the topic of discussion, who is aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭaḥ. Then, hṛdaya nāma yuktaḥ, satya nāma yuktah, that paramātmā, atha ya ātmā sa setuḥ dhṛtiḥ eṣāṃ. setuḥ dhṛtiḥ - it is a setuḥ. setu means what? Embankment. In an agricultural land, when they have got crops and water, they will have mud bund. They call it bund or embankment etc., which will serve as a protection, so that the water will not violate the limit or border. The border embankment is called setu^h. The word setu^h has got another meaning, also. A bridge is also called setu^h. [We have got setu samudram issue continuing even now]. Here, we are not talking about a bridge connecting one bank and the other bank of the river; but, you have to imagine the farmland, where the mud embankment is there to protect water from violating the limits. And the upanişad says, bhagavān is like that bund, controlling the universe, so that, the universe will not violate any particular law governing the universe. So, the sun does not violate the law; the planets do not violate the laws of moving around & so on. Everything is functioning governed by 100s of laws. If any particular law is violated, everything will go haywire. So, naturally, the question will come, "we are only inventing the laws. Discovering the laws. We have neither created them nor are we protecting them. What is the protective force?", if you ask, the upanişad says, sa setu^h.

etasya vai akṣarasya praśāsane gārgi sūryācandramasau vidhṛtau tiṣṭhata etasya vā akṣarasya praśāsane gārgi dyāvāpṛthivyau vidhṛte tiṣṭhata etasya vā akṣarasya praśāsane gārgi nimeṣā muhūrtā ahorātrāṇyardhamāsā māsā ṛtavaḥ saṃvatsarā iti vidhṛtāstiṣṭhanty

- in bṛhadāraṇyaka gārgi brāhmaṇam [3.8.10], yājñavalkyā declares it - "if the rivers are flowing perfectly, if the season are moving perfectly, all are because of inviolable laws". And not just the physical laws, there are laws or moral values governing the health of the human society. There are moral and ethical values governing the human society. And that dharmā is also protected by the same paramātmā. "paritrāṇāya sādhūnāṃ vināśāya ca duṣkṛtām I dharmasaṃsthāpanārthāya sambhavāmi yuge yuge" - [gītā 4-8]. Those moral laws also are protected by the embankment called ĩśvarā. Therefore, ĩśvarā is called setuḥ. In muṇḍaka upaniṣad also, this word was used.

What is the role of this setu? vidhṛtiḥ eṣāṃ. dhṛtiḥ means what? Protecting everything, policing everything, in such a way that, nothing is violated. vidhṛtiḥ is, the upholder, the sustainer, of the universal laws. And why should bhagavān do that? eṣāṃ lokānām asambhedāya. sambhedaḥ means, chaos or confusion or disharmony. Mixing up is called sambhedaḥ. asambhedaḥ means, what? Opposite of disharmony. What is opposite of disharmony? Not, dis-dis-harmony, you should not say. You should remove the dis and say, harmony. Harmony is the opposite. Therefore, asambhedāya means, harmony, rhythm, balance, law. Dayānanda Swāmíjī loves the word order. Everything is in order. Logical order. Psychological order. Physiological order. Biochemical order. Physical order. Astronomical order. All the orders at the micro & macro level is called asambhedaḥ. And for the sake of that order, bhagavān functions as what? setuḥ or vidhṛtiḥ. asambhedāya setuḥ bhavati.

And what is the glory of this paramātmā? It says, eta setum - this paramātmā, the master controller, the master organiser, is beyond time. kālātītaḥ - infinite the Lord is. He mastered the time; but, He is not controlled by time. Therefore, ahorātre, ahaḥ means, day time; rātram means, night time. ahorātre means, day & night. Day & night represents kālā movement or change. eta setum na tarataḥ. naitam word is there. You have split it as na + itam. And, the na should be connected tarataḥ. na tarataḥ means, they do not approach paramātmā. So, kālā will attack all our bodies. Any doubt? kāla will attack everything. It will affect even our brain & memory power. Students start complaining, "Swāmĩjĩ, we do not remember all the taittirĩya 'oṃ iti brahma', sometime before only we studied. Now, all forgotten. Brain is affected. Memory is affected". kāla spreads over everything.

But, kālam does not go near one principle. And what is that? etām paramātmānam ahorātre na tarataḥ. [tarataḥ - tṛ dhātu parasmaipati, lat, prathama puruṣaḥ dvi vacanam]. They do not approach. Since bhagavān is kālātĩtaḥ, na jarā na mṛtyur na śoko na sukṛtaṃ na duṣkṛtam. na jarā - what a blessing?! Old age and degeneration does not approach paramātmā. na mṛtyuḥ - therefore, death does not approach paramātmā. Therefore, na śokaḥ. śokaḥ means, grief caused by separation; or, jarā - old age, disease etc. Such sorrow does not go to paramātmā! Then, na sukṛtaṃ - means, puṇyam does not go to paramātmā. 'anyatra dharmāt, anyatra adharmāt' - it is beyond both. With each one, you have to add the verb tarataḥ. na jarā tarati. You have to make it singular. Because, ahorātre being dual, tarataḥ. jarā, mṛtyuḥ etc being singular, you have to make the verb as na tarati. na tarati means, does not approach. na sukṛtaṃ - puṇyam does not approach. na duṣkṛtam - pāpam does not approach.

And therefore, sarve pāpmānaḥ ataḥ nivartante - all the karmās, pāpmā means, all the karmās, sañcitam, āgāmi, prārabdha - all of them, do not go to that paramātmā. So, ataḥ means, from this paramātmā, nivartante - stay away. Waiting for the order, whom we should catch! They will wait for the order; but, they will not afflict paramātmā. And therefore, the paramātmā is given a title. apahatapāpmā hyeṣa brahmalokaḥ - here the word lokaḥ means, caitanyam. So, eṣaḥ brahma lokaḥ means, this brahma caitanyam, apahata pāpmā - is free from all the pāpam. And therefore, what? Better you do upāsanā of this paramātmā. So what? You will get krama mukti. So what? You will merge into this paramātmā. So, this is another glorification.

Continuing.

तस्माद्वा एत ्ँसेतुं तीर्त्वान्धः सन्ननन्धो भवति विद्धः सन्नविद्धो भवत्युपतापी सन्ननुपतापी भवति तस्माद्वा एत ्ँसेतुं तीर्त्वापि नक्तमहरेवाभिनिष्पद्यते सकृद्विभातो ह्येवैष ब्रह्मलोकः ॥

tasmādvā eta setum tīrtvāndhahsann anandho bhavati viddhah sann aviddho bhavaty upatāpī sannanupatāpī bhavati tasmādvā eta setum tīrtvāpi naktamaharevābhinispadyate sakrdvibhāto hyevaisa brahmalokah # 8.4.2

So, since paramātmā is free from all these, ahorātram, jarā, mṛtyu, sukṛtaṃ, duṣkṛtam etc whoever has become one with that paramātmā - by claiming 'aham brahma asmi' - that person also can claim, "I am free from all these problems!" So therefore, the upaniṣad says, tasmād - therefore, eta * setuṃ tĩrtva. tĩrtva means, after reaching this paramātmā, after attaining this paramātma aikyam. And how do you get paramātma aikyam? 'aham paramātmā asmi' - iti jñānena paramātma aikyam. And this aikyam can be attained in two ways. One is, by entering vedāntā in this janmā itself, we can gain the aikyam, now itself.

Or, what is the alternative method? That is the topic here. One can do upāsanā, go to brahma lokā, gain knowledge and thereafter aikyam. Thus, krama mukti rűpeṇavā, sadhyo mukti rűpeṇavā - by either of these two methods, setuṃ tĩrtva - after becoming one with that paramātmā, what does that jñāni do? andhaḥ sannanandhaḥ bhavati - even if He is physically blind, andhaḥ sann, [just an imaginary condition. The sense organs are not functioning because of some disease of old age], this jñāni will claim what? 'I am not andhaḥ. Who said, 'I am blind?' I am only the ātmā, the sākṣi, which is the illuminator of the blindness of anātmā; but, 'I' am not blind. Therefore, even while being physically blind, anandhaḥ bhavati - He becomes non-blind. In the bhagavad gĩtā we have, "paśyañ śṛṇvan spṛśañ jighran naiva kiñcit karomi" While doing He claims, He does not do. Here, He is blind; but, He says, He is not blind! Similarly, viddhaḥ sann - one who is wounded in the body, [blood may be coming. And you ask this person, 'are you wounded?' What will he say? 'no, no, mo. "'I' am un-woundable; because, 'I' am paramātmā, the sākṣi!" Therefore, aviddhaḥ bhavaty. More in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते I पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते I ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

40. Chapter 8.4.2 & 8.4.3 and 8.5.1 to 8.5.3

तस्माद्वा एत्ँ सेतुं तीर्त्वान्धः सन्ननन्धो भवति विद्धः सन्नविद्धो भवत्युपतापी सन्ननुपतापी भवति तस्माद्वा एत ँसेतुं तीर्त्वापि नक्तमहरेवाभिनिष्पद्यते सकृद्विभातो ह्येवैष ब्रह्मलोकः ॥

tasmādvā eta šetum tīrtvāndhaḥsann anandho bhavati viddhaḥ sann aviddho bhavaty upatāpī sannanupatāpī bhavati tasmādvā eta šetum tīrtvāpi naktamaharevābhiniṣpadyate sakrdvibhāto hyevaiṣa brahmalokaḥ 8.4.2

In this 8th chapter of chāndogya, we get saguņa paramātma upāsanā in the first six sections. And thereafter, nirguņa paramātma jñānam will be revealed. And saguņa paramātmā - otherwise called īśvarā, is meditated upon as daharākāśaḥ, the limited, finite space within the heart. And the result of this upāsanā is that, this upāsakā will go to brahma lokā; and there, He will get extra-ordinary powers, which are very, very close to īśvarā's powers themselves! And having enjoyed those extraordinary glories in brahma lokā, He will attain nirguņa jñānam, there itself. And as a result of that knowledge, he [or she - that also we should add!] or she will enjoy jīvan mukti through that knowledge. And finally, get videha mukti also. And since the saguņa upāsanā here will lead to mukti through brahma lokā, it is called krama mukti phalam.

And the upanişad is talking about the glory of paramātmā, as well as the glory of the benefit that this upāsakā will get. And there, we are seeing the fourth section. In that, in the first mantrā, paramātmā was presented as setuḥ. setuḥ means, a protective guard like thing. We saw in the last class, that just as a bund, made out of mud, is used in the fields to protect the water within the field, so that the water will not go beyond that particular area. Similarly, the whole universe has got dharmā waters, protecting the universe. This dharma, the universal harmony, the universal order, the moral laws - which are sustaining the world, they must be protected by the īśvarā only. Thus, īśvarā is sṛṣṭi kāraṇam. īśvarā is sthiti kāraṇam and īśvarā is laya kāraṇam. But, we are taking the middle one. īśvarā as sthiti kāraṇam. And bhagavān protects the world only by protecting dharma, by the law of karmā. And since bhagavān is the protector, He is called setuḥ.

And this bhagavān, the setu - "śāśvata dharma goptā" - what a beautiful word used in bhagavad gĩtā 11th chapter! goptā means, protector; dharma means, the harmony, the rhythm, the moral order of the universe. śāśvatam means, eternal. The eternal order of the universe is protected ĩśvarā! Therefore śāśvata dharma goptā of the bhagavad gĩtā is here presented as setuḥ, the vikṛtiḥ. vikṛtiḥ means the upholder.

Thereafter, the upaniṣad pointed out in the same mantrā itself, since the Lord is the protector of the eternal dharma, the Lord Himself has to be a eternal; and therefore, bhagavān is not conditioned by deśa & kāla. deśa kāla atītaḥ īśvaraḥ. And therefore, bhagavān does not have janma jarā mṛtyu etc. And bhagavān does not have puṇyam pāpam etc. puṇyam pāpam are all possible only for one who has got birth, kartṛtvam etc. In fact, ignorance is the basic condition for acquiring puṇya pāpam; and therefore, it was said, na jarā na mṛtyur na śoko na sukṛtaṃ na duṣkṛtam sarve pāpmānaḥ ataḥ nivartante apahatapāpmā - bhagavān is sarva pāpa atītaḥ. And having said this much in the first mantrā, in the second mantrā, the upaniṣad says that, it is this paramātmā the upāsakā merges into, as a result of upāsanā & through krama mukti. [Careful, not directly]. Through mere upāsanā, merger is not possible. Through upāsanā, first brahma lokā and jñānam; through krama mukti, jīvātma paramātma aikyam is attained.

And once this aikyam is attained, we can say, jĩvātmā is also free from puṇyam pāpam deśa kāla jarā mṛtyu etc. As we read in nirvāṇa ṣaṭkam, "na puṇyam na pāpam na saukhyam na duḥkham na mantro na tīrtham na vedā na yagñāḥ aham bhojanam naiva bhojyam na bhoktā cidānanda rūpaḥ śivohaṃ śivohaṃ". Thus, in this second mantrā, the upaniṣad says, upāsakā also will get all the features of paramātmā. And that is said here. Look at the mantrā.

tasmādvā - therefore, since paramātmā is deśa kāla atītaḥ - therefore, eta setum tīrtvā. Here, the word tīrtvā means, having merged into, having reached, having become one. aikyam prāpya. aikyam, with whom? eta setum. Here, the word setu refers to what? [Not the rāma setu, the controversial one; we are not discussing that. Okay, that is a different one]. Here, the word setuḥ refers to paramātmā. He Himself is called setuḥ - the protector of dharma. Therefore, setum tīrtvā means, paramātmānam prāpya. Having become one with paramātmā, this upāsakā, andhaḥ sann anandhaḥ bhavati - even if His body and sense organs have got several deficiencies, He is free from all those deficiencies; because, He has discovered His higher nature - which is, śarĩra traya atītaḥ. Just as a person who was blind in dream, after waking up, is no more blind; because, the blindness of the dream body and the dream world does not belong to the waker. Similarly, this upāsakā, even if there are deficiencies in the anātmā, He is untouched by that. So, andhaḥ sann - even if sense organs are deficient - [here referring to the eyes, blindness]; anandhaḥ bhavati - as ātmā, He is not blind. viddhaḥ sann - even when the physical body is afflicted by varieties of illnesses or diseases, [viddhaḥ - literally means, tormented, pierced, wounded etc], aviddhaḥ bhavati - He is not viddhaḥ - He transcends that. Similarly, upatāpĩ sann anupatāpĩ bhavati. upatāpaḥ means varieties of emotional pains. Emotional pains belong to ātmā or anātmā?! Fundamental question. Emotions belong to the mind. The mind is anātmā. The mind is mithyā. It has nothing to do with 'me' - the ātmā. Therefore, 'I' am not affected by that. upatāpĩ sann anupatāpĩ bhavati - means, even when undergoing pain at the psychological level, na upatāpĩ - He says, 'I' am not affected by any of them.

tasmādvā eta * setum tīrtvā - therefore, having attained this setu, [again the word setu means what? paramātmā] - having attained oneness with paramātmā, api naktam ahareva abhi niṣpadyate - he transcends both the relative light and relative darkness, and attains absolute light of CONSCIOUSNESS. So, relative light is opposed to darkness. Relative light means what? The regular light is opposed to darkness. How do you know? Because, the moment the light comes, darkness will go away. So, the local light can never illumine darkness. Why? The local light can never illumine darkness; because, where darkness is there, light is not there! And where light is there, darkness cannot be there! So, how will local light / relative light illumine darkness?

Naturally, the question will come, 'what is that light which illumines darkness? What is that light? caitanyam - CONSCIOUSNESS alone is the illuminator. Illuminator means what? Knower, experiencer of darkness. Thus, CONSCIOUSNESS is not opposed to darkness; and so, CONSCIOUSNESS is not a relative entity. Or, it transcends both darkness & light. Therefore, he says, having attained this ātmā, naktam api - even darkness is not darkness from the standpoint of ātmā. ātmā is unaffected by darkness. So, naktam api. naktam means, night. ahareva abhi niṣpadyate - becomes day. Just as sũrya bhagavān does not have night or day; ātmā also does not have either night or day. It transcends both.

sakṛdvibhātaḥ hyevaiṣa brahmalokaḥ - therefore CONSCIOUSNESS is sakṛdvibhātaḥ - ever effulgent, illuminating the relative light also. And when the light goes and darkness comes, that is also illumined by the CONSCIOUSNESS. Therefore, it is ever shining light, which illumines the arriving and departing light and darkness. So, sakṛdvibhātaḥ means, nitya prakāśa rũpaḥ. sakṛdvibhātaḥ is equal to nitya prakāśa caitanya rũpaḥ paramātmā. hyevaiṣa brahmalokaḥ. Here, the word brahmalokaḥ we should carefully note. brahmalokaḥ does not refer to brahmalokam, here. In this context, the word lokāḥ means, caitanyam. Therefore, brahmalokaḥ in this mantrā refers to brahma caitanyam, which is nitya prakāśam.

Continuing.

तद्य एवैतं ब्रह्मलोकं ब्रह्मचर्येणानुविन्दन्ति तेषामेवैष ब्रह्मलोकस्तेषा ्सर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति ॥

tadya eva etam brahma lokām brahmacaryena anuvindanti teṣām eva eṣa brahma lokāḥ teṣā ̈̈́ sarveṣu lokeṣu kāmacāro bhavati || 8.4.3 ||

So, this paramātmā or brahman, can be attained by two methods. 1] One is by the practise of saguņa upāsanā throughout the life and then going to brahma lokā; from there nirguņa jñānam and mukti. This is called upāsanā method or krama mukti method. 2] And the second method is, we practise saguņa upāsanā in this janma for some time; and thereafter, in this janma itself, we switch over to nirguņa jñānam by vedānta śravaņa, manana and nididhyāsana. And through jñānam one can get paramātma aikyam, here itself. Which is called what? sadhyomuktih. Thus, krama mukti mārgah and sadhyomukti mārgah. Both are there. One is upāsana mārgah. Another is jñāna mārgah. And scriptures talk about preparatory qualifications for both krama mukti and sadhyomukti. sādhāna catuṣṭaya sampatti is required for krama mukti also. sādhāna catuṣṭaya sampatti is required for sadhyo mukti also. Qualifications are thus common to both.

Where, then, is the difference? śravana, manana, nididhyāsanam can be postponed in krama mukti. Whereas, in jīvan mukti, śravana - manana - nididhyāsanam should be here and now; but, sādhāna catustayam is common to both. Not only sādhāna catustayam is compulsory, even various virtues mentioned in the gita [ch 16] - like, amānitvādi 20 virtues - abhayam sattva sam śuddhih jñānayogya vyavasthitih - ethical and moral values - are also common to krama mukti & sadhyo mukti. And among these preparatory disciplines, the upanisad wants to highlight one discipline. amānitvam, adambhitvam etc are there; but, here, the upanisad wants to highlight one sādhanā. That is, the sādhanā of brahmacaryam or celibacy. That brahmacaryam is going to be highlighted in this mantrā. And in the entire next section, brahmacarya sādhanā is highlighted. That is why in the 8th chapter of the gĩtā [8.11] - yadicchanto brahmacaryam caranti tatte padam sangrahena pravaksye - in the 8th chapter also, during the krama mukti context, kṛṣṇā highlighted brahmacarya sādhanā. Now you know what is the source for gîtā! Only from chāndogya astādyāyā, Lord krsnā has borrowed. Here it is very elaborately talked about. There Lord kṛṣṇā, casually mentioned that. Thus, brahmacarya mahimā is the topic now.

Now look at this mantrā. tad ya eva. eva - only those upāsakās. brahma lokām ānuvindanti - attains brahma lokā. Here also, the word brahma lokā means, brahma caitanyam, paramātma aikyam. How attained? Not directly. Through krama mukti, the upāsakās attains paramātma aikyam. By following what sādhanā? Several sādhanās are there. upāsanā is the mukhya sādhanā. That upāsanā is supported by an equally important sādhanā. What is that? brahmacaryeņa - by the observance of brahmacaryam. anuvindanti - they attain krama mukti.

And, teṣām eva eṣa brahma lokāḥ - only for those upāsakās - who follow upāsanā, reinforced with brahmacarya sādhanā - for them only, eṣa brahma lokāḥ. So this paramātma prāptiḥ, brahma caitanya prāptiḥ is only for the practitioners of upāsanā + brahmacaryam. And, teṣā, sarveṣu lokeṣu kāmacāraḥ bhavati - these upāsakās will attain the freedom to move everywhere also; because, they get siddhis in brahma lokā. Thus, not only they will get extraordinary powers in brahma lokā; but, later, through jñānam, they will attain mokṣā also. Thus, brahmacaryam is introduced in this concluding mantrā. And in the next section, the whole section is glorification of brahmacarya vṛtam, practised by the upāsakā for krama muktiḥ. So, with that mantrā, section 4 is over. Now, we enter section 5. What is the topic? brahmacarya prasaṃsā. prasaṃsā means what? Glorification, praise, highlighting of brahmacaryam. We will read mantrā-1.

Eighth Chapter - Section 5

अथ यद्यज्ञ इत्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तद्ब्रह्मचर्येण ह्येव यो ज्ञाता तं विन्दतेऽथ यदिष्टमित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तद्ब्रह्मचर्येण ह्येवेष्ट्वात्मानमनुविन्दते ॥ 8.5.1 ॥

atha yad yajña ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tadbrahmacaryeṇa hyeva yo jñātā taṃ vindate 'tha yadiṣṭamityācakṣate brahmacaryameva tadbrahmacaryeṇa hyeveṣṭvātmānamanuvindate II

So, to glorify brahmacarya, a methodology is used here. And that method is, all the other spiritual sādhanās are included in brahmacaryam. Thus, brahmacaryam itself = a yajña; is = upavāsa; is = maunam! All the other sādhanās that a person practises or, can practise, they are all equal to brahmacarya. It includes all the other sādhanās. But, this method will be used while glorifying some other sādhanā also. For example, in mahānārāyaṇa upaniṣad, tapas or austerity is glorified. And when austerity is glorified, the upaniṣad says –

rtam tapah satyam tapah śrutam tapah śāntam tapo damastapah śamastapo dānam tapo yajñam tapo bhūrbhuvah suvar brahma itad upāsvai tat tapah II

So, here it says, if you practise tapas, it is = rtam; is = satyam; is = śamaḥ; is = damaḥ. Thus, all the other disciplines are included in this one. And when it glorifies svādhyāyā and pravacana - in taittirĩya sĩkṣāvallī - it says, svādhyāya pravacana = all the others. But, we should be very careful. We should not take it literally and practise one and omit all the others. That is not the idea. In a particular context, either satyam is glorified or tapas is glorified or brahmacaryam is glorified. All disciplines are equally important; but, here, one is highlighted. For example, it is said in muṇḍaka upaniṣad [3.2.6] - satyameva jayate nānṛtaṃ satyena panthā vitato devayānaḥ - if you practise one satyam a person can go through śukla gati and krama mukti. So, follow satyam only.

Does it mean, brahmacaryam is not required? That is not the idea. All disciplines are equally important. But, here, brahmacaryam is highlighted. And, like a cartoon, whenever highlighting is done, exaggeration will be there. When they have cartoons in the newspapers and magazines, if a politician has got a slightly long nose, they will draw it as one mile long! It is just an exaggeration. Not that it is like that. Exaggeration - atiśayokti - is used. Similarly, it will be said, one brahmacarya itself will give everything. So, a few disciplines are taken here and the upaniṣad says, brahmacaryam = that discipline. And while equating brahmacaryam with all other sādhanās, upaniṣad is using a word play also, to show that brahmacaryam is equal to that. Thus, one and the same word will be split in different ways; and so, the meaning also will be given differently. So, we are going to get a series of word plays also. We will see how it is done. But, to enjoy the word play thoroughly, Sanskrit knowledge will be useful. So, you try to grasp that.

But, whether you understand or not, the essence of the whole section is what? brahmacaryam is a great sādhanā! The rest of the discussion is only just of academic importance. So, first yadyajña ity ācakṣate - that spiritual discipline, which is called yajñaḥ or yāgaḥ. yajñaḥ means what? A vedic ritual and that ritual is what? Really speaking, not the conventional ritual; but, the upaniṣad says, really speaking - yajña is nothing but, what? brahmacaryam. Following brahmacaryam itself is equivalent to performance of great yāgaḥ, yajñā. That means, whatever benefit all these yāgās and yajñās can give, that benefit, brahmacaryam itself is capable of giving - brahmacaryam eva tat.

Therefore what? brahmacaryena hi eva - by observing the brahmacarya vrtam, yah jñātā - this saguņa upāsakā. Here, jñātā refers to saguņa daharākāša upāsakā. tam vindate - attains that paramātmā. Of course, through krama mukti. So, the idea is what? Even if he does not practise all other supportive disciplines, just by following brahmacaryam as a support for upāsanā, he can attain the benefit of krama mukti. Therefore, brahmacaryam is equal to all the vedic yajñās. This is comparison number one. So, here, the wordplay, if you observe, yo jñātā is there. The one who is a upāsakā, following brahmacarya. There, the word yo jñātā, if you read it together, yo jñātā yo jñātā yo jñātā yajñaḥ, there, the play is, those two words in proximity will read like yajñaḥ.

Then the second one. atha yad iṣṭam ity ācakṣate. iṣṭam means, another type of vedic ritual. [It is derived from the root 'yad'. past passive participle iṣṭam] - it is another type of vedic ritual and that iṣṭam is also what? brahmacaryam eva tat - whatever benefit iṣṭam will give, the word iṣṭam you know where we saw ? In kaṭhopaniṣad and muṇḍaka upaniṣad [1.2.10] –

işţāpūrtam manyamānā variṣţham nānyacchreyo vedayante pramūḍhāḥ | nākasya pṛṣţhe te sukṛte'nubhūtvemam lokam hīnataram vā viśanti ||

- there the word iṣṭam came. is means yāgā. And, brahmacaryeṇa hyeveṣṭva - by the sheer practise of brahmacarya, the upāsakā is performing - indirectly - all these yāgās. And even if he does not perform those yāgās, the brahmacarya vṛtam will give all those benefits.

That is why in vānaprastha āśramā and sanyāsa āśramā, there are not many rituals. vānaprasthā also cannot do many rituals; because, he does not have the resources to perform; because, vānaprasthā lives where? What a big question?! vānaprasthā lives in the vanam. And therefore, he does not get ghee, he cannot procure materials, vānaprasthā cannot perform most of the sādhanās a gṛhasthā can do. And, similarly, a sanyāsi also, if He finds His purity is not complete, He also cannot perform most of the sādhanās. sanyāsi cannot perform rituals. Thus, in vānaprastha & sanyāsa āśramās, most of the conventional sādhanās are not available. Therefore, for them, those sādhanās are replaced by brahmacarya vṛtam. For vānaprasthā, brahmacaryam is important; because, he cannot perform most of the rituals. Therefore, that is compensated, by what? brahmacarya vṛtam. And so, by the sheer practise of brahmacarya, a brahmacāri, a vānaprastha and a sanyāsi compensate for the non performance of all the other vedic sādhanās.

He cannot do charity. Why? What a big question?! He himself lives by charity. He himself is lives on charity. So, yagñam is not possible. dānam is not possible. All of them are compensated by brahmacarya vṛtam. Therefore, tadbrahmacaryeṇa hyeveṣṭva - by doing the yāgās, indirectly through brahmacarya vṛtam, ātmānam anuvindate - the upāsakā attains paramātmā. [of course in the form of krama muktiḥ; you have to remember]. So what is the second equation? brahmacaryaḥ is yagñaḥ is number one. brahmacaryam is iṣṭam is the second comparison. Then, what is the third one? Hereafter, the word play will start.

अथ यत्सत्त्रायणमित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तद्ब्रह्मचर्येण ह्येव सत आत्मनस्त्राणं विन्दतेऽथ यन्मौनमित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तब्ब्रह्मचर्येण ह्येवात्मानमनुविद्य मनुते '॥

atha yatsattrāyaṇam ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad brahmacaryeṇa hyeva sata ātmana- strāṇaṃ vindate 'tha yan maunam ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad brahmacaryeṇa hyev-ātmānam anuvidya manute' || 8.5.2 ||

Here, another big basic ritual is taken for comparison. And that ritual is called sattrāyaņam. Combination of two words, sattram and ayanam. Put together, it is called sattrāyaņam. The word sattram indicates, it is a vedic ritual, involving several people. It is not a one yajamānā ritual; but, bahu yajamāna karmā is called sattram. That means, it must be a very big ritual. Like, atirudra mahārudra. If it is rudra ekādaśani [11 times chanting of rudram], you can manage to chant 11 times. But, when it comes to mahārudram, atirudram etc., it is 13200 or, something like that; or, 1 lac times etc. Naturally, we will require many priests.

Wherever many are required, it will become what? sattram. And when the ritual is performed for many days, minimum of one year continuously - eka saṃvatsara ātmakam karmā - for one year or more, then it is called ayanam. Therefore, sattrāyaṇam means, a vedic ritual which involves several people; and also one which involves more than 365 days of performance. Such a huge ritual is called sattrāyaṇam. Now a days, we do not do such yajñās at all. Where do people have the time? Now, the upaniṣad says, brahmacarya vṛtam is so great that, it is equal to the sattrāyaṇam ritual. yat sattrāyaṇam iti ācakṣate people call brahmacaryam eva, tad. Why? Because, by practising brahmacarya itself, the upāsakā will attain the benefit, which benefit the sattrāyaṇa karmā will give.

Now, the question is, what is the benefit received from sattrāyaņam. The upaniṣad splits the word differently, now. Here alone the word play. Previously, how did we split? sattram and ayanam we split. Now, in the second interpretation, the upaniṣad splits it as, sat+trāyaṇam. sat means brahman, the paramātmā. "sadeva somya idam agra āsīd ekamevādvitīyam" [in which upaniṣad this mantrā comes? sadeva somya idam agra āsīd]. In chāndogya upaniṣad. Which chapter? 6th chapter, called sat vidyā, which we studied. So, sat means paramātmā. trāyaṇam means, protection. Derived from the root trai - trayate - to protect. Therefore, sat trāyaṇam means, protection from paramātmā. And, this upāsakā, by practising brahmacaryam, he gets the benefit of sat trāyaṇam. And sat trāyaṇam how should you interpret? sataḥ brahmaṇaḥ trāyaṇam. Therefore, he says, brahmacaryeṇa hi eva sataḥ ātmanaḥ - from the paramātmā, [pañcamĩ vibhakti], from the Lord, trāṇam vindate. trāṇaṃ means, protection he gets. So, whatever be the benefit from sattrāyaṇam, that sattrāyaṇam he gets.

So, first sattrāyaṇam when we say, you should take the first meaning [a huge ritual]. 'He will get the sattrāyaṇam benefit', when we say, we have to take the second interpretation [protection from the Lord]. That is the fun of these words. Splitting the words differently. So, what is the third equation? brahmacaryam is equal to sattrāyaṇam ritual.

So far, three equations we have seen. Then what is the fourth one? atha yat maunam iti ācakṣate - maunam is another very important discipline, which is very, very difficult to practise. Especially, for a person who is talkative, who talks in sleep also! So, maunam is considered an important vṛtam. muneḥ bhāvaḥ maunam! And the upaniṣad says, brahmacaryam will give the same benefit that maunam will give. Therefore, yat maunam iti ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tat. And how will he get the benefit of maunam? While explaining this, the upaniṣad interprets the word maunam in a different way. That is again, word play. What is that? ātmānam anuvidya manute' - that maunam is manute iti maunam. Derived from the root 'man' - to do upāsanā or meditation. By practising brahmacarya vṛtam, this upāsakā gets the opportunity to practise maunam. What is maunam here? upāsanā or meditation. That maunam is 'Silence'. This [meditation] is also maunam. Therefore, both are equal. First maunam is what? 'Silence'. Second maunam means, meditation. Therefore, both of them are equal. So, brahmacaryeṇa - by brahmacarya vṛtam, the upāsakā ātmānam anuvidya - having understood the saguṇa ātmā, [ātmānam means, saguṇa paramātmānam] anuvidya manute. manute means, dhyānam karoti. Therefore, brahmacaryam is equal to mauna sādhanā. This is the 4th equation. 2 more are going to come in the next mantrā.

अथ यदनाशकायनमित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तदेष ह्यात्मा न नश्यति यं ब्रह्मचर्येणानुविन्दतेऽथ यदरण्यायन मित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तदरश्च ह वै ण्यश्चार्णवौ ब्रह्मलोके तृतीयस्यामितो दिवि तदैरं मदीय ्ँसरस्तदश्वत्थः सोमसवनस्तदपराजिता पूर्ब्रह्मणः प्रभुविमित ँ्हिरण्मयम् ॥

atha yad anāśakāyanam ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad eṣa hyātmā na naśyati yaṃ brahmacaryeṇānuvindate 'tha yad araṇyāyanam ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad araśca ha vai ṇyaścārṇavau brahmaloke tṛtīyasyām ito divi tadairaṃ madīya varas tad aśvatthaḥ somasavanas tad aparājitā pūr brahmaṇaḥ prabhuvimita vhiraṇmayam # 8.5.3 #

The fifth discipline with which brahmacaryam is equated is anāśa kāyanam. This word, anāśa kāyanam is split first in one particular way. And when it is so split, it will mean, upavāsa vṛtam. anāśa kāyanam is practising varieties of upavāsa. And in śāstrā, within upavāsa, many varieties are there; called, kṛcchram & cāndrāyaṇam. kṛcchram is a variety of upavāsa. And within that kṛcchram itself, there are many sub-divisions. But, what is common to all of them? upavāsa or fasting! Varieties of fasting. Similarly, cāndrāyaṇam is another type of upavāsa. There also sub-divisions. Thus, in the form of kṛcchram & cāndrāyaṇam varieties of upavāsās are prescribed.

For example, I will give you one particular case of cāndrāyaņa vṛtam. Just as the moon waxes and wanes, increases and decreases, along with the moon, we should also gradually increase & decrease the food intake. Suppose on an amāvāsyā day you are in total fasting and thereafter prathamā, dvitīyā etc, follow. And your total food capacity you have to divide into 15; because, 15 days to paurņamī. Suppose you can eat 15 dosais [I am imagining for the benefit of calculation. Do not try 15 or 16!] Suppose you can take, what you do? On amāvāsyā, no dosai. On prathamā, one. On dvitīya, two. On tṛtīya, three. Proportionately increase. And on paurņamī you take 15. Thereafter, again, reduce to 14, 13 etc. Proportionately decrease. This is called cāndrāyaņa upavāsa vṛtam. Like that, varieties of kṛcchram. Literally, kṛcchram means, giving deliberately discomfort to the body, as a form of austerity. Deliberately giving discomfort to the body, in a controlled manner, so that you do not hurt the body, permanently. Permanent hurt should not be caused; but, still you should undergo some physical pain. śarĩra pĩḍanam tapaḥ. The very definition of tapas is, śarĩra pĩḍanam

So, sleeping without fan or air condition. It is a discomfort. Either you practise it [or, the Corporation itself suggests, 'why cannot you practise?' I do not know whether it is on or not, everyday, one hour why cannot you practise tapas, instead of using inverter or generator!] You go through the discomfort, and see what will happen. Similarly, not eating. Similarly, not using chappal. Similarly, not using pillows. Those who take sabarimalai vrtam for 41 or 48 days, even they walk through the 40 km route, without chappal. It is śarĩra pĩḍanam. When it is forced by others, it is suffering; but, when I myself voluntarily, deliberately, willfully enforce that, it is called tapaḥ.

And kṛcchram is a form of tapas. And vedā wonders if we prescribe śarĩra pĩḍanam as tapaḥ, there may be many people who do not have sufficient health condition to practise this upavāsa. If someone has ulcer problem suppose, those people kṛcchra cāndrāyaṇa vṛtam they will get affected. Therefore, śāstrā says, if you cannot practise kṛcchram, then give dakṣiṇā to a brāhmaṇā. Because, giving money also is a pain. [Taking money is pleasure!] And that is why, in many rituals they will say, 'kṛcchrārtham tubhyam aham sampradatte'. 'I am giving this money in place of kṛcchram'. You will be wondering, why I have to give some money [10 rupees, 15 rupees] now & then?! It is for not practising kṛcchram. That, you are doing, in the form of dakṣiṇā. Anyway, anāśa kāyanam is a type of upavāsa. Details in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते ॥ ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

41. Chapter 8.5.3 & 8.5.4 and 8.6.1

अथ यदनाशकायनमित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तदेष ह्यात्मा न नश्यति यं ब्रह्मचर्येणानुविन्दतेऽथ यदरण्यायन मित्याचक्षते ब्रह्मचर्यमेव तदरश्च ह वै ण्यश्चार्णवौ ब्रह्मलोके तृतीयस्यामितो दिवि तदैरं मदीय ्सरस्तदश्वत्थः सोमसवनस्तदपराजिता पूर्ब्रह्मणः प्रभुविमित ाँ्हिरण्मयम् ॥

atha yad anāśakāyanam ityācakṣate brahmacaryam evatad eṣa hyātmāna naśyati yaṃ brahmacaryeṇānuvindate 'thayad araṇyāyanam ityācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad araśca ha vai ṇyaścārṇavau brahmaloke tṛtĩyasyām itodivi tadairaṃ madĩya saras tad aśvatthaḥ somasavanas tad aparājitā pũr brahmaṇaḥ prabhuvimita hiraṇmayam || 8.5.3 ||

In this 8th and final chapter of chāndogya we get two important topics. One is saguņa brahma upāsanā and the other is nirguņa brahma jñānam. And, this brahman is visualised in the space within the heart. And since it is small, the space within the heart is called dahara ākāśa. daharam means, alpam. ākāśā means, space. This alpa ākāśā within the heart is visualised as saguņam brahma; and later, it will be revealed as nirguņam brahma also. This daharākāša rūpa saguņa brahma upāsanā is talked about in the first six khaņda - the first six sections - of the 8th chapter. And from the 7th section onwards, the nirguņa brahma vicārā - in the form of avasthā traya viveka - we will get; which will be very, very similar to māņdũkya upaniṣad.

In this first daharākāśa upāsanā portion, we have come to section number 5. And in this particular section, the upaniṣad is talking about one of the supportive sādhanās used by daharākāśa upāsakā. The primary sādhanā is the upāsanā itself. That has been talked about. In this particular section, supportive sādhanā is talked about. I had said in the last class, many supportive sādhanās are there. Even the values mentioned in the bhagavad gĩtā, like amānitvam - they are also prescribed for saguņa upāsanā. And even sādhāna catuṣṭaya sampatti is prescribed as a supportive sādhanā. Along with all these supportive sādhanās, brahmacaryam also is one supportive sādhanā. That brahmacaryam is highlighted in the pañcama khaṇḍaḥ.

And the glory of brahmacaryam is given here by equating it to various other spiritual sādhanās. Previously we saw that yajña is nothing but brahmacaryam. Which means, whatever be the benefit one will attain through performing yajñās, the same benefit can be attained through brahmacarya. Similarly, atha yan maunam ity ācakṣate brahmacaryam eva tad. Thus, various sādhanās are equated to brahmacaryam, to glorify that. And we have entered into the third mantrā.

Here, two more sādhanās are mentioned as equal to brahmacaryam. The first one is called, anāśakāyanam - and I was explaining this word in the last class. The word anāśakāyanam will be interpreted in two different ways. I said, a word play will be done, and it will be shown that brahmacaryam will be equal to anāśakāyanam; because, brahmacaryam leads to anāśa kāyanam. So, in this word play, what is the first meaning of the word anāśakāyanam? Here we will split it as, na āśaka ayaṇam. a [an] + āśaka + ayaṇam. [āśaka or āśa is derived from the root aś - to eat. aśnāti. 9th conjugation. aśnāti aśnītaḥ aśnanti]. āśakam, means what? Eating. If āśakam means eating, anāśakam means what? Non-eating! That is, upavāsa vṛtam. And, in the last class I said, the scriptures talk about varieties of fasting, known by the name kṛcchram, cāndrāyaṇam etc. Within kṛcchram itself, several sub-divisions are there. Consuming milk alone for some days. Consuming water alone for some days. Consuming fruits alone for some days. Consuming for some days. Various degrees of fasting are there.

And ayanam means what? Commitment. parāyanatvam. So, anāśakāyanam means, upavāsa parāyanatvam. upavāsa parāyanatvam means, committed practise of upavāsa. Not on a particular day alone; but, systematically - like every pradošam, every ekādaš, every saṣṭh, etc. Even now, many people practise fortnightly upavāsa, weekly upavāsa, monthly upavāsa etc. [And some people say, "Swāmĩjĩ, daily I practise three times upavāsa; between breakfast & lunch; between lunch & evening snacks; and, between evening snacks & dinner. Those types are also there!] These varieties of upavāsa, regularly practised, is called anāśakāyanam. And the upaniṣad says, this upavāsa vṛtam is equivalent to brahmacaryam; because, brahmacaryam? The upaniṣad says, it gives anāśakāyanam! What is the benefit given by brahmacaryam? The upaniṣad says, it gives anāśakāyanam, by word play, you have to split it differently. And how do you split it?

Previously I said, a [an] + āśaka + ayaṇam. ['a' becomes 'an' due to sandhi rule]. an + āśaka + ayaṇam. Now, we split it as, a + nāśaka + ayaṇam. Previously āśakam means, eating we said. Now, we split as nāśakam. nāśakam means what? Destruction or mortality. And, anāśakam means what? Non-mortality. Non-mortality means what? Immortality! And ayaṇam means what? Attaining or reaching. And therefore, anāśakāyanam means, brahmacaryam will take a person to immortality [through krama mukti]. Therefore, an āśaka ayanam and a nāśaka ayanam are both one and the same. And that is what it is given here.

Look at this mantrā. eşa hyātmā na naśyati. So, when it says, na naśyati, we have come to the second splitting of the word anāśakāyanam. na naśyati means a + nāśakaḥ. And, yan. That immortal ātmā or saguņam brahma, brahmacaryeņa anuvindate - a person attains through brahmacaryam. Thus, brahmacaryam also is a nāśaka ayanam - A MEANS OF REACHING IMMORTALITY. Therefore, it is equal to an āśaka ayanam, which is, A FORM OF UPAVĀSA VŖTAM.

And then, the last & final discipline or sādhanā is taken. What is that? atha yad aranyāyanam ity ācaksate. aranyāyanam means aranya vāsah or vana vāsah or vānaprasthah. aranyāyanam = aranya vāsah = vana vāsah = vānaprasthā way of life. And why is it talked about? We have to note it. It is an aside point. In our tradition, broadly the spiritual sādhanās are divided into three. karma yogā, upāsana yogā & jñāna yogā. And depending upon the type of sādhanā, the scriptures talk about the appropriate infrastructure also. That appropriate infrastructure is called the āśramah. Thus, we have got a concept called varna āśramā dharma. There, the word āśramā means what? The lifestyle, the type of infrastructure one has should be conducive to the type of sādhanā. And vedā says, karma yogā goes with grhastha āśramā. Because, karma yogā requires what? Lot of accessories. Money is required. Materials are required. Manpower is very much required. Therefore, lot of possessions. In short PORT addition. Not, reduction. PORT addition is required. For what? karma yogā. Therefore, karma yogā is associated with what? grhasthāśramā infrastructure. Similarly, upāsana yogā is equated to vānaprastha āśramā infrastructure; because, in upāsana yogā, you do not require money, materials or man power. In fact, all men should go out; because, I have to practise upāsanā. No money, no possession, no gadgets, no people. So, upāsana yogā is connected with what? vānaprastha āśramā. And jñāna yogā is associated with sanyāsa āśramā. And brahmacarya āśramā is for learning the theory of yogā. Because, without learning the theory, you cannot practise them. brahmacarya āśramā is for learning. grhastha, vānaprastha and sanyāsa āśramās are for implementation. And here, saguna upāsanā is the subject matter. Therefore, what is the āśramā associated with that? vānaprastha āśramā. So, the upaniṣad says, araṇyāyanam - the vanaprastha aśrama ity acakşate. And this vrtam or sadhana is also equal to what? brahmacaryam eva tad. brahmacarya sādhanā is equivalent to vānaprastha āśramā.

Then, the question is, 'how do you say so?' That also the upaniṣad justifies. How? By another word play! The word araṇyāyanam is split in two different ways. How? In the first interpretation you take aranyam as one-word. ayanam as another word. aranyam meaning forest. ayanam means, what? Departure or stay. Stay in the forest. This is the well known, popular meaning. No difficulty.

The second interpretation is given here. Here, you split araṇyam itself into two. aram+nyam. ara+nya and these two words put together. What are the two words? ara and nya put together refers to brahmalokā. ara+nya is equal to brahmalokā. [How do you say so? I will explain, step by step]. So, araṇyāyanam means what? brahmaloka prāptiḥ. So, brahmacaryam is araṇyāyanam; because, it leads to araṇyāyanam! Thus, first time when you say brahmalokā is equal to araṇyāyanam, you should take meaning number one. And when you explain the reason - because brahmacaryam leads to araṇyāyanam - there, you should take meaning number two.

Now, the next question is, 'how do you say araṇyam is brahmalokā?' For that, the upaniṣad gives the explanation - 'because brahmalokam is an extraordinary place; and in that brahmalokā, there are two very vast oceans'. Very vast samudraḥ. arṇavaḥ means, samudraḥ. And one ocean in brahmalokā is called araḥ or ara. Another ocean in brahmalokā is called, what? nya. Therefore ara and nya refer to the two oceans of brahmalokā. Therefore, by extension, araṇyam will indicate what? ajahal lakṣaṇayā, [ajahal lakṣaṇayā if you remember it is okay; otherwise forget it]. By ajahal lakṣaṇayā [non-exclusive implication], araṇyam refers to brahmalokā.

And the upaniṣad says, not only brahmalokā has got these two oceans; but, there are so many other wonderful things. And various things are listed here. This brahmalokā alone is what vaiṣṇavās call as vaikuṇṭha. brahmalokā, of this particular section and also several other places, alone is the vaikuṇṭha lokā of vaiṣṇavās. And when they talk about brahmaloka prāpti and muktiḥ; or, when they talk about vaikuṇṭha prāpti and muktiḥ, it refers to what? Our krama muktiḥ. advaitins krama mukti is vaiṣṇavā's vaikuṇṭha loka prāptiḥ. So, we will join them also; no problem. But, we talk about jĩvan mukti, here and now, which is not there for vaiṣṇavās. Not there for the śaivās. They also have got a mukti, which is equal to our krama mukti. And their mukti they will call kailāsa loka prāptiḥ. Hence, kailāsa lokā, brahmalokā, vaikuṇṭha lokā - they are all synonymous. And by going there, people can attain what? krama muktiḥ.

Now, look at the description of brahmalokā. tad araḥ ca ha vai ṇyaḥ ca. tad means, what? tatra - so, in that lokā - in brahmalokā. araḥ ca. ņyaḥ ca. These are the two names. Of what? arṇavau. arṇavaḥ means, samudraḥ. And these two oceans are located where?

brahmaloke - in the brahmalokā. And where is this brahmalokā? tṛtĩyasyāmito divi. divi means, in the higher heavens. brahmalokā is in the higher heaven, which is the third plane of existence. brahmalokā is in the heaven, which is the third plane of existence. tṛtĩyasyām means, third plane.

And how do you say 'heaven is the third plane?' Because, bhuloka is ground floor or first floor?! [In that, there is a problem. Whether you are counting the ground floor as first floor or zero floor?!] So, the upanisad counts bhũlokā not as ground floor; but, as first floor. Then, bhuvar lokā is the second plane; and svarga lokā is in the third plane. And, in the svarga lokā itself, there are sub-divisions. What are the sub-divisions in svarga lokā? mahar lokā, jana lokā, tapo lokā, satya lokā. So, bhũḥ - bhuvaḥ - suvaḥ - mahaḥ are there. suvaḥ is also part of heaven. mahah is also part of heaven. janah is also part of heaven. tapah is also part of heaven. satya lokā is in the heaven's top most plane. That is called brahma lokah! So, brahma lokā is the highest in the third plane, called heaven. brahmalokā is the highest in the third plane, called the heaven. And in that brahmaloka, two oceans are there. itah divi tad airam madiya, sarah. Not only that. Just as in the bhuloka we have got wonderful drinks - pepsi, coke and all - similarly, in brahmalokā also, there are wonderful nectarised drinks, called airam madíyam. brahmalokā's pepsi or brahmalokā's coca cola is called airam madiyam. airam madiyam means, exciting, filling. Okay, do not take 'drinks' in any negative sense. That which gives extreme happiness, exhilarating. madiyam means, mada janakam. madaka means, joy. Such drinks, such nectar like airam madíyam are there. In what quantity? sarah. sarah means, a lake-full! You can take as much as you want; no money need be given. airam madīya sarah.

aśvatthaḥ soma savanaḥ - and there is another heavenly tree called aśvattha vṛkṣaḥ. Not local aśvattha; but, heavenly aśvattha is there. And that also gives a wonderful drink, called soma savanaḥ. somaḥ is the name of another nectar like drink. soma savanaḥ is adjective to aśvattha. The aśvattha vṛkṣa which is the producer, savanaḥ means, the producer of the soma.

And not only that, tad brahmaṇaḥ pũr. [The word aparājitā - I will explain later. We will take up the next word pũr brahmaṇaḥ]. pũḥ means puram or the world. The sṛṣṭi and brahmaṇaḥ pũḥ means, the city of brahma. brahma means what? Not, nirguṇam brahma. The hiraṇyagarbha brahman's lokā, the world, is that brahmalokā. And, prabhu vimitam - it is created by Brahmājĩ Himself, with all care, prabhuvimitam. prabhu means, hiraṇyagarbha; vimitam means, specially created; because, hiraṇyagarbha is going to reside there. Therefore, careful interior decoration, exterior decoration, all the curtains, all the chairs - all of them, brahma has carefully watched and constructed. How do you know? What do I know! This is the description given here, in the vedā! prabhu vimitam nirmitam. And halls are made up of what material? Is it local cheap plastic!? NO! hiraņmayam. hiraņmayam means what? All are gold, solid gold - , gold plated and all, solid gold, hiraņmayam that is the lokā.

And, which lokā is, aparājitā. aparājitā means, which can never be attained by any other people. aparaḥ means, what? anye janāḥ - other people. And ajitaḥ means, not won over or not acquired. So, apara ajitā means, not attained by the other people. Now, once you say, "other people", other than whom? Here, īśvara upāsakā is the topic. Therefore, 'other people' means, all others - other than īśvara upāsakās; those who do the upāsanā of local deities - they will not get. Those people who do vaidika karmās, they will not get. Only īśvara upāsakās will get, since it is specially meant for them! Like in big functions, first few rows are reserved. "Reserved", "Reserved" - they would have marked. Some will say, 'it is fully reserved'. Here, reserved for whom? daharākāśa upāsakā. And this specially reserved brahmacarya vṛtam is a means to attain brahmalokā, it is called araṇya ayanam. So, what is the essence of all these mantrās? brahmacarya vṛtam is a very great discipline, which goes along with upāsanā.

Continuing.

तद्य एवैतवरं च ण्यं चार्णवौ ब्रह्मलोके ब्रह्मचर्येणानुविन्दन्ति तेषामेवैष ब्रह्मलोकस्तेषा ्ँसर्वेषु लोकेषु कामचारो भवति ॥

tadya eva etāvaram ca nyam ca arņavau brahmaloke brahmacaryena anuvindanti tesām eva esa brahmalokāstesā (sarvesu lokesu kāmacāro bhavati || 8.5.4 ||

So, here, the phalam of this upāsanā and brahmacaryam together - is talked about. tat ye eva. And suppose there are saguņa upāsakās who practise dahara upāsanā as well as brahmacaryam - anuvindanti - they will attain. When? Not, now. Very careful. One has to practise this upāsanā throughout life. And remember, not only throughout the life, at the time of death also!

prayāṇakāle manasā'calena bhaktyā yukto yogabalena caiva | bhruvormadhye prāṇamāveśya samyak sa taṃ paraṃ puruṣamupaiti divyam ‖

[You know where this slokā comes? I did not chant it in tune, therefore I am not sure you know. It comes in the 8th chapter of the gĩtā V-10]. There, Lord kṛṣṇā says, krama mukti is not an easy joke. If you think it is easier than vedāntā, gĩtā gives you a warning. It is much more tougher; because, the upāsanā must be practised throughout. prayāṇakāle ca - even at the time of maraṇam, manasā acalena - you have to sit in padmāsanam! Now itself it is difficult; at the time of death you have to sit straight; and bhaktyā yukto yogabalena ca; and prāṇamāveśya - you have to take the prāṇa, bhruvormadhye āveśya samyak. And you have to make sure that the entire sũkṣma śarĩram goes out through the suṣumṇā nādi - through the middle of head; then, and then alone, krama mukti is possible. That means, one should have tremendous control over sense organs. Control over prāṇā. Control over the mind. Therefore, aṣtāńga yogā becomes extremely compulsory. For, which mukti? For krama mukti, aṣtāńga yogā is compulsory; because, we should master our prāṇā.

And here, the upaniṣad says, suppose a person does all these, ānuvindanti, then, after death, by traveling through śukla gati, he will go to brahmalokā. And what type of brahmalokā? araṃ ca ṇyaṃ ca arṇavau brahmaloke - so he goes to brahmalokā, in which brahmalokā, there are the two oceans of araḥ & ṇyaḥ - aram and nyam. And not only the two oceans, remember the gold palace as well as airaṃ madĩyam saraḥ, aśvatthaḥ, soma savanaḥ [at least for one day remember!] - all these wonderful things this person will attain. And not only that; elsewhere, what are all the siddhis that he will get is pointed out. And some of them were mentioned in the second khaṇḍa of this particular chapter itself [mantrās 8.2.1 to 10] - yaṃ yamantamabhikāmo bhavati yaṃ kāmaṃ kāmayate so'sya saṅkalpādeva samuttiṣṭhati tena sampanno mahīyate II

So, whatever he WILLS and wishes, will be available in his front. And therefore, sarveşu lokeşu. In fact, he can create a virtual world in front of him, for his own enjoyment. bhülokā can be replicated in brahmalokā, bhuvar lokā. And not only he can get the local drinks, he can get our drinks also there! So, sarveşu lokeşu - he can go to any lokā AT WILL. He can produce any lokā, AT WILL. kāmacāraḥ bhavati means, what? Free access to all the sense pleasures.

All these are very elaborately discussed in brahma sũtrā also. He can multiply his body also. Like, if two drinks are there and only one mouth is there, how to drink both?! Okay, two straws you can have! So, you can have several bodies and simultaneous enjoyment is possible! How several bodies are created - all these are discussed in brahma sũtrā. [We elaborately saw once upon a time!] So, kāmacāro bhavati - this is the phalam.

And in this context, śańkarācāryā - does an independent, very elaborate enquiry He does, and asks the question, "what is the nature of the world that the upāsakā creates for his enjoyment?" What is the nature of the world? Is that projected world? Is it a materialised world? Is it a material, bhautika prapañca; or, is it also mānasa prapañca? bhautika prapañcaḥ vā mānasa prapañcaḥ vā? He makes a big enquiry. And He says that, it is not bhautika prapañca. It is only a virtual world, which he can create out of his mind, and which will be available for him only. But, it will have sufficient reality for his enjoyment. It is like a deliberate hallucination. Normally, hallucination is not deliberate; it happens on its own. For the hallucinating people, that experience is what? They will never take it as a mental projection. They can very clearly experience that person outside; even, hear voices etc. Similarly, it is a virtual mānasa prapañcaḥ. Then, is not it like dream? śańkarācāryā says, the dream world is not will BORN; it is pārabdham born. Therefore, you have no choice. But, for the upāsakā, this world is not prarabdha born; but, it is a world which he can create and enjoy also. Thus, śańkarācāryā does an enquiry and establishes that.

We are now entering the next section. With the previous mantrā, the brahmacaryā section is over. Now, the sixth section is going to talk about the gati or the travel of the upāsakā. So, the traveler has been talked about. The destination - brahmalokā - has been talked about. Hereafter, we have to talk about what? The travel or the route by which he will go. That is going to be the final section of dahara upāsanā.

Continuing.

Eighth Chapter - Section 6

अथ या एता हृदयस्य नाड्यस्ताः पिङ्गलस्याणिम्नस्तिष्ठन्ति शुक्लस्य नीलस्य पीतस्य लोहितस्येत्यसौ वा आदित्यः पिङ्गल एष शुक्ल एष नील एष पीत एष लोहितः ॥

atha yā etā hṛdayasya nāḍyastāḥ piṅgalasyāṇimnastiṣṭhanti śuklasya nĩlasya pĩtasya lohitas- yetyasau vā ādityaḥ piṅgala eṣa śukla eṣa nĩla eṣa pĩta eṣa lohitaḥ ‖ 8.6.1 ‖

This particular portion is called nādī khaṇḍaḥ. The nādī khaṇḍaḥ is a section in the upaniṣad, which talks about various nādīs originating from the hṛdayam and we do not exactly know what the nādī is. Whether vedā refers to blood vessels or lymph vessels or nerve routes, it is not clear. But, it is talking about a physical part in the body, which is like a blood vessel. And from the hṛdayam several nādīs originate. And through some of these nādīs only, the upāsakā will depart and go out of the body. These hṛdaya nādi are discussed in several upaniṣads. In chāndogya this portion is discussed. In bṛhadāraṇyaka, there is another portion. In praśṇa upaniṣad, there is another portion. In different texts, these nādīs are discussed. And all these are analysed in brahma sũtrā and consolidated. This part of śāstrā is called, nādī khaṇḍaḥ. And really speaking, this topic will come only in the context of krama mukti of upāsakā.

Therefore, for those people who are interested in "aham brahma asmi" aikya jñānam and jĩvan mukti here itself, this nāḍĩ khaṇḍa topic is not relevant. So, it has got only an academic knowledge advantage. Therefore, we will just read this portion and academically understand what the śāstrā talks about this nāḍi.

The upaniṣad says, etā hṛdayasya nāḍyastāḥ. And śańkarācāryā says, the word hṛdayam refers to the physical heart which is on the left side of the body. Because there are some people who talk about a spiritual heart on the right side and a physical heart on the left side! And they say that, ĩśvarā is not located in the physical heart; but, only in the spiritual heart. Thus, some people claim; but, that view is not accepted by ādi śańkarācāryā. He does not talk about right side spiritual heart. He says, heart means, māmsa piṇḍaḥ. Clearly, 'māmsa' word He uses. There is a fleshy part. That is the heart on the left side of the body. Especially, on the chest part.

From that hṛdayam, several nādīs emerge. Several nādīs emerge. Since we do not know what exactly is the English translation, the safest translation of nādi is, what? nādi! Just write 'nādi'. Add double 'aa' so that you do not read it wrong! And the upaniṣad says, several nādīs are emerging. And within those nādīs, there are colourful fluids flowing. Within those nādīs, colourful fluids are flowing. Colourful means, what? Having different colours. Then, what are the different colours in those nādi fluids? [that fluid is called nādi rasaḥ] And these nādi rasā have got several colours. What are they? pingalasya śuklasya nĩlasya pĩtasya lohitasya - pĩtam means, yellow; lohitam means, red; pingala means, golden colour; śukla means, white. [All in this book itself. Word to word translation is available. That is why I am going quickly]. So nĩlam means, blue or dark. lohitam means, red. All of them, aṇimnaḥ tiṣṭhanti. āņimnah means, what? Minute flow. And why it is very minute? Because, nādīs themselves are extremely small.

So, within those nādīs, the subtle fluids are flowing. And that is why some people are wondering, 'whether it can be blood vessels?' Because, blood vessels cannot have different coloured fluids. Maximum red or dark red. But, here, yellow - blue - all such colours are mentioned. Therefore, some doctors are doing research to find out what might be the vessel? One doctor interviewed me and asked to study the nādī khaṇḍa. I did not have interest in the nādī khaṇḍa. Who wants krama mukti? But, that doctor wanted to study the śańkara bāṣyam of the all the nādī khaṇḍa portions, in various upaniṣads and in brahma sũtrā! I had to specially concentrate for the sake of that doctor. He is suspecting that it may be the lymph vessel; and he says, in the lymph vessels, there are varieties of coloured fluids flowing! Anyway, I do not know. Whatever be the nādī, in those nādīs, colourful fluids are flowing. And why do they have different colours?

Why do they have different colours? śańkarācāryā says, according to āyurveda śāstrā, they give their own reason. What is that reason? They say that, these nāḍi rasās are made up of mixing or mixing up of different fluids from the body, like vādam, pittam, kapam, blood etc. And when these different fluids mingle, then you get what? Different colours! Because, blood is what colour? Red. Bile or pittam is what colour? Yellow. kapam is white colour. And śańkarācāryā, based on āyurvedā, what mixture He says? [I do not want to go to the details. When a particular kind of mixing takes place, then the colour will be piṅgalam. When a different kind of mixing takes place, then the colour will be siklam; and so on. Like, the people mixing the paint for giving the appropriate shade. This is reason given by whom? The āyurvedā people.

But, the upaniṣad says that, there is another reason. And what is that? It says, ādityaḥ - the sũrya devatā - has got 7 colours. Known as, [we know, we have studied in the school!] - VIBGYOR - these seven colours are there in the white light. The sũrya raśmis, the rays of the sun, also have got these colours. And these rays of the sun, when they spread over the earth, when they spread over the people, these raśmis penetrate the nādīs also. 'But I do not see that', if you say, the śāstrā says, 'that is why I am telling you!' What is the purpose of śāstrā? What we cannot see, the śāstrā has to teach us. Therefore sũrya raśmis of 7 colours are spread over the nādīs. Of which people? All the people. And the upāsakā passes through the sũrya raśmi of those nādīs.

And then, the sũrya raśmi is not only within the nādīs, it goes outside also. And it goes up to what? The solar disc. Thus, sũrya raśmi is taken as a national highway which connects the hṛdayam and sũrya maṇḍalam. sũrya raśmi is a national highway which connects sũrya maṇḍala and hṛdayam. Outside the body, the sũrya raśmi is there. And inside the body, sũrya raśmi travels up to the hṛdayam. And what is the path through which it travels? Through the nādīs, the sũrya raśmi travels up to the hṛdayam.

Okay, why are you talking about all these? Because, the upāsakā, at the time of death, will start from hṛdayam, go through the nāḍi, along with the sũrya raśmi. And that sũrya raśmi we saw in muṇḍaka upaniṣad [1.2.5 & 6]. 'taṃ nayantyetāḥ sũryasya raśmayo yatra devānāṃ patireko'dhivāsaḥ'; and, 'ehyehĩti tamāhutayaḥ suvarcasaḥ sũryasya raśmibhir- yajamānaṃ vahanti'. Through this raśmi, the upāsakā will go to sũrya maṇḍalam. And from there, to brahmalokā. This is going to be the nāḍĩ khaṇḍa topic, which we have to see in this section. We will just see the details, in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

42. Chapter 8.6.1 to 8.6.5

अथ या एता हृदयस्य नाड्यस्ताः पिङ्गलस्याणिम्नस्तिष्ठन्ति शुक्लस्य नीलस्य पीतस्य लोहितस्येत्यसौ वा आदित्यः पिङ्गल एष शुक्ल एष नील एष पीत एष लोहितः ॥

atha yā etā hṛdayasya nāḍyastāḥ piṅgalasyāṇimnastiṣṭhanti śuklasya nīlasya pītasya lohitas- yety asau vā ādityaḥ piṅgala eṣa śukla eṣa nīla eṣa pīta eṣa lohitaḥ II 8.6.1II

In this 8th and final chapter of chāndogya we are getting dahara vidyā and this dahara vidyā is divided into two. dahara vidyā number one is taught in the first six sections. And dahara vidyā number two is taught in the next six sections; that is, from the 7th up to the 12th. The first dahara vidyā is saguņa paramātma upāsanam. The second dahara vidyā is nirguņa paramātma jñānam. First one is saguņa. The second one is nirguņa. The first one is upāsanam. The second one is jñānam. And this paramātma upāsanam and paramātma jñānam are called dahara vidyā; because, paramātmā is visualised as the tiny space obtaining within the heart. dahara ākāśa vidyā is shortened as dahara vidyā. And of these two types of dahara vidyā, we are now completing the first dahara vidyā, in section number six; in which, the upaniṣad is talking about the phalam of dahara vidyā one. That is, the phalam of saguņa paramātma upāsanam.

And the upaniṣad wants to point out that the phalam is, krama muktiḥ. And therefore, in this sixth section, the upaniṣad elaborately talks about the procedure of krama mukti. And, this portion alone is the basis for the entire 8th chapter of the bhagavad gĩtā. bhagavad gĩtā 8th chapter is based on these six sections. And according to the śāstrā, the saguṇa paramātma upāsakā has to practise the upāsanā throughout the life; and at the time of death also, he has to carefully practise this upāsanā. Which means, he will be aware of the time of death. Because of the upāsanā śakti, he will be sensitive enough to know the time of death. That is why he is able to practise the upāsanā at the time of death! Not only that, he withdraws the entire sũkṣma śarĩram, jñānendriyam, karmendriyam, prāṇā etc - all of them, to the hṛdayam. And from the hṛdayam, he is able to direct the prāṇā and sũkṣma śarĩram, through a special nāḍi - called suṣumṇā nāḍi.

Through the suṣumṇā nāḍi - which originates from the hṛdayam, which passes through the middle of our neck, which passes through the middle of our skull or head, and which opens up at the top of the skull - through that suṣumṇā nāḍi the jĩvā, the sũkṣma śarĩram, travels upwards. And this suṣumṇā nāḍi path is called, śukla gatiḥ. And the travel is through the śukla gati, and the jĩvā passes through. What jĩvā? upāsaka jĩvā. What about jñāni? jñāni passes through which nāḍi? jñāni never passes; he fails! So, jñāni never passes. We are talking about ajñāni upāsakā. He goes through the sũrya maṇḍalam. The śukla mārgā - starting from hṛdaya, going through the suṣumṇā nāḍi, he is supposed to reach the sũrya maṇḍalam.

And naturally, the question comes, "what is connecting the hṛdayam and the sũrya maṇḍalam, the solar disc?" The upaniṣad says, the sũryasya raśmayaḥ. The rays of the sun which originate from the sun, enters our head and enters the suṣumṇā nāḍi; not only the suṣumṇā nāḍi, through all the nāḍĩs, this sũrya raśmi enters; and it comes up to the hṛdayam. But, "How do we know that the solar rays are penetrating through the nāḍĩs of the hṛdayam?" The upaniṣad gives the logic. Because of that alone, within the nāḍi we are able to experience fluids of different colours. And all these different colours of fluids are in the nāḍi. The colouration came because of what?

According to the upaniṣad, the colouration is given by the viBgyor or the seven colours of the sũrya raśmi; because, they pass through the nādīs. Therefore, the upaniṣad says in mantrā one, hṛdayasya nādyaḥ tāḥ aṇimnastiṣṭhanti. aṇimnaḥ means, with a very, very subtle fluid. aṇimna rasena. And these subtle fluids, which go through the nādi, have got different colours. What are the colours? piṅgalena. piṅgalasyā should be converted into tritīyā. piṅgalena rasena. śuklena rasena. nĩlena rasena. pĩtena rasena. lohitena rasena. With all these colourful fluids, the nādi is filled up. Therefore, if you cut open the heart, [do not try; but, they say], if you cut open the heart you can see different coloured fluids. And I told you that, one doctor confirmed that we do see coloured fluids within the body. And how do these colours come? Medical people give different reasons. They say, it is due to different combination of vādam, pittam, kapam and raktam. raktam means, blood. Due to a combination of these, the colours come. That is the medical reason.

But, the upaniṣad gives a different reason. And, what is that? Not because of vādam, pittam, kapam and all; colours are because of sũrya raśmi praveśaḥ. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, asau vā ādityaḥ piṅgalaḥ. This āditya, the solar disc, with different rays has got piṅgalaḥ & all these colours. piṅgalaḥ means, golden yellow. śuklaḥ is white. nĩlaḥ is darkish blue. pĩtaḥ is, yellow. lohitaḥ is red. And all these colours are in the solar rays also; all these colours are in our nādīs also. From that, we come to know, there is national highway. upaniṣad is going to say that. A national highway connecting hṛdayam and sũrya maṇḍalam. What is that highway? We are going to get the highway description. We will read. तद्यथा महापथ आतत उभौ ग्रामौ गच्छतीमं चामुं चैवमेवैता आदित्यस्य रश्मय उभौ लोकौ गच्छन्तीमं चामुं चामुष्मादादित्यात्प्रतायन्ते ता आसु नाडीषु सृप्ता आभ्यो नाडीभ्यः प्रतायन्ते तेऽमुष्मिन्नादित्ये सृप्ताः ॥

tadyathā mahāpatha ātata ubhau grāmau gacchatīmam cāmum caivamevaitā ādityasya raśmaya ubhau lokau gacchantīmam cāmum cāmuṣmādādityātpratāyante tā āsu nādīṣu srptā ābhyo nādībhyaḥ pratāyante te'muṣminnāditye srptāḥ || 8.6.2 ||

Thus, the sũrya raśmi - the rays of the sun - serve as a highway, a big path. Like what? An example is given. tadyathā mahāpathah. mahāpathah means, mahāmārgah. mārgah means, a road. mahā mārgah means, a highway road. And ātatah means, which stretches to a very long distance. Like NH 47 and all. They say, some of them start from the northern tip of India and it comes up to Kanyākumārī. ātatah means, what? Stretching to a vast distance. Like, a big highway stretching to a vast distance. ubhau grāmau gacchati - connects two villages or two towns or two cities. One mārgah connects. And what are they? imam ca - the city that is close by; and also, amum ca - the city or town which is far away, these two towns are connected by this long stretch of highway. evam - in this manner. And one highway will have several lanes; similarly, raśmi also have got not one lane, multi-laned highway. Each raśmi is like a lane of the highway. Therefore, the upanisad says, evam eva - in the same manner, ādityasya raśmayah - the rays of the sun; ubhau lokau gacchanti - it is the biggest highway possible. Because, it is not connecting just two places on the earth; but, it is a highway connecting bhũ lokā and which lokā? The highest lokā - brahma lokā. These two lokās are connected. So, the upanisad says, ubhau lokau. bhū lokā brahma lokau gacchanti. They link or connect. And what are they? imam ca. imam ca means, this loka. And this loka means, what? bhu loka. Because, we are supposed to be in bhu loka! And amum ca - the farthest and highest loka, namely, brahmaloka, the seventh heaven.

And because of this reason, amuṣmād ādityāt pratāyante tā āsu nādīṣu sṛptā - so, those rays, tā = taḥ means, raśmayaḥ, those rays, which are the highway. amuṣmād ādityāt pratāyante - which proceed or originate from the solar disc. pratāyante means, originate. Proceed. Come forth. From where? ādityāt - from the sun. The sũrya lokā. tā = taḥ - those raśmi, āsu nādīṣu sṛptā - they pervade, they penetrate, they pass through. sṛptā means, what? Passing through. What passes through? The raśmi. And pass through, what? āsu nādīṣu - our own nādīs. That means, they enter our body. And it is not a one way traffic. The other way also the upaniṣad says. ābhyaḥ nādībhyaḥ pratāyante - similarly, the solar rays which come from the hṛdayam, through the nādīs, passing through or proceeding from the nādīs, the raśmi. te'muṣminn āditye sṛptāḥ - they pass through the sũrya maṇḍalam also. All the upāsakās are supposed to pass through the solar disc. That is why in īśāvāsya upaniṣad, for the upāsakā, there is a very famous prayer. [mantrā-15, 16] - hiraņmaye na pātreņa satyasyāpihitam mukham | tattvam pūṣann apāvṛṇu satya dharmāya dṛṣṭaye || pūṣann ekarṣe yama sūrya prājāpatya vyūha raśmīn samūha tejaḥ ... etc

The upāsakā prays to the Lord, 'let the solar disc open for me so that I can pass through and reach brahmalokā'. Therefore, te amuṣminn āditye sṛptāḥ. Means what? The road is ready. Hereafter, the upāsakā has to travel through the road. That is going to be given later.

Continuing.

तद्यत्रैतत्सुप्तः समस्त: सम्प्रसन्नः स्वप्नं न विजानात्यासु तदा नाडीषु सृप्तो भवति तं न कश्चन पाप्मा स्पृशति तेजसा हि तदा सम्पन्नो भवति ॥

tad yatraitat suptaḥ samastaḥ samprasannaḥ svapnaṃ na vijānāty āsu tadā nāḍīṣu sṛpto bhavati taṃ na kaścana pāpmā spṛśati tejasā hi tadā sampanno bhavati II 8.6.3 II

So, here, the upanişad says, the jīvā travels through these nādīs - not only at the time of death; but, regularly the jīvā goes up and comes down through the nādīs, during the transition from jāgrat avasthā to suṣupti avasthā; and again, suṣupti avasthā to jāgrat avasthā. During the jāgrat avasthā, the jīvā has come out of the heart, which heart is the residence of the jīvā. During suṣupti avasthā, the jīvā withdraws from the periphery of the body and resides/rests, where? The hṛdayam only! That is why, even though the body is alive, even though the ears are open, during suṣupti, we do not hear any sound. The golakams are very much there; but, they are all withdrawn. Where have they been withdrawn? To the hṛdayam. Similarly, the skin is very much open. Mosquito might be very much biting also; but, during suṣupti, we do not experience. What happens to the pramātā, the experiencer jīvā? The upaniṣad says, the jīvā has withdrawn from the periphery of the body. Through what route? Through the nādi. From the hṛdayam the nādi originate and spread all over the physical body. From the periphery of the body, the jīvā comes inwards. Through what? Through the nādīs. And comes to what? To the hṛdayam!

When the jĩvā contacts the external world, it is called jāgrat. But, when the sense organs are closed, external world is not contacted; and the jĩvā moves only through the nādīs - that experience is called svapna anubhava. The jĩvā is moving within the nādīs only - that experience is called svapna. This is all discussed in the ajātaśatru brāhmaņam of bṛhadāraṇyaka. [If we happen to see that one day!] In bṛhadāraṇyaka second chapter first section, ajātaśatru brāhmaņam, the three avasthās are differentiated. In jāgrat, jīvā is in the periphery, experiencing/contacting the external world. During svapna, the jīvā is moving in the nādīs within. And, during suṣupti, neither the jĩvā travels outward, nor the jĩvā remains in the nādīs; but, the jĩvā comes via the nādi and goes to hṛdayam. When the jĩvā is in the hṛdayam, there is neither jāgrat nor svapna. satā somya tadā sampanno bhavati svam apīto bhavati [6.8.1] - it has resolved in to the daharākāśa paramātmā. And therefore the upaniṣad says, the nādi travel is not at the time of death only. It regularly happens every day, when we change the avasthās.

Now, look at this mantrā. tad yatra - that being so, yatra - during the suṣupti avasthā, etat suptaḥ samastaḥ samprasannaḥ bhavati - this jĩvātmā has entered the sleep state. suptaḥ means, what? Entered the sleep state. And the sleep is also of two types. One is sleep with dream. And the sleep without dream. That dreamless sleep is indicated here by the word samastaḥ, samastaḥ means what? Totally in sleep. Partial sleep is, dream. They call it REM sleep. So, according to the doctors, they can understand whether you are dreaming or not, if they look at your eyeball. Otherwise, how do we know whether a sleeping person is in dream or is in dreamless sleep? They say, when there are dreams, the eyeball will be moving; and that too, violently. [If someone is sleeping besides you, you can check it out. I have not tried! Okay, there is nobody near!] Rapid eye movement. REM means, rapid eye movement. When the eye balls are moving rapidly, what does it mean? The jĩvā is still moving about in the nāḍi. He is not going inside. Previously, he was traveling all around. Now, he is continuing the travel; but, within the nāḍi. samastaḥ means what? Totally resolved. samyak astam gataḥ. And when there is neither jāgrat nor svapna, what is the condition of the jĩvā? samprasannaḥ.

And when this jĩvās goes to the total tranquility in deep sleep state, what does the jĩvā do? āsu tadā nādīšu - the jĩvā passes through these nādīs. srpto bhavati - means, passes through the nādīs. And hṛdaye viśrāmyati, [that is not said here. That we have supply]. After passing through the nādīs, the jĩvā, hṛdaya ākāśe avatiṣṭhate. Resides in hṛdaya ākāśa! And when the jĩvā is in that condition, [in the hṛdaya ākāšā, who is there? daharākāše, paramātmā is there! Therefore], jĩvātmā has merged into paramātmā. That is why his experience is advaita avasthā! And that is why, his experience is also total ānandā. During suṣupti, I am neither touched by puṇyam, nor touched by pāpam. What is the proof? puṇyam will give sukha anubhava. That is, sense pleasure anubhava. pāpam will give duḥkha anubhava. During suṣupti, there is neither sense pleasure nor are there pains. Therefore, all the puṇya pāpams are suspended during suṣupti. Then why does he wake up? Because, puṇya pāpam - the suspended puṇya pāpam - again whips up. Enough of rest. punaśca janmāntarakarmayogātsa eva jīvaḥ svapiti prabuddhaḥ - in kaivalya upaniṣad it is said, 'during suṣupti I am free from puṇyam and pāpam'.

Therefore, here the upanişad says, taṃ. taṃ means what? The suṣupta jĩvam, na kaścana pāpmā spṛśati - no trace of pāpam [and pāpam includes puṇyam also]. No trace of pāpam or no trace of puṇyam. He has transcended puṇya pāpam. In fact, suṣupti is temporary experience of mokṣā. We all have experienced advaita ānandā during suṣupti avasthā. And why does it happen? tadā at that time, tejasā hi tadā sampanno bhavati - the individuality of the jĩvātmā is over-powered by the paramātmā, into which, he has resolved. Like a melted iceberg has lost its individuality; because, a melted iceberg has become one with what? The ocean! In the ocean you cannot identify which part of the water is the iceberg-water! Can you see? You cannot identify. Similarly, tejasā. For the word tejas, commentators give different meanings. I do not want to give all the meanings. One we will take. Three are given, we will take one. tejas means, what? paramātma caitanyam, brahma caitanyema - by the macro caitanyam, the micro caitanyam is overpowered.

Macro micro & all is not there. Means, even the seeming division is resolved. Why? Because, the individuality is caused by an active mind. Since the mind itself is resolved, jĩvātmā is one with paramātmā. This is not in the case of upāsakās only. This brahma aikyam is for all the people. What happens to the upāsakā will be discussed later. But, here, the upaniṣad says, even non-upāsakās will experience this brahma aikyam, traveling through the nāḍi at the time of suṣupti. So, tadā [suṣupti kāle] tejasā sampanno bhavati. All these mantrās are analysed in brahma sũtrā also. In brahma sũtrā 3.2.7 this mantrā is analysed.

Continuing.

अथ यत्रैतदबलिमानं नीतो भवति तमभित आसीना आहुर्जानासि मां जानासि मामिति स यावदस्माच्छरीराद-नुत्क्रान्तो भवति तावज्जानाति ॥

atha yatraitad abalimānam nīto bhavati tam abhita āsīnā āhur jānāsi mām jānāsi mām iti sa yāvad asmāccharīrād anutkrānto bhavati tāvajjānāti || 8.6.4 ||

So, the upaniṣad wants to point out that these nāḍĩs are very much in use all the time. During suṣupti, I travel through these nāḍĩs and reach the heart. During svapna, I remain in those nāḍĩs and experience svapna. During jāgrat, I come out of my hṛdayam, through the nāḍĩs. Then, I do not go out; but, come to the peripheries of the nāḍĩs, to experience the world. Thus, in all the three avasthās, the jĩvā is associated with these nāḍĩs. Like the local roads, which are very much used; similarly, the nāḍĩs are used throughout one's life. Now, in this mantrā, the upaniṣad says, these nādīs are very much used at time of maraṇam also. So, avasthā traya kāle nādīs are used. maraṇa kāle nādīs are utilised. And when the upāsakās have to go to krama mukti, then also the nādīs are used. The upāsakā's fate will be discussed later. Here, the general utility is talked about. avasthā traya kāle is mentioned in the previous mantrā. maraṇa kālam is mentioned in this mantrā, when the jīvā will have to come out through these nādīs. And what is the indication of the arrival of death? The upaniṣad graphically describes the process of death.

atha. atha means, having used the body for 70, 80, 90, 100 years. yatra - at the time of death, etad abalimānaṃ nīto bhavati - this jĩvātmā gradually becomes weaker and weaker. All the dása indriyāṇi, gradually fade. Even around 50 years, listening through ears is little difficult. Seeing is also little difficult. Teeth will be shaking here and there. So, already there is a slowdown. They become weaker and weaker. And pañca prāṇās - prāṇa apāna vyāna [circulation] becomes weaker. Digestion is weaker. Excretion is weaker. The upaniṣad says, gradually they close down. abalimānaṃ means, what? Weakness. Even breathing itself becomes laboured. And as even this happens, people around also start calculating. 'How many days will he survive?' - they count. And so, they have to plan; because; they are busy with other activities. The death of this person is only one of the events! And therefore, they make a final visit. All this, the upaniṣad says.

tam abhitaḥ āsīnā - the relatives come from faraway places - America, Russia, Japan and all. All those places. And they are seated around. abhita āsīnā. What do they do? āhuḥ. They address us carefully. [I hope you are not getting frightened. Okay. Some people are afraid. Better we think of this and get out of it; because, every individual has to necessarily pass through this stage. Therefore, better we clearly discuss and get out of maraņo phobia!] This is a most natural event. Therefore, tam abhita āsīnā āhuḥ - they ask. What do they ask? jānāsi māṃ? - 'are you able to recognise me? I am your grandson - granddaughter - son in law - daughter in law. And when they ask the first time, he does not respond. Therefore, in a louder voice, jānāsi māṃ? Do you recognise me? They go near the ears and ask, 'are you able to recognise me?' Then he slightly opens the eyes, rāmanā? kṛṣṇanā? - they ask. One by one. iti.

And then, what happens? sa yāvad asmāt charīrād anutkrāntaḥ bhavati - as long as the jīvātmā has not left the body totally, utkrāntaḥ means, has switched the body. anutkrāntaḥ has not left the body. anutkrānto bhavati, tāvat - so long that jīvā is able to recognise at least to some extent; at least partially that jīvātmā is able to recognise. [All these are the descriptions of the general process of death. In fact, we do not require this to study krama mukti. For that, we should talk about upāsakā's death. But, before discussing upāsakā's death, the upaniṣad is generally discussing the death process of all the jĩvās, in general - whether he is an upāsakā or not. Therefore, these are all aside topics, not directly connected to our topic.

So tāvat - so long, jānāti - that jĩvā recognises the members of the family [and sometime recognition is there; but, is not able to express]. He struggles speak, the mouth moves; but, the sound does not come. Because, prāṇā is weaker. Then, what happens? The inevitable happens. What is that? mantrā number 5.

अथ यत्रैतदस्माच्छरीरादुत्क्रामत्यथैतैरेव रश्मिभिरूर्ध्वमाक्रमते स ओमिति वा होद्वा मीयते स यावत्क्षिप्येन्मन-स्तावदादित्यं गच्छत्येतद्वै खलु लोकद्वारं विदुषां प्रपदनं निरोधोऽविदुषाम् ॥

atha yatraitadasmāccharīrād utkrāmaty athaitaireva raśmibhir ūrdhvam ākramate sa omiti vā hodvā mīyate sa yāvat kṣipyen manas tāvad ādityaṃ gacchaty etadvai khalu lokadvāraṃ viduṣāṃ prapadanaṃ nirodho'viduṣām ‖ 8.6.5 ‖

This mantrā is analysed in brahma sũtrā 4.6.8. Those who attended brahma sũtrā classes, they can go through these portions. So, atha. atha means, thereafter. Thereafter means, what? Gradually, the prārabdha fades; and, prārabdha ends. At the time of the end of prārabdha, asmāt charīrād utkrāmaty - that jĩvā quits or goes out of the physical body. And this leaving the body, is also through the nādi alone. At the time of death, the jĩvātmā is supposed to come to the hṛdayam. Just as, when a person wants to quit a particular city, because there is a transfer of job and he wants to go to another place, he comes home, packs everything, and thereafter, he leaves. Similarly, at the time of death, all the jĩvās first come through the nādīs inside the heart. Heart is the launching pad; because, that is the residence.

After coming to the hṛdayam, [all these are very elaborately analysed in brahma sũtrā] - the jĩvā has to travel through any one of these nādīs. Because, from the hṛdayam, not just one road, several nādī highways are there! Highways also are of two types. National highway, and after that what? State highway is there. And ordinary roads are also there. Thus, from the hṛdayam, as many as 72 lac and odd nādīs are mentioned in praśņa upaniṣad. Of them, 101 nādīs are supposed to be prominent nādīs. And the jĩvātmā will leave through any one of these nādīs, according to the type of karmā. [So, all that we have to supply. Not said here]. So, yatra etad asmāt charīrād utkrāmaty - the jĩvā will go out through any one of the body through the nādīs, thereafter, the people sitting around, jānāsi mām?, jānāsi mām? when they ask, there is no response. The tenement is there; but, tenant has vacated!

You keep on ringing the bell, nobody opens the door. Why? Locked out! Thus, utkrāmaty - the jīvā leaves. Up to this, is the general condition of the entire humanity.

And hereafter, atha onwards, the upaniṣad talks about, the departure of the upāsakā. Up to utkrāmaty is the discussion of general death. atha etaiḥ eva onwards, is the discussion of the upāsakā. upāsaka does not leave the body through anyone of the nādīs. But, for him, the special nādī is there, which is called suṣumṇā nādī. taittirĩya upaniṣad śĩkṣāvallĩ [6.1] names the nādī as indrayoniḥ. "sa ya eṣo'ntarahṛdaya ākāśaḥ I tasminnayaṃ puruṣo manomayaḥ I amṛto hiraṇmayaḥ I antareṇa tāluke I ya eṣa stana ivāvalambate I sendrayoniḥ I" - that indrayoniḥ is the special name given to the suṣumṇā nādi, which passes through the middle of the neck, middle of the head and opens at the top. And in all these nādīs, what is there? sũrya raśmi is there. Therefore, in the suṣumṇā nādi also, the sũrya raśmi is there. And the upāsaka jĩvaḥ joins the sũrya raśmi. And through that, he leaves the body and goes through the śuklagati, which is connected to sũrya raśmi. sūryasya raśmibhiryajamānaṃ vahanti ... etc we saw in muṇḍaka upaniṣad [1.2.6]. All those mantrās we have to connect.

So, etaiḥ raśmibhiḥ - through the raśmi, which pass through suṣumṇā nāḍi, the jĩvātmā goes. ūrdhvam ākramate. Means what? Goes upwards. And what about other jĩvās? They go sidewards. Because, they have to be reborn in the bhũlokā. Or, some of them may go downwards also. Only, the upāsaka jĩvās will go upwards, towards the higher lokās. And, at that time, at the time of departure, what does he do? All the other people may be crying əhucun, əhun cuncocor! etc. But, this upāsakā has disciplined his mind throughout his life period.

tasmātsarveşu kāleşu mām anusmara yudhya ca [8.7] - Lord krṣṣṇā said. 'May you remember me throughout life, even when there are problems & crisis' - say, krṣṣṇā, rāmā, govindā! Even when you cry, utter only the bhagavan nāmā, rather than, any other negative words. If thoughts & words have been disciplined, then, at the time of death also - antakāle ca mām eva smaran. All those things are based on what? These mantrās only. krṣṣṇā has borrowed from the dahara vidyā only. Therefore, sa omiti - he utters om. krṣṣṇā also said [8.13] 'om ity ekākṣaraṃ brahma vyāharan mām anusmaran yaḥ prayāti tyajandehaṃ sa yāti paramāṃ gatim'. How will I do that at the time of death? Because of long practise & ońkāra vāsanā. So, sa omiti vā hodvā mīyate. There, the word must be split properly. hodvā is there, which has to be split as, ha+ud+vā and ud is a prefix to be connected with mĩyate. You have pluck the ud and you have to connect the verb mĩyate. ud mĩyate means, what? udgacchati - goes upwards, through śukla gati. Uttering ońkārā he dies.

And where does he go? The upaniṣad says, sa yāvat kṣipyen manaḥ - as soon as he throws the mind out of the body, he pushes the sũkṣma śarĩram out of the body, [what body? sthũla śarĩram. Because death is nothing but what? Separation of sũkṣma śarĩram from the sthũla śarĩram is maraṇam] - so, as soon as he pushes the sũkṣma śarĩram out of the sthũla śarĩram, instantaneously, very fast, he goes to āditya maṇḍalam; because, the travel is not our local travel in India, in local roads - with lot of traffic jam, slow moving & all. No. For each upāsakā, one-one freeway is there. Therefore, within moments, the jĩvā reaches sũrya maṇḍalam. The upaniṣad says, sa yāvat kṣipyen manaḥ. kṣipyat means, what? Throwing-out the mind, out of the body. tāvad ādityaṃ gacchaty - instantaneously, to the āditya maṇḍala the upāsaka jĩvā goes. yetadvai khalu loka dvāraṃ. The solar disc is supposed to be the gateway to brahmalokā.

So, just as when locally outside the City we have toll-gates, speed breakers and toll payment etc., same way, the āditya maņḍala is like the tollgate, through which he has to pass through, where he has to give the upāsanā certificate! If it is shown, bhagavān says, 'okay you are allowed to go to brahmalokā!' Do not ask, 'Swāmĩjĩ, have you seen it? You are talking as if you have seen it!' I am only imagining. The upaniṣad says, he passes through. prapadanaṃ means, gateway. To reach another lokā. lokā here means what? brahma lokasya dvāraṃ bhavati. Then, what happens? In next class we will see.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

43. Chapter 8.6.5 & 8.6.6 and 8.7.1 & 8.7.2

अथ यत्रैतदस्माच्छरीरादुत्क्रामत्यथैतैरेव रश्मिभिरूर्ध्वमाक्रमते स ओमिति वा होद्वा मीयते स यावत्क्षिप्येन्मन-स्तावदादित्यं गच्छत्येतद्वै खलु लोकद्वारं विदुषां प्रपदनं निरोधोऽविदुषाम् ॥

atha yatraitadasmāccharīrād utkrāmaty athaitaireva raśmibhir ūrdhvam ākramate sa omiti vā hodvā mīyate sa yāvat kṣipyen manas tāvad ādityāṃ gacchati etadvai khalu lokadvāraṃ viduṣāṃ prapadanaṃ nirodho'viduṣām ‖ 8.6.5 ‖

We are seeing the topic of krama mukti of the upāsakā. And as part of this, the upaniṣad is generally discussing the process of death and the journey of the jĩvā thereafter. One may wonder how come these are known? That too in such detail? For that our answer is, there are so many things in the CREATION which are beyond the instruments of knowledge at our disposal. Like, puṇyam, pāpam, para lokaḥ, punar janmam, mukti, ĩśvaraḥ - are all things which our instruments cannot recognise. In Sanskrit, we call them, apauruṣeya viṣayaḥ. So, how to gain that apauruṣeya viṣaya knowledge? You have to go to veda pramāṇam, śāstra pramāṇam. And only for those who accept this pramāṇam it is a fact and knowledge. And for those who do not accept śāstra pramāṇam, this becomes what? A belief or superstition. But one thing we can know. All these from the śāstram only; and therefore, only what the śāstrā says, we were seeing.

yatraitadasmāccharīrād utkrāmaty - the sũkṣma śarīram leaves the physical body, athaitaireva raśmibhiḥ - through the solar rays, which are already in the different nādīs. And in the case of non upāsakās, the jĩvā will leave this body through some nādi or the other, not this suṣumṇā nādi. suṣumṇā nādi is reserved for only the upāsakās. For the non-upāsakās, non-suṣumṇā nādi alone will be available; and through that, they go to appropriate lokās. Whereas, in the case of upāsakā, saḥ omiti vā. So, there the word saḥ, refers to the upāsakā. Up to ūrdhvamākramate is general jĩvā. But, from the word saḥ onwards, the upāsakā is talked about. He utters the word ம oṃ; not, அப்பா, அம்மா, அய்யோ! etc. Without saying all that, he utters the word ம oṃ, and withdraws himself. And mĩyate. mĩyate means gacchati, he travels through the śukla gati.

And how much time it takes? There is no traffic jam or any speed breaker. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, yāvat kṣipyet manaḥ tāvad ādityāṃ gacchati - manas kṣipyet means, a flash of thought. manasaḥ kṣipyet means, what? By the moment a thought flashes in the mind! How much time it will take? Even for blinking of the eye, some time it may take; but, for a flash of thought, it will only take a trice. Within that duration, how fast must be the travel? yāvatā kālena manaḥ kṣipyate, tāvad, athi alpa kālena - within the fraction of a second. Like they say, between the gold medal and silver medal winners, the time gap was .01 second, which our eyes can never register. Only those machines which have been kept, they alone can differentiate between 8.01 seconds and 8.02 seconds. It is 1/100th of a second. Here, you can take like that. yāvat kṣipyen manaḥ means, within 1/100th or 1/1000th of a second, the jĩvā has travelled and reached the ādityā.

Even for the rays of the sun to reach the earth, you know, how much time it takes? 8.33 minutes or so. For the sun-rays to start from the sun and reach the earth, it takes more than 8 minutes. But, for the jĩvā, it takes much less than that. So, how fast it must be?! Einstein will not accept; because, according to Einstein, 'nothing can travel faster than light'. But, according to śāstrā, jĩvā travels faster! tāvat ādityāṃ gacchati. tāvat means, what? Within the trice of a second, ādityāṃ gacchati. Who? The daharākāśa upāsakaḥ. Up to this we saw in the last class.

And, what is the role of this ādityā, the sun? The upaniṣād says, etadvai khalu lokadvāraṃ - the sun or the sũrya maṇḍalam is the gateway to the brahma lokā. dvāraṃ means, gateway. And lokā here means, brahma lokā. etad dvāraṃ means, the sũrya maṇḍalam is the brahmalokā's gateway. And this sũrya maṇḍalam or the sun, plays twofold roles. Like, a ticket examiner, who will be waiting in the gate asking for the ticket. He will do two jobs. If a person has a ticket, what will he do? He will allow. So, giving permission is also done by that person. And if another person comes without a ticket, the very same person stops also. So, both permitter and stopper, both of them are the same person. Similarly, the upaniṣad says, ādityā does both these jobs. ādityā is the TTE! What does He do? viduṣāṃ prapadanaṃ. viduṣāṃ means, upāsakānām. daharākāśa upāsakānām, the ādityaḥ becomes prapadanaṃ. prapadanaṃ means, what? Gate-way or entry. prapadanaṃ means, entrance gate. In toll-gate also, you will find, if you pay he will open it. Otherwise, not. Like that, prapadanaṃ bhavati sũryaḥ opens the gate way.

But, what about others? If somebody else quietly tries to sneak through - they do that during the vaikuṇṭha ekādaśi, they try to enter svarga vāsal. When somebody else tries to sneak through, what does ādityā do? nirodho'viduṣām. aviduṣām means, for the non-upāsakās. The very same sũryā becomes a blocker, an obstructer, a stopper. nirodhaḥ means, a stopping gate. And where does he stop? śańkarācāryā in His commentary gives those details also. He will not be stopped at the level of the sun; from the hṛdaya itself, when he is trying to enter the suṣumṇā nāḍi, at that place itself! It is like - you have to imagine, hṛdayam is like this hall, imagine. And each gate is like a nāḍi. You can go out of this hall through this gate or that gate or that. Similarly, jĩvā will look for the opening of the appropriate gate. Which is determined by what? The karmā. And then, for the upāsakā, the suṣumṇā nāḍi gate within the hṛdayam, will automatically open. Otherwise, sũrya tejaḥ will shut that door. The non-upāsakā jĩvā will go there, and since it is shut, he has to go in search of some other gateway. How do you know? All śāstra pramāṇam only. In brahma sũtrā also, these are all discussed, nicely.

Continuing.

तदेष श्लोकः । शतं चैका च हृदयस्य नाड्यस्तासां मूर्धानमभिनिःसृतैका । तयोर्ध्वमायन्नमृतत्वमेति विष्वङ्ङन्या उत्क्रमणे भवन्त्युत्क्रमणे भवन्ति ॥

tadeșa ślokaḥ I śataṃ caikā ca hṛdayasya nāḍyaḥ tāsāṃ mūrdhānamabhiniḥsṛtaikā | tayordhvamāyannamṛtatvameti viṣvańńanyā utkramaṇe bhavanty utkramaṇe bhavanti || 8.6.6 ||

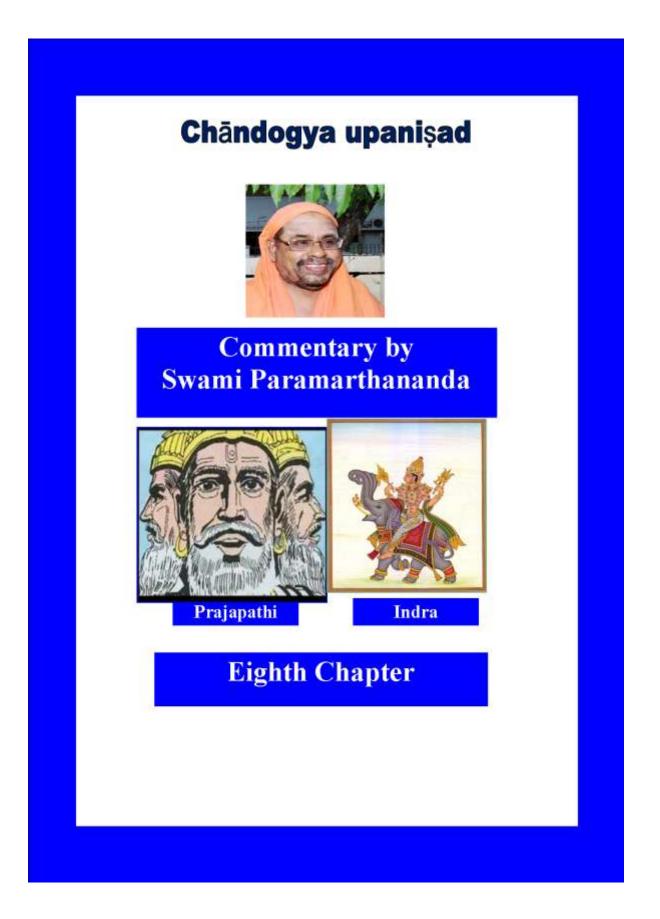

So, tadeşa ślokah. With regard to this departure of the jĩvā, there is a rơ veda mantrā, belonging to the samhitā bhāga or mantra bhāga. So, I had told some time before, vedā is divided into mantrā portion, brāhmaņā portion, āraņyakā portion and upanişad portion. brāhmaņā portion of the vedās are considered to be the commentary on the mantrā portion of the vedās. mantrā portion is otherwise called samhitā bhāgah; and we have got some upanişads belonging to the samhitā portion of the vedā; which is called samhitopanişad. We have got certain brāhmaņa upanişads, also. brāhmaņa upanişads are considered to be commentaries upon the samhitopanişad or mantropanişad. brhadāraņyakā is brāhmaņa upanişad. ĩśāvāsyā is a mantropanişad. brhadāraņyaka is supposed to be an expansion of ĩśāvāsyam. Similarly, muņḍaka is a mantropanişad. praśna is a brāhmaņa upanişad. praśna is supposed to be an expansion of the vedā is, this brāhmaņā portion will quote the mantrā portion, drawing support. Similarly, chāndogya upanişad is a brāhmaņa upanişad and it is taking a mantrā in support of this teaching.

Therefore, tadeşa ślokaḥ. tat means, with regard to the departure of the jĩvā. eṣaḥ slokaḥ - the following rg mantrā is there. And this mantrā was quoted in kaṭhopaniṣad also. In the text book itself the kaṭhopaniṣad reference is given. 2.3.16. kaṭhopaniṣad. This mantrā has been quoted.

And what does this mantrā say? śataṃ caikā ca hṛdayasya nāḍyaḥ - from the hṛdayam 101 nāḍĩs originate, each one is an opening for the jĩvā to quit, at the time of death. śataṃ caikā ca, means 101. hṛdayasya nāḍyaḥ - there are nāḍĩs emerging from hṛdaya. And among those 101, tāsāṃ aika abhiniḥsṛta - one emerges, out of the body. How? mūrdhānam - through the middle of the skull - called, brahmarandhraḥ. Some people say, 'that is why in the middle of the skull we have got a centre part of the skull. That centre part is the place where the nāḍi opens. You cannot physically see. Do not try to shave off your hair and see whether some nāḍi comes and all! It is not visible; because, it is sũkṣma nāḍi. So, mūrdhānam abhi. mūrdhānam means, middle of the skull. abhiniḥsṛta - emerges out of the skull. And what is that nāḍi called? suṣumṇā nāḍi. And upāsakā, we have to supply. The upāsakā, ũrdhvam āyan. So, the jĩvā comes upwards, through the suṣumṇā nāḍi and brahmarandhra. The dahara upāsakā emerges out.

That is why, in the case of certain sanyāsis also, [when they want to dispose of the sanyāsi's body after death, they cannot cremate a sanyāsi's body. Because, cremation is a vedic ritual. sanyāsi has got out of the vedic rituals by giving up the sacred thread. Not only that. The final ritual has to be done by the relatives; and a sanyāsi does not have any relative to perform that ritual. Therefore, they have to dispose of the body by some method or the other. One method is burial. And at that time] what they do - in some places is, they break open the skull, to indicate krama mukti for an ajñāni sanyāsi. jñāni sanyāsi does not require krama mukti; because, He will get [akrama mukti! akrama mukti means, what?] jĩvan mukti. But, we do not know whether a particular sanyāsi is a jñāni or ajñāni. So, what do some śiṣyās do? That is an insult, really speaking. What do some śiṣyās do? Suppose the sanyāsi is an ajñāni sanyāsi, then he supposed to get krama mukti. And to indicate the krama mukti, they try to break open the skull. Really not required. But, it is a custom, in some āśramās. Anyway, what is the significance? The opening of suṣumṇā nāḍi.

So, tayā - the upāsakā [and, ajñāni sanyāsi], through that path ũrdhvam āyan coming out, amṛtatvameti - they attain krama mukti, [via brahmalokā. That we have to supply] By brahmalokā or through brahmalokā, they go and attain krama mukti. And what about, all others? viṣvańńanyā utkramaņe bhavantyutkramaņe bhavanti anyā. anyān means, all the other nādīs, other than the suṣumṇā nādi, they are the gateways for all the nonupāsakās and non-jñānis. For non-jñānis and non-upāsakās the other nādīs become the gateway. viṣvań utkramaņe - to travel in various directions. viṣvam means what? Multi directional journey. So viṣvam utkramaņe means, for traveling. bhavanti - they become the exit gate for these karmīs or others. And therefore, dahara upāsakā will get krama mukti. With this, the sixth mantrā is over. The sixth khaṇḍa is over. And the dahara upāsanā is also over. And, hereafter, we are going to enter what? nirguṇa paramātma jñānam. So, with this khaṇḍa, saguṇa paramātmā upāsanā is over. Hereafter, NIRGUŅA PARAMĀTMA JÑĀNAM is going to come. This is meant for what type of mukti ? jĩvan mukti here and now. That is from the 7th section up to the 12th section. 6 sections for saguṇa. 6 sections for nirguṇa. This is the development. With this background we will enter section 7.

Eighth Chapter - Section 7

य आत्मापहतपाप्मा विजरो विमृत्युर्विशोको विजिघत्सोऽपिपासः सत्यकामः सत्यसङ्कल्पः सोऽन्वेष्टव्यः स विजिज्ञासितव्यः स सर्वा ्श्व लोकानाप्नोति सर्वा ्श्व कामान्यस्तमात्मानमनुविद्य विजानातीति ह प्रजापतिरुवाच ॥

ya ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimrtyurviśoko vijighatso'pipāsaḥ satyakāmaḥ satyasańkalpaḥ so'nveṣṭavyaḥ sa vijijñāsitavyaḥ sa sarvāčśca lokānāpnoti sarvāčśca kāmān yastam ātmānam anuvidya vijānātĩti ha prajāpatir uvāca ‖ 8.7.1 ‖

So, since a new teaching is being begun here, the upaniṣad introduces a story bringing the guru and śiṣyā together. And, this teaching is going to be a dialogue between prajāpati or brahmājī the creator; and śiṣyās are going to be, indrā and virocanā. indraḥ is the king of devās. deva rājaḥ. And virocanaḥ is the king of asurās. asura rājaḥ. These two are going to be the disciples. But, first, upaniṣad tells a story to bring the guru and śiṣyās together. Just as in the Bhagavad gĩtā, the entire first chapter is only a story, to bring Arjunā and Lord kṛṣṇā together.

And therefore, this story begins. Once upon time, @CJ @CJ @CJ @CJ @CJ JT@T - same way, now the upanişad starts with a loud proclamation given by prajāpati. He wants to advertise. So, prajāpati, uvāca. And what did prajāpati say? 'There is someone called paramātmā. There is an entity called paramātmā; who is aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭaḥ'. That is said in the first line. yaḥ ātmā. The word ātmā means paramātmā. There is a one entity called paramātmā; and this paramātmā has got eight virtues. What are they? apahata pāpmā, vijaraḥ, vimṛṭyuḥ, viśokaḥ, vijighatsaḥ, apipāsaḥ, satya kāmaḥ, satya sańkalpaḥ. And this is not a new idea we are getting. We have seen the aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭaḥ. I will give you the reference number. mantrā no. 8.1.5. eṣa ātmā apahata pāpmā, vijaraḥ etc. So, there, we have seen the details.

apahata pāpmā means, free from pāpam. vijaraḥ means, free from old age. vimṛṭyuḥ means, free from death. viśokaḥ means, free from sorrow. vijighatsaḥ means, free from hunger. apipāsaḥ means, free from thirst. satya kāmaḥ means, the one whose desires are ever valid. That is, ever fruitful. And, satya sańkalpaḥ, the one whose sańkalpā - WILL - is always unaffected. The Lord of unobstructed WILL and unobstructed desire. And the one, who is free from kāla - time - limitation.

So, this paramātmā, [now we will get a doubt, what is that? In the previous context, paramātmā was defined as saguņa. Here also, prajāpati is talking about saguņa paramātmā only. We are supposed to deal with what? nirguņa paramātmā. And satya kāmaḥ satya sańkalpaḥ are virtues belonging to saguņa or nirguņa? nirguņa does not have kāma or sańkalpa. Therefore, we should know here the teacher talks about saguņa paramātmā. But, the teaching will deal with the lakṣyārtha of saguņaĩśvarā. Just as jĩvā has got a lower nature, which is saguņa; and a higher nature, which nirguņa, paramātmā is also saguņa in His vācyārtha svarũpam. And the very same paramātmā is nirguņaḥ in His lakṣyārtha; His higher nature. Therefore, saguņa is introduced. But, nirguņa is going to be taught later. So, tat pada vācyārthā is pervious topic. tat pada lakṣyārthā is the current topic. Therefore, here, paramātmā is saguņa only. But, the nirguņā will be taught later.

And that is why in the 7th chapter of Bhagavad gĩtā, kṛṣṇā says, 'the one who knows my saguṇa nature - known as aparā prakṛti, he has got jñānam. The one who my nirguṇa nature which is parā prakṛti, it is called vijñānam. GOD is one and the same. But, GOD Himself has got a lower and a higher nature. Therefore, the word paramātmā itself, does not refer to saguṇa or nirguṇa. According to context, paramātmā can refer to either saguṇa or nirguṇa. Therefore, we have to take the context. And, prajāpati says, saḥ anveṣṭavyaḥ - that paramātmā has to be enquired into by every human being. anveṣṭavyaḥ means, should be enquired into. Should be sought after. And, saḥ vijijñāsitavyaḥ - and through the enquiry, that paramātmā has to be known. Initially, the saguṇa version. Later, the nirguṇa version. Initially, the virāt hiraṇyagarbha ĩśvara svarũpam. Later, the brahma svarũpam. Initially, the three pādās. Later, the fourth pādā. All - the entire paramātmā - has to be enquired and understood. saḥ vijijñāsitavyaḥ - should be known.

And by knowing this total paramātmā, the saguņa-nirguņa paramātmā, what is the phalam that one will get? prajāpati declares, saḥ sarvā, śca lokān āpnoti - He attains all the lokās instant-aneously. All the 14 lokās he attains, instantaneously. How does he attain the 14 lokās? You should note the logic. 'By discovering that, "I am the paramātmā which is the jagat kāraņam; and the entire universe is the kāryam. The kāryam cannot exist separate from me, the kāraṇam". Thus, kāraṇa rũpeṇa, He understand that, 'the entire kārya prapañca is born of out of me, rests in me and resolves into me.' Everything belongs to whom? Everything belongs to me alone. sarvān lokān āpnoti - and therefore only, sarvā, śca kāmānyastam ātmānati - all the desires are fulfilled. Because, when he took himself to be a finite individual, various desires were outside him. Therefore, he had to go and register the car, buy the car and get into the car; because, the car was outside him. But, after brahma jñānam, He need not buy any car. Why? Because, he knows, 'all the cars are in me only!'

Therefore, why should we unnecessarily buy? All that is in the showroom, all of them, are mine only! Therefore, desire themselves will drop at once; because; there is no distance between me and anything. Therefore, all the desires are fulfilled. Desires disappear.

prājahāti yadā kāman sarvān pāratha manogatān. [gītā 2.55]. So, sarvā, śca kāmān āpnoti - He attains all desires. That means, desired objects. And therefore, pūrņatvam is the benefit of this knowledge. As said in taittirīya upaniṣad, "sohośnute sarvān kāman saḥ" simultaneous fulfillment of all desires; otherwise called, pũrṇatvam. Otherwise called, tṛptiḥ. Otherwise, to put in negative language, I do not miss anything in life. This is the benefit of the paramātma jñānam.

And this benefit is for whom? yah tam ātmānam anuvidya vijānātīti - this is not for all the people; but, only for those selected few, who take pains to pursue that paramātmā, by practising śravanam mananam and nididhyāsanam. tam ātmānam anuvidya. anuvidya means, seeking. What is seeking? Putting-forth the required effort. And to remember the 12th chapter of the gītā - going through the five levels of bhakti yogā - Two levels of karma yogā, two levels of upāsana yogā. one level of jñāna yogā. All these steps whoever treads, he is called anuvidya. Treading the spiritual path. vijānāti. Means, what? Attains the aparokṣa jñānam of that paramātmā. And why do I say aparokṣa jñānam ? Otherwise we will say, 'okay, paramātmā is full and complete; but, I do not have a house of my own!' That is not the idea. That full and complete paramātmā is myself. iti yah vijānāti sah āpnoti. Therefore, whoever wants pürnatvam, should attend my classes! Who says? Not, me. prajāpati gave an advertisement in all newspapers and all internet, all TVs, all radios. Everywhere he gave the publicity. "guru available. śişyās wanted!", iti prajāpatih uvāca. Local gurus may advertise only in local newspapers. But, brahmājī advertised in all the 14 lokās and that is how indrā and virocanā, when they were regularly scanning their email and internet, indrā read and virocanā also read that. Then, what happened ? We will read.

तद्धोभये देवासुरा अनुबुबुधिरे ते होचुर्हन्त तमात्मानमन्वेच्छामो यमात्मानमन्विष्य सर्वा ्ंश्च लोकानाप्नोति सर्वा ्ंश्च कामानितीन्द्रो हैव देवानामभिप्रवव्राज विरोचनोऽसुराणां तौ हासंविदानावेव समित्पाणी प्रजापतिसकाशमाजग्मतुः ॥

taddhobhaye devāsurā anububudhire te hocuḥ hantatam ātmānamanvecchāmo yamātmānam anviṣya sarvā šca lokānāpnoti sarvā šca kāmāniti indro haiva devānām abhipravavrāja virocano'surāṇāṃ tau hāsaṃvidānāveva samitpāṇĩ prajāpatisakāśam ājagmatuḥ || 8.7.2 ||

So the upaniṣad continues tad. tad means, what? That declaration of prajāpati, which was broadcast all over, devāsurāḥ ubhaye anububudhire. anububudhire means, came to know. So, they saw or they came to know. [anubũd dhātu ātmanepadi liţ prathama puruṣaḥ bahuvacanam bubudhe bubudhāte bubudhire - iti rũpāṇi]. And, who knew? devāsurāḥ, all the devās came to know. All the asurās also came to know. When the local humans have internet, what to talk of the heavenly world! Therefore, they all came to know. ubhaye means, what? Both groups of devās and asurās. And te hocuḥ - and therefore, they were talking among themselves.

You have to imagine they had a meeting. Meeting was assembled and they were discussing among themselves. And what did they say? anta - well, tam ātmānam anvecchāmaḥ - since it is going to give all the pleasures, sarvān kāman, since it is going to fulfill all our desires, certainly we should go after that knowledge; and, we should know that ātmā. tam ātmānam. ātmānam means, what? paramātmānam. paramātmānam means, saguņa - nirguņa ubhayātmaka paramātmānam anvecchāmaḥ - let us all pursue. And why we should pursue? yam ātmānam anvişya - by enquiring into the nature of this paramātmā, sarvā, śca lokān āpnoti, prajāpati has promised that, that person will attain all the lokās, without any movement. That is the glory! Without any movement, remaining where you are, you swallow or acquire all the 14 lokās. So, sarvā, śca lokān āpnoti. And along with that, sarvā, śca kāmān āpnoti - all the desired objects also are attained. iti.

iti means, because of this reason, simultaneously two meetings are going on. One is in deva rāja sabhā another is in asura rāja sabhā. Both of them are simultaneously conducting meetings and deciding, 'we should know'. But, then they decided, if we all have to vacate this lokā and travel to prajāpati lokā, that will be a problem. And therefore, what we will do intelligently is, select one representative. He will go, learn and come back. Like, in companies, they will send a representative for training abroad. After that, what he will do? He will come back. Similarly, they wanted to choose one as their representative; who will learn, come back and teach. And therefore, what did they decide? So, what did they do? They wanted to choose the best one who can learn and teach. And whom did they choose? Naturally, devās together chose the deva rājaḥ; and, asurās together chose the asura rājaḥ. Therefore, it is said, ĩndro haiva devānām abhi pravavrāja - among the devās, indrā decided to become the vidyārthi. And, virocanaḥ asurāņāṃ. asurāņāṃ madye [nirdhāraṇe ṣaṣțī] among the asurās, virocanā was chosen and he accepted. And, both of them did not phone up prajāpati and ask prajāpati to come. So, you have remember, even though they are kings, devendrā, being the emperor, they decided to go to the guru.

So, these are all indirect messages. A śiṣyā must go to the guru. tad vijñānārthaṃ sa gurumeva abhigacchet. And how should one go? Not, like attending a wedding function, putting-on all the special dress and special ornaments. Taking from the bank locker also. I am not referring to anyone. From the locker, locked-up ornaments are taken; and all special dresses; going to beauty parlour. That is all okay for weddings; not, for vedāntā class! Similarly, indrā also removed all his special emperor's dresses and wore only ordinary dress, like a sanyāsi. pravavrāja is the verb used. śańkarācāryā says, that verb indicates pravvrājanam, pravvrājanam means sanyāsa. He became a sanyāsi, as it were. Not formally; but, informally. Therefore, the aim is not to draw the attention of the students: 'Everyone should see what am wearing!' Attraction is not the attraction. He wants to go and learn. Therefore, abhi pravvrāja means, He became simple. And became an inner sanyāsi. By what rejection? CLASP rejection! [I do not know whether you remember!]

Similarly, virocanā also became a sanyāsi. And, both of them started. But, each one did not know that the other one also is going. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, tau ha asaṃvidānāv eva - each one did not know that the other one is going to prajāpati. And both of them are not in good terms. Why? devās and asurās. Born rivals. Now & then they fight also. Therefore, normally they would like to avoid the function where the other one is coming; but, since they did not know, both of them went. All, interesting things. upaniṣad declares - asaṃvidānāv - without knowing about each other.

But, samitpāņī. Both of them knew that, they have to express their reverence, śraddhā and bhakti - which is indicated by samit taken in the hand. samit is a type of twig, which they use for samidādhānam etc., and it symbolises surrender and also it symbolises the dry condition of the twig which is ready to catch fire. Similarly, śiṣyā also must be dry, ready to catch fire. Fire means, what? Do not misunderstand. The fire of knowledge must catch, instantaneously; and the dryness indicates, vairāgyam, viveka etc. I have talked about three types of buddhi. karpũra buddhi [camphor like, buddhi], coal buddhi and plantain வாழைத்தண்டு buddhi. When a camphor is taken near the fire, it catches fire instantaneously. With a piece of coal, you have to keep it on fire and keep on blowing. Then, slowly, in one corner there will be a glow. And, in the case of வாழைத்தண்டு, not only it will not catch fire it will put off the flame also! Similarly, certain śiṣyās [not you!] - certain śiṣyās - may even make the guru forget vedāntā! Whereas, certain other śiṣyās inspire the guru.

Similarly, these two. samitpāņĩ - with samit in hand, prajāpati sakāśam - near prajāpati, ājagmatuḥ. ājagmatuḥ - means, they came [Agam dhātu prasmaipadi liṭ prathamapuruṣaḥ dvi vacanam] because indrā and virocanā are two. In Sanskrit you can use plural number [bahu vacanam] only when there are minimum three. When it is one, it is singular number - eka vacanam; in case of two, it is dual number - dvi vacanam. Therefore, ājagmatuḥ is dual number. Both of them came. And then, what did they do? One week, they were exploring. Details in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

44. Chapter 8.7.2 to 8.7.4

तद्धोभये देवासुरा अनुबुबुधिरे ते होचुर्हन्त तमात्मानमन्वेच्छामो यमात्मानमन्विष्य सर्वा ्ैश्च लोकानाप्नोति सर्वा ्ैश्च कामानितीन्द्रो हैव देवानामभिप्रवव्राज विरोचनोऽसुराणां तौ हासंविदानावेव समित्पाणी प्रजापतिसकाशमाजग्मतुः ॥

taddhobhaye devāsurā anububudhire te hocuḥ hantatam ātmānamanvecchāmo yamātmānam anviṣya sarvā šca lokānāpnoti sarvā šca kāmāniti indro haiva devānām abhipravavrāja virocano'surāṇāṃ tau hāsaṃvidānāveva samitpāṇĩ prajāpatisakāśam ājagmatuḥ II 8.7.2II

After completing saguna dahara vidyā in the first six sections, now from the 7th section up to the 12th we are going to get nirguna dahara vidyā. And for that an introduction is being given, bringing the guru and śişyā together. guru being prajāpati or brahmājī and śişyās are deva rājā and asura rājā. And the upanisad says, that prajāpati made a big declaration in such way that it will be known to all the people all over the world. A big media publicity was given. ya ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimrtyurvišoko etc. asta guņa višista paramātmā was talked about. And prajāpati said, that whoever knows this paramātmā both in his saguna form, as well nirguna form, both the aparā and parā prakrti, in its entirety, that person will attain everything. sarvā sca lokānāpnoti sarvā sca kāmān - which means, purnation, the phalam, was promised. And all the people came to know about the declaration. devās and asurās also came to know. And they had an immediate assembly of all. And devās also were particular that this knowledge has to be gained; because, pũrṇatvam is the phalam. asurās also decided that, we should know. And since all of them cannot go to prajāpati to learn, they decided to choose a representative from their camp. And from the devās, the deva rājā, indrā was chosen. From the asurās, the asura rājā, virocanā was chosen. They did not know what was happening in the other camp. Therefore, indrā decided to go. And that is said in mantrā number two, which we saw in the last class.

devānām indraḥ, virocano'surāṇāṃ. Both these people, abhipravavrāja. Both of them left their respective places. And by using the verb pravavrāja, the upaniṣad indicates that they were like the sanyāsĩs. pravavrāja means, parivrājaka sanyāsĩ-like. That they left everything. They gave up their ornaments, decorations - all of them. Because, as kings, they must have had so many of them. They left all of them - abhipravavrāja. And, hāsaṃvidānāveva - means, each one did not know that the other is also coming.

And, how did they approach the guru? They knew the method or the protocol very much; and therefore, samitpāņī ājagmatuḥ. samitpāņī means with offerings in the hand, in the form of samit. samit representing any form of offering; and samitpāņī dvivacanam. samitpāņi samitpāņī dvivacanam because indrā and virocanah two members. And in Sanskrit language, dual number is there. samitpāņī and also ājagmatuh - both are dual number. indrā and virocanā independently approached prajāpati. Up to this, we saw in the last class.

Continuing.

तौ ह द्वात्रि ्ंशतं वर्षाणि ब्रह्मचर्यमूषतुस्तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच किमिच्छन्तावास्तमिति तौ होचतुर्य आत्मापहतपाप्मा विजरो विमृत्युर्विशोको विजिघत्सोऽपिपासः सत्यकामः सत्यसङ्कल्पः सोऽन्वेष्टव्यः स विजिज्ञासितव्यः स सर्वा ्श्च लोकानाप्नोति सर्वा ्श्च कामान्यस्तमात्मानमनुविद्य विजानातीति भगवतो वचो वेदयन्ते तमिच्छन्ताववास्तमिति ॥

tau ha dvātri č śatam varṣāni brahmacaryamūṣatustau ha prajāpatiruvāca kimicchantāvāstam iti tau hocaturya ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimrtyurviśoko vijighatso'pipāsah satyakāmah satyasankalpah so'nveṣṭavyah sa vijijñāsitavyah sa sarvā č śca lokānāpnoti sarvā č śca kāmān yas tam ātmānamanuvidya vijānātīti bhagavato vaco vedayante tam icchantāvavāstam iti || 8.7.3||

Having approached prajāpati, they might have told that, [the upaniṣad does not give the details, we have to supply the story] 'we have come to learn from you'. They must have said. And even before asking them, 'what do you want to learn?', prajāpati says, we have got certain conditions here. For 32 years you have to stay in my place and do all forms of service to purify your mind. [Imagine! indrā is a king. virocanā is also a king. They might not have served anyone. They might have got service from everyone; but, now these two are told by prajāpati that, 'you have to stay and serve'. And also, prajāpati can watch whether they have got the required qualification. So, this is the tradition. In keeping with that tradition, what did they do? tau. tau means, both of them - indrā and virocanā, dvā trišátaṃ varṣāṇi. dvā trišát means 32. varṣāṇi means, years. brahmacaryam ūṣatuḥ tau - they lived a life of discipline. A brahmacāri's discipline they followed. indriya nigraḥ. mano nigraḥ. vāń nigraḥ. guru śuśrũṣā etc all of them will come under brahmacarya vṛtam. ūṣatuḥ means, they spent or they lived a life of brahmacarya vṛtam.

And after completing the vṛtam [32 years over now. Okay, in the next sentence, you have imagine that, they have completed 32 years of brahmacarya vṛtam] - they approached prajāpati. And, tau ha prajāpatiḥ uvāca. Then alone, prajāpati addressed them, and asked, 'kim icchantāvāstam' iti? So, 'desiring what particular knowledge' - kim means, kīdṛśīm vidyām, what type knowledge, what type of wisdom - have you desired; or, do you desire? Desiring which avāstam you lived a life of brahmacāri? avāstam - vas dhātu parasmaipadi luń madhyama puruṣaḥ dvivacanam. avāstam means, 'you lived' or 'you followed' a life of brahmacāri, desiring which vidyā you please tell me. So, you have to put appropriately, who says what. dvātri šataṃ varṣāṇi brahmacaryam ūṣatuḥ and tau ha prajāpatiruvāca - these two sentences are the words of upaniṣad, which is telling the story. And after "prajāpatiḥ uvāca", 'kim icchantāvāstam?' is the question by prajāpati.

And then, those two answered. That is, indrā & virocanā answered. tau ha ũcatuḥ. Again, upaniṣad says, those two disciples answered. What was their answer? They could have made it very simple by saying that, 'we have heard your declaration'. This would have made a simple statement. 'We have heard your declaration'. But, instead, they are repeating the whole declaration given by prajāpati. And therefore, ya ātmāpahatapāpmā onwards is the repetition of the same mantrā we saw before, which was the declaration given by prajāpati. Therefore I am not going to the details. I will give you only the reference number where we saw it. It was mantrā number 8.7.1. That whole statement is given. That is repeated. And, what is the gist of that statement? aṣṭa guṇa viśiṣṭa paramātmā is there; and anybody who wants, can know the paramātmā - both in saguṇa and nirguṇa version - and when that knowledge is completed, that wise person will get mokṣā or pũrṇatvam. And that entire declaration, these two people quote. From where does it start? ya ātmāpahatapāpmā onwards, up to ātmānamanuvidya vijānāti iti. Up to the last-but-one sentence, or, one line in that mantrā. Up to the iti before the bhagavataḥ - the whole thing, is a quotation. indrā and virocanā are quoting prajāpati's statement.

And having quoted that, they say iti in this manner, bhagavatah vaco vedayante - we come to know from the words of bhagavān prajāpati. Of course, they are addressing prajāpati only. But, they do not simply say, "from vour". That is disrespect. Therefore, they say, "from bhagavān prajāpati" - 'from your honours' statement we come to know'. And, what is our wish? 'tam icchantāvavāstam', iti - that paramātma vidyā, saguna nirguna paramātma vidyā, that dahara paramātma vidyā - we would like to know. And, it is with that jijñāsā, we have lived 32 years, serving you. And, in praśnopanisad, the teacher instructs the student, 'you have to serve me or serve the āśramā for some time; and after completing the service, you should ask the question. And even though you may have done the service, I do not guarantee that I will teach you. After one year of service, you should ask the guestion. And, I may choose to say, "I will not teach you", also! Therefore, without any guarantee, I will ask you to serve'. Here also, prajāpati does not give any guarantee. But, with a hope that he will teach, these two people have served him. So, all these things are to show that, the desire for knowledge must be so intense, that the student must be ready to fulfill any form of condition that the guru prescribes. And, in the olden days, the gurus prescribed all forms of conditions; and still, the students came, now the guru is afraid to prescribe any condition; because, next class யாரும் வரல்லையானா என்ன பண்றது? அதனால, யாருவேணா tau ha prajāpatiruvāca ya eso'ksiņi puruso drsyata esa ātmeti hovācaitad amrtam abhayam etad brahmety atha yo'yam bhagavo'psu parikhyāyate yascāyamādarse katama esa ity esa u evaisu sarvesvantesu parikhyāyata iti hovāca II 8.7.4

வாங்கோ, எப்படிவேணா வாங்கோ, எப்பவேணா வாங்கோ, நடுப்பற வாங்கோ, லீவு எடுத்துங்கோ, whatever you do, வரேளே! போரும்னு சொல்லி [what happens if no one comes to next class?! Hence you come whenever you want, in whatever fashion, take leave, come in between, whatever you do, if you are coming it is okay!] This is kaliyugā. So, guru has to give concessions. The conditions of those gurus has been replaced by concessions of the guru. This is the idea. 'avāstam', iti. [And the word avāstam is a chāndasa prayoga. The right word should be - this is in madhyama puruṣaḥ; this must be in uttama puruṣaḥ, 'be lived'. Anyway, that is all grammar problem!]

Continuing.

तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच य एषोऽक्षिणि पुरुषो दृश्यत एष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेत्यथ योऽयं भगवोऽप्सु परिख्यायते यश्चायमादर्शे कतम एष इत्येष उ एवैषु सर्वेष्वन्तेषु परिख्यायत इति होवाच ॥

śańkarācāryā adds a note, an observation, in His commentary. prajāpati addressed them as though they have come together, as co-disciples. As though they have got a friendly relationship. That, they have no enmity between themselves. So thinking, prajāpati addresses them. And these two people should have said what? 'I do not want him to learn. I have come separately. And independently he also has come. We did not come together, planning to study under you', they must have told. But, instead, they answer together, as though they have come together to learn. And śańkarācāryā says, it is because, in the presence of prajāpati, the teacher, even though they were inimical to each other, they forgot their enmity; and they talked/addressed together, as though, they have come together to learn. This is indicated by the verb [dual number verb indicates]. Thus, the guru's greatness is, even śişyās will come together, dropping their dislike and all. Afterwards, again, [in front of guru they will be fine], when they go out, they will fight. Anyway, in the presence of guru, they were very friendly. śańkarācāryā, so observes.

And, fortunately for them, prajāpati decides to give the teaching. And the teaching begins with this mantrā. Up to this, only the story part. From the fourth mantrā of 7th section, the teaching begins. What is going to be the teaching? paramātmā is nothing but consciousness, which is present in the body. So, caitanya svarũpaḥ paramātmā - is going to be the teaching.

And, what is the nature of consciousness? You should remember our 5 features.

- (1). Consciousness is not a part, product or property of the body.
- (2). Consciousness is an independent entity, which pervades and enlivens the body.
- (3). Consciousness is not limited by the boundaries of the body.

(4). Consciousness continues to exist even after the disintegration of the body.

(5). And the surviving consciousness is not accessible; not because it is absent; but because, there is no medium through which you can recognise it.

These are the 5 features of consciousness. And this consciousness is called paramātmā. This consciousness itself gets different statuses, based on the medium through which it expresses. Even though consciousness is one only, based on the medium through which it expresses, one and the same consciousness is given four different names. When the caitanyam is expressing through the physical body, experiencing the external world, that caitanyam - functioning through the physical body, experiencing the physical universe - the caitanyam is called viśvaḥ.

During the dream state, the very same caitanyam, experiences a world - but, not an external physical world, through the physical body; but, it experiences an internal thought world, through a thought body. The dream body is also a thought; the dream world is also another bunch of thoughts. During svapna, the very same consciousness experiences a thought world - through vāsanāmaya śarĩram or thought body. And that consciousness is called taijasah. There is no difference in consciousness itself. But, the difference is only in the name; based on the field of operation.

Just as a person is called a householder when he is at home; and the very same person is called the MD [managing director] in his office; and the very same person is called the Secretary in the service organisation which he serves. There is no difference in the person. Only, nāma mātra bhedaḥ - based on the field of his operation. This is called aupādhika bhedaḥ - superficial difference.

Similarly, the very same consciousness, when it is experiencing nothing - like, during the sleep state, when there is neither the physical body nor the physical universe; nor, is there a thought body and a thought universe; when there is neither an external universe, nor an internal universe - when there is total blankness, when everything is resolved, that consciousness, which is the experiencer of the black out or blankness or internal silence - that consciousness is named, prājñaḥ. And, all these three names - viśvaḥ, taijasaḥ & prājñaḥ - are only relative names. Because, these are names given in relation to sthũla śarĩram, sũkṣma śarĩram and kāraņa śarĩram. So, just like 'husband' is a relative name of a person; because, he is called husband only in relation to his wife. Similarly, he is called 'father' - not the universal father, that is some other father! So, he is called 'father', that is also a relative name. Because, it is a name in relation to someone. Similarly, consciousness has got three aupādhika statuses, three āpekṣika statuses, three relative statuses, called viśva, taijasa & prājña - waker, dreamer, sleeper.

But, consciousness from its own standpoint cannot be called viśva, taijasa or prājña. It cannot be called waker, dreamer or sleeper. Then, it is called by another name. That is called turĩyam. These four names we saw, in which upaniṣad? māṇḍũkya upaniṣad. prathamaḥ pādaḥ, dvitĩyḥa pādaḥ, tṛtĩyaḥ pādaḥ and caturthaḥ pādaḥ. viśva, taijasa, prājña, turĩya. And, prajāpati is going to gradually teach, these four. Of these four, the first three are mithyā. Why? Because, it is not the absolute nature of consciousness. The fourth one alone is satyam. The unrelated consciousness, relation-less consciousness, is paramātmā. Relation-less consciousness means, 'I do not have an individuality'. No family; no ahamkārā; no mamakārā.

Remembering the morning class, deha - buddhi - ghaṭādayaḥ tripuṭi is not there. prmāṭ - prmāṇa - prameya tripuṭi is not there. kāraka - kriyā - phalam tripuṭi is not there. Time not there. Space not there. THAT ABSOLUTE CAITANYAM IS PARAMĀTMĀ. This is an already known teaching, which prajāpati is going to reinforce. But, instead of using these four words viśva, taijasa, prājña and turĩyam, prajāpati is going to use four different words. Only words are different; but, the idea is the same.

viśva is going to be called akṣi puruṣaḥ. viśva is going to be called akṣi puruṣaḥ. taijasa is being called svapna puruṣaḥ. puruṣaḥ referring to consciousness principle. puruṣaḥ does not mean male or husband. [In Tamil, புருஷன்னு சொன்னா husband-ன்னு அர்த்தம் இருக்கோல்லியோ! உன் புருஷன், என் புருஷன்னு சொல்லி! Therefore, not that புருஷன்]. puruṣaḥ is consciousness, ātmā. So, akṣi puruṣaḥ, svapna puruṣaḥ; and, the third one is called, supta puruṣaḥ. supta puruṣaḥ. And the fourth one is called uttama puruṣaḥ. akṣi puruṣa, svapna puruṣa, supta puruṣa, uttama puruṣa, are respectively, viśva, taijasa, prājña and turĩyam.

And in the first phase of teaching, which starts now in this mantrā, prajāpati is introducing what? viśva, the akṣi puruṣaḥ. Now, the next question is, 'why should viśva, the waker, be called akṣi puruṣaḥ?' The reason is, during jāgrat avasthā, all the vyavahārās are done in the presence of the eyes only. The eyes are the most important organ, in whose operation alone, you can do all the jāgrat vyavahārā. In fact, jāgrat avasthā begins with what? The opening of the eyes! And why do we give importance to the eyes? Because, eyes will be required for perception, of course. But, eyes will be required even for the operation of other organs. For example, suppose we want to eat food, even though the organ that is required for that is what? The mouth - rasanendriyam - which has to receive the taste. Teeth will have to bite. And the hands will have to function. Hand is a karmendriyam; tongue is a jñānendriyam. Even though hand and tongue alone are going to do the job, and eyes are not really required [directly]; but, still, even for eating food, you require what? You have to see where the food is. That means, cakşur indriyam is a common indriyam, required for all the other 9 indriyams. akşi is required. That is why, even to enter the hall, though you are going to do that only with the help of feet; but, for walking also, you require what? Eyes. & dom @(jhgjh-L-hmpuCuj nhgpn, especially, @jhg area-o! [Even when eyes are there, lot of people fall; especially, in this area of BVM hall!]

So, eyes are supposed to be providing the basic medium of light. In svayañjyoti brāhmnaṇam of bṛhadāraṇyaka, this will be beautifully said. All the jāgrat vyavahārā are done in the medium of light. That is why, the moment you get up, the first job you do is, switching on the light. Because, all the waking vyavahārā require light. The medium of light is meaningful, when? Only when the eyes are there! Therefore, the entire jāgrat avasthā requires the blessings of the eyes. The entire jāgrat avasthā, and all our jāgrat vyavahārām require the blessing of the eyes. And therefore, eyes are considered the prominent organ, operating during jāgrat avasthā. Thus, eyes become the most important part for the waker. That is why, the moment eyes are not functioning, we require the help of someone. Not only for reading; we require the help of someone for what vyavahārā? For all the vyavahārās we require the help of someone, once the eyes are not functioning. So, for viśva, who or what is, the most important organ? akşi is the most important. The upanişad generally says that, viśva IS LOCATED IN THE EYES. It is not that it is located in the eyes, viśva is the consciousness all over the body; but, still, to indicate the importance of the eyes, the viśva is called akşi puruşaḥ.

In māņdūkya upaniṣad - especially in māņdūkya kārikā, between these two eyes also, the right eye is called to be sacred and more powerful, generally. viśva is, generally considered to be located in the right eye. "dakṣiṇākṣimukhe viśvaḥ manasyantastu taijasaḥ I ākāśe ca hṛdi prājñaḥ tridhā dehe vyavasthitaḥ" gauḍapāda kārikā [no.2] in the āgama prakaraṇam. And therefore, what is the title for the waker? akṣi puruṣaḥ. And, akṣi puruṣaḥ means, what? The waker, who uses the eyes for all the transactions. That is said here. tau ha prajāpatiḥ uvāca - prajāpati the guru addressed them. tau. tau means, those two disciples. Who are they? deva rāja & asura rāja.

And, what did he say? ya puruṣaḥ eṣaḥ akṣiņi dṛśyatah eṣa ātmeti - that consciousness principle, which is behind the entire physical body, throughout the jāgrat vyavahārā; and there also, that consciousness, which is prominently behind the eyes, that puruṣaḥ, caitanyam, akṣiņi dṛśyate. It is prominently present in the eye. The moment you close your eye, you have to stop all the vyavahārā. For writing also, after all, I am writing; why do I need the eyes? No. Even when we have eyes, our writing is illegible! So, you cannot close and write. For everything, if mere hearing alone is required, we would not have to lit up this hall. Suppose mike is functioning; but, in the evening, lights are not available, I will have to cancel the class. Even though it is only a speech, eyes are so important; light is so important. If the light is not there; but, only mike is functioning, what will I do? Evening class cancelled! Why? Because, Swāmījī, எங்களால புஸ்தகத்தை பார்க்க முடியாது; notes எழுத முடியாது; உங்கள பார்க்க முடியாது! ['We cannot read the books. We cannot write notes. We cannot see you' etc]. So, eyes are important for all transactions.

Therefore, akṣiṇi dṛśyate. akṣiṇi is saptamĩ vibhakti. eṣaḥ is qualifying puruṣaḥ. ya eṣaḥ puruṣaḥ, akṣiṇi dṛśyate. 'eṣa ātmā', iti - that consciousness is the ātmā. 'śrotrasya śrotraṃ manaso mano yad vāco ha vācaṃ sa u prāṇasya prāṇaḥ I cakṣuṣaścakṣuḥ..' [kena upaniṣad]. That is the akṣi puruṣaḥ. And this consciousness is called ātmā, the paramātmā. iti ha uvāca - this is the teaching of prajāpati. And, etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmety. etad amṛtam. Means, what? This ātmā, caitanyam is eternal. The eyes may become weaker and eyes may stop to function also. Eyes may get destroyed also. There may be destruction for the medium; but, when the medium is destroyed that caitanyam is not destroyed. etad amṛtam. amṛtam means, immortal.

abhayam etad. abhayam means, ever secure. Free from insecurity problem. For the body, there is insecurity. For the sense organs, there is insecurity. It can be afflicted by any disease, at any time. Even the mind is subject to insecurity. But, the caitanyam - which blesses all of them, what type of diseases are possible for consciousness? If something was possible, then there will be another department. 'Consciousnessology'! We do not have that department. We do not have doctors studying that. Why? Because, that does not have any problem. Therefore, abhayam. Ever secure.

And, etad brahma - this caitanyam alone is called, brahman. Meaning, it is deśa kāla vastu pariccheda śũnyam - free from all types of limitations. It is the infinite entity. etad brahma iti. Even though prajāpati had intended the consciousness, which is behind the eyes, which experiences the world, both indrā and virocanā totally misunderstand. Which, every guru is used to! Because, it does happen. Due to various reasons, communication gaps do take place. Here also, there was successful communication-gap! And therefore, both indrā and virocanā understand, differently.

What is the teaching? The consciousness behind the eyes, the consciousness pervading the eyes and enlivening the eyes, it is the ātmā. But, what do they two understand? The eyes are very, very fine. Glass, like. The eye balls are like glass. They have got a fine reflecting surface. And because of that, when a person goes very near another person, when I come near your eyes, what happens? My body; or, whatever is in front of that, gets reflected on the eyes. And, this physical body, which is reflected in the mirror-like eyes, is called chāyā puruṣaḥ. chāyā means, what? [Very careful, not tea, coffee and all!] chāyā means, shade, shadow or reflection. Reflection of what? The sthũla śarĩram. The sthũla śarĩra pratibimba, formed on the eyes, [whose eyes? Not in my eyes], but, when I stand in front of someone, in that person's eyes, my physical body gets reflected. This sthũla śarĩra pratibimba on the eyes, is called what? chāyā puruṣaḥ.

And, indrā and virocanā - the paramānanda śiṣyās - they take the chāyā śarĩram as the ātmā! Normally, we take the physical body as the ātmā; which itself is a blunder. But here, indrā and virocanā they do not take even the physical body as ātmā; they take the reflection of the physical body as ātmā! Reflection, formed where? On the akṣi! That they mistake as akṣi puruṣaḥ. And, they are enthusiastically happy. <code>@iuur!</code> we have understood ātmā! What is that? chāyā śarĩram. They want to get confirmation from the guru. And therefore, what do they do? They take a few more other reflecting surfaces; because, in other reflecting surfaces also, reflection will be formed. And therefore, they ask the question, 'atha'. atha onwards, is the question from indrā and virocanā.

What do they ask? Hey bhagava^h - oh Lord, aya^m apsu parikhyāyate. apsu means, what? In the waters. Because, water also serves like a mirror. And in the water we see our reflection. parikhyāyate means, perceived. Another example is what? yaśca ayam ādarśe. ādarśa^h means, a mirror. ādarśe, puruṣa^h. Upon the mirror, upon the waters, chāyā śarĩram is formed. Upon the akṣi also, that is formed. So, are not you talking about that akṣi puruṣa? So, yaścāyamādarśe.

Now, we have got three chāyā puruṣaḥ. What are they? akṣi puruṣa; jala puruṣa and ādarśa puruṣa. And among these three, which one is ātmā? அசட்டுத்தனத்தோட superlative! Among these three - akṣi, jala and ādarśa pratibimba puruṣeṣu madhye, katamaḥ eṣa ātmā? Which one is the ātmā, hey guro? And the guru should have said, 'what a fool you are?' But, as I have said, generally the gurus do not do that. Why? அடுத்த class-க்கு வரமாட்டா! [he will not come to the next class!] Already, students' coming is difficult. And if the guru exposes the wonderful discriminative power of the śiṣyā, śiṣyā may get inferiority complex!

Therefore, what does prajāpati do? 'Exactly correct', he said. He says, 'yes, akṣi puruṣā - what you have understood is correct. That is the ātmā. eṣa u eva - so, this chāyā puruṣaḥ alone is the akṣi puruṣaḥ. eṣu sarveṣvanteṣu parikhyāyate. akṣi puruṣā alone is there in the eye also! akṣi puruṣā alone is there in the jalam also. akṣi puruṣāḥ is there, on the mirror also. Therefore, akṣi puruṣaḥ is there in akṣi, jalam and ādarśa. What you say is correct.

And, in one way, prajāpati is correct also; because, akṣi puruṣaḥ being consciousness, consciousness is there in jalam also. Thus, prajāpati has not bluffed, totally. Like, aśvatthāmā hataḥ kuñjaraḥ - there, is partial truth in this statement; because, akṣi puruṣaḥ being caitanyam, caitanyam is there in jalam also, caitanyam is there in ādarśa also. Therefore, he said, akṣi puruṣā is everywhere. You are correct. eṣu sarveṣu anteṣu - in all the three reflecting media. parikhyāyata iti hovāca.

But, even though prajāpati had validated their understanding, prajāpati wants to make the appropriate correction. But, he wants to correct indirectly. Because, if you directly say, 'you are wrong', the ego will be wounded. Therefore, an indirect method is going to be used. For what? To correct chāyā puruṣaḥ as ātmā. That has to be corrected. And for that, a laboratory experiment is going to be given. What is that? That will come in the next section.

With this mantrā, the 7th section is over. In the 8th section, corrective measure experiment. And what is that experiment? That we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

45. Chapter 8.7.4, and 8.8.1 to 8.8.5

तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच य एषोऽक्षिणि पुरुषो दृश्यत एष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेत्यथ योऽयं भगवोऽप्सु परिख्यायते यश्चायमादर्शे कतम एष इत्येष उ एवैषु सर्वेष्वन्तेषु परिख्यायत इति होवाच ॥

tau ha prajāpatiruvāca ya eso'ksiņi puruso drsyata esa ātmeti hovāca itad amrtam abhayam etad brahmety atha yo'yam bhagavo'psu parikhyāyate yascāyamādarse katama esa ity esa u evaisu sarvesvantesu parikhyāyata iti hovāca || 8.7.4 ||

The actual teaching begins from this mantrā - 8.7.4 And in this alone, prajāpati introduces the ātmā, in the form of viśva, the consciousness associated with jāgrat avasthā and later the same one will be revealed as taijasa, then prājña, then turĩyam. And as I said in the last class, viśva is here introduced as akṣi puruṣaḥ and the reason is, the entire jāgrat vyavahārā, the transactions of jāgrat, waking state, will have to be done in the medium of some light or the other. All the transactions require a medium of light. Either sunlight or moonlight or electric light or if there is power cut, some other light. In short, without a general light, jāgrat vyavahārā is not possible. And that general light is meaningful, only when we have eyes. Therefore, the eyes become the medium for all the waking transactions. And since the eyes play the most important role, eyes are given importance. Therefore, the caitanyam obtaining in the jāgrat avasthā is equated to the caitanyam obtaining in the eye. Therefore, it is called akṣi puruṣaḥ.

But, even though prajāpati intended by the word akṣi puruṣaḥ only the consciousness PRINCIPLE, unfortunately, both the paramānanda śiṣyās - both indrā and virocanā - mistook the teaching. And they understood the pratibimba śarĩram, the chāyā śarĩram as the ātmā. And what is the reason for their mistake? They thought, when a person stands or sits in front of a person, the glassy eyes, [glass does not mean, with spectacles!] The eyes themselves are very shiny, bright. Therefore, my body will be reflected in the eyes of the person in front. The eyes act like a mirror. [In fact, there was a detective novel also, in which, the culprit, the criminal who strangulates someone to death, is ultimately captured because of the reflection formed in the eye of the victim. Whether it is possible or not, the detective studies the photos very carefully and he is able to get some clue and then find out. May be they have read akṣi puruṣaḥ from chāndogya, we do not know!] Therefore, on the eyes, my body's chāyā is formed. So they say, 'chāyā śarĩram eva ātmā!' And they want confirmation from prajāpati. Therefore, they give a few examples. Just as the reflection formed in the waters; like the reflection formed on a shining nice surface; similarly, the chāyā śarĩram is the ātmā! Is that not so, they ask prajāpati.

And prajāpati also, not to discourage them says, 'okay, okay you are right'. akṣi puruṣaḥ alone is everywhere. Even though what they mean and what prajāpati means are different, his confirmation is true; because, akṣi puruṣaḥ is caitanyam. caitanyam is everywhere. Therefore, prajāpati has not really bluffed also. He thus gives a vague answer. And, with that, section 7 is over. Even though prajāpati has 'okayed', prajāpati knows that what they have understood is wrong. And therefore, he wants to try some indirect method of correcting their misconception. Why an indirect method? Directly he does not want to say, 'you have misunderstood'. Then, it be will hurting their ego! And remember, they are not ordinary ones like us! deva rājaḥ and asura rājaḥ! Therefore, an indirect method is going to be used, which comes in the next section. khaṇḍa 8, which we will enter now.

Chapter Eighth - Section 8

उदशराव आत्मानमवेक्ष्य यदात्मनो न विजानीथस्तन्मे प्रब्रूतमिति तौ होदशरावेऽवेक्षाञ्चक्राते तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच किं पश्यथ इति तौ होचतुः सर्वमेवेदमावां भगव आत्मानं पश्याव आ लोमभ्यः आ नखेभ्यः प्रतिरूपमिति ॥

udaśarāva ātmānamavekṣya yadātmano na vijānīthastanme prabrũtamiti tau hodaśarāve' vekṣāñcakrāte tau ha prajāpatiruvāca kiṃ paśyatha iti tau hocatuḥ sarvamevedamāvāṃ bhagava ātmānaṃ paśyāva ā lomabhyaḥ ā nakhebhyaḥ pratirũpamiti || 8.8.1 ||

An experiment is given to them, by prajāpati. And that experiment is, bringing a bowl of water. A wide mouthed vessel is called udaśarāvaḥ. udaśarāvaḥ means, a wide-mouthed vessel. And uda means, water; which can serve like a mirror. And the experiment proposed by prajāpati is the following. It is going to be elaborately said. I will give you the essence.

The idea is, first prajāpati will ask them to observe themselves in the waters. Naturally, they will see their own reflection, which is the chāyā śarĩram. And, what is their misunderstanding? This chāyā śarĩram is the akṣi puruṣaḥ, the ātmā. And what prajāpati will do is, ask them to change their dress and also groom themselves by shaving and by cutting their nails and all those things, a little bit of physical grooming. And afterwards, when their body has undergone certain changes, prajāpati will ask them to look into the reflecting waters, once again. Between the first observation and the second observation, naturally the pratibimba would have undergone change. Why? Because they have changed their body. And therefore, pratibimba śarĩram also would have changed. From that, it is very clear that, chāyā śarĩram is savikāram; and not, nirvikāram. savikāram means, what? Subject to change. Whereas, akṣi puruṣaḥ has been defined as - etad amṛtam etad abhayam etad brahma - it is a clean mahā vākyam. etad ātmā is said; etad brahma is said. The akṣi puruṣaḥ, ātmā, is equated to changeless, eternal brahman. Whereas, chāyā śarĩram is clearly changing.

Now, indrā and virocanā should know that they have misunderstood the teaching. Because, chāyā śarĩram is savikāram. akṣi puruṣaḥ is nirvikāram. Therefore, chāyā śarĩram cannot be akṣi puruṣaḥ. Thus, prajāpati wants to educate. But, in spite of this experimentation, both indrā and virocanā do not understand the simple truth. And they conclude that the body is the ātmā. This is the development of the experiment. But, it is given in the form of a dialogue. A series of dialogues.

So, now, prajāpati is addressing indrā and virocanā. And you have imagine that a bowl full of water has already been brought and kept in front of them. And prajāpati says, udaśarāva ātmānam avekşya - hey indrā and virocanā, may you see the akṣi puruṣa ātmā, ātmānam means, the akṣi puruṣa rũpa ātmānam udaśarāva within the bowl full of water. avekṣya. avekṣya means, after seeing clearly. [That avekṣya in some book printing is not clear. It should be avekṣya, kṣ+ya]. And after seeing, yad ātmano na vijānĩthaḥ - if you have got doubt, if any part of my teaching not clear - [who says? prajāpati] if any part of my teaching is not clear for you. After seeing your reflection in the bowl, if there is any doubt, yad na vijānīthaḥ tad me prabrũtam - may you clearly express your doubt and clarify your doubt.

And what did indrā and virocanā do? They looked into the bowl and they saw their reflection. And both of them have concluded what? chāyā śarĩram is ātmā! And in their conclusion they did not have any doubt at all. So, doubt would not come. Two conditions. When you have totally misunderstood also you will not have any doubt. Therefore, these two people did not express any doubt. [Sometimes the teacher says, 'any questions?' All the students remain silent. The teacher will have to imagine everything is clear!' Similarly, indrā and virocanā were silent.

So, tad me prabrūtam. Up to this, prajāpati addressing them. And, tau ha udaśarāve avekṣāñ ucakrāte. tau ha means, what? indrā and virocanā looked into the bowl of water and clearly saw their reflection; and they remained with their own misconception, in which, they did not have any doubt at all. Since they did not ask any question, now the teacher has to ask them!

[In a 'question-answer session', if the student does not ask any question, since it has been announced as 'question and answer session', therefore what to do? The teacher will have to ask the question! That is why I dropped question and answer session itself!] So, they did not ask; therefore, prajāpati asked them. What did he ask? tau ha prajāpatiḥ uvāca. tau means, those two disciples, dear disciples. prajāpati addressed them. 'kiṃ paśyatha', iti - please tell me what are you seeing inside? kiṃ paśyatha iti. tau ha ucatuḥ - then indrā and virocanā replied in the following way.

What? sarvamevedam āvām bhagavah ātmānam paśyāva and ā lomabhyah ā nakhebhyah pratirūpam. So, pratirūpam means, reflection. Reflection of what? idam must be connected with pratirūpam. sarvam eva idam āvām pratirūpam means, the total reflection of my body as well as the other one's body, total reflection of both the bodies, bhagavaḥ - oh Lord, pratirũpam paśyāvah - we are seeing. And the reflection is so clear that, we can see from ā lomabhyaḥ - from the top of the head. loma means, hair on the head. From the head hair up to ā nakhebhyaḥ - up to the nakham, the nails on the hand. [Feet you cannot say; because, it is a bowl of water. Only if you do śirasānanam you can see!] So, therefore, up to the nails, the entire body we are seeing.

And how does the reflection look? yathā ātmānaṃ paśyāva - exactly as we see our body, in the same way, we are seeing the reflection. That is, the reflection resembles exactly our body. So, you have read the sentence properly. yathā ātmānaṃ paśyāva. Here, the word ātmānam means what? bimba śarĩram. Just as we are seeing our original body, yathā ātmanaḥ paśyāvaḥ, tathā pratirũpam paśyāvaḥ, in the same way we are seeing the reflection of the body. iti - thus they replied to prajāpati. And now also, they do not have any doubt. Because, what is their conclusion? śarĩram is the ātmā. Then what happened? The experiment continued.

तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच साध्वलङ्कृतौ सुवसनौ परिष्कृतौ भूत्वोदशरावेऽवेक्षेथामिति तौ ह साध्वलङ्कृतौ सुवसनौ परिष्कृतौ भूत्वोदशरावेऽवेक्षाञ्चक्राते तौ ह प्रजापतिरुवाच किं पश्यथ इति ॥

tau ha prajāpatiruvāca sādhvalańkṛtau suvasanau pariṣkṛtau bhũtvodaśarāve'vekṣethāmiti tau ha sādhvalańkṛtau suvasanau pariṣkṛtau bhũtvodaśarāve'vekṣāñcakrāte tau ha prajāpatir uvāca kiṃ paśyatha iti || 8.8.2 ||

tau ha prajāpatių uvāca - prajāpati addressed them. tau in Sanskrit is, dual number; because, there are two disciples indrā and virocanā. tau is dvitīyā, dvi vacanam. prajāpati addressed them. What did he say? You have come in a simple, a very, very simple and ordinary form, even though you are deva rājā and asura rājā with extraordinary clothes, kirīţam, ornaments and all. But, when you came for gurukula vāsa, you are wearing very ordinary dress only; and also, perhaps, you have not shaven for days together. And therefore lot of hair and all. Therefore, I want you to go, have a good bath, shave, cut your nails and all, and put on beautiful clothes and well decorated, [if required go to the local beauty parlour, men's' beauty parlour also is there, you can go get groomed and come back!] Therefore he said, sādhu alańkṛtau - decorate yourselves very well. suvasanau - and, perhaps prajāpati must have given the ornaments; because, they have left them in their lokās. Therefore, prajāpati might have given.

And may you put on fresh clothes, suvasanau and pariṣkṛtau. pariṣkṛtau means, well groomed, like shaving, cutting the nails, manicure, pedicure and all kinds of curing! May you get yourselves done - pariṣkṛtau bhũtvā. Then, what do you do? Do not go away, come back here. And then, what should you do? uda śarāve avekṣethām - may you look in to the bowl full of water. The waters in the bowl. avekṣethām iti prajāpatiḥ uvāca. The dialogue continues.

And then, what did they do? They did exactly as commanded, he could have said. But, the upanişad said, tau ha sādhu alańkṛtau - they did decoration; and suvasanau - wore beautiful clothes; and pariṣkṛtau - well groomed they became. bhūtvā uda śarāve avekṣāñcakrāte [all dual number, unique in Sanskrit]. avekṣāñ cakrāte is, avekṣāñ ca + kṛ dhātu ātmanepada. It is called periphrastic perfect tense [anuprayoga liṭ] cakre cakrāte cakrire - iti rũpāṇi. avekṣāñ cakrāte means, they looked into the bowl of water. After they looked, prajāpati addressed them, again. tau ha prajāpatiḥ uvāca - prajāpati asked them. What? kiṃ paśyatha, iti - what are you seeing now in the water? The upaniṣad enjoys the story. Okay. Then what did they say? The story continues.

तौ होचतुर्यथैवेदमावां भगवः साध्वलङ्कृतौ सुवसनौ परिष्कृतौ स्व एवमेवेमौ भगवः साध्वलङ्कृतौ सुवसनौ परिष्कृतावित्येष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति तौ ह शान्तहृदयौ प्रवव्रजतुः ॥ tau hocaturyathaivedamāvām bhagavah sādhvalańkrtau suvasanau pariskrtau sva evam evemau bhagavah sādhvalańkrtau suvasanau pariskrtāvity esa ātmeti hovācaitadamrtam abhayam etadbrahmeti tau ha śāntahrdayau pravavrajatuh II 8.8.3 II

prajāpati asked what do you now see in the waters? Then, tau ha ucatuḥ - they answered. What? yathā eva idam āvāṃ bhagavaḥ - now that we have got a beautifully decorated, groomed and well clothed body, in the same way, within the waters also, we are seeing well clothed, well decorated, well groomed body. They repeat. So, yathā āvāṃ. āvāṃ means, 'we two'. Here, 'we two' is referring to the original śarĩram. Just as original physical body, the sthũla śarĩram, is sādhvalańkṛtau suvasanau pariṣkṛtau sva is there in the particular condition, evam eva - in the same way, naturally within waters also we are seeing what? sādhvalańkṛtau suvasanau pariṣkṛtau iti - in this manner we are experiencing, hey bhagavaḥ - oh Lord.

What was the expectation of prajāpati? The expectation was, after seeing the difference in the chāyā śarĩram, they may have questioned their understanding; because, the previous body in the waters, and the present body, are different. Or, it is savikāra chāyā śarĩram. And prajāpati's teaching is, akṣi puruṣaḥ is nirvikāraḥ. Eternal. That is the teaching! So, how can chāyā śarĩram and the akṣi puruṣaḥ tally? Thus, they must get a doubt. And they should ask for clarification. But, those two students, they did not see any discrepancy! And when they did not see that, in spite of the indirect corrective measures, prajāpati understood that, the students are not available for further enlightenment, now. [This often happens. Teacher tries to raise the teaching to a higher level. From the students, there is no positive response. Then, what does the teacher do?! Drop it then, and hope that, after sometime, again another opportunity will come, and then the same thing can be taught].

Thus, prajāpati decided, 'let them continue to have their misconception. And, I cannot teach them further; because, they are not in a position to grasp what I am trying to convey'. The fact is so evident. chāyā śarĩram is savikāram. akṣi puruṣaḥ is nirvikāram. When there is such a patent contradiction, how come they do not get it? Therefore, he decided, not to teach them further. And the only possibility is what? He should ask them to serve in the āśramā for another 32 years! But, that also may be boring to them. So, prajāpati said, 'you have understood! He says, eṣa ātmeti hovāca - this alone is the ātmā. He uses a vague pronoun "eṣa" ["this"]. And prajāpati uses the word "this", keeping in mind what? akṣi puruṣaḥ alone is the ātmā. But, what do these two people think? 'eṣaḥ means, the chāyā śarĩram alone is the ātmā'. Thus, each one has got his own view. There is a clear communication gap. But, prajāpati's hope is, after sometime, they will begin to question their understanding.

It is exactly like in taittirïya upaniṣad, brahman is defined as satyam jñānam anantam brahma; and thereafter, in the next line, the upaniṣad says, from that brahman, the whole creation came! tasmādvā ètasmād ātmanā ākāśa sambhữtaḥ - the whole universe came from that brahman. And all students who study taittirïya upaniṣad, especially during the beginning stage, they never raise their eye-brow. An intelligent student must raise his eye-brow; because, if brahman is satyam jñānam anantam, the infinite can never be a cause of everything. It can never be a product of anything. But, still, the teacher makes that "mistake"; and the students also nod their head, and write notes, even though the teacher is committing a mistake! What is the mistake? THE NON-CAUSAL BRAHMAN IS INTRODUCED AS CAUSAL BRAHMAN! The hope of the teacher is that, the student will continue to attend the classes, so that, after several months of teaching, guru can say, "BRAHMAN CAN NEVER BE THE KĀRAŅAM!. THUS, THERE IS NO CREATION AT ALL". That teaching can come later.

Similarly, here also, even though there is a communication gap, prajāpati lets them go. He says eşa ātmā iti - this alone is the ātmā. And, what is the akṣi puruṣaḥ? etad amṛtam etad abhayam etad brahma iti - each vākyam is a mahā vākyam. The word viśva refers to jĩvātmā. brahman refers to paramātmā. ETAD AMŖTAM ABHAYAM ETAD BRAHMA - IS CLEAR REVELATION OF JĨvĀTMA PARAMĀTMA AIKYAM. But, they do not get the message clearly. And when this much was said, both indrā and virocanā were happy. Even though prajāpati was unhappy; but, they were happy; because, they do not know that, they have grasped the teaching wrongly. Therefore, what happened? tau ha - indrā and virocanā, śānta hṛdayau pravavrajatuḥ - with total satisfaction, śāntahṛdayah means, with a satisfied mind, that we have understood the ātmā. And, what is ātmā? Reflection! tau ha śāntahṛdayau pravavrajatuḥ - they left the gurukula, the proximity, the presence of prajāpati, and left for their own, respective places. So, deva rājā went to the devās and asura rājā went back to the asurās. Then what happened? The story continues.

तौ हान्वीक्ष्य प्रजापतिरुवाचानुपलभ्यात्मानमननुविद्य व्रजतो यतर एतदुपनिषदो भविष्यन्ति देवा वासुरा वा ते पराभविष्यन्तीति स ह शान्तहृदय एव विरोचनोऽसुराञ्जगाम तेभ्यो हैतामुपनिषदं प्रोवाचात्मैवेह महय्य आत्मा परिचर्य आत्मानमेवेह महयन्नात्मानं परिचरन्नुभौ लोकाववाप्नोतीमं चामुं चेति ॥

tau hānvīkṣya prajāpatiruvācān upalabhyātmānam ananuvidya vrajato yatara etadupaniṣado bhaviṣyanti devā vāsurā vā te parābhaviṣyantīti sa ha śāntahṛdaya eva virocano'surāñjagāma tebhyo haitāmupaniṣadaṃ provācātmaiveha mahayya ātmā paricarya ātmānameveham ahayann ātmānaṃ paricarannubhau lokāvavāpnotīmaṃ cāmuṃca iti || 8.8.4 ||

So both indrā and virocanā, satisfied with their own false understanding, they left prajāpati and they have gone some distance. And seeing them, regretfully prajāpati is making a comment. What comment? tau ha anvīkṣya. ha anvĩkṣya - seeing them [indrā & virocanā], prajāpatir uvāca - prajāpati declared, [it was neither too loud nor it was mental. He was whispering. They can hear if they want to! And they do not hear. Within himself also, prajāpati makes this statement.]

And, what is the statement, μπωιἁ! an upa labhya - without grasping my teaching clearly, an upa labhya means, without proper reception. And therefore only, ātmānam ananuvidya - and therefore, without clearly understanding the ātmā, without clearly grasping my words, and therefore only, without clearly grasping the ātmā. ananuvidya - without clearly grasping, vrajataḥ [is also dual number. vrājati vrājataḥ vrājanti], both indrā and virocanā are leaving, without completing the gurukula vāsam, properly. And what will be the consequence of their misunderstanding? They are going to be saṃsāris only. They can never become victorious in life, by getting mokṣā. THE REAL VICTORY IN LIFE IS GETTING MOKṣĀ! But, these people will not be victorious. They will be defeated in their life. That means, they will become saṃsāri. Therefore, he says, yatare etad upanişado bhavişyanti. yatare means, what? Whichever group of disciples - here, referring to two groups of disciples, devā group and asurā group; because, later, he says, devā vā asurā vā - which group of students, whether they are devā group of students or asurā group, whichever group, etad upanişado bhavişyanti is endowed with such an ātma vidyā; whoever has got such a self knowledge. Here, upanişad stands for ātma vidyā. And etad upanişad means, what? This kind of ātma vidyā. bhauvrĩhi. eşā upanişad eşām te etad upanişadah. And why does he say this kind of self-knowledge? The self knowledge that they have is a false self knowledge. So, this kind means, this kind of false knowledge, whoever has got, devā vā asurā vā, te parābhavişyanti iti - they will certainly be defeated in their life. They will be defeated in their life means, what? Their life will be a struggle. They will not be successful. They will not get spiritual success. In short, they would not get mokşā. parābhavişyanti iti.

And even though prajāpati made this declaration, slightly louder, hoping that if they happen to hear and both of them return - or, at least one of them returns - he thought he can attempt a second time. But, unfortunately, both of them did not hear; because, they are excited with the knowledge they already have. Therefore they continue their return. And then, hereafter, we are going split the teaching into two. What happens to virocanā? So we are going focus on virocanā; and there afterwards see what happens to indrā. First, virocanā is focused by the upanişad.

What does he do? sa ha śāntahṛdayaḥ - now from dual number, we have come to singular number; because, both of them are not focused. Of the two, now only virocanā. Therefore, singular number. sa ha virocanaḥ śāntahṛdaya eva - he continues to be totally satisfied with his understanding and asurāñ jagāma - he went to his own people, who were the asurās. To the asurā kingdom, the asurā people, he went. And while traveling, he was rethinking the teaching that he received; and he makes a small revision in his understanding. Because, when a guru teaches, all the śiṣyās receive. Whatever they receive [guru only hopes, correctly] everyone receives. And they are certainly going to think; at least for a few minutes, I hope, they will be revising what they receive.

virocanā did revision; and he made a slight change. What is that change? While giving an experiment of looking into the water bowl, prajāpati asked indrā and virocanā to change their dress, ornaments etc; and later, he asked them to look, again. Therefore, to bring about a change in the reflection, prajāpati asked them to change - not, the reflection; but, the original bimba śarĩram. Therefore, based on that experiment, virocanā concludes, perhaps, chāyā śarĩram is in keeping with the original bimba śarĩram only. Therefore, prajāpati wants to convey that, 'the ātmā is not chāyā śarĩram; but, the bimba, sthũla śarĩram only!' This is the small revision he has made.

He has progressed from where to where? 'sthüla śarĩra pratibimbam' to 'sthüla śarĩram'. He has progressed from sthüla śarĩra reflection to sthüla śarĩram. And he concludes, ātmā is the physical body! And therefore, the asurā, virocanā does not believe in sũkṣma śarĩram; does not believe in kāraṇa śarĩram; does not believe in a separate ātmā. For him, ātmā or 'I' means what? The physical body alone! Like, any atheist or certain scientists, there is no question of any surviving jĩvā. The end of the body, is the end of the individual. This is called asura darśanam. So, WHAT IS ASURĀ DARŚANAM? BODY ALONE IS ĀTMĀ. After death, no body survives. There is no puṇyam, there is no pāpam, there is no travel, there is no punar janma, there is no svarga, there is no naraka, there is no srāddham, there is no tarpaṇam. All these are meant for what? A surviving jĩvā. But, they [asurās, atheist or scientists] do not believe in all of them. Thus, virocanā became a dehātmavādi. And this dehātmavādi virocanā, asurāñ jagāma - reached the asurā people.

Then what did he do? Because he is a representative, the understanding is what? He should receive the teaching and share with all others. யான் பெற்ற இன்பம் பெறுக, இவ்வையகம்! யான் பெற்ற confusion பெறுக, இவ்வையகம்! Dayānanda Swāmījī says, svayam confused; parān confusayati! And so what does virocanā teach? tebhyaḥ ha etām upaniṣadaṃ provācā - he taught his upaniṣad; which is, dehātmavādaḥ, which is called 'cārvāka darśanam'. And so he said, ātma iva ha mahayyaḥ. ātmā means what? This body, which is the ātmā alone, is the most precious thing! mahayyaḥ - should be glorified, respected, honoured. Body must be treated like bhagavān. mahayyaḥ. And therefore, ātmā paricarya - all the upacārās that you want to do - ṣoḍaśa upacārās and all of them, do not try to do to any idol or deity or devatā in a temple! All these upacārās must be done to the body only! Therefore, ātmā eva paricaraya. Here, what should you note? The word ātmā should not be understood as our saccidānanda ātmā. tattvabodha definition of ātmā do not take. ātmā here means, śarĩram eva.

And, ātmānameveham ahayann - so by glorifying the ātmā, a materialistic philosophy. And ātmānam paricarann - and also by serving the body, going to all kinds of parlours and centres, taking care of nails, skin, hair, teeth all of them. They are all what? Only honouring the body, all the time. We are not saying that body should be neglected; but, treating the body as the ultimate reality, whoever does that, what does virocanā say? [This is the teaching of virocanā] - ubhau lokāu avāpnoti - so these people whoever respects the body will get both iha loka sukham - that is the future in this life will be wonderful. So, imaṃ ca amuṃ ca - imam means, what? In this world, they will be extremely happy; because, body is the ātmā. And not only in this lokā, amum ca lokam, if there is a paralokā, [only 'if'. asurās do not have a paralokā; but, it is a hypothetical presentation], if there is a paralokā, in that paralokā also, one will be happy, by serving the body. Therefore, body alone is reality. iti. iti should be connected with haitām upaniṣadaṃ provācā. You can call it 'body upaniṣad'. Body upaniṣad he taught!

Continuing.

तस्मादप्यद्येहाददानमश्रद्दधानमयजमानमाहुरासुरो बतेत्यसुराणा ्ँ ह्येषोपनिषत्प्रेतस्य शरीरं भिक्षया वसनेनाल-ङ्कारेणेति स्ँस्कुर्वन्त्येतेन ह्यमुं लोकं जेष्यन्तो मन्यन्ते ॥

tasmādapy adyehādadānam aśraddadhānam ayajamānam āhurāsurobatety asurāņā hyeṣop- aniṣat pretasya śarīraṃ bhikṣayā vasanenālańkāreṇeti sa škurvantyetena hyamuṃ lokaṃ jeṣyanto manyante ‖ 8.8.5 ‖

Naturally, once a person does not accept a surviving ātmā; or, the sūksma śarĩram which travels to other lokās etc., all the vedic rituals and disciplines will become utterly meaningless. Like the modern, new generation, asking the question, 'why do you spend money on śrāddham, tarpana and all; because, you are wasting those things. Who has seen the surviving forefathers? Who has seen the heaven, hell etc? If you want to remember the forefathers, feed the children in the orphanage; or, do this and do that' - they do not believe in all these things. The entire veda pũrva bhāga becomes redundant. Therefore, the upanişad says, 'these people are aśraddadhānāh - they do not have śraddhā in the vedā. And what is done with śraddhā is called, śraddham! So, naturally, they do not have śraddhā in the ritualistic portion of the vedā; and therefore, they do not believe in any yāgā or yajamānam. And, whatever service they want to do, they will do to the fellow human beings. They are good in that respect; but, religious rituals they are dead against. Therefore, ayajamānam. yajamānah is the one who performs vedic rites. ayajamānah means, they do not believe in vedic rites; because, aśraddadhānam - they do not believe in this vedā prmāņa. And therefore, adadānam - they do not believe any daksiņā, that also they consider a waste. 'Why do you give to these brāhmins? இவாள்ளாம் குண்டா, நன்னாதானே இருக்கா! Why do you give daksinā to these brāhmanās; give it to somebody else'. All of them will come under what category? upanisad says, all these are asuras! Why? virocana paramparā. Because, they belong to virocana paramparā! They are all asurās. Details in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

46. Chapter 8.8.5, 8.9.1. to 8.9.3 and 8.10.1

तस्मादप्यद्येहाददानमश्रद्दधानमयजमानमाहुरासुरो बतेत्यसुराणा ्ँ ह्येषोपनिषत्प्रेतस्य शरीरं भिक्षया वसनेनाल-ङ्कारेणेति स्ँस्कुर्वन्त्येतेन ह्यमुं लोकं जेष्यन्तो मन्यन्ते ॥

tasmādapy adyehādadānam aśraddadhānam ayajamānam āhurāsurobatety asurāņā vesop- anisat pretasya śarĩram bhikṣayā vasanenālańkāreņeti sa skurvantyetena hyamum lokām jeṣyanto manyante II 8.8.5 II

When indrā the deva rājā and virocanā the asurā rājā approached prajāpati and asked for ātma vidyā, in the first installment of teaching, prajāpati taught viśva, the waker, as ātmā or brahman. viśva stands for the CONSCIOUSNESS PRINCIPLE which is expressing through the physical body during the jāgrat avasthā and the vācyārtha - the primary meaning, of the word viśva, is CONSCIOUSNESS associated with the physical body but the implied meaning of the word viśva is the CONSCIOUSNESS without the physical body. That is, bhāga tyāga lakṣaṇayā, viśva should be understood as the caitanyam and this caitanyam alone is all pervading brahman. This is the intention of prajāpati. But, indrā and virocanā misunderstood the teaching; and they took the very physical body, which is reflected in the eyes of another person, which is otherwise called chāyā śarĩram, as the ātmā, they misunderstood.

And prajāpati wanted to make a correction by asking them to stand in front of a bowl of water and afterwards he asked them to clean themselves and change dress etc and again stand in front of the bowl of water, to show that, the reflected body can never be brahman; because, brahman is not subject to change; whereas, chāyātmā, chāyā śarĩram is subject to change. But, in spite of prajāpati's attempt to correct them, both of them held on to their misunderstanding. And when prajāpati asked if they required any clarification, both of them said, 'we have understood the teaching', and they left brahmājĩ. And while going, indrā was thinking about his understanding and he will again come back to prajāpati for teaching. But, indrā's story will come later.

Now, the upaniṣad is focusing on virocanā. And while he was traveling back to the asurā group, he was rethinking about the teaching and he makes a slight modification which is not very much superior; but, instead of taking the chāyā śarĩram as ātmā, he took the very bimba śarĩram, the very physical body, as the ātmā, which is called cārvāka darśanam. cārvāka darśanam means, dehātmavādaḥ. Thus, indrā took chāyā śarĩram as ātmā! Both of them took śarĩram as ātmā. The only difference is what? indrā took pratibimba śarĩram and virocanā took bimba śarĩram, as ātmā. virocanā is extremely enthusiastic; and therefore, he goes back to the asurās and he gives the teaching to them also! This is called asurānām upaniṣad or asura upaniṣad he gives. And now that virocanā's story is being concluded in this fifth mantrā of the 8th section, which we introduced in the last class.

And in keeping with virocanā's teaching, all the asurās concluded that, the physical body is the ātmā. Naturally, they became totally materialistic. They did not believe in a sũkṣma śarĩram, which survives the death of the body. According to śāstrā, sũkṣma śarĩram survives and travels. The asurās did not believe it. When they do not believe in sũkṣma śarĩram, there is no question of kāraṇa śarĩram also. And when they do not accept sũkṣma, kāraṇa śarĩrams, where is the question of believing in an ātmā, other than these three? Therefore, all of them they reject; and according to them, the physical body is the ātmā! ātmā is born with the body; and ātmā goes with the body. There is no question of any surviving ātmā. And once there is no śraddhā in the life after death, the journey of the jĩvā etc., all the vēdic rituals - which talk about puṇyam, pāpam etc - all of them also get rejected. And therefore, they all became nāstikavādĩs. They do not believe in dānam; they do not have śraddhā in veda prmāṇam and they do not believe in yāgā, śrāddham tarpaṇa and all of them. They do not believe. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, whoever is such a nāstika, he is called asurā by the vedic tradition. That is what is said here. Look at the mantrā.

ādadānam - those who do not accept any vaidika dānam, dakṣiņā etc and aśraddadhānam they do not believe in veda pũrva bhāga and various rites that are talked about in the veda pũrva bhāga. Therefore, they are aśraddadhānāḥ. And ayajamānam. yajamānaḥ means, a person who performs vaidika karmā is called yajamānaḥ. yāga kartā is called yajamāna. And these āsuric tradition people, they are ayajamānā. And whoever leads such a life, āsuro bata ity. bata means, what? Unfortunate indeed. vedā sympathises with those materialistic people and cries, bata. Alas! unfortunate indeed are these āsuric people! If you remember the bhagavad gītā, Chptr-16,

"asatyam apratiṣṭhaṃ te jagadāhuranĩśvaram, aparasparasambhūtaṃ kimanyat kāma haitukam | etāṃ dṛṣṭimavaṣṭabhya naṣṭātmāno'lpabuddhayaḥ | prabhavantyugrakarmāṇaḥ kṣayāya jagato'hitāḥ |" [gĩtā 16. 8 & 9]

Several verses are written condemning the āsuric people. The root for the ślokās is this mantrā only. And, at the end of 16th chapter, kṛṣṇā says, "trividhaṃ narakasyedaṃ

dvāram nāśanam ātmanah, kāmah krodhastathā lobhastasmādetat trayam tyajet". [16.21] These āsuric people will directly go to hell without any stop in-between. Direct flight! That is said here. āsurah bata! And, this materialistic philosophy is called asurānā v hy eṣāpaniṣat - this is also called a upaniṣad! Very interesting. This is also called an upaniṣad. And what is the upaniṣad? asura upaniṣad - it is!

And naturally, when a person dies, since they consider the physical body as the most important component or part of the individual, they do not believe in the jīvā traveling at all. Therefore, they pay all attention to the dead physical body, whenever a person dies. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, pretasya śarĩraṃ sa skurvanty - [you have to supply], when a person dies, at that time, they give all importance to the dead body, a big celebration is done. It is taken on a special cart; and it is taken through the streets, roads etc. All festivities, special Cதாரணம்s, festoons, mālās, alańkāra - all the importance is given to the dead body; because, in their philosophy, there is no traveling jĩvā. In the vedic tradition, attention is paid to what? To the jĩvā - who travels. Therefore, special prayers are done. If they have got pāpam, our prayers must neutralise their pāpam; and the traveling person or jĩvā, must face no obstacles, and the journey must be smooth. This is the traditional, vedic prayer.

But, for these asurās, such prayers are irrelevant. Therefore, what do they do? śarĩram bhiksayā - here the word bhiksā, does not mean annam. Okay. Here, bhiksā, śańkarācāryā comments, ganda mālyādi daksaņayā. ganda means, what? Varieties of perfumes; varieties of special malas, all kinds of decoration they do. And vasanena vāsanām means, extra-ordinary clothes are given to the dead body. Extraordinary clothes. And, alańkārena - various types of alańkārās like - festoons, flowers, Connomic etc. sa skurvanty - they do the samskārā to the dead body; not, to the surviving jīvā. And by this, what do they consider? etena hy amum lokām jesyanto manyante - in this manner alone, they think that, the dead jīvā will get a higher state of life. amum lokām jesyanto manyante. Here, we should be very careful. amum lokām jeşyantah, literally means, 'the jīvā will go to higher lokā'. But, we should remember, for the asurās, there is no question of a higher lokā. Therefore, we have to put it within quotation 'as though the jīvā gets exalted by all these worship etc. amum lokām should be understood as, the jīvā [which jīvā? the dead jīvā] gets exalted, honoured by all this process. iti manyante. jesyantah means, they will win, they will attain. ji [jaya] dhātu, future participle. Future active participle is, jeşyan jeşyantau, jeyşantah.

And with this, the fifth mantrā is over. The 8th khaṇḍa is over. The virocanā story is over. Hereafter, virocanā has entered the green room; never to come back again. Now, the upaniṣad is going to focus on indrā. And what is indrā doing? He is traveling towards the deva lokā. And what happens to him? That we are going to see in the next section. Section 9, mantrā 1. We will read.

Chapter Eighth - Section 9

अथ हेन्द्रोऽप्राप्यैव देवानेतद्भयं ददर्श यथैव खल्वयमस्मिञ्छरीरे साध्वलङ्कृते साध्वलङ्कृतो भवति सुवसने सुवसनः परिष्कृते परिष्कृत एवमेवायमस्मिन्नन्धेऽन्धो भवति स्रामे स्रामः परिवृक्णे परिवृक्णोऽस्यैव शरीरस्य नाशमन्वेष नश्यति नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥

atha hendro'prāpyaiva devānetadbhayam dadarśa yathaiva khalvayam asmiñcharīre sādhv-alankrte sādhvalankrto bhavati suvasane suvāsanah pariskrte pariskrta evamevāyam asmin nandhe'ndho bhavati srāme srāmah parivrkņe parivrkņo'syaiva śarīrasya nāśamanvesa naśyati nāhamatra bhogyam paśyāmīti || 8.9.1 ||

[In certain books the word sādhvalańkṛte is missing. So, we have to add. It is there twice. One word is, sādhvalańkṛte. Another word is, sādhvalańkṛto. Both words are required. One sādhvalańkṛte is required. Another word sādhvalańkṛto is required. Both we should read.] atha ha indraḥ. To change our focus from virocanā to indrā. indrā is traveling towards indra lokā.

And even before reaching indra lokā, he started thinking about the teaching; and also his false, unfortunate conclusion. What is the conclusion? pratibimba śarĩram is the ātmā! And, what type of pratibimba śarĩram? That which he saw reflected in the waters! It was in one condition at one time; and later, when again he looked, he did not have hair, he had a clean-shaven face, nails are removed. Thus, he saw a pratibimba śarĩram, which had undergone a total change.

So, suddenly he begins to wonder, 'how can a changing pratibimba śarĩram ever become the changeless ātmā? Because, while defining ātmā, prajāpati had said, "ya eşo'kşiņi puruşo dṛśyata eşa ātmeti hovāca etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmety" [8.7.4] Thus, akṣi puruṣaḥ" has been talked about as THE INFINITE AND CHANGELESS BRAHMAN. So, how can a reflected body, which is changing ever be brahman? How was I satisfied with this understanding?! indrā himself is wonder-struck. Therefore, he says, devān aprāpya eva. Even before he reached the devās, etad bhayaṃ dadarśa. bhayam here means, doṣaḥ. doṣā means, defect or loophole. So, he saw this loophole or deficiency. In what? In his own understanding he saw a big blunder being committed. bhayaṃ doṣam dadarśa - he saw. And what is the doṣā? He said, asmiñcharĩre sādhu alaṅkṛte sati - when this body is well decorated, naturally the reflected body also gets well decorated. Therefore, he says, śarĩre sādhu alaṅkṛte sati, [sati saptamĩ] sādhu alaṅkṛto bhavati - when the bimba śarĩram, the original body, is decorated, then, the reflected body also is decorated. And, su vasane su vāsanaḥ bhavati - when the body is clothed with good garment, then the pratibimba śarĩram is also clothed well. And, pariṣkṛte pariṣkṛta bhavati - when the bimba śarĩram is refined by shaving, manicuring, pedicuring, cutting the nails etc., [that is called pariṣkṛtaḥ refinement of the body], when it happens to the bimba śarĩram, pariṣkṛta bhavati - the pratibimba śarĩram is also refined.

So, why each word is used twice? The first word is for the bimba śarĩram; the second word refers to pratibimba śarĩram. And so, what is the conclusion to be arrived? pratibimba śarĩram is subject to modification. And not only that. When the body is improved, the pratibimba śarĩram is improved. When the body goes through varieties of problems, then the pratibimba śarĩram also has got all those problems. What are they? They are also enumerated.

evam eva ayam - just as when the body is improved, the pratibimbam improves; similarly, asmin andhe - when the physical body is andhaḥ - has got some doṣā in the eyes, [like, the eyes become red because of Madras eye or Chennai eye or any eye!] then, the pratibimba śarĩram also has got the same akṣi doṣaḥ. And, andhaḥ means, what? Blind. Here also, twice. andhe andhaḥ means, what? bimba śarĩre andhe sati pratibimba śarĩram api andham bhavati. And srāme srāmaḥ sati - when one eye has got a problem, [andaḥ refers to the problem with both the eyes. srāmaḥ means, eka akṣi doṣe sati, srāmaḥ bhavati] in the pratibimba also, there is the same deficiency. And, parivṛkṇe parivṛkṇaḥ - when the body is wounded, fractured etc, the pratibimba also is fractured.

parivựkņo'syaiva śarĩrasya nāśamanveṣa naśyati. Therefore, how can such a pratibimbam be 'etad amṛtam etad abhayam etad brahma' how can we think?! parivựkṇaḥ sati parivựkṇaḥ bhavati. And, ultimately, asya śarĩrasya nāśam anu - when the bimba śarĩram is destroyed totally, then what happens to pratibimbam? pratibimbam also is destroyed totally! How come this simple, apparent, evident fact I lost sight of?! Being deva rājā indraḥ, how did I commit this blunder?! Thus, suddenly, he wakes up to this problem. nāśam anu eṣa. eṣa means, pratibimba dehaḥ, chāyātmā api naṣyati. And therefore, what is the conclusion?

aham atra bhogyam na paśyāmi iti. In this kind of ātma vidyā, [what do you mean by this kind of ātma vidyā? pratibimba śarĩram is the ātmā] - in this kind of knowledge, bhogyam na paśyāmi - I do not see any benefit. ātma vidyā is supposed to liberate a person; whereas, by this knowledge, I am not going to get any benefit at all. bhogyam means, prayojanam or phalam, I do not see.

But, the beautiful thing here is, he did not conclude that prajāpati is a wrong teacher. He did not put the blame on his guru. On the other hand, he put the blame on himself. prajāpati must have taught properly. When he said akṣi puruṣaḥ, he must have meant properly. I only must not have received the teaching; because of, what? mama buddhi doṣaḥ. Therefore, instead of questioning the teacher, I will question my understanding. I will go back to prajāpati once again. Again surrender to him and ask for ātma vidyā.

This attitude is called śraddhā. If I feel something is wrong, instead of blaming the šāstram, instead of blaming the ācāryā, I say that, 'my understanding of the šāstrā is wrong. Therefore I will again study. And suppose second time also I get wrong knowledge, what do I do? I will not blame the šāstrā. Third time I will study. How many times I should study? UNTIL I UNDERSTAND IT IN SUCH A WAY THAT ŠĀSTRĀ GIVES ME A NEW TEACHING WHICH DOES NOT CONTRADICT ANY OTHER PRMĀŅA AND A TEACHING WHICH WILL BLESS ME. UNTIL I COME TO THAT TEACHING, I WILL STUDY, AGAIN AND AGAIN AND AGAIN. paunaḥpunyena śravaṇam kuryāt. Therefore, indrā's attitude of śraddhā is highlighted here. So, what does he do? He goes back to prajāpati, again. mantrā number two. We will read.

स समित्पाणिः पुनरेयाय त ्ँह प्रजापतिरुवाच मघवन्यच्छान्तहृदयः प्राव्राजीः सार्धं विरोचनेन किमिच्छन्पुनरागम इति स होवाच यथैव खल्वयं भगवोऽस्मिञ्छरीरे साध्वलङ्कृते साध्वलङ्कृतो भवति सुवसने सुवसनः परिष्कृते परिष्कृत एवमेवायमस्मिन्नन्धेऽन्धो भवति स्रामे स्रामः परिवृक्णे परिवृक्णोऽस्यैव शरीरस्य नाशमन्वेष नश्यति नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥

sa samitpāņiķ punareyāya ta ka prajāpatir uvāca maghavan yacchānta krdayaķ prāvrājīķ sārdham virocanena kim icchan punar āgama iti sa hovāca yathaiva khalvayam bhāgavaķ asmiñcharīre sādhvalankrte sādhvalankrto bhavati suvasane suvāsanaķ pariskrte pariskrta evamevāyamasminnandhe'ndho bhavati srāme srāmaķ parivrkņe parivrkņo'syaiva śarīrasya nāśamanveṣa naśyati nāhamatra bhogyam paśyāmīti 18.9.2 1

sa samitpāņiḥ. saḥ means what? That indrā, who understood that he has misunderstood. Which is a good understanding! UNDERSTANDING OF THE MISUNDERSTANDING IS A RIGHT UNDERSTANDING. And that indrā samitpāņiḥ - again he took samit - representing offering; and punaḥ eyāya - once again came back to prajāpati. But, this time, he did not have the company of virocanā. And, anyway, he did not miss his company; because, indrā and virocanā are like cat and rat! Therefore, he was going alone. punaḥ eyāya. [eyāya is ā+e dhātu prasmaipadi liṭ prathma puruṣaḥ eka vacanam eyāya eyatuḥ eyuḥ]. ā eyāya means, he came to prajāpati. And when he came back, prajāpati was happy; because, he wanted them to come back. When they were going back, he made a remark. Do you remember? 'These people have not really understood; and with false satisfaction they are going back. With this wrong understanding, they will only suffer'. All those things prajāpati declared. Therefore, he expected them back. And one of them came back. prajāpati was happy. But still, he wanted to know 'why he came back?' [May be he could have come back to take the cell phone, you know. Many people come back, 'Swāmījī, I left my cell phone', they say! Same way, we do not know for what purpose he came back]. And therefore, ta * ha prajāpati, uvāca - prajāpati asked that indrā, "maghavan" [maghavan means, indraḥ]. hey maghavan - means, oh indrā, 'kim icchan punar āgama? - desiring what have you come back previously, you were totally satisfied. And if you are totally satisfied, you should not have come back. And so, what has made you come back again?

Therefore, he says, yaḥ śānta hṛdayaḥ prāvrājĩḥ. You can understand. śānta hṛdayaḥ means, with total satisfaction. prāvrājĩḥ - you went back before. After your first visit, you went back. prāvrājĩḥ is all special Sanskrit forms. [pra+vraj dhātu prasmaipadi luń madhyama puruṣaḥ eka vacanam]. prāvrājĩḥ means, you went back. And how did you go back? sārdhaṃ virocanena - along with your co-student, with virocana, you went back; satisfied. All these are within quotations; the words of prajāpati to indrā. And, kim icchan - what is your new desire? Desiring which, punar āgamaḥ? Once again you have come back to me. punar āgamaḥ tvam. tvam is understood. iti sa ha uvāca - thus, prajāpati addressed indrā. And what did indrā say?

indrā repeated the whole thinking process he had while traveling back. And that thinking process was given in the previous mantrā. In the first mantrā the thinking process was given. The whole thing is repeated again; and upaniṣad also repeats the whole thing. yatha iva khalvayaṃ iti sa ha uvāca. [Anyway, I am not going to repeat].

The essence is what? pratibimba śarĩram can never be ātmā; because, it is subject to modification along with bimba śarĩram. Therefore, now I know, pratibimba śarĩram is also not ātmā. And you can include bimba śarĩram is also not ātmā. Therefore, akṣi puruṣaḥ can never mean the body.

[And what was the original intention of prajāpati? akṣi puruṣaḥ refers to the caitanyam which is spread over the body. That CONSCIOUSNESS is what he intended]. The consciousness, which is not part, product or property of the body; which is an independent entity; that consciousness, pervading the eye, cakṣuṣaḥ cakṣuḥ - that consciousness was taught.

But, indrā did not receive it. Therefore, he says, akṣi puruṣa must be the real one; but, I have not understood akṣi puruṣa in its real nature.

And what is it in our language? akṣi puruṣa is viśvaḥ. And, vācyārtha of viśva is, jĩvātmā; lakṣyārtha of viśva is paramātmā. So, through vācyārtha viśvaḥ, the lakṣyārtha paramātmā, prajāpati had taught. But, indrā had missed that teaching. Therefore, he says, aham atra bhogyaṃ na paśyāmi - I do not see any benefit. In what? In the vācyārtha viśva no benefit will come at all. And what did prajāpati say, reply? He said, this is what I was expecting! Therefore, now that you have come back, I will teach the same viśva. But, now, I would not teach as viśva; but, I will teach the same ātmā as. taijasa puruṣaḥ. That is going to come, we will enter into that topic. I am not elaborating all words; because, this is c/o previous mantrā only. Same meaning. mantrā-3

एवमेवैष मघवन्निति होवाचैतं त्वेव ते भूयोऽनुव्याख्यास्यामि वसापराणि द्वात्रि ्ंशतं वर्षाणीति स हापराणि द्वात्रि ् शतं वर्षाण्युवास तस्मै होवाच ॥

evamevaișa maghavanniti hovācaitam tveva te bhūyo'nuvyākhyāsyāmi vasāparāņi dvātričšatam varsānīti sa hāparāni dvātričšatam varsānyuvāsa tasmai hovāca 8.9.3 II

evamevaişa - so what you have understood is correct. And what is that? chāyātmā is not the real ātmā. That chāyātmā as brahman is a misunderstanding such an understanding is correct. pratibimba śarĩram is ātmā is a misunderstanding. Such an understanding is correct only. I did not mean the chāyā śarĩram at all. I did not even mean the bimba śarĩram. I only meant the consciousness pervading the śarĩram. Even in the षष्ठोsध्यायः şaṣṭho'dyāyaḥ when the guru said, 'तत्त्वमसि श्वेतकेतो - tat tvam asi śvetaketu - you are brahman', the word you did not refer to the sthũla śarĩram. The word you did not refer to the sũkṣma śarĩram; not to kāraṇa śarĩram. But, it referred to what? The caitanyam, which was permeating the śarĩra trayam. The finger is shown in the same direction only; but, it can refer to the body or consciousness. It is the student's discretion to understand the body at the appropriate context; and to understand the caitanyam at the appropriate context. But, indrā missed the lakṣyārtha.

Therefore, now prajāpati says, 'evam eva eṣa maghavan' iti - this is correct. prajāpati addressing indrā, 'hey maghavan, you are right. And therefore, what am I going to do? I am not tired. I will again teach you. itaṃ tu eva te. te is ātmā which I taught as akṣi puruṣaḥ. The same ātmā, te anuvyākhyāsyāmi - I shall teach. tu - to you. bhūyaḥ - once again. But, one condition. What is that? Not immediately. 'You have to wait for 32 years. I am telling you, do not worry'. prajāpati is addressing indrā; because, many of you will wonder whether we will survive for 32 years. And therefore, here, it is for indrā. devās have no problem. Why? Because, they have a life-span of 1000s of years. So, 32 years are like three days only. Therefore, prajāpati says, 'vasa aparāņi dvātri, śataṃ varṣāņi' iti - may you again live and serve me for another 32 years. Why does he say another? Because, already the first time, they both [indrā and virocanā] have lived for 32 years. So, may you live for another 32 years.

And what did indrā do? He had no choice. Therefore, saha aparāņi dvātri, śataṃ varṣāņy uvāsa. sa - that indrā, hāparāņi dvātri, śataṃ varṣāņi - 32 years uvāsa. uvāsa means, he lived as a resident student with prajāpati. And he has now completed 32 years. [Okay, in one minute that is over]. Now that he has completed, tasmai ha uvāca. To that indrā, prajāpati teaches, once again. prathama pāda - first quarter - is over. Now, he is entering the dvitīya pāda. If you remember māņdūkya upaniṣad, he is going to the second pāda. What is that? We will enter the next section. With the previous mantrā, the 9th section is over. Only 3 mantrās. We are entering the 10th section, mantrā-1.

Chapter Eighth - Section 10

य एष स्वप्ने महीयमानश्चरत्येष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति स ह शान्तहृदयः प्रवव्राज स हाप्राप्यैव देवानेतद्भयं ददर्श तद्यद्यपीद ्ंशरीरमन्धं भवत्यनन्धः स भवति यदि स्राममस्रामो नैवैषोऽस्य दोषेण दुष्यति ॥ 8.10.1 ॥

ya eşa svapne mahîyamānaś caraty eşa ātmeti hovāca itad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti sa ha śānta hṛdayaḥ pravavrāja sa hāprāpyaiva devān etad bhayaṃ dadarśa tadyadyapĩda šarĩram andhaṃ bhavaty anandhaḥ sa bhavati yadi srāmamasrāmo naivaiṣo'sya doṣeṇa duṣyati II

So, now comes the second definition of ātmā, as taijasa or svapna puruṣaḥ. Previously, viśva was called akṣi puruṣaḥ. Now, taijasa is being called svapna puruṣaḥ. In English, first waker; and now, dreamer. And prajāpati says that, this taijasa is the same as viśva. viśva = taijasa = brahman. And naturally, we will get a question. "How can waker and dreamer ever be the same? Are not they different?" - you may wonder. If you are taking the waker and dreamer superficially, they are different. Their bodies are different. Their experiences are different. From vācyārthā angle, waker and dreamer are different. But, if you separate the body and take only the sākṣi caitanyam, the consciousness, which illumines them, from that standpoint, both of them are identical only.

It's like, equating the bangle and the ring. Bangle and ring are the same or different? What will you answer? Bangle and ring, the golden one - both are made up of gold. The bangle and ring - are they same or different, if I ask, what should you say? You should not say anything. You should ask the question, 'from what standpoint?' From the standpoint of name, there is bheda. From the standpoint of function there is bheda. From the standpoint of function there is bheda. nāma, rũpa, karma dṛṣṭyā bhedaḥ. But, from standpoint of EXISTENCE, both are one and the same. Similarly, viśva also is essentially, CONSCIOUSNESS. taijasa also is essentially, consciousness. Their fields of operation are different; but, the caitanyam itself is, not different.

Keeping this lakṣyārthā in mind, prajāpati says, the ātmā is what? ya eṣa - it is the same CONSCIOUSNESS principle, which was previously obtaining in sthūla śarĩram. Now, the very same CONSCIOUSNESS has dropped the previous sthūla śarĩram, while entering the dream world. When I enter the dream world, what is the first thing that I do? Undress this physical body and I dress up [like many people. After going home, they change the dress. And when coming out, they change the dress. There is an internal one, there is an external one. That is why you should never visit any place without giving advance notice. They have to dress up properly!] Similarly, I have got an external dress for jāgrat vyavahārā. What is the dress? The physical body. But, when 'I' go to dream 'I' [which 'I'? The same consciousness only] drop this body and 'I' take on another vāsanāmaya svapna śarĩram, which is purely made out of thought only. It is not bhautika śarĩram. It is vṛttimaya śarĩram - a body made out of thought in the mind.

Therefore, the same caitanyam has now entered the svapna śarĩram and svapna prapañca. There, what does this dreamer do? mahĩyamānaḥ caraty. mahĩyamānaḥ means, what? With all the glories. And what is the glory of dreamer? sańkalpa mātreṇa, he can create the vast dream universe. He only carries the vāsanās.

Do you remember the svapna definition in tattvabodha? If I have a monthly test, I will give you this question. But, do not worry. I would not. "jāgradavasthāyām yaddrṣṭam yad śrutam tajjanita vāsanayā nidrā samaye yaḥ prapañcaḥ pratīyate sā svapna avasthā. sūkṣmaśarīrābhimānī ātmā taijasa ityucyate."

Thus, what does this person do? mahĩyamānaḥ. What is the glory? sańkalpa mātreṇa. I have tiger thought - there is a tiger in front of me. I have mountain thought - there is a mountain in front of me. I do not carry any raw material at all. Just out of the vāsanās I create a dream world! Do not say it is unreal. It is very, very real only. Because, dream is real for the dreamer in dream. Therefore, he creates a wonderful world of his own, through the vāsanās. And, caraty - moves about, travels all over, even though sthũla śarĩram is lying down on the cot here. The cot is only 3 feet wide. If he moves a little bit, he will fall down only. But, without moving from the cot, he goes all over! Kāśĩ, Rāmeśvaram and all he does. With the help of what? sũkṣma śarĩram, svapna śarĩram. Again, that is the glory of what? caitanyam alone.

This caitanyam, functioning through svapna śarĩram, is called ātmā! This caitanyam is not a part, product or property of svapna śarĩram. It is an independent entity, which pervades and enlivens the svapna śarĩram. It is not limited by the svapna śarĩram. It continues to exist even after the svapna śarĩram perishes. The continuing consciousness is not accessible in the dream world. Why? Because, there is no medium there. Therefore, prajāpati says, etad amṛtam - this consciousness is immortal. abhayam - it is ever secure. Never suffers from the problem of insecurity. And eşa brahman - this taijasa is named brahman. And what did indrā do? He was excited and thrilled and he says, svapna puruṣaḥ is ātmā! taijasa is ātmā! And what does he do? He goes back; to come back again, next week!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

47. Chapter 8.10.1 to 8.10.4 and 8.11.1

य एष स्वप्ने महीयमानश्चरत्येष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति स ह शान्तहृदयः प्रवव्राज स हाप्राप्यैव देवानेतद्भयं ददर्श तद्यद्यपीद ्ंशरीरमन्धं भवत्यनन्धः स भवति यदि स्राममस्रामो नैवैषोऽस्य दोषेण दुष्यति ॥

ya eşa svapne mahîyamānaś caraty eşa ātmeti hovāca etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti sa ha śāntahṛdayaḥ pravavrāja sa hāprāpyaiva devān etad bhayaṃ dadarśa tadyadyapīda ʿ śarĩram andhaṃ bhavaty anandhaḥ sa bhavati yadi srāmamasrāmo naivaiṣo'sya doṣeṇa duṣyati || 8.10.1 ||

prajāpati, the teacher, first taught the ātmā as the waker or viśva caitanyam, which was known by the name aksi purusah. And the waker is the CONSCIOUSNESS, which is contained in the physical body container as it were. And the waker consciousness functions through the medium of the physical body, experiencing the external universe. And when prajāpati taught this, His intention was that the student should recognise the CONSCIOUSNESS part of the waker as the ātmā. Because of the consciousness alone, waker is a waker; and because of CONSCIOUSNESS alone, waker is awake to the external world. Therefore, the most important component of the waker is the consciousness principle. Physical body is only a medium through which consciousness functions as the waker. Therefore, the intention of the ācāryā is, that the student will take the content consciousness part and leave out the physical body, the container. So that, CONSCIOUSNESS is understood as limitless CONSCIOUSNESS. But, the moment CONSCIOUSNESS is combined with the physical body, the problem is the CONSCIOUSNESS appears to be waker, the localised finite CONSCIOUSNESS. That is why when I claim myself as a waker, if I take the consciousness component, limitation cannot be attributed. But, the moment I include the physical body, I feel located in this place. So, whether I am with a location; or, without a location, depends on, whether I include the container body or not. The teacher prajāpati wants to exclude the container, the medium body; but, the student, unfortunately, includes the container.

That is why Swāmĩ Chinmayānanda gives an example. guru wanted to teach this to the student, and he asked the student, 'bring me some water; I have some throat choking; so, you give me some water'. And the obedient śiṣyā went and brought a glass of water, naturally. And suddenly the guru got angry, 'I asked you for water, why did you bring the glass? You are a disobedient student. You are doing what I have not asked for'. The śiṣyā was wondering, 'until now guru was sane. What happened suddenly he says all these things? How can I carry water directly? It requires a container'. I will bring the water along with the container, whereas what should you do? While drinking you do not generally swallow the cup also! So it is brought along with the cup; but, bhāga tyāga lakṣaṇayā, the cup is dropped but you cannot ask the question, 'after all cup is not going to be drunk or swallowed why bring the cup at all?' You should not ask. Water should come along with the cup and it is the job of the person to take the water part and drop the container part.

Similarly, when the student wants to learn ātmā, ātmā happens to be what? consciousness principle which the guru cannot physically handle and hand over to the disciple. Therefore, what does he do? He takes a cup. What is the cup? The physical body is the cup or container in which the content called consciousness is very much present. What is the proof? Pinch yourself. You will know. It is not a dead body; but, it contains what? The content of consciousness. Therefore, the guru in the name of the waker, akṣi puruṣaḥ etc is handing over to the disciple, the container body and the content consciousness also, expecting that the student will not swallow the container also. He will drop the physical body and take what part? Waker, minus physical body, is equal to what? Do not say, nothing. Waker minus physical body is the caitanya tattvam. etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahma iti. So, that consciousness is not a part product or property of the body. This is the good intention of the teacher. But, the student happens to be a LOGNON (LOGNIAG) - a great swallower. Therefore, along with the caitanyam he takes what? The physical body also. And once the body is taken, the waker is finite. asti jāyate vardhate vipariņamate apakṣīyate vinaśyatī.

And therefore, the teacher understands that the student has not understood! Therefore he is changing the container. So, previously the gold container did not work. Let me try another container. Instead sthũla śarĩram - waker, now he goes to the svapna avasthā. There also the same consciousness is there; but, the medium has been changed. No more this physical body; but, vāsanāmaya śarĩram. During svapna, I do not use this physical body; this is dropped on the cot or on the bed. And what do I do? I create another body for me to use. That śarĩram is called svapna śarĩram or vāsanāmaya śarĩram. And that śarĩram is the container or content? That śarĩram also is only the inert container. In that, there is the precious content, called svapna puruṣaḥ. And when the teacher says, svapna puruṣaḥ, he is handing over svapna śarĩram and caitanyam. Even though he is handing over both the cup and container, what does he expect the student to do?

Two types of ice creams are there. You know one ice-cream you have to eat the ice-cream and throw away the container. There is another ice cream do you know? Better you go buy a cone ice cream or something, what is the specialty of that? You have to swallow. No bhāga tyāga lakṣaṇa! You have to swallow the content and the container or chocolate or whatever it must be. Thus, there, it is ice cream mix-up. Here, the student takes akşi puruşah also as caitanyam with body; and svapna puruşah also he takes the caitanyam, with svapna śarĩram, unfortunately. Therefore, he has to go through several layers of teaching. And now, we are in the second layer, which I introduced in the last class. ya eşa - the dreamer, the taijasa. taijasa is the name of what? caitanyam only, with the container śarĩram. But, the container should be used; but, it should not be included in the caitanyam. Both will go to the mouth, the container also goes to the mouth, water also goes to the mouth. What do you do? bhāga tyāga lakṣaṇayā, water alone you drink.

Similarly, in svapna also, what is there? caitanyam is there. That caitanyam is ātmā. What type of ātmā? Glorious ātmā. mahīyamānaś caraty and etad amrtam abhayam etad brahmeti - this caitanyam the container is mortal. The content caitanyam is immortal and abhyayam ever secure and that caitanyam is called brahman, the infinite; because, CONSCIOUSNESS is not limited by the boundaries of the body. And when this much was taught, indrā was initially very, very happy. And therefore what did he do? Thank you Sir, I have understood very clearly. sa ha śānta hrdayah pravavrāja. śānta hrdayah means, with total satisfaction he left. pravavrāja means he left the teacher. pra+'vraj' dhātu prasmaipadi lit prathma purusah eka vacanam vavrāja vavrājatuh vavrājuh iti rũpāņi. And then while he was travelling he was again thinking over the teachings; but, commits the same blunder. What is that? caitanyam he mixes with the svapna śarĩram. ātmā and anātmā once you mix, you have the problem [as we saw in the morning class]. That sambandha is because of mũlā avidyā. That sambandha should be broken. indrā does not know that, now. But there is a temporary satisfaction. And while travelling what happened? etad bhayam dadarśa - suddenly he saw the fear. Here, bhayam means doşam. This deficiency. This loop-hole, the following lacuna he saw in his understanding. What is that?

Certainly there is one advantage. What is the advantage? taijasa the svapna puruṣaḥ is not affected by whatever is happening to the sthũla śarĩram. That is why when a person has gone to sleep and he is in deep dream, on the body, even if mosquito is sitting and biting, he is not aware of what is happening; and people roll over also. What you call, the pillow, will be under the feet instead of under the head! They will do all kinds of things. Why? Because, he is not aware of the conditions of the body. Therefore, one thing is clear. The physical bodily condition do not affect whom? svapna śarĩram. That much I understand. Therefore he says, tad yadyapĩda ʿ śarĩram andhaṃ bhavati - a very interesting example. Even if the physical eyes have gone blind; because of some problem, may be because of some diabetics problem or retinal detachment problem. [I generally say, any type of detachment is good; because of, viveka, vairāgyam and all we say. But, one detachment is not good. What is that? Retinal detachment! Because, in retinal detachment, eyesight is gone.] But the interesting thing is if a person has the eye up to a particular age and even if the eye sight is gone, in svapna, he will be seeing forms and colours. And therefore he says, even if jāgrat śarĩram is blind, sa [svapna puruṣaḥ] anandhaḥ bhavati. anandhaḥ means, he has got the vision. So śarĩram yadyapĩ andham bhavati, saḥ [means svapna puruṣaḥ] anandhaḥ bhavati.

Similarly, yadi srāmamasrāmaḥ - if the physical body has got one eye less, in the svapna puruṣaḥ that deficiency will not be there. Similarly, eṣo'sya doṣeṇa na duṣyati - svapna puruṣaḥ is free from the problems of the jāgrat śarĩram. Very careful. svapna puruṣaḥ is free from the problems of the jāgrat śarĩram. That is why, even when the physical body is thoroughly tired, in svapna, he might be running a marathon! So, that will not affect. And not only that. Suppose he has eaten sumptuous dinner or lunch and he went to sleep, and because of over-eating he saw a dream, in that dream he may feel hungry also! So, whatever happens to the body, svapna puruṣaḥ is not influenced by that. All these are wonderful. Therefore, svapna puruṣaḥ seems to be the ātmā.

But, suddenly indrā remembers that, even though svapna puruṣaḥ is not affected by jāgrat śarĩram, svapna puruṣaḥ is affected by what? svapna śarĩram! This he did not discover in front of prajāpati! 'பின் புத்தி'-ன்னு சொல்றாளோல்லியோ! What it means? You recognise the problem later. Similarly, while traveling back, he discovers the problem and that is discussed in mantrā 2.

न वधेनास्य हन्यते नास्य स्नाम्येण स्नामो घ्नन्ति त्वेवैनं विच्छादयन्तीवाप्रियवेत्तेव भवत्यपि रोदितीव नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥

na vadhenāsya hanyate nāsya srāmyeņa srāmo ghnanti tvevainam vicchādayantīvāpriya-vetteva bhavatyapi roditīva nāhamatra bhogyam paśyāmīti I 8.10.2 I

asya vadhena na hanyate - because of the injury caused to the physical body, that is jāgrat śarĩram, the svapna puruṣaḥ is not affected. Here, vadha we will translate as injury to the jāgrat śarĩram. As I said, like the mosquito bite etc., he is blissfully ignorant. nāsya srāmyeṇa srāmaḥ - is a repetition. The previous mantrā's yadi srāmamasrāmaḥ - same idea, is repeated. Even if one eye is defective in the jāgrat śarĩram, that defect is not there in the svapna śarĩram. Up to this is fine. But, what is the problem? The svapna puruṣa is afflicted by the svapna śarĩram. So, ghnanti tu eva enaṃ - on the other hand, the svapna puruṣa is certainly injured by the svapna events and svapna objects. Which injury is experienced where? In svapna śarĩram! ghnanti tu eva enaṃ - and not only that.

vicchādayanti iva - svapna puruṣaḥ experiences svapna saṃsārā. When he dreams certainly wild animals are chasing him. Therefore, vicchādayanti means, chasing. May be a street dog is chasing him while he is going for a walk [at least in dream, in waking he is not walking!] At least in dream, he goes for a walk(!) and a street dog started chasing him. Dream street dog. He was running, cramps and all those things. Therefore, vicchādayanti means chasing, vidravaṇa - making him run; and apriya vetta iva bhavaty api - in dream also, he hears or experiences unfavourable conditions. apriyam means, what? Unfavourable situations. vetta means, the experiencer in dream, it is not as though. He goes through all the sufferings. So, apriya vetteva bhavaty - not only he hears bad news; there also [and if he knows it is only dream bad news he will not cry] but, unfortunately one does not know dream, as dream, in dream. Therefore, roditīva - he profusely cries and wails and all those things he does. And, therefore, aham atra bhogyaṃ na paśyāmĩ - I do not see any benefit by knowing svapna puruṣaḥ as myself! So, akṣi puruṣaḥ as myself does not redeem me; and, svapna puruṣaḥ as myself, also does not improve my situation!

Therefore, as viśva I am not happy. As taijasa I am not happy. Therefore, better, I will go back to prajāpati once again. And again he retraced the steps. Perhaps he might have phoned devalokā, 'I will come later'! Continuing. [mantrās 8.10.3 & 4 are taken here, together].

स समित्पाणिः पुनरेयाय त ्हं प्रजापतिरुवाच मघवन्यच्छान्तहृदयः प्राव्राजीः किमिच्छन्पुनरागम इति स होवाच तद्यद्यपीदं भगवः शरीरमन्धं भवत्यनन्धः स भवति यदि स्राममस्रामो नैवैषोऽस्य दोषेण दुष्यति ॥

sa samitpāņiķ punareyāya tač ha prajāpatiruvāca maghavanyacchāntahrdayaķ prāvrājīķ kim icchan punarāgama iti sa hovāca tadyadyapīdam bhāgavaķ śarīram andham bhavaty anandhaķ sa bhavati yadi srāmamasrāmo naivaiso'sya doseņa dusyati || 8.10.3 ||

न वधेनास्य हन्यते नास्य साम्येण सामो घ्नन्ति त्वेवैनं विच्छादयन्तीवाप्रियवेत्तेव भवत्यपि रोदितीव नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीत्येवमेवैष मघवन्निति होवाचैतं त्वेव ते भूयोऽनुव्याख्यास्यामि वसापराणि द्वात्रि ्ंशतं वर्षाणीति स हापराणि द्वात्रि ्ंशतं वर्षाण्युवास तस्मै होवाच ॥

na vadhenāsya hanyate nāsya srāmyeņa srāmo ghnanti tvevainam vicchādayantīvāpriya-vetteva bhavatyapi roditīva nāhamatra bhogyam paśyāmi ity evamevaisa maghavann iti hovāca etam tveva te bhūyo'nuvyākhyāsyāmi vasāparāņi dvātrič satam varsānīti sa hāparāni dvātrič satam varsānyuvāsa tasmai hovāca II 8.10.4 II So, you must have understood the meaning as even you read it. sa samitpāņiķ punar eyāya - indrā again came back to prajāpati and again samitpāņiķ. He did not say, 'the old samit is there, please take it.' No. Again he took fresh samit and went. "ta ` ha prajāpatiķ uvāca maghavan yacchānta hṛdayaķ prāvrājĩķ kim icchan punaķ āgama" iti - and prajāpati asked the question, 'you were satisfied with my teaching and so, why did you come back again?'

And then sa hovāca - indrā repeats the same thing that was said in the previous mantrās 8.10.1&2. in mantrās 8.10.3&4 [From tadyadyapīdam up to aham atra bhogyam paśyāmīty - up to this, is repetition of the mantrā. Therefore I am not going word for word explanation]. indrā says, 'No doubt svapna puruṣaḥ has got certain advantages. He is not affected by the problems of sthũla śarĩram, alright; but, svapna puruṣa has got the problems of the sũkṣma śarĩram, vāsanāmaya śarĩra, svapna śarĩra because; in svapna also, many prārabdhams are supposed to be exhausted.

According to śāstrā, the type of svapna I have, my WILL does not seem to determine. If I have WILL in deciding the dream then what can I do? Before going I can see the board and I can decide what all dreams. In fact you can replay the class! It will be good. One hour, just like the VCP or VCR you can switch on any recorded program. Similarly, if only we had a WILL in svapna, we could have decided the dream but unfortunately nobody is able to decide the dream, including for a jñāni. Including a jñāni, nobody can decide the type of dream. If WILL does not decide the dream, then what must be deciding? Other than WILL, there is only one factor in the entire cosmos. Only two factors decide, either WILL; or, what? You may call it vāsanā. But, even in the vāsanā, which vāsanā to come it should be decided. 'Who is the selector who operates the selector switch', if you ask, you cannot say bhagavān. Even if you say bhagavān, bhagavān will not choose any dream, as He likes! Then, bhagavān will become again cruel & partial. Even if bhagavān decides, bhagavān will have to decide according to prārabdhā.

Therefore, our dreams are influenced by prārabdhā also. While managing, controlling our waking state, we can control the dream to some extent - like not watching a horror movie in the evening. If you watch a horror movie in the evening, it will be so powerful that, in the dream it will come. Therefore, certainly our WILL has got some control over svapna; because, we can decide the vāsanās; but, it is not total control. There is only partial control. What I want to say is, what? In dream also, part of the prārabdham is exhausted. If a sanyāsi has got a prārabdhā for dream gṛhasthāśrama, what will happen? In dream he will get married ! Only saving grace is, he will wake up. And therefore, indrā says, svapna puruṣa also is affected by prārabdhā and saṃsārā. Therefore, aham atra bhogyaṃ paśyāmi - up to this, is repetition of the mantrā. Therefore I am not going word for word explanation.

Now, mantrā 4, third line you see. evam eva eṣa maghavann iti hovāca - So, prajāpati says, 'what you say is true. If you understand svapna puruṣaḥ as you have understood; if you understand svapna puruṣaḥ as I intended, then you will be excluding the body, and taking the consciousness part only. Therefore, if lakṣyārtha of svapna puruṣaḥ is taken, it means what? caitanyam! Therefore, svapna puruṣaḥ is muktaḥ or baddhaḥ? If lakṣyārtha is taken, [are you able to follow?] svapna puruṣa is also free, if you take the implied meaning. [What is the implied meaning? caitanyam alone, leaving out the body]. But, what has indrā taken? vācyārthā he has taken.

Therefore, svapna puruṣa includes the śarĩram. And once śarĩram is included, you are going to be a saṃsāri. Why, you? Even bhagavān Himself, once he takes the śarĩram, rāmā also had to cry profusely! Read rāmāyaṇam. After missing sĩtā, rāmā goes crazy. He talks to trees and rocks and all those things! What does it mean? śarĩrā means, all these things are unavoidable. Even for bhagavān! And therefore, prajāpati says, from your standpoint, when svapna puruṣaḥ is vācyārtha puruṣaḥ, then, evam eva - that svapna puruṣaḥ is certainly a saṃsāri only.

And, prajāpati could have corrected the teaching, 'I did not mean that', he could have said. But, instead of disheartening indrā, prajāpati says, 'I will teach you again'. So, itaṃ tu eva te bhūyaḥ - the very same ātmā, which I taught as akṣi puruṣa, and as svapna puruṣa, I will teach you in a different way, taking a different container. The difference is only in the container. Like some children cry, 'I want milk only in that tumbler'. Then the mother gives. Because, mother is interested in what? The milk part, in the lakṣyārtha part. But the baby, being immature, is bothered about the type of container; because, neighbour's child has got that container! When children are fighting, we laugh; but, our life also is only fighting for containers! We have missed the bus. Missed the content. Okay.

etam tu eva te bhūyah anu vyākhyāsyāmi. But, one condition. What is that? "vasa aparāni dvātri^{}, śatam varṣāni" iti - another 32 years live here & serve! [Now, you can decide whether you want to learn vedāntā from brahmājī by going to brahmalokā; or, learn from me, you can choose! So therefore, whether you want brahmājī or me, you can choose; because, brahmājī may be a better teacher; I do not know; but, certainly he will ask you for another 32 years, which I will not ask!] Therefore, vasa aparāni dvātri^{}, śatam varṣāni another 32 years serve. And what did indrā do? What can he do? No other way. Therefore, another 32 years he served. And tasmai ha uvāca - and thereafter, went and joined brahmājī's class. And only one student! What happened? Continuing. [With the previous mantrā, 10th section is over. Now, we are entering 11th section].

Eighth Chapter - Section 11

तद्यत्रैतत्सुप्तः समस्तः सम्प्रसन्नः स्वप्नं न विजानात्येष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति स ह शान्तहृदयः प्रवव्राज स हाप्राप्यैव देवानेतद्भयं ददर्श नाह खल्वयमेव ्सम्प्रत्यात्मानं जानात्ययमहमस्मीति नो एवेमानि भूतानि विनाशमेवापीतो भवति नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥

tad yatraitat suptah samastah samprasannah svapnam na vijānāty esa ātmeti hovāca itad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti sa ha śāntahṛdayah pravavrāja sahā prāpyaiva devān etad bhayam dadarśa nāha khalvayam eva sampraty ātmānam jānāty ayam aham asmīti no evemāni bhūtāni vināśam evāpīto bhavati nāham atra bhogyam paśyāmīti || 8.11.1 ||

akşi puruşaḥ - the viśva, the waker, was taught; svapna puruşaḥ - the taijasa, the dreamer, was taught. And in both, unfortunately, indrā included the container body. So, He missed the teaching. Therefore, prajāpati thought, 'if there is a container he is getting confused; because he is mixing up the container with the content. Therefore, let me talk about supta puruṣaḥ, in which there is no container'. Manifest container is not there. There is no experience of any physical body in sleep. Only when there is the body, I am including body with consciousness; whereas, in suṣupti there is a caitanyam. And the caitanyam is not associated with any manifest body, in suṣupti. And, what is the proof that there is no manifest body? The moment there is experience of the body, I will feel located in a place. In suṣupti, I do not feel localised in particular time, space coordinate. I am in the form of non-localised caitanyam, is there without feeling localised by time, space coordinates.

Therefore, prajāpati thinks, 'I will reveal the ātmā as supta puruṣaḥ, wherein container is not experienced. ['Container' do you understand? The physical body, which localises the individual]. No doubt, there is kāraṇa śarĩram; but, remember, kāraṇa śarĩram is manifest or unmanifest? The very word kāraṇam means, unmanifest. Potential. Therefore, even though it is there, we do not experience the kāraṇa śarĩram. It is inferred after coming to the waking state. I infer. All must have been there in potential form. If they were not in potential form, during waking, they cannot come back. Thus, there is an inference.

avyaktanāmnī parameśaśaktih anādyavidyā triguņātmikā parā | kāryānumeyā sudhiyaiva māyā yayā jagatsarvamidam prasūyate || mantrā 108 ||

While defining kāraņa śarīram in vivekacūdāmaņi, śańkarācāryā says, kāraņa śarīram is inferred from our experiences in jāgrat avasthā. That means, at the time of sleep, I do not feel I am in kāraņa śarīram; and so, CONSCIOUSNESS in suṣupti is unlocalised.

Therefore, etad amṛtam. Therefore, etad abhayam, etad brahma can be taught. Therefore prajāpati thinks, 'it will work wonderfully'. With all hope he teaches. tad yatra. yatra means, suṣupti avasthāyām, etat suptaḥ samastaḥ - etat means, this ātmā, the caitanyam, that is, puruṣa caitanyam, samastaḥ suptaḥ - has gone to sleep, completely.

samastah is adjective to suptah. He is a complete sleeper person. And why should you add the adjective complete sleeper? You must be getting that now; because, there is incomplete sleeper in the form of dreamer. Dreamer is also asleep; but, he is not totally asleep. The memory part of the antahkarana is active. manah, buddhih, cittam, ahańkāram. The cittam, the vāsanāmaya antahkaranam, is awake and active. Therefore, he is a partial sleeper only. Whereas, here, we are talking about a dreamless sleeper. samastah means, what? svapna rahita suṣuptah. In English, we use the word, deep sleep. Deep sleep means, what? He is sleeping under the well! No, it has got nothing to do with that. This adjective is not required; because, in English, 'sleep' means, sleep only. Because, for the other one, we have got the name, 'dream'. There is no confusion. In Sanskrit only, the word suptah is waste; because, it can be dreamer. It can be a sleeper, also. Because, the word svap can indicate dreamfulor dreamless sleep. Therefore, adjective is added. samastah suptah means, the dreamless sleeper.

Therefore only, samprasanna^h - absolutely tranquil. No rāga^h, no dveṣa^h, no kāma, no krodha, no limitation. Nothing to limit. That is why always we love sleep. There is nobody in the world who does not love sleep. vidyāraⁿyā tells somewhere, because people love sleep only, the bedroom condition people are very, very, very particular. What type of bed should be, what type of pillow should be, whether other rooms are air-conditioned or not, at least bedroom must be air-conditioned. Why we are so particular? If sleep is a miserable experience, we will not give that much importance. Sleep is the most lovable thing; because, 'I' the ānanda ātmā, am there in sleep. Therefore, it is called samprasanna^h. Totally tranquil.

And therefore, svapnam na vijānāty. These are all whose words? prajāpati is teaching indrā. This sleeper who does not experience sleep, eṣa ātmā. eṣa ātmā - that consciousness, which pervades the blankness in the sleep, because of which alone, the blankness in the sleep is experienced by us. How do we know? After waking up, we are able to talk about sleep. It is because, it is not total nothingness. It is only the nothingness pervaded by caitanyam which illumines. But, generally, our problem is what? We take the caitanyam for granted and instead of saying caitanyam is, what do we say? Nothing is.

In pañcaḍaśi 10th chapter, nāṭaka dĩpa prakaraṇam, vidyāraṇyā gives this brilliant example of a nāṭakam, a drama, going on the stage. And, in the stage, so many people are there; and varieties of materials are there; and at the end of the show, all the people vacate; and all the sets are also removed. They would have made it of cardboard and all. So many things. They are all removed. And, somebody asked the question, 'what is on the stage?' And they answer is 'absolutely nothing. The stage has been evacuated, emptied totally'. So, he says, 'the stage is empty'. But, on enquiry, it is not empty; because, there is the light on the stage! What is the proof? If light is not there, you will not be able to say, 'the stage is empty'. The very emptiness we are able to talk about; because of the light. BUT, BECAUSE IT IS THERE ALL THE TIME, WE TAKE IT FOR GRANTED.

Similarly, in suṣupti, I the caitanyam - that is the ātmā, am there. Therefore, vijānāty eṣa ātmeti hovāca etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahma iti - this caitanyam alone is brahman. And what is the word used in tattvabodha for supta puruṣaḥ? viśva, taijasa and then, prājñaḥ.

And when prājña was revealed as the ātmā, indrā was, as usual, very happy. 'Thank you, thank you'. And, sa ha śānta hṛdayaḥ pravavrāja - with total satisfaction pravavrāja he left.

And, sa hāprāpyaiva devān etad bhayaṃ dadarśa - even before reaching deva lokā, he saw something wrong in this teaching. etad bhayaṃ dadarśa. What is the mistake? He says, nāha khalu ayam eva šampraty ātmānaṃ jānāty - just as, I am able to claim now, in the waking state, that, "I am"; because, in the waking state, I am able to clearly talk about, myself. 'I am located here'. 'I am so and so' etc. I am able to clearly give self-reference, in terms of thought also, in terms of words also, I am able to do. As akṣi puruṣaḥ, I am able to talk about myself; as svapna puruṣaḥ, I am able to talk. But, as supta puruṣa, I am not able to say, 'I am supta puruṣaḥ'.

[Are you able to understand?] In sleep, I never say, 'I am supta puruṣaḥ; and, 'I am of the nature of all pervading caitanyam'. Everything has resolved! There is total blankness. The blankness is there because of 'me'. And, 'I' am the all pervading consciousness. 'etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahma' I am not able to talk about 'myself', in suṣupti. I am not able to think about myself in suṣupti; because, in suṣupti if you think about yourself, it is not suṣupti. In deep sleep state, if you think about yourself, it is not deep sleep state. Therefore, as supta puruṣaḥ, I am not able to talk about myself. Therefore, people conclude, that in suṣupti I am not there. There is only blankness; and there is nothing. It is exactly like after death also. If I say, 'you continue to survive after death', nobody wants to believe that; because, after this body drops, [even though the fifth principle of consciousness is what? consciousness survives after the fall of the body; but, the surviving consciousness is not accessible; because, the body medium is absent]. But, nobody wants to believe that; because, what is the proof that I continue to survive?

Similarly, here also, since 'I' am not able to identify myself, as ātmā, in suṣupti, my conclusion is, 'I am not there'. Then what is there? Blankness is there. Therefore, what does indrā say? sampraty iva ātmānaṃ khalvayam na jānāty - just as 'I am able to talk about myself now', [now means, what? In jāgrat avasthā], similarly, the supta puruṣa is not able to talk about himself. And how he does not talk about himself? "ayam aham asmi" iti. In suṣupti, I do not claim, "I am the consciousness ātmā, which is illuming the blankness" - I am not able to tell. Not only 'I am not able to talk about myself, I am not able to talk about the world also'. Neither the subject is there; nor, the object is there. Subject-object less śũnya experience alone is there. supta puruṣaḥ is śũnya puruṣaḥ! [This is not prajāpati's teaching].

But, indrā concludes that, supta puruṣaḥ is śũnya puruṣaḥ. And therefore, I am not interested in this knowledge. vināśam eva apĩto bhavati - one is totally entity-less, individuality-less, the very existence is questionable. 'aham atra bhogyaṃ na paśyāmi' iti - and therefore, I do not see any benefit. This is the conclusion of indrā. Therefore, what he will do? Come next week.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते। पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

48. Chapter 8.11.1 to 8.11.3 and 8.12.1

तद्यत्रैतत्सुप्तः समस्तः सम्प्रसन्नः स्वप्नं न विजानात्येष आत्मेति होवाचैतदमृतमभयमेतद्ब्रह्मेति स ह शान्तहृदयः प्रवव्राज स हाप्राप्यैव देवानेतद्भयं ददर्श नाह खल्वयमेव ्सम्प्रत्यात्मानं जानात्ययमहमस्मीति नो एवेमानि भूतानि विनाशमेवापीतो भवति नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥

tad yatraitat suptah samastah samprasannah svapnam na vijānāty esa ātmeti hovāca etad amṛtam abhayam etad brahmeti sa ha śāntahṛdayah pravavrāja sahā prāpyaiva devān etad bhayam dadarśa nāha khalvayam eva sampraty ātmānam jānāty ayam aham asmīti no evemāni bhūtāni vināśam evāpīto bhavati nāham atra bhogyam paśyāmīti || 8.11.1 ||

After revealing the ātmā as akṣi puruṣa, the viśvaḥ; and, svapna puruṣaḥ, the taijasaḥ; now, the teacher, prajāpati, is revealing the same ātmā as supta puruṣaḥ. akṣi puruṣaḥ is the consciousness which is functioning through the physical body, experiencing jāgrat prapañca. svapna puruṣaḥ is the very same consciousness; but, functioning through this svapna śarĩra, experiencing the svapna prapañca. The bodies are different; but, the consciousness happens to be one and the same. But, indrā did not understand the teaching properly; because, HE MISTOOK THE LIMITATION OF THE MEDIUM AS THE LIMITATION OF THE consciousness ITSELF. The body has got a boundary; but, the consciousness, which is experiencing the world, through the body, that consciousness itself, does not have any limitation. But, because of the proximity of the body and consciousness, we are TRANSFERRING THE LIMITATION OF THE BODY TO CONSCIOUSNESS.

And to avoid this problem only, the teacher, prajāpati, is coming to the suṣupti avasthā. There, the advantage is, jĩvā is functioning through the kāraṇa śarĩram; but, the presence of kāraṇa śarĩram and the absence of kāraṇa śarĩram is practically the same; because, kāraṇa śarĩram and the absence of kāraṇa śarĩram is practically the same; because, kāraṇa śarĩram IS AN UNMANIFEST PRINCIPLE. Therefore, during suṣupti, the body is in resolved form. The sense organs are all resolved. There is no finite entity, whose limitations you can transfer on to CONSCIOUSNESS.

Are you able to follow? Mind is not functioning in suṣupti. Sense organs are not available. The physical body we are not making use of. Since they are all resolved, their limitations cannot be transferred to consciousness. Therefore, in suṣupti, I am existing as the allpervading sākṣi caitanyam, without any limitation. And because I have no limitation, I do not feel any localisation in suṣupti. Localisation comes only when I transfer the finitude of the body on to 'myself'. When I so transfer, 'I' feel localised. Whereas, in suṣupti, I am existing as brahman since no such transfer is possible. I am existing as 'the all pervading caitanyam'; and therefore, prajāpati said, 'this supta puruṣaḥ is the ātmā'.

But, unfortunately, here also, indrā successfully commits a mistake! And, what is the mistake? During suşupti I do exist in the form of limitless consciousness. And that limitless consciousness cannot do any vyavahārā by itself. vyavahārā means, what? Any type of transaction. Therefore, the pure consciousness cannot say, 'now, I am the all pervading caitanyam; I do not have any limitation; I am nitya śuddha buddha ātmā, the pure consciousness!', the poor consciousness, cannot say that. Because, to do any vyavahārā, we require what? Active instruments are required. An active mind, an active sense organ are required for the ātmā to claim, 'I am the ātmā'. Therefore, the non-claiming ātmā is there in suṣupti. The claiming ahańkārā is resolved. And, all the time, 'I' have mistaken myself to be the claiming ahańkārā; because, in jāgrat avasthā, ahańkārā is active. In svapna avasthā also, ahańkāraḥ is there. In suṣupti, when ahańkārā is resolved, the active, claiming ahańkāraḥ is resolved.

So, what do I conclude? 'I myself' am not there. Therefore, that experience is, as though 'I' am non existent; because, there does not seem to be any proof for the continuity of 'me'. Just as, after the death of the body, though I may survive; I have no method of claiming 'I' am surviving. In susupti also, the existence of the non-transacting 'I' appears, 'as though, non-existent'. Are you able to follow? The existence of non-transacting 'I' appears, 'as though 'I' am non-existent'.

Therefore, poor indrā concludes, 'if suṣupti is the place where 'I am there', it means, 'I am non-existent! Thus, he concluded, etad bhayaṃ dadarśa. In suṣupti 'I am not there', I am not able to claim it, I am not able to prove it even in suṣupti. Therefore, it appears, as though 'I am śũnyam' or blankness. So, vināśam eva apīto bhavati - I am dead and gone, as it were! And therefore, I do not see any advantage in claiming supta puruṣaḥ as myself. Claiming supta puruṣaḥ as myself means, experience of total blankness or emptiness must be my real self! And I do not find any benefit by becoming zero; or, non-entity. Why should I do a very elaborate sādhanā to become - what? To become - zero. Already I am zero! Why should I do elaborate sādhanā to become śũnyam or blankness; because, that is what I will be, if I am supta puruṣaḥ. Therefore, aham atra bhogyaṃ na paśyāmī. bhogyaṃ here means, prayojanam. No benefit in this knowledge!

That is why many people ask, 'what is the advantage of videha mukti?' Because, in videha mukti, I am existent without a body mind complex. If I am existing without body mind complex, that existence will be exactly like what? suṣupti only! I cannot even claim, 'I am a videha muktaḥ; I have become one with all pervading brahman'. So, should I really gain videha mukti?' some people wonder; because, it is as though becoming a non-entity. This doubt will come. indrā also gets such a doubt. So, what did he do? Again rushed back to prajāpati! That is said in the next mantrā. We will read.

स समित्पाणिः पुनरेयाय त ्हं प्रजापतिरुवाच मघवन्यच्छान्तहृदयः प्राव्राजीः किमिच्छन्पुनरागम इति स होवाच नाह खल्वयं भगव एव ्ंसम्प्रत्यात्मानं जानात्ययमहमस्मीति नो एवेमानि भूतानि विनाशमेवापीतो भवति नाहमत्र भोग्यं पश्यामीति ॥ 8.11.2 ॥

sa samitpāņiķ punareyāya tač ha prajāpatiruvāca maghavan yacchāntahrdayaķ prāvrājīķ kim icchan punar āgama iti sa hovāca nāha khalvayam bhagava evač sampraty ātmānam jānāty ayam ahamasmīti no evemāni bhūtāni vināśamevāpīto bhavati nāhamatra bhogyam paśyāmīti II

So, most of these sentences are repetition. sa samitpāņiķ punar eyāya - indrā again went to prajāpati with samitpāņiķ; and prajāpati asked him, 'you were satisfied when you went back. What makes you come back again?' indrā replied, 'if supta puruṣaķ is ātmā, I do not find any prayojanam in that; because, supta puruṣaķ is as though naṣṭaḥ or śũnyaḥ. Being blankness himself. And the mistake indrā has committed is, the blankness in the suṣupti itself is illumined by what? The very caitanyam. "That caitanyam 'I' am", he has to claim; but, because of the lack of understanding of teaching, instead of claiming the caitanyam component of the blankness as himself, he is taking the blankness as himself. It is like a dark room. In the dark room we say, nobody is there. But, when you say nobody or nothing is there, you are able to say that; because, you are there. So, whenever you go to a hall and say, 'nobody is there', what does it mean? You can never say, 'nobody is there'; because, to say 'nobody is there', there must be somebody! Therefore, the meaning of 'nobody' is = the observer of nobody. So, what is the new formula? Nobody is not nobody. Nobody means, somebody. And who is that somebody? The observer of nobody!

Similarly, during suṣupti, when you say, 'there is śũnyam or blankness', it means caitanyam only - which is the observer of the śũnyatā. Instead of claiming the bhāva rũpa caitanyam as 'I am', he mistakes the abhāva rũpa blankness as himself. Naturally, he will not be satisfied. Who wants to be abhāva rũpam? Therefore he says, vināśam eva apĩto bhavati - the jĩvātmā is śũnyam during suṣupti; therefore, I do not find any benefit in śũnyātma vāda. This is the blunder buddhism committed, especially the mahāyāna buddhism or śũnya vāda. buddhism committed this blunder only, saying that, 'nothing is there!' And, what is the proof? suṣupti becomes the proof for that!

And then, prajāpati has to again teach him. That is given in the next mantrā. I am not going word by word; because, almost all words are repetition of previous mantrās.

एवमेवैष मघवन्निति होवाचैतं त्वेव ते भूयोऽनुव्याख्यास्यामि नो एवान्यत्रैतस्माद्वसापराणि पञ्च वर्षाणीति स हापराणि पञ्च वर्षाण्युवास तान्येकशत ्सम्पेदुरेतत्तद्यदाहुरेकशत ्हँ वै वर्षाणि मघवान्प्रजापतौ ब्रह्मचर्यमुवास तस्मै होवाच ॥ 8.11.3 ॥

evamevaisa maghavann iti hovāca etam tveva te bhūyo'nuvyākhyāsyāmi no evānyatrai tasmād - vasāparāņi pañca varsāņīti sa hāparāņi pañca varsāņyuvāsa tānyekasata sampedur etat tadyadāhur ekasata ha vai varsāņi maghavan prajāpatau brahmacaryam uvāsa tasmai hovāca II

prajāpati tells indrā, "you are very, very correct". You are very, very correct does not exactly mean you are correct! From your standpoint, you are right. Because, during suṣupti, 'I' in the form of ahańkāraḥ, the individuality is non-existent. And if the individuality is yourself during suṣupti, you are a non-entity. Therefore, from your standpoint, you are right; but, this is not prajāpati's communication. And therefore, he says, "you are right; and I will teach you once again, so that you will be satisfied for good". Therefore, etaṃ tu eva te bhūyaḥ. etaṃ tu eva means, the same caitanyam. As jāgrat akṣi puruṣaḥ also, what he taught is what? The consciousness alone. svapna puruṣaḥ also he taught is consciousness alone. The difference is only in the medium of expression; like, revealing electricity through the bulb; and, revealing the same electricity through the mike. The medium is different. The function is also different. But, the electricity is the same one.

Every time I am trying to teach what? The electricity only. To teach that, I show the bulb. You take the bulb and miss the electricity! Then again, I try showing the mike; so that, you will understand electricity used in magnifying my voice. Again, you commit the blunder of getting lost in the mike. Thus, every time the locus of revelation only is different; but, the object of revelation is what? The same caitanyam, in jāgrat avasthā. The same caitanyam, in svapna avasthā. The same caitanyam, in suṣupti avasthā. The subject matter is what? The same caitanyam only! Unfortunately, in all these three occasions, prajāpati has failed; because, the medium is taken; and the original caitanyam is lost sight of! Therefore, prajāpati says, 'I will make a last attempt'; because, only three avasthās are there. Therefore, I will make a last attempt to reveal the turĩyam which is not related to all the three. That, I will try communicating. It is your luck and also my luck as a teacher. Therefore, etaṃ tu eva te. etaṃ means, the same caitanyam, I shall teach you; but, a condition. Again you should serve in my āśramā; but, some concession. Previously 32 years; now, I am giving you a concession. Five years you do gurukula vāsa. aparāņi pañca varṣāņy. aparāņi means, what? Another five more years. And why another? Because, already, 3*32, how much? Already, 96 years you have served me. Now, five more. That is why aparāņi. Five more years you serve me. indrā has no option. Therefore, sa ha aparāņi pañca varṣāņy uvāsa. And thus, totally 96+5, 101 years service only! We do not know how much teaching time was; but, service time itself was 101 years. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, tāny ekaśata, sampeduḥ - thus, the total number of years have become eka śatam. eka śatam is = ekottara śatam. eka should be understand as eka uttara śatam. eka uttara śatam means, 101 years. Like, aṣṭottara śata nāmāvalī means, what? 108. Similarly, ekottara śatam means, 101. sampeduḥ means, it became. 'sampa' dhātu parasmaipadi liţ prathma puruṣaḥ bahu vacanam sapāda pedatuḥ peduḥ, iti rũpāṇi. Thus, 101 years it became, totally.

And therefore only, all the people talk about the great teaching which went between, which transpired between, indrā and prajāpati. Many people in the world talk about that. Why many people? We are also now talking about that. Therefore, upanisad says, etat tad yad āhuh all the people talk about this episode. And what do they say? ekaśata, ha vai varsāni maghavan prajāpatau brahmacaryam uvāsa - all the people in the world declare that maghavan, [maghavan means indrā], ekaśata ha vai varşāni - for 101 years, brahmacaryam uvāsa - he remained a brahmacāri. And that is what we saw in this yesterday's kathopanisad class also. Two types of brahmacarya. One is naisthika brahmacarya, where a brahmacāri remains a brahmacāri for the sake of scriptural learning. It is called naisthika brahmacaryam. He never gets married. Entire life he stays in gurukulam, serves and learns. But, there is another type of brahmacaryam. What is that? A grhastha himself goes to gurukulam for studying vedāntā for 2 years, 3 years, 5 years etc. And, during that time, he follows the disciplines of a brahmacāri. That temporary brahmacaryam followed by grhastha, during śāstrā adhyayanam, is called brahma vidyā ańga brahmacaryam. And here, indrā's brahmacaryam is what? Not, naisthika brahmacaryam; it is, brahma vidyā ańga brahmacaryam; because, 'his wife is waiting there! You know, 'who is indrā's wife?' Very easy to remember. ஒரு ஆணியைப் போட்டா போதும்! 'ஆணீ'-ன்னா தப்பா எடுத்துக்காதீங்கோ! indrāṇi. Do not think, 'Swāmĩjĩ 'ஆணீயெல்லம் சொல்றார்! Not ஆணி. indrāni is there! Therefore, "this is brahma vidyāńga brahmacaryam he lived" - thus, all the people declare! And those five years were also over.

Now, indrā and prajāpati are ready for the last lap of the adhyayanam, which is the caturtha pādah of maṇḍũkya upaniṣad, which is the turĩya caitanyam, asańga caitanyam - not connected with anyone of the 3 bodies. So, the following portion is the MAIN THEME of the entire aṣṭama adhyāya; especially, in the vedāntic portion, the following alone is THE IMPORTANT PORTION. Following section, number 12, is very elaborately analysed in brahma sũtrā. We will enter that.

Eighth Chapter - Section 12

मघवन्मर्त्यं वा इद ्ंशरीरमात्तं मृत्युनातदस्यामृतस्याशरीरस्यात्मनोऽधिष्ठानमात्तो वै सशरीरः प्रियाप्रियाभ्यां न वै सशरीरस्य सतः प्रियाप्रिययोरपहतिरस्त्यशरीरं वाव सन्तं न प्रियाप्रिये स्पृशतः ॥

maghavan martyam vā ida šarīram āttam mrtyunā tad asyāmrtasyāśarīrasyātmano dhisthānam ātto vai saśarīrah priyāpriyābhyām na vai saśarīrasya satah priyāpriyayor apahatir asty aśarīram vāva santam na priyāpriye sprsatah || 8.12.1 ||

A VERY IMPORTANT MANTRĀ. 'hey maghavan', prajāpati is addressing indrā. One of the names of indrā is maghavan. maghavat śabdah. hey maghavan, ida šárīram martyam - when you clearly note this point, this body which is made up of matter is perishable; is subject to six fold transformations. asti jāyate vardhate vipariņamate apakṣīyate vinaśyatī. Body is matter and perishable. And note that the body does not have consciousness of its own. consciousness is not a part, a product or a property of the perishable material body. And this can be extended to the mind also. Mind is also made up matter. That is also a perishable and inert entity only. consciousness is not a part, product or property of this mind. And later, you can go to a 'thought' also. consciousness is not a part, product or property of the even a 'thought'. Body is inert matter. Mind is inert matter. Thought is inert matter.

Therefore, ida  śarĩram. śarĩram includes sthũla, sũkṣma śarĩram, martyaṃ - it is decaying or changing matter; and therefore only, mṛtyunā āttaṃ - and this physical body is in the grasp of the yama dharma rājā. āttaṃ means, what? Within the jaws of yama dharma rājā or kāla tattvam. Like, a deer or an animal caught within the jaw of a crocodile or a lion. Prey has been gripped tightly. It will be struggling; but, the predator will not leave. Similarly, every physical body is within the jaws of death. We think that yama dharma rājā will come later, only at the time of departure. upaniṣad says, do not commit that mistake. Already the body is within His mouth; because, every moment, the body is being consumed by kālā. Therefore, āttam means, within the grip of kāla tattvam. āttam is derived from the root ā+dā dhātu. And its past passive participle is ādattam. Optionally, the middle letter 'da' is dropped. Then, ādattam becomes, āttam.

So, tad - this perishable body, ātmanaḥ adhiṣṭhānam - is a locus or a abode, through which the CONSCIOUSNESS functions. adhiṣṭhānam means what? The locus or the āyatanam. In tattvabodha we saw, bhoga āyatanam. adhiṣṭhānam means, it is an āyatanam, resting place. For what? the CONSCIOUSNESS. ātmanaḥ means, caitanya rũpa ātmanaḥ. adhiṣṭhānam. tat means, sthũla śarĩram or sũkṣma śarĩram, both. AND WHAT TYPE OF CONSCIOUSNESS? THAT ALONE IS VERY IMPORTANT. AŚARĨRASYA - THE CONSCIOUSNESS, WHICH DOES NOT HAVE ANY CONNECTION WITH THE BODY. If CONSCIOUSNESS has connection with the body, it will be called, 'the embodied self'; but, it is called aśarĩram. aśarĩram means, what? It does not have link with the body. Remember the example. The light pervading my hand is there in the hand; but, it is not tied to, fastened to, connected to the hand. If it is connected to the hand, what will happen? When the hand moves, the light also will move. Thus, it is manifest there. But, it is not connected. Similarly, caitanyam is manifest in the body; but, it does not have sambandha with the body.

Therefore, 'ātmā is embodied or un-embodied?', if somebody asks, what should be the answer? ātmā is body-less. We think ātmā becomes body-less only after the death of the body. vedāntā says, even when body is alive, 'I', the caitanyam, do not have any connection at all to the body. Therefore, when body grows old, 'I', the caitanyam does not grow old. When the body is sick, 'I', the caitanyam is not sick. 'I' have absolutely no relationship with the body. 'I' am sadehaḥ or videhaḥ? I am always videhaḥ only. janakā got the name videhaḥ; because, he did not see connection with the body. THEREFORE, THE WORD AŚARĨRASYA IS THE CRUCIAL WORD. CONSCIOUSNESS HAS NO CONNECTION WITH THE BODY. And you have replace the word CONSCIOUSNESS by the word 'I' and practise; saying, 'I' have no sambandha with the body. The moment 'I' have sambandha with the body, I am saśarĩraḥ. When I deny the sambandha, 'I' am called aśarĩraḥ. So, aśarĩrasya.

Therefore only, another crucial word - amṛtasya. So, CONSCIOUSNESS is, you have to remember the fourth principle: CONSCIOUSNESS continues to survive even after the disintegration of the body. Therefore, the teacher says, amṛtasya. 'I' am eternal; and, 'I' have no connection with the body what so ever. When? Not, after vedāntā. In all the three periods of time, caitanyam cannot have sambandha. Just as, light cannot have association with any object, ākāśā does not have any connection to any object. Similarly, ākāśavat - prakāśavat. 'I' am the all pervading, eternal medium of CONSCIOUSNESS, in which, all transactions take place. But, 'I' myself am not a participant in any transaction. Coming to this mindset is called binary format. 'I' have no connection with body; no connection with mind; no connection with the emotions; 'I' am the ever free, asańga ātmā. Coming to this mindset is called binary format.

If I miss this mindset, I am going to connect myself either to the body or mind. Once 'I' connect, I have become an individual jĩvā. And prajāpati says, as a jĩvā, I will guarantee, that you will never get liberation. As ātmā, I can guarantee that you are ever free. But, as a jĩvā, no liberation is possible; because, body mind complex being anātmā, they will have one distress or the other. You can temporarily de-stress, you can temporarily de-stress; but, after all the mind is connected to the surroundings. Therefore, with deha sambandha or manas sambandha, you will have ups & downs in life. So, he says, saśarĩraḥ. A person who takes himself to be the body mind complex; who is identified with the body mind complex; is called saśarĩraḥ. And this saśarĩraḥ priyāpriyābhyāṃ apahatiḥ - priya apriyābhyāṃ apahatiḥ - he will be under the grip of favorable and unfavorable experiences. mokṣā does not guarantee favorable experiences to the mind; because, just as the body has prārabdha, the mind also has got its own prārabdha! Therefore, the mind has to experience varieties of things. As I was telling in the morning class, even bhagavān will have to watch His own devotees suffering. And it is not going to be a very interesting experience for bhagavān, to see His devotees screaming. kṛṣṇā saw arjunā screaming when abhimanyu was very, very cruelly slaughtered by all the kauravās. If bhagavān has a mind, at that time what will be the condition of His mind? Mind has to feel the pain that arjunā is going through!

Therefore, both body and mind are subject to changes or fluctuations. And so, whoever is identified with the body mind complex, [who says this? prajāpati] priya apriyābhyāṃ apahatiḥ na vai. na apahatiḥ - he will always be under the grip of what? priya-apriya. priya means what? A good news. One of the children phones up and gives a good news; and another child phones up and gives a bad news. Which parent can avoid these good & bad news coming? Even a Swāmĩ cannot avoid; because, śiṣyās will be there, giving good & bad news. Therefore, mind is exposed to situations. And mind can never be uniform, all the time. priya apriya are bound to come and go.

Therefore, prajāpati warns saśarĩrasya sataḥ - a person who is identified with the body mind complex; who is called a jĩvaḥ; one who has come down to what format? Triangular format, and confronting the world. So, saśarĩrasya sataḥ, apahatiḥ na vai. nāsti - there will never be freedom from apahatiḥ. Means, destruction or elimination or avoidance of [what?] priya & apriya. Because, when the mind contacts the world, every mind has got empathy. Empathy means what? Feeling the feelings of people I am in contact with. Even when you read the newspaper about the terrorist attack and they are showing some other person or child, even though that person has no connection with you, but still the mind will sense that pain. Who can avoid that. Thus, mind is bound to go through priya & apriya. apahatiḥ nāsti - no escape.

Therefore, what is the only solution? If you want freedom from priya & apriya, you should learn to transcend the body mind complex. And therefore, prajāpati says, aśarĩraṃ vāva santaṃ na priyāpriye spṛśataḥ - only that jñāni - who dis-identifies from the body mind complex - is, free from, untouched by priya & apriya. Because, He claims 'I' am the sākṣi of them; but, 'I' am neither the mind; nor, the owner or possessor of the mind, 'I' am neither the mind; nor, the owner of the mind. Since ātmā being asańgaḥ, it does not have owner-owned relationship, with anyone.

asańgaḥ means, what? I am not related to, I am not the owner of, anything. That is what we said in CLASP rejection. āntara sanyāsā. One has to learn to hand over the body mind complex also to viśvarũpa ĩśvarā. I should not be the mind. I should not be even the owner of the mind. Otherwise, what will happen? I will say, 'I have no problem Swāmĩjĩ; only my mind has problem'. Therefore, language only he has changed! Previously you complained 'I have problem'. Now, what is the difference? 'My mind has a problem'. That is why vedāntā says, 'I am neither the mind; nor, the owner of the mind'. Therefore, I cannot say, 'my mind has problem'. One who has so handed over to ĩśvarā, is called aśarĩraḥ. That person has come to binary format. Hand over the body to viśvarũpa bhagavān; the mind to viśvarũpa bhagavān. 'Swāmĩjĩ, can I have one of the children, as a concession?' 27% like. When my own body mind itself I cannot claim, what to talk of family members? Ruthlessly we have to become āntara sanyāsi. Without āntara sanyāsā, mokṣā is impossible. If we feel there are alternative methods, vedāntā says, try it out and come. And therefore, aśarĩraṃ vāva santaṃ.

And, how do you become aśarĩrah? Body-less. Not by committing suicide. I become aśarĩrah by the sheer practise of binary format. I have to practise this mindset. I am the sākşi caitanyam. not connected to the anātmā body mind complex. And if I remember my nature -[5th capsule. What is the fifth capsule of vedāntā?] 'When I remember my nature, the entire changes that happen in the anātmā field, including the family and body, all these events are nothing but entertainment. But, the moment I connect to any one of the anātmās, it may be .0001 gram of anātmā, may be just one nail, [now nail decoration has come. என்னல்லாமோ decorate பண்ணி exhaust பண்ணிட்டா! Now, special nail decoration!] So, if I am attached to, identified with, even 0.0001 gram of anātmā, even traces of ahańkārā and mamakārā, I will say, 'I have problem'. I will never have the courage to claim, 'I am muktah'; because, anātmā will always have some issue or the other. As I said, you interview bhagavān. bhagavān also will have complaints! You know what will be bhagavān's complaints? I will tell you. Do not ask me, 'how you know?' bhagavān's complaint will be, "I taught in the vedās, SATYAM VADA. So, this is my expectation from humanity. And what are the people doing? satyam vadha. Thus, bhagavān also will have complaints. "I have taught so much dharma śāstrā. But nobody is following". He also can have complaints.

Therefore, anātmā means, always complaints. Only when I detach, na priyāpriye spṛśataḥ. As a Jĩvā, I am NEVER LIBERATED. AS ĀTMĀ, I AM EVER LIBERATED. LIBERATION IS NEVER GOING TO COME AS AN EVENT. Liberation is never going to come as an event; because, JĨVĀ WILL NEVER GET LIBERATED. ĀTMĀ NEED NOT GET LIBERATION. Switch over from triangular to binary. "I am free, here and now!" The choice is yours. So, aśarĩraṃ vāva santaṃ na priyāpriye spṛśataḥ.

And śańkarācāryā analyses these two sentences in brahma sũtrā - "tat tu samanvayāt" sũtrā. There, pũrvapakṣi raises a question. pũrvapakṣa is a student, not an objectionist. upaniṣad says, only the aśarĩraḥ is liberated. aśarĩraḥ means what? The body-less jñāni alone is liberated. That is what? To become liberated, I should become what? aśarĩraḥ, body-less. That means what? Until prārabdha is exhausted, body is going to be there. Only after the exhaustion of prārabdha, punar janma will not come. Therefore, how can I get jĩvan mukti, when I have got body? This is the question raised.

śańkarācāryā says, it is not that you become free from the body. There is no question of becoming free from the body during videha mukti. That is a misconception. We ourselves will get a doubt, that is right only. During videha mukti only I will become free from the body. Now, because of prārabdha, I have a body. śańkarācāryā says, 'even during jīvan mukti, even when prārabdha is very much there, even when the body is very much alive and growing old having problems, you can never say, "I have a body"; because, you should remember, "I" - the ātmā - am not related to anybody, at any time. Therefore, "I" am free from the body even during jīvan mukti. Just as, a screen in the movie, is free from the all the characters. When? During interval, one said! No. Remember, the screen is free from the characters, all the time. Because, screen cannot have any connection. Similarly, "I" - the asańga ātmā - am ever free from the world, even though the world is always in me! mastāni sarva bhũtāni; na ca mastāni bhũtāni. "So, what should I do to get freedom?" - if you ask that question, I will close the class! "I am ever free".

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

49. Chapter 8.12.1 to 8.12.3

मघवन्मर्त्यं वा इद ्ैशरीरमात्तं मृत्युनातदस्यामृतस्याशरीरस्यात्मनोऽधिष्ठानमात्तो वै सशरीरः प्रियाप्रियाभ्यां न वै सशरीरस्य सतः प्रियाप्रिययोरपहतिरस्त्यशरीरं वाव सन्तं न प्रियाप्रिये स्पृशतः ॥

maghavanmartyam vā ida šárīramāttam mrtyunātad asyāmrtasyāśarīrasyātmano'dhiṣṭhānam ātto vai saśarīraḥ priyāpriyābhyām na vai saśarīrasya sataḥ priyāpriyayor apahatir asty aśarīram vāva santam na priyāpriye spṛśataḥ || 8.12.1 ||

In this important mantrā, Lord prajāpati is teaching the ātmā for the fourth time, in the form of turĩya caitanyam, which does not have any relationship with either sthũla, sũkṣma or kāraṇa śarĩrams. Previously, the very same ātmā was taught as the consciousness associated with sthũla, sũkṣma or kāraṇa śarĩram, wherein the śarĩram served as a medium for the manifestation of the caitanyam. Even at that time, we should remember, even when the three śarĩrams are serving as a medium for manifestation, the śarĩrams do not have any sambandha or relationship with the caitanyam. It is exactly like the light falling upon my hand and the hand is serving as a medium for the manifestation of the light. Even at that time, the light does not have any relation or connection to the hand; by which we mean, whatever happens to the hand, cannot affect the light at all. Similarly, when consciousness was taught through the medium of sũkṣma as akṣi puruṣaḥ, when the same consciousness was taught through the medium of sũkṣma áarĩram as supta puruṣaḥ, during all these three occasions also, consciousness is relationless.

Therefore, it is aśarĩram only. But, when it is manifesting in the medium, the consciousness appears as saśarĩram, consciousness is all the time aśarĩram only; but, it appears saśarĩram. And because of this appearance only, indrā committed the mistake of transferring the limitation of the medium on to the consciousness. And once you transfer the limitation, it is called viśva, taijasa and prājña. When you disassociate the limitation, viśva is turĩyam, taijasa is turĩyam, prājña is turĩyam. consciousness is ALWAYS RELATION LESS. But, indrā refused to understand. Therefore, during the fourth time, prajāpati directly and clearly says, ātmā is aśarĩraḥ.

And what is the translation of the word aśarĩra? Very careful. aśarĩraḥ means, not related to or connected to the body even though it is pervading the body. And that is why, while talking about the five features of CONSCIOUSNESS, we carefully said, CONSCIOUSNESS is not a part of the body, not a product of the body, not a property of the body. It is an independent entity, not limited by the boundaries of the body. To convey this idea, what is the Sanskrit word to be used? CONSCIOUSNESS pervades the body; but, it is an independent entity, not limited by the boundaries of the body. Such a long concept in Sanskrit we convey through one single word - aśarĩram.

One word, aśarĩram means, CONSCIOUSNESS pervades the body; but, it does not belong to the body. It is in the body; but, not of the body. It pervades the body; but, is not limited by the boundaries. All these concepts are conveyed by one single, profound Sanskrit word - I am aśarĩraḥ.

And the interesting thing is, to say 'I am aśarĩraḥ' I am using what? The śarĩram! Therefore, using the body, I claim that, 'I do not belong to the body. Nor does the body belong to me. I am the all pervading consciousness, incidentally pervading this body also! And any person who claims this nature of consciousness is called aśarĩraḥ. Whoever claims 'I am the ātmā of such a nature, is called aśarĩraḥ'. Whoever does not claim this nature; but, claims 'I belong to the body and the body belongs to me; in fact, I am the body and the body I am', whoever so claims the body, that person is called sásrĩraḥ. So, every ajñāni is called sásrĩraḥ. Every jñāni is called aśarĩraḥ.

And the upanişad says, mokşā is possible only for aśarĩrah. mokṣā is never possible for saśarĩrah. If you have to convert it in our language, whoever is saśarĩrah is in a triangular format; because, he has identified with the body mind complex; and he has become an individual with a biography, and not a very interesting biography; but, a biography with lots of ups & downs; because, some Quujter is always taking place. Quujter means, what? சனிப் பெயர்ச்சி, குருப் பெயர்ச்சி. Something or the other. And the moment I am in a triangular format, the world will be capable of hurting me, by giving priva and apriva. Therefore, the upanisad said, na vai saśarīrasya satah priyāpriyayor apahatih asty - as long you are saśarĩra, as long you are in triangular format, the world will be overwhelming. All the time what will be the mindset? 'I am the victimised individual; world is the victimiser; and bhagavān is the only saviour'. This mindset will never go away. But, the moment I claim, 'I am aśarĩrah', instead of claiming, 'I am a victim', I can show my thumb to the creation and say, you cannot touch me! 'Me' means what? Very careful. Even as you say 'me', the throat may be coughing; but, when you say, 'you cannot touch 'me', that 'me' refers to what? The aśarĩra ātmā! Therefore, 'world is no more a victimiser. I am no more victimised. Therefore, I do not have to rush with prāyascitta karmā', seeking protection from the saviour, Lord.

Who says? prajāpati says. aśarĩraṃ vāva santaṃ - the one who has come to the binary format - that, 'I am the ātmā, śarĩram is also anātmā, prapañca is also anātmā'. Fourth capsule of vedāntā - 'I am never affected by any event that happens in the material universe or any event that happens in the material body or even in the material mind. Mind may be affected; but, I the mindless ātmā am ever free! Therefore, priya apriye - the favourable and unfavourable situations, na spṛśataḥ - do not even touch him, just as, impurity cannot touch the light. Light is asańgaḥ. I am always asańgaḥ.

And how much prārabdha karmā I have to exhaust to become free? Remember, they are all LKG lessons. After coming to binary format, even prārabdha karmā cannot touch 'me'. prārabdha may affect the śarĩram which belongs to the anātma prapañca. I have no sañcita, no āgāmĩ, not even prārabdha. I am nitya mukta ātmā. Therefore, such a person priya apriye na spṛśataḥ.

And śańkarācāryā in His commentary [all very elaborate commentaries are there. I am only giving samples of the commentary. If you want to enjoy more, you have read the original commentary] raises a question. The question is, 'when I come to binary format, that "I am the ātmā", the upaniṣad says, both priyam and apriyam will not come to or will not belong to the jñāni. So, a pũrvapakṣi says, 'I cannot take it as a very good news. It is good news; but, not very good news. [This I do not know whether you would have thought or not, a pũrvapakṣi has thought]. What is that? After jñānam, I am losing apriyam; I do not mind. [Now, you are getting the point!] I do not mind losing apriyam; but, you are saying, priyam also will not come to the jñāni. priyam means what? The worldly pleasures. Therefore, in the name of mokṣā, I am losing worldly pains all right; but, along with pain, the worldly pleasures are also going. Is not that a loss? So, now I have to reconsider whether I want mokṣā or not!

So, this possible doubt śańkarācāryā raises and answers. He says, that a jñāni is one who has understood all the worldly pleasures as the reflection of the original ānandā, which is 'myself'. And the worldly pleasures also they are not away or different from 'me'; because, the reflections ultimately belong to what? The original only! That is why I said, any enjoyment is what? Groi joy only! Thus, the jñāni has claimed the original ānandā, which is never subject to loss. The reflected pleasures they just come and go. They are only reflections. He does not consider it as a loss itself. It is exactly like, when the mirror is removed from you, you do not sit and cry - "that beautiful, reflected face of mine has disappeared", we do not say that and cry. No. I enjoy the arrival of reflected face. I do not mind the departure of reflected face; because, I know the original face is never subject to arrival or departure with the mirror. Therefore, nothing is lost by claiming ātma svarūpam.

Continuing.

अशरीरो वायुरभ्रं विद्युत्स्तनयित्नुरशरीराण्येतानि तद्यथैतान्यमुष्मादाकाशात्समुत्थाय परं ज्योतिरुपसम्पद्य स्वेन रूपेणाभिनिष्पद्यन्ते ॥

aśarĩro vāyurabhram vidyutstanayitnur aśarĩrānyetāni tadyathaitāny amuṣmād ākāśāt sam- utthāya param jyotirũpa sampadya svena rūpeṇābhi niṣpadyante 8.12.2 ||

So, what has a jñāni done by going through all these four stages of teaching? viśva, taijasa, prājña and turĩyam - all the four stages of teaching are over with the previous mantrā. Thus, avasthā traya viveka and avasthā traya sākṣi revelation - that teaching is over, which is very, very similar to the māṇḍũkya upaniṣad teaching. And through this teaching what have I really accomplished? What is the bottom line? If you analyse, previously I considered consciousness as an adjective or a property of the body; as an integral part of the body. After vedānta vicārā, I have separated the consciousness from the body, in terms of understanding. Exactly like [again coming back to our example], you experience the hand and light together. But, you understand that the light is an independent, separate entity. The separation of the light from the hand is done intellectually, even though you experience the hand and light together. You EXPERIENCE THEM AS CO-EXISTENT ENTITIES; BUT, YOU UNDERSTAND THEM AS SEPARATE ENTITIES.

Similarly, when I use the word 'I', I am experiencing the body and CONSCIOUSNESS together in one & the same place. If body alone is there, it would have been inert. If CONSCIOUSNESS alone is there, I will not say 'I am'. Therefore, when I say 'I', there is a mixture of formed body and formless CONSCIOUSNESS. From this mixture, through elaborate vedāntic studies, I have managed to intellectually separate CONSCIOUSNESS as a formless and eternal principle. And not only I have separated CONSCIOUSNESS, I have trained myself to claim that, "I am that formless CONSCIOUSNESS principle, instead of saying, 'I am the body with CONSCIOUSNESS'. Now, I have trained myself - hopefully - to claim that 'I am the formless, all pervading CONSCIOUSNESS, with an incidental body, which has come from pañca bhûtās, which is available for a few years; and after a few years, I have to lose this body. It is a fact of life; neither tragedy nor comedy. IT IS A FACT. This body will go; still, 'I' will continue; only 'I' will not be transacting through this body. But, 'I' will continue to transact, through so many other bodies. Thus, 'I' the caitanyam I have separated from the body; and I have internalised this new mindset. This is called by me, 'the binary format mindset' which I have; or, I am internalising. Before internalising and separating, I identified myself with the body; and therefore, I appeared as saśarĩraḥ. But, after vedānta vicārā, I have become aśarĩraḥ. Therefore, the journey is, from saśarĩraḥ to aśarĩraḥ, which is an intellectual journey.

And to communicate this idea of transformation, somebody nicely said - "what is transformation? That very word says, trans form. Means, transcending the form". Transcending the form means, what? I no more take myself as a formed, localised individual. I take myself as formless and unlocalised consciousness. This transformation from saśarĩra to aśarĩra is the journey. Just to communicate this, the upaniṣad is giving an example in this mantrā. A peculiar example. [Sometimes I feel, understanding the example is more difficult than understanding ātmā itself! But, anyway upaniṣad gives a peculiar example]. I will explain the example.

In the skies there are clouds, thunder, lightning etc. The cloud, the thunder, lightning etc they are compared to aśarĩra ātmā. [Not a very good comparison, because the cloud has clearly got a form; but, that cloud is compared to what? aśarĩra ātmā!] Thunder is also compared to aśarĩra ātmā. Lightning also. Why are they called aśarĩram? śańkarācāryā says, 'because they do not have the clear limbs like a human being or a living being'. The living being with a body has got jñānendriyam - sense organs; karmendriyam - hands legs etc. very clearly defined. Whereas, cloud does not have all these organs clearly. Therefore, cloud is compared to aśarĩra ātmā. Similarly, thunder and lightning. This is comparison number one.

And the all-pervading ākāšā is compared to the body. [What a comparison பாருந்கோ! That is why I said, it is a headache example! upaniṣad ṛṣis are not available to catch the beard and ask, 'why did you give this example? இல்லைன்னா, தாடியைப்புடிச்சு கேட்டிருக்கலாம்! We cannot ask]. The ākāšā is compared to what? The body. And the upaniṣad says, 'after the rainy season is over, the sky is very clear'. Imagine a very clear sky. And, what has happened to the thunder, lightning, cloud etc? They have become the aśarĩra cloud-lightning-thunder. They have become one with the ākāšā. They have disappeared into the sky. That is why, the sky is available; but, thunder-lightning etc are not available. They have merged into what? The sky! Sky is similar to what? The śarĩram.

Therefore, after the rainy season is over, in that clear sky, cloud-lightning-thunder have all merged, which is similar to ajñāni's avasthā. ajñāni's avasthā is what? An ajñāni is one who does not understand the ātmā separately. For an ajñāni, ātmā has become one with what? The śarĩram. Just as, for an ajñāni, the ātmā has become one with śarĩram at the time of ajñānam; similarly, during the non-rainy season, the cloud-lightning-thunder [which is similar to ātmā] have become one with the ākāśā [which is like the body]. We have to remember all the parts of the example. Cloud-lightning-thunder is ātmā. ākāšā is body. Nonrainy season is ajñāna avasthā. During ajñāna avasthā, the cloud-lightning-thunder [the ātmā] have merged into, become one with, ākāšā. Similarly, during ajñāna avasthā, 'I' the ātmā is not known; because, it has become one with the body mind complex. So, what are the three things you should remember? Cloud is ātmā. ākāšā is śarĩram. Non-rainy season is ajñāni avasthā or saṃsāri avasthā.

Then, at the time of rainy season, who is responsible for the arrival of rainy season? sũrya bhagavān, SUN GOD alone. Because of the powerful heat of the sun, what happens? It takes waters from the ocean and rain-bearing clouds are produced in the sky. Therefore, the sun produces the rainy season. Once the rainy season comes, what happens? The cloud-lightning-thunder arrive. If you are perched in ākāśā, [what is ākāšā? the śarĩram] all those three [cloud-lightning-thunder] get separated from ākāšā. Means, the ātmā gets separated from the body [anātmā]. That is ātma - anātmā viveka! Previously - during non-rainy season, they were merged together. And then, during rainy season, from the sky or space, the lightning comes as a separate entity. Thunder comes as a separate entity. Cloud comes as a separate entity. All of which are like ātmā! Previously mixed with ākāšā, they now get separated. What was previously thought as one, now they have been separated. ākāšā is separate; cloud-lightning-thunder are separate.

Similarly, jñāna avasthāyām, body is separate; and the caitanyam has been separated. And for this separation of the cloud-lightning-thunder from ākāśā and for their emergence as a separate entity, what is the cause? sũrya bhagavān is the cause. Similarly, in the presence of jñāna sũryaḥ - [So, what is the teacher doing? He is bringing the jñāna sũryaḥ!] in the light of the powerful jñāna sũryaḥ, in every disciple, what gets separated from what? The ātma caitanyam [Which is like what? cloud-lightning-thunder] separates from the anātmā, the body [which represents what? ākāśā]. புரிஞ்சா சரி! Now let us look at the mantrā.

aśarĩraḥ vāyurabhraṃ vidyutstanayitnuraśarĩrāṇyetāni. aśarĩraḥ vāyuḥ. vāyuḥ means, what? The wind is aśarĩraḥ. Comparable to what? ātmā. vāyu is comparable to ātmā. And abhraṃ. abhraṃ means, cloud. vidyut. Means, lightning. stanayitnuḥ. Means, thunder. How many items? Four items. etāni aśarĩrāṇy. etāni means, these following three also. First aśarĩraḥ should go with vāyuḥ. Later aśarĩrāṇi - plural number, should go with abhraṃ vidyut stanayitnuḥ. Joining together, all these four are comparable to aśarĩra ātmā. And during non-rainy seasons - like summer, winter etc - during that time, the clouds are not visible. Thunder is not recognisable. They have become what? One with ākāśā. But, what happens in rainy season? The upaniṣad says, tad yatha etāny amuṣmād - all these four [which during winter and other seasons] were merged in the sky invisibly ākāśāt samutthāya - [as even the rainy season comes from the ākāśā] the clouds, the lightening etc emerge. The wind also blows. amuṣmād ākāśāt samutthāya. samutthāya they all get separated. Separated from what? ākāśā. Because of what? paraṃ jyotirũpa sampadya because of their contact with sũrya bhagavān. paraṃ jyotiḥ rũpam means, sũryaḥ. And this non-recognisable, non-discriminated, non-separated thunder etc, because of the solar light, what happens to them? abhi niṣpadyante - they all come separately. How? svena rūpeṇa in their own, original thunder form, lightning form etc. Before that, the thunder existed. But, in what form? Not in thunder form; but, ākāśa rūpeṇa thunder was there. And lightening also ākāśa rūpeṇa. They were all there. But, now, they come separately, as what? svena rūpeṇa. Means, as thunder, lightening etc. abhi niṣpadyante - they emerge, separately.

In the same way, when I use the word 'I' what is the real meaning of the word 'I'? caitanyam. But during ignorance, 'I' do not exist separately as caitanyam and 'I' have become one with what? sthũla śarĩram and I describe myself as male, female, father, mother, young, old etc. ajñāna avasthāyām I exist in what form? sthũla śarĩra rūpeṇa or sũkṣma śarĩra rūpeṇa or worse, kāraṇa śarĩra rūpeṇa. But, only after jñānam, 'I' say, 'I' am not sthũla, sũkṣma or kāraṇa śarĩram. 'I' am what? Like, lightening etc. 'I' exist as a separate entity. mano buddhi ahańkāra cittāni nāham. This separation takes place because of paraṃ jyotiḥ. What is that paraṃ jyotiḥ? jñānam! Second mantrā is the example. The third mantrā talks about the jñānam separation process. We will enter.

एवमेवैष सम्प्रसादोऽस्माच्छरीरात्समुत्थाय परं ज्योतिरुपसम्पद्य स्वेन रूपेणाभिनिष्पद्यते स उत्तमपुरुषः स तत्र पर्येति जक्षत्क्रीडन्रममाणः स्त्रीभिर्वा यानैर्वा ज्ञातिभिर्वा नोपजन ्र्स्मरन्निद ्शरीर ्स यथा प्रयोग्य आचरणे युक्त एवमेवायमस्मिञ्छरीरे प्राणो युक्तः ॥

evamevaiṣa samprasādo'smāccharĩrātsamutthāya paraṃ jyotirũpasampadya svenarūpeṇ- ābhi niṣpadyate sa uttamapuruṣaḥ sa tatra paryeti jakṣatkrĩḍanramamāṇaḥ strĩbhir vā yānair vā jñātibhir vā nopajanač smarannidač śarĩrač sa yathā prayogya ācaraṇe yukta evamevāyam asmiñcharĩre prāṇo yuktaḥ 8.12.3 N

So, exactly like the thunder, lightning etc getting separated from the ākāšā because of the solar rays, similarly, evam eva eṣa samprasādaḥ. samprasādaḥ means, this jīvātmā, the seeker student is called samprasādaḥ, asmāt śarĩrāt samutthāya - by repeated enquiry into the scriptures and the ātmā, samutthāya - he learns to separate 'himself' from all the three śarĩrams. So, asmāt śarĩrāt. And here, śarĩram refers to śarĩra trayam. 'I' am neither sthũla śarĩram, nor sũkṣma śarĩram, nor kāraṇa śarĩram. And, 'I' am the ātmā, which is ever free from all forms of saṃsārā. There also, initially, a person says, 'I have understood I am ātmā very well; but, I have got some viparīta bhāvanā problem. Like, certain rāga dveśa kāma krodhas are not completely gone. I have to remove them totally so that I can claim I am muktaḥ'. And he says, 'I have kāma krodha problem. I have understood I am ātmā'. Now, you have to see the contradiction in this statement. He says, I have been listening to you for 15 years, and I know I am ātmā; but, I have got some more rāga dveśa problem. The teacher says, 'think very well. When you say, I am ātmā; and also in the same breadth you say, I have got some more rāga dveśa, between statement one and statement two, you have slipped from ātmā level to the mind level! Because, ātmā does not have rāga dveśa problem. vāsanā problem also is not there for ātmā. I should never say, 'I have vāsanās to be removed - vāsanākṣaya anantaram muktobhāvami. Therefore, I am waiting for some more scrubbing. I am planning to get some special fluid. That is also inappropriate listening.

Remember, I am free, in spite of the problems at anātmā level. anātmā and its conditions, mind and its problems, have no connection with me. 'I' am free all the time. If you want to cleanse the mind, you enjoy that process as a hobby; but, never say, "mind requires cleaning. Only thereafter I will get liberation", is improper listening. I am muktah. And, as a mukta puruşah, I am enjoying watching the body mind, which is involved in the cleaning process. 'Even I do not do the cleaning activity. In my presence, let these activities continue; but, I will never connect liberation to the conditions of the body mind complex'. Remember, in the initial stages, we connect moksā to various conditions; but, after vedānta vicārā, moksā is understood as unconditional. That is called samutthanam. samutthanam means, what? Separating 'myself' from the mental problems also. I separate 'myself' from the mental problems also, claiming that, 'I have no sambandha, as I am aśarĩrah'. This is called samutthānam. jñāna nisthah is one who has learnt to claim "I am nitya muktah". Whatever be the level of purity of mind. And I have always said, perfect purity is not possible at anātmā level. You can purify the body; but, after 3 hours, again you smell the body, it will be stinking. That is why you have to regularly take bath. Body does not have perfect purity. Similarly, mind also does not have perfect purity. If you are waiting to purify the mind perfectly and thereafter you want to claim liberation, it will be eternally postponed.

Learn to disconnect yourself from the mind also. Who says? prajāpati. asmāt śarĩrāt. The śarĩram includes the mind also. That does not mean therefore, "Swāmĩjĩ, I am nitya śuddhaḥ; therefore, tomorrow I will not take bath!" No. Let the body be given bath for loka sańgrahārtham. Because, other people have to be near me; means, near my body. Therefore, loka sańgrahārtham, body purification. loka sańgrahārtham mental purification. For my moksārtham, what? Nothing! Because, I was, I am, and I ever will be, free. Claiming this is binary format! Therefore, samutthaya. param jyoti rũpa sampadya because of the contact with param jyotih, the knowledge, 'aham brahmāsmi' iti aikya jñānena - as a result of that, svena rūpena abhi nispadyate - this jñāni emerges in His original nature, as what? nitya muktah ātmā. The interesting thing is, people will ask, 'when will nitya mukti come, Swāmījī?' So, these are all mechanical usage of language. 'I know I am brahman. I have rāga dveša', is a mechanical expression. Similarly, asking the question, 'when will nitya mukti come?' - is a contradiction. It is like asking, 'who wrote valmiki rāmāyanam?' And after half hour, saying, kamban! nitya mukti will not come. THE VERY EXPECTATION OF MOKSĀ AS A FUTURE EVENT SHOULD GO AWAY. THAT ALONE IS CALLED MOKSĀ. When the teacher says student will ask, 'Swāmĩjĩ, if I drop the expectation, will mokṣā come?' Because our orientation is, 'I want to be liberated. I want to be that' orientation. Breaking takes time. I AM FREE. Therefore, svena rūpena - free rūpena abhi nispadyate - jñāni emerges. For this turiva ātmā, a name must be given. Because, during the first time, ātmā was called what? aksi purusah. The second time it was, svapna purusah. And, third time, supta purusah. Now, the fourth time, the aśarĩra ātmā, the turĩya ātmā, must be given a name. And the upanişad gives the title sa uttama puruşah. turîya ātmā is called uttama puruşah. This alone is revealed in the 15th chapter of the gîtā. [15-16&17] sarvāni bhūtāni kūtastho ksara ucyate. uttamah purusastvanyah paramātmetyudāhrtah.

The upaniṣad says, not only the ātmā, the turĩyam, is uttama puruṣaḥ. The jñāni, who claims 'I am the turĩyam', that jñāni is also called uttama puruṣaḥ. So, saḥ - that jñāni, who has identified Himself with uttama puruṣa ātmā, is also called uttama puruṣaḥ. With this, the teaching is over.

Hereafter, what is the topic? The phalam of this teaching. The benefit of the teaching, in the form of jĩvan mukti and videha mukti. First, jĩvan mukti is described. After uttama puruṣaḥ, we can put a full stop. sa tatra paryeti. saḥ means, jñāni jĩvan muktaḥ. paryeti - moves about everywhere as it were. paryeti means, paritaḥ gacchati. Moves about everywhere, as it were, in the form of all the living beings. In the form of all the living beings means, He understands that I am the ātmā not only behind this physical body, I am the ātmā behind all the physical bodies, also. Therefore, where am I? If somebody asks, 'where am I?' I will ask a counter question, 'where am I not?!' Therefore, I am the caitanyam behind indra śarĩram. And when indrā is watching rambhorvaśĩ dance and enjoying that ānandā, who is enjoying? The jñāni understands, 'I alone am'! Enjoying whose ānandā? My own ānandā, through several bodies.

Therefore, the benefit of jīvan mukti is, He never runs after any particular pleasure as an individual; but, he sees all the pleasures enjoyed by all the living beings, as His own ānandā. Like, the aged great, great grandparent give pleasures to all the grand children giving varieties of toys or eatables. And when all the children are enjoying with granny or grandfather, even though he does not have the teeth to eat all of them, he enjoys doing what? Watching those babies! You have to see the joy! For navarātri all the children have come, grand children have come. And, even though there is no direct experience of pleasure, that person enjoys indirectly; because, he identifies with all the children as what? My own children and grand children! For jñāni, the family is what? Not a few children and grand children is no direct experience of pleasure, the entire the universe and the all the pleasures enjoyed, they are Grim joy! Therefore, he does not miss anything in life.

so'śnute sarvān kāmān saha ... te ye śatam manuşyagandharvānāmānandāh | te ye śatam manuşyagandharvānāmānandāh | [taittirĩya brahmānandavallĩ]

Any ānandā, anywhere, does not belong to the object. It belongs to 'me' alone. Thus, all pleasures are His pleasures. This is called jĩvan muktiḥ. The exact meaning, we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

50. Chapter 8.12.3 to 8.12.4

एवमेवैष सम्प्रसादोऽस्माच्छरीरात्समुत्थाय परं ज्योतिरुपसम्पद्य स्वेन रूपेणाभिनिष्पद्यते स उत्तमपुरुषः स तत्र पर्येति जक्षत्क्रीडन्रममाणः स्त्रीभिर्वा यानैर्वा ज्ञातिभिर्वा नोपजन ्र्स्मरन्निद ्शरीर ्स यथा प्रयोग्य आचरणे युक्त एवमेवायमस्मिञ्छरीरे प्राणो युक्तः ॥

evamevaisa samprasādo'smāccharīrātsamutthāya param jyotir upasampadya svenarūpeņ- ābhi nispadyate sa uttamapurusah sa tatra paryeti jaksatkrīdanramamānah strībhirvā yānairvā jñātibhirvā nopajana smarannida śarīra sa yathā prayogya ācaraņe yukta evam evāyam asmiñcharīre prāņo yuktah 8.12.3 II

prajāpati the ācāryā finally revealed the turĩya ātmā, that CONSCIOUSNESS, which is in & through the three avasthās; but, that which is not associated with any one of the three avasthās; not limited by the attributes of any one of the three avasthās. And that CONSCIOUSNESS, when it is looked through a particular avasthā, it is given a relative name. When the CONSCIOUSNESS is looked from its own standpoint it is called turĩyam. So, caitanyam *looked throug*h the jāgrat avasthā is called waker, viśva caitanyam. Similarly, looked through the svapna avasthā, it is called dreamer, taijasa. Similarly, through suṣupti avasthā, it is called prājñaḥ. Even though the names are different, there is NO DIFFERENCE in the nature of CONSCIOUSNESS. And a wise person is one, who learns to disidentify from the three avasthās and looks at 'himself' as the śuddha nirguṇa caitanyam and that jñāni is being talked about in this mantrā number 3.

evamevaişa samprasādaņ. samprasādaņ means, the jĩvātmā who is now identified with the śarĩra trayam. That jĩvātmā, śarĩrāt samutthāya - learning to disidentify from this body. "I am not a property, product or part of this physical body. I am an independent entity, not limited by the boundaries or attributes of the body". This understanding is called disidentification. Disidentification is not a physical process it is also another cognitive or thought process. Identification is also a particular type of thought. Disidentification is also another type of thought only. First one is, thought born of ignorance. The second one is, thought born out of understanding.

And even if the thought transformation takes place, the experience at the body level will continue. Hunger experience will be there. Thirst experience will be there. Not that, 'once I disidentify from the body, I will not experience the body', do not think. Bodily experience, which is determined by prārabdha karmā, that nobody can shake-off, including by a jīvan mukta. Therefore, physical experiences will continue. It's exactly like the rising sun. The sun rise will be experienced; but, in my intellect, I understand that the sun does not rise at all. And as I have often said, A VALID KNOWLEDGE CAN NEVER BE CHALLENGED BY THE OPPOSITE EXPERIENCE. Very important law, you have to assimilate. A valid knowledge can never be challenged by an experience opposed to that.

Valid knowledge is, 'the sun does not rise'. The opposite experience is, the rising of the sun. Even when I so experience, I can boldly say, 'the sun does not rise'. Similarly, the physical pain experience in the body, nobody can stop. A jñāni even! While the pain experience is there, he can boldly say - based on the valid knowledge, 'I have no connection with the pain; the pain belongs to the physical and subtle body alone. 'I' the experiencer of the pain, is not the possessor of the pain'. Thus, this cognitive transformation is called śarïrāt samutthānam. Therefore, remember, biological pains or experiences can never be stopped by spiritual knowledge. If spiritual knowledge can stop biological pain, [as I have often said, everyday, at the end of the class, you have to do one experiment. What is that? Bring a needle to the class; and at the end of the class, prick yourself. It will pain! Therefore, no spiritual knowledge. And you have to wait for that day when there will be no pain!] But, it will never happen. 'No pain' can happen because of some skin disease also! In fact, that is not jĩvan mukti; it is a biological problem.

Therefore, prārabdha has to give biological pleasures and pains. No jñāni tries to or hopes to stop those experiences. He understands, 'they belong to anātmā. Therefore, they are of a lower order of reality. And, 'I' am not affected by them'. Here, the meaning of the word 'I' is the caitanyam. And this wisdom is called śarĩrāt samutthānam - transcending the body, cognitively.

And, paraṃ jyotir upasampadya - the moment 'I' disidentify from the body, the limitations of the body 'I' do not attribute to 'myself'. Therefore, 'I' am the limitless consciousness, which is called param jyotiħ. And upasampadya means, aikyam prāpya. So, this śarĩrāt samutthānam is "tvam" pada lakṣyārtha discovery. paraṃ jyotir upasadanam is, "tat" pada lakṣyārtha, aikyam! samutthānam is 'tvam' pada lakṣyārtha; and, paraṃ jyotir upasadanam is 'tat' pada lakṣyārtha, aikyam! "aham brahmāsmi". Thereafter, svena rūpeṇa abhiniṣpadyate. SO, THIS MANTRĀ IS VERY, VERY, VERY ELABORATELY ANALYSED IN BRAHMA SŨTRĀ, TOWARDS THE END. THERE, EACH WORD IS ANALYSED THROUGH DIFFERENT SŨTRĀS. SAMUTTHĀYA IS ANALYSED. PARAM JYOTIĻI IS ANALYSED. UPASAMPADYA IS ANALYSED. SVENA RŪPEŅA IS GIVEN A LOT OF SIGNIFICANCE.

What do you mean by svena rūpeņa? The upanişad says, this brahma niṣṭhā - abiding in brahman - is not going to another state. brahma niṣṭhā or brahma aikyam is not going to another state, higher or lower. Why? If brahma niṣṭhā is going to another state, then it will become a time bound entry. And once you enter into a higher state, that is also subject to beginning. And wherever there is beginning, there will be an end also. THEREFORE, MOKṢĀ IS NOT A STATE THAT YOU ACHIEVE. MOKṢĀ IS MY VERY SVARŪPAM. Therefore svena rūpeņa is a significant word, which conveys that mokṣā is, claiming my very nature. If I acquire it in time, it will be subject to loss also. Then, why do you call it mokṣa prāptiḥ? It is only a figurative statement, which means the negation of the bondage, which itself is a misconception. REMOVAL OF THE MISCONCEPTION OF BONDAGE, IS FIGURATIVELY SAID TO BE THE ACQUISITION OF LIBERATION. Removal of the misconception of bondage, is figuratively said to be the acquisition of liberation. Really speaking, liberation I cannot achieve; I need not achieve. Because, it is what? svena rūpeņa abhi niṣpadyate. It arrives, seemingly.

And sa - such a jñāni, He does not claim Himself to be akṣi puruṣaḥ. That is, viśvaḥ. He does not claim Himself to be svapna puruṣaḥ, that is taijasaḥ. He does not claim himself to be supta puruṣaḥ, the prājñaḥ. Therefore, He must be given a fourth name. And what is that name? sa uttama puruṣaḥ. Thus, being the uttama puruṣaḥ is liberation. With this, the teaching part is over.

And hereafter, the topic is, the jñāna phalam of jĩvan muktiḥ, which I introduced in the last class. What is jĩvan mukti? It begins from sa tatra paryeti onwards. With the word uttama puruṣaḥ, the teaching part is over. From sa tatra paryeti, the jñāna phalam, jĩvan mukti part begins.

And what does the jĩvan mukta do? He does not withdraw into a cave or any such thing; but, he is very much in the world, like any other human being. And according to His prārabdha, He may be a brahmacāri jñāni or He may be a gṛhastha jñāni or He may be a vānaprastha jñāni or He may be a sanyāsi jñāni. Similarly, He may be a brāhmaṇa jñāni, kṣatriya jñāni etc. varṇa and āśrama do not matter. According to His varṇa and āśrama, He continues His duties in life.

As we were seeing in aṣṭāvakra gĩtā, [in some class; not here] janakā argues with aṣṭāvakra, claiming that, 'I am a mahā gṛhastha emperor. Still, I do not have ahańkārā or mamakārā. Therefore, I am a jñāna niṣṭhaḥ'. Like that, the jñāni moves about in this world. And how does He move about? upaniṣad says, sa - this uttama puruṣa jñāni paryeti - means, moves about. tatra - in brahman. He moves about in His svarūpam; that is, abiding in His svarūpam. And abiding in His svarūpam means, not forgetting the svarūpam. And what is His svarūpam? Remember the five capsules. 'I am the caitanya ātmā'. So, paryeti means, freely moves about.

And then the upanisad says, He understands that I am the ātmā not only behind this particular body; but, I am the ātmā behind all the bodies. And therefore, wherever there is happiness experienced by any individual, in any manner - all that happiness belongs to me alone; because, ātmānandā alone is experienced, reflected in the mind of all the people. And therefore He claims the ānandā of everyone as His own ānandā. Claims all ānandās as His own ānandā means, He does not miss the ānandā experienced by other people. He is not going to feel 'how lucky they are! They are able to go to kailāsa or manasarovar. I am not able to go even to the local temple!' No. He does not miss any ānandā. Because, he understands, indrānandā is my ānandā. candrānandā is my ānandā. Even though I am a sanyāsi! That is from body standpoint. All the grhasthas ānandā also He does not miss. [Okay, எங்க ஆனந்தம்?-னு கேக்கப்படாது!] Assuming grhasthas ānandā, He does not complain. When you are enjoying your children, enjoying your grand children, this person even though he may be a sanyāsi - he does not have an ஏக்கம். நமக்கு 'அடியே'ன்னு சொல்றதுக்கு ஒரு ஆத்துக்காரி இல்லையே?! There is no wife for me, no children for me, no grandchildren for me! He does not miss any blessed thing; because, He sees all ānandā as His ānandā. In fact He says, 'I alone am enjoying, through all the bodies. I alone am enjoying, through all the bodies'.

Therefore He says, jakṣat. jakṣat means, what? Eating varieties of delicious things. Even though he does not have teeth, [old jñāni!] He says, 'I alone am eating all the foods through all the bodies in the world'. jakṣat - eating. bhakṣaṇam kurvan. krĩḍan ramamāṇaḥ. And similarly, krīḍan - when the children are playing around, even though He cannot play; because getting up itself is a project, still He claims, 'I alone am enjoying all the games, through all these bodies'. This is called sarvātma bhāvaḥ. So, krĩḍan means playing, sporting - through several bodies. And, ramamāṇaḥ - reveling through various sense objects; and also enjoying varieties of relationships. Even though He might be a sanyāsi jñāni, having no relationship of His own, He claims, 'I alone am enjoying all types of relationships, through several other bodies'. strĩbhir vā jñātibhirvā Therefore, strĩ, strĩ here refers to wife. strĩbhiḥ - through all the wives of all the gṛhasthas, [that is why plural number, very careful. Plural number is, several wives of several gṛhasthas. Not one gṛhastha. Otherwise, it will be misunderstood]. strĩbhiḥ. Then, yānaiḥ vā. yānam means, vehicle. Therefore, when anybody is riding a benz car, even though I am walking, still I say, through that also 'I' am traveling. Therefore, yānaiḥ vā. And, jñātibhiḥ vā. jñāti means, varieties of relations. bandhuḥ. jñāti means, bandhuḥ.

In short, He does not miss anything in life. There is no question of a sense of loneliness, which is a serious expression of saṃsārā. Initially the family is packed one by one; but, as we grow old, they all go out. In psychological language, they call it empty nest syndrome. Means what? In my nest so many birds were there. Birds means, children. They have all gone out, and at the end, only we two are there. [Initially also they two only were there]. But, now again. மூஞ்சிய மூஞ்சியப் பாத்துண்டு, என்ன பண்றது?! This is called empty nest. That problem can come as we grow old.

jñānam means, yastvātmaratireva syādātmatrptaśca mānavaḥ, ātmanyeva ca santuṣṭaḥ, tasya kāryaṃ na vidyate [gĩtā 3.17] 'I' am never empty; because, the whole world is resting in me. How can 'I' ever be empty? Therefore, jñātibhirvā jakṣatkrīḍan ramamāṇaḥ vartate.

He remains upajanam idam śarĩram na smarann - without deeply identifying with the individual body. The more I identify with the macro, slowly the individual identification gets loosened. Even in the family itself, the family head - when he is working for different members, even though at the physical level certain discomforts are there; but, when there is a function in the family, the awareness of the family makes me forget what? The individual physical discomfort. As I expand, and identity with macro world, my identification with the micro gets loosened. Three days wedding, four days functions and fifth day, after the function is over, pain all over the body! But, during those 4-5 days I do not experience pain; because, macro identification loosens micro identification.

The jñāni does not consider even the death of the body as an end of anything; because, he looks only at the total creation. Therefore, even if an individual body disappears, the world games go on and on. upaniṣad says, idam śarĩram na smarann - he is not obsessed with, not worried about, this individual body, with which He is loosely connected; because of prārabdha karmā. That is called sāmānya abhimānam. The identification with the body caused by prārabdha is called sāmānya abhimānam; which is called, ĩśvara sṛṣṭi - which will continue as long as the prārabdhā continues. But, because of self-ignorance, I have got a viseṣa abhimānam with the body, which is called jĩva sṛṣṭi. And only because of viseṣa abhimānam - caused by ignorance, there is saṃsārā, which is worrying about the future of the body. Worry is caused by viseṣa abhimāna. But, sāmānya abhimāna does not cause any worry. When there is hunger, I feed the body; when it is dirty, I clean it. Whatever duties are to be done, those are done. Those are caused by prārabdha abhimāna. But, He does not have special ajñāna janya abhimāna. So, idam śarĩram na smaran.

And what is this body? Body is described as upajanam śarĩram. upajanam means, that which is born out of strĩ puruṣaḥ samyogaḥ. So upa means, strĩ puruṣaḥ samyogaḥ. janam means, that which is born. upa janam means, strĩ puruṣaḥ samyogaḥ janita śarĩram. This temporary body, the jñāni is not obsessed with. So, this life is called jĩvan mukti life. Individuality is there sufficiently, for running the life; but, individuality is not strong enough to cause bondage. And they give a beautiful example in the śāstrā; and that example is, the roasted seed. Any particular grain or seed when it is roasted in fire, it continues to be a seed. Its colour is there, its weight is there, physical appearance is there. For all practical purposes, the roasted seed is exactly like the other unroasted seed; but, what is the difference? The roasted seed cannot germinate or sprout into a plant; whereas, the unroasted seed can sprout.

Similarly, jñāni's ahańkārā also will continue. Let it be very clear. jñāni also has got ahańkārā. That is why when He is hungry, He goes and asks 'bhavati bikṣām dehi'. That much ahańkārā - to differentiate His body from other bodies, He has got. If that ahańkārā is also not there, He will feed the food into somebody else's mouth! So, He knows/has that much difference. This is my body, that is your body. That means what? ahańkārā is there for a jñāni. But, what is the difference? In jñāna agni, His ahańkārā is roasted; whereas, in the ajñāni, the ahańkārā is unroasted. So, what is the difference? When jñāni's ahańkārā performs karmā, it does not produce puṇya-pāpa plant & sprout. But when ajñāni does karmā, āgāmi puṇyam and āgāmi pāpam are generated. This roasted, enlightened ahańkārā continues as a jĩvan muktaḥ. idam śarĩram. After that, a full stop.

And here after, the upaniṣadic teacher, prajāpati, says, 'this turĩya caitanyam alone appears as akṣi puruṣaḥ'. Previously he started with akṣi puruṣa and concluded in uttama puruṣa, the turĩyam. Now, he is reversing the teaching. This uttama puruṣa, the caitanyam, alone is active as akṣi puruṣaḥ, svapna puruṣaḥ etc inside the body. This is to show that, there is no difference among the four. Like one and the same actor appearing in four different roles, this turĩyam alone is acting or appearing as viśva, taijasa and prājĩa also! Where? In the living body. And therefore, the upaniṣad gives the description of the body, in which, the turĩyam is active as akṣi puruṣaḥ.

And what is that body? asmiñcharïre prāņaņ yuktaņ. This body has been created by iśvarā according to the law of karmā. So, this physical body has been created by the Lord according to the law of karmā. And after creating this body, what has bhagavān done? asmin śarïre prāņaņ yuktaņ. Mere sthūla śarĩram cannot function in the world. The sthūla śarĩram must be backed up sũkṣma śarĩram also; just as, a car must have an engine also. Thus, sthūla śarĩram car is created. sũkṣma śarĩram engine also is created. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, asmin śarĩre. śarĩre means, sthũla śarĩre, prāṇaḥ. prāṇaḥ represents sũkṣma śarĩram. yuktaḥ - means, connected. Even if sthũla śarĩram and sũkṣma śarĩram are both present, life is still not possible. Life is not possible. What is the reason? sthũla śarĩram is also jaḍam. sũkṣma śarĩram also is jaḍam. Therefore, behind the body mind complex, we require what? THE CONSCIOUSNESS PRINCIPLE, which alone serves as the experiencer 'I'. Therefore, asmin śarĩre prāṇo yuktaḥ. And behind the śarĩra and prāṇa, the ātmā is present. As what? akṣi puruṣaḥ etc. That will be said in the next mantrā. But, this is the introduction to that. And to convey this idea, the upaniṣad gives an example.

What is the example? Previous line. yathā prayogyaḥ ācaraņe yuktaḥ. The word prayogyaḥ means a horse. A horse which is capable of pulling a cart. prayogyaḥ means, aśvaḥ. And the word ācaraṇam means, a cart. ācaraṇam. Very careful. ācarati anena iti ācaraṇam. karaṇa vyutpatti. It means any cart. And a cart is connected to the horse or horse is connected to the cart. The physical body is like the cart; and the subtle body is like the horse. After both of them are connected, the vehicle is ready; but, the vehicle will move only after the yajamānā, the master, is seated on that. atmānam rathinam viddhi, śarĩram ratham eva tu Once the master is seated, then the travel begins. Similarly, that ātmā alone is seated behind the sthũla, sũkṣma śarĩrams. The ratha svāmĩ - who is that? The all pervading ātmā. It is now obtaining as what? akṣi puruṣaḥ, the waker, viśvaḥ. Therefore, just as the horse is connected to a cart, similarly the sũkṣma śarĩram horse is connected to the cart of physical body. That ātmā alone you are experiencing all the time. As what? 'I' the seer, 'I' the hearer, 'I' the smeller. Whenever you use the word 'I', that word 'I' refers to what? That uttama puruṣaḥ alone; but, now obtaining behind the body and the sense organs. That is said here in the next mantrā, we will read.

अथ यत्रैतदाकाशमनुविषण्णं चक्षुः स चाक्षुषः पुरुषो दर्शनाय चक्षुरथ यो वेदेदं जिघ्राणीति स आत्मा गन्धाय घ्राणमथ यो वेदेदमभिव्याहराणीति स आत्माभिव्याहाराय वागथ यो वेदेद ्ँशृणवानीति स आत्मा श्रवणाय श्रोत्रम् ॥ 8.12.4 ॥

atha yatraitadākāśam anuviṣaṇṇaṃ cakṣuḥ sa cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣo darśanāya cakṣur atha yo vededaṃ jighrāṇīti sa ātmā gandhāya ghrāṇam atha yo vededam abhivyāharāṇīti sa ātmābhivyāhārāya vāgatha yo vededa ្ថ័ śṛṇavānīti sa ātmā śravaṇāya śrotram II

Here, the upanişad wants to say that, to experience the turĩya ātmā, you need not go into a turĩyam state. To experience the turĩya ātmā, you need not, enter into turĩyam state, which is a general misconception we have. We think, viśva is available in jāgrat avasthā, taijasa is available in svapna avasthā, prājña is available in suṣupti avasthā; therefore, turĩyam must be available in turĩya avasthā! We will think that, we have to go a higher state of nirvikalpaka samādhi to experience the turĩyam. The upaniṣad says, you need not; because, the very same turĩyam alone is available as 'I' the waker also. As for their nature is concerned, the nature of turĩyam and the nature of viśvam is one and the same. Just as, the all pervading ākāśā alone is obtaining within the hall also. Not that outside ākāśā is pure, inside ākāśā is impure. It is not. ākāšā outside and inside is the same. Therefore, the same pure turĩyam is available now also, as what? 'I' the experiencer of the world. But, when 'I' am in the jāgrat avasthā, with the body mind complex, do 'I' not have the impurities of the mind? This will be the general doubt. In the jāgrat avasthā, 'I' am associated with the mind. Therefore, the impurities of the mind will be there for me. Therefore, 'I' have to transcend the mind, we will think.

The upaniṣad says, you need not transcend the mind; because, even when the caitanyam is pervading the mind, caitanyam is not contaminated by the mind or the rāga dveśa. Therefore, you need not go away from the mind; or, you need not push the mind away. Let the mind be there. Let even rāga dveśās be there. Even when the mind is full of rāga dveśa, I can happily claim 'I' am free from rāga dveśa kāma krodha. Because, the impurities of the mind cannot touch 'me', the ātmā.

Thereafter, if you want to purify the mind for the transnational purposes, may you do so. But, for your liberation, you do not require any event or any action. Even now, when the mind has got turbulence, 'aham' śāntaḥ asmi. Because, conditions of the mind cannot touch 'me'. Therefore in jāgrat avasthā also, 'I' am turĩyam only. For an ignorant person, 'I' am viśvaḥ during jāgrat avasthā. Whereas, for the wise person, even during jāgrat avasthā, 'I' am what? turĩyam śuddhaḥ only. In svapna avasthā also, 'I' am turĩyam; not, taijasa. Therefore, when do I experience turĩyam? When do I experience turĩyam? Not in nirvikalpaka samādhi. if you say that, I will build samādhi for you! Never say that. 'I' was turĩyam. 'I' am turĩyam all the time. Ignorant person alone differentiates turĩya viśva taijasa prājña. The screen of a movie is pure only during the interval; or, all the time? You do not say that the screen is pure only during the interval; because, there is no movie! And when movie is going on, they are showing the கூவம் river. So, the screen must be foul smelling. No. Remember, the screen is all the time pure; whether the movie is on or off. Similarly, I am turĩya caitanyam, in all the three states of experience.

Therefore, the upanişad says, sa cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣaḥ - the very same turĩyam alone is available as akṣi puruṣa during jāgrat avasthā. cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣah means, akṣi puruṣaḥ. akṣi puruṣaḥ means, viśvaḥ in jāgrat avasthā. Pervading what? cakṣuḥ. Pervading the eyes. Enlivening the eyes. So, while enumerating the five features of CONSCIOUSNESS, what is the second feature that I say? "I AM AN INDEPENDENT PRINCIPLE, WHICH PERVADES AND ENLIVENS THE BODY; BUT, NOT LIMITED OR CONTAMINATED". Therefore, the very same turĩyam is there in cakṣuḥ; in the place where the eyes are there. anuviṣaṇṇaṃ cakṣuḥ. anuviṣaṇṇaṃ means, pervading the cakṣuḥ, the eye. And here, cakṣuḥ means, cakṣur indriyam, the subtle sense organ, the eye. And where is that eye located? ākāśam - in the aperture of the eyeballs. ākāśā here should be translated as the aperture or the gateway obtaining in the eyeball. In the eyeball aperture, the cakṣur indriyam is there. In that indriyam, the cakṣuḥ is called indriyam. In that golakam, indriyam is there. In that indriyam, the caitanyam is pervading. That caitanyam 'I' am. And what is it called? turĩyam! By a wise person. The other people call it akṣi puruṣaḥ. It is really turĩyam only.

All these things are meant to show that, WE HAVE GOT TURĨYA ANUBHAVA, ALL THE TIME. This is very important; because, every student says, 'I have got book knowledge of turĩyam; but, I do not have ātma anubhava! Knowledge is there; experience I have not yet got. But the upaniṣad says, nobody lacks ātma anubhava. 'We are experiencing the turĩyam all the time', when I say, I am seeing you, what is that 'I'? The turĩyam which is behind the golakam and indriyam. Therefore, he says, sa cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣaḥ. yatra cakṣuḥ vartate tatra sa cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣaḥ. tatra we have to supply.

And what are the eyes? darśanāya cakṣuḥ. Eyes are only an instrument through which I experience the forms and colours. How do I experience? Not through an action. By mere presence I am aware of forms and colours. So, darśanāya cakṣuḥ. And suppose I close my eyes, the forms and colours disappear; but, 'I', the awareness, does not disappear. This very same awareness is available behind the ghrāṇa indriyam also. Now, I am aware of the varieties of good & bad smell. Therefore, he says, atha yo veda = atha yah veda. That very 'I', the awareness principle, veda - whoever is aware of. As what? idaṃ jighrāṇi, iti. Aware of varieties of smells. And claims that, 'I am smelling the smell'. There, what is the meaning of the word 'I'? sa ātmā - the turĩya ātmā alone! That is why in kenopaniṣad, pratibodhaviditaṃ matamamṛtatvaṃ hi vindate!

The only point we have to note is, generally when an object is remote, we get the knowledge first. Then, by going to that object, we get the experience, later. That is the general chronological order. Knowledge first; experience later. From a book, I read about gangotri. I get knowledge. Then I go to gangotri, I get experience. THE NORMAL ORDER IS, KNOWLEDGE FIRST; EXPERIENCE LATER. BUT, IN THE CASE OF TURĨYA ĀTMĀ, IT IS THE REVERSE. It is the reverse. What is that? I am experiencing the turĩyam all the time. So, what is first? Experiencing the turĩyam all the time. As what? aham aham aham iti. Experience part has already taken place. Nobody lacks brahma anubhava. Nobody lacks turĩya anubhava. But, the problem is, we do not know that 'I' the experiencer 'am' the turĩyam. That knowledge we are lacking. Therefore, you are going to the guru, for what purpose? For getting the knowledge. After getting the knowledge, you need not work for experience. Why? Because, the experience I already have. "I am the nitya turĩya caitanyam".

Therefore, sa ātmā gandhāya ghrāņam. turīya ātmā, gandhāya ghrāņam. So, ghrāņa indriyam is an instrument for this ātmā. Similarly, the other instruments also. Thus, behind all the instruments 'I' am there as ever experienced CONSCIOUSNESS turīyam, 'I' am. Claim the nature of turīyam and be free. CLAIMING IS CALLED KNOWLEDGE. KNOWLEDGE REQUIRES GURU. EXPERIENCE DOES NOT REQUIRE ANYTHING; BECAUSE, ALL THE TIME IT IS THERE!

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

51. Chapter 8.12.4 to 8.12.6 and 8.13.1

अथ यत्रैतदाकाशमनुविषण्णं चक्षुः स चाक्षुषः पुरुषो दर्शनाय चक्षुरथ यो वेदेदं जिघ्राणीति स आत्मा गन्धाय घ्राणमथ यो वेदेदमभिव्याहराणीति स आत्माभिव्याहाराय वागथ यो वेदेद ्ँशृणवानीति स आत्मा श्रवणाय श्रोत्रम् ॥

atha yatraitad ākāśam anuviṣaṇṇaṃ cakṣuḥ sa cākṣuṣaḥ puruṣo darśanāya cakṣur atha yo vededaṃ jighrāṇīti sa ātmā gandhāya ghrāṇam atha yo vededamabhivyāharāṇīti sa ātmābhivyāhārāya vāg atha yo vededa ്šṛṇavānīti sa ātmā śravaṇāya śrotram || 8.12.4 ||

In this 12th important section of the 8th chapter, the teacher prajāpati revealed the ātmā as the turĩya caitanyam - which is distinct from the śarĩra trayam, distinct from avasthā trayam, and it is not affected by the śarĩra trayam or avasthā trayam. And this turĩya caitanyam was called uttamaḥ puruṣaḥ. And the a wise person is one, who earns to claim this consciousness as 'myself', understanding that the consciousness is not part, product or property of śarĩra trayam. It is an independent entity which pervades and enlivens. It is not limited by the boundaries of the body; and it will continue to survive even after their resolution. The surviving consciousness is beyond all transactions, because the mediums or the media of transactions is/are no more available. It is this turĩya caitanyam which a wise man claims as 'himself'. And this alone is jĩvan muktiḥ or freedom.

And this ātmā being of the nature of ānandā he does not have to seek ānandā from the external world. And as we saw in the 7th chapter of chāndogya, any pleasure that we derive from the sense objects, they are not pleasures belonging to the sense objects; but, they are my own ānandā, reflected in the various sense objects. And therefore, whatever ānandā is there anywhere, the jñāni claims as "my own ānandā". I have given the expression you remember whenever anybody enjoys anything he understands it as Gon joy; that is my own ānandā. And therefore he is not against sense pleasures; but, he does not run after them or miss them because he knows that, they are "my own expressions only". And this is pũrṇatvam or mokṣa. This phalam was also mentioned.

Now we have entered the fourth mantrā wherein the teacher says, this turĩya ātmā caitanyam alone is expressing as the viśva, taijasa and prājña. When the very same CONSCIOUSNESS is available in the jāgrat avasthā, the avatāram of the turĩyam in the jāgrat avasthā is called viśva. Similarly, taijasa - the svapna puruṣaḥ. viśva was called by what name? akṣi puruṣaḥ. Similarly, taijasa - the svapna puruṣaḥ - also is nothing but, turĩyam obtaining in the svapna avasthā. Thus viśva, taijasa, prājña - they are all essentially turĩyam only.

And here we have to make an important technical note. Not said in the mantrā. But, we have to note. In some places the upaniṣad will point out turĩyam is different from viśva taijasa and prājña. Especially in māṇḍũkya upaniṣad after talking about viśva taijasa prājña the upaniṣad reveals turĩyam as different from all these three. na antaḥprajñam na bahiṣprajñam, na prajñāna ghanam. Whereas, in this chāndogya upaniṣad, especially this fourth mantrā, the upaniṣad says, turĩyam alone is appearing as viśva, taijasa and prājña. turĩyam is all these three. Therefore, in some places, the upaniṣad says, turĩyam is different from these three. In some places, the upaniṣad says, turĩyam is different from these three. In some places, the upaniṣad says, turĩyam alone is all these three. Now, we may get a doubt. If you do not get a doubt you are lucky. But, by chance, if you get a doubt, we should have an answer provided.

So is turĩyam different from all these three or identical with all these three? Now what is our answer? We say, both we do talk about in the śāstrā. Both we talk about in the śāstrā. This we have to understand. I have given the example before also. When we see our reflection in the mirror there is the bimba śarĩram - the original body - is there. And in the mirror or even in a photo, I give this example, in your group photo, college group photo, [அதுலதான் நன்னா இருக்கும்! சும்மா சொல்றேன்.] In the college group photo, your beautiful image is there. Now, I ask the question, the image in the photo is identical with you or different from you? Or, the reflection in the mirror, the pratibimba, is it identical or different? If we observe our behaviour, sometimes we talk about it as though it is identical. And several other times, we talk about it, as though they are different. Like, when people come to my room and ask, 'who is your guru?' Dayānanda Swāmījī's picture is there. And I say, 'this is my guru'. [What? Not Swāmījī. But, only His picture'']. And these people also, should not they ask me, 'how can you say the photo is your guru? Photo cannot give you upadeśam and all'. But, nobody challenges my statement. Everybody wants to see my guru. And they say, 'oh this is your guru, I would like to go closer and see'.

That means what? We do accept the photo as identical with the person therein. And not only that, we offer candanam, kuńkumam, alańkāram and do sāṣṭāńga namaskāram also [to the photo]. Therefore, we treat the image as identical [to original] also. But, even when we treat it as identical, we are also aware that they both are not exactly the same; they are different also. Therefore, pratibimbam is both identical and different [to bimbam]. In vedāntā we call it bheda abheda vilakṣaṇam. bheda abheda vilakṣaṇam.

In the same way in the śāstrā also sometimes, they talk about viśva taijasa prājña as different. And sometimes, they talk about as identical. Here there is a context where the upaniṣad wants to say that, viśva taijasa prājña they are the pratibimbam of turĩyam. Therefore, they are not totally different. turĩyam's avatāra is viśva. turĩyam's avatāra is taijasa. avatāra is respected as much as the original. When we worship rāmā and kṛṣṇā, even though rāmā and kṛṣṇā are avatārams with a date of birth and date of [death we will not say, svarga ārohaṇam], we do not treat kṛṣṇā and viṣṇu as different. Because bhagavān viṣṇu obtaining in vyavahārā, is kṛṣṇā.

Similarly, here the upaniṣad says, viśva is the empirical version of turĩyam only. Therefore, when you are experiencing the viśva, you are experiencing what? Not something totally different. You are experiencing what? turĩyam only. Therefore, viśva minus the empirical limitation, is nothing but turĩyam. deśa kāla vastu pariccheda. The empirical limitations, you cognitively remove. Physically you cannot remove. Cognitively you remove. viśva itself is turĩyam. And that is why when in the pratibimba mukham there is some spot of dirt, even though you are experiencing the dirt only in the pratibimba mukham, you understand what? It is in the bimba mukham. You do not differentiate them. You want to clean the pratibimba mukham, where do you wipe? Not the mirror. But you wipe bimba mukham. Why? Because you understand that both of them are the same only - the original one obtaining in mirror is the reflection.

Therefore, the important point to be noted is, śāstrā sometimes presents turĩyam as different from viśva taijasa prājña. And on several occasions, śāstrā points that turĩyam alone is available as viśva taijasa. And suppose you say, 'I want to experience the pure turĩyam, not the empirical version' and try to remove all the śarĩra trayam avasthā trayam, what will happen? The non empirical version of turĩyam is never available for experience; because, experience is a phenomenon in the empirical world. Therefore, pure turĩyam is never experienceable, because pure turĩyam is beyond transaction. And the experience is what? A type of transaction process only. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, do not look for turĩyam elsewhere. uttama puruṣaḥ alone is auşta puruṣaḥ also. Therefore, we are experiencing turĩyam alone all the time. Either in jāgrat, svapna or suṣupti.

"jāgratsvapnasusuptisu sphutatarā yā samvidujjrmbhate yā brahmādipipīlikāntatanusu protā jagatsāksiņī | saivāham na ca drsyavastviti drdhaprajñāpi yasyāsti ceccāndālo'stu sa tu dvijo'stu gururityesā manīsā mama II"

- manīṣā pañcakam begins with this statement alone. turīyam alone obtains in all the avasthās with the veśam of viśva taijasa and prājña.

Therefore these mantrās point out, atha yo veda idaṃ jighrāṇi iti, atha yo vededa (śṛṇavāni iti - etc. We saw this mantrā in the last class. In the waking state when I say am experiencing sound, I am experiencing smell, that word I am refers to what? The consciousness. And that consciousness in the waking state is none other than the turĩyam only. Therefore, sa ātmā. Similarly, the one who says, 'I am smelling. I am hearing. I am seeing'. In all of them, the word "I am" is continuous. That 'I am conscious' is continuous. What 'I am conscious of' alone varies. The non variable consciousness which is in & through all the experiences, that consciousness - which we call viśva in the jāgrat avasthā - the same viśva is the turĩyam when the sense organs are removed. That very same consciousness is named turĩyam.

And therefore "when do we experience turĩyam?" (BĊG வாங்கப்படாது! Never say "turĩyam is experienced only in turĩya avasthā" we should not say, turĩyam is experienced all the time either in the form of viśva, the waker I, the dreamer I, the sleeper I - they are all turĩyam only. Our problem is, we transfer the limitation of the medium, the body limitation we are transferring to the consciousness. Just remove those limitations. Not physically. Cognitively remove the physical limitation, the intellectual limitation, and say I am [and do not add anything. Anything you add is declaration of foolishness]. Therefore say "I am" That is turĩyam. Up to this we saw. The same idea is continued in next mantrā also. We will read mantrā 5.

अथ यो वेदेदं मन्वानीति सात्मा मनोऽस्य दैवं चक्षुः स वा एष एतेन दैवेन चक्षुषा मनसैतान्कामान्पश्यन्रमते य एते ब्रह्मलोके ॥

atha yo vededam manvānīti sātmā mano'sya daivam cakṣuḥ sa vā eṣa etena daivena cakṣuṣā manasaitānkāmānpaśyanramate ya ete brahmaloke || 8.12.5 ||

So, the same idea is continued. That turĩyam alone is available in the jāgrat avasthā also, in its empirical version as the witness or the experiencer of the external world. And the sense organs are only an instrument or the gateway through which the consciousness is witnessing the world. And we use the expression witnessing verb we use. But, it is not an action performed by consciousness, without doing any action the consciousness is aware of the śabda prapañca through the ears, aware of the rūpa prapañca through the eyes. Thus, whatever falls within, gets illumined without awareness doing any work. Generally, śańkarācāryā gives the following example. When you keep your finger in the fire [do not keep but this is an example], we use the expression, the fire burns the finger. 'When I kept my hand, the fire burns my finger'. And when this statement is made, it looks as though when I kept my finger, the fire started the job of burning; and when the finger was there the fire was burning the finger; and when I removed the finger, it stopped the burning. It looks as though the fire is doing the action of burning. But, really speaking, fire does not do anything. Its nature is heat. Whatever is the action, it is done only by the finger. The action of being placed there and action of withdrawing belong to the finger. As far as fire concerned, it was the same. Fire did not do any particular action at a particular time. But, even without any action on the part of fire, we use the verb - 'the fire burnt the finger'.

Similarly, consciousness is aware of the world without any action. When the eyes are open, consciousness does not do the action of experiencing. What happens is, the rūpa prapañca, the world of colours and forms, falls within the field of consciousness; and they get awared in consciousness. But, we use the expression consciousness is aware of. Thus, the action less turĩyam is available in the jāgrat avasthā also, as though it is experiencing the world through the sense organs. And the same thing can be extended to the emotional mind also. So when the mind entertains the thought, the actions belong to the mind only. 'I', the consciousness, am only illumining the rising and falling parts. But, what do I say? 'I am thinking' and, 'I am having emotions'. And the upaniṣad says, that also is not an action; but, in the presence of the mind, the turĩyam is called the thinker. Therefore, seer viśva, hearer viśva, smeller viśva, even the thinker viśva - is none other than the action less turĩyam.

Therefore it says, atha - in the same way. In the previous mantrā sensory activities were mentioned. in this mantrā mental activity is mentioned. Previously bāhya karaņāni; now, antaḥkaraṇam. 'atha yo veda idam manvāni', iti - when the viśva, the waker says, 'I am thinking', sa ātmā - that thinker viśva is also is none other than what? The turĩyam alone. Now, in its empirical version, as the 'thinker I'. What is the role of the mind? The upaniṣad says, mano'sya divyam / daivaṃ cakṣuḥ. For this thinker I, the viśva, who is none other than the turĩya ātmā, [asya means, for that turĩya ātmā, who is viśva now], manaḥ cākṣuḥ - the mind is also another form of eye. What type of eye? daivam cakṣuḥ - divine eye, which is an instrument of perceiver, perception or experience.

śańkarācāryā says, the mind is called divine eye; because, the sense organs can perceive only the present object and the present events. The sense organs can never perceive what was in the past; or, what will be in the future also. If your eyes can perceive the past, then your great great great grandfather [add enough 'greats'] may be there. Your great great great grandfather you would have perceived! But, you cannot; because, the eyes have got a limitation. What is that? They are perceivers of the present alone. They have a limited window. But, mind alone is a unique perceiver; because, it can understand the past also by inference; and it can understand the future also. Therefore since the mind has got access to trikāla, it is called divine instrument. indriyams have got access to only vartamāna kāla. The mind has got access to vartamāna, bhūta and bhaviṣya. Therefore, asya - for this ātmā, manaḥ daivam cakṣuḥ.

And the upanişad says sa vā eşa - and this ātmā, the turĩya ātmā alone, daivena cakṣuṣā - with the help of so many minds [not only one mind; but, there are infinite minds!] - through all the infinite minds - there is only one experiencer! And what is that? The consciousness. And how many consciousnesses are there? [GLG CologiuDIT?!] Remember, minds are many; but, the turĩya ātmā is ekam. Therefore, a jñāni says, 'I alone am experiencing the entire universe; not through this one mind. This one mind cannot experience all the universe; but, through all the minds of all the living beings, 'I' alone am experiencing the entire creation! Therefore sa. saḥ means, who? The uttama puruṣaḥ turĩya ātmā. Or, you can say, jñāni. And why do you say jñāni? Because, jñāni claims Himself to be the uttama puruṣaḥ only. He does not want to limit Himself to one body mind complex; because, He is in what format? No more in triangular format. He says, 'I am the turĩya ātmā. mayyeva sakalam jātam, mayi sarvam pratiṣṭhitam! All the minds are born in 'me' and 'I' use all the minds to experience the universe.

Therefore, etena daivena cakṣuṣā - with the help of this divine instrument. And what is that? manasā. manasā is explanation of 'that which is none other than the mind'. etān kāmān paśyan ramate - so enjoying all the sense pleasures. Just as I gave the example. When the grandmother gives the wonderful சீடை, முறுக்கு to the grandchild and the grandchild enjoys, this grandmother also enjoys, as though she is eating. Why cannot she directly eat? You know the answer. No teeth. Therefore, even though she does not have teeth, looking at all the grand children, [especially in the olden days, 10 children and 20 grand children!] Therefore, just as grandmother enjoys - through all the children and grandchildren - this jñāni enjoys through how many children and grand children? The whole world! kṣetrajñaṃ cāpi māṃ viddhi sarva kṣetreṣu bhārata, [gītā 13.3] Therefore, etān kāmān paśyan ramate. And as I said, He does not miss anything in life. Therefore, He will always say, குறையொன்றுமில்லை; always நிறைவு. So, etān kāmān paśyan ramate. ramate means, he revels. And, where are these kāma? kāma here means, what? Here, kāma does not mean 'desire'; in this context, the word kāma means, sense objects or pleasures. He enjoys them, not through one mind; because, one mind can enjoy only limited sense pleasures. Therefore, you have to take all the minds. It is said in taittirĩya upaniṣad as - so'śnute sarvān kāmān saha [brahmānandavallĩ] - that idea is brought here.

Where are all these sense pleasures located? ye ete brahmaloke. So, ye ete means, all these infinite worldly pleasures are in brahmaloka. And here, we should very carefully note brahmaloka here does not mean the brahmaloka, the 7th world. Here it is not referring to that. Here, the brahmaloke means, brahma caitanye; sarvagata brahma caitanye. They are all in brahman! And the jñāni will not say, 'they are all in brahman'; because, then what will happen? He will be sad! Everything is there; but, I do not have any! Remember, they are all in 'me'. Just as dream pleasures are existing in one waker, similarly all these worldly pleasures are in 'me', the super waker and therefore in brahmaloke means, in 'me' - the brahma caitanyam. And therefore, for a jñāni, life is what? majā majā only. Nothing to complain.

And remember, His body also will grow old; and bodily pains also will be there; but, He does not focus on one body. Then, life itself will appear as full of suffering. Because, if you look at one body, you will make a conclusion that, 'the whole world is full of suffering'. But, when you look at the totality of creation, suffering in one body will never be taken negatively; because, the world is predominantly beautiful only. Sufferings are only in few bodies; because, all the bodies put together occupy only 0.00001% of Creation. And looking at that one body, how can I judge the whole creation as suffering? You can never make such a judgment. Thus, looking at the totality objectively, His attitude is, creation is wonderful. Creation is viśvarūpa anātmā.

Continuing.

तं वा एतं देवा आत्मानमुपासते तस्मात्तेषा ्ँसर्वे च लोका आत्ताः सर्वे च कामाः स सर्वा ्ँश्च लोकानाप्नोति सर्वा ्ँश्च कामान्यस्तमात्मानमनुविद्य विजानातीति ह प्र्जापतिरुवाच प्रजापतिरुवाच ॥

tam vā etam devā ātmānamupāsate tasmātteṣā sarve ca lokā āttāh sarve ca kāmāh sa sarvā šca lokān āpnoti sarvā šca kāmān yastam ātmānam anuvidyā vijānātīti ha prjāpatir uvāca prajāpatir uvāca || 8.12.6 ||

So now, the upaniṣad wants to conclude this discussion of daharākāśa vidyā or dahara vidyā. Previously, in the first six sections of this 8th Chapter, we had dahara vidyā in the form of saguņa brahma upāsanā. Then, from the 7th section up to this 12th section, we have the same dahara vidyā, in the form of nirguņa brahma vidyā. That nirguņa brahma vidyā is being concluded in this last mantrā of the 12th section; which vidyā is a dialogue between prajāpati [and who is the disciple?] originally, there were indrā and virocanā. Now, of them, virocana discontinued the classes. indrā alone is continuing, [like you! You did not discontinue, thank GOD!] Therefore, this concluding mantrā is the phala śruti.

devā tam ātmānam upāsate - so, indrā the great student [and later indrā taught this to other devās also. Therefore, both indrā and devās] all of them, pursue and meditate on this turíya ātmā alone. tam ātmānam means, turíya rūpa ātmānam, who alone appears in the form of viśva, taijasa, prajña. Remember do not separate viśva taijasa prajña totally away from turiyam. Then, turiyam will become a limited entity. I should know turiyam alone is playing the role of viśva taijasa prājña. That turīya ātmā all the devās meditate upon. upāsate means, what? nididhyāsanam kurvanti. And practising nididhyāsanam includes śravaņam and mananam; because, without śravaņam, mananam what will you meditate? Therefore, upāsate includes all these three processes. And as a result of that, tasmāt tesā, sarve ca lokā āttāh. tasmāt - by that jñāna yogā, tesām sarve ca lokā āttāh - as a result of this knowledge, they have attained the entire universe unto themselves! How? Because, the world does not exist separate from the turiya ātmā. Why? Because, the world is born out of 'me'. It exists in 'me' and it resolves into 'me'. Just as, the waves are nondifferent from ocean; similarly, the world is non different from 'me'. This understanding is called, acquiring everything. You do not work, pay the money and buy. For that, the money required is too much. Through vedānta jñānam, you acquire everything by the simple knowledge that, "the world does not exist separate from me". What is the meaning of 'me'? The turíya ātmā. Therefore, sarve ca lokā āttāh. āttāh means, prāptāh. They are all attained. Which means, they fulfill all the four purusarthas, simultaneously. Otherwise, what will happen? You will say, 'I have attained moksa, Swāmījī. Now, I have got lot of dharma artha kāma remaining [to be fulfilled]! அப்படி இல்லை. By attaining dharma artha kāma, you do not get mokşa. But, when you attain mokşa, others [dharma artha kāma] are included. Therefore, cautrvida puruşārthāh āttāh.

sarve ca kāmāḥ āttāḥ - all the sense pleasures are as good as accomplished; because, He knows that all those joys are what? My own joys, reflected in somebody's mind or another's mind. sarve ca kāmāḥ āttāḥ. Full stop.

And next sentence, sa sarvān. Now, in this portion what the teacher says is, not only devās could acquire pũrṇatvam through this knowledge, anybody can acquire pũrṇatvam by gaining this knowledge. Otherwise, what will we think? Only during devās time this knowledge will be beneficial. In kaliyuga, this knowledge will not work, we may conclude. Remember, in kaliyuga also, we can acquire the same knowledge. And we can acquire the same benefit also. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, sa - saḥ - any student, in any yuga, whether one is brahmacārī, gṛhasthā, vānaprastha or sanyāsi; whether, one is brāhmaņā kṣatriyā vyśyā or śũdrā; whether one is Hindu or Christian or Muslim - [because they also have got viśva taijasa prājña, சந்தேகமில்லையே? Therefore when a Muslim comes and sits, what will I teach? வரமாட்டா! வந்துதுன்னு சொன்னா, I will say that 'you also are the turĩyam. There is no difference between Muslim turĩyam, Christian turĩyam கிடையாது!]

Therefore, any blessed person can learn this. Therefore, the upaniṣad says, yaḥ tam ātmānam anuvidyā. [In the next line]. yaḥ - whoever, tam ātmānam anuvidyā. anuvidyā means, enquires into. Here, anuvedanam means, śravaṇa, manana, nididhyāsana dvārā - of course, with the help of an ācāryā. Remember, with the help of guru śāstrā upadeśa - when anybody enquiries into this turĩyam; and, vijānāti - life long enquiry-லேயே இருக்கப்படாது! We cannot permanently stay there. I am a permanent sādhakā is not good. Therefore, the one who claims and gains this knowledge - vijānāti. And saḥ. [Then you have to go back to the second line]. saḥ - such a person who gets jñāna yogyatā prāpti, jñāna prāpti and jñāna niṣṭhā prāpti. [All this you remember, I hope]. jñāna yogyatā prāpti, jñāna prāpti and jñāna niṣṭhā prāpti. The one who gains all this, sa - saḥ. sarvā °, śca lokān āpnoti - He also attains everything. In short, He attains pũrṇatvam.

sarvā sarvā sca lokān yaḥ āpnoti. And not only that, sarvān kāmān āpnoti. kāma means what? All the sense pleasures. Because, reflections are included in the original! Because, reflected ānandā is not separate from the original ānandā! Therefore, sarvān kāmān - pratibimba sukhāni prāpnoti.

iti - in this manner, prjāpatiḥ uvāca - prajāpati concludes the teaching to indrā. And to indicate the conclusion the upaniṣad [these are the words of the upaniṣad], the upaniṣad repeats that once again. prjāpatiḥ uvāca. This is to indicate the end of nirguṇa brahma vidyā.

Thus, in 6 sections, saguṇa brahma upāsanam; and in 6 sections, nirguṇa brahma jñānam - both - were totally taught. Actually, the 8th chapter is over. But now, we are getting three more sections, which are called khila khaṇḍā. khila khaṇḍā means, a section which deals with assorted topics / appendix. Just certain stray; but, useful topics, in the form of prayer of a upāsakā; in the form of certain sādhanās that are required; and, in the form of the definition of brahma; a few assorted topics are talked about. In vedānta śāstrā, those portions are called khila khaṇḍā. khila. Second kha. khila khaṇḍā. You can say, [if you know Kerala language] அவியல் section! Just as அவியல் contains all the assorted, left over vegetables. Similarly assorted. I will introduce this section now.

Eighth Chapter - Section 13

श्यामाच्छबलं प्रपद्ये शबलाच्छ्यामं प्रपद्येऽश्व इव रोमाणि विधूय पापं चन्द्र इव राहोर्मुखात्प्रमुच्य धूत्वा शरीरमकृतं कृतात्मा ब्रह्मलोकमभिसम्भवामीत्यभिसम्भवामीति ॥

śyāmācchabalam prapadye śabalācchyāmam prapadye'śva iva romāni vidhūya pāpam candra iva rāhormukhātpramucya dhūtvā śarīram akrtam krtātmā brahmalokam abhi sambhavāmīty abhisambhavāmīti || 8.13.1 ||

So, with the previous mantrā, the 12th section is over. And with the 12th section, the 8th chapter is as good as over. Now, all these following three sections are only small sections, with one mantrā each. Now, in the 13th section, we have this mantrā. This is a prayer to the LORD given by the saguņa brahma upāsakā. A general prayer, especially at the time of death. [அதனால பயப்படாதீங்கோ! Not that it should be chanted only at the time of death. It can be at other times also]. Just as we have got in ĩśāvāsya upaniṣad, the last four mantrās - [15 to 18] –

hiraņmayena pātreņa satyasyāpihitam mukham | tattvam pūşannapāvņņu satyadharmāya drṣṣṭaye || pūşannekarṣe yama sūrya prājāpatya vyūha raśmīn samūha tejaḥ | yatte rūpam kalyāṇatamam tatte paśyāmi yo'sāvasau puruṣaḥ so'hamasmi || vāyuranilamamrtamathedam bhasmānta šáarīram | om krato smara kṛta smara krato smara kṛta smara || agne naya supathā rāye asmān viśvāni deva vayunāni vidvān | yuyodhyasmajjuhurāṇameno bhūyiṣṭhām te namauktim vidhema ||

- four beautiful prayers are there by the saguna ĩśvara upāsakā. Or, we can also connect it to the 8th chapter of the bhagavad gĩtā. The one who has done saguna upāsanā throughout life and at the time of death also, he wants to go to brahmaloka and there, he wants to gain knowledge and attain what mukti? I do not know whether you remember. krama mukti he wants to attain.

So also, this is the prayer of saguṇa brahma upāsakā. In what form? As the daharākāśa, described where? In this 8th chapter. The first six sections talked about the daharākāśa saguṇa ĩśvarā. I do not know whether you remember aṣṭaguṇa viśiṣṭaḥ. "

"ya ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimrtyurvišoko vijighatso'pipāsah satyakāmah satyasankalpah" - iti astaguna višista saguna brahma upāsanā he has done. Therefore his prayer is what? 'Oh lord, after my death, I should go through [what gati? Hope you remember!] šukla gati and reach brahmaloka'. Therefore, he says, šyāmāt chabalam prapadye.

Here, the word śyāmāḥ is a peculiar word which has got a contextual meaning. Literally the word śyāmaḥ means dark or black. But, in this context, śyāma refers to brahman. saguṇa brahman, who is in the hṛdayākāśa. daharākāśa rūpa brahma is here called śyāma. What a meaning! What is the meaning? Darkness! And darkness means what? brahman! Now, śańkarācāryā has to explain, 'how can brahman be called darkness?' All these mantrās if you take a dictionary and translate it all will be obscure. You will not get head or tail out of it! śańkarācāryā has written commentary; therefore, we are able to get. śańkarācāryā says, brahman is called darkness because, for people, brahman is as good as darkness! They do not see brahman. They are ignorant of brahman. Just as "ya niśā sarva bhũtanam" - in gĩtā second chapter, brahman is compared to niśā, here also brahman is called darkness; because, majority of people do not know that lord, who is in the heart; because, they are extroverted. And therefore, in this context, śyāma means, brahman in the hṛdayākāśa. From this brahman, let me go to brahmaloka. That is indicated by the word chabalaṃ. chabalaṃ means, brahmaloka.

And how does that word indicate brahmaloka? Again dictionary will not explain. śańkarācāryā explains, which we will see in the next class.

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

52. Chapter 8.13.1, 8.14.1 and 8.15.1

श्यामाच्छबलं प्रपद्ये शबलाच्छ्यामं प्रपद्येऽश्व इव रोमाणि विधूय पापं चन्द्र इव राहोर्मुखात्प्रमुच्य धूत्वा शरीरमकृतं कृतात्मा ब्रह्मलोकमभिसम्भवामीत्यभिसम्भवामीति ॥

śyāmācchabalam prapadye śabalācchyāmam prapadye'śva iva romāni vidhũya pāpam candra iva rāhormukhātpramucya dhũtvā śarĩram akṛtam kṛtātmā brahmalokam abhi sambhavāmĩty abhisambhavāmĩti || 8.13.1 ||

With the 12th section, the main teaching of the chāndogya 8th chapter is complete. And in the following 3 sections - 13, 14 & 15 - we are getting certain general upāsanās; and therefore, the section is called khila khaṇḍam. khila khaṇḍam means, a khaṇḍam of assorted topics. There is no progressive development; but, a few ideas here & there are given.

Now, in this 13th section, we get a prayer, which is uttered by a saguṇa upāsakā, who is the seeker of krama mukti. And therefore his prayer is, all the pāpam - which are obstacles for krama mukti - they all must go away as a result of this upāsanā; and after death, he must travel by śukla gati, go to brahma lokā, attain nirguṇa brahma jñānam there; and from there, krama mukti. Thus, this is a prayer for krama mukti.

And therefore, the upāsakā says, 'from brahma lokā - the creator - I have come to the manuṣya janmā, in which the brahman is available as hārdam brahma, that means hṛdaya ākāśa. And from hṛdaya ākāśa, I again want to go back to the brahma lokā itself. Therefore, śyāmāt śabalaṃ prapadye. The word śyāma represents hārdam brahma - that is, brahman visualised as hṛdaya ākāśa, in dahara vidyā. And from this hārdam brahma, [hārdam brahma means, saguṇa brahma located in the hṛdayam], I want to go to the brahma lokā. śabalaṃ prapadye.

śabalam is a technical word for brahma lokā, which has got varieties of things as described before. If you remember, what all various things are there in brahma lokā was mentioned before - like, beautiful palace etc. All those are indicated here by the word śabalam. śabalam means brahma lokā. prapadye - may I go, after death. And why do I want to go there? Because, from brahma lokā or brahmājī alone, I have come to this bhūlokā, as brahmājī is the creator. Therefore, śabalāt śyāmaṃ prapadye. śabalāt - from brahmalokā, śyāmaṃ prapadye - I have come to śyāmam - the hārdam brahma, in manuṣya janmā. Since I have come from brahmalokā to manuṣya janmā, now, from manuṣya janmā I want to go back to brahma lokā. For what purpose? For krama mukti purpose. So, śabalāt śyāmaṃ prapadye. Here, the verb prapadye should be understood as prapannavān. I have already come here. I want to go back to brahma lokā.

And how do I want to accomplish that? By the practise of upāsanā, I want to accumulate puņyam and reduce my pāpam. And for the removal of pāpam, two examples are given. The first example is aśva iva romāņi vidhũya - just as a horse which has got dust all over the body, removes all the dust by shaking the body and the hair on the body. When it shakes the body and the hair whatever dust is stuck in the body all that dust will be released. Similarly, I want to shake off all my pāpam dust. And here how do you shake off? Not like horse. upāsanā is the shaking of process. They give the example which are popular in those days. Now, even for seeing a horse you have to Guindy or I do not know where you have to go! In those days it was all common. Therefore, aśva iva romāņi vidhũya. yathā rajaḥ vidhũnoti. You have to supply that. rajaḥ means, the dust, vidhũnoti - it removes, shakes off. Similarly, pāpam vidhũya, I want to shake off all the pāpam by the practise of upāsanā. This is example one.

And the second example is, candra iva rāhormukhāt pramucya. During the grahaņa time, the moon is under the grip of rāhu. In the mythological story, rāhu grasps the moon; and at mokṣa kāla, the moon gets released from the clutches of rāhu. Similarly, I am also in the clutch of what? All the pāpams. So, here, pāpam is compared to rāhu. And by the practise of upāsanā, I want to get released from pāpa grahaņam. Just as from rāhu grahaņam candra gets released; similarly, from pāpa grahaņam I want to get released. Therefore, rāhor mukhāt candra pramucya iva.

And thereafter, dhūtvā śarĩram [so here is a printing mistake in some books. It must be corrected as dhũtvā śarĩram]. dhũtvā means what? Having dropped this physical body of mine at the end of my prārabdha. So, dhũtvā śarĩram akṛtāṃ kṛtātmā. kṛtātmā means śuddha ātmā bhũtvā - I should become śuddha ātmā as a result of upāsanā. I should become purer. And all the pāpās must go away from me. So kṛtātmā means, śuddha ātmā, samskṛta ātmā bhũtvā. And here, samskṛta ātmā means, antaḥkaraṇam; because, ātmā need not be purified. Why? ātmā is already pure. Therefore, here, the word ātmā means 'the mind', the śũkṣma śarĩram. It should be rid of all the pāpam. And I should go to 'akṛtaṃ brahmalokam abhi sambhavāmi' - I should go to brahamalokā which is akṛtam. kṛtam means, kāryam. akṛtam means, akāryam means, kāraṇam. That brahma lokā, which is the kāraṇam, from which alone, all the universes were created by brahmājĩ. That kāraṇa brahma lokam abhi sambhavāmi - may I go to.

And it is repeated, to indicate the end of the section. And of course, all these prayers are given by the upāsakā for krama mukti. So, this is the end of the 13th section. And now comes the 14th.

Eighth Chapter - Section 14

आकाशो वै नाम नामरूपयोर्निर्वहिता ते यदन्तरा तद्ब्रह्म तदमृत्ँस आत्मा प्रजापतेः सभां वेश्म प्रपद्ये यशोऽहं भवामि ब्राह्मणानां यशो राज्ञां यशोविशां यशोऽहमनुप्रापत्सि स हाहं यशसां यशः श्येतमदत्कमदत्क्ँ श्येतं लिन्दु माभिगां लिन्दु माभिगाम् ॥

ākāśo vai nāma nāmarũpayor nirvahitā te yad antarā tad brahma tad amṛta vai ātmā prajāpateḥ sabhāṃ veśma prapadye yaśo'haṃ bhavāmi brāhmaṇānāṃ yaśorājñāṃ yaśoviśāṃ yaśo'ham anuprāpatsi sa hāhaṃ yaśasāṃ yaśaḥ śyetam adatkamadatka śyetaṃ lindu mābhigāṃ lindu mābhigām II 8.14.1 II

All these are obscure mantrās. Very, very difficult to decipher these mantrās purely with the help of a Sanskrit dictionary and Sanskrit grammar. Fortunately, śańkarācāryā's bhāṣyam is available and for further clarifications, several sub commentaries are available for śańkarācāryā's bhāṣyam. With the help of all these only, we are able to decipher. Each mantrā is a peculiar mantrā. And this section again has only one mantrā. Again the prayer of the upāsakā is talked about.

The upāsakā has practised saguņa brahma upāsanā as daharākāśa. He has meditated upon kāranam brahma. And therefore, first the upanisad defines the kāranam brahma in this mantrā, which has been meditated upon by the upāsakā. And what is that brahman? ākāšo vai nāma. So here brahman is called ākāša. Look at the mischief done by the upanisad! The word ākāśā means space; and the upanisad uses the word ākāśā for brahman. And how is brahman called ākāśā? The derivation is, prakāśa rupatvāt. kāśah means, shining. kāśate prakāśate iti kāśah. And ākāśah means, THAT WHICH SHINES IN THE FORM OF SATCIDRŰPA. That which is shining everywhere is ākāśa. That is brahman. And of course, in brahma sũtrā, there is an elaborate discussion on 'how can you translate ākāśa as brahman'. And śańkarācāryā gives several reasons. What is one reason He gives, based on this sentence? ākāšo vai nāma. brahman - which is ākāša, formless, all pervading - like ākāśā, is nirvahitā. nirvahitā means srsti kartā - the Creator. The kāraņam of nāmarūpayoh. The cause of all the names and forms, the nāma rupātmaka prapañcah. And therefore, śańkarācāryā argues, [śańkarācāryā and of course, vyasācāryā] 'the upanişad says ākāšā is the creator of all the nāma rupā, the product. And one of the five elements - ākāśā, the bhūta ākāśā - comes under kāryam or kāraņam? bhūta ākāśā, [bhũta ākāśā means, the elemental space], will come under kāryam or kāraņam? We have studied that all the pañca bhūtās come under created universe only. But, here, we are talking about ākāśā, the kāraņam. kāraņa ākāśā has to be brahman only. Because, the bhũta ākāśā happens to be what? kāryam. [Are you able to appreciate the logic?] bhũta ākāśā happens to be kāryam. Therefore, kāraņa ākāśā cannot be one of the five elements. It must be other than the five elements; because, the five elements come under what? kāryam. Here the upaniṣad is talking about what? kāraņa ākāśā. Therefore, the argument is, ākāśā - the kāraņam - has to be something other than the bhũta ākāśā. And that ākāśā is brahman only. Thus, brahma sũtrā is interesting. It gives reason for every word meaning that we arrive at! And therefore, this is one of the reasons. Several other reasons are also given.

And this kāraņa ākāśā, which is cit ākāśā, which is different from bhūta ākāśā, this cidākāśā is the creator of all the nāma rũpa prapañca. And not only that. te yad antarā tadbrahma. And te means, the nāma rũpa prapañca. te is nāma rũpe. Dual number. yad antarā tadbrahma tadamṛta, sa ātmā. yadantarā tadbrahma - this nāma rũpa prapañca is supported by kāraṇam. That kāraṇam - the support, the sthiti kartā, is called brahman. So, previously, nirvahitā. Means sṛṣṭi kartā. And now, te yadantarā refers to sthiti kartā. brahman is both the sṛṣți kartā, as well as, sthiti kartā.

And tadamṛtam. This is another argument we use. If the word ākāśa is the bhũta ākāśa, one of the five elements, the ākāśa will be nityam or anityam? bhũta ākāśā is anityam only. Whereas, here the upaniṣad says, the ākāśa that I am talking about is amṛta ākāśā. nityam. Therefore, what must be the meaning? brahman alone here is called ākāśā. And if you ask, 'why should upaniṣad unnecessarily confuse us?' śańkarācāryā will answer, 'go and ask the upaniṣad; why are you asking me?' So, upaniṣad could have used the word brahman; but, it uses the word ākāśā. Therefore, tadamṛtam that ākāśam brahma is eternal. and saḥ ātmā - that kāraṇam brahma alone is the ātmā of every living being. It is but logical; because, kāraṇam must pervade all the kāryam! That is the ātmā of everyone. saḥ ātmā. Up to this is the definition of kāraṇam brahma.

And then you have to add a sentence. 'this upāsakā has meditated upon this kāraņam brahma, throughout his life. The upāsakā has meditated upon the kāraņam brahma, throughout his life. And therefore, towards the fag end of his life, again he is praying to the kāraņam brahma, ĩśvarā. For what? Again, krama mukti! And therefore, from the next word onwards, it is within inverted commas, the prayer of saguņa upāsakā. For what? krama mukti. And what does he pray?

He says, prajāpateḥ sabhāṃ veśma prapadye - may I go to brahma lokā and the palatial building of brahmājĩ. So, when all the vaiṣṇavās, during vaikuṇta ekādaśi, in the viṣṇu temple, when they are entering, that is what ωπεώ? vaikunta ωπεώ; or, brahma pada வாசல். Then, what is their prayer? For viśistādvaitin, jīvan mukti is not there. Therefore, always what do they want? 'After death we want to go to vaikunta'. There visnu will be there, laksmĩ will be there. This is always the prayer of saguna upāsakā. And therefore this upāsakā says, 'I should go to the palatial house'. And there also, they talk about gradation. Some bhaktās can sit near visnu. Some bhaktās can sit only far away. Reservation. இங்கதான் reservation-னா, அங்கேயும் reservation! And some bhaktās can be only in the neighbouring room. They can only listen to the conversation. They cannot see. All these gradations, they talk about. So here, the upāsakā prays, 'I want to go to the hall of brahmājī". sabhām veśma means, the hall of brahma, which was described in the itself, before. [I will give you the reference mantrā 8.5.3. இப்ப chāndogya பாக்கவேண்டாம், ஆத்துலபோய் பாருங்கோ. There is a description of the hall of brahmājī I want to enter that. And fortunately, this upāsakā does not want to remain in vaikuntā as an individual; but, he wants to gain the knowledge of brahman and discover oneness with that brahman. Therefore, 'I want to become one with that kāranam brahma and by becoming kāranam brahma, aham brāhmanānām yaśah bhavāmi.

So, another obscure word yaśaḥ. śańkarācāryā translates yaśaḥ as, ātmā. Again, no dictionary will help in arriving at the meaning. śańkarācāryā translates because in one of the vedā mantrās, ātmā is defined as yaśaḥ. And what is the reason? I should not go in to the details, anyway, let me tell you. Literally, yaśaḥ means, fame. vibhũti or glory. The argument of the vedā is, anybody is glorious because of what? The ātmā, brahman alone any glory is possible, as seen in the 10th chapter bhagavad gĩtā. "yadyad vibhũtimat sattvaṃ śrĩmadũrjitameva vā, tattad evāvagaccha tvaṃ mama tejoṃ'śasambhavam" [gītā 10.41] - any fame anywhere is because of ātmā only.

Therefore, ātmā itself is given a title, 'FAME'. Because, it is the cause of fame for anyone and everyone. And therefore one of the names of ātmā is, what? yaśaḥ. And this comes in mahānārāyaṇa upaniṣad. "tasya nāma mahad yaśaḥ". tasya nāma - one of the names of brahman is yaśaḥ. So, you have to borrow from that mahānārāyaṇa upaniṣad and apply in this mantrā. yaśaḥ means, ātmā. Therefore, this upāsakā prays, aham yaśaḥ bhavāmi - let me "become" the ātmā. [Become, within quotes]. Through knowledge, let me discover 'I am the ātmā'.

ātmā of whom? ātmā of everyone. brāhmaņānām rājñām yaśoviśām - brāhmaņa, kṣatriya, vaiśya [rājñām refers to kṣatriya; viśām refers to vaiśya] and you have to extend it to all the living beings. aham yaśaḥ bhavāmi. May I discover that 'I am the ātmā in all - sarva bhũtātma bhũtātmā bhavāmi. And therefore only, yaśaḥ aham anuprāpatsi - let me attain this status.

saha ahaṃ yaśasāṃ yaśaḥ - so let me discover that I am the fame [yaśaḥ] in all the famous people, in all the living beings [yaśasāṃ]. In all the bodies; in all the living beings; let me discover myself as the yaśaḥ. Like, jyotiṣāṃ jyotiḥ, yaśasāṃ yaśaḥ aham bhavāmi. And by gaining this knowledge, I should attain krama mukti and I should become one with brahman; so that, I am out of the cycles of punarapi jananam punarapi maraṇam. And that is said in the last portion.

śyetamadatkamadatka, šyetam lindu mābhigām lindu mābhigām - another obscure sentence. It ultimately means, garbhavāsah mama māstu. These words are description of garbhavāsah. And mā abhigām means, let me escape from garbhavāsa, which indicates bondage of karmā, dehābhimāna etc. In short, let me become immortal, without garbha praveśa. This is the 14th section. And now comes the 15th and final section, which is the conclusion.

Eighth Chapter – Section 15

तधैतद्ब्रह्मा प्रजापतयै उवाच प्रजापतिर्मनवे मनुः प्रजाभ्यः आचार्यकुलाद्वेदमधीत्य यथाविधानं गुरोः कर्मातिशेषेणाभिसमावृत्य कुटुम्बे शुचौ देशे स्वाध्यायमधीयानो धर्मिकान्विदधदात्मनि सर्वैन्द्रियाणि सम्प्रतिष्ठाप्या-हि ्ैसन्सर्व भूतान्यन्यत्र तीर्थेभ्यः स खल्वेवं वर्तयन्यावदायुषं ब्रह्मलोकमभिसम्पद्यते न च पुनरावर्तते न च पुनरावर्तते

II

tadhaitad brahmā prajāpatayai uvāca prajāpatir manave manuņ prajābhyaņ ācāryakulād vedam adhītya yathā vidhānam guroņ karmātiśeṣeņābhisamāvrtya kuţumbe śucau deśe svādhyāyam adhīyāno dharmikān vidadhad ātmani sarvaindriyāņi sampratiṣṭhāpyāhič san sarva bhũtāny anyatra tĩrthebhyaņ sa khalvevam vartayan yāvad āyuṣam brahmalokām abhisampadyate na ca punarāvartate na ca punarāvartate || 8.15.1 ||

Beautiful, concluding mantrā. First, the upaniṣad says, that this particular teaching has been coming down from the Lord in the form of an unbroken paraṃparā. It is not a teaching of yesterday or day before. It is a teaching given by the Lord himself. And in the form of guru śişya paraṃparā, it has been coming down. And therefore it is a valid teaching, which is contained in the 8th chapter, which provides two types of sādhanās. One is, saguṇa brahma upāsanam for krama mukti. Another is, nirguṇa brahma jñānam for sadhyo muktiḥ. Both are known by one common name - dahara vidyā. The first six sections talked about saguṇa brahma upāsanam as dahara vidyā. The later six sections talked about nirguṇa brahma jñānam as viśva, taijasa, prājña, turĩya. Thus, both krama mukti sādhanam and jĩvan mukti sādhanam - both are provided in this section. The choice is ours. We can either practise saguṇa upāsanā and attain krama mukti; or, nirguṇa jñānam and attain jĩvan mukti. Both of them are provided.

To go through these two sādhanās we require a conducive life style. And that life style also is provided by vedā itself, in the form of four āśramās. brahmacarya, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sanyāsā. These are well graded four āśramās. Stepping stones for either krama mukti or jĩvan mukti. And that āśramā scheme is beautifully described in this mantrā. So, ONE IS, THE TEACHING; ANOTHER IS, THE INFRASTRUCTURE. ĀŚRAMĀ SCHEME IS THE INFRASTRUCTURE. The teaching is, the sādhanā. Without infrastructure, you cannot follow the sādhanā. And that is why many sādhanās we are not able to follow; because, now the varṇa - āśrama scheme has become obsolete. Therefore all the people in their prime age, have time for only artha-kāma pursuit. There is no time for either religion or spirituality. And by the time they run and run and retire - and if possible again get employed, and again retire - by that time, they have become physically, mentally and intellectually unfit for spirituality. vedā has this beautiful varna - āśrama, especially āśramā scheme. Both have come down from the Lord alone. Very, very beautifully presented.

tad haitad brahmā - tad haitad means this teaching consisting of what? Both saguņa upāsanā for krama mukti as well as nirguņa upāsanā for jīvan mukti - this teaching, brahmā prajāpatayai uvāca, brahma the creator, taught to the prajāpatis. 14 prajāpatis are mentioned who are in the beginning of the creation itself and prajāpatiķ manave uvāca prajāpati taught to manu, who presides over the entire humanity. We are all manu putrās. That is why we are called mānavā.

imaṃ vivasvate yogāṃ proktavān aham avyayam, vivasvān manave prāha manur ikṣvākave' bravīt [gītā 4.1] - in fourth chapter, kṛṣṇā Himself said. And the presiding manu is called vaivasvata manu. That manu became prajāpati's disciple. manuḥ prajābhyaḥ and that manu taught to His children and disciples; and through them, to all the humanity. Again in the gĩtā [10.6] - mahārṣayaḥ sapta pũrve catvāro manavastathā, madbhāvā mānasā jātā yeṣāṃ loka imāḥ prajāḥ - we have both a sanyāsĩ paraṃparā as well as gṛhastha paraṃparā. All have been beautifully initiated. manuḥ prajābhyaḥ. So, if you are born in a vaidika family, in a Hindu family, this rich heritage is available. How much money it costs? Free of cost! Not like, joining IIT or Medical college. There, we have capitation fee. So, we have got a rich heritage. And if you have to follow sādhanā, you have to go through the āśramā scheme. That āśramā scheme is presented.

So, manuḥ prajābhyaḥ. And how should we utilise the rich vedic heritage? What is the first stage? ācārya kulād vedam adhītya - first I should qualify myself. And after appropriate qualification, I go to a residential school, where both the worldly teaching is available for my livelihood - that is important. And along with worldly teaching, the scriptural teaching also has to be gathered. That is the beauty of traditional gurukulā. Both secular sciences and sacred sciences we have to learn. But now, our education system has got only secular. For sacred teaching we have to go elsewhere! So, what is our first āśramā. brahmacarya āśramā, which is learning the theory of spirituality. Without learning the theory, how can I practise? Therefore, upaniṣad says, brahmacarya āśrame [that we have to supply] ācārya kulād - from the gurukulam, ācāryakulam means, gurukulam, the residential school. [These are all now ideal. We do not have such things now. But, the vedic scheme is presented].

There, what should one do? vedam adhītya. One should study the scriptures, which talk about a spiritual way of life, while earning money also parallely. So, ācārya kulād vedam adhītya. And how should you do that? yathā vidhānaṃ - by following all the rules of a brahmacāri. brahmacāri's lifestyle is prescribed. In uddhava gĩtā, we have certain chapters, which talk about do-s and do nots of a brahmacāri; a gṛhastha; a vānaprastha - for everyone the lifestyle is given. So, following that lifestyle. And brahmacāri's lifestyle means, simple lifestyle, simplicity - gaudy dress, varieties of ornaments all those things are not there. A person who is bothered about bodily decoration will be poor in education.

kāka dṛṣṭiḥ baka dhyānaṃ, śvāna nidrā tathaiva ca l alpa āhāraḥ jĩrṇa vastram, evam vidyārthĩ lakṣaṇaṃ 🏾

jīrņa vastram etc சொல்லியிருக்கு. I do not want to tell all those things here. Therefore, 'following all the rules'. And guroḥ karmātiśeṣeṇa - parallely, the brahmacāri has to do service to the guru. Because, in gurukulam, employees are not there. In tradition, employees are not there. The brahmacāris themselves will have to do service. Cleaning & washing. Not only for the guru; but, for the entire gurukulā, they have to do. Therefore, guroḥ karma kṛtvā. And, ati śeṣeṇā - in the remaining time, vedam adhītya. Service is primary. And then, vidya abhyāsā is also given. Because, initially, a person should do lot of work. Working hours is more and class hours are less. அப்பப்ப கூப்பிடுவா! No fixed time. Whenever guru feels, all of you assemble. Even in sandīpani sādhanālaya - where we studied under Dayānanda Swāmījī - Dayānanda Swāmījī was the resident ācāryā; but, Swāmi Chinmayānanda was the prime ācāryā. But since he was traveling all over, he was not the resident ācāryā; he was a visiting ācāryā. And whenever he was in the āśram, he will call all us. Sometimes he will come at 10 p.m. He will say, today's class is from 11 p.m to 12 midnight. 'grīsāsib வரதே' - அதெல்லாம் தொன்னா, he will say, 'Go home and sleep, permanently!' Thus, whenever the guru wants, he calls. And for resident students, nothing else!

Therefore, vedam adhĩtya - studying the vedam. and not only vedā, later veda bhāṣyam adhĩtya - study the meaning of the vedās, which will give him the knowledge of 'what is karma yogā', 'what is upāsana yogā', 'what is jĩāna yogā', 'what are the four puruṣārthās', 'what are primary and what are secondary' - all these are taught. THE GOALS OF LIFE, THE PRIORITIES ARE MADE VERY CLEAR. So, up to this is what? brahmacarya āśramā.

Then, ābhi samāvŗtya. samāvartanam has to be done, which is the conclusion of brahmacarya āśramā, after 12 years, 15 years etc. And then what should you do? Next āśramā comes. kuţumba. You can understand. So, kuţumbe - then he should get married, enter gṛhasthāśramā. Because, in gṛhasthāśramā alone, implementation of karma yogā is possible. pañca mahā yajña require a gṛhastha infrastructure. Therefore, kuṭumbe - in gṛhasthāśramā.

śucau deśe svādhyāyam adhĩyānaḥ. The problem is, once a person enters grhasthāśramā, the duties will be so much, that there will be no time for revising the scriptures, which he studied in brahmacarya āśramā! "Swāmījī, during the holidays I wanted to revise so many things; but, nothing could be done. Some guest came, something or the other". The interesting thing is, even if you stick to the class-hours for revision [Saturday-Sunday 6 to 7] when I give vacation in May if you are going to revise during class hours, it will be good. But, something or the other happens. The plans are wonderful; but, some obstacle or the other. Therefore, the upanisad warns, 'do not give excuses. You have to do mananam, revision'. Therefore, śucau deśe - in an undisturbed place'. svādhyāyam adhīyānah revising the scriptures. Because, then only they will give regular (皮止)! "LIFE IS NOT MERELY EARNING, EATING, PRODUCING CHILDREN AND GETTING GRANDCHILDREN, THAT IS NOT LIFE. THERE IS SOMETHING ELSE WHICH IS MORE VALUABLE. MERELY EATING AND PROTECTING THE FAMILY, EVEN ANIMALS DO THAT MORE EFFICIENTLY THAN US. FOR THAT YOU DO NOT REQUIRE HUMAN BIRTH. KANAKĀBHISEKAM ANYBODY CAN DO. YOU CAN GET IT DONE WITH THE HELP OF CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN; WHICH ANIMALS ALSO CAN GET DONE. அதுக்கு தெரியாது, பாவம்! THEREFORE, RAISING A FAMILY IS NOT A BIG ACHIEVEMENT. YOU HAVE TO WORK FOR DHARMA AND MOKSA. THAT REQUIRES REGULAR SATSANGA. THAT IS WHY SANKARĀCĀRYĀ SAID, "SATSANGATVE NISSANGATVAM" - SOMEBODY HAS TO REMIND US -"வந்த வேலையைக் கவனி!" என்னல்லாமோ வேலையைப் பண்றாய், வந்த வேலையைக் கவனி. So, svādhyāyam adhīyānaḥ.

And parallelly dharmikān vidadhad - you have to prepare and raise the next generation in gṛhasthāśramā. Because, brahmacāri cannot do that. vānaprasthā cannot do that. sanyāsi should not do that. Therefore, as a gṛhasthā, may you raise virtuous children - not brats, dharmika - means, virtuous; religious; having value for spirituality. vidadhad means, begetting children and raising them, properly. In fact, the very purpose of family life is, the preparation of a healthy next generation. So, up to dharmikān vidadhad is gṛhasthāśramā. Then comes what? vānaprastha āśramā. Either go away from the home; or, even if you do not go away from home, once the children are grown up and they are capable of taking up responsibilities, gradually withdraw from karma yogā, and take to what? upāsana and jñāna yogā. That is said. ātmani sarva indriyāņi sam pratiṣṭhāpya means, from extrovert may you take to introvert. Means, restrained or withdrawn lifestyle. And you can take bhikṣā from your own family, children or grandchildren. You call it bhikṣā, to indicate, no more complaints about the quality of food. '2.iuu uத்தலை, காரம் அதிகம், புளி ஜாஸ்த' Do not complain. Learn to accept whatever food comes from whoever is around. ātmani sarva indriyāņi sam pratiṣṭhāpya refers to vānaprasthāśrama and also the sanyāsa āśrama, which is an option. If not external sanyāsa āśrama, at least internal sanyāsa.

And while going through all these āśramās, ahigṃ san sarva bhūtāni - may one practise all the values mentioned in the scriptures [which we are seeing in the Sunday class amānitvam, adambhitvam, ahiṃsā ...]. It presents all the values. Practising parallely, anyatra tĩrthebhyaḥ - with only limited exceptions - which are provided in the śāstrā itself. Like what? dharma yuddham etc., are exceptions. Other than those exceptions, follow ahiṃsā diligently. So, here tĩrtha means, the exceptions provided by the scriptures. śāstra anujñāta hiṃsā. Certain types of hiṃsā, śāstrā itself permits. Like, in certain yāgās, animal sacrifice is there. In dharma yuddha hiṃsā is there. Except those cases, in all other occasions, follow ahiṃsā.

And if a person goes through these āśramās and learn the sādhanās, follows the sādhanās, and practises either upāsanā or jñānam, then what will happen? sa khalu evaṃ vartayan - remaining in this manner, yāvad āyuṣaṃ - throughout one's life. Then, what will be the phalam? brahma lokām abhi sampadyate na ca punarāvartate na ca punarāvartate. brahmalokām abhisampadyate - if one has practised saguṇa brahma upāsanā throughout one's life, He will attain what? brahma lokā, after death. If he has practised nirguṇa brahma jñānam, he attains what? Not brahma lokā; but, brahma caitanyam.

Thus, the word brahmalokam has two meanings. In the case of saguna upāsakā, brahma lokam. In the case of nirguna jñāni, brahma caitanyam. saguna upāsakā gets aikyam, after death. NIRGUNA JÑĀNI GETS THE AIKYAM, HERE & NOW. Either through krama mukti or sadhyo mukti, He becomes one with brahman. And therefore, na ca punar āvartate. And that upāsakā - who has attained krama mukti; and the jñāni - who as attained videha mukti, both of them do not come back as a jĩvā. They are free from the cycle of janmā and maranam. na ca punar āvartate - and this is repeated, to indicate the end of the mantrā; the end of the section; the end of the chapter; the end of the upaniṣad. So, we will just chant the śānti pāṭhā and conclude.

om āpyāyantu mamāngāni vākprānaścksuh śrotramatho balamindriyāni ca sarvāni | sarvam brahmaupanisadam māham brahma nirākuryām mā mā brahma nirākarod anikāranam astv- anikāranam me'stu | tadātmani nirate ya upanisatsu dharmāste mayi santu te mayi santu | om śāntih śāntih śāntih ||

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

53. Summary of 8th Chapter

Today, I will give you a summary of the 8th and final chapter of chāndogya upaniṣad. This chapter, having 15 sections or khaṇḍams deals with the topic of dahara vidyā. The word dahara means, the space obtaining within the heart of an individual. dahara refers to hārda ākāśa. The small space obtaining within the heart. The literal meaning of the word dahara is alpam or small; but, in vedāntic context the word dahara means, the small space within the heart. And the word ākāśā - in this context means, brahman. We should not take the literal meaning; but, it means prakāśa rũpam brahma. sākṣi caitanyam rũpam brahma. Therefore, dahara ākāšā means the brahman obtaining in the hṛdayam. brahman or paramātmā obtaining in the hṛdayam is called dahara ākāša. Another word we use is, hārdam brahma. hārdam means, obtaining in the heart. brahma means brahma. And based on this alone in bhagavad gĩtā also Lord kṛṣṇā says, "īśvaraḥ sarva bhūtānāṃ hṛdeśe'rjuna tiṣṭhati, bhrāmayansarvabhūtāni yantrārūḍhāni māyayā" [gītā 18-61] This alone is mentioned in the lalithā sahasranāmā also. One of the nāmā of devĩ is daharākāśa rũpiņĩ. Therefore, dahara ākāśā means, hārdam brahma.

And the word vidyā has two meanings. One is upāsanam, the other is jñānam. This particular chapter deals with both upāsanā and jñānam. Therefore, we are getting dahara vidyā one and dahara vidyā two or hārda brahma vidyā one and hārda brahma vidyā two. In the first vidyā, which is upāsanam, hārdam brahma should be understood as saguņam brahma. Therefore, dahara vidyā number one is, saguņa brahma upāsanam, as obtaining in the hṛdayam. dahara vidyā number two is nirguņa brahma jñānam. Again, as obtaining in the hṛdayam. saguņam brahma is also in the hṛdayam, known as prājña. nirguņam brahma is also in the hṛdayam known as turĩya. prājña rũpeṇa, turĩya rũpeṇa ca saguņa and nirguņam brahma are there.

And these two dahara vidyās are presented in two parts. In the first six sections we get dahara vidyā number one - saguņa brahma upāsanam. And from the 7th section up to the 12th section, we get dahara vidyā number 2 - nirguņa jñānam. And then in the last three sections, we get khila khaņḍam. khila khaṇḍam, meaning assorted topics. This is the outline of the 8th chapter.

Of this, we will take dahara vidyā number one - saguņa brahma upāsanam or īśvara upāsanam. In sections 1,3 and 4, section 1, then section number 3 and section number 4, we get the description of daharākāśā - the saguņam brahma, otherwise called īśvarā. īśvara varnanam. varnanam means what? Description or definition, we are getting in three sections. And some of the important descriptions are very famous in the śāstrā.

The first description is sarva ādhāratvam. yāvānvā ayamākāśastāvāneṣo'ntarhrdaya akāśa ubhe asmindyāvāprthivī antareva samāhite ubhāvagniśca vāyuśca sūryācandramasāvubhau vidyunnakṣatrāṇi yaccāsyehāsti yacca nāsti sarvaṃ tadasminsamāhitamiti I [mantrā 8.1.3] - even though ĩśvarā is supposed to be in the heart, really ĩśvarā is sarva ādhāraḥ, description one.

The second description is aṣṭaguṇa viśiṣṭaḥ, which is also very, very popular. eṣa ātmā apahatapāpmā vijaro vimṛṭyurviśoko vijighatso'pipāsaḥ satyakāmaḥ satyasańkalpaḥ - those 8 virtues go together. Free from all types of pāpam. Free from old age. Free from diseases. Free from hunger. Free from thirst. Free from sorrow. ĩśvarā is free from all of them. Final two are important descriptions - which are relevant. satyakāmaḥ and satyasańkalpaḥ. Whatever bhagavān WILLS or wishes, they come true without any obstacles. Thus, aṣṭaguṇa viśiṣṭatvam is the second description.

Then the third description is setutvam. bhagavān is like bund which protects the waters of the field. In the field, agricultural field, when they irrigate and give water, for the water not to go out, they have got bunds to protect the waters. Similarly, the entire creation is behaving harmoniously because of the laws of the universe and all the laws are very well protected by an intelligent principle. That intelligent protector of the universal laws, śāsvata dharma bhoktā of the 11th chapter of the bhagavad gĩtā is here called setuḥ. bhagavān is dharma setuḥ. This is the third description.

Then the next - fourth - description is sakrt vibhāgatvam. sakrdvibhāgah means, ever effulgent. Being caitanyam svarũpam the Lord is ever effulgent as consciousness, illuming the entire creation. Nothing goes beyond the knowledge or the consciousness of ĩśvarā.

And such an ĩśvarā is in the heart of everyone. And by meditating upon that ĩśvarā we also can get satyasańkalpa śakti. By this we can accomplish everything in life. This treasure is in the heart of everyone. And EVEN THOUGH ĩśvarā IN THE FORM OF A TREASURE IS VERY MUCH IN THE HEART WHO CAN PROCURE EVERYTHING FOR ME, PEOPLE LOSE SIGHT OF THIS ĨŚVARĀ AND THEY GO IN SEARCH OF THINGS OUTSIDE. And beautiful example is given. I do not know whether you remember. [mantrā 8.3.2]. hiraṇyanidhi dṛṣṭāntaḥ. Like a person who has got a very, very big treasure underneath; but, not knowing, with a begging bowl he goes outside for one rupee and five rupee! Similarly, these people are doing varieties of karmās for accomplishing things in the world. It can be very easily accomplished. How? By tapping bhagavān and getting sańkalpa śaktiḥ. Thus, in these 3 sections the glory of the Lord is given. That Lord is located in our own heart. And the upāsanā is glorified.

Then, in the fifth section, the upaniṣad talks about an allied supportive discipline. saguṇa brahma upāsanā is the primary sādhanā. For getting what? sańkalpa śakti. But, along with this primary sādhanā, a supportive discipline is talked about in the fifth section. And that is, brahmacaryam. brahmacaryam is glorified in the fifth section by equating it to all forms of rituals and all forms of discipline. All of them are equal to this one brahmacaryam. Thus, brahmacarya sahita saguṇa brahma upāsanā will give everything; and even krama mukti, the eternal mokṣā. Whereas, all the rituals of the world or the scriptures, all the laukika vaidika karmās will give only finite result.

tat yadeha karmacite lokah kṣĩyate evem eva amutra puṇyacite lokah kṣĩyate - all the laukika karmās and vaidika karmās will give only finite results. Whereas, saguṇa ĩśvara upāsanā will give infinite result, leading to krama mukti, mokṣā itself. Thus, saguṇa upāsanā and brahmacarya sādhanā were talked about in section 1,3,4 and 5.

Now, sections 2 and 6. We had left those two. We have to see that. In these two sections saguņa upāsanā phalam is talked about. If a person practises the dahara brahma upāsanā, hṛdaya brahma upāsanā, if a person practises - in fact, in śiva mānasa pũjā, when you chant ātmā tvam girijā matiḥ sahacarāḥ prāṇāḥ śarĩram gṛham etc, you are worshiping dahara ĩśvarā alone!

If a person practises this upāsanā - throughout the life and also at the time of death - what happens to him? He will get krama mukti, after death. And how the upāsaka jīvā travels, after death, is given in the fifth section. There is description of the hṛdayam; and the description of several nādīs, which are emanating from the heart and traveling in all directions. And the main nādī is suṣumṇā nādī. And this upāsaka's jīvā comes to the heart and travels through the suṣumṇā nādī. And the suṣumṇā nādī opens at the top of the head which is known as brahmarandhram. And through that the jīvā travels and that path is called śukla gatiḥ.

This śukla gati connects our hṛdayam and also the sũryamaṇdalam or solar disc. That is why we have got several colours in the sũryā also. 7 colours are there in the white light. In the hṛdaya nādĩs also, various fluids are there, of different colours, indicating the connection between hṛdayam and solar disc or sũryamaṇdalam.

This upāsaka jīvā penetrates sūryamaņdalam and goes to brahmalokā. And the brahmalokā description was given in the 5th section, where everything is wonderful, the quality of life is very great. All those descriptions are given. To that brahmalokā this upāsakā goes. Once he goes to brahmalokā, he gets a totally different type of body. And because of upāsanā phalam, he will get satykāmatvam & satyasańkalpatvam. Not in bhūlokā; but in, brahmalokā. Because of that what happens? That is given in the 2nd section. After section 6, you have to go back to the section 2.

sa yadi pitrlokakāmo bhavati saṅkalpādevāsya pitaraḥ samuttiṣṭhanti tena pitrlokena sampanno mahīyate II [mantrā 8.2.1] atha yadi gandhamālyalokakāmo bhavati yadi gītavāditralokakāmo bhavati ...

- whatever he WILLS - by mere thought, like certain people who do miracles by materialising things, similarly, this person also gets extra-ordinary siddhis, by which whichever lokā in brahmalokā he can order any other lokā. Of course, all that will be private. Not available for all of them. It is like watching virtual world in the TV. Now, these things are coming. A virtual three dimensional world, which is so realistic, even you can participate in the program inside! Almost like that; or, better than that. He will be in the world that he wants to be; and whatever person, whatever sense objects, whatever sense pleasures - everything will be available. That is brahmaloka sukham. dharma, artha, kāma - all of them, he can fulfill. At the end the second section says, yam yamantamabhikāmo bhāvati yam kāmam kāmayate so'sya sankalpādeva samuttisthati tena sampanno mahīyate II [mantrā 8.2.10]

- anything he likes he can watch. Why watch? He can enjoy. And having enjoyed these materialistic pleasures in brahmalokā, he will get another advantage also. What is that? He can gain spiritual knowledge also there, because of his desire to attain krama mukti. And there he will attain nirguṇa brahma jñānam, which is dahara vidyā number two.

So through dahara vidyā number one, he goes to brahmalokā and there, having enjoyed the worldly pleasures, he will come to dahara vidyā number two. But, the advantage there is, he will not take too much time; only here we have got long sessions. And he gets the knowledge. And in brahmalokā, he will enjoy jĩvan mukti also. And because of prārabdha, better pleasures, worldly pleasures. Then he will get jĩvan mukti. And at the time of pralayam, he will get videha mukti also. And therefore the upaniṣad says that saguṇa brahma upāsanam is a great sādhanā. This is dahara vidyā number one. Sections 1 to 6.

Now, we will go dahara vidyā number two, which is nirguņa brahma jñānam. And this dahara vidyā number two is presented in sections 7 to 12. And here it is presented in the form of a dialogue between prajāpati - the teacher, and two disciples - indrā and virocanā. And therefore, the upaniṣad starts with a story, before introducing this teaching. prajāpati or brahmājĩ talks about this dahara ākāšā or paramātmā - eṣa ātmāpahatapāpmā vijaro vimṛtyurviśoko vijighatso 'pipāsaḥ satyakāmaḥ satyasańkalpaḥ etc. And then prajāpati declares, 'whoever gains this knowledge of the paramātmā will attain mokṣā!' And when this declaration was published, indrā, the deva rājā; and virocanā, the asura rājā, they come as representatives of their respective groups. And they go to prajāpati and ask for this teaching.

And prajāpati gives the turĩya ātma jñānam, nirguṇa dahara ākāśa jñānam He gives. And since the teaching is given by prajāpati, this is given the title prajāpati vidyā. In the sixth chapter, nirguṇa brahma jñānam is called sadvidyā. In the 7th chapter, nirguṇa brahma jñānam is called, [not of gĩtā, in 7th chapter of chāndogya] nirguṇa brahma jñānam was called, (ராபகம் இருக்கோ? bhữma vidyā. And in the 8th chapter, the same nirguṇa brahma jñānam is called prajāpati vidyā. Why it is called prajāpati vidyā? Because, it is taught by prajāpati. And He wants to reveal the ātmā as the turĩyam, which is nirguṇam brahma, the caitanyam. consciousness is not a part, product or property of the body etc. That pure nirguṇam brahma He wants to teach.

But, He faces a problem. What is that? The pure brahman is not available for either physical transference or even verbal transference. It is not available for physical transference; because, CONSCIOUSNESS is not tangible. And it is not available for verbal communication; because, śabda pravṛtti nimittāni na sandhi. The conditions for describing through words, those conditions are not there; therefore, you cannot use any words and therefore you require a container, a disposable container through which you transfer brahman and the student will consume brahman, [consume & all is within quotes], thereafter, what should you do? The disposable container must be - என்ன கேள்வி?! The disposable container must be disposed!

So, prajāpati chooses three containers to transfer the consciousness. The first container is the jāgrat avasthā or the waking state - where we have got the experience of sthũla padārtha, along with consciousness. Therefore, the jāgrat avasthā becomes container; and the consciousness - which is aware of the jāgrat avasthā, is the content. And what should we do? We have to take the consciousness part; and drop, what? All the objects of the world! With this intention prajāpati first taught about akṣi puruṣaḥ. akṣi puruṣaḥ is the consciousness functioning through the sthũla śarĩram, in jāgrat avasthā, when the sense organs are operational. And that CONSCIOUSNESS -obtaining in jāgrat avasthā, sthũla śarĩram, is called viśvaḥ or akṣi puruṣaḥ.

And why is it called akşi puruşaḥ? Because, the eyes are the most important organs, through which or with the help of which all transactions can be done. Even if you want to listen to the class, if you want to use only ears in the class, for coming to the class you require what? The eyes are required. What you want to do? śravaṇam. For doing śravaṇam, you require eyes! And similarly, you want to eat something in the kitchen or dining table. After all only the tongue is required. So will I close my eyes?! No. For eating also, eyes are required. Thus, all the sense organs and all the transactions - if you want to use the karmendriya you want to notes, only hands are to be used, there also you require what? The eyes. Therefore, eyes present the light medium, through which or in which, all transactions are possible. And therefore the consciousness in jāgrat avasthā is called akṣi puruṣaḥ. Otherwise called viśvaḥ or in māņdũkya upaniṣad it is called prathamaḥ pādaḥ.

jāgaritasthāno bahisprajñah saptānga ekonavimsatimukhah sthūla bhugvaisvānarah prathamah pādah II [māņdūkya mantrā 3]

This akşi puruşah - first stage of teaching - is given in section 7 and section 8.

And what was the intention of prajāpati? In the jāgrat avasthā what should you do? You have to take all your experiences, experiences of śabda, sparśa, rũpa, rasa and gandha. And when you experience anyone of them, what is the common factor in all of them? You have got śabda awareness. You are conscious of sound, you are conscious of smell, you are conscious of touch. So, every experience has got, an object + consciousness. This side, wall + consciousness; looking at that side, ceiling + consciousness; this side is, ladies + consciousness. Thus, I am conscious of all of them. akṣi puruṣaḥ means what? I should filter the consciousness; and drop what? śabda, sparśa, rũpa, rasa and gandha; or, as pañcadaśĩ begins with this teaching ::

śabda sparśārdayaḥ vedyā vaicitryāt jāgare pṛthak, tataḥ vibhaktā tat saṃvida ekarũpyānna midyate. WHAT I AM CONSCIOUS OF, VARIES. THAT AM I CONSCIOUS OF, DOES NOT VARY! That non-variable CONSCIOUSNESS, which we talked about in the morning class, that nonvariable CONSCIOUSNESS, I should filter out from the jāgrat avasthā experience.

This was the intention of prajāpati. But, these two அசடு students, indrā and virocanā, what did they understand, instead? They mistook akṣi puruṣaḥ as the physical body, reflected in the eyes of the other people. எப்படி இருக்கு? Thus, the pratibimba śarĩram they mistake as ātmā. And both of them go back satisfied. virocanā goes back for good, concluding, 'the body is the ātmā'. Whereas, indrā alone thinks over that, and wonders, 'how can the body be ātmā'?, and thereafter he returns. Thus, the first level of teaching is in sections 7 and 8.

Then, in sections 9 and 10, the second level of teaching is given; because, indrā returns with dissatisfaction. virocanā does not return. [Two students were there; in that, one is out. See prajāpati's poor condition, you see! 50% audience gone. All because, virocanā mixed up consciousness and body together. Once you mistake the mixture as ātmā, you will take old age also as part of yourself. YOU SHOULD VERY DILIGENTLY SEPARATE THE BODY.

indrā did not know how to do that. Therefore, he comes back. And prajāpati is a very rigorous and strict teacher. He says, 'another 32 years you should serve me'. Already 32 years they have served. And another 32. Then, in the second stage, prajāpati teaches what? The same CONSCIOUSNESS; but, this time, not that associated with sthūla śarĩram; but, that associated with svapna śarĩram, vāsanāmaya śarĩram or śūkṣma śarĩram. Because, there also caitanyam is operating, through another body. What type of body? The body projected by the mind. So, the container is different. During jāgrat avasthā, bhautika śarĩram is the container; whereas, in the svapna avasthā, the vāsanāmaya śarĩram, the projected body, is the container. But, in that different body, the very same consciousness is there. It is like transferring the LIITUIGOUD from plastic cup to an ever silver cup. Cup is different. LIITUIGOUD is the same! And this consciousness, which is obtaining in what? svapna śarĩram. There also, consciousness is not a part, product or property of the body. prajāpati says, 'that is ātmā'. In tattvabodha language, it is called what? taijasa. In māņdūkya language it is called dvitĩyaḥ pādaḥ. That was taught in the 9th and 10 sections.

And indrā understands that the svapna puruṣaḥ is free from the problems that belong to this physical body. Is not that so? This physical body's problem, the svapna puruṣaḥ will not know. Therefore, he is free from the viśvā's problem. But, indrā is not satisfied; because, svapna puruṣaḥ is affected by what? svapna śarĩra problem! Therefore, he comes back and reports, 'in svapna also I am chased by the elephant, tigers and all of them. There also, I am facing the same problem'. And this teaching we get in 9th and 10th. And indrā returns back. And again prajāpati asks for service of another 32 years. And the 3rd level of teaching is given in the 11th section.

And there, the consciousness is revealed as the caitanyam obtaining in the suṣupti avasthā and this consciousness alone is the closest to the turĩyam, that we are experiencing. Because, in jāgrat avasthā I experience location and limitation caused by the physical body. In svapna avasthā I experience location & limitation caused by svapna śarĩram. Whereas in suṣupti, the physical body is resolved; and even the svapna śarĩram is resolved; and what is there? Only consciousness is there. Since the two bodies are absent the whole world is also resolved. Neither the waker's world nor the dreamer's world, body is absent; world is absent; thoughts are absent; experiences are absent. There are only two things. Blankness and consciousness. Total blankness and consciousness. And the blankness cannot create any limitation in me; because, blankness does not have any dimension. ஒரு இன்ச் blankness-ணு சொல்வோமோ?! அதெல்லாம் கிடையாது. Therefore, in suṣupti, consciousness and blankness alone are there.

How do you know there is CONSCIOUSNESS? Why cannot you say only blankness? Why do say there is CONSCIOUSNESS? Our answer is, you are able to talk about the blankness in suşupti only because the caitanyam is capable of illumining it; and therefore, there is the blankness, sākşi caitanyam. abhāva sākşi. In jāgrat and svapna, it is bhāva sākşi. In suşupti, it is abhāva sākşi. Thus, 'I' do not have any location. Therefore, CONSCIOUSNESS is what? All pervading CONSCIOUSNESS. And it does not have deśa pariccheda, spatial limitation; it does not have kāla pariccheda. In suşupti, time is also absent; and it does not have attribute wise limitation also; because, in suşupti, there is no experience of maleness, femaleness etc. All such attributes are not there. Therefore, 'I AM THE ABSOLUTELY LIMITLESS CONSCIOUSNESS'. Therefore, suşupti is an ideal location to reveal that formless, timeless, attributeless, CONSCIOUSNESS; because, it is something experienced by all. There is no one who has not experienced suṣupti. And therefore, prajāpati decides to reveal CONSCIOUSNESS as the sākşi of the suṣupti avasthā. Therefore he names it supta puruṣaḥ.

Thus, 11th section talks about CONSCIOUSNESS as supta puruṣaḥ. And what is the container there? Blankness is the container to reveal the CONSCIOUSNESS. Because, I reveal consciousness as the witness of blankness; therefore, blankness becomes the medium to reveal the blankness sākṣi caitanyam. Thus, prajāpati was ecstatic because he can use suṣupti for revealing that. And this supta puruṣaḥ alone is called prājñaḥ in tattvabodha. And this supta puruṣaḥ alone is called tritĩyaḥ pādaḥ in māṇḍũkya –

yatra supto na kañcana kāmam kāmayate na kañcana svapnam paśyati tat suṣuptam I suṣuptasthāna ekībhūtaḥ prajñānaghana evānandamayo hyānandabhuk ceto mukhaḥ prājñastṛtīyaḥ pādaḥ II [māṇḍũkya mantrā 5]

eșa sarveśvarah eșa sarvajña eșo'ntaryāmyeșa yonih sarvasya prabhavāpyayau hi bhūtānām II [māņdūkya mantrā 6]

- thus, tritïyah pādah is given in māndukya. That was revealed in the 11th section.

There also indrā successfully goofed the whole thing! Because, when consciousness was revealed as the witness of blankness, instead of claiming the consciousness as ātmā, he mistook the blankness as ātmā.

It is like when somebody is asked, 'what is on the hand?' 'What is on the hand?', I ask. Everybody will say, 'nothing. Hand is blank. There is nothing'. This will be the blunder committed by everyone. You go home and ask your people, 'what is on the hand? tell me.' 'Nothing'. Here alone vedāntā comes. vedāntā asks the question, 'how do you say there is nothing in the hand?' Because, there is the light illuming the hand. The light spreading over the hand. In the dark room if I had shown the empty hand, you will not be able to say, 'the hand is empty'. Is not it? In the dark room if I showed the empty hand, you will not say 'it is empty'. You will only say 'I cannot see the hand, to say whether it is empty or not'. Therefore, you should never say 'hand is empty'; you should say, 'over the hand there is the light. The light that spreads all over is over the hand. Hand is not empty'. Therefore, what is the meaning of emptiness? Emptiness means, there is nothing other than light.

Similarly, in suṣupti, blankness means what? There is nothing in suṣupti, [suṣupti means what? Suddenly I get a doubt. Imagine, at the end of the class, a student comes and asks, 'Swāmĩjĩ, what is suṣupti?' suṣupti means deep sleep state. Okay.] So, in suṣupti - deep sleep - when you say 'nothing or blankness' what is the real meaning? THERE IS NOTHING, OTHER THAN THE CONSCIOUS-NESS, WHICH ILLUMINES THE NOTHINGNESS. Just as, when you say, 'nothing is on the hand', it means, 'there is nothing, other than the light pervading the hand'. Thus, prajāpati conveyed the CONSCIOUS-NESS principle. indrā took 'the blankness' and answered, 'in suṣupti there is only śũnyam" nāha kiñcana jānāmi ayam "aham asmi" iti na jānāmi novā idam - I neither know the objective world; nor, I know myself. Therefore, it is blankness. And what is the use of knowing the ātmā which is śũnyam? Already we are śũnyam! Why should I learn the ātmā which is śũnyam. Thus, he was not satisfied with supta puruṣaḥ, prājñaḥ, the tritĩyaḥ pādaḥ also. And therefore comes the fourth stage of teaching.

The only consolation is, prajāpati says, 'this time you need not serve for 32 years. Already you served 96 years. [3*32. For viśva 32, taijasa 32, prājña 32]. Therefore, for turĩyam some concession! Some concession I will give. What is that? 5 years only you serve and then I will teach'. And that is given in the 12th section.

IN FACT, IN THE ENTIRE 8TH CHAPTER, THE MOST IMPORTANT SECTION IS THE 12TH SECTION. THERE ALONE TURĨYAM IS REVEALED AS AŚARĨRA ĀTMĀ. That is, ātmā - without container, it reveals. And the teacher says, that ātmā is the pure caitanyam. It does not have any connection with any one of the three śarĩrams. Therefore, ātmā is aśarĩram, all the time. aśarĩram means what? Unembodied all the time. For whom? For everyone. Just as, the space cannot have contact with any container or any object or any enclosure, similarly the CONSCIOUSNESS does not have any association with sthũla, śũkṣma or kāraṇa śarĩrams. And because it does not have sambandha with śarĩram, it does not have sambandha with the attributes of the body also. And that is why, when the space does not have connection with the wall, the dirt on the wall also cannot have any connection with space. Similarly, the CONSCIOUSNESS is free from the three śarĩrams and also the attributes of these śarĩrams. Therefore, I am free from physical attributes like, janma, jarā, vyādhi, maraṇam.

CONSCIOUSNESS free, when? That answer is important. Not after death. All the time ātmā is aśarĩram. And what about the mental attributes? rāga dveṣa kāma bhaya krodha etc ātmā being aśarĩram, it is always free from the emotional or intellectual attributes. And ātmā is free from the kāraṇa śarĩram attribute also. In the kāraṇa śarĩram alone, all the sañcita karmās are stored.

To give you, [why you? To give to the other ajñānis. நீங்கள்ளாம் jñānis!] To give to the other ajñānis - punarapi jananam, punarapi maraṇam etc. The ātmā does not have connection with sañcita, āgāmi, prārabdha. Therefore, ātmā is, śarĩratraya rahitaḥ; karmatraya rahitaḥ; dharmatraya rahitaḥ; guṇatraya rahitaḥ. Therefore, nitya muktaḥ ātmā, like the ākāśaḥ.

So, aśarīraṃ vāva santaṃ na priyāpriye spṛśataḥ [8.12.1] - jñāni who claims Himself to be the ātmā, He does not want to attain freedom. He does not want to even exhaust the prārabdha karmā for videha mukti. He claims, 'I am nitya videhaḥ asmi'. Whereas, a person who identifies with the śarĩratrayam, he alone is struggling to wash the ātmā! He wants to purify, like washing the space with dettol! Similarly, people are struggling to purify, for attaining mokṣā. BANDHA IS BECAUSE OF IGNORANCE. MOKṣĀ IS BECAUSE OF KNOWLEDGE. What knowledge? 'I AM THE PURE CONSCIOUSNESS KNOWN AS TURĨYAM'.

evamevaisa samprasādo'smāccharīrātsamutthāya param jyotirupasampadya svena rūpeņābhinispadyate sa uttamapurusah [8.12.1] –

The jñāni has detached from śarĩratrayam. Detaching is not physical, detachment is cognitive, intellectual. It is clear understanding. Do not imagine you will separate the ātmā from the body. σπiss separate uimimgj?! It is all pervading! Space need not be separated from a dirty object; because, space cannot be contaminated by a dirty object. Therefore, I am uncontaminatable or uncontaminable nitya śuddah. This turĩyam was revealed. And it is called uttamaḥ puruṣaḥ. In māṇḍũkya it is called caturtha pādaḥ; and here it is called uttamapuruṣaḥ; and in tattvabodha it is called turĩyam. All of them are one and the same. With this, the teaching gets completed in the 12th section. All these mantrās - both saguņa upāsanā as well as nirguņa jñānam they are all very, very elaborately analysed in brahma sũtrā. T sũtrās are there. 4.4.1 to 4.4.7 the uttamapuruṣaḥ is beautifully discussed.

Then, the jñāna phalam is what? Both jĩvan mukti and videha mukti. A jñāni freely moves all over, with the understanding that 'I' am all pervading. Any ānandā enjoyed by anyone anywhere all that ānandā belongs to 'me', the turĩya ātmā'. And how do I know ānandā belongs to turĩyam? For that, we should remember the 7th chapter - bhũma vidyā. There it has been said - 'yovai bhũma tat sukham'. Borrowing from the 7th chapter, I should claim, I am sat cit ānanda svarũpaḥ. Any pleasure, anywhere, is only a reflection of mine. Thus, He enjoys everything. As what? Grói joy!

And after this, indrā is satisfied and so he does not come back. He goes and teaches all the devatās; and all of them get liberated. With this. the prajāpati vidyā gets over; the 12th section being the most important. Thus, both saguņa brahma upāsanā and nirguņa brahma jñānam are over. And now, in the last three sections - 13th, 14th and 15th we are getting khila khaņḍam.

A few assorted topics. One topic is, a prayer addressed to the Lord by the īśvara upāsakā for successful krama mukti. He has to offer prayers; because, if I am a jñāni I need not pray for mukti! Why? 'Oh Lord, I have got jñānam. please give mukti sooner or later. Do not send by post or speed post. Send by courier'. No! A jñāni need not ask for mukti; because; the very jñānam is - 'I am nitya muktah'. Whereas, the upāsakā has to pray because, for him, mukti is to come later. He has to successfully die first. <code>அது வேற! He has to die first; then travel [without traffic jam] and go to brahmalokā. And then get jñānam. So many things are there. Therefore, saguņa upāsakā prayer was given in the khila khaṇḍam 13th section.</code>

And another topic is, definition of nirguṇam brahma is given beautifully in the 14th section. ākāśo vai nāma nāmarūpayor nirvahitā te yadantarā tadbrahma. brahman is śṛṣṭi sthiti laya kāraṇam and brahman is given the name ākāśaḥ. ākāśaḥ means, prakāśa svarũpaḥ. Thus, prayer of upāsakā, definition of nirguṇam brahma.

And in the 15th and final section, the vedic scheme of life is given. How a person should go through brahmacaryāśramā, gṛhasthāśramā, vānaprasthāśramā etc., and that one should gain the knowledge by practising karma yogā and upāsanā; purify the mind, and then gain jñānam and attain mokṣā. Either krama mukti - through upāsanā; or, sadhyo mukti - through jñānam. Thus, the four āśramā scheme is also given in the last 15th section.

With the khila khaṇḍam, the 8th chapter is over and the chāndogya upaniṣad is also complete.

om āpyāyantu mamāńgāni vākprāṇaśckṣuḥ śrotramatho balamindriyāṇi ca sarvāṇi I sarvaṃ brahmaupaniṣadaṃ māhaṃ brahma nirākuryāṃ mā mā brahma nirākarod anikāraṇam astv- anikāraṇaṃ me'stu | tadātmani nirate ya upaniṣatsu dharmāste mayi santu te mayi santu | oṃ śāntiḥ śāntiḥ śāntiḥ ‖

ॐ पूर्णमदः पूर्णमिदं पूर्णात्पूर्णमुदच्यते । पूर्णस्य पूर्णमादाय पूर्णमेवावशिष्यते । ॐ शान्तिः शान्तिः शान्तिः ॥

To download the following Books On Pujya Swamiji Biography of Swami Dayananda Saraswati in English, Hindi and Tamil

Books in English On Vedanta Books on Indian culture, Yoga, Gita, Upanisads, Brahma Sutra and Vedanta Texts

Books in Tamil on Vedanta Books on Indian culture, Upanisads and Vedanta Texts

Books on Sanskrit Grammar Books on Dhatukosah, Astadhyayi and Sanskrit Grammar for Vedanta Students

Books on Sanskrit Texts Text Books in Sanskrit on Gita, Upanisads and Brahma Sutra with Sankara Bhasyam

Books on Indian Culture Books in English on Yoga and Indian Culture

Books for Youth Books in English on Yoga, Indian Culture & Self improvement

Books on Holy Chant Books in English and Sanskrit on Holy Chant

Articles

Articles in English on Indian culture & Vedanta Texts

PARTICIPATE IN ONLINE QUIZ Online Quiz on Gita, Upanisad and Brahma Sutra

Mehcite of

Arsha Avinash Foundation 104 Third Street, Tatabad, Coimbatore 641012, INDIA Phone: + 91 9487373635 E mail: arshaavinash@gmail.com www.arshaavinash.in